Numerous other advantages are attached to membership in such an organization. If a city editor in Muncie or Richmond wants a special story from Evansville or Lima, Ohio, his personal acquaintance with newspaper men in those cities will secure for him prompt attention, much more so than if he were forced to address his query to a stranger or to "the city editor."

Cooperation among city editors is not mythical as some cynic in Kansas or some other Western state has remarked.

It has been tried and found to be real in Indiana, Ohio and Wisconsin. Recently the Indiana Association published its first attempt at an official organ. The City Editor, as it was called, contains possibilities, without limit as a medium through which the deskmen may air their views and discuss methods between conventions.

If a few state associations can succeed the same field is open to the deskmen of other commonwealths.

And a much larger scope of activity is awaiting the development of a national association of several thousand members.

There is no reason why city editors should not have great mutual benefit organizations such as annually attract hundreds of publishers, advertising and circulating men.

CITY EDITOR THE MAINSPRING.

Conventions for the business office and the owner are all right, but unless a newspaper publishes the news, all of it, in a bright and readable style and with accuracy, the circulation men will have a hard time building up their business and upon their efforts hinge the advertising rates.

The city editor, then is the mainspring of the plant and it's about time that publishers realize this and insist that their city editors take advantage of every opportunity to become broader minded and more efficient.

My appeal in this article is that at least one city editor in each state association immediately after will take it upon himself to father a reading this statement.

Don't wait, thinking that someone else will take the lead. Act now. Begin by writing to me in care of the Indianapolis Times.

Paul F. Hunter, Sheboygan (Wis.) Press; J. T. Jewett, Terre Haute (Ind.) Star; or Clyde P. Steen, Lima (Ohio) Daily News will be glad to explain the workings of their associations to you.

To publishers I would say, demand that your city editor affiliate with a state organization at once. If none exists finance him in the promotion of one.

CHICAGO NEWSPAPER MEN WANT TO RUN PRESS CLUB.

The old question of whether a press club is to be run by newspaper men or those outside of the profession broke out again last week in Chicago and H. Percy Miller, president of the Press Club, offered his resignation. It was refused and the trouble is on the way to a peaceful settlement. The club is said to be in good financial condition.

IOWA WEEKLIES INCREASE TO $2 A YEAR.

Country newspaper editors from Woodbury and Monona Counties, Ia., met recently in Sioux City to discuss a proposed advance in subscription rates. The increase from $1.50 to $2 per year was finally decided upon.

Going to France

in a few days as an accredited war correspondent. Can I serve you either with special cables, letter service or syndicate matter?

O. H. DOWNEY

Churubusco, Indiana

THE FOURTH ESTATE

A NEWSPAPER FOR THE MAKERS OF NEWSPAPERS AND INVESTORS IN ADVERTISING.

Entered as second class matter in the New York Post Office, March 29, 1896. Issued every Saturday by THE FOURTH ESTATE Publishing Company.
Ernest F. Birmingham, President and Treasurer, Fremont W. Spicer, Vice-President and Secretary, 232 West 59th Street, New York City.

Subscription TWO DOLLARS a year. Postage free in the United States, Hawaii, Porto Rico, the Philippines and Mexico. Postage extra to Canada, 58c; to other countries in Postal Union, $1.04.

Subscribers should have their copies of THE FOURTH ESTATE addressed to their homes, so as to avoid chance of loss in the mass of exchanges (second and third class matter) which goes to all offices.

Single copies, TEN CENTS (except Special Editions, 25 cents).

Back Numbers—Less than 3 months old, 25 cents; more than 3 months old, $1 each.

OFFICES AND PRINTING HOUSE
Broadway and 59th Street
232 West 59th St. NEW YORK
Columbus Circle.
Telephones, 7740, 7741, 7742 Columbus

ERNEST F. BIRMINGHAM, Publisher

No. 1225.

FOR THE WEEK ENDING AUGUST 18, 1917.

SUPPORT SENATOR WEEKS.

For the first time in the entire Congressional debate over the War Revenue Bill, the newspapers of the country this week heard the voice of a legislator raised in a call for justice in their behalf. While others have busied themselves with schemes to pile special taxes on the publishing interests, in addition to the regular imposts that other business will have to bear (and which the newspapers will willingly assume), Senator Weeks has taken a firm stand against the proposed increase in second-class rates and against the iniquitous 5 per cent tax on net income in excess of $4,000.

The Massachusetts Senator has long been recognized as one of the ablest men in the upper House—largely because of his sense of proportion and justice in dealing with business and business men, and his present stand is deserving of the united support of all newspapers, large and small.

He needs a solid alignment of the publishing interests behind him if his fight for their benefit is to be won.

What differences of opinion there are among newspaper publishers (and they are neither many nor great) can be settled or put aside for the time being, and should be. With publishers agreeing as to what they want, there will be no need for long drawn-out squabbles in Congress over self evident absurdities.

Get together and back Senator Weeks!

STANDARD NEWS PRINT SIZE MEANS STEADY SUPPLY.

Another reason for the adoption of the 724-inch news print roll was advanced by the American Newspaper Publishers Association this week in the statement that there is no record of any mills manufacturing this size which change over to other grades of paper.

In other words, it is a size from which machines cannot be profitably shifted to other grades of paper, the common sizes of which vary. It also affords the paper manufacturer a chance to manufacture a surplus in dull seasons, certain of a market for

The advertising forms close on Thursday. Advertisements should be received as early in the week as possible to insure proper classification.

ADVERTISING RATES.

Transient, 50 cents a line; agate measure (14 lines to the inch; 140 lines to the column; 660 lines to the page).

One page, $280; Front page, $400.

Discounts for consecutive insertions: One month, 10 per cent; two months, 20 per cent; three months, 30 per cent; six months, 40 per cent; one year, 50 per cent. Discounts based upon advance payment.

Small advertisements under classified headings, such as Help Wanted, For Sale, To Let, Instruction, Writers, Correspondents, Office Vacancies, 25 cents a line (about 7 words) each insertion, without discount. Situations Wanted 10 cents a line net.

Advertisements in special position (not less than 28 lines in depth of column) double price.

his product with an increased demand.

The A. N. P. A. further argues that if publishers adopt this standard new mills know what size machines to install, thus saving expense and guaranteeing efficiency and economy in future development.

Like most economies, it deserved attention at all times, but it commends itself to publishers more than ever, when the country is at war and when it will need for war purposes every man and every tool that can be spared from commercial use.

ROOM FOR IMPROVEMENT

Perhaps some readers of THE FOURTH ESTATE can increase their industrial efficiency by coming to realize the significance of some facts presented by the National City Bank Bulletin.

A well known engineer who is an expert in industrial practice has recently gone on record with the opinion that the industries of the United States on an average are not realizing over 20 per cent. of their possible capacity.

This is a startling statement.

If it is true we have enough productive capacity unused to radically change the living conditions of our people.

The amount involved in our wage controversies is insignificant in comparison.

The war debts would cease to be a problem, if these savings could be realized, and capital for revolutionary developments in industry would be quickly available. He says that we have scarcely begun to appreciate the gains that are possible under more effective organization.

Comparing the United States and Germany, he says:

"During a visit of a body of engineers to Germany in the summer of 1913, to study the industrial conditions in that country, many of us were convinced that not only was the individual efficiency of the American greater than that of the Germans, but in many cases the amount of work produced per dollar of wages paid to the American workman was even greater, although the wage rate in this country was at least 30 per cent higher than that in Germany. "In spite of this, the collective or co-operative efficiency of the Germans was evidently enormously greater than that of Americans.

"The German Government not only encouraged co-operation, but actually forced it; while we, actuated by an antique theory of democracy, not only encouraged individualism, but did all we could to insist upon it, with the result that much of the energy of our community was being dissipated in internal friction."

HOLD CONVENTIONS, IN WAR TIME ESPECIALLY.

Newspaper and advertising organizations that may be thinking of abandoning their regular annual or semi-annual conventions may be enlightened by knowing that the Merchants Association of New York City has sent a letter containing the following to President Wilson:

"Business gatherings, in our judgment, should be encouraged rather than discouraged, because failure to hold them as usual is likely to create a false impression, to stimulate a lack of business confidence, and to discourage mutual co-operation which is so necessary under existing circumstances.

"Conventions and gatherings of different trades and industries afford an exceptional opportunity on the part of business men composing them to study the effect of the war situation upon industries, that they may be best equipped to serve the needs of the Government and to serve the normal business of the country.

"Both business and general conventions also afford exceptional opportunities for patriotic gatherings and the fostering of patriotic sentiment."

NOTE AND COMMENT.

"The old rule as to the completion of news stories once begun seems now to be honored more in the breach than the observance," writes a correspondent of the Newspaper World, London, "and this particularly applies to daily newspapers. They will give an interesting opening of a case, but when it comes to a result they appear, nine times out of ten, to have no recollection of the first appearance and there is little means on a wire of indicating that they have already used the beginning."

To which the editor of the Newspaper World replied:

"The point is whether morning and evening papers regard themselves as supplements of each other or as separate entities. We like the latter idea and we think that if we read regularly, for example, a given edition of an evening paper and that edition tell us an unfinished story it ought to give us the end of it, if only in a single line, in the same edition the next day. In saying this we do not shut our eyes to certain technical difficulties that we know would have to be faced in carrying out such an ideal."

The Fabrikoid Company, taking advantage of the superiority of demand over supply in the leather market, has manufactured a substance which, it claims, is as good as, if not better than, real leather. So says its manufacturing department.

Its publicity department, perhaps inspired by the substitution success of the producing end, has gone extensively into the business of trying to make newspapers publish free reading notices as a substitute for paid advertising.

A new idea which seems destined to succeed in the national advertising field is the Consumer's Guide, which is published for individual cities all over the country. Products are listed alphabetically, under the advertised trade-mark, which is accompanied by the name and address of the manufacturer and the local stores where the product may be purchased.

It thus gives the advertiser an opportunity to increase the profit from his publicity investment by making his local dealer known to consumers in every community, as it is issued in small booklet form and may be hung up convenient to the purchasing member of the household.

Being a firm believer in the value of personal touch and fully alive to the invaluable assistance that can be given by the press, it is believed Food Controller Hoover will seek to establish close relations with the newspapers of the country and will keep them fully advised of his projects. To accomplish this it is understood he soon will resume his regular conferences with newspaper correspondents.

That the desires of American business men to participate in the commerce of South America are not invidious to its people is indicated by a recent act of Dr. Jose Rufino Beserra Cavalcanti, minister of agriculture, industry and commerce of Brazil, in sending to THE FOURTH ESTATE what amounts to a comprehensive library on the economic situation of his country.

"Economical Notes on Brazil," an official pamphlet of his department, is one of the books referred to and "Brazil" by J. C. Oakenfull is another, both of which came in a fairly large and equally informative collection.

THE FOURTH ESTATE has distributed a number of the sets to editors of leading New York newspapers and in practically every case has received the cordial thanks of the recipient.

The Government of Brazil has also offered a number of prizes of $3,700 and an equal number of $2,500 each for works on certain aspects of the history, of the commerce, and of the development of the Republic of Brazil. The competition closes September 7, 1921. Those interested can secure full particulars by addressing Dr. Cavalcanti.

B. K. Bakewell, a Pittsburg expert on paper making who has just returned from a tour through Canada, believes that the paper pulp will win the war. He urges the conservation of all kinds of paper.

Many investigations and myriad commissions have not made a dent in the armor of the high cost of living, but one lone undertaker in the city of Danville, Ill., reduced the cost of dying to the irreducible minimum last week, according to an advertisement in the Danville Commercial-News.

This embalming person offered a complete funeral for $1, including a casket, embalming, shroud and cearse, to any one so economical as to die between the hours of 6 a. m. and 6 p. m. on Thursday, which he designated as "dollar day."

The Omaha World-Herald issued a special "oil edition" on August 11, notable because it did not contain a single stock-selling advertisement.

The Council Bluffs (Ia.) Nonpareil claims want-ad distinction for the potentiality of its classified columns. A thirty-cent advertisement in the "for sale" column brought the advertiser orders from more than forty customers. Apples were advertised.

John D. Works of Los Angeles, former United States Senator, told a conference for democracy and peace meeting in San Francisco last week, under the auspices of the People's Council of America, that the proceedings of the gathering would not get much space in the newspapers. He said:

"Do you suppose the Associated Press is going to carry anything to the newspapers it represents of what you and I are doing here today?" "No. Now, why?"

"If the Associated Press were to send out free criticisms on the war and legislation that brought it about against the will of the money kings in New York, who have been more instrumental than any other influence in bringing on this war, the Associated Press would go out of business."

Ex-Senator Works seems to know one or two things about getting into print, even if he is a poor prophet.

The Army and Navy Register, Washington, in its issue of August 11, criticizes the censorship as follows:

"An attempt is to be made to have no information of any sort given out to the representatives of the newspapers, who must apply to Mr. Creel's office for what they want and wait until it is obtained for them by the committee agents after it shall have been determined whether or not it is proper to divulge the facts.

"This is one of the gravest mistakes which the Secretary of War could make. He may not succeed in shutting off the press from the information which it is desirable to obtain; and perhaps that is not his intention; but he has made it extremely difficult to obtain news to which the public is entitled and which may not be secured by the process he prescribed.

"It has not been necessary at any stage in the proceedings since the war began for the military-naval authorities to place extraordinary and specific restrictions upon the newspaper men, who have conscientiously observed the admonition of the department and refrained from printing news that would obviously be harmful to the Government. The latest simply magnifies unduly the importance of the public information without providing any additional security against the revelation of military secrets."

The Abercrombie (N. D.) Sentinel is the name of a new paper that will soon make its appearance.

PURELY PERSONAL.

Adolph S. Ochs, II., scion of the well-known newspaper family, has been awarded a commission as second lieutenant at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga.

A. J. Johnson, publisher of the Chicago Swedish Courier, has been appointed a member of the Illinois civil service commission.

Roger Stafford, a member of the Cleveland Leader's editorial staff, is celebrating the birth of a daughter a few days ago.

Douglas Malloch of the American Lumberman, Chicago, was honored last week with a banquet by friends at his old home in Muskegon, Mich., where he is summing with his family.

J. K. Groom, manager of national advertising for the Aurora (Ill.) Beacon-News and the Elgin Courier, was recently awarded a prize of $50 offered by the Adman, New York, for the best suggestion on "How to Increase the Revenue of Newspapers."

Wells Welbourne, formerly city editor of the Cincinnati Commercial Tribune, is handling the publicity for the annual fair of the Hamilton County Agricultural Society, and he is quite busy trying to learn how to tell the various brands of "chickens."

E. C. Griffith of Chicago, Western manager for O'Mara & Ormsbee, Inc., advertising representatives, New York and Chicago, spent a day last week in Des Moines, Ia. O'Mara & Ormsbee represent the Daily Capital.

Frank P. Brown, formerly in the composing room of the Topeka Capital and later editor of the Kansas Trade Unionist, is mentioned as a candidate for the presidency of the Kansas State Labor Federation.

Nelson B. Redden, assistant telegraph editor of the Columbus (Ohio) State Journal, is the father of a ten-pound son.

James H. Cummings, of the Dayton (Ohio) Journal staff, and Miss Mildred Norris of Columbus were married a few days ago.

NEW TIMES PLAY CRITIC.

The chair of dramatic reviewer of the New York Times now is occupied by John Corbin, who returns to the field of dramatic criticism after a long absence. Mr. Corbin was formerly dramatic critic of the Sun and also the Times. He will write for the Times until Alexander Woolcott, now engaged in military service, returns from France.

Brock Pemberton, acting dramatic editor of the Times, is leaving the staff of that newspaper to join the forces of Arthur Hopkins.

WALDO TO PLATTSBURG.

Richard H. Waldo, formerly secretary of the Tribune Association and business manager of the New York Tribune, has been ordered to report at the Second Officers' Training Camp at Plattsburg on August 25.

PRINTERS TO MEET.

The thirty-first annual convention of the United Typothetae and the Franklin Club of America will be held in Chicago at the Congress Hotel on September 17-19.

STAFF CHANGES.

William S. Cady, advertising manager of the Lawrence (Kan.) Journal-World, has been appointed director of service and statistics of the Great Bend (Kan.) Daily Tribune. He will take office on September 1.

George R. Witte has resigned from the staff of the Albany (N. Y.) Knickerbocker Press and is now with the Cleveland Leader.

John J. Parks has been detailed from the staff of the St. Paul Daily News to cover the Fort Snelling Officers' Training Camp for the St. Paul News, the Minneapolis News and the Omaha News. He succeeds Martin Broderick.

Charles MacArthur of the Chicago Tribune reporting staff went away on his vacation last week and joined the Black Watch Highlanders, a celebrated Canadian regiment. He wrote back to the city editor:

"This bird Kaiser Bill has gotta be licked and if my infinitesimal aid will hurry the final result, I'll be tickled to death to do my bit. In the meanwhile save my desk and have a good assignment ready for me when I get back."

Frank Judge and Harry Kenney, formerly of the Cincinnati Commercial Tribune, have joined the staff of the Enquirer.

Chester Durr, editor of the Valley (Ohio) Blade, and Robert Copelan of the Cincinnati Enquirer, son of Chief of Police Copelan, received commissions as second lieutenant at the officers' training camp at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind.

H. L. Temple, a graduate of the Missouri School of Journalism, Columbia, Mo., has become correspondence editor on the Springfield (Ill.) State Journal.

W. K. Stone has recently become editor of the Columbia (Mo.) Daily Times.

Clair Shuart, former city editor of the Pittsburg (Kan.) Sun, and for the past month sport writer on the Joplin (Mo.) Globe, is now telegraph editor of the Joplin News-Herald.

L. A. Brophy has joined the local staff of the Columbus (Ohio) State Journal.

Howard P. Rhoads has resigned as a reporter on the Columbus (Ohio) Dispatch and is now on the staff of the New York Evening Sun.

R. V. Williams has given up a position on the sport desk of the Oklahoma City Daily Oklahoman to join the staff of the Joplin (Mo.) Globe.

EDITORS NOW COLONELS.

William Allen White and Henry J. Allen, well-known Kansas editors who were lately assigned by the Government to special Red Cross duty in France, have been appointed colonels. The titles, in these cases, carry no military authority.

HIS MONEY'S WORTH.

EDITOR THE FOURTH ESTATE.

SIR: I enclose check for renewal of my subscription with a great deal of satisfaction, as I have found considerable of interest in your valuable publication. SAMUEL SKLAR.

Circulation Manager, Boston Evening Record.

VACATION NOTES.

Louis Sherwin, dramatic critic of the New York Globe, was among those missing at the three first nights on Broadway last week, being about the only regular reviewer not seen on hand. Mr. Sherwin is leading a marine and hermitlike existence in a bungalow among the dunes of Fire Island, and is so in love with the solitude and sea breeze that he refuses just yet to come back to the heat and humidity of Broadway.

He promises to re-enter the critical arena about September 1.

Homer Hogan, night city editor of the Chicago Examiner, is on his vacation.

Clarence Speed, city editor of the Chicago Evening Post, is vacationing where the fishing is par excellence, somewhere in Wisconsin.

James Bicket, news editor of the Chicago American, is taking his annual rest far away from the disquieting "extraneous."

J. A. Hall, editor of National Grocer, Chicago, is spending his vacation in Brooklyn.

W. A. Glinn, city editor of the Chicago Journal, and Frank Anpenger, of the Journal copy desk, are on their vacations.

Mose Swartz, advertising solicitor on the Fargo (N. D.) Courier-News, is spending his vacation and with friends in his old home, Des Moines. Mr. Swartz entered the newspaper work on the Des Moines News two years ago immediately after graduating from a local high school.

F. J. Wiltach, press representative of the Winter Garden, New York, is on his vacation.

Clarence B. Metters, financial editor of the Columbus (Ohio) State Journal, has been on a two weeks' vacation.

NAVY MEDAL FOR CANADIAN NEWSPAPER WOMAN.

Miss Alice L. Fairweather of the St. John (N. B.) Standard staff, has been awarded the Royal Naval Canadian Volunteer Reserve medal given by Lady Gwendolyn Guinness, wife of Captain Rupert Guinness. The latter is in charge of British naval recruiting in Canada.

This decoration is awarded to women whose work in the interests of the empire and with especial regard to naval recruiting seems deserving of some special recognition.

The medal is of gold, a circle surmounted by a crown and faced by a large anchor. It bears the initials "R.N.C.V.R.—Overseas Division" and the inscription "I helped to serve."

A PLUCKY YOUNGSTER.

L. M. Ross, reporter of the Chicago Examiner, is making a plucky effort to serve Uncle Sam. He enrolled in the first officers' training camp at Fort Sheridan, but was unable to make the grade, physically. He left the camp and went to Madison, Wisconsin, where he underwent a heavy surgical operation, and now, having recovered, he is planning to enter the second training camp.

WAR CROSS FOR WHITNEY.

Raymond Whitney, formerly on the Chicago Evening American, has won the French Croix de Guerre for conspicuous bravery in battle.

Complete BOOKLOVER'S PICTUREGAME
SUITABLE FOR NEWSPAPERS OF LARGE OR SMALL CIRCULATION.

$350.00

which includes everything—8,000 Competition Booklets—complete copy service—sets of all 48 pictures—expert supervision throughout.

An original feature that will wake up every department of the newspaper—and make a profit. Possible only through the originators in this field.

The Booklovers Sales Co.

Incorporated
110 West 40th St., New York City
SEND FOR THE DETAILS.

N. Y. CIRCULATORS MEET AUG. 22

REPRESENTATIVE MEN WILL GET TOGETHER AT SCHENECTADY.

With the success of other state and section organizations of circulation managers as an incentive for strong efforts, leading circulators of New York State have responded to the appeals of J. M. Annenberg, circulation manager of the Schenectady (N. Y.) Union-Star, and have arranged to form the New York Circulation Managers Association at a meeting in Schenectady on August 22.

Details are in charge of Mr. Annenberg, who has arranged for accommodations for the visitors at the Hotel Mohawk. He has the active cooperation of his fellow circulators in all parts of the state, including several from New York City, and expects to get the association off to a flying start.

While the first meeting will be partly concerned with questions of organization, Mr. Annenberg says that there will also be time for the discussion of any questions that perplex members and he urges that everybody present bring along some good food for thought and conversation.

EDITION FOR NATIONAL ARMY.

The Chillicothe (Ohio) Scioto Gazette will issue an edition upon the opening of the Camp Sherman cantonment of the National Army near that city about October 1.

MAIL ORDER ADS OUT.

The Butterick Publishing Company has eliminated all mail order advertising from the columns of the Designer, the Designer and the Woman's Home Companion.

The
William L. Betts
Company

NEWSPAPER CONTEST
SPECIALISTS

Suite 406, World Bldg., NEW YORK

The True News FIRST

Always—Accurately

INTERNATIONAL
NEWS SERVICE

10th Floor, World Bldg. NEW YORK

NEWS NOTES OF CIRCULATORS.

H. A. Wenige has resigned as circulation manager of the Worcester (Mass.) Evening Post to assume similar duties with the Bridgeport (Ct.) Standard-American.

The Galveston (Tex.) News has instituted a newsboys' banking campaign. It is a thrift movement in behalf of the boys and will be in charge of the circulation manager.

The Woodlawn Gazette and the South Shore News, Chicago "neighborhood" publications, are offering excursion lake trips as premiums in a circulation campaign.

L. L. Ricketts, circulation manager for the Des Moines Capital, has received word to report for duty at the officers' training camp located at Fort Snelling, Minn. He leaves this week. No one has been placed in charge of the circulation at this date.

"Show Your Colors" is the password among many Americans, especially motorists, today and an idea which has just appeared in the premium market under the title of the "Patri-Ot-O-Whirl" is expected to make a hit. It can be attached to the radiator cap or windshield of any car and revolves with the wind, like the old-fashioned pinwheel.

That explains the "whirl," and the "patriot" is explained by the fact that it is composed of three colored wheels, the outside one, eight inches in diameter, enameled in red. The center wheel, 5½ inches wide, is done in white, and the small wheel, 2½ inches wide, in blue. It also serves as a flag-holder, space being provided for three small standards behind the "whirl." It has been successfully introduced into several cities by S. Blake Willdsen, premium and advertising specialist, Heyworth Building, Chicago.

M. C. Mumby has leased the Fairview (Mont.) Tribune to J. C. Mitchell.

KEEN PUBLISHERS
Everywhere Are Buying
Electric BulletinMachines

They have written us letters giving their opinions. They make interesting reading. We wish we could send them to you complete.

Some of the letters are in our New Illustrated Catalogue. Why not let us send you One?

National Electric Bulletin Corporation.

NEW LONDON, CONN.

WILLSDEN RECOVERING.

S. Blake Willdsen, the Chicago premium specialist, has just undergone a serious operation and although he is still in the hospital, he is convalescing rapidly. Mr. Willdsen celebrated his fiftieth birthday in the hospital on August 16 and has also completed his twenty-ninth year as a salesman.

S. BLAKE WILLSDEN.

In his travels, he has visited newspapers in every city of 5,000 population or more in the United States, Canada and Mexico and is also familiar with papers in the West Indies and in Central America. Five years ago he toured Europe.

NEWSPAPER AD BRINGS ARMY RECORD TO ARIZONA.

Newspaper advertising scored another victory a short time ago—this time in raising recruits for the Arizona National Guard. The owner of the paper that carried the advertising, the Flagstaff Coconino Sun, is Colonel F. S. Breen, formerly second in command of the First Arizona Infantry.

At the time of the call for volunteers to the army, the "First" was the only National Guard regiment in the Federal service, having been on border duty continually for fifteen months and it was far below war strength.

William Webb, manager of the Sun,

The only journal outside of the United States published in the interest of newspaper men.

THE 30 pages Weekly NEWSPAPER
WORLD

Annual Postal Subscription
Everywhere $2.40.
(Established 1898)

Specimen Copy Sent Free
Address: 14 Cross Street
FINSBURY, LONDON, ENG.

TANNER'S PICTURE PUZZLES

of leading war events are used by Philadelphia Bulletin, Boston Globe, Chicago Journal, Baltimore News, St. Louis Star, Pittsburgh Sun, Buffalo Times, etc.

The International Syndicate
Established 1899. BALTIMORE, MD.

NEWSPAPER FEATURE SERVICE

"The CIRCULATION Builders"
37 West 39th Street, NEW YORK

I Get the Money!

J. A. McAVOY

Special Editions
Weekly Review Pages
Cartoon Books

Nat'l Exch. Bk. Bldg.
PROVIDENCE, R. I.

China Premiums ARE THE BEST!

Distinctive Service in Many Sizes
Write for Samples.

The Limoges China Co.
SEBRING, OHIO

was asked by Governor Campbell to cooperate in raising recruits for the regiment, which he did by arranging an advertising campaign to cover six weeks, alternating pages and half pages.

Not only were men raised for the Arizona regiment, but recruits also came for the aviation corps and other branches of the service and at the end of five weeks, Mr. Webb was informed by the War Department that Flagstaff had sent more men per capita of population to the colors than any other city or town in the United States.

Advertising in the Sun was the only means of publicity employed and the record was made in the state with the smallest registration in the union.

Incidentally, Mr. Webb believed his own copy so strongly that he enlisted and is now enrolled in the First Arizona and is stationed at Naco. His assistant accompanied him.

C. E. Barnes, former editor of the Pillager Meidler has taken charge of the Ironton (Minn.) Cuyuna Range Miner.

ADVERTISING TO MEN AN ART IN ITSELF.

APPEALS THAT WIN FEMININE TRADE HAVE NO LURE FOR MALES—COMMON SENSE AND FACTS WIN SUCCESS.

BY OLIVE A. COLE,
Advertising Manager, Gillette Safety Razor Company.

The problem of "How to reach men" might seem a difficult one for a more female woman to undertake—I assure you if it were in the singular instead of the plural the "How" would be much easier to elucidate.

How to reach men—how to create the buying impulse and bring them to a point where they will separate themselves from their hard, or otherwise, earned shekels is quite a large subject—so large that it is possible to only touch upon it.

If all men thought alike how easy would be our task, but as "many men as many minds" is—oh, so true. Still, in everything else, there is one great fundamental, and if we will bear that in mind it will make the task easier.

That one great principle in advertising to men is service. Nearly every man is "from Missouri" when it comes to buying and the first thought that occurs to him after his attention has been caught is "do I need this and what will it do for me?"

There are a great many ramifications to this word service. Value, quality, utility, comfort, appearance, etc., but they can all be summed up tersely in that one word.

There is nothing more fascinating than the study of the group mind—whether men or women—to study out and plan out the various angles from which they can be approached.

We all know with women that a powerful appeal can be made from the "appearance" and "economical" points of view but neither of these reign paramount in the man's scheme of things. Of course, I don't mean to say that a man is devoid of appreciation of a nice appearance, but to him appearance is an asset, not a gratification, and whatever tends to produce a well groomed state and will promote in him a consciousness that he is a personable human is only so much fish to his net.

Have you ever heard a man designated as a "tailor's dummy" or a "sissy"? Well, they are the type that cultivate appearance for its own sweet sake, and, thank goodness, they are very much in the minority.

The percentage of men who buy because a thing will save them money is small—a thing that will save them time constitutes a stronger appeal to the masculine mind—they do not as a general thing carry it to the point of figuring out that time is money.

Also "bargains" do not possess the fascination for men they do for women, though I will not go so far as to say that men object to a "bargain" as is a bargain.

MEN "FALL FOR" A REAL BARGAIN.

Perhaps they distrust the powers of discernment and will only bet on a sure thing. To prove they are not entirely immune to the attraction of a bargain sale I will relate an incident that occurred in connection with the Gillette Safety Razor.

Immediately after the decision in the Sanatogen case by the Supreme Court one of the downtown department stores in New York advertised that the Gillette razor would be on sale at its store on a Tuesday morning at $1.75. Four hundred razors were sold on that day and its stock then being exhausted it took orders which it delivered to the purchasers the next day or as soon as it could procure another supply.

It is very doubtful, though, that such a "killing" would be possible were it not an article that had a well established selling price and there was no question about it being a real bona fide bargain.

Prestige counts a great deal with a man. The average male wants as good things as his fellows and you can gamble that in nine cases out of ten a man will buy a Packard car rather than a Ford if he can afford to—as he will buy "tailor-mades" rather than "ready-mades" if the income can be stretched to permit.

In appealing to men generally, a plain common-sense statement of facts as to the value and service you propose to give the man in return for his money will carry you farther on the road to success than any other method.

This policy and living up to promises has sold since 1903 nearly 10,000,000 Gillette razors and has produced a business that beginning with nothing but an "idea" has now become a corporation capitalized at $12,000,000.

Many people look upon advertising as something of a mystery—a sort of legerdemain. Nothing of the sort. Advertising is not a miracle—there is nothing peculiar about it—nothing hazy, unusual or visionary in it. It is just a part of selling—just the initial move by the party of the first part upon the party of the second part—an incident in a commercial transaction—a bit of selling sense delivered at a distance.

ADVERTISING ESSENTIALS.

There are four indispensable things in preparing an ad:

- First—Make people see it.
- Second—Make them read it.
- Third—Make them understand it.
- Fourth—Make them believe it.

Lorin F. Deland in his article "At the Sign of the Dollar," printed some time ago in Harper's Magazine, makes the following statement: "If I were asked to name the qualities that enter into good advertising I should say, first, imagination; second, knowledge of human nature; and, third, a little more knowledge of human nature."

This would indicate that the human is many-sided—consequently vulnerable from more than one point of approach, and to advertise successfully one must plan campaigns always keeping in mind this most important fact.

Elbert Hubbard has given us an excellent definition: "Advertising is the education of the public as to who you are, what you are and what you have to offer in the way of skill, talent or commodity."

In these days of the high cost of living in the effort to find some solution of economic problems a good deal is being said and written about whether or not advertising has increased the cost of living.

One writer has made the statement that advertising has increased the cost of living. He reasoned it out this way: "The cost of advertising is always added to the price and the tendency to purchase advertised articles in preference to unadvertised products is one of the units in the increased cost of living."

In my opinion such a statement could not be truthfully made by one who has carefully studied the subject of advertising in its relation to the problem of merchandising goods.

THE HIGH COST OF LIVING.

I will now give you a brief outline of the basic truths and reasons why of advertising as set forth by one of the ablest writers of the day on the subject of advertising. They express so clearly my own ideas on advertising and its function in the economic scheme of things as they are in the present day I feel it would be impossible for me to say anything that could make more clear to the layman my conception of the value of advertising.

"Advertising may be divided into two classes—direct and indirect. Both classes of advertising, when founded upon solid, economical principles, never cost the consumer a cent. Advertising facilitates distribution and anything that makes the marketing of goods easier and quicker is not an economic waste but an economic necessity.

"The secret of low prices is rapid production and to maintain a low price there must be a market for the product. Through the means of publicity the manufacturer can tell all the people about his product from Boston to Bombay in a very short space of time. It is easy enough to produce but marketing is a vastly different matter.

"Advertising is salesmanship—it is solicitation by print instead of word of mouth through the medium of the personal representative.

"Advertising has done for scientific production what the telegraph and the telephone have accomplished for society.

"Banish advertising from the world and what we now deem the necessities of life would become luxuries within the reach of the rich only. Advertising is intensive salesmanship. It is the modern method of scientific economic distribution and anything which tends to facilitate distribution—the most serious problem of merchandising—is not and cannot be an extravagance."

McCLURE'S ARTICLES INTEREST

S. S. McClure (by friends called Sam McClure) is in Japan making an intensive study of Japanese governmental, industrial, social and educational life. The first article written by Mr. McClure appeared in the Mail in the issue of August 6, since which time three other articles have appeared.

These articles are among the most valuable contributions to the knowledge of affairs in Japan that have ever been printed in the United States. It is but fair to say that every man and woman in this country of any intelligence ought to read these articles and thereby gain an understanding of Japan, which today is possessed by relatively few people—and those in the diplomatic and scholarly fields.

Mr. McClure as a writer is internationally known. His word pictures are so graphically painted and so plainly stated that the reader is left with a clear understanding of the situation. It is understood that these articles are to be syndicated and it is hoped that the entire country will be thoroughly covered.

HERE'S A GOOD JOB FOR A LIVE NEWSPAPER MAN.

The Ohio Civil Service Commission is looking for a man to publish a magazine devoted to the interests of the agricultural experiment station at Wooster. An examination was scheduled for June, but was called off because of lack of applicants. August 23 is the date of the new examination. The qualifications necessary are: degree from agricultural college, three years of agricultural writing and one year of straight newspaper work.

LONG RIDE FOR A JOB.

John C. Hopley, seventeen-year-old aspirant for newspaper honors, is riding a bicycle from Enid, Okla., to Bucyrus, Ohio, to take a job on his uncle's newspaper, the Bucyrus Journal. The distance is a little more than 1,000 miles.

AT LEAST TRY TO GET WHAT YOU WANT by advertising for it in THE FOURTH ESTATE

Can we guarantee the results of a want ad?

Of course not. If we could, we should be foolish to let you have the advertising so cheap.

But the chances are always very much in your favor.

Many good news-per men have secured good positions through an ad in THE FOURTH ESTATE.

Many employers have secured good editors, business managers, advertising managers, circulation managers, etc., in the same inexpensive way.

Many newspapers, printing plants, engraving plants, presses, etc., have been bought, sold or exchanged through these columns at the cost of a few dollars.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES.

$20,000 Cash

available for first payment on purchase of an attractive daily newspaper property. Atlantic coast locations preferred.

Proposition P. J.

CHAS. M. PALMER
NEWSPAPER PROPERTIES
225 Fifth Ave. NEW YORK

Over 30% Profit

Only daily in prosperous and popular Florida town, gaining annually 25 per cent in population. Business in fine shape and making over 30 per cent on investment. $10,000 cash will swing the deal. Quick action advised. Proposition 971x.

H. F. HENRICHS
NEWSPAPER PROPERTIES
LITCHFIELD, ILLINOIS

PRINTING

A printer with first-class plant desires to arrange with one or two more weekly publications. Is an expert in keeping the prices down to rock bottom. Address Caslon, care The Fourth Estate.

Newspapers For Sale!

Opportunities few to buy California dailies in good location. Evening paper, job shop, good equipment. Town 12,000. Price $30,000 to move it. Liberal terms. No agents. Box 1156, Los Angeles, California.

FOR SALE—Mate; four sets of 8-pt Roman No. 2, with Bold Face No. 1; five sets 7-pt Roman No. 2 with Bold Face No. 1. Write for details of font arrangement. News, Dayton, Ohio.

For Sale—10-page Potter Press in good running order, in use by Daily Argus-Leader, over 10,000 circulation, including stereotype outfit, also 12 turtles and 14 chases. Delivery about December 1, following installation larger press. A big bargain. Write the Argus-Leader Co., Sioux Falls, S. Dakota.

HOW THE LIBRARIES CAN USE ADVERTISING.

Most American cities have pretty good libraries and some have excellent ones, but hardly any city until the last year or two has attempted systematically to inform the people of what the library contains and what it can do for them.

The American Library Association has had a committee on the subject since 1906, but only recently have individual cities begun to try to put their library facilities into general use.

A number of libraries have been conspicuous for effective publicity work during the last year.

The library committee of the Toledo (Ohio) Commerce Club designated a period of seven days as a library publication week, during which the uses of the public library

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES.

Daily Newspapers

We have at this time several attractive opportunities to buy Daily Newspaper Properties in New York and adjacent states. Cash payments required range from $10,000 to $200,000.

The owners of all the properties in question are represented exclusively by this firm.

AUBREY HARWELL HENRY F. CANNON
Harwell & Cannon
Newspaper and Magazine Properties
Times Building NEW YORK

EXPERT IN NEWSPAPER Publishing Methods

ADVERTISING MECHANICAL
CIRCULATION
DEPARTMENTS

"He knows more about the newspaper business in this country than most anybody else."—George French, Editor Advertising News.

CHAS. S. PATTESON
Prince George Hotel, N. Y. City

PUBLISHERS:

I have a modern printing plant; would like to contract for printing a weekly or a monthly newspaper or magazine. First-class work guaranteed at reasonable prices. Address Plymouth, care The Fourth Estate.

For an exceptionally good weekly will trade clear California property, part or all, valued at $15,000, or will apply as part payment for interest in evening daily. Years of experience qualifies me to handle either business or editorial end. Address Box 834, care The Fourth Estate.

Competent newspaper man wants controlling interest in afternoon paper in Middle West. Town of 25,000. Address Box 846, care The Fourth Estate.

Wanted—Sample copies for Representatives for Ohio. The Ohio Novelty Agency, Youngstown, Ohio.

should be brought in every practicable way to the general notice of the citizens.

The undertaking was officially recognized by proclamation of the mayor of Toledo. During the week articles and advertisements about the library appeared each day in the local newspapers.

To back up the newspaper advertising, appropriate cards and other library material were displayed in show windows in various parts of the city, and the street cars carried posters relating to the library. Similar posters were placed in many of the large factories.

Other methods of advertising employed were the distribution of folders and the inclosure of slips regarding the library in 10,000 laundry packages. After listening to

HELP WANTED.

Young man wanted on a trade paper who can get news and write it in condensed form. He must also know something about circulation, advertising and general office work. Small salary to start, but good prospects. Address Box 826, care The Fourth Estate.

Special Writer Wanted

Catholic Publishing House has opening for competent special writer. Must have good command of English and be able to prepare interesting special articles and occasional editorial. Whole or part time. State education, experience and references. Address Box 837, care The Fourth Estate.

WANTED—A high grade special edition man to put on industrial edition in prosperous 25,000 city in Middle West. Must have gilt edge record. Submit full proof of same in first letter. Address Box 847, care The Fourth Estate.

Experienced young man wanted on a trade (coal) paper who can get news and write it in condensed form. He must also know something about circulation, advertising and general office work. Small salary to start, but good prospects. Address Box 825, care The Fourth Estate.

The publisher who needs
A managing editor
A city editor
A circulation manager
or anything in the newspaper line, must be hard to suit if he can't find in this column what he wants.

SPECIAL AND CHICAGO NEWS DAILY NEWS REPORTS.
YARD'S NEWS BUREAU
184 W. Washington Street, CHICAGO

library talks at the schools the children were taken on visits to the public library and its resources explained to them.

The result of the campaign was a marked increase in the number of registered borrowers and of books lent from the public library.

A similar campaign for the establishment of a business department in the public library was carried on in St. Paul in June, 1915 by the Town Criers, an association of local advertising men.

On a certain date, which was recognized by proclamation of the mayor as Town Criers' Library Day, a special library edition of the St. Paul Daily News was issued and circulated. A business men's library, centrally located in a store, was opened to the public by the city library, and means have since been taken by the Town Criers and other organizations of business men to bring the services of this library to the attention of those interested.

Other cities in which noteworthy publicity work has recently been accomplished by the public libraries are Seattle, Wash.; St. Joseph, Mo.; and Utica, N. Y.

In Wisconsin during the past year public libraries books were frequently advertised, in newspapers and window displays.

This method of publicity was first tried by the larger libraries of the state and is now being adopted by those of the smaller communities. For the most part, merchants' windows on the main streets are borrowed for this purpose, since few libraries have suitable windows in their own buildings. It is reported that these window displays bring good results when made by libraries.

MACHINERY FOR SALE.

Owners desiring to sell newspaper properties may advertise them in these columns over an assumed name, and answers will be received in entire confidence and forwarded without charge.

Rate twenty-five cents per line agate.

FOR SALE—A Campbell New Model press and stereotype outfit complete. Rebuilt five years ago by R. Hue & Co. and guaranteed to be in perfect condition. Prints four or eight pages, 6, 7 or 8 columns to the page, and can be seen running daily in our plant. Reason for selling is we are about to install larger press. Small cash payment and balance in monthly installments. First reasonable offer gets it. Address Campbell New Model, care The Fourth Estate, 232 West 59th street, New York City.

FOR SALE—Goss High-Speed Straight line Five Roll Double Width Press equipped with all modern improvements and in very good condition. This press prints 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20 page papers at 72,000 per hour. $2, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32 page papers at 82,000 per hour. For prices and terms write

WALTER SCOTT & CO.,
PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY

GOSS FOUR DECK PRESS—Prints 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24 or 32 pages. Overhauled and rebuilt. Will sell at very low price. The Goss Printing Press Co., Chicago, Ill.

LINOTYPE—Three Model 1 machines with complete equipment of molds, magazines and matrices. New Haven Union Co., New Haven, Ct.

LINOTYPE—Model No. 2, Serial No. 10109; 1 magazine, assortment of matrices. Fort Wayne Printing Co., Fort Wayne, Ind.

LINOTYPE—Model No. 1, Serial No. 2010, and Model No. 1, Serial No. 2011, with 1 magazine, liners, ejector blades, font of matrices (for each machine). Tribune Printing Co., Charleston, W. Va.

The problem of covering the Canadian Field is answered by obtaining the service of the

Dominion PRESS CLIPPING AGENCY
which gives the clippings on all matters of interest to you, printed in over 95 per cent of the newspapers and publications of CANADA. We cover every foot of Canada and Newfoundland.
74-76 Church Street, TORONTO, CAN.

AMUSEMENTS.

Astor—B'way & 45th—"The Very Idea"
Booth—45th, W. of B'way—"Friend Martha."
Rijou—West 45th—"Mary's Ankle."
Broadway—At 41st—"Pay Me."
Cohan & Harris—W 42d—"Hitchy Koo."
Curt—48th E. of B'way—"The Knave."
Criterion—B'way and 44th—"The Manx Man."
Eltinge—W. 42d—"Business Before Pleasure."
44th St.—W. of B'way—"The Italian Battlefront."
48th St.—E. of B'way—"The 13th Chair."
Gaiety—B'way and 46th—"Turn to the Right."
Globe—B'way and 46th—"Jack and the Beanstalk."
Harris—W. 42d—"Daybreak."
Lycium—B'way & 46th—"The Lassos."
Lyric—42d St. W. of B'way—"The Inner Man."
Manhattan Opera House—W 34th—"The Wanderer."
New Amsterdam—W. 42d—"Ziegfeld Follies."
Palace—B'way near 47th—"Vaudeville Playhouse 46th E. of B'way—"The Man Who Came Back."
Princess—39th near B'way—"Oh, Boy."
Shubert—44th, W. of B'way—"Maytime."
Winter Garden—B'way and 30th—"Packing Show of 1917."

SITUATIONS WANTED.

You may need to know

How you can get in touch with the right man for a position vacant, or

How you can find a suitable opening for yourself or some friend whom you can recommend.

Keep in mind the scope of our work. Ours is a service bureau for employers and employees in all departments of the Publishing, Advertising and Printing field, East, South and West.

No charge to employers; registration free; moderate commissions from successful clients.

Fernald's Exchange, Inc.

Third National Bank Building
SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

A LIVE WIRE

experienced newspaper woman, young and enthusiastic, and willing to handle any sort of assignment, will fill in gap, caused by conscription, on your editorial staff. Has handled general and feature work on large city dailies for several years. Address Box 848, care The Fourth Estate.

EXPERIENCED.

well-trained newspaper and advertising man wants position as business manager or managing editor of progressive afternoon daily. Has long and successful record on newspapers and in retail advertising. Thirty six years old and thoroughly dependable. Might make moderate investment if desired. Prefer city of 20,000 to 50,000. Will consider trade journal proposition. Address Box 848, care The Fourth Estate.

EDITOR

Extensive Experience
Desires change
Exempt from conscription
References
Box 845,
care The Fourth Estate.

Mailing or list department, by a young married man of ten years' experience, capable of planning work to best advantage; several years in charge of afternoon daily; references gladly given. Address Box 850, care The Fourth Estate.

WANTED—Position, managing or telegraph editor. Thoroughly experienced, fully competent; now employed. Not subject to draft. Address Wembee, care The Fourth Estate.

OUR LETTER BOX.

At present there are letters waiting for

A. B. Codrington
S. Chivers-Wilson
Anna B. Corrhane
Geo. W. Craig
L. D. Curtright
Thos. B. Donnelly
Arthur T. Eagan
W. Burton Ellis
A. Finley
A. Fisher
R. Herts Service
Sam'l M. Evans
George S. Teall
W. A. Faver
Theodore Bisenz
Ray E. Wilcox
J. G. Disher
G. S. Myers
Griffith Bonner
H. H. Patterson
Publicity Bureau
Glenn C. Wilson
O. Wog
Chas. H. Forman
A. W. Seaholm
J. H. Musgat Co.
Richard Neville

Advertisers and all other friends of THE FOURTH ESTATE are invited to make our offices their headquarters for correspondence, etc., etc.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

PUBLISHER'S ATTENTION

Do your circulation charges each month tally with your A. B. C. report? Or is there a deficit charge? Do you get a trial balance the first day of each month showing a cent your circulation charges, allowances, cash, accounts receivable, etc? If you do not get the above you are in the dark as to leaks in your circulation revenue.

What about your city carrier service? Your mail subscription country promotion work and office methods incidental thereto? Are you satisfied? If not the writer will guarantee to satisfy you in all the above respects if given a six months' contract for a compensation of $2,000.

I can show a seventeen year record in circulation work. Now employed and have saved my present employer $3,000 per year in overhead and leaks in the past six months.

Address G. L., care The Fourth Estate.

ATTENTION PUBLISHERS!

Who has the best position to offer a newspaper man of 20 years' experience? At present employed as night editor of a large New England daily but desires a change. Send answers to Egbert, care The Fourth Estate.

A Practical Printer with four years' good all-around experience and a thorough course at the Mergenthaler factory as a machinist-operator wants to connect with some publication or a private plant where attention to business is appreciated and advancement made accordingly. Best of references from former employers. Address Austin Savdel, 108 Targee street, Stapleton, N. Y.

WANTED—Position as editor or feature writer on newspaper or trade publication. Married, sober and fully competent. Position must be permanent on ability to make good. Understand advertising and printing business in full detail. Can come at once. Address W. H. Van Doran, 616 Sherman st., Elkhart, Indiana.

MANAGING EDITOR of morning newspaper in Southern city of 75,000 wishes to make change. Experienced on larger Southern dailies. Afternoon newspaper preferred. Address O. K. L., care The Fourth Estate.

CIRCULATION MANAGER WANTS PLACE

as general, mail or city circulation manager on a live paper. Competent to promote special campaigns and successfully handle any kind of territory. Familiar with all approved systems. Experience covers large and small cities. Am employed, but desire a change at once. Age 32, references. Address Box 842, care The Fourth Estate.

Successful advertising man of wide experience in newspaper work is seeking new connections. Can write fetching copy and is live, energetic solicitor. Married, sober, industrious. References on request. Address Box 844, care The Fourth Estate.

YOUNG MAN WHO CORRESPONDS

with five hundred newspapers wishes position as press agent or publicity manager with some person or firm desiring wide and international newspaper publicity. Address Box 853, care The Fourth Estate.

Mr. Publisher—Has the war hit your advertising department and do you want an experienced solicitor at once? Am unexpectedly at liberty. Have had over 20 years' experience selling advertising, not copy chasing. Full of ideas and know how to put them over. References cannot be beaten. Name what salary you will pay; it must be good, but I will earn it. For quick action, write Experienced Solicitor, care The Fourth Estate.

TYPO

CREDIT BOOKS, REPORTS, COLLECTION
General Offices
378 Fourth Avenue NEW YORK

POLLOCK'S NEWS

You can reach 2,500 Editors and Publishers in the Northwest—the wide-awake ones—every month, through the Classified Ads in Pollock's News. That is $9,000 of them in a year for ten dollars. Send for samples and display rates.
710 Temple Court, MINNEAPOLIS

SITUATIONS WANTED.

Do you need a competent editor or reporter? I can deliver the goods, as employers for last 15 years will testify; will be glad to give full details; why not write me at Box 708, care The Fourth Estate.

Cartoonist

Can do any kind of cartooning. Can supply one comic strip a day; also comic cards or animated cartooning; samples on request. Address C. Williams, 416 16th street, West New York, N. J.

Live circulation manager of evening daily of 13,000 desires to make a change; 33 years of age, 10 years in present place. Recently has been through a raise of 50 per cent in price of paper and got by with flying colors. Best of references given. Address Box 841, care The Fourth Estate.

Circulation Manager, resourceful, successful business getter, using original campaign methods; many years' experience; methodical, economic; wishes to connect with metropolitan newspaper. Best references. Address Box 841, care The Fourth Estate.

Circulation Manager—Have worked in and understand all departments from carrier up. Have a steady position but desire change for personal reasons. Not subject to draft. Address Box 849, care The Fourth Estate.

Mr. Publisher—I can't go to war, but I have had 20 years' experience in the business end of newspapers both large and small. If your advertising or business manager is going I can fill his place acceptably. High class salesman and executive. Write or wire Advertiser, 50 West Alexandrine, Detroit.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

AUDITOR BUSINESS MANAGER CIRCULATION MANAGER SYSTEMATIZER

Position wanted by young married man with country-wide experience in all the details of paper economy and business and circulation department efficiency. Long experience systematizing circulation departments, cutting down waste, stopping leaks and in up-to-the-minute methods of circulation promotion. Also long accounting experience in various lines. At present employed in responsible position but desire a change. Can furnish the best of references from present and previous employers and business associates. Address Box 852, care The Fourth Estate.

Editor—Extensive experience daily, weekly, monthly; writer, reviewer; familiar with make-up; engaged, desires change; references. Not subject to draft. Address Box 833, care The Fourth Estate.

WANTED—Position on first class daily as business or advertising manager, by a high-class man of unusual character, ability and experience. Best of references. Address Box 848, care The Fourth Estate.

Circulation and advertising man with a record of 20 years' successful work seeks position in the West or Southwest. Address Box 702, care The Fourth Estate.

Experienced newspaper man wants business or entire management of small city daily, or would lease the property. Good references. Now located Pacific coast and prefer to stay there, but will go elsewhere if advantageous. Address L. L. K., care The Fourth Estate, 229 West 59th street, New York.

Business Manager—Competent efficiency man now "making good" in metropolitan field desires general management of small city paper. Excellent record in all departments as an organizer and producer. Preference for position demanding careful, economical development. Address Box 836, care The Fourth Estate.

EXPERT TYPOGRAPHER
with fifteen years' practical experience desires connection with substantial advertising agency. University man. State full particulars. Address E. C. T., care The Fourth Estate.

HEMSTREETPRESS CLIPPINGS

Tenth Avenue at 45th Street NEW YORK CITY

*We can Increase Your Business.
You want it Increased, don't you?*

Of course you have thought of Press Clippings yourself—but let us tell you how Press Clippings can be made a BUSINESS-BUILDER for you.

"BURRELLE"

ESTABLISHED
A QUARTER OF
A CENTURY.
60 and 62 Warren Street
NEW YORK

NEWS OF THE AD AGENCIES.

A. P. Russell has taken charge of the copy department of the Fawcett Advertising Agency, Colorado Springs, Colo.

A complete advertising agency and publicity service has been established under the name of Raul de Caldevilla & Cia. in Porto, Portugal, for the benefit of foreign business men who wish to introduce their wares to the Portuguese markets. The firm has the endorsement of many business men, banks and publishers of its own country and THE FOURTH ESTATE does not hesitate to commend it to the attention of American firms with Portuguese problems.

Norman S. Rose, former newspaper man and for the past three years active in the motion picture advertising and publicity field, has resigned from the publicity department of Artercraft Pictures Corporation to become associated with the George Batten Company.

Chester M. Cogswell, assistant managing editor of the Des Moines Capital, has resigned to take charge of the copy and service department of the Coolidge Advertising Company, Des Moines.

Jere J. O'Donnell has been appointed sales manager of the Claude W. Riley Advertising System, Chicago. The company places advertising in theater programs.

E. C. Conover of the business staff of William H. Rankin Company, Chicago, has resigned to become Western manager for Vanity Fair.

E. T. Gundlach, president of the Gundlach Advertising Company, Chicago, has won a commission as lieutenant in the new national army.

W. B. Seabrook will retire from the advertising agency of the Lewis Seabrook Company, Atlanta, on September 1 and Frank E. Coffee, Atlanta manager of the Western Newspaper Union, becomes a partner with Fred Lewis. The firm will be known after the above date as the Lewis & Coffee Company.

Frank Y. Anderson has become a member of the staff of the Ruel-Brown, Inc., Advertising Agency, St. Louis, as manager of its publicity department.

Mr. Anderson took up reporting on an afternoon paper at Memphis, Tenn. Subsequently he became city editor of the Memphis Appeal, from which he went to the Commercial, of the same city, as its first managing Daily Publishers!

MORE ADVERTISING?

If you want real wide awake advertising representation, here in Chicago and the West, get in touch with us at once.

We get business by going after it; keeping after it until we get the order. Why not discuss the matter with us today? Write us at once.

YOUNG & FARRELL
Room 400, 89 N. Dearborn St.
CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

editor, and continued in that capacity on the Commercial-Appeal until 1913.

Mr. Anderson went to St. Louis in 1903 to join the staff of the Globe-Democrat as telegraph editor. When the staff of the St. Louis Times was being organized he was selected as telegraph editor, which post he held until made financial and commercial editor of that paper.

For the last two years and a half he has been on the staff of the Post-Dispatch.

A. T. Anderson, formerly with Van Patten, Inc., is now connected with the George Batten Company, Inc., as assistant space-buyer.

The William D. McJunkin Advertising Agency, Chicago, has opened a Cleveland branch in charge of E. E. Wagner, as vice-president and general manager.

Mr. Wagner's most recent connection was as advertising manager of the East Ohio Gas Company and previous to that he was publicist of the F. B. Stearns Automobile Company and in the editorial department of the Cleveland Press and Cleveland Leader-News.

Lewis B. Ely, for five years leading editorial writer of the St. Louis Republic, has joined the D'Arcy Advertising Company, where he will be connected with the publicity department.

Mr. Ely for eight years was associate editor of the Post-Dispatch, and is the author of several short stories, a novel and one or two plays.

Louis Glaser has resigned from the staff of Ewing & Miles, Inc., New York, and is now with Doremus & Morse, also of New York. He was formerly advertising manager of Kops Brothers, corset manufacturers.

CHICAGO OFFICE OPENED.

Barnhill & Henning, publishers representatives, New York, have opened an office at 8 South Dearborn street, Chicago, with Edmund R. Landis in charge. The new office will represent a number of papers in the Western field that have been handled in the East only by Barnhill & Henning.

The Montana Farmer, Great Falls, Mont., has appointed Barnhill & Henning as its advertising representatives.

NEW AGENCY LIST.

A list of publishers' representatives and general agencies doing business in Chicago, with their addresses and telephone numbers, has been issued by the C. J. Anderson Special Agency, of that city. It is on a convenient-sized card and suitable for ready reference at the telephone desk.

SCHOOLFIELD WITH AMERICAN

Charles B. Schoolfield has been appointed manager of financial advertising for the New York American, following two years' service in a similar position on the Tribune.

TYNDAL WITH MACLEAN.

George H. Tyndal, formerly with the Regina (Sask.) Daily Post, has joined the service department of the Maclean Publishing Company, Toronto.

AD FOLKS' NEWS.

The return match between the golf teams of the New York Advertising Club and the Poor Richard Club of Philadelphia will probably take place on August 21 at the Siwanoy Country Club. The first match resulted in a tie.

The Advertising Club of Columbus will elect a nominating committee at its next meeting on August 20.

R. G. Maxwell won chief honors in the monthly golf tournament of the Western Advertising Golfers Association late last week.

Members of the Kansas City Ad Club are making a series of "little journeys" to various Kansas City manufacturing enterprises for the purpose of acquainting themselves with the industrial progress of the city.

W. H. Miner of the W. H. Miner Company, Springfield, Mass., is in entire charge of advertising for that firm, which manufactures candies and "Miner's Balanced Ration," embodying five different food products.

Raymond Walters has resigned as advertising manager of the Emerson Phonograph Company, Inc., New York.

M. R. Machol has been appointed sales manager in charge of advertising by the Chase Motor Truck Company, Syracuse, N. Y.

John F. Bresnahan has been appointed sales and advertising manager of the American Chicle Company, New York, succeeding George R. Hopkins, who recently went with the Columbia Graphophone Company as sales manager. Mr. Bresnahan has been connected with the American News Company, the Butterick Company, the Every Week Corporation and the Literary Digest. Van Patten, Inc., New York, will continue to handle the advertising account.

George C. Macdonald has become sales manager of the Loose-Wiles Biscuit Company, Long Island City, N. Y., taking charge of advertising. He was formerly country and agency sales manager at the company's Boston plant.

The second annual "big brother" picnic of the Advertising Club of Des Moines, Ia., will be held on August 21, at Greenwood Park. Last year the club held its picnic at Union Park where the affair proved a grand success.

The guests will be the families of the club members and the children on the various charitable institutions over the city. A program consisting of athletic events, music, speaking and other things will be handled by special committees headed by O. O. Work. Refreshments will be served by the club.

The Chicago Advertising Association is sending many of its members into military service of one form or another. Incidentally, the association is launching a very active campaign to secure the cooperation of employers in holding positions open for the soldiers upon their return.

A Seven Day Chautauqua, under the auspices of the Chicago Advertising Association will begin in various Chicago communities on August 23. Fifteen per cent of the receipts will be donated to the Red Cross. The remainder of the profits will be used as a nucleus for a building fund for the association.

Rufus B. Burnham has resigned as advertising and marine sales manager of the Gray Motor Company, Detroit. He was formerly advertising manager of the Sterling Engine Company and prior to that was with Doubleday, Page & Co.

Herbert A. Mooney, formerly assistant advertising manager of the Oakland Motor Car Company, Pontiac, Mich., and in Chicago agency work, has been appointed sales promotion manager of Thomas J. Hay, Inc., Chicago distributor of Chandler automobiles.

Putnam Drew, formerly advertising manager of the R. E. Taylor Corporation, has been appointed advertising manager of the Buford Motor Truck Company, Fremont, Ohio, which has just been purchased by R. E. Taylor.

I. T. U. IN SESSION.

The International Typographical Union is holding its annual meeting this week at the Printers' Home in Colorado Springs, Colo.

Scranton, Pa., was awarded the 1918 convention by unanimous vote. The convention indorsed a plan to care for members who enlist for the war.

Verne Bronson is the new editor and publisher of the Grano (N. D.) Tribune.

TO MANUFACTURERS:

If the links between the making of your product, your sales department, your advertising, your distributing channels and the consumer are not welded into one harmonious unit, your advertising cannot be made to produce its highest possible volume of returns. The Presbrey method has united these various branches in the case of many others. Why not learn wherein it can be made to earn for you? Your correspondence entails no obligation.

FRANK PRESBREY COMPANY

GENERAL ADVERTISING.
Makers of Commercial Booklets.
450 4th Av. (31st St.) NEW YORK

H. W. KASTOR & SONS ADVERTISING COMPANY

CHICAGO ST. LOUIS
An organization of merchandising men highly specialized in the solution of advertising problems.

G. LOGAN PAYNE CO.

SPECIAL REPRESENTATIVES
Fifth Avenue Building, NEW YORK
750 Marquette Building, CHICAGO
40 Broomfield St., BOSTON
Kresge Building, DETROIT

VERREE & CONKLIN

PUBLISHERS' REPRESENTATIVES.
925 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK
11 Lafayette Boulevard, DETROIT
28 E. Jackson Boulevard, CHICAGO

JOHN BUDD CO.

Representing Newspapers of
Burrell Bldg., NEW YORK
Tribune Bldg., CHICAGO
Chemical Bldg., ST. LOUIS

JAMES ZOBIAN CO.

GENERAL ADVERTISING
225 Fifth Avenue NEW YORK

INTRODUCING AD FOLKS.

The road of Thomas E. Ward to his recent appointment as advertising manager of the House of Hobberlin, Ltd., Toronto, has led for the past thirteen years through the bright fields of engraving and lithographing. Mr. Ward is an Englishman and, after studying art in London, emigrated to Canada in 1904, spent several months designing stained glass windows and then joined the Toronto Engraving Company's staff.

THOMAS E. WARD.

He later moved to a lithographing firm in Chicago, but returned to the land of the Maple Leaf after two years as art manager in the advertising service department of the McLean Publishing Company, Ltd. He resigned from this position after eight years' service a short time ago to join his present firm.

Howard Rhode, the new advertising manager of the Lehigh Portland Cement Company, Allentown, Pa., has not been active in general advertising, but, during his fifteen years in the cement industry, he has done considerable publicity work along educational lines. He has represented the Lehigh Company on the lecture platform before student bodies of various engineering schools and colleges, engineering societies, civic clubs, rotary clubs, builders' meetings, etc.

An ambitious objective is put forward by Charles F. Hatfield, who now heads the community advertising department of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, when he says that he intends to make his department one of the best, if not the best, at the San Francisco convention of the A.A.C.W. But, his ambition is more or less justified when he thinks of the fact that his department was recognized by the parent organization only thirty days before the opening of the St. Louis convention and that it gathered together a highly successful exhibit in that time.

The standards of practice under which the department is conducted, as outlined by Mr. Hatfield, follow:

(1) We believe that from every source of influence our public organizations and institutions representing the community as a whole should be impressed with the potency and dignity of adequate community advertising.

(2) We believe that because community organizations have not made substantial provision for community advertising, and because publishers, agencies and counselors have, therefore, comparatively neglected this source of business, there is lack of both volume and method in the showing made, and that each party to the failure should from now on strive for large reciprocal results.

(3) We believe that particularly in the effort for industrial expansion through community advertising, all claims as to the advantage of location should be based upon a survey of commercial and economic conditions, and justified by statements both conservative and direct.

CHARLES F. HATFIELD.

(4) We believe that especially concerning the smaller city, there is need of systematic and intensified methods for increased merchandising from within a logical though limited radius rather than for a continuance of puny attempts to secure promiscuous industries from a national field, and that there the local commercial body has an inspirational and instructional function.

(5) We believe that because much unfavorable community advertising is automatic, it is the duty of the citizen body to provide adequate means to keep the merits of the community uppermost before the nation, and we pledge our energies to the work of setting these forth with system, sanity and truth.

TRADE PRESS ASKED TO AID FOOD ECONOMY.

As part of the food administration conservation campaign, a committee, headed by James H. Collins, has been appointed to bring vital matters to the attention of the trade and technical press of the country. Mr. Collins, in a circular letter, signed by himself and twenty-two publishers of well known business papers, asks trade journal editors to publish an editorial or article in every issue of their papers, keeping the idea of food economy before their readers.

ATKINSON HEADS AD SERVICE

Harry G. Atkinson has resigned as contract manager of Hanff-Metzger, Inc., New York, to become general manager of the Associated Representation Company, New York. The latter firm is now handling advertising for about 400 country newspapers equipped with the "Prestoplate Caster," a device which permits the use of matrices by country newspapers without stereotype equipments.

The cost of advertising in the country press is thus reduced, the expense of sending heavy electrotypes and stereotypes for each advertisement being eliminated.

Discussing his new venture, Mr. Atkinson said to THE FOURTH ESTATE:

"I am enthusiastic over the prospect of selling national advertisers a real service in the country weeklies and anticipate that, at last, these papers will come into their own. I have always been a firm believer in the country weeklies, as evidenced by the 'Duke's Mixture' campaign, which I placed several years ago in more than 10,000 country weeklies."

HARRY G. ATKINSON.

Mr. Atkinson is succeeded in the Hanff-Metzger organization by his brother, C. J. Atkinson.

ARCHER NO SLACKER.

Laird Archer, reporter of the Wichita (Kan.) Beacon, has been trying for more than a year to go to war. When Uncle Sam was in trouble with Mexico, he tried to join the Kansas National Guard, but was refused because of defective vision.

In April, he tried to join the United States regulars in vain. Later he tried the ambulance service and was rejected. The Red Cross and the Army Y.M.C.A. also declined his services.

In the draft his number was 258, the first to be drawn, so he feels that there is still hope. His failure to get in is due to partial loss of sight caused by being struck by lightning when he was a youngster.

TAKE IT TO POWERS!

"Fastest Engravers on Earth"

Open 24 hours out of 24

On Time All the Time

POWERS PHOTO ENGRAVING COMPANY

154 Nassau Street, NEW YORK

Telephone 4200 Beekman

Good Work

Prompt Service

Fair Price

They tell the story of our 24 years of successful service.

And we want you to get into the habit to

"Phone the Manhattan Man for your Engraving"

MANHATTAN PHOTO ENGRAVING CO.

251-253 William Street NEW YORK
Phone, WOrk 1687-5

STANLEY PROCESS
quality a not to down up made to a price
TYPE METAL

SYRACUSE SMELTING WORKS
BROOKLYN, N. Y. and CHICAGO, ILL.

For Particular Printing come to the
ALLIANCE PRESS
110-114 West 23d Street NEW YORK

AD-SOLDIERS END DRILLS.

After three months of drill in elementary military tactics the Advertising Men's Military Training Association suspended operations on August 13. Of the four score men who were enrolled in the course at various times, R. D. Smith, C. R. Jones and R. Tatnall qualified for Officers Reserve Corps training camps. C. J. Cutaia was chosen as an alternate for Plattsburg and Joseph Griess and Shaw Thompson were accepted for the aviation section of the Signal Corps, U. S. A.

Ray Smith, volunteer instructor of the association, who had seen service in Mexico and the Philippines as a lieutenant in the United States Army, appeared at the final session of the class in the uniform of a major in the aviation section of the Signal Corps, having been commissioned last week. He has been connected since his resignation from the Army a few months ago with the Factory, New York.

Major Smith disclaimed a greater part of the credit for the achievements of the successful students, but the class answered his modest disclaimer with a gift of $100 in gold and a pair of cuff links.

A vote of thanks was awarded to Edgar G. Criswell, now in the advertising department of Donbleday, Page & Co. for his untiring work as secretary-treasurer of the association during the past year, both under the late Captain Roy Staver and under Major Smith.

THE PITTSBURG PRESS

HAS THE Largest

DAILY AND SUNDAY
CIRCULATION
IN PITTSBURG

Foreign Advertising Representatives:
I. A. KLEIN, Metropolitan Tower, N. Y.
JOHN GLASS, Peoples Gas Bg., Chicago

SEATTLE "P-I"

The only seven day A. P. paper in the Metropolis of the entire Northwest.

The one paper in the entire West without competition in its field. It reaches into the homes of the most prosperous people on earth.

W. M. J. MORTON CO., Eastern Rep.,
Fifth Av. Bldg., NEW YORK.
Tribune Building, CHICAGO

NEWS NOTES FOR SUPPLY MEN.

CHANGES IN INTEREST.

SULPHUR SPRINGS, TEX.—J. S. Bag-well, former editor and proprietor of the Mt. Pleasant Journal, has sold his interest in his paper at Sweetwater and has purchased the Sulphur Springs Weekly Echo.

CRAIG, MD.—W. H. Hambaugh, for thirty-five years editor and owner of the Leader, has sold that paper to L.
R. Bagby of St. Louis.

HURON, KAN.—R. E. McBride of Topeka is the new proprietor of the Huron Herald, and in the Herald office he will also print the Delia
News, edited by Hilda McBride.

HASTINGS, OKLA.—Vernie Puryear has resigned from the Hastings Herald, having purchased a paper in Wyoming.

HERFORD, TEX.—Guthrie & Gough is the name of the new firm publishing the Brand.

MONTICELLO, ARK.—N. D. Gother-man has succeeded E. F. Gotherman as editor of the Monticellonian, the latter having enlisted in the Arkansas National Guard.

CARRIZO, N. M.—Mrs. Hannan
Luster, owner of the Outlook, has sold that paper to L. A. Burke.

CLINTON, OKLA.—R. A. Mitchell, editor of the Roger Mills County Sen-inel, and Senator E. L. Mitchell of Clinton have purchased the Clinton
Chronicle and Clinton Messenger. R.
A. Mitchell will move to this city and

The Remarkable Advertising
Pulling Qualities of the
WASHINGTON
TIMES

are built on the Foundation Stones of

Size of Circulation

Confidence of Its Readers

A Right Rate

In Washington, D. C.,
The Times is Preferred.

Topeka Daily Capital

GOVERNMENT REPORT

for six months ending April 1, 1917, showing net paid circulation.

34,567

Member A. B. C.

Arthur Capper, Publisher
TOPEKA, KAN.

take charge of the papers, while A. Y.
Owens will be left in charge of the Sentinel at Strong City.

BOWLING GREEN, MO.—C. Ed Mayhall has purchased the Bowling Green
Times.

GRAND JUNCTION, COLO.—Herbert
Little, of Carrollton, Mo., is with the Grand Junction News.

SHARON, KAN.—F. A. Leith, who has been associated with W. C. Ray in editing the Wilmore News, has purchased the local Times from P. H.
Adair.

GOLTRY, OKLA.—Frank Walker has sold the Eagle, a socialist paper, to
C. C. McDaniel of Cherokee.

MINCO, OKLA.—John Duran has purchased the Herald and taken charge of the same.

METROPOLIS, ILL.—The Journal-Republican has been leased by W. A.
Spence to Rev. R. B. Butler.

BURCHARD, NEB.—Frank A. Cox, publisher of the Times, has sold that paper to Mrs. Weaver Borden.

CUNNINGHAM, KAN.—William A.
Bradley, who recently purchased the Clipper, has taken charge of that paper.

HURON, KAN.—Miss Hilda Mc-Bride has purchased the plant of the Herald and several other small papers in this vicinity and will conduct a chain of papers throughout this section.

MOUND VALLEY, KAN.—Rollin Con-derman, who recently purchased the Chetopa Clipper, has sold his interest in the Mound Valley Journal to D.
H. Wallingford, who assumes full charge of that paper.

OKETO, KAN.—Harry DeLair is now editor of the Eagle, having recently purchased the same.

IMA, ILL.—Samuel T. Coffman, managing editor of the Observer, has sold his interest in that paper to E.
L. Coffman.

RUSHVILLE, MO.—Rolla Hines has purchased a half-interest in the Rushville News.

CHENESE, KAN.—Jack Gage has leased the Journal to Zene Spurrier, who has been business manager of that paper for the past year.

ARLENE, TEX.—Homer Eastwood, formerly owner of the Merkel Mail,

BOSTON POST

CIRCULATION JULY, 1917
"NO RETURNS"

The Daily Post 523,332

The Sunday Post 354,316

KELLY-SMITH CO., Representatives
220 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK
C. GEORGE KROGNESS, Western Rep.
Marquette Building, CHICAGO

Today's Housewife

Net Paid  For Every
Guaranteed Issue

GEORGE A. McCLELLAN, Gen. Mgr.
161 Fourth Avenue NEW YORK has purchased a half interest in the Times.

NASHVILLE, KAN.—Clyde Walters, who is the founder and editor of the Journal, has announced that he will join the army about September 1 and will sell his paper.

CLARENDON, TEX.—J. M. Warren, publisher of the News for six years, has sold that paper to Sam M. Braswell.

TOPEKA, KAN.—Charles C. Young-green, business manager of the Kansas Farmer, who has resigned his position to enter the aviation corps, is succeeded by W. J. Cody, who has had charge of all live stock advertising and has been assistant advertising manager of that paper.

FAIRLAND, OKLA.—John T. Newport, editor of the News-Herald for the past five years, has sold that paper to W. D. Franklin.

SAVANNAH, MO.—C. N. Van Pelt, who has been editor of the Tarkio Avalanche, has become manager and editor of the Savannah Democrat, owned by Frank Freytag of St.
Joseph.

WICHITA, KAN.—The Price Current, a local trade journal, has been sold by Willis H. Purdy to Dale A. Res-ing, for ten years connected with the Wichita Eagle, becomes general business and editorial manager of the Price Current.

MONTGOMERY CITY, MO.—Gale
Johnson has sold his interest in the Montgomery City Herald to Mr.
Lavender, who now owns the plant, and will continue the business.

NEW ENTERPRISES.

CARPENTER, WYO.—Frank S. Nipper, publisher of the Record and of the Prague (Okla.) Record, is considering starting a new weekly paper in a farming town in this state.

HARRISONVILLE, MO.—Frank Armstrong of the Democrat is preparing to publish a daily newspaper in the camp of the Missouri National Guard.
He will have a portable plant.

ARGENTA, ARK.—The Argenta Daily Times, an 8 page 6 column afternoon newspaper, has just made its first appearance. John Pruniski, for two years of the Little Rock Gazette, is editor and the Times Publishing

1916 Broke All Records
of the
Toledo BLADE
9,807,578 Lines

of advertising in 313 days.
AN AVERAGE OF OVER
104 COLUMNS PER DAY.
Member A.B.C.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
250 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK
Mallory Building, CHICAGO
201 Devonshire St., BOSTON
Keeage Building, DETROIT

YOU MUST USE THE EXAMINER

TO COVER THE
GREAT SOUTHWEST

Largest Sunday Circulation—more than 150,000

Company is publisher. Modern machinery, costing $10,000, has been installed.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M.—The high school pupils of this city are going to publish a new monthly paper under the direction of John H. Mehers, foreman of the job printing department of the Santa Fe New Mexican.

SNYDER, TEX.—Will S. Cooper, of this city, will soon start a new paper here, to be called the Scurrier.

GALATIA, KAN.—Leon Goheen, editor of the Holyrood Banner, published the first issue of a new paper here on August 10, known as the Galatia Register. For the present it will be printed in Holyrood.

ENID, OKLA.—The Southwest Oil and Farm Journal is the name of a new publication here devoted to the oil interests. George G. Garnett is the editor and publisher.

GLENROCK, WYO.—The Glenrock Gazette Publishing Company has been incorporated with $10,000 capital, by A. A. Spangh, J. A. Reed, J. H. Barber, S. M. Anderson, and John E. Higgins, all of Glenrock.

MARSHALLTOWN, IA.—A new daily edition of the Marshalltown Tribune will soon be issued.

CLOVIS, N. M.—The Christian churches of New Mexico and western Texas have arranged for the publication of a monthly paper here, to be known as the Great Plains
Christian. Rev. J. H. Shepard of Clovis will be editor.

SANTA FE, N. M.—The first issue of the New Mexico War News has

THE NEW YORK WORLD

(Morning Edition)

Prints MORE
ADVERTISING
than any other newspaper prints.

THE BROOKLYN DAILY TIMES

In 1916 Carried

(Publishing 6 days a week, no Sundays)

3,230,368 Agate Lines of
Advertising

An increase over 1915 of

151,417 lines

Brooklyn's FASTEST GROWING
NEWSPAPER

The Cincinnati Community

consists of an area of 70 square miles with a population of 600,000

THE CINCINNATI ENQUIRER

is the MEDIUM YOU SHOULD USE in this unparalleled market. Foreign Representations John Glass, Peoples Gas Bldg., Chicago I.A. Klein, Metropolitan Tower, New York

The newspaper man who wants a good position, and doesn't know enough to advertise for it in THE FOURTH ESTATE, when it costs so little (perhaps nothing), does not deserve the position.

appeared, with Guthrie Smith as editor.

SILVER CITY, N. M.—Don W. Lusk, son of H. H. Lusk, former editor of the Parsons (Kan.) Sun, is the founder of a new paper here.

ARMY CITY, KAN.—A. H. Hammond, former editor of the Manhattan (Kan.) Free Lance, has started a new paper here, called the Army City Bulletin. Mr. Hammond will erect a new building for his print shop on some property he recently purchased.

WICHITA, KAN.—Beginning September 1, the Fuller Real Estate Exchange at First and Market street will publish a 16-page monthly magazine, to be called the Wichita Realty Bulletin.

CONSOLIDATIONS.

WEWOKA, OKLA.—The Wewoka Democrat and the Capital have been consolidated under the name of the Wewoka Capital, with Luther Harrison and Jesse Day as publishers.

ALTUS, OKLA.—W. F. McDowell has sold the Times to Jack Bommer, publisher of the Democrat, who will consolidate the two papers.

INSTALLING EQUIPMENT.

MARSHALL, MO.—The Democrat-News, founded thirty-six years ago, has moved into new headquarters.

CHETOPE, KAN.—The Clipper, recently purchased by R. J. Conderman,

THE PITTSBURGH POST

ONLY Democratic Paper In Pittsburgh

CONN, LORENZEN & WOODMAN, Special Representatives, New York, Detroit, Kansas City, Chicago

Trenton TIMES

New Jersey's Leading

FOOD MEDIUM

Million lines food advertising in two years—developed by our Thursday Food Feature Pages.

This 'food atmosphere' and 'housewife interest' will increase your sales.

KELLY-SMITH CO.
220 5th Av., N. Y. Lytton Bg., Chicago

Baltimore News

Net Daily Circulation 91,250
JULY, 1917
GAIN over JULY, 1916, 15,388

Special Representations
DAN A. CARROLL J. E. LUTZ
New York Chicago

has placed an order for a Model 15 Mergenthaler Linotype.

RUSSELLVILLE, ARK.—J. A. Livingston, editor of the Courier-Democrat, has purchased a new building on Torrence street, which is being remodelled for the use of his newspapers.

LAWRENCE, KAN.—The printing classes of Haskell Institute have new rooms with new equipment for the coming year.

PLATTSBURG, MO.—C. F. Ward, who recently purchased the Leader, has added a new Linotype to the office equipment of the paper.

MARYSVILLE, KAN.—G. W. Willis has moved his print shop into the Lange Building.

WEATHERFORD, OKLA.—The Booster has just purchased a new supply of job and book type.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M.—A Gordon press, 12x18, and other equipment, will be purchased for the Albuquerque High School printing plant.

ENID, OKLA.—A new printing office, owned by L. S. Corey, is to be erected here on West Broadway, costing $8,000.

TOWANDA, KAN.—The News has had constructed a new building for its plant and has recently moved into it.

WICHITA, KAN.—The Eagle has added to its equipment a new bulletin machine and has also added the summarized day report of the United Press.

CHETOPE, KAN.—The Clipper has moved into its new headquarters on West Main street.

SUSPENSIONS.

HARRISONVILLE, MO.—The News, owned by Nathan W. Huston of Columbus, Kan., and managed by Albert D. Matteson, has suspended publication. The plant will be shipped to Columbus, Kan., and Mr. Matteson will join the staff of the Harrisonville Democrat, which paper has purchased the subscription list of the News.

CIMARRON, N. M.—Publication of the News-Citizen has been recently suspended.

LATHAM, KAN.—The Latham Mirror has discontinued publication.

BELPRZ, KAN.—Ray Williams, editor

St. Louis Globe-Democrat

dominates the morning field.

A. B. C. Statement March 31, 1916 140,970

Net Paid Circulation June 4, 1917 138,135

Between March 31, 1916, and June 4, 1917, daily price was raised to 2c.

The clean home-going family newspaper.

PATERSON

New Jersey's Famous Manufacturing City

PRESS Its BIG GUARDIAN Independent Newspaper

G. LOGAN PAYNE COMPANY
New York Chicago Detroit Boston

of the Argosy, has suspended its publication and placed the plant on the market.

CAMERON, TEX.—The Herald Publishing Company, publisher of the Cameron Herald, has filed a certificate of dissolution.

GIRARD, KAN.—The Appeal to Reason, a socialist newspaper, has been suspended during the war.

WEST, TEX.—The News has suspended publication.

WAYNE, OKLA.—Publication of the Wayne Beacon, local weekly, has been suspended by O. L. Powell who purchased that paper six months ago from E. F. Little, its founder.

TALOGA, OKLA.—Publication of the Times has been suspended.

WESTPHALIA, MO.—The Volksblatt, which has been printed in German here many years by Captain Henry Castrop, will suspend publication soon according to recent information.

WAYNOKA, OKLA.—The Record has suspended publication.

PECKHAM, OKLA.—The Derrick, published here, has suspended.

FIRES.

PERRY, KAN.—The office of the Mirror was recently destroyed by fire with a loss of $500 to the plant, part of which is covered by insurance, and the complete loss of the building occupied by the paper. W. E. Cain is the editor and owner of the Mirror.

RECENT INCORPORATIONS.

NEW YORK.—Pan-American Magazine, printing and publishing: capital, $125,000; incorporators, William W. Rator, L. Elwyn Elliott, Clyde G. Gunn.

Republican Advertising Service, printing, publishing: capital, $25,000; incorporators, William J. Weber, David R. Hunter, C. N. Duncan.

Washington Print Shop, publishing, printing, designing: capital, $7,500; incorporators, E. Ullman, O. C. Kidney, A. J. Hanford, 601 West 174th st., N. Y.

Inter-American Movement, printing, publishing: capital, $50,000; incorporators, B. Davalos, J. P. Santamaria, A. Mariscal, 601 W. 48th street.

American & Foreign Paper Corp., manufacture paper, paper products: capital, $50,000; incorporators, J. H.

A Gain of 73%

During the past four years the Detroit Free Press has enjoyed a gain of 73% in circulation. Character and solidity explain this increase. Advertising MUST pay in a medium which calls forth such a tremendous response from the public.

The Detroit Free Press

"MICHIGAN'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER."

VERREE & CONKLIN, Foreign Reps.
NEW YORK CHICAGO DETROIT

THE DAYTON SUNDAY NEWS

in the first five months of 1917 has carried 110,264 lines more local business than its only competitor.

With the Springfield News (the two at .055 per line) it's a great Sunday combination.

NEWS LEAGUE OF OHIO

DAYTON, OHIO.

I. A. Klein, Metropolitan Tower, N. Y.
John Glass, Peoples Gas Bldg., Chicago

Bardsley, A. Isaacson, B. H. Rohrey, 259 Broadway.

Washington Print Shop, printing, publishing, designing: capital, $7,500; E. Ullman, O. C. Kidney, A. J. Hanford, 601 W. 174th street.

Spanish Press of America, Inc.: capital, $25,000; incorporators, A. A. Marshal, L. H. Quade, P. Kaplan, 1,150 Eastern Parkway, Brooklyn.

CHICAGO.—National Drug Clerk, journal for drug clerks, official publication of National Association of Drug Clerks: capital, $10,000; incorporators, P. A. Mandabach, R. A. Mandabach and Paul J. Mandabach. Markus-Campbell Company: capital, $10,000; general publishing; incorporators, John G. Campbell, John D. Peterson and Herman A. Fischer, Jr.

Saul Brothers, printing and publishing: capital, $25,000; incorporators, J. Woodruff Saul, William R. Saul and Edwin A. Munger.

Mr. VERNON, ILL.—Mount Vernon Register Company: publishing and printing: capital, $10,000; incorporators, Maurice J. Sneed, Norman J. Sugg and Thomas H. Sneed.

EDWARDSVILLE, ILL.—Edwardsville Republican Company, to publish a newspaper and do a general printing business: capital, $8,000; incorporators, A. U. Barco, Irma Jriege, Jesse R. Brown and J. O. Monroe.

BISMARCK, N. D.—Grand Forks American: capital, $100,000; incorporators, John A. Hagen, A. G. Sorlie.

BOSTON.—Lewis J. Hewitt Company printing and publishing: capital, $30,000; incorporators, Frank Lewis, West Roxbury: Lewis J. Hewitt, Brighton: and Henry D. Wiggin, Jr., of Brookline.

THE TERRE HAUTE TRIBUNE

The big home evening paper of its section of Indiana.

In Charge of Foreign Advertising
G. LOGAN PAYNE COMPANY
New York Chicago Boston Detroit

BUFFALO EVENING NEWS

The only Buffalo newspaper that occupies its advertising columns. Many of our advertisers use our columns exclusively. The above is one of the many reasons WHY?

EDWARD H. BUTLER, Editor and Pub.
Represented in the Western Field by KELLY-SMITH COMPANY,
220 Fifth Ave., NEW YORK.
Lyttel Building, CHICAGO.

IN THE AD FIELD.

ADVERTISING ACCOUNTS NOW BEING PLACED BY THE AGENCIES.

BEERS, Flatiron Bldg., N. Y., and Havana, Cuba—Placing advertising in Spanish papers of Cuba for Elon College, N. C.; Lawrence Academy, Mass.; Keewatin Academy, Wis., and Mount Pleasant Academy, N. Y.

AYER, 300 Chestnut st., Philadelphia—Placing advertising for the Speco Mfg. Co., "Spark Plug Energizer," 1777 Broadway, N. Y.

FEDERAL, 6 E. 39th st., N. Y.—Reported placing advertising for Chas. B. Knox, "Knox Gelatines," Johnstown, N. Y.

Also placing advertising account for the Roman Meal Co., breakfast food and laxative, Toronto.

Placing 360-line, 4-time orders with some N. Y. State and New England newspapers for Many-Use Oil Co., 113 Chambers st., N. Y.

HAWLEY, 347 5th av., N. Y.—Reported that a $1,000,000 advertising campaign against the liquor traffic in "wet" states will shortly be started for the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ.

LE VENE, Claus Spreckels Bldg., San Francisco—Placing orders with newspapers for the Oceanic S. S. Co., San Francisco.

McCANN, 61 B'way, N. Y.—Placing the advertising account of Borden's Condensed Milk Co., 108 Hudson st., N. Y.

McJUNKIN, 35 S. Dearborn st., Chicago—Will place orders with newspapers for the Heppes-Nelson Co., "Asphalt Paint," roofing and shingles, 4505 Fillmore st., Chicago.

MORGAN, 44 E. 23d st., N. Y.—Placing national advertising of Emerson Phonograph Co., "Emerson Records," 3 W. 35th st., N. Y. New York City advertising will be placed

St. Paul and the Northwest

best can be reached by advertising your wares in the columns of the

ST. PAUL DISPATCH and ST. PAUL PIONEER PRESS

In St. Paul, the St. Paul Dispatch has an average total daily circulation of 88,679; the St. Paul Pioneer Press, an average total daily circulation of 45,529; the St. Paul Sunday Pioneer Press, an average total Sunday circulation of 47,802. They also enter thousands of homes, located in cities, towns and rich farming districts of the Northwest.

TOTAL CIRCULATION
St. Paul Dispatch (daily). Over $1,000.
St. Paul Pioneer Press (daily). Over $4,000.
Sunday Pioneer Press (Sunday). Over $7,000.

They Cover The Field.

It Pays to Advertise in the ST. LOUIS TIMES

Now generally recognized as the HOME NEWSPAPER OF ST. LOUIS.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
260 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK.
Mallory Building, CHICAGO.
301 Devonshire Street, BOSTON.
Krepps Building, DETROIT.

THE Philadelphia Bulletin HAS THE Largest TWO-Cent Circulation in the East.

Net Daily Paid Average for June

358,191 Copies

WILLIAM L. McLEAN, Publisher.

by Gardiner, Atkinson & Wells, 150 Madison av., N. Y.

Also placing the advertising of Hessig-Ellis Drug Co., "Q-Ban" hair color, Memphis, Tenn.

PICARD, 50 E. 42d st., N. Y.—Placing one-time special newspaper copy with a few selected newspapers for the Underwood Typewriter Co., 20 Vesey st., N. Y.

PRESBREY, 436 4th av., N. Y.—Placing the advertising of Chase Motor Truck Co., farm tractors, Syracuse, N. Y.

SEAMAN, 461 8th av., N. Y.—Reported to be making up a list of newspapers for the Kellogg Products Co., "Nut Margarine," Buffalo, N. Y.

WHIDDEN, Widener Bldg., Philadelphia—Placing 42-line 4-time orders with Pennsylvania newspapers for Lake Paupac Co.

ELLNER, 35 W. 39th st., N. Y.—Placing the advertising of Kalamazoo Parchment Paper Co., Kalamazoo, Mich.; Ariston Hat Co., Hecht Bros., O. E. Chaney & Co., Dental & Toilet Prod. Co., all of New York.

RICH, First Natl. Bank Bg., Pittsburgh—Placing the accounts of Waverly Novelty Co., Penn Toy Co., Liberty Refining Co., Hoffman Corr. School of Bookkeeping, Bennett, Hollander & Lewis, Follows Efficiency Bureau, of Pittsburgh.

ERWIN & WASEY, Garland Bldg., Chicago—Placing the account of the Forhan Co., Inc., dental preparations, N. Y.

TAYLOR - CRITCHFIELD - CLAGUE, Brooks Bldg., Chicago—Placing orders in agricultural publications for the Hercules Mfg. Co., Centerville, Ia.

Also making up lists for the advertising of Bohon Buggy Co., Harrodsburg, Ky.

Placing 3-time, 336-line orders with some Middle West newspapers for Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., Akron.

URMY, 41 Park Row, N. Y.—Placing the account of Earl & Wilson, N. Y.

FULLER, Studebaker Bldg., Chicago—Making contracts with daily newspapers for E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago.

Sending out orders to mail order papers and magazines for the adver-

THE NEW YORK EVENING JOURNAL

has the largest circulation of any newspaper in America.

MONTREAL DAILY MAIL

The circulation of the Daily Mail in Greater Montreal is larger than that of any other Montreal morning newspaper, English or French.

Verve & Conklin, Inc., 225 6th Av., N. Y.
I. S. Wallis & Son, 1st Nat. Bldg., Chicago

tising of Robinson Cabinet Co., "Comfort Chemical Closet," Toledo, Ohio.

SNITZLER, Garland Bldg., Chicago—Making contracts with newspapers for Whole Grain Wheat Co., Chicago.

DILG, Hearst Bldg., Chicago—Making contracts with daily newspapers for the Alpha Beverage Co., Chicago.

GARDNER, 315 N. 10th st., St. Louis—Sending contracts to daily newspapers for advertising of Valier & Spies Milling Co., St. Louis.

LORD & THOMAS, Mallers Bldg., Chicago—Contemplating resuming contracts in the near future for the Mitchell Motors Co., Racine, Wis.

MILLER, Nasby Bldg., Toledo, Ohio—Secured the account of Hurst Mfg. Co., Canton, Ohio, and is making up a list of farm papers.

THOMPSON-KOCH, 22 W. 6th av., Cincinnati, Ohio—Making contracts quite generally for the Neurglyne Co., Wheeling W. Va.

THOMPSON, 242 Madison av., N. Y.—Will shortly place orders with some Southern newspapers for Andrew Jergens Co., soaps, etc., Cincinnati, Ohio.

NICHOLS, 2 E. Jackson Blvd., Chicago—Placing orders in agricultural publications for the Banner Tailoring Co. and Knickerbocker Tailoring Co., Chicago.

FAWCETT, Burns Bldg., Colorado Springs, Colo.—Sending out copy advertising Pike's Peak region for fall tourists to large city newspapers and to papers in Kansas and Oklahoma.

Placing advertising of Glen Eyrie Garden Co., and Inhalatum Chemical Co. in Kansas, Oklahoma, Nebraska and Texas newspapers.

CHAMBERS, Maison Blanche Bldg., New Orleans—Sending out copy to Southern newspapers for L. Lyons & Co., Ltd., New Orleans.

ASKING RATES—J. Walter Thompson Co., 242 Madison av., N. Y., asking rates in Canadian newspapers.

A Scandinavian newspaper is to be started at Helena, Mont., by Rev. A. Smedstad, pastor of the Scandinavian Methodist Church.

THE SYRACUSE POST-STANDARD

—Central New York's FAVORITE newspaper—increases its circulation lead:

Daily (Net Paid) 55,498

April, 1917 Figures—A.B.C. Basis. —Only morning paper in the metropolis of a rich, agricultural and manufacturing territory.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
250 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK.
Mallory Building, Chicago.
301 Devonshire St., BOSTON.
Krepps Building, DETROIT

THE JOURNAL IS THE ONLY MORNING AND SUNDAY PAPER PUBLISHED IN DAYTON, OHIO

STORY, BROOKS & FINLEY, Inc.
Fifth Ave. Bldg., NEW YORK.
Mutual Life Bldg., PHILADELPHIA
People's Gas Building, CHICAGO.

FUNDS FOR GOOD CAUSE.

The New York Press Club, through its president, Edward Percy Howard, is appealing to the newspaper and advertising men of the country for funds to aid the widow of "Tedy" Hamilton, who died a year ago. Mrs. Hamilton is destitute, as her husband's fortune was swept away in patent ventures and patent suits during the later years of his life.

Mr. Hamilton was known from the Atlantic to the Pacific Coast and from Calgary to Galveston as the king of the old school of press agents, through his long connection with Barnum & Bailey's circus and other amusement enterprises.

JEFFRIES' NEW WORK.

Frank S. Jeffries of Des Moines has joined the Harwood Newspaper Syndicate and will succeed F. F. Swan as editor on the Clarion (Ia.) Clipper. Mr. Jeffries formerly was state editor for the Des Moines Register and Tribune but resigned to take the secretaryship to the local mayor.

Herbert H. Harwood is owner of the Harwood newspapers, located at Rockell City and Clarion. A. R. Hultman, who was also connected with the Register and Tribune, is handling the editorial end on the Rockwell City paper.

NEW A.N.P.A. MEMBERS.

The American Newspaper Publishers Association has elected the Chicago Daily Jewish Courier to active membership and the Bradford (Pa.) Era to associate membership.

THE KANSAS CITY STAR

MORNING—EVENING—SUNDAY

Each Issue
Over 200,000 Circulation

THE
Boston Herald
(Morning and Sunday) and the Boston Traveler
(Evening)

Net Paid Circulation:

DAILY, over 208,000
Sunday, over 119,000

Member Audit Bureau of Circulations

Joliet, Ill. (The PITTSBURGH of the West)

Surrounded by the most fertile agricultural section in the Illinois corn belt. Covered by but one daily newspaper.

The Herald-News

ALCORN-HENKEL, Representative
New York Chicago

"EDDIE" RIGGS FOR CENSOR.

If a war news censorship comes in the United States, William E. Lewis editor of the New York Morning Telegraph, has a candidate for the headship—his name is Edward Riggs, one of the most efficient and popular newspaper men America has produced. For several years past Mr. Riggs has been assistant to the president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad.

Editor Lewis says:

"No patriotic editor would object to the censoring of Washington or other news relative to the war, in its conduct or in its progress, if he could be sure that the controlling power of such censorship were exercised by a man of proved judgment and recognized standing.

"It is an axiom that the test of a newspaper man's value lies in what he does not print, instead of what he does.

"When censorship comes, the Morning Telegraph has its own candidate for the headship.

"Edward G. Riggs is doubtless the best known of the living political writers of America. He had his training and did his greatest work on the New York Sun, which implies that his training and his work were done under the greatest and the ablest editors of America, prior to the existing ownership.

"Mr. Riggs' years of study of American conditions and policies, his intimate acquaintance with statesmen and the practical politicians of the country, as well as a close knowledge of the great business affairs and necessities of America, eminently qualify him for the place of chief censor. The judgment of the Morning Telegraph in this behalf, if a more automobile advertising the first four months of the year than its next competitor.

EVERY EVENING

Delaware's LEADING Newspaper

CARRIED 22,787 LINES

EVERY EVENING

ALWAYS LEADS IN WILMINGTON

DELAWARE

The wealthiest city per capita in America.

BRYANT, GRIFFITH & FREDRICKS
New York Boston Chicago

BRIDGEPORT

CONNECTICUT
(The Essen of America)

The Prosperity Center of the United States and the Industrial Center of New England.

THE

Post & Telegram

(Evening) (Morning)

Cover This Field Absolutely.

Members of the A. B. C.

JULIUS MATHEWS, Representative
1 Beacon Street, BOSTON
171 Madison Avenue, NEW YORK
Hartford Building, CHICAGO

DALLAS EVENING JOURNAL

Published by
A. H. Belo & Co.

Covers the afternoon field as completely as does the Dallas News in the morning 37,659 NET PAID average during 3 months period ending April 1, 1917. P. O. Report.
LARGEST AFTERNOON Circulation.
J. D. LORENTZ, Manager Eastern Dept.
738 Tribune Building, NEW YORK vote could be taken, would be supported by the almost unanimous voice of the editors and publishers of the United States.

"Mr. Riggs' experience as a newspaper man has equipped him with a knowledge of what constitutes news, and also enables him to recognize at once the sort of information which it is impolitic, unwise and against the public interest to print.

"It is much to be doubted if there is an honest editor in America who would urge objection to the selection of Mr. Riggs to the position for which he is suggested. It is true that Mr. Riggs has written no romances, and has conducted no muckraking enterprises; but, really, when the qualifications of a censor are carefully and prayerfully considered, it will not be found that a blower of fictional soap bubbles, a qualified press agent, or an investigator of official garbage dumps, possesses them in their best form.

"What is required is a man of breadth of mind, technical knowledge of newspaper making, executive ability, the years of work and an almost universal acquaintance with individuals, at the head of affairs, all of which are comprehended in Mr. Riggs. A censorship trusted to him and not to academic publicists, or youths recently graduated from Annapolis or West Point, will be welcomed by the press of America. Almost any other sort of a chief censor than the one described would meet not only with disregard, but it is no sure thing that his rulings would be observed.

"Editors are not superstitious folk. They rarely worship power or position. As a rule, they recognize logic, and many of them have developed a sound sense of the proprieties. They have a high appreciation of justice, but insist that it be done to them and their newspapers equally as they are obliged to do it to others. Editors will not highly revere a censor who doesn't know his business.

"Speaking again of Mr. Riggs, he is personally known to most of the newspaper profession in America, and those who do not know him have heard of him. They would realize, first, the good faith of any rulings or directions he might issue, and second, they would recognize the propriety of them."

EDITOR'S AUTO KILLS.

Willis J. Abbott, editor of the New York American, last week accidentally ran down and killed a little girl, who darted in front of the car and was crushed before Mr. Abbott could veer the machine.

THE DETROIT JOURNAL

with over 100,000 net paid Circulation daily is indispensable in covering Detroit and surrounding territory.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.,
New York Chicago Boston Detroit

Newark Star-Eagle
NEW JERSEY'S
LARGEST PENNY PAPER

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.,
New York Chicago Boston Detroit

THE ORIGIN OF NEWSPAPERS.

If we are asked where we got our newspapers, says Charles L. Miller, editor of the New York Times, "the answer is that we got them from the divine command. 'Let there be light.' It is certain that darkness would have brooded on the face of the deep for all time if it had not been for the newspapers or something like the newspapers.

The desire to know what is going on is not a modern development. Back in the tribal days primitive man had the same desire for information as we have today. He wanted to know the result of the hunt, the position of the enemy, and the gossip current among his fellow tribesmen. As civilization advanced, this want became more complex. Paul, speaking on Mars Hill, mentioned the love of news common among the Athenians.

One of the earliest methods for the dissemination of news was the letter. When Cicero was sent as Governor to Cilicia he asked a friend to send him the news of Rome.

The friend employed scribes, the reporters of that day, to gather information and prepare the letters. The man who wrote the first letters reported everything from the procedure of the Senate to the result of the latest gladiatorial contest.

Cicero objected to his methods and complained that the letters contained items that he would not have bothered with when at home. What he wanted, he explains, was advance information to keep him in touch with the political movements of the time.

Volumes of news letters have come down to us showing that the letter-writing continued through the middle ages.

The church and the state both attempted to wipe out the custom. In April, 1572, Pope Pius V issued a bull against the letters. This was a few months before the massacre on St. Bartholomew's Day. His successor issued another bull against them in September, 1572, a few weeks after the massacre, directing that writers should be condemned to the galleys.

That was an unpleasant age in which to be engaged in the newspaper business.

The first newspapers made their appearance in Pekin, but the West was not far behind. About 50 B. C. the Roman Government began publishing an official organ. This had to be written by hand, so few copies were issued. This paper gave the general news, and was not much

The Plain Dealer

First Newspaper of Cleveland, Sixth City prints a far greater total of paid advertising and paid advertisements than any other newspaper in

CLEVELAND

Over 150,000 Daily. || Over 200,000 Sunday.

JOHN B. WOODWARD, Eastern Advertising Representative, Times Bg., N. Y.
JOHN GLASS, Western Advertising Representative, Peoples Gas Bg., Chicago.

BALTIMORE CITY OF HOMES
and noted for its great industries and thrifty working classes, affords National Advertisers one of the best fields. Use the AMERICAN and STAR

Morning—Sunday Evening
Baltimore's greatest newspapers, to thoroughly cover city and state. Member A.B.C.
C. GEORGE KROGNES, CHICAGO.
VERREE & CONKLIN, Inc., New York

different from the newspapers of today.

After the invention of the printing press and movable type in the middle of the fifteenth century, private news letters were printed instead of written, but the opposition of the church and state prevented the appearance of regular newspapers until the beginning of the seventeenth century.

A paper began to appear in Holland in 1626.

In 1689 the first American paper began to circulate in Boston. Many of the papers began as government organs.

Civilization was delayed by the lack of newspapers in the early days. Mr. Miller believes and he gives it as his opinion that a free press probably would have prevented the French Revolution, as the discussion of the troubles of the people and of desirable reforms would have resulted in changed conditions.

Our newspapers form a great reserve against the growth of evils and at the same time give the discontented a chance to "blow off steam," an opportunity similar to that given by the outbursts at Cooper Union, in New York City, and at Hyde Park, in London.

FIRE DOES NO DAMAGE.

Excitement prevailed on August 11 at the office of Il Progresso, an Italian newspaper of New York, when a fire broke out. The blaze was put out in a few moments and no damage was done.

J. D. Strong has sold the Greenfield (Ia.) Tribune to E. W. Wells.

Washington Newspapers

Sworn statements of the newspapers at the National Capitol to the Post Office Department for the six months ending March 31, 1917:

Evening Star 83,194
Evening Times 35,569
Washington Post 34,293
Washington Herald 30,454

Since this statement the circulation of the Star, Times and Post has materially increased.

The special features of THE BUFFALO TIMES

have made it the most popular newspaper in
Western New York

NORMAN E. MACK, Proprietor.
VERREB & CONKLIN, Inc.
Special Advertising Representatives,
NEW YORK, DETROIT, CHICAGO

Schenectady POPULATION 100,000
EVENING Union Star
EXCEPT SUNDAY.

AUDITED CIRCULATION 20,643
Home circulation reaching best paid scientific, technical and skilled mechanics
in America.
LA COSTE & MAXWELL
Special Representatives
NEW YORK CHICAGO

OBITUARY NOTES.

GEORGE C. BLICKENSDE-
FER, inventor of the first typewriter that was ever adapted to the Chinese language and the maker of many more interesting and valuable mechanical devices, died on August 15 at Sound Beach, Ct., aged sixty-seven years. Hard work on inventions intended to aid in winning the war is said to have been responsible for the illness that led to his death. He had been devoting his talents to improving the belts for loading machine guns and to a machine gun mount.

CHARLES E. SCHOOL, for many years a newspaper editor and publisher in Philadelphia, died last week in that city. Had he lived until August 10 he would have been seventy-six years old. He took up newspaper work in 1839 and during a portion of the Civil War was a war correspondent. On April 2, 1866, he founded the Philadelphia Evening Star and remained with that publication for twenty-two years, becoming one of the editors of the Record in 1888. Ten years later he joined the Wanamaker advertising department as a writer of booklets. In 1900, at the instance of Rodman Wanamaker, he got up the Wanamaker Diary, which then became an annual feature.

MIGUEL ALMEREYDA, editor of the Bonnet Rouge, Paris, who was under arrest on a charge of sedition, died on August 15 in a prison in-

If this territory presents a sales problem to you, the
Merchandising Service Department

of the Boston American will, upon request, make a trade investigation covering various sections of Metropolitan Boston and submit a report which will help you solve that problem. Ask how this department works.

BOSTON AMERICAN

W. D. BOYCE CO.
500-514 North Dearborn St., CHICAGO
905 Metropolitan Tower, NEW YORK
PUBLISHER

THE INDIANA DAILY TIMES

INDIANAPOLIS
THE FARMING BUSINESS
High-class farm weekly, magazine form.
BOYCE'S WEEKLIES
The Saturday Blade, Chicago Ledger.
THE LONE SCOUT

"BOYCE'S" IS A SYNONYM for SUCCESSFUL ADVERTISING

Peoria TRANSCRIPT
Only morning newspaper in Peoria.
Peoria JOURNAL

Only evening paper in Peoria with Associated Press franchise. Leads in circulation and advertising. Member A.B.C.
SUNDAY JOURNAL-TRANSCRIPT.
Combination Advertising Rate
HENRY M. PINDELL, Proprietor.
CHAS. H. EDDY CO., Representative.
NEW YORK BOSTON CHICAGO

firmary from hemorrhage of the lungs.

PATRICK HERRIGAN, known to and loved by many Syracuse (N. Y.) newspaper men as the janitor of the Post-Standard, died in Syracuse last week of blood-poisoning, aged fifty-five years. His demise occurred on the twenty-third anniversary of his connection with the Post-Standard, which printed an editorial mourning his loss and characterizing him as "the perfect janitor."

GEORGE A. DELBERT, circulation agent for the Detroit Free Press at Bay City, Mich., was drowned in the Kawkawlin River last week. He was thirty-five years old.

MISS LUCY CARSON, who has been a compositor, proofreader and special writer for a Woodland (Colo.) newspaper for twenty-five years, died recently following a short illness. She was fifty years old.

CICERO VALERIUS WALLS, a veteran Illinois newspaper man, died in Cerro Gordo, Ill., last week, aged sixty-nine years. He had been in newspaper work since the 60's and had been connected with the following Illinois newspapers: Newman Independent, Moultrie Chronicle, Arcola Record, Mattoon Daily Star, Shelby Leader, Urbana Daily Courier, Assumption Independent, Paris Daily Gazette, Paris Daily Beacon and Paris Daily News.

O. C. BANKER, linotype operator for the Coffeyville (Kan.) Sun, died recently.

GEORGE M. S. HORTON, for fifteen years a member of the editorial staff of the New York Tribune, died on August 12 in Nutley, N. J. He was born in Boston and he spent his life in newspaper work. Previous to 1889 he edited the children's department of the Tribune and was also connected with the business department.

Mr. Horton was also an authority on art and will be remembered by old readers of THE FOURTH ESTATE as one of the judges in its prize poster competition in 1896.

CHARLES CARROLL CARLTON, who was for ten years the Washington correspondent of the San Fran-

The BEST Advertising BUY in CLEVELAND
THE LEADER
Morning and Sunday, and
THE NEWS

Quality Evening Newspaper
With Quantity Circulation
Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.,
260 Fifth Ave., NEW YORK
Mallers Building, CHICAGO
301 Devonshire St., BOSTON
Krepps Building, DETROIT

THE NEW ORLEANS
ITEM

Largest Afternoon Circulation in the entire South.
(April A.B.C. Not Paid Statement)
Sunday 68,875 Daily 55,041
THE JOHN BUDD COMPANY
NEW YORK CHICAGO ST. LOUIS

cisco Call and the New York correspondent of the same paper for the same period, died on Aug. 10 in Bayside, L. I. He was born in Terre Haute, Ind., and was well known as a journalist.

His first newspaper experience was in Guthrie, Okla., in the early days of that city. He resigned from the Call three years ago on account of illness.

HARRY J. HOWARD, managing editor of the Toledo News-Bee, died in Toledo on August 11 following a general nervous breakdown. He was forty-eight years old.

CHARLES EDWIN MERRIHEW, for many years dramatic editor of the Albany (N. Y.) Argus, died on August 9 at Ridgewood, N. J. He was sixty years old.

Mr. Merrihew was born in Albany and was educated there. As a young man he joined the Argus, retiring from that paper eleven years ago.

OLE MAY, cartoonist for the Newark (N. J.) Star-Eagle, died last week in Long Branch, N. J., from injuries received a week ago in an auto accident at Elberon.

CLARENCE D. HAMILTON, Columbus (Ohio) advertising solicitor, died of hardening of the arteries last week in Columbus.

EVERY WEEK MAY MOVE WEST
It is reported that Every Week will shortly be printed at the Springfield (Ohio) plant of the Crowell Publishing Company.

This report was verified for THE FOURTH ESTATE by J. S. Seymour of the Crowell Publishing Company, who made the following statement:

"Beginning with the issue of September 24, Every Week will be printed in our plant in Springfield, Ohio, and mailed from there, as are the Woman's Home Companion, the American Magazine and Farm & Fireside. There will be no shifts in the force, excepting in the mechanical and mailing departments."

FOR GEORGIA AUTOISTS.

The Georgia State Automobile Association will publish a monthly magazine devoted to the interests of motorists in general. The editorial staff has not been announced.

THE PITTSBURG DISPATCH

is the daily buying guide in thousands of thrifty households.

H. C. Roeb, Real Est. Trust Bldg., Phila.
W. G. Brooke, 325 Fifth Ave., New York
Ford-Parsons Co., Michigan Av., Chicago
W. B. Edge, Atlantic City, N. J.
Dorland Co., 19 Regent St., London, Eng.

The City of Richmond qualified
VIRGINIA, has 15,309 voters
THE TIMES-DISPATCH
RICHMOND.

is delivered 12,000 of the city's daily into the best homes.
In all VIRGINIA it's the same.
STORY, BROOKS & FINLEY, Inc.
New York Philadelphia Chicago

NEW PLANT IN SPRINGFIELD.

The Springfield (Ill.) News-Record has just changed from a seven-column format to the eight-column, 12½-in form and has installed a twenty-four page press to handle the new sheet.

With the installation of the press, the News-Record has replaced every bit of the plant occupied upon the consolidation of the News and the Record two years and a half ago.

As soon as the old press is removed, the front of the building will be remodelled, providing a handsome business office.

New stereotype equipment, a new steam compressor and other equipment was installed with the press and the composing room has been fitted with all steel furniture.

Publisher J. David Stern is also planning the installation of another Model 14 Linotype this fall, giving the News-Record a battery of six machines—two Model 14's, three Model 5's and a rebuilt Model 1.

SWISS PAPER GAGGED FOR PRAISING WILSON.

The State Department has been informed that the Swiss government has suppressed the Berne Freiheit Zeitung, a small newspaper printed in the German language, on the ground that it violated neutrality by its outspoken approval of the policies of the United States as formulated by President Wilson.

The Circulation of the NEW YORK EVENING MAIL

represents a greater purchasing power per unit of circulation than is found in any other New York
Evening Paper.

A Powerful List is the MILWAUKEE GERMANIA LIST

CIRCULATION

Germania Herald 36,989
Only German Morning daily in Milwaukee
Sonntag Post 37,000
Only German Sunday daily in Milwaukee
Weekly Germania 107,413
(German Farm Journal) Weekly, 103,333
Die Rundschau, Weekly, 25,002

Eastern Representative
LOUIS KLEBAHN
1 West 84th Street NEW YORK
Telephone 816 Greeley

A National American Daily and Sunday printed in the Polish language reaching over 150,000 readers.

A Splendid Advertising Medium
Phone Stuyvesant 2004
90 East 10th St., NEW YORK

THE AD SERVICE OF A NEWSPAPER.

(Continued from Twelfth Page.)

Davenport, Ia., Denver, Colo., or any other of the hundreds of small cities. However, the principles governing the operation of a service department are the same regardless of the size of the city or its location. It is the principles of operation that I am going to attempt to describe to you. [See Table on Twelfth Page.]

This plan takes into consideration the fact that there is a common ground on which newspaper publisher and manufacturer can meet. Here is a manufacturer who is in business to make and sell a product. To sell a product a market must be found. The market found, there are certain conditions peculiar to that market which must be met.

Then there is the newspaper publisher who has space to sell. His publication covers a desirable market, he knows what conditions are in his market and has a method of assisting the manufacturer to get in.

On the one hand, you have a manufacturer who is anxious to find new outlets for his product. On the other, a publisher who has a market to offer and a practical method of capturing it.

Surely here is a common ground on which the two interested parties can meet, and it shouldn't be a difficult thing for them to get together for mutual satisfaction with a service department available, operated on a plan similar to the one given above.

The Open Door
to the workshop of the world

The Philadelphia Record

Special Representatives
STORY, BROOKS & FINLEY
Fifth Ave. Bldg., NEW YORK
Peoples Gas Bldg., CHICAGO

THE ST. LOUIS WESTLICHE POST

reaches the GERMAN reading and speaking population of St. Louis
as no other medium can.

THE ONLY POLISH DAILY
IN NEW ENGLAND

Kurier Bostonski

27 Beverly St., BOSTON, MASS reaches 60,000 Poles in New England.
They want to buy your goods

Use Kurier Bostonski.

WAR TAXES HIGH AND UNSOUND.

(Continued from Second Page.)

program has been found in the inability to maintain a solid front. It was, perhaps, not to be wondered at that some publishers should balk at making common cause with magazine publishers and periodical men, but the fatal flaw was the extent to which the small newspaper publishers have held aloof from the publishers of metropolitan dailies.

It is the suspicion in some quarters that the framers of the Revenue Act were not un mindful of the strategy of dividing the newspaper house against itself.

In the plan for second-class postage increase a sop was thrown to the publishers of small dailies and weeklies by leaving undisturbed the free-in-county privilege and by providing, under the House bill, a zone system that gave each local publisher a marked advantage over outside publishers seeking circulation in his immediate territory.

The Senate provision for the taxation of newspaper income is so worded that the small publisher who nets $4,000 or less per year will pay no special tax.

As means of persuading the small publishers, who notoriously have potent influence with the lawmakers from the small towns and rural districts, to stand shoulder to shoulder with the big publishers, the conductors of the present fight on special taxation of newspapers are pointing out that present exemptions may not stand if Congress becomes hard pressed for money as the war proceeds.

The tax of five cents on telegraph, radio and long distance telephone messages costing more than 15 cents was approved by the Senate as submitted by the finance committee. It is estimated to yield $7,000,000.

While a small item in itself, it bulks large on the books of newspapers and is a strong source of anxiety.

The Hayfield (Minn.) Transcript and the Guard have been consolidated.

MONTREAL LA PRESSE

is CANADA'S largest and wealthiest city—sixth in America in population; fourth largest French city in the world—and a wonderfully fine market for all kinds of advertised goods.

is Canada's largest circulating daily—over 145,000 and still growing—and it thoroughly covers Montreal's population, which is over 700,000, and of which 70 per cent is French Canadian element. Get particulars

WAT J. MORTON CO., Special Reps.
NEW YORK, Fifth Ave. Building
CHICAGO, Tribune Building
LONDON, ENG., 49 Ludlow Avenue
Newspaper House
PARIS, 6 rue du Rocher.

THE JEWISH MORNING JOURNAL NEW YORK CITY

carries more advertising than any other Jewish newspaper. Circulation in New York City largest of all foreign language newspapers.

Member A. B. C.

SATISFIED TRADE FOR DEALERS.

(Copyright, Mallory, Mitchell & Faust.)
Does it pay the dealer to handle advertised products?

This might be considered almost synonymous with the question, "Does it pay to make sure your customers will be satisfied customers?"

Take a specific case. A customer comes into your store and asks for a well-known brand of mince meat which she has seen advertised extensively. The dealer hands her the size of package she desires and she walks away a perfectly satisfied customer. She has received exactly what she wished.

She is satisfied!
More than that, her respect for this dealer and his store is heightened. He has established with her a reputation for handling goods of best quality.

Contrast this sale with another in a different store which does not handle advertised products. Another lady comes in and asks for the same article. This dealer does not carry the advertised brand asked for, but takes from the shelf an unadvertised brand which he offers instead. He assures her it is "just as good," and after an argument perhaps she accepts it.

But she is manifestly disappointed. She has not received just what she wanted.

She has accepted the dealer's substitute, but down in her heart she is apt to distrust his statement. She is apt to feel skeptical about her purchase, and to be no longer in a buying frame of mind. And probably she goes out and to a different store to complete her purchases. At least she will probably go elsewhere next time.

Or it may be that she firmly refuses to accept the substitute offered, in spite of the dealer's argument.

She knows what she wants and insists upon having it.

She leaves the store without making a purchase and goes elsewhere. Her respect for that dealer and his store is lessened. She has gone away more than just dissatisfied. She resents the attempt of the dealer to persuade her that she did not know what she wanted.

It pays the dealer to handle advertised products. Advertised products

NEW YORK America's Greatest Jewish Community THE DAY

America's Foremost Jewish Daily.

Reaches the cream of purchasing power of the Jewish element in America.

CIRCULATION OVER 70,000
Despite advance in price from one to two cents.

THE DAY The National Jewish Daily.

Member A. B. C.

Main Publication Office:
189 East Broadway, NEW YORK

NARODNI List

Established 1898.

An American newspaper published every day in the year in the Croatian Language

Sworn Circulation as required by law, OCTOBER, 1, 1916... 25,066

Ideal Newspaper for National Advertisers
Phone 2939 Beekman
61 Park Row, NEW YORK

ducts are acceptable to the customer. And satisfied customers mean a healthy business for the dealer.

NEWSPAPER PUBLICITY FINDS MISSING GIRLS.

"Last week," declares Mrs. Grace Humiston, special investigator of the New York City police department, "the New York Evening Journal published the pictures and stories of missing girls. From this publicity three girls have been found. And each one read the story of herself and wrote to me."

"Yet we are blamed for 'using the newspapers' as a medium. Even the mother of one of these recovered girls dreaded to have her daughter's name in print."

"Shrinking from publicity is what those responsible for missing girls rely upon to shield themselves."

"Turn sunlight into cellars and by some divine alchemy flowers and verdure spring where rats and vermin revelled in the darkness."

"I found a trace of one missing girl some time ago, and told the family lawyer. He suggested that there be no publicity and no attempt to bring her back home 'for the sake of her family.'"

"I am not in this work for the sake of any family, but for the sake of the girls, and they are coming back if I can bring them. If the home is closed to them, then, Ruth Haven shall be wide open."

Leslie M. Fowler has sold his interest in the Racine (Wis.) Times.

THE WASHINGTON POST

WASHINGTON, D. C.

Net Paid Daily Circulation

For the Month of July, 1917

46,650

DAILY 2c—SUNDAY 8c

(Member A. B. C.)

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
New York Chicago Boston Detroit

WORLD'S GREATEST WAR NEWS SERVICE

Close-Ups of the American expeditionary forces in trench and camp by cable and letters which, in graphic style, interpret, augment and supplement the official dispatches.

The London Times Cable Service

gives "hot-off-the-cable" analyses of the war situation by the "Old Thunderer's" military and naval experts, the descriptive classics of its war correspondents at the front, and comments on the world's great upheaval by geniuses of universal fame. Service averages 2000 words daily, skeletonized to half length and wired to subscribers at night rates from nearest relay points. Cable tolls paid by us.

FOR MORNING PAPERS—A great success, as demonstrated by a list of subscribers including the New York Sun, Washington Post, etc.

FOR EVENING PAPERS—Equally successful, as being proved by the Boston Transcript, Pittsburg Sun, St. Louis Star, Fort Worth Star-Telegram, Birmingham News, etc.

THREE MONTHS' TRIAL CONTRACT—This arrangement will be made for papers wishing to try the service out.

We will Share our War Correspondents with You!

We have now on the firing line two of America's most fearless descriptive writers and news-gatherers who are watching every move of our Soldiers.

RAYMOND G. CARROLL, star feature writer of the Public Ledger, who as foreign correspondent has won his spurs in both hemispheres, is covering our boys at the front in graphic cables and mail features for our Sunday and daily clients.

HENRI BAZIN, formerly of the Evening Ledger home staff, now its correspondent at the front, is one of the most daring writers upon the firing line. Lately he received a bullet through his helmet and, as a reward for his courage, the Croix de Guerre from the French Government.

We syndicate all of these war news services to newspapers throughout the United States.

For rates wire or write

THE LEDGER SYNDICATE

INDEPENDENCE SQUARE
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

A NEWSPAPER FOR
THE MAKERS OF NEWSPAPERS
AND INVESTORS IN
ADVERTISING

*Published Weekly at 232 West
59th Street (Near Broadway)*

NEW YORK CITY

SATURDAY, AUG. 25, 1917

THE FOURTH ESTATE

"EDMUND BURKE SAID
that there were Three Estates
in Parliament, but in the Reporter's Gallery yonder there
sat a 'Fourth Estate' more important far than they all."
—Carlyle's "Heroes and Hero Worship." Lecture V.

PRICE 10 CENTS.
TWO DOLLARS A YEAR

ESTABLISHED
1894

No. 1226.

Beating Yesterday

THINK of Cleveland and you think of the Plain Dealer; but that reputation did not spring up over night. It has been built by honest efforts to satisfy both Plain Dealer readers and advertisers. Still, the limit has not been reached; the Plain Dealer is in no sense content to rest upon past performances.

It is the Plain Dealer's unceasing effort to BEAT YESTERDAY that makes it a good home paper, and a most profitable medium in which to advertise.

If you are an advertiser about to launch a selling campaign in Cleveland and northern Ohio, or if you are at all interested in authentic information regarding the territory covered by the Plain Dealer, you need the Plain Dealer's Handbook. This book is a carefully compiled analysis, founded on facts. It is free, and yours for the asking.

The Plain Dealer

FIRST NEWSPAPER OF CLEVELAND, SIXTH CITY

Western Advertising Representative:

JOHN GLASS

CHICAGO, Peoples Gas Building

Eastern Advertising Representative:

JOHN B. WOODWARD

Times Building, NEW YORK

CONGRESS STILL BUSY WITH WAR TAX MAZE.

POSTAL AUTHORITIES BAN ZONE SYSTEM AND FAVOR TAX ON AD SECTIONS - SUPER-TAX IN ABEYANCE.

It is anybody's guess what sort of a tax burden the Congress of the United States will finally decide to saddle upon the newspapers as a part of the "war program," but one thing is certain and that is that this taxation proposition is not to be rushed through quite so hurriedly as was predicted in some quarters.

Every added day of deliberation is to the advantage of the newspapers in that it allows more time for the filing of the eleventh-hour protests.

Newspaper publishers, be it said to their credit, have continued the fight to the last ditch, and whether or not any votes have been changed by the process, the force of the protests is likely to be felt when the revenue measure goes to "conference" in order that a compromise may be effected between the House and Senate proposals.

Latterly, a number of newspaper makers have, in their kicks to Congress, been shrewdly killing two birds with one stone by registering complaint against the publishers' profit tax and the second-class rate increase and at the same time forcing anew to the attention of Congress the burdens growing out of the news print situation.

Perhaps the most interesting development of the past week in the Senate debate of the war revenue measure was the stand taken by Senator Hardwick, to whose remarks a certain significance attaches because of his recognized position as the spokesman of the Post Office Department.

The mouthpiece of the Postmaster General in the upper house of Congress came out, first of all, against the proposition to increase first class postage—a war measure already endorsed by a majority of both houses of Congress—and then he disclosed that the Post Office Department was not satisfied with either of the plans for an increase in second-class rates approved in Congress, neither the zone system approved by the House of Representatives last May, nor yet the flat increase embodied in the Senate bill as revised by the Senate Finance Committee.

TAX ON ADS ALONE LOOMS UP AGAIN.

According to Senator Hardwick the Post Office Department now stands committed to a scheme whereby the reading portions of newspapers and periodicals would continue to be transmitted through the mails at the present rate but whereby there would be a sharp increase in rate on the advertising portions of papers and periodicals.

Moreover this proxy for the Postmaster General has let the cat out of the bag to the effect that the plan of the Post Office Department is to do the very thing of which there has been forewarning in THE FOURTH ESTATE, namely, to make whatever increase may be authorized at the present time merely a forerunner of the other increases that would gradually work up the rate on advertising portions of papers to a plane far higher than anything heretofore mentioned as in contemplation.

The period of "readjustment" of which Senator Hardwick fondly dreams would extend over a number of years, and, according to his own prediction, the rate on the advertising portions of newspapers would go first, to 2 cents, then to 4 cents, later to 6 cents and finally to 8 cents.

Under such an arrangement publishers would ultimately be paying the Government about $50,000,000 a year more than at present, but the Senator from Georgia naively confesses that to his mind it is of little importance how much money Uncle Sam gets out of this proposition, at least for the time being.

The important thing, as he conceives it, is "to get this great injustice permanently adjusted, to get this wrong so that it can be righted and stay righted, so that newspapers cannot use their influence with public men in order to maintain a special privilege that they ought not to have when it comes to the commercial part and business end of their enterprises."

Incidentally, Senator Hardwick took occasion to line up with Senator Weeks of Massachusetts in opposition to the special tax upon the profits of publishers. Declaring that the special tax provision should be struck from the bill, he added: "Publishers ought to be taxed just like other business men, and not differently. That is right, that is just. But, on the other hand, they ought to have no special privilege or no special 'graft' in this Government or in the Post Office Department."

With attention in Congress centering, in so far as the "newspaper clauses" of the revenue bill are concerned more upon the second-class rate increase than upon the special tax upon publishers' profits, a three-sided fight has developed on the postal issue. In the main, however, the gauge of battle is between the thick-and-thin supporters of the Post Office Department, who want a flat rate (with a higher flat rate on advertising sections of publications), and the very considerable number of Congressmen, in both houses, who insist that no matter whether reading matter and advertisements take the same rate or different rates, the only fair way to charge for postal transportation is on some sort of a zone basis.

The Post Office Department, as revealed by its representatives in Congress, is now all against the zone plan—whatever may have been its supposed attitude a little while back.

With sudden solicitude, the view is now coming from the Post Office Department via Congressional channels, that a zone system would tend to encourage provincialism on the part of the press of the country. In the course of debate on this point the argument was advanced that newspapers are already provincial in a sense, whereupon Senator Hardwick pointed out that "the newspapers are a small part of the sum total"—it was the magazines, the "great weeklies and great monthlies" that he was solicitous might have "a national circulation and a national viewpoint."

Just here it may be added that this appears to be a time for protest by any newspapers who are unwilling to lie under the assumption that their circulation is principally local. In the course of another section of the debate on this same revenue measure statements were introduced to the effect that the average daily newspaper has an almost negligible circulation beyond a radius of 250 miles, and doubt was expressed whether any New York paper has 15,000 daily circulation beyond a radius of 150 miles.

SULPHUR EMBARGO TO CANADA.

PAPER AND PULP MEN WILL HAVE TO CERTIFY NEEDS TO GET LICENSES.

An embargo has been placed on exports of sulphur to Canada in order that the supply for war needs of the United States may not be unduly depleted.

A large percentage of the news print paper made in Canada is imported into the United States and the sulphite pulp used in its manufacture requires sulphur. In addition to this a considerable quantity of sulphite pulp is imported into the United States from Canada and used by the news print paper manufacturers in the United States. Hence this embargo affects directly the newspaper publishers of this country.

Sulphur, classified with explosives, is included in the list of commodities for which export licenses are required. No shipments will be licensed, it is said, until Canada has presented complete estimates of the requirements of Dominion pulp and paper makers and of the needs of explosive factories.

The impression was given by officials recently that, while there is every desire that the newspaper industry shall suffer no embarrassment, war needs will receive first consideration, and it was suggested that sulphur may be permitted to go to Canada in limited quantities only, even after the issuing of licenses is resumed.

WILL COVER WAR ZONE FOR LEADING PAPERS.

Dr. Louis B. Blan, chief examiner on the staff of Commissioner of Accounts Wallstein of New York City, has resigned to go abroad as a newspaper correspondent in the war zone for a syndicate composed of twenty-one American and Canadian dailies. He will be accompanied by Lowell Thomas, who has resigned from the faculty of Princeton University to take the assignment.

Dr. Blan will be accompanied by Harry Chase, the war photographer, and a secretary. The undertaking has the approval of the Committee on Public Information.

N.Y. PAPER MAKERS GLOOMY.

PULP, LABOR AND CARRIERS SHORT WITH SMALL SIGN OF RELIEF.

Labor and traffic problems are working together to bring about embarrassing conditions for the paper manufacturers in Northern New York. It is difficult to get pulp wood or to make certain provisions for a supply next year.

In Canada $21 a cord is asked for pulpwood and there are an insufficient number of cars available.

The labor shortage, with high prices, is seriously felt across the border as well as on this side.

Men are difficult to obtain to cut the wood, and one concern with its own tract in the Adirondacks is unable to get enough lumberjacks for the 1918 supply.

One large paper manufacturing company in that section has employed a man for some time do nothing but search for cars in Canada to carry pulp wood. He has only been able to keep the mill going with no surplus. Any kind of a car is acceptable, pulpwood being shipped in open wood cars and coal cars. There are no extra boats available.

An official of a large lumber concern in Canada was here and said that the price of pulp wood is bound to go much higher, for the labor and car situation is sure to be worse.

TRADE COMMISSION HITS BOOK PAPER TRADE.

The advance in prices of book paper last year was excessive and unwarranted, the Federal Trade Commission reported this week to the Senate. As a result of its investigation the commission has ordered proceedings against certain practices of manufacturers.

The price advances were not warranted either by the increase in costs or by the changes in conditions of supply and demand, the commission found.

The commission found that book paper manufacturers, especially those subscribing to the Manufacturers' Bureau of Statistics, kept one another informed of market conditions, so that prices were advanced simultaneously without fear of competition.

While ostensibly the duties of the secretary of the bureau of statistics have been to compile and distribute statistical information, his principal efforts, according to the report, appear to have been devoted to encouraging members to increase their prices.

The commission found that the average profits of thirty-nine principal book paper mills were nearly 100 per cent higher in 1916 than in 1915. The margin of profit of paper jobbers also advanced.

The average increase in margins on current sales of machine finished book paper for the fourth quarter of 1916 over the third quarter of 1915, according to the report, was 492 per cent for Boston jobbers, 200 per cent for New York jobbers and 203 per cent for Chicago jobbers.

CESARE ON VACATION.

O. E. Cesare, cartoonist of the New York Evening Post, is on a month's vacation.

READ WHAT MONOTYPE USERS SAY ABOUT ITS VALUE IN THE NEWSPAPER
AD-ROOM.

"The result has been a positive economy that will return us the entire cost of the System in a period unusually short for such investments."—Cleveland Leader and News.

"Its efficiency and economy are evidenced by increased production from our ad men and greater satisfaction of our advertisers."—Harrisburg (Pa.) Telegraph.

"No daily newspaper composing room is complete without the Monotype."—Norfolk (Va.) Ledger-Dispatch.

"The Non-Distribution System in our plant is the greatest money-saving feature of the Monotype."—Le Soleil, Quebec, Canada.

"We have found that we can turn out a greater amount of work with the Monotype at less cost than under the old distribution system."—Boston American.

"The Monotype Non-Distribution System has worked economies, increased efficiency and improved the typographic appearance of the paper."—Minneapolis Journal.

"The Monotype is a daily demonstration of efficiency and economy. We believe it to be an absolute essential of every newspaper composing room."—St. Paul Daily News.

"Non-Distribution is a success with us. There is a saving both in labor and in money."—Chicago Examiner.

"We have been able to reduce the cost of the printed page about twenty per cent. Much of this, of course, is due to the Non-Distribution of advertising type."—New York World.

"The Non-Distribution System has proven a revelation—to discontinue it would prove a disaster."—Montreal Star.

"Since adopting the Non-Distribution System, seven months ago, the savings have already been more than the investment."—Columbus (O.) Dispatch.

"Satisfied is the word that expresses our opinion of the Monotype Non-Distribution and ad-composing equipment."—New Haven Union.

"If economical ad composition, full cases and cheaper hand composition, plus an office free from pi and sorts picking, spell success, then the Monotype in the ad room is a success."—New York Globe.

"We are enthusiastic about Non-Distribution because it makes our compositors continuously productive."—Baltimore News.

"The Monotype is a time-saver, a labor-saver, and consequently a money-saver."—Johnstown (Pa.) Democrat.

"The Non-Distribution System works; and it saves time—and money—the two vital savings in any daily newspaper plant."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

War conditions demand that every one shall exercise economy in cost of production and thereby conserve the energies and the resources of our country. This includes the production of our newspapers. The biggest economy any newspaper can practice is to place its adroom on a Non-Distribution basis and eliminate non-productive time by installing the greatest economizer ever offered the printer—

The Monotype

[PUT IT ON YOUR PAY ROLL AND SEE HOW QUICKLY
IT WILL PAY FOR ITSELF]

NON-DISTRIBUTION: The system by which each compositor is continuously supplied with new type, spacing material, high and low leads, slugs, and rules, directly from the Monotype Type-&-Rule Caster, which makes this material so economically that whole pages, after use, are melted up to make new material; it makes the compositor's work a pleasure by cutting out the drudgery of distribution, leaving him free to spend all his time building ideas into type form without having to stop and tear down old jobs to get material; it eliminates non-productive time by using all of the compositors all the time on constructive work.

Lanston Monotype Machine Company PHILADELPHIA

NEW YORK, World Building
CHICAGO, Plymouth Building

BOSTON, Wentworth Building
TORONTO, Lumsden Building

Monotype Company of California: SAN FRANCISCO.

FLORIDA EDITORS UNITING.

PURCHASE OF SUPPLIES AND SALE OF ADVERTISING CENTRALIZED.

According to plans made at Orlando on August 18, there will be established at Leesburg, Fla., on September 1 the central business office of the Florida Publishers' Auxiliary, with Gilbert D. Leach in charge as executive agent for the organization.

Through this office the newspapers holding membership in the auxiliary will get in touch with the leading advertising agencies of the country and with the jobbing houses of the Southern territory, securing new foreign advertising connections and purchasing on a community basis.

The office will also gather data from those offices that have tried out cost systems, efficiency floor plans and other time saving and money saving devices and will collate this data and evolve plans for the practical application of members.

Another feature of the work of the central office will be the planning of community progress campaigns in which all the newspapers holding membership will join and thus bring about simultaneous community development in various sections of Florida.

Upon this office also will fall the planning for defense against the attacks upon the press by politicians within the state and in other states, and the presentation to the next Florida legislature of the reasons why a revision of the libel laws of Florida is essential to the freedom guaranteed the press by the Federal Constitution.

The affairs of the organization are in charge of the executive agent, working under authority and direction of the board of directors. This body is composed of the following members: Harry L. Brown, St. Augustine Record, chairman; Walter Haynes, Sanford Herald, vice-chairman; Goode M. Guerry, Howey Tribune, secretary; Cris. O. Cordington, DeLand News, treasurer; M. F. Hetherington, Lakeland Telegram, director.

The board is outlining the work to be done by the central office and will have everything ready to begin the work with a rush on September 1. The only salaried officer is the executive agent. The office of the secretary, Mr. Guerry, and the executive agent, will be located in Leesburg, thus bringing the two active officers into daily touch.

MEMBERSHIP CLASSES.

In order to make dues and assessments equitable, the membership is divided into three classes, A being those members having a circulation under 1,000, B being 1,000 to 2,000, and C being over 2,000. Following is the list of members signing up at the Orlando meeting:

Class A—Hastings Herald, Wauchula Advocate, Mannatee Banner, Eustis Lake Region, Clearwater News, Palatka Morning Post, New Smyrna Breeze, Sarasota Times, Alachua County Press, Fort Lauderdale Herald and Howey Tribune.

Class B—St. Augustine Record, Leesburg Commercial, Sanford Herald, Kissimmee Valley Gazette, Lakeland Telegram, DeLand News, Orlanda Morning Sentinel, Orlando Reporter-Star, Plant City Courier, Daytona Gazette-News.

WILLIAM WALLACE CHAPIN,
THE NEW OWNER AND PUBLISHER OF THE OAKLAND ENQUIRER.

Class C—Tampa Morning Tribune, Tallahassee Record.

Charter membership will be held open until September 10 so that every newspaper affiliated with or desiring to affiliate with the parent organization, the Florida Press Association, can become a member of the Florida Publishers' Auxiliary.

SLOWDEN HAS OWN PAPER.

C. L. Slowden, for many years city editor of the Portland (Me.) Evening Express, has purchased a quarter interest in the Petersburg (Va.) Evening Progress and will take entire charge on September 1.

Harwell & Cannon, newspaper brokers, handled the transaction.

PUTNAM HEADS WEEKLY.

Samuel E. Putnam, late of the Chicago Herald, has taken editorial charge of the Lake Forest (Ill.) Review, a weekly.

BARRED FROM THE MAILS.

Bull, a satirical anti-war monthly published in New York, has been excluded from second-class mail privileges on the ground that its last three issues have not been mailable under the provisions of the Espionage act.

The Battle Axe, a weekly published in Danville, Va., will no longer be accepted for transmission through the mails, according to instructions from Postmaster General Burleson. It has recently published several articles on conscription, President Wilson and the Government.

Tom Watson's Jeffersonian has been definitely barred from second-class mailing privileges by the Postmaster General. The Jeffersonian has been in hot water on numerous occasions since the war began because of its anti-governmental tenor.

The farmers of Bowman County, N. D., have organized a nonpartisan weekly to be published in Bowman. The first issue will be out about October 1.

W. W. CHAPIN BUYS OAKLAND PAPER.

ENQUIRER WILL CONTINUE AS REPUBLICAN ORGAN—PRICE WAS $240,000.

William Wallace Chapin has purchased the Oakland (Cal.) Enquirer, a six-day evening newspaper which has been published for thirty-one years. It was formerly owned by Frank A. Leach, recently director of the United States Mint. The Enquirer has always been published as a Republican paper and the new owner will continue that policy. The purchase price was $240,000.

John F. Connors is managing editor of the Enquirer under the new ownership.

Mr. Chapin was formerly publisher of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer and disposed of that paper to become owner and publisher of the San Francisco Call.

When that property was sold Mr. Chapin became one of the owners of the Chicago Record-Herald, but disposed of his interest there shortly afterward and came East. He purchased the Newark (N. J.) Star-Eagle in January, 1916, selling it almost immediately for a sum considerably in advance of the price paid.

Since that time, Mr. Chapin has been looking over the newspaper field, not being satisfied to remain out of the publishing world, the result of his investigations being his purchase of the Oakland Enquirer.

CLUB HOUSE FOR EDITORS OF EAST TENNESSEE.

A club house for the publishers of East Tennessee will be built at Hale Spring under the direction of the East Tennessee Press Association. A committee to complete plans for financing and building the club house includes: Benjamin Haynes, Tazewell; George L. Berry, Rogersville; F. Roger Miller, Morristown; J. B. Hedge, Athens, and H. O. Eckel, Sevierville.

The tentative plans call for an attractive rustic lodge built of logs to have fifty rooms.

At the convention held in Rogersville, at which the club project was discussed, the following association officers were chosen:

President, J. B. Hedge, Jr., Maryville; vice-president, A. T. Menges, Jacksboro; secretary-treasurer, E. M. Hardy, Morristown.

The Fort Peck (Mont.) Farmer is the name of a new paper edited by Major E. D. Mossman.

DETROIT SATURDAY NIGHT

Holds a commanding position in the progressive and prosperous homes of Detroit and Michigan.

One reason why it gained 35% in circulation and advertising during 1916.

Represented by
G. LOGAN PAYNE COMPANY
New York Chicago Boston Detroit

BRIDGEPORT Is Waiting To Buy— PROSPERITY Reigns Supreme!

THE illustration shows a large lot near Bridgeport's City Hall made vacant by razing old church buildings now accommodating a small part of the daily automobile overflow of Bridgeport's great mercantile and clerical forces. In Bridgeport nearly every one owns an automobile.

Another Example of Bridgeport's Prosperity.

"HELP WANTED—We will pay skilled mechanics $1.00 per hour. Bridgeport Projectile Co."

POST AND TELEGRAM LARGEST CONNECTICUT CIRCULATION!

The JULIUS MATHEWS SPECIAL AGENCY
Boston New York Chicago

AD CLUB SECRETARY AND THE CLUB PUBLICATION.

SECRETARY THE CONNECTING LINK BETWEEN MEMBERS AND OFFICERS— PAPER BEST ON NEWS LINES.

By CARROLL WESTALL,

Secretary Pilgrim Publicity Association, Boston.

The relation of the club secretary to the club publication depends, to my mind, primarily on two things:

- The field and mission of the secretary;
- The field and mission of the publication.

Doubtless we can arrive at a clear viewpoint most promptly by analyzing each.

What is a club secretary's job? Among other things:

First—He is one of the officers of the club—in constant touch with all its plans—helping to solve, and recording the decisions of the directors in affairs of larger moment.

Second—He is the designated interpreter of the directors—voicing their decisions, and helping to express them by organizing and directing committees, planning programs of all kinds, and, in general, by keeping the activities of the club as expressed both through and outside of committees going.

In brief, he serves not merely passively, as an official channel of communication, but actively as intermediary between directorate and committees, directorate and members, committee and members.

This function of channel or intermediary makes the secretary's point of contact with the club publication a significant one, as we shall see as soon as we analyze the field and mission of club publications.

SOME CLUB PUBLICATIONS "BLIND ALLEYS."

What, then, is a club publication supposed to do?

It may do a number of things. Instruction is the first need of the younger members; and it may, for instance, be primarily of educational character—a magazine largely devoted to articles more or less technical on advertising in some of its various phases.

Or it may decide to appeal to the riper experience of older members, taking on a "trade" character, and presenting in more or less laboratory style the experiences and results of various advertisers.

We have all seen among Associated Advertising Clubs these types of publications, just as we have in the general advertising publication field.

But of late years the tendency has been to make the publication a chronicle of happenings in the local club ranks, with particular emphasis on "personals."

NECESSARY CHANGE FROM "MAGAZINE TO "NEWSPAPER."

This, it may be said in passing, is in no real sense evidence of the degeneration of club publications, or a criticism of the standards of taste of their readers. It is merely another token of the growing tendency to specialize in advertising, as in other branches of business.

Club publications primarily "literary" or technical in character have been merely attempting to duplicate the work which larger journals of wider scope and more general circulation are doing, and with far greater effectiveness.

Even an advertising club of small membership contains within its ranks men of aims and purposes as diverse as are the various specialized branches of advertising itself.

It is neither feasible nor advisable to attempt, with the restricted space limits of a club publication, to supply much mental "food," except more or less incidentally, to club members.

For, unfortunately, as we secretaries all know from sad experience, the newspaper man can rarely be induced to concern himself with anything save newspaper advertising; the horizon of the "outdoor" man is bounded by street car signs and billboards—and so it goes.

In fact, there is but one appeal sure to interest all club members irrespective of their individual contacts with advertising. And that is the frequent chronicle of the plans and doings of the club to which all belong, with side lights on the personalities of its members.

THE SECRETARY AS THE "HUB" OF THE PUBLICATION "WHEEL."

Now who is in so strategic a position to supply information of this kind that is recent and authentic as the club secretary? Or who should have a larger voice in its policies than the man whose duty it is to keep the membership alive, loyal to the club, cooperating with each other for mutual benefit, and hence for the progress and development of the club as a whole?

Just how close or official this identification with the publication and its policies should be, will largely depend on local conditions, with the make-up of the club, the character of the publication, and the personality and efficiency of the individual secretary as some of the deciding factors.

Perhaps, in closing, it may be of interest to the other secretaries to learn that the directors of the Pilgrim Publicity Association have de-

(Continued on Twenty-sixth Page.)

WHITMAN PLANS A NATIONAL PAPER.

NEW YORK COMMERCIAL SALE EPOCH IN BROKERAGE TRANSACTIONS.

Russell R. Whitman, formerly managing director of the Audit Bureau of Circulations, has purchased the New York Commercial, the oldest business and financial newspaper in the world, and the Standard Blue Book of Foreign Trade, a publication recognized by American manufacturers as a standard medium of export trade advertising.

The purchase was made from Mercer P. Moseley, the retiring owner, negotiations being conducted principally by Henry F. Cannon of Harwell & Cannon. The transaction is regarded as one of the most important transfers consummated by a newspaper brokerage firm, involving a New York daily newspaper, since Charles M. Palmer effected the purchase and sale of the Daily News in 1903.

Mr. Whitman's newspaper career began in 1894 on the news staff of the Kansas City World, but he soon shifted to the advertising end, joining the Kansas City Star. He then went with the Kansas City Journal as advertising manager and later took charge of national advertising for all the Hearst papers in the territory west of Pittsburg and Buffalo, having his headquarters in Chicago.

He became publisher of the Boston American in 1909 and in 1914 organized the Audit Bureau of Circulations, becoming its managing director.

Mr. Moseley, former owner of the Commercial, plans a well-deserved rest, but intimate friends say that it will not be long before he will again be active in the newspaper publishing world.

Discussing his new property, Mr. Whitman said to THE FOURTH ESTATE:

"In the purchase of the New York Commercial I am realizing the dream of my life to have a publication of my own. My vision as to the possibilities for service open to a commercial and financial daily newspaper conducted on national and international lines and promoting domestic and foreign trade, I confidently expect to realize.

"In acquiring the Standard Blue Book of Foreign Trade, I have the logical adjunct to the New York Commercial in an important way, each being the complement of the other."

Rumors in New York that Edwin T. Earle, publisher of the Los Angeles Express and Tribune, was associated with Mr. Whitman in the purchase of the Commercial were denied by the latter in the following telegram:

"Rumor regarding Earle absolutely and unqualifiedly without foundation. No other newspaper man is associated with me in any way whatsoever."

Mr. Earle also denied any connection with the transaction, as follows:

"I have no interest, direct or indirect, in the purchase of the New York Commercial, and know nothing about the matter."

Frank S. Jeffries has become the editor of the Clarion (La.) Clipper.

RUSSELL R. WHITMAN,

WHO IS NOW OWNER AND PUBLISHER OF THE NEW YORK COMMERCIAL.

QUAIL EDITS CITY RECORD.

Joseph N. Quail has been appointed supervisor of the New York City Record to succeed David Ferguson, who resigned recently on account of ill health. Mr. Quail has been a member of the Typographical Union No. 6 since 1883. He has been city editor of the New York Evening World, the Evening Journal and the New York American and night city editor of the New York Times.

At present he is associate editor of the New York Times Annalist.

Mayor Mitchel sent a letter to ex-Supervisor Ferguson expressing regret at his resignation and adding:

"I was familiar with conditions that you found existing in that department when you were appointed, now nearly eight years ago. You took hold of the situation, which demanded not only great energy but a vast amount of tact and judgment, in a most successful way. The result of your efforts has been a great financial saving to the city, as well as the establishment of a good system.

"I wish to say that New York City, by your resignation, loses a faithful and able department head and that personally I regret that ill health has compelled you to sever our relations, which have always been of the most pleasant character."

PRINTERS' BASEBALL DATES.

The National Commission of the Union Printers' National Baseball League, in convention at Cleveland this week voted to hold the next annual tournament at St. Paul in August, 1918. The 1917 tournament was postponed because of the war. John M. McGowan, of Chicago, was re-elected president, and Joseph J. Dallas, of Boston, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

MISSOURI EDITORS HAVE BIG PLANS.

PRESS ASSOCIATION MEET ON SEPT. 20 WILL TALK PAPER AND NATIONAL ADS.

A broadening of the activities of the Missouri Press Association to include the purchase of print paper and the obtaining of foreign advertising will be the chief topic for consideration when the association holds its annual meeting in the Planters Hotel, St. Louis, September 20 and 21, according to H. J. Blanton of Paris, Mo., president.

"This will be one of the most important sessions ever held by our state association," Mr. Blanton said. "It will be more than a pleasure gathering, as it is expected the association will be authorized at this session to branch out in the actual operating field generally for the newspapers of Missouri in the purchase of print paper and the securing of foreign advertising contracts.

"It will be recommended at this convention that a permanent department be formed for this exclusive purpose, with a paid secretary in charge. Missouri will be one of the first states in the Union to adopt this plan, only one other having it to date. Iowa has tried the plan and made a success of it."

Mr. Blanton said that as an experiment in this line he had purchased during the year more than a million pounds of print paper at 3½ cents direct from the mills, when jobbers were charging from 4½ cents to as high as 7 cents.

Officials of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce will have charge of the entertainment of the Missouri editors during the meeting. On the afternoon on September 21 they will be taken on a river excursion down the Mississippi.

Arrangements have been made with Major C. E. Stodter, commander at Jefferson Barracks, to have the boat make a landing there. The soldiers at the barracks will give a special drill and the editors will be entertained with a band concert and evening mess.

Invitations have been sent to both Governor Lowden of Illinois and Governor Gardner of Missouri to deliver addresses the opening day.

Following their two days' session the delegates will leave on a special train for Jefferson City to inspect the new state capitol.

A feature of the opening day's program will be the first showing of an eight-reel picture presenting agricultural, commercial and manufacturing advantages of Missouri.

STRATFORD PRICES UP.

The Stratford (Ont.) Beacon and Stratford Herald put into effect on August 13 an increase in mail subscription rates from $2 to $2.50. This is to be followed by another 50-cent increase on November 1, bringing the rate up to $3 at that time. The subscription rate of all papers called for at the newspaper's office or at stores in the city was also increased on August 13 from 25 cents to 30 cents a month. The single copies are sold as formerly, for two cents, and the carrier rate remains at $4 a year.

BIGGEST OF THE YEAR

The sale of THE NEW YORK COMMERCIAL to Russell R. Whitman of Chicago (formerly Director of Audit Bureau of Circulations) is described as the largest and most important newspaper transfer of the year.

The following letter from the purchaser speaks for itself:

Messrs. HARWELL & CANNON, Times Building, New York City.

Gentlemen:—Your services in connection with my recent purchase of the New York Commercial were highly satisfactory to me and it will in the future afford me much pleasure to pass this word along to my friends.

With cordial good wishes,

Very truly yours,

(Signed) RUSSELL R. WHITMAN,
Publisher.

AUBREY HARWELL

HENRY F. CANNON

HARWELL & CANNON

Newspaper and Magazine Properties

TIMES BUILDING

NEW YORK, N. Y.

ADVERTISING HAS MADE HIGH LIVING STANDARD.

BIGGER OUTPUT THROUGH PUBLICITY AND SOUND SELLING EFFECTS LOWER COST OF DISTRIBUTION.

By SAMUEL C. DORRIS,

Vice-President and Advertising Manager, Coca-Cola Company, Atlanta.

I positively affirm, as a buyer of advertising, as a merchandising man, (for if I am anything, I am a salesman), that advertising, properly applied to articles of merit, backed up by efficient, intelligent selling plans, is the most economic means of distribution to the retail trade that the world has yet discovered.

But we cannot make that statement as an affirmation, pure and simple, and get away with it.

We've got to fulfill the idea of merchandising through advertising, to the American public, that the stigma of fraud and the taint of deception has not only been wiped out from the printed and lithographed word, but the very suggestion of it eliminated from the American public press.

Does advertising lower the cost of distribution? Absolutely!

In the little town where I was reared in western Georgia there was no railroad. Farmers on off weeks would go to Atlanta and truck the merchandise into this little town at fifty and sixty cents a hundred. Who paid for that hauling? Mr. Consumer.

Later on, a railroad came. Instead of hauling 2,000 pounds per load, these great freight trains brought stuff from the markets of the East and from the North and West and swept them into that little city. Today the markets of that town are about equal to those of the largest cities in the South. That typifies advertising.

I went to my "little chief" some years ago and presented to him an advertising suggestion. We had built up a very considerable business by the use of the direct method of advertising, which is very efficient, particularly in circumscribed territories. We had used pointed signs on the sides of the stores where our goods were on sale—and advertising, stripped of all of its superficialities—bed rock advertising—is getting your sign as close as possible to where your goods are on sale; and then keeping it there.

We had used that method, but we had grown beyond it. I suggested to the chief a rather extensive newspaper campaign and I do not mind letting you in on the secret. That business of ours, we felt, had about reached the top. It was slowing up in volume. It was very satisfactory, I grant you, but there was a hesitating.

The percentages of increase were not quite so large. He looked over the estimate and saw that it called for an appropriation of $50,000 for newspapers. Right there, I got about as stiff a setting down as I ever got.

"Why," he said, "we have made a success of this business and we never have used a line of newspaper publicity in our lives. I am not going to depart from the methods that have brought us success."

Well, I knew there was no use to argue with that man. I had to show him.

I said, "How did you come here the first time you ever came?" He had come in a two-horse wagon pulled by mules and it took him a day and a half to cover that thirty-eight miles.

Well, after a while, he admitted it.

"A few years afterwards how did you come?" He came in a buggy. They left the old farm at 8 o'clock in the morning and got in about sun down. Stopped at a wagon yard for the night.

I said, "Do you remember when you came back home on your wedding trip?"

He laughed and said, "We came back in a two-horse carriage."

I said, "Yes, and I thought that was the finest vehicle that ever came over these roads, and I guess it was."

I said, "I would not have believed that anything finer could ever be built in this world."

Later on he scorned that, coming on a mixed train, freight and accommodation.

I said, "Two weeks ago you had occasion to go to that little village to make a speech and you wired to Washington to get the general passenger agent of the Southern Railway to stop the through limited train for you, because you were not willing to take a local."

"The time has come when the Coca-Cola Company cannot go to town in a mule wagon or a one-horse buggy; we must adopt modern methods—the through express train of publicity, the newspaper."

That interview between that shrewd, conservative little man and myself revolutionized the merchandizing methods of the Coca-Cola Company, and in ten years has built it up from a business of 500,000 gallons to one of more than 12,000,000 gallons.

Three years ago we faced a rising market. We had worked hard. We (Continued on Twenty-sixth Page.)

HYPHEN PRESS NOT ALL LOYAL.

SOME GERMAN PAPERS WILL NOT PROFESS FAITH IN U. S. WAR AIMS.

A spirit of friendliness has pervaded many of the answers the National Security League has received to its circular asking German-American editors for a "Profession of Faith," as noted in THE FOURTH ESTATE of August 11. Even a suggestion of tolerance toward its campaign pleased the pro-Americans at the league headquarters, since heretofore many German-Americans have vigorously denounced the league's call for a "profession of faith."

Max Schmettering, publisher of Der Führer, an organ of Free Masons and Odd Fellows, has conspicuously deserted kaiserism for Americanism. He signaled his unwavering loyalty to the ideals of his adopted country by urging his only son to volunteer in the regular army before the draft registration. "I am supporting our beloved country," he wrote, "in all her undertakings in this war."

Much encouragement resulted from the letter from Louis N. Hammerling, president of the American Association of Foreign Language Newspapers.

"I congratulate you," he wrote the league, "on the splendid manner in which you have addressed the editors of the German newspapers printed in America. I believe this should have been done last April or three years ago."

"I cannot see, for the life of me, why the German newspapers printed in the United States should be anything else but American. Germans who have come here have come to make this country their home, and the ones who were born here certainly have it as their country."

"The Germans should be the ones who live in Germany. The first thing should apply to every other race, and whoever is here should be American, first, last and all the time."

The following are a few of the league's encouraging replies:

Charles B. Thompson, editor of the Bakers' Review, writes: "This organization subscribes most heartily to the sentiments expressed in your circular."

Louis G. Fritz, editor of the Memphis (Tenn.) Deutsche Zeitung, writes: "The people of German birth or parentage in this country will stand by it to the last."

Replies from the German-American organizations continue to come in slowly to the league's headquarters in New York. Oscar R. Meyer, corresponding secretary of the Missouri State division of the German-American Alliance, writes from Kansas City:

"We claim to be an integral part of this country as much as any other element, consequently we do not deem it incumbent upon us to prove our fealty by loud and clamorous demonstration any more than others have done."

Charles Christmann of Chicago, president of the Illinois Division of the German-American Alliance, formally acknowledges the receipt of the league's communication and says handle the national advertising placed in daily newspapers. They are keen buyers of space and alert to changing conditions. Their selections may well be used as a barometer in determining newspaper values.

Advertising Experts

When, therefore, the record shows that

The Sun Leads

all the New York morning newspapers in gains for the first seven months of 1917

In National Advertising and that THE SUN not only leads in gains but exceeds its own record for the same period of last year the evidence is conclusive that the advertising experts of the country are recognizing the new and greater value of THE SUN in a most substantial manner.

By 209,632 Lines

Seven Months 1917

THE SUNGained209,632 Lines
The World"208,014 "
The Times"134,602 "
The American"111,711 "
The Tribune"110,394 "
The HeraldLost45,469 "

The Reason? Doubled Circulation! Greater Results!

(Figures from Statistical Department Evening Post.)

that it will be brought before the next meeting of his executive board.

Other editors of German-American newspapers have not taken kindly to the efforts of the league to obtain from them expressions of loyalty to the United States in the conduct of this war.

Some of the editors have replied in an abusive vein, while others have ignored entirely the letters of the league.

One of the most abusive expressions on the league's campaign appeared last week in Issues and Events, published in New York, owned by Francis J. L. Dori and edited by Frederick F. Schrader, formerly dramatic critic of the Washington Post and editor of the Dramatic Mirror. In a signed article Mr. Schrader says:

"It is difficult to write with becoming moderation of the intermeddling policy of the National Security League, which, relying on the prestige given it by the few names of eminent old men connected with it, took the lead at an early date to inflame public sentiment in behalf of its scheme to precipitate the United States into the European war, and, after accomplishing its object, is now devoting itself to sowing discord among the American people."

The answer of the German Herald of New York City to the league's "Profession of Faith" was to reprint an editorial from the New York Evening Post in which the "profession" was characterized as "an insult to every man asked to put his name to it."

As a result of opposition on the part of some powerful German-American editors to subscribe to the loyalty pledge, officials of the National Security League declared this week that the preliminary results of their campaign showed that the need for the loyalty accounting was vital.

Herbert Barry, secretary of the league, is author of the "Profession of Faith."

DISLOYAL PRESS MAY BE KEPT OFF HOTEL NEWS STANDS.

German language newspapers, un-American, pro-German, seditious, socialistic and disloyal papers and magazines and all literature of that sort will be barred from the news stands in the big hotels in New York City if favorable action is taken on a request made this week by the American Defense Society.

A letter has been sent by Henry C. Quinby, chairman of the executive committee of the American Defense Society, to Harry Simpson, secretary of the Hotel Men's Association, requesting that action be taken by the association to bar "all magazines and other publications known to be seditious and disloyal" from the hotel news stands.

Most of these stands are operated by the Tyson Company, which has announced that the matter will receive immediate attention.

ENGLISH NEWS FRANCHISES FOR GERMAN PAPERS.

EDITOR THE FOURTH ESTATE.

SIR: Certain of the American press have raised a great hue and cry and demanded that the Government suppress all papers published in German in the United States for the duration of the war.

I have no intention of criticising their attitude for their stand may be well taken. Still there is another side to the question.

I do not believe that the average American publisher would knowingly and deliberately force the publishers of German language newspapers into bankruptcy. Their patriotic zeal in this direction, however, is as ruthless a procedure as the German submarine warfare, the cause of America's participation in the world's holocaust.

A solution: Many publishers of German newspapers in America, I believe, would gladly print their papers in the American language, providing the news associations of which they are members would permit them, during the duration of the war, to publish their dispatches in the American language.

Their news franchises permit the publication of the dispatches they receive in no language other than German. Naturally, with this confronting him, how can the publisher of a German language newspaper print in American, for without his news franchises he is stripped of his stock in trade.

I know of one German language daily whose publisher would gladly print his paper in the American language if the news association of which he is a member would grant him English franchises for the duration of the war.

Would it not be well for the American publishers to practice what they preach: live and let live—democracy—by throwing aside the imperialistic attitude they have assumed toward this subject, by refusing to grant any concession to the publishers of German language papers, many of whom are as good, if not better American citizens. A SUBSCRIBER.

PAPER FOR DAKOTA TROOPS.

Members of Company B, South Dakota National Guard, of Sioux Falls, have completed arrangements for the publication of a weekly newspaper, which will contain items in reference to the activities of the members of the company, so that during the time they are on active service for the government: relatives at home may know what the boys are doing at their several camps. The first issue, which will soon make its appearance, will be distributed free of charge, but thereafter a charge will be made for subscriptions in order to obtain transportation through the mails.

LYON COMING HOME.

Canada's official newspaper "eye-witness" at the front in France is coming home. Stewart Lyon, who is associate editor of the Toronto Globe, has made it known that, after eight months of experience of active service conditions, he is desirous of returning to his desk. His original engagement with the Canadian Press, Ltd., was for six months.

2ND CLASS RATES ON NEWSPAPERS.

POST OFFICE RULES ON PAPERS TO MEMBERS OF U. S. FORCES ABROAD.

Inquiries by readers as to whether the Post Office Department ruling on the mailing of magazines to members of the American Expeditionary Forces would apply equally to newspapers and other publications, following the publication of those rules in THE FOURTH ESTATE last week, when referred to Washington, brought the following reply from the office of the Third Assistant Postmaster General:

"In answer to your inquiry concerning the arrangement that has been made whereby unwrapped and unaddressed magazines intended for soldiers and sailors of the United States Expeditionary Forces may be mailed by the public at the postage rate of one cent each, I have to say that the departmental order providing for this arrangement has reference only to such publications as constitute magazines within the ordinary meaning of that term.

"The order is not applicable to daily or other newspapers.

"In this connection, your attention is invited to a circular issued from this office on August 10, from which you will see that the United States domestic classification, conditions and rates of postage are applicable to all mail originating in the United States or its possessions intended for soldiers or others, including civilians, connected with the Expeditionary Forces.

"Consequently, newspapers when properly wrapped and addressed, may be mailed by a publisher to his subscribers with the Expeditionary Forces at the cent-a-pound rate of postage and by the public to individuals connected with those forces at the transient second-class rate of postage of one cent for each four ounces or fraction thereof."

FOREIGN PAPER NOTES.

The newspapers in Sweden have brought about an arrangement by which $40.78 per short ton is paid for news print as a maximum. A similar arrangement is hoped for in Norway.

A Spanish Royal Order announces an export prohibition on all paper and board, with the exception of hand-made paper, paper cut into sheets for envelopes and writing paper, cardboard cut into boxes and other articles, straw packing paper, and cigarette paper. The export embargo includes paper clippings, waste paper, rags, etc.

In Italy, office and writing papers are to be manufactured and sold in single sheets only, legal papers excluded; posters larger than 12 square inches, and all handbills and circulars, are prohibited.

Official publications are to be suspended or reduced wherever possible.

Magazines and reviews are to be reduced to one-quarter the size which obtained previous to June 1, 1915.

An Italian manufacturer writes: "For over two months not a pound of cellulose has arrived in Italy, and everything indicates that none will arrive for a long time to come.

"The only actual supplier of cellulose and mechanical pulp on our continent is Scandinavia, and today the only quotations that can be had are f.o.b. shipping point. Shipments of chemical wood pulp, contract made some time ago, are no longer being made from these ports."

WYCHE GREER PART OWNER OF WICHITA (TEX.) TRIBUNE.

Wyche Greer, formerly general manager of the Fort Worth (Tex.) Record and well known throughout Texas newspaper circles, has purchased a substantial interest in the Wichita (Tex.) Morning Tribune and has been elected vice-president and general manager of the Tribune Company.

The capital stock of the paper has been increased from $10,000 to $20,000 full paid. Two additional Linotype machines have been installed and a new rotary press is now in operation.

The paper has been changed from a six-day to a seven-day paper. Heretofore it has not been issued on Monday morning.

Wichita Falls is now a prosperous city of 20,000 population, with rich oil fields nearby in three directions from the city. It is also the center of a wheat and cotton belt.

The subscription rates are being advanced from $5 to $7 per year and the advertising rates will also be raised within the next thirty days.

Edgar P. Hancy, who established the Tribune several years ago, remains as president and editor.

We Dump All Our Ads At the End of the Day

"Our ad alley is equipped with four Multiple Magazine Linotypes, two Ludlow Typographs and a Lead and Rule Caster. Composition up to and including 14 point is set on our three-magazine Model 8. Other sizes up to 48 point are set on our Ludlows. Linotype-Ludlow All-Slug composition enables us to dump all our ads at the close of the day. It has increased the efficiency of our ad room, economized in floor space and saved the purchase of several thousand dollars worth of new type."

P. C. Treviranus, Publisher,
MILWAUKEE (WIS.) JOURNAL.

The "Linotype Line," a 16-page Folder describing
"The All Slug Route to Profit." Write for a copy.

Mergenthaler Linotype Company

Tribune Building, New York

CHICAGO TORONTO SAN FRANCISCO NEW ORLEANS

TAKE IT TO POWERS!

"Fastest Engravers on Earth"

Open 24 hours out of 24
On Time All the Time

POWERS PHOTO-ENGRAVING
COMPANY

154 Nassau Street, NEW YORK
Telephone 4200 Beekman

Good Work

Prompt Service

Fair Prices

They tell the story of our 23 years of successful service.

And we want you to get into the habit to

"Phone the Manhattan Man for your Engraving"

MANHATTAN PHOTO
ENGRAVING CO.

251-253 William Street NEW YORK
Phone, Worth 1657-B

STANLEY PROCESS TYPE METAL

SYRACUSE SMELTING WORKS
BROOKLYN, N. Y. and CHICAGO, ILL.

For Particular Printing come to the
ALLIANCE PRESS

110-114 West 32d Street NEW YORK

WAR TOPICS ON PROGRAM OF THE I.C.M.A.

NINETEENTH ANNUAL CONVENTION IN ATLANTA ON OCTOBER 9-11 PROMISES TALKS ON TIMELY TOPICS.

The annual convention of the International Circulation Managers Association has not suffered, but has rather gained, by its postponement, if its program, just made public, is to remain the keynote of the meeting. The gathering will be held in Atlanta on October 9, 10 and 11, with headquarters at the Piedmont Hotel.

Business will, as usual, be the dominating spirit of the convention; more so this year because of the unusual conditions faced by circulation men on account of the war. From Monday evening until Thursday afternoon, solid business—the reading of papers on pertinent questions and general discussions—will occupy most of the time of the members, while their guests will have liberal opportunities to visit interesting points about the city.

Members have not been entirely overlooked by the entertainment committee, however, as they have been put down for a sight-seeing trip and an entertainment and banquet. Further plans for whiling away idle minutes will be announced during the convention.

THE BUSINESS SESSIONS.

Coats will be removed and sleeves rolled up for business on Monday evening, when the board of directors will meet at the Piedmont Hotel to hear the reports of the entertainment, auditing and convention committees and to make arrangements for the general business sessions.

The business sessions of the convention will be from 9 a. m. to 12 o'clock noon, and from 2 p. m. to 5 p. m., with the exception of Tuesday, when the afternoon session will be dispensed with on account of a sight-seeing trip which the entertainment committee has planned. On Tuesday, however, there will be a night session at 8 o'clock.

TUESDAY.

The convention will start with an address of welcome by Governor Hugh Dorsey of Georgia. After the routine business of the meeting has been cleared away, the real object of the gathering—papers and discussions—will receive their share of attention.

D. B. G. Rose of the Louisville Post, will ask and answer the question of "Why are we in Atlanta?" to everybody's satisfaction, following which the technical questions will have an inning.

Robert McLean of the Philadelphia Bulletin will talk on "Effects of raising the price of papers to 2 cents. Methods of holding circulation in such cases."

W. H. Harrington of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat has the topic of "Can one or more daily newspapers in any city successfully increase their selling price without concerted action from all dailies in the same field? If so, how?"

Joseph Horner, Jr., of the Green Bay (Wis.) Press-Gazette, will discuss "The psychology of price-raising."

James McKernan of the New York World will conclude the morning's reading by a paper on "How did the increase of 1 cent on the wholesale rate to newsdealers affect the sales of the New York City Sunday papers? How can this increase be made on other Sunday papers?"

The committee asks that any member still allowing credit for unsold copies tell the association how he justifies the continuance of the policy at the Tuesday morning session, the remainder of which will be spent in discussion of questions raised by members.

TUESDAY EVENING.

A. E. MacKinnon of the Philadelphia North American will talk on "Circulation ethics, past, present and future."

J. P. Barry of the Providence Journal and Bulletin will describe "Schemes for reducing circulation expense and new efficiency methods in circulation management."

J. L. Erwin of the Columbia (S.C.) State will read a paper on the "Influence of good typography and art in circulation building."

O. O. Scattergood of the Chicago American will talk on "Should newspapers predicate a profit on the sale of their by-product?"

John D. Walker of the Johnstown (Pa.) Tribune will point out the "Value of training boys in 'news-crying', selling points, behavior, etc., and 'gingering' the enthusiasm of the American boy in circulation building."

Ernest A. Scholz of the Crowell Publication, New York, will discuss the "Values of magazine clubbing offers to daily newspapers in circulation building."

Joseph H. Lackey of the Memphis News-Scimitar, will talk on the "Best plan for stimulating R. F. D. and small town circulation on an evening newspaper."

Harold Hough of the Fort Worth (Tex.) Star-Telegram, will present "Suggestions from the A. B. C. for simplification and standardization of records in circulation departments. Helpful hints from the A. B. C. How it has helped the circulation manager."

The program committee puts forward as a topic for general discussion

"As a result of the liquor clauses attached to the Post Office Bill by Congress, how many newspapers discontinued liquor ads. How many continued to run liquor ads, but cut off the circulation in the states affected by the law. How many published two editions, one for wet, and one for dry territory?"

The president will call on members promiscuously for short talks on the following topics:

"Should newspapers in any large city have exclusive carriers or should they be permitted to handle other papers?"

"Is there too much space devoted to baseball and other sports in newspapers?"

"Are special editions and pages featuring small towns materially helpful in circulation building?"

"Are Sunday comics in colors passing, and if so, why?"

"Does circulation secured through scare-heads pay?"

"Circulation at any price—does it ever pay?"

WEDNESDAY MORNING.

Wednesday will be devoted entirely to the reading of papers and to general discussions, started by A. G. Lincoln of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch on "How Would you measure the efficiency of a circulation manager?"

T. V. Armstrong of the Ottawa (Ont.) Journal-Press will talk on "Cooperation vs. competition in country circulation."

P. C. Treventus of the Milwaukee Journal will introduce "Scoop, the Journals' house organ for carriers and newsboys."

Sidney D. Long, business manager of the Wichita (Kan.) Eagle, will deliver an address on "Circulation salesmanship."

H. A. Akin of the Columbus (Ohio) Citizen will tell "What system should be used to reduce the difference between press run and circulation output."

E. C. White, business manager of the Houston (Tex.) Chronicle, will bring up the subject of "Getting classified ads through carrier boys. How best can the circulation department cooperate to increase this kind of advertising? The relative value of want ads to circulation building."

Robert McCleary of the Toronto Globe is scheduled to talk on a "Simple and convenient way to file back copies of a newspaper. What should be the charge for back copies of one week, one month, one year, etc?"

The president will call on members at random to discuss the following topics:

"Is the Cox or any other similar mailing machine a success? Do they eliminate complaints? Would a newspaper with a small circulation of five, ten or twenty thousand (efficiency, speed and money invested considered) be justified in purchasing a machine of this kind?"

"Economies in news print consumption."

"Does bill-board, street-car and advertising in the columns of competitors pay in exploiting new features, like serials, etc?"

"Methods of handling weekly collections with carrier boys."

"The bulletin service—is it of any value to the circulation department and, if so, what is the best system?"

"Best method of organizing and directing city solicitors and what is a fair compensation allowed for them?"

"Experiences of circulation managers taking care of circulation at army camps."

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

Following the recess for dinner, Robert B. McClean, business manager of the New York Evening Post, will resume the reading of papers with a discussion of "Is there enough attention given to the organization and operation of the circulation department?"

F. M. Hatch of the South Bend (Ind.) Tribune will tell "How to secure carriers to handle your paper exclusively and how to constantly increase their lists."

Maurice Levy of the Cincinnati Post will discuss "Applying psychology to the soliciting of subscriptions."

H. S. Blake of the St. Paul Pioneer Press and Dispatch will talk on "The best way to handle city circulation on a morning paper where the papers are sold to carriers; details as to handling office stops, new contracts, complaints, collections, etc. The same as to an evening paper."

H. A. Wenige of the Bridgeport (Conn.) Standard-American will set forth "In what other ways beyond giving circulation figures can the circulation department be of the greatest service to increase and hold advertising patronage?"

Joe Levy of the New Orleans Item will bring up "Newsboys and newsdealers' unions—are they practical? The best method to contend with them if found to be undesirable."

W. W. Rhoads, of the Capper Publications, Topeka, Kan., has been assigned to "Improved mail service—one weak link in circulation building. Concerted action by the I.C.M.A. in urging the Post Office to give better service."

E. F. McIntyre of the Syracuse (N. Y.) Herald will discuss "The elimination of service copies. Can better service be had when free copies are used and charged as service copies? Do service copies really cut down circulation distribution expense?"

The rest of the afternoon will be devoted to an open meeting for questions and answers by the members. The president will call on members in rotation and ask if they have any questions to bring before the convention on circulation matters. The program committee urged that members present at this time their questions and the schemes they have successfully worked during the past year.

The annual dinner will be held at the Piedmont Hotel on Wednesday evening, followed by an entertainment.

THURSDAY MORNING.

George Fries of the Cincinnati Times-Star will discuss "The simplest and cheapest system for keeping R.F.D. and other mail subscription records, explaining the handling of a subscription remittance from time it reaches the office until the entire transaction is completed."

J. M. Regan of the Cleveland Leader will talk on "The control of newsboys and the getting of permanent increases on street sales."

C. B. Julian of the Peoria (Ill.) Journal is scheduled to compare "The relative value of circularizing and personal solicitation in efficiency and economy and thorough covering of territory."

R. J. Corrigan of the Denver Times and Denver Rocky Mountain News will discuss "Would it be a benefit to newspapers generally if the Government established zone rates on second class matter instead of raising the postage from one to two cents per pound as has been proposed? The best method to use in meeting the additional expense (Continued on thirteenth page.)"

THE GOSS COMET

Prints 4, 6 or 8-page Newspapers
from Type Forms and Roll Paper

This Press Will Increase Your Profits
Let Us Tell You How

Hundreds of Satisfied Users

Descriptive Literature Gladly Sent

THE GOSS
PRINTING PRESS
COMPANY

16th Street and Ashland Avenue
CHICAGO, ILL.

BANK DIGNITY ENHANCED BY ADVERTISING.

BUT OLD-FASHIONED "STIFF-NECKED" DIGNITY HAS GIVEN PLACE TO PRIDE IN EFFICIENT SERVICE.

By W. R. MOREHOUSE,
Assistant Cashier and New Business Manager, Guaranty Trust & Savings Bank, Los Angeles.

I think that you will agree with me that dignity is an essential element in banking. It inspires public confidence in banks. If you were to eradicate it from our banking structure, the public mind would automatically become filled with suspicion and distrust for banks and banking, and the old shoe and the tin can would again serve the people as a depository for their money.

Prior to 1900, or about that date, bankers as a class placed the wrong interpretation upon this term we call bank dignity. Led astray by their definition of the term, many bankers considered that owing to the very nature of their work, they were superior to their patrons and of a higher rank. As a consequence, it was very natural that they should hold themselves aloof from their patrons, which was exactly what they did.

This condition prevailed very generally up until the time banks began to advertise. But, someone asks—how about the banks that do not advertise—their service is good?

I will answer that question by saying that other things being equal, I have always found that the service rendered by banks that advertise is superior to that of banks that do not advertise. I admit that there are banks giving good service that do not advertise, but let me suggest that perhaps competition with other banks that do advertise has much to do with the efficiency of their service to patrons.

It is my observation that if one bank increases the efficiency of its service, other banks will imitate it so far as it is possible to do so, as a means of protecting their own business.

BANKERS NOW WELCOME PATRONS.

It is no longer an accommodation or a favor extended on the part of a bank for it to loan money to its patrons, for such a transaction is now regarded as of mutual benefit to all concerned. How different from that it was twenty years ago, yes, ten years ago.

Formerly, a person who wished to borrow from his bank somehow felt that he should approach his banker meekly and pray that a loan might be granted and borrowers actually did humble themselves. Occasionally a person still comes into the Guaranty Trust & Savings Bank, with which I am associated, with an apology on his lips for having to borrow money.

It is just as honorable to ask your banker for a loan, if for a legitimate purpose, as it is for you to deposit money with him, and the borrower's business is fully appreciated by the bank. There are many instances where banking transactions are regarded from an entirely different point of view from that held years ago.

So effective has been this process of regeneration that it is the exception and not the rule to find a banker today who is not easily approachable and not glad to serve his patrons. Stipple glass doors which in the past screened away the bank official, and the prison-like bars which separated the depositor from his teller, have given way to the friendly open counter; and today not only the rich but the poor as well are made equally welcome by the average bank.

How and when was the readjustment brought about?

It was in 1900, or about that date, when a few banks began to advertise in the newspapers. In those days it took more courage than you may imagine for these few banks to venture out into the field of newspaper advertising-pioneering, so to speak, for arrayed against them were ninety-nine out of every hundred banks that raised their voices in protest, pronouncing the step in no uncertain terms as undignified, unethical and unbecoming a bank. The pioneers who advertised were said to have lost their financial poise, and it was predicted that their recklessness would excite the public and make them suspicious of banks everywhere.

This first victory completely upset the old notion as to what was ethical for a bank to do in order to secure new business, and it went still further and opened the way for a new and more modern bank dignity. Soon banks began to use specialty advertising. The use of specialties too, was regarded at first as undignified and in direct violation of the rules of bank dignity.

But the sturdy pioneers in newspaper advertising also championed the use of specialties. There was no such thing as going backward; to discontinue their use, because some bankers considered it undignified was an insufficient reason. Today there are but few banks that do not use specialties in one form or another.

And when about three years ago banks began to use the "movies," it seemed that the old idea of bank dignity would at last receive a complete knock-out; but traces of it survived.

But it can never survive what banks are doing today in the way of advertising. If twenty years ago you had suggested to a banker that he use his windows for advertising his business, you would have insulted him.

(Continued on Thirtieth Page.)

NEW YORK STATE CIRCULATORS AT SCHENECTADY.

ANNENBERG HEADS N.Y. CIRCULATORS.

ORGANIZATION STARTS WITH 18 CHARTER MEMBERS AT SCHENECTADY.

The New York State Circulation Managers Association, talked of for the last month, has at last become a reality, formal organization being effected at Schenectady on August 22. There are eighteen charter members of the association, representing newspapers in all parts of the state, and according to plans discussed at the opening session the association is likely to live up to expectations, as far as benefits to the circulation managers of the state's dailies are concerned.

A large number of telegrams and letters were received from circulation and business managers in various cities who were unable to attend in person.

It was decided to hold the charter open for two weeks.

E. W. Van Deusen of the Gazette and J. M. Annenberg of the Union-Star are largely responsible for the formation of the new organization.

Officers were elected at the morning session, which was entirely devoted to problems of organization. They are:

President, J. M. Annenberg, Schenectady Union-Star; vice-president, James McKernan, New York World; secretary-treasurer, John O. Taft, Binghamton Republican-Herald; directors for two years, William Henry, New York American, and A. J. Gerber, Syracuse Journal; directors for one year, M. D. Treble, Buffalo Times, and R. D. M. Decker, Albany Knickerbocker Press.

Syracuse was selected for the next meeting, which will be held in November at a date which will not conflict with that of the New England Association of Circulation Managers.

The future meetings will be held quarterly in October, January, April and July.

Following the election of officers, President Annenberg addressed the association and stated that it was now ready to formulate plans that might be of use to the circulation departments of all papers in the state. A discussion of various topics of material interest to newspapers and the public took place, and plans were considered and steps taken toward the institution of new methods in the circulation departments of newspapers.

There was an informal discussion of various topics, including the Child

J. M. ANNENBERG.

Labor Law, proposed postal legislation, soldier circulation, etc.

The association members lunched at the Hotel Mohawk as the guests of the Schenectady Union-Star and the Schenectady Gazette. Mayor George R. Lunn delivered an interesting talk on the newspaper, its necessity and its importance, denouncing the proposed zone system.

Charter members of the association are:

Albany Knickerbocker Press—John W. O'Connor, R. D. M. Decker.

Albany Times-Union—Frank McDuff.

Binghamton Republican Herald—John O. Taft.

Buffalo Times—M. D. Treble.

Buffalo News—George N. Therrien.

New York American—W. H. Henry.

New York Italian Evening Bulletin—F. L. Frugone.

New York World—James McKernan.

Poughkeepsie Eagle-News—Edgar C. Hanford.

Schenectady Union-Star—J. M. Annenberg.

Schenectady Gazette—E. W. Van Deusen.

Syracuse Post-Standard—W. Hixson.

Syracuse Journal—A. J. Gerber.

Syracuse Herald—E. F. McIntyre.

Utica Observer—Martin A. Miner.

Utica Press—Alfred Cockerill.

Watertown Times—Charles H. Congdon.

Others present were Dr. George R. Lunn, mayor and Congressman;

F. J. Champion, publisher Schenectady Union-Star; E. V. Cullings, advertising manager Schenectady Union-Star; C. H. Page, assistant circulation manager Schenectady Gazette.

PRESS CLUB FOR SCRIBES AT ILLINOIS NAVAL STATION.

A Navy press club is being planned for the Great Lakes Naval Training Station at Great Lakes, Ill., so numerous are the pencil pushers, writers and editors of the camp. Newspaper men are to be found in every rank, many of them having been given commissions in the Naval Reserve Force, and others having entered at the bottom rung of the ladder. All are eager to get into the fighting and are applying the proverbial newspaperman's energy to mastering the new problems presented.

Among the newspaper men on the station are: Ensigns Sumner N. Blossom, John G. Rayley and J. C. Waldron, U.S.N.R.F. The first named was formerly with the Associated Press at Chicago. Mr. Rayley was an Omaha newspaper man and Ensign Waldron was on the Tribune staff in Chicago.

Other newspaper men in training include: Samuel D. Fuson, formerly with the Associated Press at St. Louis and Columbus, Ohio; Samuel Slotky of Omaha, James F. Corcoran, Chicago sport writer; William Sado, newspaper photographer; Alex T. Golden, Grand Rapids; Chester W. Faust, Chicago sport writer; Austin O'Malley, until his enlistment assistant city editor of the Chicago Tribune; John Knisely, Jr., Omaha advertising man, and Frances Buzzell, magazine writer.

Arden McCoy has sold the Ladora (Ia.) Times to Charles H. Snellenberger.

AT LEAST TRY TO GET WHAT YOU WANT
by advertising for it in
THE FOURTH ESTATE

Can we guarantee the results of a want ad?

Of course not. If we could, we should be foolish to let you have the advertising so cheap.

But the chances are always very much in your favor.

Many good news, paper men have secured good positions through an ad in THE FOURTH ESTATE.

Many employers have secured good editors, business managers, advertising managers, circulation managers, etc., in the same inexpensive way.

Many newspapers, printing plants, engraving plants, presses, etc., have been bought, sold or exchanged through these columns at the cost of a few dollars.

WAR PROGRAM FOR I. C. M. A.

(Continued from Tenth Page)
caused by the proposed increase in postage."

The program committee considers this an opportune point to introduce the topic of welfare work among newsboys and requests that members tell what big improvements they have made along this line since the Grand Rapids convention.

John J. Toler of the Atlanta Constitution will talk on "Discontinuance of premiums. Isn't it better generally to apply the money expended on them to increase the quality of the newspaper, as, for example, with more local news?"

W. J. Harrison of the Los Angeles Herald, will show the relation of "The child labor law and the newsboy."

Roy Hatton of the Detroit Free Press will discuss the question of "Cooperation among newspaper competitors in a given field. Establishing fixed selling conditions; how to minimize losses through dead-beat country and city dealers, etc."

Charles Payne of the Indianapolis Star will take up "The elimination of the middle man. District commission agents vs. salaried representatives in charge of branch offices."

H. M. Wheeler of the Hartford (Ct.) Times will discuss the "Value of the New England Association of Circulation Managers to the I.C.M.A. and of what advantage are these state and other circulation managers' associations?"

THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

The final business session will be devoted to a general discussion of the following questions, thirty minutes being allowed for each subject:

"Shall the I.C.M.A. invite circulation managers of magazines and trade journals and divide the association into divisions with a chairman at the head of each, all to come under the general control of the president of the I.C.M.A.?"

"Would it be wise to divide the United States and Canada into divisions so that circulation managers of each division may hold state or sectional meetings at least twice each year, such meetings to be in charge of a chairman, all to be under the supervision of the I.C.M.A.?"

Those questions disposed of, the order of business will be:

- Election of officers.
- Selection of next meeting place.
- Unfinished business.

POLLARD-ALLING MFG. COMPANY

System and Machinery for

ADDRESSING NEWSPAPERS

and PERIODICALS

to SUBSCRIBERS

From Thin Aluminum Plates.

Saves considerable money in operating costs and facilitates obtaining renewals at practically no cost for the addressing.
Write for particulars.
312-316 East 96th St. NEW YORK

Save Your Print Paper

A large percentage of roll breakages is due to excessive impression to bring up low type. This results in a tremendous waste of print paper. Ease up your impression by using slugs, which are type-high and will not give down under any method of matrix making. There are no low letters.

Ludlow Typograph

W. R. HASTINGS, President of the LYNN (Mass.) ITEM, says:

"Since we commenced using the Ludlow machine the breaks in the paper roll are less frequent, which saves a considerable amount of waste paper."

Send for Ludlow Literature

MERGENTHALER LINOTYPE CO.

Sole Selling Agents

Tribune Building, New York

CHICAGO NEW ORLEANS
SAN FRANCISCO TORONTO

Adjournment of convention.
Meeting of board of directors.

ENTERTAINMENT.

The ladies have been well provided for by the entertainment committee, of which John D. Simmons of the Atlanta Journal is chairman.

On Tuesday morning they will journey through Atlanta's "north side," Ansley Park, Druid Hills and residence sections. After luncheon at the East Side Club House they will return to the hotel to join the men for the afternoon trip.

The latter, for members and ladies, will include a jaunt to the Federal Prison, Cyclorama, Battle of Atlanta, Grant Park and a trolley ride. The official photograph will be taken at the Federal Prison.

In the evening the ladies will attend a performance at Keith's Forsyth Theater.

Wednesday morning the ladies will spend in Atlanta's shopping district and in the afternoon they will go to the Burns Club, Wren's Nest and other points of interest.

As noted above, the entertainment and banquet for members and ladies will be held at 7.30 p. m. in the Piedmont Hotel.

A photograph of members only will be taken at the adjournment of Wednesday's sessions. A photograph of the ladies only will be taken while they are on their automobile trip; or at the club house.

OF GENERAL INTEREST.

This convention is the nineteenth annual gathering of the International Circulation Managers Association and was originally scheduled for June. It was postponed, however, on account of the unsettled state of business following the American declaration of war, but, with confidence returning, the directors set the above dates.

John M. Schmid, circulation manager of the Indianapolis News, is president, and other officers are:

First vice-president, Ike U. Sears, Davenport (Ia.) Times; second vice-president, Joseph R. Taylor, Grand Rapids (Mich.) Press; secretary-treasurer, James A. Mathews, Oklahoma City Oklahoman.

Chairmen in charge of the active committees include:

Transportation, James McKernan, New York World; convention, George H. Reynolds, New Bedford (Mass.) Standard; auditing, William Elder, Toronto Telegram; newsboys' welfare, Joseph R. Taylor, Grand Rapids Press; program, J. M. Annenberg, Schenectady (N. Y.) Union-Star; publicity, Robert B. McClean, New York Evening Post; welfare, I. U. Sears, Davenport (Ia.) Times; A. B. C., Harold Hough, Fort Worth (Tex.) Star-Telegram; membership, C. F. Stout, Plainfield (N. J.) Courier-News; entertainment, John D. Simmons, Atlanta Journal; necrology, Maurice Levy, Cincinnati Post; by-laws, D. G. B. Rose, Louisville Post.

The program booklet is unusually artistic, even for the I.C.M.A., which has been singularly fortunate in this respect. The cover design is an attractive landscape by Frank L. Stanton and on several of the inside pages are seen light half-tone views of the city of Atlanta underlying the text. Odd pages are left blank for memoranda.

"WE BOYS" NOW JOILY TARS.

Another "we boys" case has been brought to the attention of the authorities by Paymaster R. C. Shepherd, U.S.N., editor of the naval service paper, Our Navy, in a warning to the public that impostors, saying they represent that publication, are collecting money from well-to-do persons.

The swindlers, according to Paymaster Shepherd, make a specialty of steamship owners and agents, and after pointing out that the paper is devoted to the interests of the Navy, as it is, ask for $100, sometimes more, to help the "man behind the gun," and as a rule the patriotic citizen gives a check.

Many of those who have proved "easy victims" for the impostors, it was said, recently gave large sums, some of the checks being for as much as $500. It was owing to the fact that some of the men approached mailed the checks to Paymaster Shepherd that the fraud was discovered. According to Mr. Shepherd there are three such bogus collectors at work in New York.

The matter was reported to the Police Department and detectives are now looking for the "we boys."

OLD PRINTER ILL.

I. B. ("Uncle Ike") Pilgrim, patriarch of Atlanta printers and well known throughout Georgia and other Southern states, is seriously ill at his home in Atlanta and his recovery seems doubtful. He was the first man to set type on the Atlanta Constitution, having been an employe on that paper from its beginning until about ten years ago, when he retired on a pension.

TEUTON WEEKLY QUILTS.

The Iowa Post, semi-weekly socialist newspaper published in the German language at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, will discontinue publication, according to Henry Gundling, its editor. It has been pro-German, it is said.

NASSAU QUALITY METALS

ALWAYS UNIFORM
ELECTROTYPE
LINOTYPE MONOTYPE
INTERTYPE
STEREOTYPE
AUTOPLATE
THOMPSONTYPE
COMPOSOTYPE

Manufactured by the
Nassau Smelting & Refining Works
606 West 96th Street NEW YORK

ADVERTISING IN FOREIGN LANGUAGES.

TRANSLATING "AMERICAN" INTO OTHER TONGUES AN EXPERT TASK—"ENGLISH" NOT ENGLISH THE WORLD OVER.

BY OREN R. GALLUP,

Export Manager, Simonds Manufacturing Company.

Since this country has comprehended that, in most lines of manufactured goods, our factories are producing greater quantities each year than the country can consume, and export trade therefore essential to the nation's prosperity, the American manufacturer has been besieged with a great amount of advice as to the proper methods for him to pursue to procure his share of the business available in the world's markets. Combined with this advice there has been a great amount of criticism of American policies and methods in handling such export business as we have been obtaining.

In commenting upon our export trade all of those who "knock" ignore completely the subject of export advertising. In effective advertising the United States stands so far above the other nations that comparison is hardly possible. It is our greatest national asset. It should be a powerful force in our foreign selling effort.

In speaking of export advertising as a great asset, I am not paying a compliment to advertising managers. They have done fine work along this line—a few of them. Most of them are not using their capital—it is in the bank and not even drawing interest. If their company wants and will properly handle export business, they are slackers who neglect this line of activity.

There are a number of propositions which must be carefully considered in connection with advertising in foreign languages. General recommendations may not apply to your line and each advertiser should consider this proposition individually before determining upon a policy.

TRANSLATIONS.

Should this translation be made in this country or in the foreign country itself? It depends upon your proposition entirely. If you have matter which is simple and does not contain technical expressions—if the language is to be simply the conversational language of the foreign country, you can get the translations done in this country by certain reliable agencies and individuals which will be entirely satisfactory. If your line is technical or requires a use of local expressions or idioms, by all means have the translation either made or carefully checked by your representative in that country, who is of course familiar with the local and technical expressions applying to your particular line.

It has been the experience of our company that it depends entirely upon the language as to the efficiency of the translation made here at home. In Spanish, French and German we have had some very creditable work done in New York. Of course we have become familiar with the peculiar expressions pertaining to our own business and are able to check the translations ourselves.

In Russian we have found it necessary to actually coin words or originate names for designating some of our goods properly and we have found it necessary to work through our Petrograd agency to accomplish this. Personally I favor having all translations checked in the country to which they are to be sent. If this is not possible have your translation checked by another reliable translator to avoid some of the amusing occurrences of which we have all heard.

And how about the translation of American into the local English of the many parts of the world? Forget the idea that your domestic literature is correct for English speaking countries abroad. As far as export advertising goes English is a foreign language. Local English in Australia is entirely different from your propaganda in this country with a punch in it.

That punch is liable to hit our Australian friend between the eyes instead of producing the orders.

Some firms already recognize this. One concern of which I have knowledge changes its English copy for different sections of the world.

They found that the goods themselves were called by different names than here—that the class of people they desired to reach were entirely a different class from the domestic market and to get efficiency they adopted the policy of using the local language. This of course requires much study and cooperation with your customers in the different sections of the world.

In our business we advertise to reach the saw filers in the saw mills of this country and the title "filer" is demanded by this class of men. In Australia they are "saw doctors"; some other sections call this individual the "engineer," which is entirely different work according to the American usage of the word.

There are a number of such complications as regards the saw business and of course you in other lines have different problems of this nature to be studied out.

PRINTING

Again the question of whether the work should be done here or in the country for which the goods are destined. Some firms advocate having the actual printing done in the foreign country, especially in such countries where the customs duties on printed matter are high. Another argument has been that the local agent takes a more personal interest if he has to attend to have the work done and all the details under his supervision.

Admitting the justice of these arguments it is my contention that this advertising matter should be printed in the United States. The advantage is so great that the opposing arguments are overcome.

It is agreed that advertising and printing are better done in this country than any other country in the world. Then why sacrifice the nice work and attractive appearance for the saving of a small amount per piece for advertising duties. If it is worth sending out it is worth doing right. Gain the value of American printing development and send out advertising that you will be proud to have your competitor read.

MAKE UP OF ADVERTISING.

Export copy is stronger if pictures or photos are prominently displayed with a limited amount of reading matter. These illustrations should not be typically American scenes. These are not understood and lose their effect. Get some photographs or sketches of scenes or occurrences in their own country and you talk a language which they can understand.

If you are advertising athletic underwear as being cool to wear at summer games do not send cuts showing a baseball game to your trade in Argentina. Make your sketch upon the basis of one of their horse racing events of which they are very proud.

In this country, successful advertisers study local conditions and make appeals personal. Advertising and selling do not vary in principle regardless of whether the goods are for Portland, Me., or Cairo, Egypt.

Use the same study of conditions and apply the same laws of common sense to export as to domestic effort and you will find the results are in proportion. Of course if you are lacking in both common sense and comprehension of the trade as regards your domestic work, then you might as well throw your money away here at home and not hurt the general reputation of American manufacturers by absurd attempts.

TRADE-MARKS.

Have you analyzed your trade-mark? Does it mean anything different in some other language? Does the foreign pronunciation have a tendency to confuse your goods with some other line? These matters are too important to ignore—they have had a vital effect upon the export business of some firms with which I am acquainted and it is better to change your trade-mark and have a special mark for certain countries than to become involved by lack of consideration of the language or customs of the country and people you desire to sell.

In a brief way I have covered some of the points of export advertising in foreign languages as viewed by an export manager. These matters have recently been discussed by the Export Managers' Club of New York and it is the feeling of our club that there should be closer cooperation between the advertising and export departments in these details as well as all other matters covering export publicity work.

Consult with your export manager with the idea that with your advertising knowledge combined with his export experience you can together show your competitors throughout the world that the international reputation of Americans as efficient and effective advertisers is correct.

FLINT NOW HEADS KANSAS SCHOOL.

MERLE THORPE RESIGNS TO REMAIN AS EDITOR OF THE NATION'S BUSINESS.

Merle Thorpe has resigned as head of the department of journalism at the University of Kansas and L. N. Flint has been named to succeed him.

Professor Thorpe was absent on leave during the past year, acting as editor of the Nation's Business, published in Washington by the National Chamber of Commerce. He will continue in that position, having considerably improved the magazine during the time he has been in charge.

Professor Flint has been acting chairman of the department. He was for several years an assistant in journalism while acting as alumni secretary and editor of the Graduate Magazine. Prior to going to the university he was for five years editor and publisher of the Manhattan Nationalist.

He has spent much time studying newspaper conditions in Eastern states and in California as well as in his native state, Kansas. Two years ago he made a survey of advertising conditions in that state and compiled figures showing that Kansas publishers were annually refusing undesirable advertising to the amount of $120,000.

He is an active member of the Association of American Teachers of Journalism and represents the second district on the executive committee of the Kansas State Editorial Association.

SMOKES FOR IOWA BOYS

The Des Moines Register and Tribune are promoting through their columns a novel scheme to send "smokes" to the boys in France. They have placed red, white and blue barrels in the most prominent cigar stores, with a placard urging the boys to drop in a package of smoking tobacco or cigars to be sent to the boys across the waters.

The barrels were filled within a short time and will be ready for the second shipment in a few days. Such slogans as "Buy a five-center today and send a smoke to the fellow in the trench" and "Whadye say? Save it and put in the red, white and blue barrel," are used in calling the people's attention to the scheme.

The Akley (Minn.) Herald-Tribune is installing a Linotype.

The BILLBOARD

While it rejects heart, kidney, consumption and cancer remedies and all patent medicines for which grossly over stated curative virtues are claimed, accepts business for such as salves, liniments, lotions, face creams, dentifrices, laxative waters and some laxative medicines honestly advertised as such.

SIMPLES OF REAL WORTH

All whiskey, beer, liquor and cigarette business is barred.

WEEKLY. Member A.B.C. 55c a line
Circulation 40,000 Copies.

The Billboard Publishing Co.

Broadway and 42d St., New York

CANADIAN EXPORT CO.'S MANAGER.

G. F. STEELE, SECRETARY OF THE NEWS PRINT ASS'N, NAMED FOR POST.

J. M. McCarthy, president of the Canadian Export Paper Company, Ltd., has appointed G. F. Steele, formerly secretary of the News Print Manufacturers Association, as general manager of the Canadian Export Paper Company, Ltd. Mr. Steele will assume his new duties on September 1.

About a year ago some of the larger manufacturers of paper in Canada became strongly impressed with the view that the abnormal conditions brought about by the war in the world's trade and the absolute lack of any precedent to serve as a guide to the conditions which the manufacturers would be called upon to cope with upon the cessation of hostilities affecting trade conditions in practically every civilized country of the world called for the most careful study and cooperation.

Many of the largest paper consuming sources of supply had been compelled to look elsewhere either for their manufactured paper or for their raw material. The increased demand for pulp and paper and the general rise in prices of all materials throughout the world, including wood and wood products, was, it was felt, likely to lead to a very considerable increase in the production of pulp, paper and other wood products throughout the Dominion in view of its available resources.

The best informed opinion in financial and manufacturing circles seemed to be that pending the readjustment of trade conditions consequent upon peace being declared, a very wide-reaching disturbance was likely to be experienced. The doctrine of preparedness was being preached everywhere.

After a general review of the situation it was felt that it could best be met by establishing connections as far as possible throughout all the world's markets which would be available to cope with any contingency which might arise. It was realized that preparations of this kind could not be undertaken and properly carried out by any individual manufacturer or by the manufacturers acting individually.

The Canadian Export Paper Company, Ltd., was accordingly formed with a view to securing the cooperative support of as many of the manufacturers as cared to participate in the proposed campaign of market extension. Work has been going on quietly during the past year but it has been realized that to insure its success it would be necessary to secure the services of some one having a wider acquaintance with trade conditions in territories not hitherto touched by Canadian manufacturers.

Mr. Steele, by reason of his long association with the pulp and paper industry and his unequalled knowledge of market conditions throughout the world, was considered the man, if his services could be secured. Negotiations have been pending for some time, with the result that Mr. Steele has now expressed his willingness to assume the responsibility.

The executive committee has not

VICTOR MURDOCK,

EDITOR OF THE WICHITA EAGLE, APPOINTED TO THE FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION.

as yet determined upon a successor to Mr. Steele, but probably will do so in the relatively near future.

In the meantime Mr. Steele's assistant, Robert T. Houk, Jr., will have charge of the office.

VICTOR MURDOCK NAMED FOR FEDERAL TRADE BOARD.

Victor Murdock, editor of the Wichita (Kan.) Eagle, has been designated by President Wilson to fill the place on the Federal Trade Commission of the late Will H. Parry.

The new commissioner, like his predecessor, is a newspaper man, having served for many years as editor and managing editor of the Wichita (Kan.) Eagle, which is owned by the estate of his mother, Victoria Murdock.

His new appointment will bring him to surroundings that are not altogether unfamiliar, as he spent several years in Washington as a member of the House of Representatives. He served in the Fifty-eighth, Fifty-ninth and Sixty-third Congresses and has also been chairman of the National Committee of the Progressive party.

He is forty-six years old and had been more or less active in newspaper work since 1894, when he became managing editor of the Wichita Eagle. Since his retirement from Congress he has devoted practically all of his time in the United States to his paper, a tour around the world taking up what was left.

TEXAS PLANS MATURE.

The East Texas Press Association will hold its annual meeting at Henderson on September 14-15. Among the speakers on the program are: Henry Edwards, Troupe Banner; A. H. Shields, Longview Times-Clarion; W. S. Davis, Nacogdoches Herald; W. F. Hayes, San Augustine Tribune; R. B. Walthall, Garrison News; W. L. West, Livingston Enterprise; R. M. Gilmore, Center Champion; A. H. Luker, Grapeland Messenger; T. J. Molloy, Timpson Times; G. M. Halton, Nacogdoches Sentinel.

G. E. Watford of the Lufkin News is president of the association.

"BONE DRY" LAW IN CANADA.

"DRY" PROVINCES MAY BAN PAPERS CONTAINING LIQUOR ADS.

Ontario and other prohibition provinces of Canada now have the right, through their Legislatures, to put the ban upon liquor advertising. The mails are denied to circulars and letters soliciting orders for liquors.

The publication of liquor advertisements within these provinces may be made a punishable offense; moreover—which is the most radical provision of the new law—any prohibition province may prohibit the entrance of any newspaper published outside its territory, which contains liquor advertising.

The new "temperance bill" making these provisions went through committee and received its third reading in the House of Commons and the Senate at Ottawa a few days ago. It contains a number of important changes to the "Doherty act" of the last session.

"Does this mean that the Montreal Gazette, the Montreal Star, Le Devoir, and other Montreal papers will be prohibited from circulating in the Province of Ontario?" asked Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux.

"Yes," replied Hon. C. J. Doherty, Minister of Justice, "if they contain liquor advertisements and the province takes action."

"I think it is a drastic section if it is lived up to," declared Mr. Lemieux. "If Ontario is sincere it will have to prohibit the Star, the Gazette, La Patrie, Le Canada, in fact every daily paper in Montreal, because the only Montreal paper that does not publish liquor advertisements is the Montreal Weekly Witness, which lives up to its profession. That means that the press of Montreal will be suppressed by the government of Ontario."

MERELY SUPPRESSES ADVERTISEMENTS.

"No," exclaimed R. B. Bennett of Calgary, "the advertisements will be suppressed, not the papers."

Mr. Lemieux retorted that he would be much surprised if the Ontario government notified the Montreal papers that they must not be circulated in Ontario unless the liquor advertisements were suppressed.

NEW PAPER FOR EDELSTEIN.

Hyman Edelstein, who has been chief editor of the Canadian Jewish Chronicle, Toronto, since September, 1914, has resigned to become the editor of an independent Jewish weekly, which will make its appearance on August 31.

The new paper will be absolutely non-partisan, and will view every public issue from the Jewish angle. Mr. Edelstein edited the souvenir bulletin of the proceedings of the Zionist convention in Winnipeg recently.

MOTORCYCLE FOILS JOVE.

When the electric power was knocked out by a thunder storm recently, the El Centro (Cal.) Press hitched a motorcycle to the Linotype machine and went on getting out the paper just as if nothing had happened.

GOVERNMENT SILENT ON LIBERTY LOAN ADS.

PRESS ASSOCIATIONS URGE TREASURY AND CONGRESS TO DEAL JUSTLY WITH THE NEWSPAPERS.

No announcement as to a change in the advertising policy of the Government on the next issue of the Liberty Loan was forthcoming from Washington this week and Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo is said to have the matter of paid advertising in the newspapers still under consideration.

Meanwhile plans for the loan are maturing in the bureaus of the Treasury Department, the peace move of the Vatican having had practically no influence in checking the war plans of the Government. No details of the loan plans have been made public, and, beyond the statement that the Government will use all the advertising mediums employed in the last loan campaign, with progress intensive rather than extensive, no reliable information is available.

Press associations in various parts of the country, aroused to the hostility of certain Government department and bureau heads toward the press, are waging a vigorous campaign to influence Congress in the enactment of legislation specifically authorizing paid newspaper advertising, but to date they have received little encouragement from the legislators, who are now busy with the War Revenue Bill.

A strong plea for justice to the press was made to Theodore Hardee, chairman of the Federal Reserve Bank at San Francisco, by Crombie Allen, president of the Southern California Press Association and publisher of the Ontario (Cal.) Daily Report and Daily Record. He has urged the members of his association to take the matter up personally with President Wilson, Secretary McAdoo, the California Senators and their local Congressmen, pointing out that the Government should pay the newspapers for space just as it pays other manufacturers for their commodities. His letter to Mr. Hardee follows:

"Your letters in regard to Liberty Loan publicity, addressed to the Daily Report and to the Ontario Record, received. As editor of these papers and also as president of the Southern California Associated Dailies, an organization of more than 50 daily newspapers of Southern California, I am replying. What I say will refer particularly to our own papers, but I am quite confident all is equally true of all the papers in our organization.

"The papers of Southern California responded to the call to assist in the sale of the Liberty Bonds as generously and as patriotically as any in the country. Take our own particular case:

"Our papers gave freely day in and day out of display space. In addition to this we ran columns of news about the issue, carried a streamer across the top of the first page every day, ran feature stories to stimulate public interest and also supported the issue editorially. My brother and I individually took seven per cent money and invested it in 3½ per cent Liberty Bonds for ourselves and our families.

"In addition I personally toured the town asking people to buy the bonds. I also presented the matter to the chamber of commerce and the chamber not only endorsed the project, but each director individually subscribed. The local banks here gave splendid support to the sale.

"Ontario's allotment was $60,000, but the campaign resulted in an over-subscription of more than 50 per cent, our total running close to $100,000.

"After the conclusion of the campaign, you wrote asking for a statement of amount of advertising, value etc., which we had donated. I replied that we had kept no accurate account of it, but had given everything we had. Authorities on selling campaigns figure two to five per cent for advertising expense. On a basis of $60,000 bonds sold the minimum of two per cent would be $1,800, the maximum of five per cent, $4,500. So, the minimum value would be $1,800, as our papers are the only ones published here.

"Now we didn't even put in a claim for $1,800, or any amount, but if any one agency needs fair pay for services rendered in selling the bonds it is the newspaper press. I feel sure in saying the newspapers of the nation will not allow themselves to be outdone by any agency in doing their bit to help win the war. This is a just war and the newspapers of the nation can be counted on to do everything in their power to help win it.

"And, in future they will equal the generosity of any, but until the government begins to ask munition manufacturers, railroads, and all others furnishing supplies, selling commodities or rendering services to the government to do so without pay, the newspapers cannot be considered unpatriotic in refusing further to give away the only commodity they have for sale—space—their only source of bread and butter revenue.

"We have not yet heard of the government asking the farmer or the manufacturer or anybody else but the newspaper to give his commodity free to the government. This is not a criticism of others for getting pay for what they furnish to the government. They are entitled to pay. All the newspaper asks is to be put on the same sound business basis.

"Many imagine war a fine thing for newspapers. The war hits the newspapers harder than any other industry. It takes toll at both ends. Commercial advertising is reduced, while producing expense is increased. Everything that enters into the production of a newspaper is vastly more expensive to pay for, with lessened revenue due to decreased advertising. Every extra paper sold is at a loss.

"It is reported that the 'paper trust,' after declaring big dividends, has a surplus of over $16,000,000. Many newspapers are being forced to the wall, unable to pay the almost prohibitive price of paper, jumped up entirely out of proportion to the slight increase in cost of production.

"In connection with the Liberty Bond sale I tried in vain to send either a telephone or telegraph message about it without paying. I assumed that inasmuch as the newspapers were doing everything for nothing the telephone and telegraph companies were doing likewise. Nothing doing. Likewise, even the postmaster refused to send a letter about it without being paid in advance.

"The newspapers simply ask that forthcoming bond issues be advertised just as other selling campaigns are advertised; that the government do business on a business basis, dealing with newspapers selling their only commodity—space—on the same basis they do with manufacturers, farmers and others having commodities for sale.

"Manufacturers simply sell their commodities to the government for certain prices. That is all. The government gets their commodities, the manufacturers get the government's money. And, it is all eminently right and proper it should be even so. The newspapers simply ask the government to pay for their advertising, for the newspaper's commodity.

"But, with the exchange of the manufacturer's commodity for the government's money the incident is closed, but even with paid advertising the newspaper does not cease to labor to win the war. The newspaper man does his individual bit like all other good citizens, but his paper also helps in the news and editorial columns.

"I am taking the liberty of enclosing copy of resolution adopted by our association over a year ago against the free space evil.

"I shall be glad to hear from you at your convenience on this matter."

NAVY THANKS PRESS CLUB OF BALTIMORE.

The Baltimore Press Club has received a letter of thanks from Lieutenant Lewis P. Clephane, section commander in the fifth naval district, United States Naval Reserve Force, for the free use of its club rooms for recruiting during the past four months. Edward H. Pfund, executive secretary of the club, was especially commended by Lieutenant Clephane for hospitality and efficient service.

AT MICHIGAN CAMP.

John Meyers has gone to Grayling, Mich., where the state troops are encamped, to correspond for the Detroit Free Press. R. H. Allie is correspondent for the Detroit Journal and C. S. Stevenson for the Detroit News.

PREACHER AIDS SMOKE FUND.

The St. Louis Republic interested an evangelist at Sikeston, Mo., in its soldier-tobacco campaign and the parson passed the hat at his revival service for tobacco money, raising $13.40 for the "smokes."

WAR BULLETINS TO BE ISSUED.

PUBLIC TO HEAR OFFICIALLY OF U. S. TROOPS' VICTORIES AND DISASTERS.

The first official summary of the war activities of the United States will be issued in a few days by Secretary Baker, to be followed weekly thereafter with statements of such matters as may be disclosed without violating military precautions.

When American troops get into action in France daily statements are likely to be issued founded upon the reports from General Pershing.

Regarding the rumors of disasters to American troops that are constantly being circulated, Mr. Baker reiterated the pledge of the Administration to withhold no news of misadventure of the forces from the public.

Every untoward happening will be announced promptly, he said, and the public might rest assured that no news meant good news to that extent.

The extent to which naval happenings can be made public is a different matter.

Secretary Daniels has promised that news of disasters will be given out with as little delay as possible, but it is not to be expected that the extent of damage to naval craft, temporary disablement of destroyers or other vessels, either as a result of action or through accident, will be disclosed.

The practice of all countries has been to keep the enemy as much in the dark as possible on such matters.

J. S. BRYAN STARTS PAPERS FOR "ROOKIES."

John Stuart Bryan, of the Richmond (Va.) News-Leader and a member of the executive council of the International Y.M.C.A., is arranging for the publication of an army camp weekly newspaper for Fort Oglethorpe and Chickamauga Park. This paper will be printed at the Chattanooga Times plant.

All composition will be done in the Times' composing room and the printing on the regular presses of the Times. No charge will be made for this work excepting the cost of white paper upon which the news is to be printed. All composition, stereotyping and pressroom expenses will be donated.

Mr. Bryan has been delegated by the council to arrange for the publication of similar papers in or near every army camp in the southeastern department. He has already arranged for the publication of the paper in Birmingham and went from Chattanooga to Atlanta.

The paper will be eight pages. It will contain cartoons furnished by some syndicate and several pages of other syndicated matter. The other pages will be news gathered in the camp and about matters of interest to the men in the camp. The papers are not to be sold, but circulated free among the men in training or at the post.

Competent writers, editors and other staff members will be employed or appointed. News items about happenings in one camp probably will be traded to papers in other camps if the items are of interest there.

THE ORGANIZATION OF A DAILY NEWSPAPER.

ARTICLE X.

CONTRACT WHICH INCLUDES ALL LEGAL ESSENTIALS AND IS CLEARLY DRAWN IS UNASSAILABLE

By EDMUND WALKER,
Chicago Herald Building.

In all business concerns the making and execution of contracts is a daily occurrence and perhaps a few words on the principles involved will be helpful.

Every contract must contain certain things, viz.:

1. Valuable and sufficient consideration.
2. Legality of object.
3. An offer and acceptance or an agreement.
4. Absence of fraud.
5. No duress.
6. Competent parties.

CONSIDERATION.

It is true that, generally speaking, a contract under seal need have no consideration. The origin of this is traced back to the days when the sealing of a contract was a very important matter. Today you buy a box of seals for ten cents and the thought that a party must take care and deliberation before sealing any document is no longer existent. It is better to rely absolutely on a definite consideration clause which will make "the mutual covenants and agreements" part of the consideration.

LEGALITY OF OBJECT.

Any contract which has an illegal object is obviously illegal itself. A contract to commit crime is worthless. In criminal law a contract agreeing not to prosecute a party who has committed a crime is in itself a crime, viz. compounding a felony.

OFFER AND ACCEPTANCE.

Every contract must have an offer and an acceptance or else a mutual agreement. This needs no explanation because it is the very reason of the contract.

ABSENCE OF FRAUD.

Every contract can be declared void if fraud can be proved. In actual practice fraud is one of the most difficult things to prove. Mere misstatement of fact is not fraud. There must always be deliberate intent to defraud. Intent is in many cases obvious and yet it cannot be proved.

A party might make a promise to do certain things and might never really intend doing them at all and yet it would be a difficult matter to prove that intention.

You might be told only a part of the facts and the defendant might claim that he had no knowledge of the untold facts at the time the contract was made, and you would find it difficult to prove what he knew, or did not know. Fraud, however, is the one thing which will upset any contract if proved.

NO DURESS.

Duress consists of threatening either the party, his wife or his family with violence or imprisonment. No contract made under duress is valid or enforceable.

COMPETENT PARTIES.

Competent parties exclude insane people, infants and married women, alien enemies, drunken parties, etc. The parties to a contract must be of age and must, in short, have legal capacity to make a contract.

GENERAL.

If every contract was prepared so that no dispute as to its interpretation was possible a large percentage of cases brought before the courts would be eliminated. Usually misunderstandings and ambiguities are responsible for court proceedings, and it is a good axiom to say that no contract can be too explicit and too clear in its meaning. The courts will always try to arrive at the true intention of the parties concerned, and the decisions handed down will be the result of their understanding of the intention. Great care should always be taken to see that two clauses do not conflict with one another, thereby rendering both open to question.

When contracts are made in duplicate, state so and also when in triplicate or quadruplicate.

It is an excellent plan to have a typed copy of all contracts made to be used around the office. The original will be placed in safety deposit boxes or at the bank. This prevents loss and keeps the original contract in good condition.

In conclusion I would try and set right a very popular misunderstanding regarding contracts made on Sunday. Generally speaking it may be laid down that a contract made on Sunday is quite legal except where a statute specifically prevents, but a contract to be performed on Sunday is always illegal.

At common law a contract made on Sunday is as valid as if made on any other day.

"A PACIFIC PORT" RIDICULED.

SENATOR JOHNSON DECLARES
GOVERNMENT DOES NOT TRUST PEOPLE.

The Government's request to the newspapers of the country to speak of "a Pacific port" or "an Atlantic port" was held up to ridicule in the Senate this week by Senator Johnson of California.

"I have an abiding confidence in the American people," he said. "There has never been a time in all our history when the American people have not risen superior to any crisis. All they ask is that they shall be treated with equality, with honesty and with truth in this great cataclysm. The American people, with the burden that has been put upon them, with the sacrifices that are demanded of them, are entitled to equality in every law, to honesty and to truth.

"Today I think that I echo what is in every Senator's heart when I say that that has not been put forth to the American people which should be put forth in clarion tones unto them. The mode in which they are given their publicity now is here stated concretely in a very simple illustration.

"Recently a Japanese mission came to San Francisco. They arrived there on a certain day last week. Four weeks ago I had the invitation to attend the ceremonies and the various entertainments in behalf of that mission.

"For three weeks all the newspapers of the city of San Francisco have been exploiting the arrival of that mission and that mission's views and here in Washington and in the East, although all California had published every detail, we read each day 'At a Pacific port.'

"Can you tell me upon what principle that sort of dealing should be indulged in with a people intelligent and critical, a people patriotic and a people self-sacrificing?

"At a Pacific port,' we learn here the Japanese mission landed and then, with the names carefully omitted, the various functions had in their behalf are told us. In my office are the San Francisco papers describing in detail all the dignitaries who were present and all the individuals who participated and everything in respect to the matter.

"It may be that in the peculiar and singular sort of mentality we now and then observe, some gentlemen in Washington with a peculiar mental strabismus have thought that thus by saying, 'At a Pacific port' in Washington, or in Brooklyn, or in New York, or in Boston, by that very token we prevented any enemies there from knowing whence this particular delegation came or what was done in its behalf when it reached this nation.

"I mention this very slight example because it is typical, and for those who are striving with all their might, who are going forward with all the force they are capable of, who are indeed overflowing with patriotism and desire to serve their land, I ask publicity and truth in this war—nothing more than that in return for their burden and in return for their sacrifices."

The New York Times, commenting on the Senator's remarks, said:

"Senator Johnson showed a somewhat unnecessary amount of excitement and indignation in denouncing the Governmental cautioning or requesting that led the papers in this part of the country to say that the Japanese Mission arrived not at San Francisco, but at 'a Pacific port.'

"Neither the Senator nor anybody else had to wait the arrival of the San Francisco papers before knowing where the Japanese did land, and while all he said about the absurdness and uselessness of this particular sort of secrecy may have been true enough, it is just as well to be amused by it as to indulge in eloquent rage, and if our military censorship never does anything more foolish than that, how much luckier than any of our allies—or of our enemies—we shall be!

"The loyal American papers do their fretting over more important suppressions. They are willing and eager to conceal everything that ought to be concealed, and they are willing, if not eager, to conceal things, now and then, the disclosure of which could do no imaginable harm if thereby they can please officials about the excellence of whose intentions they have no doubt.

"Senator Johnson insisted that the suppression of San Francisco's name was 'typical'—that it showed distrust of the American people. How much more kindly it would have been for him to see in it only a commendable desire to take no chances, even the smallest, that information useful to our foes gets to them without their doing, to get it, work that is more or less dangerous."

EXEMPTION RULES BOOK AD CAUSES ARREST.

Ernest McDaniel, an advertising man and Spanish-American war veteran, and M. C. Harper, publisher of a farm weekly, were arrested in Muskogee, Okla., by the Federal authorities charged with obstructing the draft laws of the United States.

It is charged they had sent an advertisement to several newspapers offering to sell for $1 a booklet that would give advice how to escape the draft.

The newspapers receiving the copy refused to publish it and advised the United States attorney at Muskogee.

The men claim that the booklet, which has not been printed, was intended to be of such a nature as to shame those trying to evade the draft law.

Going to France

in a few days as an accredited war correspondent. Can I serve you either with special cables, letter service or syndicate matter?

O. H. DOWNEY
Churubusco, Indiana

J. M. HUBER

Manufacturer of Black and Colored

News Inks

Main Office: 65-67 W. Houston Street
NEW YORK CITY

Color, Varnish & Ink Factories
BROOKLYN, N. Y.
Carbon Black Works, DOLA, W. VA

SERVICE BRANCHES

Boston, Baltimore, Chicago, Omaha,
Cincinnati, Los Angeles, St. Louis,
Philadelphia, San Francisco.

THE FOURTH ESTATE

A NEWSPAPER FOR THE MAKERS OF NEWSPAPERS AND INVESTORS IN ADVERTISING.

Entered as second class matter in the New York Post Office, March 20, 1900. Issued every Saturday by THE FOURTH ESTATE Publishing Company. Ernest F. Birmingham, President and Treasurer. Fremont W. Spicer, Vice-President and Secretary, 232 West 59th Street, New York City.

Subscription: TWO DOLLARS a year. Postage free in the United States, Hawaii, Porto Rico, the Philippines and Mexico. Postage extra to Canada, 52c; to other countries in Postal Union, $1.00.

Subscribers should have their copies of THE FOURTH ESTATE addressed to their homes, so as to avoid chance of loss in the mass of exchanges (second and third class matter) which goes to all offices.

Single copies, TEN CENTS (except Special Editions, 25 cents.)

Rack Numbers—Less than 3 months old, 25 cents; more than 3 months old, $1 each.

OFFICES AND PRINTING HOUSE

Broadway and 59th Street
232 West 59th St. NEW YORK

Columbus Circle.
Telephones, 7740, 7741, 7742 Columbus

ERNEST F. BIRMINGHAM, Publisher

No. 1226.

FOR THE WEEK ENDING AUGUST 25, 1917.

PRESS BULLETINS—AND FACTS

"Financing the War." The United States is financing itself in this war by loans and taxes. It obtains funds from the people, some by taxation and some by the sale of bonds, and then it goes into the markets and buys from the people what it needs. The people supply the Government with money and the Government with this money buys from the people what it needs for the war."

Words taken from Press Bulletin No. 12 of the Treasury Department's publicity bureau, which, in the famous old newspaper phrase, would be "interesting if true."

They are not true, however, as the newspapers of the country well know. A considerable part of the $2,000,000,000 already obtained from the people by the sale of bonds was secured through the channels of the country's newspapers, which have as yet seen none of the money with which the "Government buys from the people what it needs for the war."

No—the quotation loses much of its interest, for it is only a half-truth, and, as matters now stand, its proportion of veracity seems likely to remain stationary.

Certain members of Congress and officials of the Treasury Department are, for unknown or unmentioned reasons, unalterably opposed to the newspapers' plea for justice. They expect the press to perform costly and invaluable services to the Government—to practically see that the people provide the war's finances—without one cent of compensation.

The same forces are also behind the factions in Congress that wish to further handicap the press in its struggle for existence by heavy taxes over and above those to be borne by other business organizations, in spite of the fact that the period of the present war has seen the death of newspapers by the hundreds—due to already insufferable burdens. And they talk of the war profits made by newspapers!

They advance no cogent reasons for their stand, for they have none.

And when they are faced with the fact that the newspapers' case is economically and morally sound, they

The advertising forms close on Thursday. Advertisements should be received as early in the week as possible to insure proper classification.

ADVERTISING RATES.

Transient, 50 cents a line; agate measure (14 lines to the inch; 140 lines to the column; 560 lines to the page).

One page, $250; Front page, $400.

Discounts for consecutive insertions: One month, 10 per cent; two months, 20 per cent; three months, 30 per cent; six months, 40 per cent; one year, 50 per cent. Discounts based upon advance payment.

Small advertisements under classified headings, such as Help Wanted, For Sale, To Let, Instruction, Writers, Correspondents, Office necessities, 25 cents a line (about 7 words) each insertion, without discount. Situations Wanted 10 cents a line net.

Advertisements in special position (not less than 28 lines in depth of column) double price.

cry "slacker" and "copperhead" after the publisher who declines to donate his expensive white space free of charge to aid the Government in raising money with which it "goes into the markets and buys from the people what it needs for the war."

It has been said before and should be repeated again and again that no other business is expected to turn over its stock-in-trade without remuneration—at least to the extent of cost and a reasonable profit.

That proposition is unthought of—except in the case of the newspapers.

The advertising that brought success in June was paid for by private firms and individuals, who will probably not open their purses so liberally again.

It is not within their province to do so and no self-respecting Government should expect such services from any class of its citizens.

That the Treasury Department agrees, at least in theory, with the correctness of that view, the circular quoted above shows.

Let it now make good its high sounding claims. It needs the newspaper space to carry on its business, just as it needs cloth and steel and transportation, none of which is utilized without payment.

Let it buy the newspaper space required—exactly as it buys its steel, its lumber, its wood and its transportation—with the people's money.

STRAIGHT TO THE PEOPLE

Confronted by a solid line of opposition to all food legislation by politicians at Albany, George W. Perkins has taken his fight for a real food control bill direct to the people—through the medium of paid newspaper advertising. And the dispatches from New York's capital say that the "old guard" is thoroughly alarmed.

The politicians and "wire-pullers" of the Empire State, willing, as usual, to sacrifice the interests of their constituents to the purely selfish interests of party, thought that they had amended and otherwise strangled the bill out of existence—but they had not counted on Mr. Perkins and his faith in the people when appealed to through the public press.

He has had experience along that line before, as the "old guard" has occasion to remember—not without some bitterness. To the influence of the newspaper advertising prepared and paid for under Mr. Perkins' guidance many attribute the defeat of the constitutional amendments drafted by the state convention in 1915, and the machine men are taking the present campaign rather seriously.

It is yet too early to say whether equal success will attend his present effort, as the state-wide campaign in the press is just gaining headway, but the fact that alarm prevails in Albany is more or less significant.

NOTE AND COMMENT.

For a number of weeks the Macon (Ga.) News has been carrying a series of advertisements in behalf of a Macon credit bureau, headed "Do You Pay Your Bills?" The series, of which eighteen have already appeared, consists of talks on bills and the prompt payment of them. No report has been received as to the results, but it goes without saying that if the citizens of Macon are reading the very convincing arguments on why they should pay their bills they are paying more promptly than they have in the past.

The Knoxville (Tenn.) Sentinel recently carried five pages of advertising which was in the form of telegrams directed to the business men of Knoxville and signed by various and sundry individuals. These ordered merchandise or made inquiries relative to the business of the concern. Readers of the paper were requested to rewrite the telegrams condensing them to twenty words.

Individual prizes were offered for the best rewritten telegram, while a capital prize of $25 was awarded the contestants who received the largest number of individual awards. The five pages appeared twice thereby setting the paper nearly 2,000 inches of display advertising during a month when the volume of business was slightly less than that of other months.

A novel and praiseworthy idea and an excellent means of increasing revenues in a dull month has been discovered by John Othen, advertising manager of the Jacksonville (Fla.) Metropolis. When the young men of the city returned home with commissions in the Reserve Corps last week after three months in the training camps, the Metropolis induced the merchants of the city to "chip in" for a page advertisement, headed "Greetings to the young men of Jacksonville who are home today on furlough before taking up their duties as officers in the greatest American army ever recruited." The names of the new officers were printed in the middle of the advertisement.

The Baltimore News has been co-operating with the national food administrator by conducting a "War Bread Contest."

The Chicago Tribune is running a series of "National Problem of Conduct" advertisements to stimulate general interest in advertising and advertised goods. Some of the titles are: "The Outlook on Business," "Vacations and the War," "Being Economical in War-Time," "Capital and Labor in War-Time" and "National Stability." The advertisements are really editorials pointing out the danger of any panicky retrenchment on account of the war.

"The cost of advertising is borne by the non-advertising competitor"—this is the way the situation was summed up by W. H. Richards, Baltimore advertising expert who recently addressed a group of business men in Kansas City on "Modern Merchandising." Mr. Richards holds that the daily newspaper is the best possible medium for the average advertised article.

The Lansing State Journal has been "helping Hoover" lately by conducting a menu contest which attracted considerable interest among its readers.

The first copy of the first edition issued by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch in its new home was purchased by Stephen Bauer of St. Louis, who proposes to retain it as a memento of the opening. Mr. Bauer is a lifelong reader of the Post-Dispatch and made a special request for the initial copy.

The Bookseller, Newsdealer & Stationer in its issue of August 15 says editorially: "On the whole, we believe that the war, while it has affected the tastes and needs of readers, has increased the sales of books and not reduced them."

The New York Sun gained 209,642 lines of national advertising for the first seven months of 1917 over its showing of the same period last year.

B. C. Snider, editor of the Lincoln (Ill.) Courier-Herald, was surprised to receive a telegram from Parkersville, Miss., where his wife was visiting relatives, which contained this cryptic message: "First P. Is. 9-6. 2 Kings 4-26."

The editor looked up the references in the bible and found them: "For unto us a child is born: unto us a son is given. Run I pray thee now to meet her and say unto her: Is all well with thee? Is it well with the child? And she answered, 'It is well.'"

Suggestions are reaching the War Department as to the advisability of establishing at once in the American army area abroad soldier newspapers to furnish the men with a brief resume of home news as well as publishable facts about what is going on in France.

Trench papers of this character are distributed in the French and British lines, but American troops will be far from home and hear little of what is going on in the United States until American newspapers arrive at the front.

Robbers entered the office of the Advocate Review, a community newspaper in the south side of Chicago, last week and demanded largesse from M. E. Dorach, the editor. Mr. Dorach paused in his work of getting his paper ready for press long enough to laugh loudly at the robbers for hoping to find money in a newspaper office. When they discovered their mistake, the robbers left.

PURELY PERSONAL.

Louis Wiley, business manager of the New York Times, was a guest at a luncheon of the Canadian Club of Vancouver, B. C., on August 23. Mr. Wiley is now on a month's trip through Canada and expects to return to New York early in September.

Frank P. Glass, editor of the Birmingham (Ala.) News and chairman of the A.N.P.A. paper committee, was in New York this week.

H. H. Conlan of the Hartford Courant was a visitor in New York this week.

E. L. Harvey is now publicity director of the National Security League, New York.

Thomas Carroll Mirkil, a commercial reporter on the Philadelphia Public Ledger, has joined the editorial staff of the Shoe and Leather Trade Reporter and will have charge of the Chicago office after serving in Boston for a while.

Paul R. Leach will represent the Chicago Daily News at Camp Grant, the Illinois training cantonment for the National Army.

Gilman M. Parker of Chicago and Mrs. Parker are rejoicing over the recent arrival of a nine-pound baby girl. Mrs. Parker was formerly Miss Hetty Cattel, a well-known Western newspaper woman. Mr. Parker was a Chicago Tribune staff man and the wedding was a newspaper romance.

Jack H. Snyder, for nine years a member of the editorial staff of the Ardmore (Okla.) Ardmoreite, has been appointed assistant county engineer.

Charles E. Mann, editor of the Downs (Kan.) News, is being mentioned for Congress.

J. David Stern, publisher of the Springfield (Ill.) News-Record, visited New York this week.

E. H. Williamson, former secretary to W. B. Southwell, business manager for the Des Moines Register-Tribune, who is now business manager and owner of the Burlington Hawk-eye, has been appointed secretary to the mayor of Des Moines.

R. C. Wilkins, district manager for the Des Moines Register and Tribune, is improving after a recent operation for appendicitis. He expects to return to his desk by September 1.

Major Fred J. Herman, United States Cavalry, who is in charge of the construction of the army cantonment at Chillicothe, Ohio, is an old Cincinnati newspaper man, having been a reporter on the Times-Star from 1889 to 1893. At that time he organized Battery B, Cincinnati's then most famous artillery organization. He served in the Spanish-American war.

John Starke, manager of the City News Bureau of Cincinnati, is the proud father of a "cub reporter," which received its first assignment by being born last week. James Robert weighs eleven pounds.

Hinton Gilmore, formerly a newspaper man in Fort Worth and other Southern cities, has been awarded first prize of $50 in an advertising letter contest conducted by the Chicago Car Advertising Company.

WILLIAM R. HEARST.

WHO MAY BE NEW YORK'S NEXT MAYOR

HEARST IN MAYORALTY RACE.

William Randolph Hearst may be a candidate for mayor of New York City in the municipal election to be held in November, his name having been brought before the public by the signing of private petitions nominating him to run on the Democratic ticket. Tammany Hall, the "regular" Democratic organization, had previously named another ticket, but it is said, although not confirmed, that Mr. Hearst's election would be welcomed by the Democratic chiefs.

Mr. Hearst is now in California and was not notified of his nomination until after it had been made public by the presentation of the petitions. Up to the time of going to press, he had made no statement as to his candidacy.

Eight years ago Mr. Hearst ran for mayor in New York and was defeated by a very small margin, his supporters alleging fraud in the tally of the ballots. A recount of the vote was taken, but if there had been fraud in the first tally the second count failed to show any evidence of it, as a few votes were taken from Mr. Hearst's total and added to those of his opponent.

DAVIS LEGLESS BUT HAPPY.

Sam Davis, veteran Western newspaper man of the early Comstock Lode day and intimate of many celebrities, who has been ill at Berkeley, Cal., recently underwent an operation for the amputation of his right leg. Although Davis would not submit to a general anaesthetic, insisting only upon local anaesthetics, he is recovering from the shock of the operation and his recovery is now anticipated. Davis' home is in Carson, Nev.

The Smithwick (S. D.) Sentinel has discontinued publication.

STAFF CHANGES.

L. Andrew Brophy has resigned from the Canton (Ohio) News to go with the Columbus (Ohio) State Journal, succeeding Ralph A. Hull, who is now with the Associated Press in Chicago.

R. V. Williams has become a reporter on the Joplin (Mo.) Globe. He was formerly sporting editor of the Oklahoma City Oklahoman.

Karl G. Lind, member of the editorial staff of the Springfield (Ohio) Daily News, will go to Cleveland during the last week of August to become connected with the editorial office of the David Gibson Publishing Company.

J. C. Grey has left the war desk of the New York Evening Sun to join the forces of Lord Northcliffe in New York in a secretarial capacity. Bert E. Barnes has been moved from the city desk to the war desk of the Evening Sun to fill the vacancy left by Mr. Grey.

Gilbert Gabriel, book reviewer of the New York Evening Sun, has gone to Plattsburg. Gabriel received his summons to the camp about the same time he was ordered to report for examination in the conscript army.

Stacey Jones of Seattle has joined the staff of the Detroit News.

Henley Hill of the Detroit Journal has joined the Detroit News staff.

A. E. Bernton, assistant city editor of the Detroit Free Press, has gone to the rewrite desk of the Chicago Examiner. C. E. Darrymore has become assistant city editor on the Free Press.

W. R. White has gone over to the New York Evening Telegram copy desk from the city desk of the New York Evening Sun.

Samuel Gardenshire, Jr., late of the New York Morning Telegraph staff, has passed the examination for the aviation training school and has been accepted. He expects to go South soon.

Leo Marsh, assistant city editor of the New York Morning Telegraph, an alumnus of the New York University, has successfully passed the academic and physical examination for a lieutenancy in the Regular Army.

Captain Irving Goff McCann, a special writer on the Chicago News staff, has been visiting Des Moines, Ia., and inspecting the army cantonment for the past week. Mr. McCann is making a tour of the camps in the Middle West and the South and Central East.

SERVICE IN BUTTE.

The Butte (Mont.) Miner has started a service department and will furnish to advertising agencies, manufacturers, wholesalers, etc., information regarding state trade conditions. A monthly paper, the Butte Miner Service Bulletin, will be published, giving local men information on how they can cooperate with national advertisers.

Fire recently destroyed the building occupied by the Rio de Janeiro (Brazil) O Piaç.

The first issue of the United Farmers, Pine River, Minn., edited by O. B. Orres, has appeared.

THE PATRIOT-O-WHIRL
Newest and Best Automobile Accessory

Whirl Your Colors!

PUBLISHERS:
Here's the biggest winner ever offered.
Retail Price $1.00.
Write for special price on quantity orders
S. BLAKE WILLSDEN
29 E. Madison St., CHICAGO.

MAKING CARRIERS PROUD OF PAPER.

INDIANAPOLIS NEWS FINDS TRIPS TO CITY AID ESPRIT DE CORPS.

An effective way of keeping up esprit de corps among the country carriers and agents of a newspaper seems to have been found by the Indianapolis News, of which John M. Schmid, president of the International Circulation Managers Association, is circulation manager.

Most of the 800 News agents and carriers, scattered all through Indiana, had never seen Indianapolis and the News took advantage of the fact to give them trips to the city and show them how a metropolitan newspaper is printed.

The carriers were brought to Indianapolis in eleven divisions, about a week apart, and the first place they saw on their arrival was either the state house or the capitol. There they visited the legislative halls, the museum and the governor's office. On a number of occasions Governor Goodrich shook hands with the little visitors and also had his picture taken with the groups.

Large motor trucks were used to carry the excursionists to the most interesting points of the city, one of which was the home of the late James Whitcomb Riley.

Telling THE FOURTH ESTATE about the plan, Mr. Schmid said:

"The prime motive in bringing the boys to Indianapolis was to inspect the News Buildings, so that they could get an idea at first hand as to how a metropolitan newspaper is printed. The most interest was shown in the Linotype machines, although

The William L. Betts Company NEWSPAPER CONTEST SPECIALISTS

Suite 406, World Bldg., NEW YORK

The True News FIRST

Always—Accurately

INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE

10th Floor, World Bldg. NEW YORK

there was no lack of interest shown to any of the other departments.

"The delegations were entertained at the theater immediately after lunch and they were then returned to their respective homes by inter-urban cars. The News, being an afternoon paper, was able not only to bring these carriers to Indianapolis and show them a good time, but was also able to have its delivery looked after in the evening of the same day, so that there was no interference with its business.

"There was not a single accident or injury to any of the visitors, due for the most part to the care of the special agents in charge of the delegations. Traffic policemen in all parts of the city paid special attention to the children to see that they were safely guided across the congested streets."

The various delegations were in direct charge of V. Snyder, assistant manager of circulation, and a fifteen-minute address was given each delegation by Mr. Schmid, who pointed out to them their importance as a part of the News organization.

NEW ENTERPRISES.

QUANAH, TEX.—C. T. Wilson, who recently moved his newspaper plant from Kirkland to this city, will start a new paper here at an early date.

TULSA, OKLA.—The Tulsa Engraving Company; capital, $10,000; incorporators F. W. J. Haas, C. E. Dillon and W. D. Moss, Tulsa.

TOPEKA, KAN.—The Kansas Highway Commission is going to start publication of a quarterly magazine on highway work in Kansas. The first issue will appear in September.

OKLAHOMA CITY, OKLA.—A. B. Jones Publishing Company; capital, $5,000; incorporators, A. B. Jones, L. M. Jones and O. L. Price, Oklahoma City.

ARDMORE, OKLA.—Leftwich-Smith Monotype Company; capital, $7,000; incorporators, Morris M. Leftwich, Inez G. Leftwich and Norman A. Smith, Oklahoma City.

GETTING READY TO MOVE.

The Detroit Evening News is planning to move its office force to its new plant about October 1 and the new equipment is being rapidly installed. No date has yet been set for an official opening.

NEW A.N.P.A. MEMBER.

The South Bend (Ind.) News-Times has been elected to active membership in the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

KEEN PUBLISHERS Everywhere Are Buying Electric BulletinMachines

They have written us letters giving their opinions. They make interesting reading. We wish we could send them to you complete. Some of the letters are in our New Illustrated Catalogue. Why not let us send you One?

National Electric Bulletin
Corporation.
NEW LONDON, CONN.

NEWS NOTES OF CIRCULATORS.

The Winston-Salem (N. C.) Sentinel, of which Rufus Shore is manager, has inaugurated an early edition which will be put on the street about 1 o'clock every afternoon. In announcing this innovation the Sentinel states that it is to be a regular early edition and in no sense an "extra."

The Montgomery (Ala.) Advertiser has inaugurated an interesting department called "Farm and Immigration Section," in charge of Littell McClung.

Dr. W. A. Lynott, health commissioner of Joplin, Mo., has been engaged by the Joplin News-Herald to write a series of articles.

The Tacoma News-Ledger has just concluded an automobile prize campaign which added materially to its list of subscribers.

The George S. Teall Circulation Company has just concluded two circulation campaigns within the past week, one with the Houma (La.) Courier, and one with the New Iberia (La.) Enterprise. Automobiles, pianos and other prizes were given in both cases.

C. O. Ferguson, former circulation manager of Motor Age and recently with the Advance Felt & Cutting Company, has been appointed circulation manager for the Class Journal Company, New York.

The Lafayette (La.) Gazette is just starting a circulation campaign in which automobiles, pianos, and other prizes are to be given. The campaign is in charge of the George S. Teall Circulation Company.

The Teall Company also has a contract with the Franklin (La.) Watchman for a circulation campaign to start at an early date.

RECENT INCORPORATIONS.

New Art Printing Co., general printing and stationery business; capital, $5,000; incorporators, A. and R. Orszag and J. Berger, 967 Kelley st., New York.

Hooven Letter Service, general advertising business; capital, $10,000; incorporators, V. M. and M. P. Hooven and A. C. Mulcahy, 3249 Perry av., New York.

Direct Publicity Company, general advertising agency; capital, $50,000; incorporators, J. M. Allan, James E. Powell, Otto F. Ochs.

Shipping Publishing Company, publishing; capital, $50,000; incorpo-

The only journal outside of the United States published in the interest of newspaper men.

THE 30 pages Weekly NEWSPAPER WORLD

Annual Postal Subscription
Everywhere $3.40.
(Established 1898)

Specimen Copy Sent Free
Address: 14 Cross Street
FINSBURY, LONDON, ENG.

NEWSPAPER FEATURE SERVICE

"The CIRCULATION Builders"
37 West 39th Street, NEW YORK

I Get the Money!

J. A. McAVOY

Special Editions
Weekly Review Pages
Cartoon Books

Nat'l Exch. Bk. Bldg.
PROVIDENCE, R. I.

China Premiums ARE THE BEST!

Distinctive Service in Many Sizes
Write for Samples.

The Limoges China Co.
SEBRING, OHIO

The Booklovers Sales Co.
ANNOUNCES
Its Perfected "BOOKLOVERS"
Plan for a PICTUREGAME

Complete for 350.00
Complete means Complete.
SEND FOR THE DETAILS
110 West 40th st., New York City

A NEW ONE BY HOP

The International Syndicate
Established 1899. BALTIMORE, MD.

rators, Charles L. Wise, Charles A. Hazen, Glenn K. Wise.

CHICAGO.—Engineering and Contracting Publishing Company; capital, $150,000; incorporators, Lewis S. Louer, Neil M. Clark and William H. Fugery.

BACK FROM LONG TRIP.

Frank E. Grunagle, automobile editor of the Pittsburg Gazette Times and Chronicle Telegraph, has just returned to Pittsburg after a long motor trip. Leaving Pittsburg he motored to New York and then went on a tour of New York State, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Massachusetts and the Berkshires, accompanied by M. R. Thompson of J. C. Wilberding's staff.

SUMMER SLUMP IN ADS HERE.

TOTAL FOR YEAR SHOWS SMALL GAIN OVER 1916, WHICH WAS HIGH RECORD.

The usual midsummer slump in advertising business is apparent from the reports from seventy newspapers in twelve of the largest cities in the United States, according to figures compiled by the American Newspaper Publishers Association. The peak load for the first half of the year comes during the months of April and May.

This year the volume of advertising carried by these papers during these two months was the largest for the last four years.

The aggregate volume of advertising for the first seven months of the present year shows an increase of 3.6 per cent over that during the corresponding period last year, while the month of July, 1916, showed a gain of 13.6 per cent over the same month in 1915.

The aggregate number of lines carried by these seventy papers during July, 1917, was practically the same as in July, 1916, showing a gain of only .1 per cent. The figures include advertising in week-day and Sunday editions, both local and foreign business.

During the month of June, 1917, advertising business in the Eastern United States as represented by New York, Philadelphia, Washington and Buffalo showed an increase of 6.35 per cent over June, 1916, and for the month of July a gain of 2.9 per cent over the same month last year.

The Middle West as represented by Chicago, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Detroit, Minneapolis and St. Paul, showed a decrease for June of 14.4 per cent, and for July of 4 per cent.

The Far West, as represented by Los Angeles, showed a gain for June of 5.8 per cent and for July of 7.6 per cent.

Comparison of the counting room reports from these newspapers for the years 1914, 1915, 1916 and the first seven months of 1917 show an increase of 3.6 per cent for the last named period over the corresponding period in 1916, an increase of 12.66 per cent for the year 1916 over 1915, and a gain of 2.46 per cent for the year 1915 over 1914.

Total aggregate lines, 1914....	435,667,731
Total aggregate lines, 1915....	446,373,413
Total aggregate lines, 1916....	502,612,491

Per cent

January 1915 over January 1914	1.51*
January 1916 over January 1915	11.72†
January 1917 over January 1916	5.71†
February 1915 over February 1914	7.07*
February 1916 over February 1915	12.83†
February 1917 over February 1916	8.80†
March 1915 over March 1914	4.42*
March 1916 over March 1915	8.90†
March 1917 over March 1916	9.77†
April 1915 over April 1914	2.45*
April 1916 over April 1915	15.25†
April 1917 over April 1916	4.13†
May 1915 over May 1914	6.95*
May 1916 over May 1915	12.12†
May 1917 over May 1916	.30*
June 1915 over June 1914	.39†
June 1916 over June 1915	13.82†
June 1917 over June 1916	9.95†
July 1915 over July 1914	7.06*
July 1916 over July 1915	13.61†
July 1917 over July 1916	.11†

*Decrease.
†Increase.

The figures are taken from these papers in the following cities:

NEW YORK.
American, Evening Journal, Evening Mail, Evening Post, Evening Sun, Evening Telegram, Evening World, Globe, Herald, Press, Staats-Zeitung, Sun, Times, Tribune, World, Brooklyn Eagle and Brooklyn Standard-Union.

CHICAGO

Daily News, Tribune, Herald, Examiner, American, Post, and Journal.

PHILADELPHIA

Inquirer, Record, Press, Ledger, North American, Bulletin, and Telegraph.

CLEVELAND

Plain Dealer, Leader, News, and Press.

DETROIT

News-Tribune, Journal, Times, and Free Press.

CINCINNATI

Post, Times-Star, Enquirer, and Tribune.

WASHINGTON

Star, Post, Times, and Herald.

LOS ANGELES

Times, Examiner, Tribune, Herald, Express, and Record.

BUFFALO

Express, Courier, Enquirer, Times, Commercial, and News.

MINNEAPOLIS & ST. PAUL

Journal, Tribune, News, Dispatch, Pioneer-Press, and News.

ST. LOUIS

Republic, Globe-Democrat, Post, Dispatch, Star, and Times.

Commenting on this showing, the American Newspaper Publishers Association says:

The summer slump in revenue from advertising business should be accompanied by utmost economy in the consumption of news print. Stocks should be built up as much as possible by taking in contract paper, not by buying in the open market."

VACATION NOTES.

Nelson Meade of the New York Evening Sun copy desk is on a vacation.

Walter Smalley, night editor of the Detroit Free Press, is vacationing. Paul Perry is substituting.

Gardner Cowles, publisher of the Des Moines Register and Tribune, spent the past week in Rochester, Minn., and Madison, Wis. His son, who recently had an operation performed at Rochester, is reported to be getting along nicely.

George Riggs, mechanical foreman for the Des Moines Register and Tribune, is spending a few weeks in the Colorado mountains.

E. W. Jamieson, cartoonist and layout man for the Des Moines Evening Tribune, has returned to his desk after a six weeks' vacation in the East, where he has been visiting with relatives and friends.

MORE WORK FOR CASWELL.

A paid secretary has been appointed by the executive committee of the Nebraska State Press Association. G. S. Caswell, secretary of the Iowa State Press Association, will give a part of his time to the work of the Nebraska editors.

J. L. Shearer has sold the Rhodes (La.) Tribune to Fred H. Wolander.

NO SLACKENING IN PAPER DEMAND.

PRODUCTION AND SHIPMENTS OF NORTH AMERICAN MILLS NEAR MAXIMUM.

Little decrease in the consumption of news print, despite the usual falling off in advertising during the summer months, is apparent from the tables of production and shipment of this grade compiled and just made public for July by the News Print

Manufacturers Association.

Production for July for both American and Canadian mills averaged 98 per cent of maximum, which is over the limit to which a paper mill can be held for any length of time. Shipments, too, kept pace with production, the combined average being 97.9 per cent of maximum, leaving a total of 1-10th of 1 per cent to be added to storage stocks against the expected demand during the fall months.

The table, prepared by G. Frank Steele, secretary of the News Print Manufacturers Association, follows.

UNITED STATES MILLS.

Production.	Per cent Maximum.	Shipments.	Per cent Maximum.	Stocks On Hand
Whole year, 1916....	1,068,415	89.1	1,099,846	91.8	31,300
July, 1916	80,361	89.5	89,939	93.5	40,427
July, 1917	81,379	97.7	83,034	99.8	36,190
7 months, 1917....	536,096	97.3	584,845	97.1

CANADIAN MILLS.

Whole year, 1916....	532,251	95.6	542,504	97.5	18,134
July, 1916	42,856	96.8	42,477	93.4	23,140
July, 1917	48,670	95.4	48,535	98.1	10,429
7 months, 1917....	341,093	96.9	347,982	99.9

UNITED STATES AND CANADIAN MILLS.

Whole year, 1916....	1,600,666	91.3	1,642,440	93.6	49,434
July, 1916	130,217	92.0	132,416	93.6	63,567
July, 1917	129,949	98.0	131,514	97.9	46,619
7 months, 1917....	987,189	97.3	981,075	97.9

FAIR PAPER PRICE UNDER 3 CENTS.

A. N. P. A. URGES PUBLISHERS TO HAVE CONTRACTS ADJUSTED, IF NECESSARY.

That the market on news print paper is softening to a considerable degree is the opinion of the paper committee of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, based on reports that several paper manufacturers are voluntarily adjusting contracts with publishers so that the price is now under 3 cents a pound.

The committee believes that a just price at the present time ranges between 2.75 and 3 cents a pound.

A statement given out this week by Frank P. Glass, chairman of the paper committee, bearing on this situation follows:

"Many reports have come recently to the committee of contracts being voluntarily adjusted below 3 cents. Those manufacturers who have done this deserve the appreciation of publishers.

"It will be remembered that when prices were made last year, certain members of the executive committee of the News Print Manufacturers Association, who had set the present price, stated that if the market dropped lower than the contract price then set, they would be willing to readjust their contracts. A number of them have done this.

"More specific information may be obtained by personal inquiry at the office of the paper committee. The committee urges every publisher immediately to request his mill to meet the present market price on his contract as may have been promised when the contract was made. This adjustment should be from 2.75 to 3 cents to conform to the adjustments already reported."

NORTHCLIFFE PAPER COMING.

A 6,000-ton steamer is now loading news print paper at the docks of the Publishers Paper Company in Newfoundland. It will leave for the United States on August 27.

SWEDEN BANS PAPER EXPORT.

Sweden has announced a ban on export of all news print paper except under special license.

INTERTYPE

"The BETTER Machine"

Model A

Single Magazine

$2100

Model B

Two Magazines

$2600

Model C

Three Magazines

$3000

Side Magazine Unit, Applied Before Shipment, $160 Extra

Twenty million Intertype Matrices and 160,000 Intertype Spacebands are being used in 4,200 composing rooms in the United States and foreign countries.

Send your supply orders to our nearest Agency.

INTERTYPE CORPORATION
Terminal Building Brooklyn, N. Y.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES.

$20,000 Cash

available for first payment on purchase of an attractive daily newspaper property. Atlantic coast locations preferred.

Proposition P. J.

CHAS. M. PALMER
NEWSPAPER PROPERTIES
225 Fifth Ave. NEW YORK

EXCLUSIVE EASTERN FIELD

Only paper in Eastern city of 20,000, covering large field and showing satisfactory growth without direct effort. Price $150,000, including real estate on main street of city. Ask for Key No. 2201x. References required.

CHANCE FOR MERGER.

Two evening papers in live Central West field may be bought for $50,000 and merged. Every prospect of netting annually from $15,000 to $20,000. Details to inquirers furnishing references. Proposition 1m319x.

H. F. HENRICHS
NEWSPAPER PROPERTIES
LITCHFIELD, ILLINOIS

$125,000 buys controlling interest in established only morning daily in Southwestern city. A.P. franchise; annual income over $300,000; circulation over 25,000 daily. City has over 100,000 population and 15 railroad trunk lines. Only one morning and one afternoon paper. Over $3,000,000 buildings in progress today in addition to government millions being paid out in city now. Owner's reason for selling is wholly personal and action is desired immediately if above price stands. Address Box 887, care The Fourth Estate.

PUBLISHERS:

I have a modern printing plant; would like to contract for printing a weekly or a monthly newspaper or magazine. First-class work guaranteed at reasonable prices. Address Plymouth, care The Fourth Estate.

For an exceptionally good weekly will trade clear California property, part or all, valued at $15,000, or will apply as part payment for interest in evening daily. Years of experience qualifies me to handle either business or editorial end. Address Box 834, care The Fourth Estate.

PRINTING

A printer with first-class plant desires to arrange with one or two more weekly publications. Is an expert in keeping the prices down to rock bottom. Address Caslon, care The Fourth Estate.

SPECIAL AND CHICAGO NEWS
DAILY NEWS REPORTS.
YARD'S NEWS BUREAU
194 W. Washington Street, CHICAGO

HELP WANTED.

WANTED—An engraver to operate and manage engraving plant in connection with well established daily paper. Plant in good condition. Unusual opportunity for first-class man. Address, giving reference and experience: R.P.C., care The Fourth Estate.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES.

GOOD CHANCE for NEW DAILY

The Chamber of Commerce of a southern city, with a population of nearly 15,000, announces that it is ready to support a strictly "community" daily newspaper. If interested, address in strict confidence Box 854, care The Fourth Estate.

Newspapers For Sale!

Opportunities few to buy California dailies in good location. Evening paper, job shop, good equipment. Town 12,000. Price $20,000 to move it. Liberal terms. No agents. Box 1156, Los Angeles, California.

Competent newspaper man wants controlling interest in afternoon paper in Middle West. Town of 25,000. Address Box 846, care The Fourth Estate.

Wanted—Sample copies for Representatives for Ohio. The Ohio Novelty Agency, Youngstown, Ohio.

SERVICE CORNER

583.—"Do you know of any premium people who make pocket edition bibles?"

594.—"I would like to get in touch with newspapers which have, or will have good second-hand presses, stereotyping machinery and Linotypes for sale."

585.—"This city is in need of and will profitably support a daily newspaper. It must be strictly a "community" newspaper and could obtain a splendid circulation in the city and surrounding territory. Will you please put us in touch with parties whom you are of the opinion would be interested or refer this letter to such a source, which might bring this matter to the parties who might be interested."

586.—"Can you tell me the present whereabouts of A. E. Bickson, a cartoonist and artist, whom I last heard of in Chicago? I believe he is still on a Chicago newspaper."

587.—"Can you give me some information as to where I can get the 'Prestoplate Caster'?"

588.—"A French newspaper of New England is looking for an advertising solicitor who speaks French."

Claude Swanson has sold the Truman (Minn.) Tribune to W. P. Lemmer, of Belgrade, Minn.

HELP WANTED.

Special Writer Wanted

Catholic Publishing House has opening for competent special writer. Must have good command of English and be able to prepare interesting special articles and occasional editorial. Whole or part time. State education, experience and references. Address Box 887, care The Fourth Estate.

WANTED—A high grade special edition man to put on industrial edition in prosperous 25,000 city in Middle West. Must have gilt edge record. Submit full proof of same in first letter. Address Box 847, care The Fourth Estate.

Experienced young man wanted on a trade (coal) paper who can get news and write it in condensed form. He must also know something about circulation, advertising and general office work. Small salary to start, but good prospects. Address Box 886, care The Fourth Estate.

WANTED—Capable and energetic news editor for desk work on live six-page daily. Must be good headwriter and able to take phone service accurately and rapidly and know the value of news. Only thoroughly reliable and dependable man wanted. Fine small college city. Position permanent. State all in first letter. The Hillsdale Daily News, Hillsdale, Mich.

Large publishing concern wants a circulation manager who has had considerable experience in handling canvassers. Position pays salary and commission. Permanent position. Good chance for promotion. Reply confidential. Give age, experience, and if at present employed. Apply Box 886, care The Fourth Estate.

AMUSEMENTS.

Actor—B'way & 46th—"The Very Idea."
Booth—46th, W. of B'way—Russian Ballet.
Bijou—West 46th—"Mary's Ankles."
Broadway—At 41st—"Pay Me."
Cohan & Harris—W. 48d—"A Tailor Made Man."
Carino—39th st. and B'way—"Love o' Mike."
Cort—46th E. of B'way—"The Knife."
Criterion—B'way and 46th—"The Manx Man."
Eltinge—W. 48d—"Business Before Pleasure."
46th St.—W. of B'way—"The Italian Battlefront."
Fulton—W. 46th st—"The 13th Chair."
Gaiety—B'way and 46th—"Turn to the Right."
Harris—W. 48d—"Daybreak."
Hippodrome—4th av. and 44th st—"Cheer Up."
Hudson—W. 44th st—"The Deluge."
Lyceum—B'way & 46th—"The Lassoo."
Lyric—49d st. W. of B'way—"The Inner Man."
Liberty—W. 49d st—"Hitchy-Koo."
Manhattan Opera House—W. 50th—"The Wanderer."
Marine Edwards—c9th st. E. of B'way—"Eyes of Youth."
New Amsterdam—W. 49d—"Ziegfeld Follies."
Palace—B'way near 47th—Vaudeville.
Playhouse—48th E. of B'way—"The Man Who Came Back."
Princess—59th near B'way—"Oh, Boy."
Sherbert—44th, W. of B'way—"Maytime."
Winter Garden—B'way and 50th—"Passing Show of 1917."

POLLOCK'S NEWS

You can reach 2,500 Editors and Publishers in the Northwest—the wide-awake ones—every month, through the Classified Ads in Pollock's News. That is 20,000 of them in a year for ten dollars. Send for samples and display rates. 710 Temple Court, MINNEAPOLIS

MACHINERY FOR SALE.

TRUSTEE'S SALE
SEPTEMBER 8th.

The following property of the American Printing Company will be sold by me at St. Joseph, Mo., on Sept. 8:

8 Cylinder Presses
4 Platen Presses
2 Cross Automatic Paper Feeders
2 Linotype Machines
1 Folding Machine
2 Stitching Machines
1 Self-Clamp Paper Cutter
1 Otto Gas Engine
1 Dynamo, together with all belting, shafting, pulleys, etc., used in connection therewith.

Also type of all kinds and descriptions, imposing stones, type cabinets, all furniture and fixtures of any kind whatsoever.

WALTER FULKERSON, Trustee.

Owners desiring to sell newspaper properties may advertise them in these columns over an assumed name, and answers will be received in entire confidence and forwarded without charge.

Rate twenty-five cents per line agate.

FOR SALE—A Campbell New Model press and stereotype outfit complete. Rebuilt five years ago by R. Hoe & Co. and guaranteed to be in perfect condition. Prints four or eight pages, 6, 7 or 8 columns to the page, and can be seen running daily in our plant. Reason for selling is we are about to install larger press. Small cash payment and balance in monthly installments. First reasonable offer gets it. Address Campbell New Model, care The Fourth Estate, 232 West 50th street, New York City.

FOR SALE—Goss High-Speed Straight line Five Roll Double Width Press equipped with all modern improvements and in good condition. This press prints 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20 page papers at 75,000 per hour. 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32 page papers at 25,000 per hour. For prices and terms write

WALTER SCOTT & Co.,
PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY

GOSS FOUR DECK PRESS—Prints 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 14, 16, 20, 24, 28 or 32 pages. Overhauled and rebuilt. Will sell at very low price. The Goss Printing Press Co., Chicago, Ill.

LINOTYPE—Three Model 1 machines with complete equipment of molds, magazines and matrices. New Haven Union Co., New Haven, Ct.

LINOTYPE—Model No. 3, Serial No. 10102; 1 magazine, assortment of matrices. Fort Wayne Printing Co., Fort Wayne, Ind.

LINOTYPE—Model No. 1, Serial No. 2010, and Model No. 1, Serial No. 2011, with 1 magazine, liners, ejector blades, font of matrices (for each machine). Tribune Printing Co., Charleston, W. Va.

FOR SALE—Mats; four sets of 6-pt Roman No. 2, with Bold Face No. 1; five sets 7-pt Roman No. 2 with Bold Face No. 1. Write for details of font arrangement. News, Dayton, Ohio.

For Sale—16-page Potter Press in good running order, in use by Daily Argus-Leader, over 10,000 circulation, including stereotype outfit, also 12 turtles and 12 chases. Delivery about December 1, following installation larger press. A big bargain. Write the Argus-Leader Co., Sioux Falls, S. Dakota.

TYPO

CREDIT BOOKS, REPORTS, COLLECTION
General Offices
373 Fourth Avenue NEW YORK

SITUATIONS WANTED.

AUDITOR
BUSINESS MANAGER
CIRCULATION MANAGER
SYSTEMATIZER

Position wanted by young married man with country-wide experience in all the details of paper economy and business and circulation department efficiency. Long experience systematizing circulation departments, cutting down waste, stopping leaks and in up-to-the-minute methods of circulation promotion. Also long accounting experience in various lines. At present employed in responsible position but desire a change. Can furnish the best of references from present and previous employers and business associates. Address Box 858, care The Fourth Estate.

A LIVE WIRE

experienced newspaper woman, young and enthusiastic, and willing to handle any sort of assignment, will fill in gap, caused by conscription, on your editorial staff. Has handled general and feature work on large city dailies for several years. Address Box 843, care The Fourth Estate.

EXPERIENCED.

well-trained newspaper and advertising man wants position as business manager or managing editor of progressive afternoon daily. Has long and successful record on newspapers and in retail advertising. Thirty-six years old and thoroughly dependable. Might make moderate investment if desired. Prefer city of 30,000 to 50,000. Will consider trade journal proposition. Address Box 848, care The Fourth Estate.

EDITOR

Extensive Experience
Desires change
Exempt from conscription
References
Box 845,
Care The Fourth Estate.

THREE IN ONE.

Advertising Solicitor
Cartoonist and Illustrator
Special Writer.

This combination will prove valuable to a small city daily or a large weekly. Not a wonder in any one of the three lines, but do fair work in all three. Specimens of work and references on request. Address Box 854, care The Fourth Estate.

WANTED—Position, managing or telegraph editor. Thoroughly experienced, fully competent; now employed. Not subject to draft. Address Wembee, care The Fourth Estate.

Circulation Department

Three years in charge of daily of 25,000 circulation, several years previous in mailing and list departments. A strong believer in system and efficiency. Competent to assume charge of either department. References previous employers. Am twenty-nine years old, married, have wife and one child dependent. Must have work. What have you? Address Box 851, care The Fourth Estate.

OUR LETTER BOX.

Advertisements and all other friends of THE FOURTH ESTATE are invited to make our office their headquarters for correspondence, etc., etc.

At present these are letters waiting for
A. B. Codrington
S. Chivers-Wilson
Anna B. Corryshane
Geo. W. Craig
L. D. Curtright
Thos. B. Donnelly
Arthur T. Egan
W. Burton Ellis
A. Finley
A. Fisher
R. Harris Service
Sam'l H. Evans
George S. Teall
J. W. Glenister
W. A. Faver
Theodore Biscus
Ray E. Wilcox
J. G. Disher
G. S. Myers
Griffith Bonner
H. H. Patterson
Publicity Bureau
Glenn C. Wilson
O. W. Way
Chas. H. Forman
A. W. Sashkin
J. H. Mudgett Co.
A. P. Babyn
Richard Neville
Clifton E. Woods
C. S. Persons
C. S. Kendall
W. E. Hornaday
R. D. Van Alstin
A. E. Bickson.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

PUBLISHER'S ATTENTION

Do your circulation charges each month tally with your A. B. C. report? Or is there a deficit charge? Do you get a trial balance the first day of each month showing to a cent your circulation charges, allowances, cash, accounts receivable, etc? If you do not get the above you are in the dark as to leaks in your circulation revenue.

What about your city carrier service? Your mail subscription country promotion work and office methods incidental thereto? Are you satisfied? If not the writer will guarantee to satisfy you in all the above respects if given a six months' contract for a compensation of $3,000.

Can show a seventeen year record in circulation work. Now employed and have saved my present employer $5,000 per year in overhead and leaks in the past six months.

Address G. L., care The Fourth Estate.

ATTENTION PUBLISHERS!

Who has the best position to offer a newspaper man of 30 years' experience? At present employed as night editor of a large New England daily but desires a change. Send answers to Egbert, care The Fourth Estate.

A Practical Printer with four years' good all-around experience and a thorough course at the Mergenthaler factory as a machinist-operator wants to connect with some publication or a private plant where attention to business is appreciated and advancement made accordingly. Best of references from former employers. Address Austin Savadel, 108 Targee street, Stapleton, N. Y.

WANTED—Position as editor or feature writer on newspaper or trade publication. Married, sober and fully competent. Position must be permanent on ability to make good. Understand advertising and printing business in full detail. Can come at once. Address W. H. Van Doran, 416 Sherman st., Elkhart, Indiana.

MANAGING EDITOR of morning newspaper in Southern city of 75,000 wishes to make change. Experienced on larger Southern dailies. Afternoon newspaper preferred. Address D. K. L., care The Fourth Estate.

CIRCULATION MANAGER WANTS PLACE

as general, mail or city circulation manager on a live paper. Competent to promote special campaigns and successfully handle any kind of territory. Familiar with all approved systems. Experience covers large and small cities. Am employed, but desire a change at once. Age 33, references. Address Box 848, care The Fourth Estate.

Successful advertising man of wide experience in newspaper work is seeking new connections. Can write fetching copy and is live, energetic solicitor. Married, sober, industrious. References on request. Address Box 844, care The Fourth Estate.

YOUNG MAN
WHO CORRESPONDS

with five hundred newspapers wishes position as press agent or publicity manager with some person or firm desiring wide and international newspaper publicity. Address Box 853, care The Fourth Estate.

Mr. Publisher—Has the war hit your advertising department and do you want an experienced solicitor at once? Am unexpectedly at liberty. Have had over 30 years' experience selling advertising, not copy chasing. Full of ideas and know how to put them over. References cannot be beaten. Name what salary you will pay; it must be good, but I will earn it. For quick action, write Experienced Solicitor, care The Fourth Estate.

A good man for a good position. I know the newspaper game from Alpha to Omega; 20 years' experience, coast to coast. Gift edge salesman and copy writer. Born diplomat and executive. I want a man's job with a man's salary. What have you? Advertiser, 50 West Alexandrine, Detroit.

Mailing or list department, by a young married man of ten years' experience, capable of planning work to best advantage; several years in charge of afternoon daily; references gladly given. Address Box 850, care The Fourth Estate.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

You may need to know

How you can get in touch with the right man for a position vacant, or

How you can find a suitable opening for yourself or some friend whom you can recommend.

Keep in mind the scope of our work. Ours is a service bureau for employers and employees in all departments of the Publishing, Advertising and Printing field, East, South and West.

No charge to employers; registration free; moderate commissions from successful clients.

Fernald's Exchange, Inc.
Third National Bank Building
SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

Editor—Extensive experience daily, weekly, monthly; writer, reviewer; familiar with make-up; engaged, desires change; references. Not subject to draft. Address Box 838, care The Fourth Estate.

WANTED—Position on first class daily as business or advertising manager, by a high class man of unusual character, ability and experience. Best of references. Address Box 838, care The Fourth Estate.

Circulation and advertising man with a record of 20 years' successful work seeks position in the West or Southwest. Address Box 798, care The Fourth Estate.

Experienced newspaper man wants business or entire management of small city daily, or would lease the property. Good references. Now located Pacific coast and prefer to stay there, but will go elsewhere if advantageous. Address L. L. K., care The Fourth Estate, 233 West 60th street, New York.

Business Manager—Competent efficiency man now "making good" in metropolitan field desires general management of small city paper. Excellent record in all departments as an organizer and producer. Preference for position demanding careful, economical development. Address Box 836, care The Fourth Estate.

EXPERT TYPOGRAPHER
with fifteen years' practical experience desires connection with substantial advertising agency. University man. State full particulars. Address E. C. T., care The Fourth Estate.

HEMSTREET PRESS CLIPPINGS

Tenth Avenue at 45th Street NEW YORK CITY

We can Increase Your Business.
You want it Increased, don't you?

Of course you have thought of Press Clippings yourself—but let us tell you how Press Clippings can be made a BUSINESS-BUILDER for you.

"BURRELLE"

ESTABLISHED
A QUARTER OF
A CENTURY.

60 and 62 Warren Street
NEW YORK

NEWS OF THE AD AGENCIES.

The annual meeting of the Canadian Association of Advertising Agencies, which comprises all the leading advertising agencies in Canada, was held in Toronto recently at the King Edward Hotel. The following officers were elected: President, E. Desbarats, of the Desbarats Advertising Agency, Montreal; first vice-president, Mr. McConnell, of McConnell & Fergusson Agency, London, Ont.; second vice-president, W. B. Somerset, of A. McKim, Ltd., Montreal; secretary-treasurer, J. P. Patterson, of the Norris-Patterson Agency, Toronto, Ont.

The association has been a very considerable factor in the improvement of the standards of advertising in Canada, and in the elimination of unworthy mediums and unworthy advertisements, as well as in the great advance in the preparation of scientific and artistic result-bringing sale-effecting copy.

The new president has been receiving the congratulations of his friends, not only on account of his election, but also on the occasion of the beginning of his twenty-fifth year as head of the Desbarats Advertising Agency, which was established in 1892.

The Anfenger Advertising Company, Fullerton Bldg., St. Louis, is now located in the Railway Exchange Building, St. Louis.

Edwin Bird Wilson, Inc., New York, and the Lewis H. Mertz Advertising Agency, Ontario, Cal., have been recognized by the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

Arthur G. Heller has become associated with the Churchill-Hall, Inc., established the Heller-Barnham Agency in Newark, N. J., fourteen years ago and has been its head ever since.

Frederick Jordan, formerly in business for himself under the name of the Frederick Jordan Company, New York, is now associated with the Wales Advertising Company, also of New York. The Frederick Jordan Company has discontinued business.

Miss Edith V. Righter has resigned as secretary and spacebuyer of the H. E. James Advertising Agency, Inc., New York, after five years' service. She has made no plans for the future. Miss Righter has become well known to newspapers all over the United States, the bulk of the appropriations handled by her having gone to the daily press. She has bought space for

Daily Publishers! MORE ADVERTISING?

If you want real wide awake advertising representation, here in Chicago and the West, get in touch with us at once.

We get business by going after it; keeping after it until we get the order. Why not discuss the matter with us today? Write us at once.

YOUNG & FARRELL
Room 400, 30 N. Dearborn St.
CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

"Sloan's Liniment," the H. E. Bucklen & Co. preparations, "Dr. Bell's Pine Tar Honey," Richard Hudnut, Inc., and other proprietary and toilet article manufacturers.

For several years Miss Righter has been active in the New York League of Advertising Women and she was one of the charter members of the Philadelphia Club of Advertising Women.

Ewing & Miles, Inc., Times Building, New York, have discontinued business and made an assignment for the benefit of creditors.

Miss Margaret Chrysler, after an absence of several months, has rejoined the staff of the H. W. Kastor & Sons Advertising Agency, Chicago.

J. J. Finlay, former president of the Chicago Junior Advertising Association and affiliated with the Chicago advertising agency of Stavrum, Thompson & Bennett, has given up advertising work to serve Uncle Sam in the navy.

William H. Rankin, president of the Chicago advertising agency bearing his name, has been in Washington in conference with the government advisory board relative to advertising plans for the next Liberty Loan campaign.

J. P. Roche, head of the copy department of the W. D. McJunkin Advertising Company, Chicago, has resigned to enter the government commissary department with headquarters at Houston, Tex. His position in the advertising agency has not yet been filled.

W. D. Shafer has been elected vice-president of Stavrum, Thompson & Bennett, taking charge of special service and research.

Leon L. Carroll, at one time president of the Carroll-Schless Company, Inc., New York, has joined the staff of Sherman & Bryan, Inc., with which he was formerly connected.

Rex W. Wadman, for the past eight months with the Campbell-Ewald Company, New York, has opened an advertising agency in New York. Before going with the Detroit agency he was advertising manager of the Van Blerck Motor Company, Monroe, Mich., and the Sterling Engine Company, Buffalo, N. Y.

Gardiner, Atkinson & Wells, New York, have been chartered to do a general advertising business in New York, with a capital of $200,000. Those signing the incorporation papers are J. F. Atkinson, J. H. Weinberg, W. R. Gardner, Jr., 601 West 113th street, New York.

Everett R. Currier has been placed in charge of art work and printing of Berrien-Durstine, Inc., New York.

H. H. Charles, New York advertising agent, has been made a member of the National Advertising Advisory Board for the New York district.

Robert H. Wright has become part owner of the Clintonville (Wis.) Tribune.

A. C. Howlett has disposed of the White River (S. D.) News to C. Lubker.

AD FOLKS' NEWS.

Paul Cherington of Harvard University addressed the New York Advertising Club on August 21 on "What the Government is Doing for the Exporter."

Edward E. Saunier, recently advertising manager of Eastern Motors, Inc., New Britain, Ct., is now connected with the sales department of the Simplex Automobile Company. He has spent some weeks in the factory and will devote the next few years to selling automobiles prior to engaging in automobile advertising. He has been with Colgate & Co., Columbia Graphophone Company and advertising manager of the American Hosiery Company.

D. B. McCoy has become advertising manager of the Olds Motor Works, Lansing, Mich. He has been with the Oakland Motor Company for a number of years.

An educational campaign of lectures and discussions is planned by the Omaha Ad Club for this fall and winter. Frank Builta, Tom Warfield, C. E. Duffie and H. R. Bowen are the members of the educational committee, with Frank Builta as chairman.

Cards have gone out to the members asking them for suggestions as to topics to be discussed at these meetings. Among the topics suggested are "Analyzing a Market," "Emphasis," "Hiring and Training Men," "Headlines, What For?" "Layout, Balance, Harmony," etc.

E. Shanks, formerly assistant advertising manager of the Conklin Fountain Pen Company, Cleveland, has become connected with the advertising department of the Addressograph Company, Chicago. He was attached to the American Multigraph Company, Cleveland, for four years before going with the Conklin Company.

Trescott Goode, assistant advertising manager of the Elliott-Fisher Company, Harrisburg, Pa., has been appointed advertising manager of the company, succeeding Robinson Murray, who has been called for service at the Reserve Officers Training Camp at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga. He was formerly in charge of advertising for the Individual Drinking Cup Company.

HOW NATIONAL ADVERTISING RAISES DEALERS' PROFITS.

(Copyright, Mallory, Mitchell & Faust.)

It is a matter of economy for dealers to handle nationally advertised products. It is economy from the standpoint of capital invested in stock.

This is based upon the principle of consumer acceptance, which is created by the advertising. Inasmuch as the advertised brands are acceptable to every class of trade, the dealer need sell only advertised brands.

This means that the minimum of capital is required for a sufficient stock of goods upon which to do business. A large amount of capital is not tied up in slow moving stock which is acceptable to only a part of his trade. Fewer brands please all customers.

When advertised products are handled, and even pushed by the dealer, it is still necessary for him to carry some advertised brands to meet the demands of part of his trade.

It is clearly a matter of economy to carry as few brands as possible in each line. This condition is brought about by the dealer handling that class of products acceptable to all.

Not only does specialization on brands acceptable to all mean less capital invested, but it means a greater return from a given amount of capital through an increased rapidity of turn-over.

For example, a dealer who can supply the demands of his trade with two advertised brands of baked beans will turn his stock more often than that dealer who must carry several brands to supply the same quality of trade.

This means that every dollar will yield a return more frequently to the first dealer than to the latter.

It means twice as great an income from each dollar of capital.

Dealers are beginning to see that the margin of profit on a single sale is not of as great consequence as the number of times they can make sales from the same dollar.

It is better business to make a dollar yield a 20 per cent profit four times a year than to have it yield a 25 per cent profit twice a year.

The advertised brands are clearly the most profitable products to handle.

The Household Journal, recently consolidated with Floral Life, has completed preparations for moving its office force to Batavia, Ill., where the magazine has been printed for some time.

TO MANUFACTURERS:

If the links between the making of your product, your sales department, your advertising, your distributing channels and the consumer are not welded into one harmonious unit, your advertising cannot be made to produce its highest possible volume of returns. The Presbrey method has united these various branches in the case of many others. Why not learn wherein it can be made to earn for you? Your correspondence entails no obligation.

FRANK PRESBREY COMPANY

GENERAL ADVERTISING.
Makers of Commercial Booklets.
456 4th Av. (31st St.) NEW YORK

H. W. KASTOR & SONS ADVERTISING COMPANY

CHICAGO ST. LOUIS
An organization of merchandising men highly specialized in the solution of advertising problems.

G. LOGAN PAYNE CO.

SPECIAL REPRESENTATIVES
Fifth Avenue Building, NEW YORK
750 Marquette Building, CHICAGO
40 Broomfield St., BOSTON
Kresge Building, DETROIT

VERREE & CONKLIN

PUBLISHERS' REPRESENTATIVES
226 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK
11 Lafayette Boulevard, DETROIT
28 E. Jackson Boulevard, CHICAGO

JOHN BUDD CO.

Representing Newspapers of
Burrell Bldg., NEW YORK
Tribune Bldg., CHICAGO
Chemical Bldg., ST. LOUIS

JAMES ZOBIAN CO.

GENERAL ADVERTISING
336 Fifth Avenue NEW YORK

WRITING A REAL "BIG STORY."

ON THE JOB AT THE RISE OF A CANTONMENT FOR THE NATIONAL ARMY.

One of the hardest men to keep track of among New York's writers is Fred B. Appleget. One day he drops into the office and tells you how the flounders are biting or how he has solved Hoover's food problems with that 2 by 4 garden of his at Manasquan, N. J., and then saunters out with his Philip Morris cigarette. He smokes these because they advertise in the newspapers).

The next he is probably a thousand miles away and doing something no one ever heard of before, but it is always something different and interesting. He seems to have the habit of being on the ground when something big and worthwhile is going on.

One day he is running the free markets of Manhattan under the supervision of Borough President Marks; the next, writing the Hello Enrico story of the transcontinental telephone or telling the public how to call up Honolulu by wireless, or helping raise a few million dollars for the New York newsboys or somebody else—but he always deals in big figures.

Just now he seems to have fallen into something that should thoroughly satisfy his appetite for size, action and novelty. When last heard from he was at Camp Pike, Little Rock, Ark., writing the story of the monster cantonment, which James Stewart & Co., the well known contractors, are building there.

In a letter to a member of the staff of THE FOURTH ESTATE, he says:

"Don't be misled when you read that this is one of a lot of major cantonments—this is a super-major camp. A kind of five-star, last, final, home, Wall street and box-score edition, as we say on Park Row. (Is there such a place as Park Row and do they still print newspapers there?)

"Really, though; this is a tremendous place—you can't possibly realize it until you are on the ground—1,600 buildings going up, 8,000 men at work, pay-roll of $30,000 a day, a million and a half feet of lumber flowing in every day and being chewed up by twenty-five sawmills, twenty miles of sewer pipe going in, dozens of miles of water lines being laid, 1,500 horses and mules and a hundred huge trucks rushing everywhere, steam trench-diggers and drilling machines and blasting gangs working night and day, twenty mess houses serving 10,000 meals a day, companies of tall handsome Southern boys in khaki coming in every day, railroads building, mile after mile of streets being laid out and graded and bridges built—can you see the picture?

FRED APPLEGET IN THE SADDLE.

"Honestly, I don't believe there was ever anything like it in the way of quick construction since the one that fellow Genesis wrote about. (By the way, what paper is he on now? Would like to get him down here.)

"It's interesting and it's exciting, but I'll confess that it's a hard job to keep track of. You make a memorandum of the fact that work has begun on the 120 buildings constituting the re-mount station and before you can gallop back to where you keep your diary, you meet one of the big bosses who tells you the buildings are all up and horses in and the carpenters are working over on the hospital base. (Maybe not quite so quick as that, but not so far from it either.) The other day I saw a two-story barracks, 43 by 100 feet, go up in two hours and 55 minutes—floors laid, building enclosed, doors hung, windows in and even screened, roof on, scaffolding down and workmen out of the building in less than three hours. It took nearly 200 carpenters to do that trick, but it gives you an idea of what's going on here and the speed to it.)

"You can believe anything you see in regard to the building of Camp Pike. The people who are building it are the men who 'Stewardized' England with the high-speed engineering and construction methods and miracles are a daily occurrence here.

"Tell the boys I'm well and happy—up at reveille, eating so much off my tin plate three times a day that I'm ashamed to meet the commissary chief, in the saddle a good part of the time, sleeping in barracks, and to bed and glad to be, at taps. There goes tattoo now. Good night and good luck to you and THE FOURTH ESTATE."

BUTTERICK CHANGES.

James A. Townsend, for the past eleven years with the Butterick Company, has been placed in charge of advertising for that company on the Pacific Coast.

Edmund Carrington, for twelve years with the Butterick Company, has been transferred from Boston to take charge of the Middle Western district, with headquarters in Chicago, succeeding Mr. Townsend.

George Terrien, well known to New England advertising interests but now in the New York office, will succeed Mr. Carrington as New England manager.

BYRNES A SOLDIER.

J. E. Byrnes, assistant Western advertising manager of Scribner's Magazine, has resigned to enter the Reserve Officers Training Camp at Fort Sheridan, Ill.

I. W. Naylor has sold the Ulysses (Neb.) Saturday Night Review to the Ulysses Dispatch.

INTRODUCING AD FOLKS.

Paul Gifford, who has just been appointed advertising manager of the Hamilton Watch Company, Lancaster, Pa., has been with that firm for the past year and a half, prior to which he was connected in an executive capacity with Allen, Slade & Co., wholesale grocers of Fall River and New Bedford, Mass.

C. K. Woodbridge, who is now general sales manager of the Kellogg Products Company, Inc., Buffalo, N. Y., has been in the service of the Loose Wiles Biscuit Company for some time, serving as sales manager at its New York and Boston plants and also managing branches at Hartford and Springfield.

C. K. WOODBRIDGE.

The Kellogg Products Company, Inc., is a new company, with an authorized capital of $2,500,000, to manufacture "Nut-Margarin."

SEYMOUR JOINS F. P. ALCORN.

Franklin P. Alcorn, publisher's representative, has purchased the entire interest of Frank W. Henkel, who has been in charge of his Chicago office, and henceforth will own and control the business in both the East and West.

H. W. Seymour has acquired an interest in the Chicago office, which will be under his management. Mr. Seymour has had several years' experience in the advertising and publishing business and also has general agency experience. He is resigning from the advertising department of the New York Globe to take up his new duties in Chicago.

Mr. Alcorn has been in the special agency business for more than fifteen years.

Mr. Henkel has had a number of years of newspaper and advertising experience, having been associated in former years with some large Middle West dailies.

He is disposing of his interest for the purpose of engaging in the newspaper publishing business in the Middle West, the details of which will be announced at a later date.

"WINDOW DISPLAY WEEK" PLANS IN IOWA.

The Des Moines Retailers' Association is going to help make "Greater Iowa Week," October 1 to 6, the big event in the state by donating display windows for the exhibition of things made in Iowa. Merchants in other Iowa towns are going to do the same.

TEXANS TO MEET.

The East Texas Press Association will meet at Henderson on September 14 and 15.

Continued Growth

Thus far in 1917, The New York Times has published nearly eight million lines of advertisements, a gain of over 600,000 lines compared with the corresponding period last year, and, deducting help and situation wanted advertisements, a greater volume than any other New York newspaper.

Average net paid circulation, daily and Sunday, exceeds 340,000 copies.

THE PITTSBURG PRESS

HAS
THE Largest
DAILY AND SUNDAY
CIRCULATION
IN PITTSBURG

Foreign Advertising Representatives
I. A. KLEIN, Metropolitan Tower, N. Y.
JOHN GLASS, Peoples Gas Bldg., Chicago

SEATTLE "P-I"

The only seven day A. P. paper in the Metropolis of the entire Northwest.

The one paper in the entire West without competition in its field. It reaches into the homes of the most prosperous people on earth.

W. M. J. MORTON CO., Eastern Rep.,
Fifth Av. Bldg., NEW YORK
Tribune Building, CHICAGO

ADS RAISE LIVING STANDARDS.

(Continued from Seventh Page.).
had been successful. The same man that started that business are managing it today. Over a period exceeding thirty years, there never has been a change in the management or the policy.

When we began marketing Coca-Cola, we got $2 a gallon for it and the net profit was comparatively small. It was selling in less than half a dozen towns of central Georgia. We moved on.

We began to advertise, getting our signs as close as possible to where our goods were on sale, and keeping them there. When our trade widened we were able to reduce the price to $1.75 per gallon, giving the retailer a larger margin of profit, and making a better net profit all the time.

In 1906 I was called into the office of the president of the company. I was at that time head of the accounting department. He asked me for certain data, which I submitted in detail and explained. We had an increase of 20 per cent the year before, the largest we had ever had up to that time—largest percentages on the largest volume of business—and that is going some, you know.

He said, "I think we can reduce the price to the jobber. I was a wholesale druggist once and I know how scant net profits are at the end of the year."

He wiped about 20 per cent off

THE NEW YORK WORLD

(Morning Edition)

Prints MORE
ADVERTISING
than any other newspaper prints.

The Remarkable Advertising
Pulling Qualities of the WASHINGTON
TIMES are built on the Foundation Stones of Size of Circulation
Confidence of Its Readers
A Right Rate

In Washington, D. C.,
The Times is Preferred.

Topeka Daily Capital

GOVERNMENT REPORT

for six months ending April 1, 1917, showing net paid circulation.

34,567

Member A. B. C. Publisher
Arthur Capper TOPEKA, KAN.

the retail price and the jobber's price, and in the face of the largest increase in the history of our business.

Why? Because we were doing business at a less expense, we were doing a very much bigger business with no greater overhead, through the medium of good advertising, backed up by vigorous, logical merchandising methods.

In 1914 this country faced a commercial crisis, such as has not been seen in many years. We did not know "where we were at." Our business went on with a constantly increasing percentage every month.

Through the medium of advertising by every legitimate means at our command, we had purchased an insurance policy in the good will of the American people, that no panic could take away from us, and throughout that memorable year our business continued to grow. At the end of the year we had a net 10 per cent increase.

Business increases through advertising!

But even greater difficulties were facing us. In 1915, with the closing of the ports of Europe, with the shutting off of exportations from many of the countries to which we had to look for our supplies, we faced a steadily increasing cost. Many were the conferences we held at the close of the day. Our cost was going up! up!! up!!!

The trade had kept faith with us. The public had kept faith with us. And we wanted to keep faith with them.

Finally, it looked as if the rising cost of the product had reached almost to the danger line and a conference was called.

The president of the concern had retired. He was chairman of the board and we younger fellows were called to his office in the bank. He had the figures before him. The manufacturing department had shown him that we were within a few cents of the net receipts of our product.

A gentleman, who was called into this conference, said, "I think you can cut the quality, the public won't know about it. Cut it 10 per cent. When these times are over, you can go back if necessary."

Well, we discussed that. We boys

BOSTON POST

CIRCULATION JULY, 1917

"NO RETURNS"

The Daily Post 523,332
The Sunday Post 354,316

KELLY-SMITH CO., Representatives
220 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK
C. GEORGE KROGNES, Western Rep.
Marquette Building, CHICAGO

Today's Housewife

Net Paid
Guaranteed

For Every Issue

GEORGE A. McLELLAN, Gen. Mgr.
401 Fourth Avenue NEW YORK

who were responsible for the success of the company said, "No, there must be no cutting of quality."

I said to him, "We have $10,000,000 invested in the good will of the American public. Is it good business to sacrifice $10,000,000 for a paltry immediate profit?" It was decided that it was not.

Then they said, "Cut the advertising."

"Not yet; maybe some day, but not yet. We must not put up a weak front before the American public now."

"Then raise the price." That is when I was ready to fight, and I said, "Gentlemen, so long as I am charged with the sales of this product to the retailers of this country, the price of this article will not be raised. They have kept faith with us on a basis of 3½-cent sugar. We will keep faith with them on 10-cent sugar. No spirit of philanthropy, no maudlin sentiment prompted that statement. It was good, sane, clear business."

And this is the answer. There came to us last year over 30 per cent increase, with a selling cost of less than 2 per cent, and the net almost equal to the best year in the history of our business.

THE DUTY OF AN AD CLUB SECRETARY.

(Continued from Fifth Page.)

decided this year that the club secretary is the logical man to express the personality of the association to outsiders and to its members, and hence have put into his hands the chairmanships of both publication and publicity committees, making him editor-in-chief of the club-publication, Pilgrim Publicity, which the present secretary has changed from a rather staid and formal monthly to a newsy weekly which represents some of the ideas set forth here, as well as others.

Possibly some of the other secretaries may feel—and perhaps with reason—that this plan vests in the secretary too much power and responsibility—to say nothing of the extra work involved.

But if the analyses which we have made are accurate, then this plan is indeed a logical one. And, after all,

1916 Broke All Records
of the

Toledo BLADE

9,807,578 Lines

of advertising in 313 days.
AN AVERAGE OF OVER
104 COLUMNS PER DAY.

Member A.B.C.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
350 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK
Mellers Building, CHICAGO
201 Devonshire St., BOSTON
Krege Building, DETROIT

YOU MUST USE THE LOS ANGELES EXAMINER

TO COVER THE
GREAT SOUTHWEST

Largest Sunday Circulation—more than 150,000

the success of a club secretary is dependent on precisely the same principles which make for large accomplishment in his own business—broad plans, carried out by capable and willing assistants, in effective organization.

And back, of course, of the ability for effective organization must be real virtue and genuine enthusiasm—for these are the qualities that set free in him the power to assume greatly added responsibilities and discharge them creditably.

On this basis, the secretary may with entire consistency so put himself—his plans and his work—into the publication as almost to be the publication—making it, as it were, a sort of secretary-on-paper—and working successfully through it to vitalize the membership and broaden the influence of the club—not locally, but throughout the country.

SPECIAL AGENCY CHANGES.

Pensacola (Fla.) News (national representation)—from E. Katz Special Agency, New York and Chicago, to George B. David Company, New York and Chicago.

Worcester (Mass.) Telegram (national representation)—from Kelly Smith Company, New York and Chicago, to Paul Block, Inc., New York and Chicago.

The Dakota Central Telephone News Bureau is the name of a new publication just issued at Aberdeen, S. D.

The Open Door to the workshop of the world

The Philadelphia Record

Special Representatives
STORY, BROOKS & FINLEY,
Fifth Ave. Bldg., NEW YORK
Peoples Gas Bldg., CHICAGO

The Cincinnati Community

consists of an area of 70 square miles with a population of 600,000

THE CINCINNATI ENQUIRER

is the MEDIUM YOU SHOULD USE in this unparalleled market.

Foreign Representatives
John Glass, Peoples Gas Bldg., Chicago
L.A. Klein, Metropolitan Tower, New York

The problem of covering the Canadian field is answered by obtaining the service of the

Dominion PRESS CLIPPING AGENCY
which gives the clippings on all matters of interest to you, printed in over 95 per cent of the newspapers and publications of CANADA. We cover every foot of Canada and Newfoundland.
74-76 Church Street, TORONTO, CAN.

SUNBURSTS OF JOY.

From the A.A.C.W. News.

Oh the make-up man; the rollicking, frolicking make-up man; how happy is he! What fun he has! How proud he must be in all his prerogatives with their opportunities to get the whole establishment in Dutch.

He's the fella who puts the advertisement of the undertaker immediately beneath the "cards" of six physicians! Oh, joy!

He's the fella who switches the one-line head, "Bride Is Deceived," from the item about the annulment suit to the announcement of the marriage of the publisher's son! Oodles of joy!

He's the fella who gets the "takes" mixed in the last edition, and adds to the item about the death of the governor that he is survived by his widow and a batting average of .300." Joy galore!

He's the fella who manages to get the gruesome skull and crossbones moving picture advertisement immediately below the "They Satisfy" advertisement, and omits the rule between! Sunbursts of joy!

He's the fella who sandwiches the modest little shoe store advertisement between the two big corn-cure advertisements! Oh scintillating, suffocating joy!

Oh what fun to be the make-up man—the make-up man.

A new brick building is being erected for the Pocahontas (Ia.) Democrat.

THE PITTSBURGH POST ONLY

Democratic Paper In Pittsburgh

CONE, LORENZEN & WOODMAN
Special Representatives
New York, Detroit, Kansas City, Chicago

Trenton TIMES

New Jersey's Leading

FOOD MEDIUM

Million lines food advertising in two years—developed by our Thursday Food Feature Pages.

This "fond atmosphere" and "housewife interest" will increase your sales.

KELLY-SMITH CO.
230 5th Av., N. Y.; Lytton Bldg., Chicago

Baltimore News

Net Daily Circulation 91,250
JULY, 1917

GAIN over JULY, 1916 15,388

Special Representatives
DAN A. CARROLL J. E. LUTZ
New York Chicago

St. Louis Globe-Democrat

dominates the morning field.

A. B. C. Statement
March 31, 1916 140,970

Net Paid Circulation
June 4, 1917 138,135

Between March 31, 1916, and June 4, 1917, daily price was raised to 2c.

The clean home-going family newspaper

PATERSON New Jersey's Famous Manufacturing City PRESS GUARDIAN

Its BIG Independent Newspaper

G. LOGAN PAYNE COMPANY
New York Chicago Detroit Boston

"American business men do not realize the value which trade journals and technical magazines may have for them in increasing the efficiency of their factories and in giving them a broad and comprehensive view of their business.

"Our foreign competitors read almost every article published upon their business with great care and thoroughness. Many of them have duplicate copies of their favorite trade paper sent to their homes so that they may read them away from the business without being disturbed. Many foreign manufacturers contribute articles to these journals on phases of the business with which they are most familiar. Such articles are bound to be helpful and have a constructive effect.

"Our trade journals and technical papers are the best in the world, and they should be supported and encouraged by our business men. Copies should be placed where employees can see them and they should be urged to read and study them.

"These papers are preaching the gospel of sound business on practical lines and are helpful not only to business but to the country as a whole.

"If the suggestions made by them in the past had been followed by our business men it would not be necessary at this time to point out some of the fundamental weaknesses in American business."

—Edward N. Hurley, formerly chairman of the Federal Trade Commission, in "The Awakening of Business."

A Gain of 73%

During the past four years the Detroit Free Press has enjoyed a gain of 73 per cent in circulation. Character and solidity explain this increase. ADVERTISING MUST PAY in a medium which calls forth such a tremendous response from the public.

The Detroit Free Press

"MICHIGAN'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER."

VERREE & CONKLIN, Foreign Reps.
NEW YORK CHICAGO DETROIT

THE DAYTON SUNDAY NEWS

in the first five months of 1917 has carried 110,264 lines more local business than its only competitor.

With the Springfield News (the two at 650 per line) it's a great Sunday combination.

NEWS LEAGUE OF OHIO
DAYTON, OHIO
I. A. Klein, Metropolitan Tower, N. Y.
John Glass, Peoples Gas Bldg., Chicago

FRUIT PAPERS MERGE.

The Fruit Grower, St. Joseph, Mo., has been purchased by Frank S. Adams, publisher of the American Fruit Grower, Charlottesville, Va. The two papers have been combined and are now published monthly under the title of the American Fruit Grower, with headquarters in the Marquette Building, Chicago.

The Eastern office is located at Charlottesville, Va., and the Western office at Kansas City.

WOOD TO MILWAUKEE.

C. E. Wood has resigned from the staff of the Chicago Evening American, with which he has been connected for the past eighteen months in an executive capacity, to become connected with the Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin. He is familiar with the Milwaukee field, several of his twenty years in newspaper work having been spent in that city.

CHILDS WITH AIR PAPERS.

Harry B. Childs has become advertising manager of Flying and Aerial Age, two publications operated by the Flying Association, Inc., New York. He was formerly with several daily newspapers in Newark, N. J.

ADLER TO PLATTSBURG.

Captain Julius Ochs Adler, U. S. A., formerly with the New York Times, has been assigned to duty at Plattsburg Barracks, as an instructor in the Second Reserve Officers Training Camp.

THE WASHINGTON POST

WASHINGTON, D. C.
Net Paid Daily Circulation
For the Month of July, 1917

46,650

DAILY 2c—SUNDAY 5c

(Member A. B. C.)

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
New York Chicago Boston Detroit

BUFFALO EVENING NEWS

The only Buffalo newspaper that contains its advertising columns. Many of our advertisers use our columns exclusively. The above is one of the many reasons WHY?

EDWARD H. BUTLER, Editor and Pub.
Represented in the foreign field by
KELLY-SMITH COMPANY,
120 Fifth Ave., NEW YORK.
Lytton Building, CHICAGO.

IN THE AD FIELD.

ADVERTISING ACCOUNTS NOW BEING PLACED BY THE AGENCIES.

AYER, 300 Chestnut st., Philadelphia—Making new contracts with newspapers for the Woolson Spice
Co., Toledo, Ohio.

BATTEN, 381 4th av., New York
—Reported to be planning an extensive campaign for the Loose-Wiles Biscuit Co., "Sunshine" and "Takhoma" biscuits, Thompson av., Long Island City, N. Y.

Also placing advertising for Geo.
E. Keith Co., "Walk-Over Shoes," Campello, Mass.

COWEN, 50 Union sq., N. Y.—
Making 1018 contracts with a list of newspapers for New England Lines.

KORRE, 212 5th av., N. Y.—Placing orders with newspapers for Chase-O Mfg. Co., "Chase-O-Laundry Crystals," Philadelphia.

REDFIELD, 34 W. 33d st., N. Y.
—Reported to be making up a newspaper list for Sonora Phonograph
Co., N. Y.

TAYLOR - CRITCHFIELD - CLAGUE, Brooks Bldg., Chicago—
Making contracts with newspapers for Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., Akron, Ohio.

Orders to farm papers for Globe
Machinery & Supply Co.

VANDERHOOF, CONDUCT &
COMRIE, 140 S. Dearborn st., Chicago—Making 5,000-line contracts with some Western newspapers for British Recruiting Mission.

VAN PATTEN, 50 E. 42d st., N.
Y.—Making a few contracts with some Western newspapers for Automobile Blue Book Publishing Co., 230
W. 39th st., N. Y.

HOLLYDAY'S, Boyce Bldg., Chicago—Sending to mail order and weekly publications orders for Capi-

St. Paul and the Northwest

Just can be reached by advertising your wares in the columns of the

ST. PAUL DISPATCH
and ST. PAUL PIONEER PRESS

In St. Paul, the St. Paul Dispatch has an average total daily circulation of 53,- 874; the St. Paul Pioneer Press, an average total daily circulation of 45,522; the St. Paul Sunday Pioneer Press, an average total Sunday circulation of 47,802.
They also enter thousands of homes, located in cities, towns and rich farming districts of the Northwest.

TOTAL CIRCULATION
St. Paul Dispatch (daily). Over 81,000.
St. Paul Pioneer Press (daily). Over 90,000.
Sunday Pioneer Press (Sunday). Over
90,000.
They Cover The Field.

It Pays to Advertise in the ST. LOUIS TIMES

Now generally recognized as the
HOME NEWSPAPER
OF ST. LOUIS.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
280 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK.
Mallers Building, CHICAGO.
201 Devonshire Street, BOSTON.
Kresge Building, DETROIT.

THE Philadelphia Bulletin HAS THE

Largest TWO-Cent
Circulation in the East.

Net Daily Paid Average for June
358,191 Copies
WILLIAM L. McLEAN, Publisher.

tal Tailors and Chicago Woolen Mills Company, Chicago.

DENNY-WHITE, 361 E. Ohio St.,
Chicago—Placing advertising of Den-nos Food Co., (baby food) in some publications.

SNITZLER, Garland Bldg., Chicago—Orders to agricultural papers for Boston Jewelry Co., Chicago.

GREENLEAF, 185 Devonshire st.,
Boston—Orders to farm papers for Samuel Cabot & Co., (shingle stain),
Boston and Chicago.

BOWERS, Kimball Bldg., Chicago.
—Copy for W. W. Kimball Co., pianos, to list of papers.

MILLER, Nasby Bldg., Chicago.—
Orders going out for Mason Fence
Co., Leesburg, Ohio, and Mathews
Engineering Co., Sandusky, Ohio.

ROGERS & SMITH, 64 E. Van Buren st., Chicago—Orders for Kewaunee Mfg. Co., Kewaunee, Wis., to educational papers.

HEEGSTRA, 19 S. La Salle st.,
Chicago—Orders for American Correspondence School of Law, Chicago, advertising law end of business.

RANKIN, Monroe Bldg., Chicago—
Has lately secured account of the American Correspondence Schools,
58th street and Drexel Blvd., Chicago. The account is largely devoted to the magazine field.

Preparing fall schedule for Hartman Trunk Co., Racine, Wis., wardrobe trunks. Newspapers and magazines will be used.

MOVIES A LIFE SAVER.

George L. Hussey, Cincinnati newspaper correspondent, had a narrow escape from death recently and owes his escape to his fondness for the movies. He lives directly above a local sanitation company, whose plant was entirely destroyed by the explosion of chemicals, three persons being instantly killed and several others injured, his apartment being badly damaged. He was attending the movies at the time of the explosion.

The Le Sueur Center (Minn.)
Leader-Democrat is moving into a new brick building. Up-to-date equipment, including a type-setting machine, is to be installed.

THE NEW YORK EVENING JOURNAL

has the largest circulation of any newspaper
in America.

MONTREAL DAILY MAIL

The circulation of the Daily Mail in Greater Montreal is larger than that of any other Montreal morning newspaper, English or French.
Verres & Conklin, Inc., 225 6th Av., N.Y.
I.S. Wallis & Son, 1st Nat. Bk. Bg., Chicago

OBITUARY NOTES.

GUSTAV VINCENT LINDNER,
librarian of the New York Herald, died on August 18 at Glen Ridge,
N. J.

KINAHAN CORNWALLIS, at one time financial editor of the New York Herald, died in New York last week, aged eighty-three years.

STARR L. BARBER, veteran newspaper writer of Tioga County,
Pa. died recently at Petoskey, Mich.
He was eighty-seven years old and for years conducted a column called "Wheat and Chaff" in the Millerton (Pa.) Advocate.

EUGENE J. CRONIN, formerly a well-known newspaper man in Baltimore, but more latterly a lawyer in that city, died last week after a very brief illness. He was thirty-eight years old.

WILLIAM H. STEWART, at one time publisher of a newspaper in Chicago called Chicago Opinion, died on August 14 at his home in River Forest, a Chicago suburb. He was sixty years old.

JOSEPH H. WILLIAMSON, a
New York advertising agent, died on August 19 in Brooklyn. He was born in Buffalo, N. Y., seventy-eight years ago.

JONAS P. UPTON, who edited a paper in the early days at Booneville, Ia., died recently at his home in Langlois, Ore., where he settled after leaving Iowa a number of years ago. He was engaged in newspaper work at the time of his death.

STEPHEN A. TITUS, for many years connected with the New York World as reporter and editor, died this week, aged sixty-two years. Mr.
Titus, born in Babylon, early became active in public life on Long Island and was influential as an editor and politician before he was twenty-one.
Soon afterward he was elected to represent Babylon in the Suffolk County Board of Supervisors. He served several years, and at different periods edited the Babylon Signal and published and edited the Babylon Budget and the Port Jefferson Leader.

He came to New York in 1887 as a reporter for the World, and except for two years while he was managing editor of the New York Star,

THE SYRACUSE POST-STANDARD

—Central New York's FAVORITE newspaper—increases its circulation lead:

Daily (Net Paid) 55,498
CIRCULATION

April, 1917 Figures—A.B.C. Basis.
—Only morning paper in the metropolis of a rich, agricultural and manufacturing territory.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
280 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK.
Mallers Building, Chicago.
201 Devonshire St., BOSTON.
Kresge Building, DETROIT

THE JOURNAL IS THE ONLY MORNING AND SUNDAY PAPER PUBLISHED IN DAYTON, OHIO

STORY, BROOKS & PINLEY, Inc.
Fifth Ave. Bldg., NEW YORK.
Mutual Life Bldg., PHILADELPHIA.
People's Gas Building, CHICAGO.

he served the World continuously until eight years ago, when he suffered from paralysis.

INSTALLING EQUIPMENT.

GREENVILLE, Mo.—The Journal has added to its equipment a new wire stitcher. The job department of the Journal is conducted under the name of the Stivers Printing Company.
George W. Stivers is the editor and publisher of the Journal.

SOLOMON, KAN.—The Tribune has moved into its new headquarters in the Robert Havener Building on East
Main street.

ELLSWORTH, KAN.—Both the Messenger and Reporter have recently changed the size of their papers from a 6-column, 8-page, to a 7-column, 4-page paper.

SPRINGER, N. M.—Mr. Floersheim, proprietor of the Springer Times, has purchased some new equipment, including a large printing press, and is now printing the Times in his own office.

CHETOPA, KAN.—The new Model
15 Linotype purchased by the Clipper has been installed and is now used in issuing the paper.

CLARKSVILLE, TEX.—The Red River County News will erect a new building on East Main street, which will be completed within the next few weeks.

O. H. Raleigh has disposed of his interest in the management of the Canby (Minn.) Press to his partner,
Thomas Reinertson.

THE KANSAS CITY STAR

MORNING—EVENING—SUNDAY

Each Issue
Over 200,000 Circulation

THE
Boston Herald
(Morning and Sunday) and the Boston Traveler
(Evening)

Net Paid Circulation:

DAILY, over 208,000
Sunday, over 119,000

Member Audit Bureau of Circulations.

DALLAS EVENING JOURNAL
Published by
A. H. Belo & Co.

Covers the afternoon field as completely as does the Dallas News in the morning
37,659 NET PAID average during 6 months period ending April 1, 1917. P. O. Report.

LARGEST AFTERNOON Circulation
J. D. LORENTZ, Manager Eastern Dept.
733 Tribune Building, NEW YORK

BOOKS USEFUL TO EDITORS AND ADVERTISERS.

"MAKING ADVERTISING PAY," by Harold F. Eldridge, advertising manager, Columbia (S. C.) State; The State, publisher.

The author's foreword opens with the statement, "Advertising has not yet reached that point of perfection where it might be classified as an exact science, but its value as a force in promoting business has been proven beyond dispute." The intimation that advertising research and advertising literature exists solely for the purpose of establishing the fixed laws of a science, is a misleading preparation for the pleasure in store for the reader of "Making Advertising Pay."

Enthusiasm develops with each page and with it comes a realization of an unusual condition. The book is largely a compilation of actual records and experiences of many men—drawn from their writings.

Forced for explanation of this rare treatment of a compiled work, we would offer a trite response that many heads are better than one. Which response, illogically enough, brings out again the fact that Mr. Eldridge has chosen wonderfully well and has performed the distinctly individual service of correcting and coordinating the chosen material with the aid of his own advertising experience and his own writing ability.

WILMINGTON DELAWARE

is the "High Spot" between Philadelphia and Washington.

EVERY EVENING

covers this territory more completely than any other newspaper.

Net Paid 13,280 Daily

A high class Home newspaper for intelligent readers.

BRYANT, GRIFFITH & FREDERICKS
New York Boston Chicago

BRIDGEPORT

CONNECTICUT
(The Eden of America)
The Prosperity Center of the United States and the Industrial Center of New England.

THE
Post & Telegram

(Evening) (Morning)

Cover This Field Absolutely.
Members of the A. B. C.
JULIUS MATHEWS, Representative
1 Beacon Street, BOSTON
171 Madison Avenue, NEW YORK
Hartford Building, CHICAGO

We are sure that the State, the publisher of Mr. Eldridge's book, will not begrudge us our wish that the volume might have secured the aid of an established book publisher's superior facilities for presentation to the public. The book is good. In the parlance—it "pulls." Borrowing again from the foreword, it fully "justifies its existence by the service it renders."

"WALKER'S RHYMING DICTIONARY OF THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE," by J. Longmuir; E. P. Dutton & Co., publishers.

A work which has been familiar to versifiers and real poets since 1775 has been brought up to date with the addition of new words and emendations in use and pronunciation. An interesting section is that devoted to the use of the book of a detective of errors in code telegrams.

"FIFTY VALUABLE AND DELICIOUS RECIPES MADE WITH CORN MEAL," by Celestine Eustis; Celestine Eustis, publisher.

Appetizing recipes compiled by an authority on Southern cooking. Offers assistance in the observance of "wheatless days."

"GONE TO EARTH," by Mary Webb; E. P. Dutton & Co., publishers.

The author of "The Golden Arrow" reveals in this new book the same understanding of the folk of the remote countryside whose lives are lived close to the soil and bounded by the crops, the weather and the herds.

"THE MASTERY OF NERVOUSNESS," by Robert S. Carroll, M.D.

The increasing complexity and intensity of modern life forces upon active men and women the problem of nervous readjustment. Man's mechanism responds only intermittently to the excessive and emergency demands. Without a conscious effort on our part to train our minds and our bodies for mastery over these demands, we will surely find ourselves allowing our standards to be lowered. The serious minded, searching for a basis for an educational and training program for self-re-education, will gain inspiration from Dr. Carroll's earnest work.

NEW ENTERPRISES.

ST. PAUL, MINN.—Plans to issue a patriotic weekly newspaper which may be called the Minnesota Mobilizer have been announced by the State Public Safety Commission.

THE DETROIT JOURNAL

with over 100,000 net paid Circulation daily is indispensable in covering Detroit and surrounding territory.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.,
New York Chicago Boston Detroit

Newark Star-Eagle

NEW JERSEY'S
LARGEST PENNY PAPER

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.,
New York Chicago Boston Detroit

CANADA'S NEWSPAPER MEN PLAN MEET IN TORONTO.

Arrangements are now practically completed for the annual "Press Day" at the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, on August 31. An invitation has been extended to Lord Northcliffe, who is at present representing the British Government in the United States, to address the press men at luncheon and Lord Northcliffe has replied stating that he will be present if at all possible.

President Woods of the Canadian Press Association, Inc., will be present and an unusually large number of the association's directors from all over Canada will also be present this year.

The opportunity of getting together on "Press Day" is being taken advantage of to hold a meeting of the board on that day.

As in former years, members of Canadian Press Association, Inc., will be the guests of the exhibition directors at luncheon, which will be served in the directors' dining hall in the administration building.

Supper will be served at 5.30 p. m. at the "fish restaurant" operated by the Dominion Government in the large dining hall under the grand stand.

Members and their wives will also be the guests of the exhibition at the grand stand performance in the evening. The performance will commence shortly after 7 o'clock. Seats will be reserved for the press party near the center of the stand.

REYNOLDS STILL GETS NEWS.

Lieutenant Conger Reynolds, recently commissioned at Fort Snelling and former head of the department of journalism of Iowa University at Iowa City, has been assigned to the intelligence department of the Army directly under the adjutant general of the United States. His duties will be to gather information of value to the army in France.

Mr. Reynolds was formerly with the Des Moines Register and Tribune editorial staff. He visited France a couple of years ago and speaks both French and German well.

The Plain Dealer

First Newspaper of Cleveland, Sixth City prints a far greater total of paid advertising and paid advertisements than any other newspaper in

CLEVELAND

Over 150,000 Daily. || Over 200,000 Sunday.

JOHN B. WOODWARD, Eastern Advertising Representative, Times Bg., N. Y.
JOHN GLASS, Western Advertising Representative, Peoples Gas Bg., Chicago.

BALTIMORE CITY OF HOMES

and noted for its great industries and thrifty working classes, affords National Advertisers one of the best fields. Use the

AMERICAN and STAR

Morning—Sunday Evening
Baltimore's greatest newspapers, to thoroughly cover city and state. Member A.B.C.
C. GEORGE KROGNESS, CHICAGO.
VERREB & CONKLIN, Inc., New York

CHANGES IN INTEREST.

SEDAN, KAN.—Roy Fruit, editor of the Times-Star, has sold that paper to a company of Sedan men, with Frank L. Colville at the head. He will enter the daily field in some other locality.

ELK FALLS, KAN.—Jake Christianson has purchased the Elk Falls Reflector and is at present publishing it from Longton. He will later put in a plant at Elk Falls.

HAMBURG, ARK.—W. R. Hartley, who has been connected with the Camden Beacon-Herald, has purchased the Hamburg Budget from F. K. Kimber.

VALLEY CENTER, KAN.—W. H. Woodhouse, editor of the Index, has sold that paper to L. B. Greenbank of Little River.

NEW FLORENCE, MO.—The Farmers Bank of this city, owner of the local Montgomery County Leader, has placed Charles Coleman in charge of that paper, Harry C. Turner retiring as temporary editor.

CENTERTOWN, MO.—Ray H. Parker, until recently foreman of the Russellville (Mo.) Rustler, has purchased the Centertown Leader.

CHICAGO HERALD IS HOST.

Members of the West Michigan Press Association were entertained in Chicago last week by the Herald. They visited the International Harvester plant and the Herald office and were entertained at the Herald Land Bureau and other Chicago places.

Washington Newspapers

Sworn statements of the newspapers at the National Capitol to the Post Office Department for the six months ending March 31, 1917:

Evening Star	83,194
Evening Times	35,569
Washington Post	34,293
Washington Herald	30,454

Since this statement the circulation of the Star, Times and Post has materially increased.

The special features of THE BUFFALO TIMES

have made it the most popular newspaper in
Western New York

NORMAN E. MACK, Proprietor.
VERREB & CONKLIN, Inc.
Special Advertising Representatives,
NEW YORK, DETROIT, CHICAGO

Schenectady POPULATION 100,000
EVENING Union Star
EXCEPT SUNDAY.

AUDITED CIRCULATION 20,643
Home circulation reaching best paid
scientific, technical and skilled mechanics
in America.
LA COSTE & MAXWELL
Special Representatives
NEW YORK CHICAGO

BANK DIGNITY AND ADVERTISING.

(Continued from Eleventh Page.)
He would have surely laughed in your face.

But today, window display by banks is coming into their own. Some banks place it next to newspaper advertising in effectiveness and result-producing. Just recently I received an inquiry from a large Eastern bank concerning window display. This bank is having plans drawn for a new buildings and its architect has specific instructions to give special attention to windows so as to provide ample display space.

I attended the St. Louis convention of the A. A. C. W. all of four days with financial advertisers who had gathered there from every corner of the United States. Many delegates to the Convention I found were more interested in window displays than in anything else. It was spoken of everywhere in favorable terms, and present indications are that within a year it will be universally popular. I happen to know that there is being written a book that is to deal with window displays exclusively for banks.
Twenty years ago that were objectionable from the patrons' point of view, but which have since been replaced with "Efficient Service" to take the place of service that was inadequate.

When next you have occasion to step within the threshold of the bank where you do business, and you are met with a smile, and your teller puts

If this territory presents a sales problem to you, the Merchandising Service Department of the Boston American will, upon request, make a trade investigation

covering various sections of Metropolitan Boston and submit a report which will help you solve that problem. Ask how this department works.

BOSTON AMERICAN

W. D. BOYCE CO.
500-514 North Dearborn St., CHICAGO
908 Metropolitan Tower, NEW YORK
PUBLISHER

THE INDIANA DAILY TIMES

INDIANAPOLIS
THE FARMING BUSINESS
High-class farm weekly, magazine form.
BOYCE'S WEEKLIES
The Saturday Blade, Chicago Ledger.
THE LONE SCOUT

"BOYCE'S" IS A SYNONYM FOR SUCCESSFUL ADVERTISING

Peoria TRANSCRIPT
Only morning newspaper in Peoria.
Peoria JOURNAL

Only evening paper in Peoria with Associated Press franchise. Leads in circulation and advertising. Member A.B.C.
SUNDAY JOURNAL-TRANSCRIPT.
Combination Advertising Rate
HENRY M. PINDELL, Proprietor.
CHAS. H. EDDY CO., Representative.
NEW YORK BOSTON CHICAGO

forth his best efforts to serve you efficiently, and as a result of courteous attention you find it a pleasure to transact your banking business, just remember that this was made possible by the thing we call advertising, which in a comparatively short time has taken the "dig" out of bank dignity and in its stead given us efficient service.

TIMELY ADVERTISING.

On certain occasions it becomes politic for banks to turn the trend of their advertising along lines which serve to produce a feeling of confidence and security in the banking system. At the time of our declaration of war on Germany, there was a slightly noticeable uneasiness among some classes of people, and at that time we used our windows most effectively.

Has bank dignity been dethroned?
Yes, the dignity which prevailed for many years has gone forever. It is a matter of history only. But in its stead has come a new dignity—nobler in character, a dignity more suitable to our modern banking.

Today bank dignity spells "efficient service," and the bank that is not giving close attention to the convenience and welfare of its patrons, is the exception. Aloofness is unpopular, and that disinterestedness that unmistakably characterized bankers under the old idea of bank dignity is gone forever.

WEDDING BELLS.

Irving S. Lewis, for the past five years a member of the advertising staff of the New York Journal of Commerce, has announced his engagement to Miss May Pisk of New York. Prior to his connection with the Journal of Commerce Mr. Lewis was for two years a member of the staff of the New York Times. He is well known among advertising men and is active in the "Big Brother" movement. No date has been named for his wedding.

Frederick H. Goodrich, Jr., formerly associated with the Albion (Mich.) Recorder, but now second lieutenant in the National Army, was married on August 18 to Miss Cora-lynn Elizabeth Hafford of Albion, Mich.

The BEST Advertising BUY in CLEVELAND THE LEADER Morning and Sunday, and THE NEWS

Quality Evening Newspaper
With Quantity Circulation
Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.,
350 Fifth Ave., NEW YORK
Mellers Building, CHICAGO
801 Devonshire St., BOSTON
Krege Building, DETROIT

THE NEW ORLEANS ITEM

Largest Afternoon Circulation in the
entire South.
(April A.B.C. Not Paid Statement)
Sunday 68,875 Daily 55,041
THE JOHN BUDD COMPANY
NEW YORK CHICAGO ST. LOUIS

PULITZER'S GIFT TO NEW YORK.

FOUNTAIN IS MODELED AFTER PLACE DE LA CONCORDE, IN PARIS.

Five short lines of print incorporated in the fifth paragraph of the will of the late Joseph Pulitzer, editor and proprietor of the New York World of the St. Louis Post-Di-patch, expressed the admiration and affection which that great journalist and public minded man entertained for the city of New York, to which he owed much for the opportunity it had given him and which owed him vastly more for the great and successful newspaper which was destined, even during his lifetime, to become essentially one of the instrumentalities by which its development, influence and enrichment should be accomplished.

These five lines constituted a legacy of $50,000 "for the erection of a fountain at a suitable place in Central Park, preferably at or near the Plaza entrance and 59th street and to be as far as practicable like those in the Place de la Concorde, Paris, France."

The phrasing of the text of this legacy, however, and the application of the $50,000 to the purpose intended, could not in itself carry the project to any great lengths, but the legacy put the earnest and appreciative deliberation and efforts of Mr.
Pulitzer's executors (George L. Rives, Frederick Newton Judson, Ralph Pullitzer, Joseph Pulitzer, Jr., J. Angus Shaw and the Union Trust Company of New York) resulted in evolving an elaborate scheme by which it was hoped to secure the best design that could be procured for a fountain, which, located as it was proposed to be, at Fifth avenue and 59th street Plaza, should for all time not only occupy the most appropriate and conspicuous vantage-ground in Greater New York, but which should worthily express in design of beauty and nobility the ideal of the donor.

In the selection of an architect to whom such a commission should be committed, it was decided to arrange for a competition and offer prizes to a body of five of the most eminent architects in the city for the best design. Their plans to be submitted to a jury of other distinguished architects. The architects who were finally selected to compete were Mc-Kim, Mead & White, Carrere & Hastings, Arnold W. Brunner, John Russell Pope and H. Van Buren Magon-igle. The jurors comprised Paul P.

THE PITTSBURG DISPATCH

for nearly four score years has sold good merchandise for advertisers.

H. C. Root, Real Est. Trust Bdg., Phila.
W. G. Brooke, 225 Fifth Ave., New York
Ford-Parsons Co., Michigan Av., Chicago
W. R. Edg., Atlantic City, N. J.
Dorland Co., 10 Regent St., London, Eng.

The City of Richmond 15,309 qualified
VIRGINIA, has voters

THE TIMES-DISPATCH RICHMOND.

is delivered 12,000 of the city's
daily into best homes.
In all VIRGINIA it's the same.
STORY, BROOKS & FINLEY, Inc.
New York Philadelphia Chicago

The newspaper man who wants a good position, and doesn't know enough to advertise for it in

THE FOURTH ESTATE,

when it costs so little (perhaps nothing), does not deserve the position.

Cret of the University of Pennsylvania, Whitney Warren, George B.
Post, Charles A. Platt and Herbert Adams.

The plans of competition were prepared and placed on exhibition in the New York Public Library rotunda, where for a limited time they were admired, studied and criticized by the public and by artists and architects from all over the country.

The final selection of the plan to be adopted was made by the jury and after careful and critical comparison the prize was awarded to Carrere & Hastings and their plan was adopted by the executors.

Karl Bitter was selected to erect the bronze statue on the fountain and Piccirilli Brothers were selected to do the general construction work.
The completed fountain was formally presented to the City of New York.

The Circulation of the NEW YORK EVENING MAIL

represents a greater purchasing power per unit of circulation than is found in any other New York
Evening Paper.

A Powerful List is the MILWAUKEE GERMANIA LIST

CIRCULATION

Germania Herald 36,989
Only German Morning daily in Milwaukee
Sonntag Post 37,000
Only German Sunday daily in Milwaukee
Weekly Germania 107,413
(German Farm Journal) Weekly, 103,333
Die Rundschau, Weekly, 25,002

Eastern Representative
LOUIS KLEBAHN
1 West 84th Street NEW YORK
Telephone 215 Greeley

A National American Daily and Sunday printed in the Polish language reaching over 150,000 readers.

A Splendid Advertising Medium
Phone Stuyvesant 2004
90 East 10th St., NEW YORK

TO PUBLISH RUSSIAN PAPER.

The National Russian Brotherhood, which held a two days' session at Harrisburg, Pa., recently, decided to send Paul Dyonoyzk of Mayfield, Pa., and Peter Hualaf of New York, to Russia to establish a newspaper "to tell the Russians more of world democracy." Approximately $50,000 will be spent in the undertaking, it was announced.

Finest
Quality

FELT PRESS and MOULDING BLANKETS

DIRECT from Factory to Newspaper

at

ONE PROFIT

Write for prices to Newspaper Dept.

Chas. W. HOUSE
& Sons
UNIONVILLE, CONN.

THE ST. LOUIS WESTLICHE POST

reaches the GERMAN reading and speaking population of St. Louis
as no other medium can.

THE ONLY POLISH DAILY IN NEW ENGLAND

Kurier Bostonski

27 Beverly St., BOSTON, MASS
reaches 600,000 Poles in New England. They want to buy your goods

Use Kurier Bostonski.

TRADE PRESS PROTESTS TAX.

A protest against proposed legislation which will place a tax on publishers' profits was sent this week to members of both houses of Congress by the Associated Business Papers, Inc. The editors also protest against an increase in the rates for second class mail, declaring that it will cripple their circulation.

That Congress will commit an injustice and cripple a valuable arm of the government by enacting such legislation is the statement made by the association in its communication. The editors assert that the work they are doing is essential to the welfare of the industrial life of the nation and they feel that they deserve some consideration.

NEW FINANCIAL PAPER.

Forbes' Magazine is a new fortnightly paper for the financial world, edited by B. C. Forbes, formerly for many years financial editor of the New York American and a well-known figure in the field of financial writing.

Walter Drey is vice-president and general manager of the company and will handle circulation and advertising. He was formerly vice-president and general manager of the Magazine of Wall Street and prior to that was president of the A. M. Sweed Advertising Agency, New York.

ROCHESTER FOR AFFILIATION.

Rochester has been named as the meeting place for the next convention of the Affiliation of Advertising Clubs, instead of Syracuse, which was selected at the convention last fall. The Syracuse Advertising Club asked to be relieved of the convention because of unforeseen difficulties that had arisen.

NEW EDITIONS IN BALTIMORE.

Beginning last Monday the Baltimore Sun put on two new editions, one at noon and the other at 5.30, making in all five regular evening editions.

DEATHS IN CHICAGO.

Dr. Siemon Gilbert, for twenty years editor of the Chicago Advance, died in that city a few days ago, aged eighty-three years.

MONTREAL LA PRESSE

is CANADA'S largest and wealthiest city—sixth in America in population; fourth largest French city in the world—and a wonderfully fine market for all kinds of advertised goods.

is Canada's largest circulating daily—over 145,000 and still growing—and it thoroughly covers Montreal's population, which is over 500,000, and of which 70 per cent is French Canadian element. Get particulars.
W. M. J. MORTON CO., Special Rep.
NEW YORK, Fifth Ave. Building
CHICAGO, Tribune Building
LONDON, E.C. 4, 10 Scotland Avenue
Southampton Row
PARIS, 8 rue du Rocher.

THE JEWISH MORNING JOURNAL NEW YORK CITY

carries more advertising than any other Jewish newspaper. Circulation in New York City largest of all foreign language newspapers.
Member A. B. C.

NEW DAILY FOR LITTLE ROCK.

The Little Rock (Ark.) Daily News, a penny afternoon paper, will make its appearance about September 1. R. B. Robbins will head the paper as president and editor; Dr. M. F. Dickinson is secretary-treasurer, and C. C. Williams, formerly of the Stuttgart (Ark.) Free Press, is vice-president. The officers, with J. A. Houghton and T. W. Mattingly, are the directors. There are thirty two stockholders.

EUSTIS WITH COLLIER'S.

John R. Eustis, automobile writer and former advertising manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company, has become connected with Collier's Weekly.

NEW YORK THE DAY

America's Greatest
Jewish Community

America's Foremost
Jewish Daily.

Reaches the cream of purchasing power of the Jewish element in America.
CIRCULATION OVER 70,000
Despite advance in price from one to two cents.

THE DAY

The National Jewish Daily.

Member A. B. C.

Main Publication Office:
183 East Broadway, NEW YORK

NARODNI List

Established 1898.

An American newspaper published every day in the year in the Croatian Language
Sword Circulation as required by law, OCTOBER, 1, 1916, 25,066
Ideal Newspaper for National Advertisers
Phone 2939 Beekman
61 Park Row, NEW YORK

ARKANSAS NOTES.

Miss Leah Bradley of Kingfisher, Okla., formerly of the Grand Rapids (Mich.) Free Press, has joined the staff of the Little Rock (Ark.) Gazette.

Earl Plowman, telegraph editor of the Little Rock (Ark.) Gazette, has resigned and gone West for his health.

CHANGE ON HOTEL PAPER.

Harold J. McMahon has resigned from the Hotel Publicity Corporation, New York, as head of its checking department.

The Osseo (Minn.) Review is the name of a new weekly paper.

THE FOURTH ESTATE

232 West 59th Street, NEW YORK

The News	For over two decades THE FOURTH ESTATE has been furnishing the newspaper and advertising world with prompt reports of the happenings in this great field of endeavor and accomplishment.
Hut $2.00	In the course of one year, fifty-two issues, over 21,000 items of interest, information, importance and genuine value, are furnished to subscribers for $2.00.
An Army of Generals	The subscription list of THE FOURTH ESTATE is a representative roll of the men who are known for their activities and accomplishments in the advertising and newspaper field—a real army of generals.
Fifty Millions in Newspapers	A canvass of those on the subscription list who direct the advertising investments of large concerns shows that regular readers of THE FOURTH ESTATE spend approximately $50,000,000 annually in newspapers.
Earnest Advocate of Advertising	THE FOURTH ESTATE has concentrated its efforts for almost a quarter of a century on having the newspaper recognized as the pre-eminent publicity medium—and its efforts have borne fruit.
Two things YOU can do	For the news of the great field it covers, read THE FOURTH ESTATE. To reach those who spend millions in newspaper advertising and buy the machinery and supplies for newspaper making: Advertise in THE FOURTH ESTATE.

Sample copies, rates and information furnished to those interested, with the greatest of pleasure.

THE FOURTH ESTATE

232 West 59th Street, NEW YORK

EIGHTY PER CENT OF THE PEOPLE BORN IN ALBANY ARE NATIVE BORN AMERICANS

FROM THEM COMES the INSPIRATION for UNADULTERATED AMERICANISM that RADIATES EVERY MORNING from

THE KNICKERBOCKER PRESS

FIRST WITH THE NEWS
FIRST IN THE HOME
FIRST IN PRODUCING FOR ADVERTISERS

BUY SPACE REGULARLY
FOR BETTER, BIGGER SALES

ALBANY, N. Y.
18-20-22 Beaver Street

TROY, N. Y.
382 River Street

SCHENECTADY, N. Y.
Wedgeway Building

A NEWSPAPER FOR
THE MAKERS OF NEWSPAPERS
AND INVESTORS IN
ADVERTISING

*Published Weekly at 333 West
50th Street (Near Broadway)*
SATURDAY, SEPT. 1, 1917
NEW YORK CITY

THE FOURTH ESTATE

"EDMUND BURKE SAID
that there were Three Estates
in Parliament, but in the Reporter's Gallery yonder there
sat a 'Fourth Estate' more important far than they all."
—Carlyle's "Heroes and Hero Worship." Lecture V.

PRICE 10 CENTS.
TWO DOLLARS A YEAR

ESTABLISHED 1894 No. 1227.

The Home of the Department Store.

Chicago has the largest department stores in the world, and the aggregate volume of business of all its department stores is greater than that of any other city. These enormous businesses were built on newspaper advertising, and their officers probably know more about the relative efficiency of Chicago newspapers as advertising mediums than any other body of men in this country.

These stores have for years bought more space in The Chicago Daily News six days a week than in any other Chicago newspaper in seven days. The figures (in agate lines) for the first six months of 1917 are:

	Six Days	Sunday	Total
The Daily News	1,920,327		1,920,327
The Tribune	749,755	470,482	1,220,237
The American	782,844		782,844
The Journal	734,454		734,454
The Examiner	255,330	341,460	596,790
The Herald	323,825	223,538	547,408
The Post	220,299		220,299

The department stores in Chicago—the home of the department store—depend upon The Daily News to reach the homes of Chicago.

The Chicago Daily News

"It Covers Chicago"

SENATE ADOPTS ZONES FOR SECOND CLASS.

KILLS SPECIAL TAX OF FIVE PER CENT ON PUBLISHERS' PROFITS—THROWS OUT THREE-CENT LETTER POSTAGE.

After a prolonged debate an amendment offered by Senator McKellar of Tennessee was adopted by the Senate on August 29 establishing a zone system of tax on second-class mail matter in place of the 1½ cents a pound rate on all second-class matter, rejected by the Senate the previous day. The rates adopted are as follows:

- Zones 1, 2 and 3 (under 300 miles)—1 cent.
- Zone 4 (from 300 to 600 miles)—2 cents.
- Zone 5 (600 to 1,000 miles)—3 cents.
- Zone 6 (1,000 to 1,400 miles)—4 cents.
- Zone 7 (1,400 to 1,800 miles)—5 cents.
- Zone 8 (over 1,800 miles)—6 cents.

This new tax was adopted by a vote of 40 to 35, the alignment being almost partisan. The tax will yield $12,600,000, it is estimated, in place of the $8,000,000 contemplated under the 1½ cents a pound tax advocated by the Senate Finance Committee.

The House zone system, discarded by the finance committee, was calculated to yield $19,000,000.

After voting in the zone tax, the Senate struck out the proposed publishers' tax of 5 per cent on net incomes above $4,000. This was done by a viva voce vote.

The Senate, by a vote of 39 to 29, also discarded the House provision, backed by the finance committee, of a raise in first-class postal rates from 2 to 3 cents an ounce. This action came as a sharp surprise to Senator Simmons, sponsor of the bill. By eliminating the increase the Senate threw out a $50,000,000 annual levy. To make it up the finance committee turned to excess war profits.

While discarding the extra postage tax, the Senate, on motion of Senator Hardwick of Georgia, retained the finance committee's proposal for free postage for soldiers writing home, whether from France, or from camp in their own country.

The zone second class rate adopted by the Senate is the one favored by most of the newspaper associations of the country (if there was to be any such tax at all), with the exception of the American Newspaper Publishers Association. The latter stood for no tax of any kind on newspapers that won't be levied on other industries also.

Among the organizations that urged the Senate to adopt the zone rate were the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association, the National Editorial Association, the Inland Daily Press Association, and practically all the other sectional and state bodies.

WEEKS TAKES NEWSPAPERS' PART.

The leader in the fight against the 1½ cent second-class rate was Senator Weeks of Massachusetts. He opposed the contemplated raise in second-class postage from 1 cent to 1½ cents a pound. He argued that to raise newspaper postage now would work a severe hardship to the smaller publications.

"Nobody denies that second-class mail is carried at a loss," he said, "but whose fault is it? Congress established and maintained the rates. This is a most inopportune time to punish—not tax—the publishers. Having permitted a great business to be developed under this condition, is it fair or reasonable to take the time when the industry is laboring under the heaviest possible burdens to commence to change it?"

"In fact, it is doubtful," Senator Weeks continued, "if the publications of the United States under present conditions, taking them by and large, are getting a new dollar for an old one. This is due to the abnormal increases in the cost of ev-everything which publishers must use and to their inability to pass along to the consumer these additional costs.

"Every one, from the President down, who has had or is having anything to do with revenue legislation, has reiterated that taxes should be so levied that they would not materially damage any enterprise. This legislation would materially damage a great industry, and, therefore, it should not be passed."

Senator Weeks denied the oft-repeated statement that the Government carries periodicals at a loss of $80,000,000 annually. Official investigation, he said, showed the deficit much less. The zone system, he declared, would ruin a very large part of the press.

"I am in favor of increasing the rates," he said, "but not at a time when this great industry is laboring under serious embarrassments peculiar to itself."

A modified amendment along the lines of his original substitute was offered on August 29 by Senator Hardwick. It would leave the present cent-a-pound rate on news portions of publications, but beginning July 1, 1918, would increase to 2 instead of 3 cents. That on advertising portions, make it 4 cents on July 1, 1918, 6 cents in 1920, and 8 cents thereafter.

Others who argued against special taxes on publishers of newspapers were Senators Smoot and McCumber.

SMOOT SEES DANGER TO PAPERS.

Senator Smoot opposed increasing the second-class rates, saying that many publications would be forced out of business, as their profits were less than the amount of postage necessary on a self-sustaining basis.

"The only excuse for the 5 per cent profits tax on publishers," he said, "is to get at that inequality. Some publishers benefiting by this subsidy are making big profits. Others would be driven to the wall if it were removed."

"Does the Senator know any reason," asked Mr. Pomerene, "why such publishers should not advance their advertising or subscription rates to meet the increased postal charge?"

"Some of these farm papers have contracts for five years," said Mr. Smoot.

"Oh, this problem is not different in any particular from any other problem of taxation," said Mr. Pomerene. "In the case of the coal operators, who were dealt with by this body, it was pointed out they had long contracts in many instances. But that did not deter us."

"The Senator talks a great deal of these struggling farm and religious papers," said Mr. McKellar, addressing Senator Smoot. "The House exempted those classes of publications, but the Senate committee struck that exemption out."

"You will not find me denying," said Mr. Smoot, "that the present law gives the publishers a bounty of about $70,000,000 a year. But the trouble is that we have allowed the publishers to build up their business on that false basis, and it would be mighty serious to change it overnight."

As to the publishers' tax, Senator McCumber said the publishers had been built up under the Government's promise in 1870 of reduced mail rates to enlighten the public.

"They have been encouraged by laws, and shall we now, during the war, strike death to any business that we can keep going?" he asked. "We want to get at the publishers making enormous profits by the special income tax, and the small postage increase will not ruin any publisher."

OPPOSITION ARGUMENT TO ZONE SECOND-CLASS RATE.

Most of the newspapers favoring the zone rate on second class, as adopted by the Senate, are publications whose circulation rarely extends beyond the first three zones, which would remain at one cent a pound. The metropolitan newspapers, with country-wide mail circulation, oppose any increase in the second-class rates on the following grounds, expressed by the New York Times:

"Obviously, the adoption of this system as a means of increasing the revenue will work no injustice in the case of the magazines which circulate in large numbers all over the country. The magazine publisher can save himself from loss by a slight increase in the selling price of his publication, and the increase can

(Continued on Thirty-first Page.)

CLEVELAND PLAIN DEALER ALONE IN ITS FIELD.

BECOMES ONLY MORNING PAPER IN THE CITY THROUGH BUYING DAILY LEADER—SUNDAY LEADER NOT AFFECTED.

The Cleveland Company, owner and publisher of the Cleveland Morning and Sunday Leader and the Cleveland News, announced on August 31 the discontinuance of the six-day Morning Leader. It will continue to publish the Cleveland News and the Sunday Leader as heretofore.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer has purchased the subscription lists, news service franchises and good will of the Daily Morning Leader, and began today to serve both its own and the Morning Leader's clientele with a newspaper which it believes to be among the best in the United States.

Because of the constantly increasing costs of newspaper production, which has forced newspapers in Chicago, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Detroit, Buffalo and many other cities to increase their prices to 2 cents, the Plain Dealer finds it imperative to increase its price on transient sales to 2 cents, effective Sept. 1. The price for home delivery by regular Plain Dealer carriers, however, will not be changed at present.

As a part of the purchase the Plain Dealer takes over the Morning Leader's night leased wire International News Service.

W. P. Leech, general manager of the Cleveland Company, said to THE FOURTH ESTATE:

"The publishers of the Cleveland Sunday Leader and Cleveland News will devote their entire energies hereafter to the Sunday and afternoon editions with the determination of making them the equals of any Sunday or afternoon papers in America.

"The staff, equipment, organization and many of the features of the six-day Leader will now be combined with those of the Sunday Leader and the News. The money and men heretofore used in producing three newspapers will be used in producing two.

"Six-day Leader readers need not miss a single installment of a large part of the many splendid features they have been enjoying. They will be continued in the Cleveland News, beginning with Saturday's editions of the News.

"Both the Cleveland Sunday Leader and Cleveland News will continue to use the Associated Press dispatches, the News having an exclusive membership in the afternoon field."

The officers of the Plain Dealer Company are: Elbert H. Baker, president and general manager; George M. Rogers, assistant general manager; Eric C. Hopwood, managing editor; Guerdon S. Holden, secretary; George R. Agate, treasurer.

The Plain Dealer is represented in the East by John E. Woodward, New York, and in the West by John Glass of Chicago.

EIGHTY PER CENT OF THE PEOPLE IN ALBANY ARE NATIVE BORN AMERICANS

*FROM THEM COMES the INSPIRATION
for UNADULTERATED AMERICANISM that RADIATES EVERY MORNING from*

THE KNICKERBOCKER PRESS

FIRST WITH THE NEWS
FIRST IN THE HOME
FIRST IN PRODUCING FOR ADVERTISERS

BUY SPACE REGULARLY
FOR BETTER, BIGGER SALES

ALBANY, N. Y.
18-20-22 Beaver Street

TROY, N. Y.
382 River Street

SCHENECTADY, N. Y.
Wedgeway Building

PRESIDENT SETS 2.50 FOR PAPER.

IMPORTANT PRECEDENT BY THE GOVERNMENT IN BUYING NEWS PRINT.

In an order which newspaper publishers declare will serve as an important precedent, President Wilson has fixed a price of 2½ cents on news print paper for use in publishing the Government's daily Official Bulletin.

The order fixing the price was issued by Secretary Baker at the President's direction under the national defense act, which empowers the Government to commandeer supplies needed for war purposes. It was directed to the International Paper Company, which had refused to furnish news print for the bulletin at less than 3 cents a pound.

Newspaper publishers who learned of the order on August 30 voiced the hope it might open the way for cheaper news print paper to publishers generally. They called attention to statements by the President that the administration's price policy will be one that provides the same prices for the public as for the Government.

The President's action was taken at the instance of the joint Congress committee on printing, of which Senator Fletcher is chairman. When the Bulletin first began publication the committee asked for bids for news print, and the cheapest price named was 3 cents. This, the committee decided, was too high and appealed to the International on patriotic grounds to sell its product to the public printing office at 2½ cents.

The company complied and for a time furnished the paper, asserting increased production costs increased the price to 3 cents.

Senator Fletcher went to the Federal Trade Commission for its cost of production figures and the commission decided the International could sell at 2½ cents and still make a fair profit.

The situation then was laid before President Wilson, who asked Attorney-General Gregory for an opinion as to how far he could go under the defense act. The attorney general held a supply of paper for the Bulletin was necessary for war purposes and recommended it be taken if 2½ cents was a fair price.

Wise Publishers

are keen buyers of space and alert to changing conditions. At present they are showing their appreciation of a New and Greater Value among New York newspapers, as borne out by the record of the last seven months, which shows that

The Sun Leads

all New York papers, both morning and evening, in Gains in the advertising of Books and Publishers, gaining almost double that of its nearest competitor, and beating its own record for the same period of 1916

By 70,150 Lines

Seven Months 1917

THE SUN	Gained	70,150 Lines
Tribune	"	37,763 "
World	"	31,945 "
Times	"	28,953 "
EVENING SUN	"	18,059 "
Post	"	9,380 "
Telegram	"	7,086 "
Globe	"	2,319 "
Mail	Lost	19 "
Evening World	"	2,886 "
Herald	"	3,588 "
American	"	13,066 "
Journal	"	22,003 "

(Statistical Department Evening Post.)

The Reason? { Doubled Circulation! Greater Results!

tin was necessary for war purposes and recommended it be taken if 2½ cents was a fair price.

WHAT PAPER AUTHORITIES SAY.

Lincoln B. Palmer, manager of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, said that the action of the President did not point necessarily to any action by the Federal Government fixing the price of news print paper for the general trade.

"Of course," said Mr. Palmer, "we are much interested in the President's action, because it shows what he regards as a fair price for news print paper. It has been clear ever since the Federal Trade Commission made its preliminary report of its investigation of the situation that 2½ cents was enough for paper to cost."

"I have no reason to believe that the action of the President in ordering the print paper supplied for Government uses at 2½ cents means that he will fix that price for private publishers."

At the offices of the News Print Manufacturers' Association it was said that there was no knowledge there that there would be a reduction in the price of paper to newspaper publishers, in accordance with the President's action for the needs of the Official Bulletin.

None of the officers of the International Paper Company would make any statement.

Charles Dunkle, president of the Cleveland Paper Manufacturing Company, said:

"I do not believe the Government can set an arbitrary price and demand that the paper manufacturers provide stocks at such price. * * *

The Government, however, has the right to confiscate and operate paper mills, paying the manufacturers a fair rate of profit over cost. This has been estimated at 10 per cent. I believe a majority of paper manufacturers would jump at the opportunity to turn their plants over to the Government with assurance of 10 per cent net profits. Confiscation is the probable outcome if the Government continues with what the manufacturers believe is an illegal demand."

W. C. Powers, sales manager for the Great Northern Paper Company, said he did not doubt the power of the President to fix a price for news print, but added: "I do not believe the mills can produce paper at 2½ cents and survive."

BIG MERGER IN BOSTON?

REPORT THAT THREE DAILIES WILL COMBINE IN ONE BIG CORPORATION.

It is reported from Boston that three daily newspapers in that city are about to enter into a combination deal through the formation of a $750,000 corporation. It is unofficially understood that if the transaction goes through at all the announcement will be made in the course of a day or so.

The Struble News and the Brunswick News will be published at Maurice, Ia., in the future, in connection with the Maurice Times.

BOOK PAPER MEN FACE CHARGES.

TRADE COMMISSION AVERS THEY HAVE CONSPIRED TO INCREASE PRICES.

Charges of concerted action to raise book paper prices have been filed by the Federal Trade Commission in formal complaints against twenty-three manufacturers and the head of their bureau of statistics.

The commission's complaint formally declares the respondents named have been for about two years engaged in a concerted movement to enhance prices and bring about a uniformity of such enhanced prices.

The complaint follows shortly upon the report of the Federal Trade Commission's investigation of the book paper industry in which it urged Congress to pass legislation that would regulate trade associations such as the Book Manufacturers' "Bureau of Statistics."

The respondents, according to the complaint, manufacture by far a greater portion of the $70,000,000 worth of book print paper produced in the United States.

PRIZES FOR LOAN POSTERS.

The exhibition of Liberty Loan posters at the galleries of the Art Alliance of America, New York, this week, included more than 150 works submitted in competition for the prizes offered by New York bankers and the Federal Women's Liberty Loan Committee.

The first prize of $150 for the poster "having the highest artistic qualities, combined with the power to induce subscriptions," goes to B. Hoyt's figure of Liberty in armor, with the inscription, "Your Gold is Liberty's Armor."

The second prize of $10 goes to S. Tama for a poster that has every characteristic of an effective announcement card. The design is a large key, clever in pattern, including the letters "U.S." and a suggestion of the Stars and Stripes.

The exhibition closed on Thursday and on Friday the posters went to the Treasury Department in Washington for the final selection of those to be purchased.

PRINTERS INCORPORATE.

The incorporation of the Association of Employing Printers of the City of New York has been approved. The stated purpose of the organization is to "foster trade and commerce in the printing industry, to reform abuses relative thereto, to protect trade and commerce from unjust and unlawful exactions, and to diffuse accurate and reliable information among its members as to the standing of merchants."

LIEUTENANT MARKEY, U.S.A.

Eugene L. Markey of Chicago, well known to newspaper men through former business associations, is strutting about quite cockily these days—and justly so. The reason is that 'Gene, Jr., has received an unusual endorsement of military ability, while training at Fort Sheridan—a commission as second lieutenant in the Regular Army. He will be attached to the 19th U. S. Infantry at Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio, Tex.

A RECORD

Daily Net Paid

July, 1915 . . . 3178
Dec., 1916 . . . 5568
July, 1917 . . . 6054

A. B. C. statements.

Net cash earnings, sales and advertising, gain first 7 months 1917, over same period, 1915.

56½%

A remarkable record of growth in a field of keen competition.

FITCHBURG
(MASSACHUSETTS)
DAILY NEWS

"The Paper That Does Things."

Member Audit Bureau of Circulations

WHY WE CELEBRATE SEPTEMBER SIXTH

*I*N the year 1776, the Duke of Gloucester fell into disgrace by marrying contrary to the wishes of his royal brother, King George III. At a dinner given at Strassburg, in order to get even with his autocratic brother, the Duke regaled the guests with a humorous account of how certain rebels had thrown a cargo of tea overboard in Boston Harbor. It was a good joke and the laugh was certainly on George. At the close of the dinner, a lean, red-headed French officer, still in his teens, went up to the Duke and exclaimed, "I will join the Americans. I will help them fight for freedom. Tell me how to set about it."

This young man was Lafayette. In all her wars, Liberty never enlisted a better recruit. Overcoming great obstacles, he finally appeared before Congress and was given a commission as Major-General in the American Army—a volunteer serving without pay. Then he reported to the Commander-in-Chief at the old house still standing on York Road, near Hatboro town.

It was a great day in the world's history when Lafayette, the liberty-loving youth of twenty-one and Washington, the liberty-winning man of forty-five, joined hands and hearts in the struggle for the further liberation of the race. The world knows the story; but not all, as Liberty's story is never fully told. A great chapter is being written in 1917, when men from the land of Lafayette have reminded us of their early friendship and thousands of American soldiers are on the soil of France to repay the debt created seven-score years ago.

So, on September 6th we shall celebrate with renewed gratitude the birthday of Lafayette, whose lifelong adherence to keeping everlastingly at it did so much to bring liberty to us, to France and to the world.

N. W. AYER & SON
ADVERTISING HEADQUARTERS
PHILADELPHIA

NEW YORK

BOSTON

CHICAGO

ALIEN LANGUAGE PRESS COERCED?

ADVERTISING SAID TO HAVE SWUNG LOYAL PAPERS TO GERMAN CAUSE.

Charges made this week that a foreign language newspaper advertising association has been attempting to coerce newspapers printed in Slavic and other tongues in New York City and elsewhere to preach disloyalty met a vigorous response from Don S. Momand, vice-president of the American Association of Foreign Language Newspapers, who averred that they were untrue, so far as they concerned his organization which is the largest organization of the class of agencies involved in the charges. The name of the agency complained of has not been made public.

Vladimir Kratochvil of the Bohemian Publishing Company, New York, who brought the charges and evidence to the attention of the Department of Justice, asserted that certain foreign-language newspapers which had formerly been loyal and opposed to Germany had been corrupted by this advertising syndicate.

These papers, he said, could not afford to alienate their readers by a sudden change to advocating Teutonic success, but were skillfully edging away from their former stand of enthusiastic patriotism.

"The first change which has appeared in their columns," said Mr. Kratochvil, "was the absence of editorials supporting the war. Next, news of the Allies' successes was minimized and big headings were placed over alleged German victories which never occurred. Then they began to preach doctrines favoring Germany in the guise of socialism. Instead of standing for war to the end, they began to call for an early peace."

"Of course, only a few foreign-language newspapers have submitted to dictation by this agency, but it has sought by every means at its command to throw the influence of the foreign-language press in favor of Germany."

Mr. Kratochvil said that this new propaganda had made some progress with the Czech press, which all through the war had been almost solidly in favor of the Allies.

Mr. Kratochvil also made detailed charges that German money had been used in large quantities to organize speakers' bureaus in many tongues to preach socialism with a pro-German slant at meetings of Czechs, Slavs and Greeks and to break up patriotic rallies of people of these races.

In his charges to the Department of Justice, Mr. Kratochvil named the man alleged to be at the head of this movement and several who were active in it.

Mr. Momand, in entering his disclaimer, denied that there had been any tendency toward pro-Germanism in the Czech press, which he declared had been enthusiastically patriotic and pro-Ally from the beginning of the war in 1914 and especially since the United States entered the war.

A new building is being erected for the Minneapolis Daily News and more than 500,000 pounds of new machinery will be installed.

Announcing A SUNDAY EDITION OF THE SYRACUSE POST-STANDARD

Beginning with September 2nd

The POST-STANDARD will be published hereafter daily and Sunday (instead of six days per week as formerly).

The first number of the Sunday POST-STANDARD will be on Sunday, September 2nd

The publication of the Sunday POST-STANDARD is in response to thousands of requests from readers of the daily edition. They recognize in the POST-STANDARD the leading newspaper in its territory. The one newspaper to give them all the news in the most thorough manner.

The Daily POST-STANDARD has by far the largest circulation of any newspaper in its territory and the SUNDAY POST-STANDARD will no doubt occupy the same position in the Sunday field.

J. D. BARNUM,

Publisher.

PAUL BLOCK, Inc.

NEW YORK

CHICAGO

BOSTON

DETROIT

PERSHING PRESENTS HEARST GIFT TO MARSHAL JOFFRE.

Appropriate military ceremonies marked the presentation of a handsome gift from William Randolph Hearst and the Hearst publications to Marshal Joffre in Paris on August 29. The gift was a handsome bound volume of clippings from American publications of news matter and other references to Marshal Joffre and the visit of the French Mission to the United States. It is valued at several thousand dollars.

The presentation of the album was made on the third anniversary of the Battle of the Marne. At the presentation were many figures prominent in the war history of France and the United States. Chief among these were General Pershing, commander of the American forces in France, and Marshal Joffre. They were accompanied by members of their staffs. General Pershing personally presented the album.

GEORGIA EDITORS KILL BILL.

A bill to reduce the rates allowed newspapers for legal advertising has been sidetracked in the Georgia legislature. The bill had a good chance to be passed, until a lively committee from the Georgia weekly press, headed by Franc Magnum of the Swainsboro Blade, began to fight the measure.

It has now been tabled as far as the present session of the legislature is concerned.

EDITS SOLDIER JOURNAL.

Indiana friends of Earl Adams Clark, formerly Fountain City (Ind.) and Indianapolis newspaper man, have received announcement of his appointment by Secretary of War Baker to take charge of the publication of the military service paper at the Louisville cantonment, where the national army divisions of Indiana and Kentucky will be mobilized.

TRADE PRESS ASKS FAIR PRICE.

SOME SUGGESTED SCHEDULES WOULD CRIPPLE BUSINESS PAPERS, SAYS PETITION.

A petition has been sent to Congress by the editors of the principal technical, trade, scientific and professional journals of the country protesting against any legislative action at this time that will tend to diminish the power of their publications to serve the nation during the present crisis. The memorial says in part:

"We petition Congress not to obstruct the dissemination of information to the trades, industries and professions; not to penalize or unduly burden the greatest educational force in American industrial and professional life. Such a burden, for instance, as would result from a special or additional tax upon publishers' profits, and an increase in the second-class mail rate, which is the very foundation of the publishing business."

"The business press have not and will not make any demand for exemption from the taxes levied upon other business concerns. They will pay all the corporation taxes, the surplus profits taxes, the personal income taxes on telephone and telegraph messages, express and parcel post shipments, all the various stamp taxes, etc., etc."

"They believe, however, that Congress will commit an injustice if it imposes 'extra' tax burdens upon publishers who are not only not profiting from the war, but who are already suffering because of war conditions."

"The business press is not political or partisan in character. It is not concerned with the success of parties or the triumph of individuals. It is not designed to entertain or amuse. Its function is to instruct and educate. It's the popular source of education for the 83 per cent of our people who cannot go to high schools."

LEADS DRIVE ON NATURE.

Emil Scholz, publisher of the New York Evening Post, left on Thursday for State Line, Mich., for a two weeks' vacation. State Line is just below the copper and iron country and about forty miles from Lake Superior and in the midst of the lakes, rivers, and forests primeval.

There are also, to be had muskellunge, wall-eyed pike, brook trout, partridge and duck.

Mr. Scholz takes with him R. Fancilli, manager of the Post's international bureau; his brother Theodore Scholz, of the Chicago Daily News; and Charles Scholz, Jr., son of Charles Scholz, of the Crowell Publishing Company.

In an effort to reduce the cost of living Mr. Scholz expects, if ice is available, to ship a carload of game to New York for distribution among his friends.

GEARHEART TO MIAMI, OKLA.

Sam Gearheart, for several years active in advertising in Fort Smith, Ark., has purchased the Miami (Okla.) Daily District News, an afternoon paper, in company with Arthur Lloyd of Columbus, Ohio. The News is an afternoon paper, with Associated Press service.

Introducing our new Lead, Slug and Rule Caster

The Thompson Type Machine Company announces the completion of its new attachment (faster, simpler and cheaper than any on the market) for the casting of continuous leads, slugs and rules with automatic cutting-off and stacking device.

They are now prepared to accept orders for Thompson Typecasters so equipped and give adequate guarantees against patent infringement suits.

These attachments can be seen in operation in the principal cities. Full particulars upon request.

Thompson Type Machine Company

CHICAGO, 223 West Erie Street

38 Park Row, NEW YORK

Endorsed and Sold by the Mergenthaler Linotype Company

ADVERTISING, WELL USED, WILL HELP WIN WAR.

A FORCE BEHIND THE FRONT; IT GETS MEN, MONEY AND MUNITIONS AND KEEPS NATION STEADY IN STRESS.

By WILLIAM H. RANKIN,

President Western Advertising Agents' Association.

What part will advertising play in the war?

There are many answers to this question. A study of advertising conditions in England during the past three years proves that even in the throes of the mightiest war in all history, which would seem to command all her energies, she is forging ahead in her vast business enterprises.

She has discovered, and has used with wonderful efficiency, a new fighting weapon—advertising.

A wounded soldier, from the trenches in France, recently visited the Chicago Athletic Club. When asked "What about the boys in France, will they hold out? Will they win this war?" his answer was: "Don't worry about the boys at the front—they will surely do their part to win. Keep the folks at home in a winning frame of mind. Have them send us proper supplies, guns, munitions, aeroplanes, food and clothing, and the boys at the front will surely win for the Allies!"

Through advertising the people of England have been educated to do their bit.

Full pages in newspapers, weeklies and magazines have been used, first to raise an army, second to sell 8,000,000 people "Victory Bonds," third to teach prohibition, fourth, the Red Cross!

These tremendously successful advertising campaigns have afforded the nation a wonderful object lesson as to the power of advertising to accomplish definite results—on a huge scale.

The results have been phenomenal. A review of the year 1916 would yield cause for congratulation to advertising and to the advertising men of England.

Advertising endured the severe strains it had been subjected to in a most admirable manner. It has shown itself to perform a function in modern trading of absolutely primary importance.

There were those in the earlier days of the war who were inclined to look upon their advertising as a species of luxury that offered the most favorable opportunities for retrenchment.

They are not much in evidence now!

Most of them learned in a very practical manner, and not without pain, that commercial business can no more be conducted without advertising than an engine can be run without steam. An editorial in a recent issue of the Advertising World, London, has the following to say:

"There will be an enormous amount of business to be done in home and over-sea markets during the years immediately following the cessation of hostilities, but the competition of it will be keener than any of which the commercial world has yet knowledge."

"This is being more and more recognized in this country—fortunately for the future of our trade—and everywhere efforts are being made to key the machinery of distribution, and, what is still more necessary, the machinery of distribution, salesmanship and advertising, up to a hitherto undreamed of level of efficiency."

"Quite apart from and in addition to the splendid advertising activities, this preparation work is giving all those connected with advertising rapidly increasing employment for all their energies and abilities. There is no time to lose, for it is more than possible that the war will end as suddenly as it began; and to be found unprepared for peace may cost us more in the long run even than we have had to pay for being unprepared for war."

It is highly important that American business and commercial interests press with vigor—now—the unparalleled opportunities for dominating the home market, as well as the world's markets, which the war has placed within our grasp.

Full speed ahead! should be the slogan of the alert manufacturers and merchants of the United States. The coming year, and the years to follow, war or no war, will be the most prosperous in our history, and we as advertising men can help make them so.

With our net income of $25,000,000,000 a year and a total wealth of $225,000,000,000 why should any one hesitate to go ahead with business in the regular way?

Then think of it.

Ten billion dollars more will be spent in this country this year by the Allies. Business today is better in Canada than in any year during the past ten. So it will be here when our taxes have been fixed and business adjusted accordingly.

We need more optimists in this country just now who can look ahead thirty or sixty days and tell the people here and now they have nothing to fear.

For if you and I let our buying money remain idle, if we virtually hoard it instead of spending it, the retailers will buy less from the producers of raw material, and the result will be a depression without any real cause.

Prosperity in this country will win the war. If we interfere with that prosperity by foolish economy we not only hurt ourselves, but we will hurt our chances to do the big things necessary for us to do in this war.

We must wisely spend our money or we won't have money to spend. We should all of us decide now to spend the money we can afford to spend and hold up our end in promoting dollar patriotism, which is as essential to our victory as enlisting to fight!

The greatest advertising lesson that will come out of the war will be that advertising, properly handled, is a profitable investment and not a "necessary evil." When peace comes we will see advertising at least on a firm, unshakable, business foundation.

The main thing that we as advertising men are to prove to our country and business men of the world is that "Advertising lowers the cost of distribution."

THOMPSON'S NEW RULE CASTER

WILL ALSO MAKE LEADS AND SLUGS—AVOIDS EXISTING PATENTS.

The Thompson Type Machine Company is making in this issue of THE FOURTH ESTATE the first public announcement of its new attachment for the Thompson Type-caster for casting leads, slugs and rules in continuous lengths.

It is some months since this company built its first molds for this purpose, which were installed in a number of plants. These molds have now been redesigned to eliminate some objectionable features and as present constructed are said to be practically indestructible.

John S. Thompson, inventor of the Thompson Type-caster and the new attachment for his machine, says:

"We have been experimenting with different devices for producing leads, slugs and rules for the past two years, and have a number of patents on them on file in Washington. The art is an old one, and has been fairly well developed. Metal has been cast in molds, advanced therein and another charge of metal introduced so as to cause it to unite by fusion, as is disclosed in many patents, some dating back as far as 1890. Vertical molds were first used, the metal being poured in at the top, the lower solidified portion being released and intermittently advanced by gravity. Automatic cutters were employed to sever the bars into convenient lengths.

"Later patents show horizontal molds for the same purpose, the metal being introduced into them by pressure and drawn out mechanically. Improvement was possible only in detail, and the next step was to provide an ejector working behind the cast section to push it forward. It is this patent which is featured in the apparatus now being manufactured for making printers' leads, slugs and rules. A monopoly is claimed for it under that patent.

"We have avoided conflict with it, however, by dispensing altogether with the ejector blade which was first used in our early apparatus. This has resulted in a substantial improvement in the art, an ejector blade, especially for two-point, are a source of continual trouble. Instead of pushing the material out of the mold, we advance the whole mold after the cast has been made, grasp the material and retract the mold, leaving an open space in the rear into which the next cast is made. Perfect fusion is accomplished by our unique method of introducing the hot metal so that it strikes simultaneously the entire edge of the congealed section, instead of flowing along its edge. High speed, double that possible in previous devices, is the result.

"Our new molds are, therefore, a simple boxlike block which can be changed in two minutes to produce two-point, six-point or twelve-point, and our automatic cutter delivers the product cut to points and stacked on the galley.

"We want to emphasize the fact that we have not been, contrary to gossip, sued, enjoined or prohibited from manufacturing this or any other attachment, nor have any of our

Prepare Now for Your Busy Season and War Extras When Our Boys Get Busy by Installing

The Wood Dry Mat

Save from 2% to 3½% in cost of Print Paper, be rid of steam tables for all time—save time and labor—improve printing.

The Wood Dry Mat is a well established success and has never failed when used with proper equipment.

Supply Absolutely Guaranteed.
Costs Less than Wet Mats.
Safe, Simple and Sane.

WOOD FLONG CORPORATION
25 Madison Avenue, New York City users been interfered with. We are prepared to defend any such suits and give our users adequate guarantees."

RYAN & INMAN REPRESENT MONTREAL GAZETTE IN WEST.

In the recent publication of THE FOURTH ESTATE Directory of Daily Newspapers having Special Representatives in the National Advertising Field, the Montreal Gazette was erroneously listed as being represented in the West by Gilman & Nicoll.

The Western representatives of the Gazette are Ryan & Inman, McCormick Building, Chicago.

Gilman & Nicoll represent the Gazette in the East.

I.N.S. STAFF CHANGES.

H. C. Reynolds, for several years advance news editor of the International News Service, has resigned to join the copy desk of the New York Tribune. He will be succeeded on the I.N.S. advance news desk by S. H. MacKeon, formerly editor of the Hearst-Selig motion picture news weekly, who has been for some months in charge of the I.N.S. news mat department. He will retain direction of the latter service in addition to his new duties.

REAL PATRIOTS, THESE.

The Chicago Press Golf Club members gave a benefit tournament on August 31 for the "smoke fund" of the soldiers abroad. For each stroke, each player gave a cigarette to the fund. Just to make sure that the tournament was a success from the soldiers' standpoint, the golfers took a good many extra strokes on the round.

ADVERTISING AND QUALITY.

(Copyright, Mallory, Mitchell & Faust.)

When you buy an advertised product, you buy a guarantee of quality.

In the old days, when goods were sold in bulk without means of identification, when there was no way for the consumer to tell who the manufacturer was, the manufacturer was at liberty to use inferior material, manufacture in an inferior way without injuring his business.

For the goods were unidentified. Even should they prove unsatisfactory, there was no way for the consumer to know whose goods they were or how to avoid them a second time.

Competition among manufacturers was on the basis of price first at a sacrifice of quality, if this was necessary to meet competition. But now, with the advent of advertising and trade-marks as a means of identifying the goods as the product of a certain manufacturer, all this is changed.

Quality must now be the first consideration, with price secondary.

For if the quality proves unsatisfactory, the consumer will avoid buying these goods a second time. The manufacturer will have killed the market for his product. He cannot afford to sacrifice quality in a single unit or package.

The advertising and the trade-mark guarantee the consumer against inferior goods.

Frank Copeland, formerly connected with the St. Louis office of the American Type Founders Company, has purchased the Tryon (N. C.) News.

HOOVER WANTS AID OF FARM PRESS.

FOODSTUFF CONSERVATION
MUST BE BROUGHT HOME
TO FARMER.

Herbert C. Hoover, Federal Food Administrator, explained to editors of agricultural papers and representatives of newspapers from agricultural districts on August 25 the necessity for administering the supply of foodstuffs, and asked their cooperation.

He objected to the word "control" in connection with food conservation in the main wished to rely on voluntary effort and patriotic cooperation.

All sections of the country were represented at the conference, from which the newspaper representatives of the metropolitan press were excluded.

E. T. Meredith of Des Moines, who presided at the meeting, said that when he went to Washington recently to confer with Mr. Hoover he carried word that the farmers of the West were "against Hoover" because of the fear that they would suffer through price regulation. He said he had found out that this impression was "all wrong; that the food administrator intended to protect the farmer against a lower price than was his due."

Mr. Meredith said he believed that the price as eventually fixed would be a protection to the producer against a low price and the consumer against a high figure.

TAKE IT TO POWERS!

"Fastest Engravers on Earth"

Open 24 hours out of 24
On Time All the Time

POWERS PHOTO ENGRAVING
COMPANY

154 Nassau Street, NEW YORK
Telephone 4200 Beekman

Good Work

Prompt Service

Fair Prices

They tell the story of our 23 years of successful service.

And we want you to get into the habit to

"Phone the Manhattan Man for your Engraving"

MANHATTAN PHOTO
ENGRAVING CO.

251-253 William Street NEW YORK
Phone, Worth 1037-8

STANLEY PROCESS
quality not to down a made to price
TYPE METAL

SYRACUSE SMELTING WORKS
BROOKLYN, N. Y. and CHICAGO, ILL.

For Particular Printing come to the
ALLIANCE PRESS
110-114 West 39d Street NEW YORK

BRIDGEPORT Is Waiting To Buy—PROSPERITY Reigns Supreme!

Many Bridgeport mechanics ride to and from their daily work in their own automobiles

THE illustration shows a large lot near Bridgeport's City Hall made vacant by razing old church buildings now accommodating a small part of the daily automobile overflow of Bridgeport's great mechanical and clerical forces. In Bridgeport "nearly every one" owns an automobile.

Another Example of Bridgeport's Prosperity.

"HELP WANTED—We will pay skilled mechanics $1.00 per hour. Bridgeport Projectile Co."

POST AND TELEGRAM LARGEST CONNECTICUT CIRCULATION!

The JULIUS MATHEWS SPECIAL AGENCY
Boston New York Chicago

THE PARIS PAPERS' REGULATIONS.

SIZES AND PRICES ARE SET BY GOVERNMENT TO SAVE PAPER.

The question of the size and price of Paris newspapers, which are handicapped heavily by the cost of and the shortage in paper and other increased war expenses, has been settled by M. Viviani, acting as Minister of the Interior in the absence of M. Malvy. He issued a new set of regulations governing all periodicals.

The smallest size one-cent paper may continue to be sold for 1 cent; if the issue contains two pages only on Monday and Thursday and four pages on other days. For the next larger size 2 cents may be charged, but the limit is four pages daily. The third size may charge 2 cents, but they are limited to two pages on Monday and four on other days. The largest size may charge 2 cents for two pages on Monday and Thursday and have four pages on the other days. Papers issued between 10 o'clock and noon may choose their own two-page days.

The few remaining expensive papers, as well as the weeklies and bi-weeklies, are limited severely. This is found necessary because many journals have been increasing their sales. Consequently the use of white paper, not to gain circulation for attracting advertising—war issues carry an almost irreducible minimum already—but to increase incomes from sales, will be brought back to normal.

Immediately after the announcement of the decree, the Paris edition of the New York Herald printed this comment, a translation of which follows:

"It has been decided that the 1-cent newspapers will be sold for 2 cents! We await with anxiety the result of this measure; the paper crisis does not allow us to propose another solution. But, in our opinion, this is the St. Bartholomew of a great number of newspapers."

"It should not be imagined that the pretext of 'the high cost of living' is valid in all cases."

"At present every citizen buys four or five newspapers in the morning and two in the evening. The five morning newspapers reproduce the same news—that which the censorship has permitted."

"In some newspapers the regular reader looks for his own opinions in the comments of Messrs. Clemenceau, Terve, Capus, Barres, Leon Daudet, Thery, etc. For it is the leading editorial which differentiates the newspaper; otherwise all the newspapers could make use of the same text."

"During the first days of the war there were few newspapers in Paris. There were peculiar changes in the opinions of purchasers; thus the Liberte and the Independant saw their circulations tripled in Paris, whereas the Depeche de Toulouse in the south had a considerable increase. At present it may be said that all the dailies are sure of their clients. As we have said, many newspapers are bought in the hope that one of them will give some news that has escaped the others! A vain hope moreover!"

"The censorship is to there, which watches and unifies the news for you!"

"When the 2-cent law shall have been promulgated the habits of the readers will change. Each of them will choose one sheet, at most two. At night each will buy only one newspaper. (There will be a fine opportunity to seize for a newspaper that will appear at half past six.) Who will suffer from this state of affairs?"

"The press is already greatly reduced. The new regulation will certainly cause some of our contemporaries to disappear. For one who knows the journalistic proletariat the measure seems very harsh! There will be put on the street some unfortunates more; and notwithstanding, the pages of the official journal will not be reduced!"

"The advertisers, who remain so exacting, will pay more for their announcements; there will be just as much waste. Would it not have been possible to regulate the expense of paper? Certain publications are very useless; others are only prospectuses in form of newspapers. In the book industry there are, in spite of the war, a host of old books whose necessity is not apparent to us."

"On the other hand, the newspaper is a necessity; if it should disappear the social order would be compromised, all sorts of false reports would be spread abroad, there would be no longer any regulator of opinion. That is why the new law seems to us to be dangerous! It affects especially the newspapers of editorial influence."

An announcement issued by the Interministerial Press Commission says that by agreement with the Government the increase in the price of newspapers will be enforced strictly after September 1. The newspapers affected are requested when publishing the commission's notice to add that the price of their papers has been raised from 1 cent to 2 cents.

The Abercrombie (N. D.) Messenger is the name of a new paper published by E. S. Cameron.

EDITOR CALLED, NO PAPER.

The Lapel (Ind.) News, a weekly, was compelled to suspend last week's issue because A. G. Sherry, editor of the News, had been called to the colors. A man to edit the paper could not be obtained in time to get out the edition, according to an announcement made by W. H. Brinson, who owns the paper.

IN EAST FOR COAST PAPERS.

William D. Ward, New York, has been appointed Eastern representative of the Washington Newspaper Association, an organization of country weeklies, all home print, published in the state of Washington. It has a membership of 86 papers, the combined stated circulation of which is about 85,000.

Continued Progress

In August The New York Times published 895,649 lines of advertisements, a gain of over 77,210 lines over August, 1916, and, deducting help and situation wanted advertisements, a greater volume than any other New York newspaper. Average net paid circulation, daily and Sunday, 344,000 copies.

E. B. McLEAN WINS ESTATE CONTROL.

WARMLY FOUGHT CASE IS FINALLY DECIDED BY WASHINGTON COURT.

Control of the estate of the late John R. McLean, millionaire publisher of the Cincinnati Enquirer and Washington Post, goes to his son, Edward B. McLean, by the decision on August 30 of Supreme Court Justice A. M. Gould in Washington, D. C.

The ruling against the American Security Company, defendant in the big will case, gives the younger McLean immediate control of the estate, including the Washington Post and the Cincinnati Enquirer.

The contest waged by the son has been a matter of leading social and legal interest for nearly a year, during which time the case has come close to a decision several times.

Attorneys for Mr. McLean on August 29 filed a petition with the equity division of the District of Columbia Supreme Court, asking that he be made an executor. There is pending a caveat filed by the son, opposing admission of his father's will to probate.

Under the will of the millionaire publisher and mine owner, the American Security and Trust Company was named as executor. In his petition Mr. McLean sets forth that the will asked that he be allowed as much liberty as consistent with the law in carrying out the testator's bequests. The trust company immediately filed an answer, saying it would not oppose his appointment as an executor.

BRAND ASSERTS LOYALTY.

Horace L. Brand, editor of the Chicago Staats-Zeitung, has denied the truth of a report to the effect that he was named in a suit for $564,500 instituted by John D. Beebe against the Northwestern Terra Cotta Company, "alleging damage based on the refusal of the concern to aid in the manufacture of war munitions for the United States."

Mr. Brand says no such allegation is contained in the statement of claim and that he is not a party to the suit. He is treasurer of the new Chicago Crucible Company and "would gladly sell its entire output to the United States Government."

SOME TOUGH COUNTRY!

With the revolutions and one thing and another, printers, even of the "tramp" variety are fighting shy of Mexico. As a consequence the Tampico Tribune has been forced to advertise in newspapers as far away as Chicago for linotype operators.

UNDER U. S. BAN.

St. Louis Labor, a weekly published at St. Louis, has been denied mailing privileges because of its anti-American attitude.

"SPUDS" MAY BE WELCOME, YET.

EDITOR THE FOURTH ESTATE.

SIX: It gives me great pleasure to enclose herewith my check for $2 in lieu of potatoes or other subscribers' prerogatives. I trust your valuable and interesting publication will continue to prosper. JAMES MADISON.

EDWARD B. McLEAN,
WHO HAS OBTAINED FULL CONTROL OF THE JOHN R. McLEAN ESTATE AND NEWSPAPERS.

DOING HIS BIT.

Treve Collins, Jr., the Brooklyn (N. Y.) cartoonist who creates pretty girls for Cartoons Magazine and draws special features for a number of newspapers, has not yet been called to his country's colors, but for some time past has been doing his bit to keep our boys in France in good humor.

Treve has a number of friends with the American contingent and recently completed a large number of individually drawn souvenir post cards which were sent to France gratis, for distribution.

One of his cartoons, Little Miss America, holding an American shield and saying: "I Can't Fight, But I'm Right With You Just The Same," has created so much favorable comment on the other side that a motion is afoot to reproduce it in quantities for general circulation.

SIMPLE LIFE FOR JOHN.

John A. Coughland, editorial writer on the Sioux City (Ia.) Journal for eighteen years and for the past three years editor-in-chief, has retired from further editorial duties. He will move to Florida for the simple life on a plantation where he proposes to raise fruits and flowers and enjoy life far away from the petulancies of "Vox Populi" and "Old Subscriber."

C. W. Clifton is starting a new paper at Bayard, Neb.

DUVAL HAD BIG CHECK.

M. Duval, director of the Paris (France) Bonnet Rouge, who is under arrest charged with supplying the enemy with information, had been shadowed for a long time, because of suspicious trips to Switzerland, until the end of May, when a check for $90,000 was found on him at the frontier. Duval explained that this check was in payment for his interest in a casino near Constantinople, which had just been liquidated. The check was restored to him after a photograph of it had been taken.

RUSSIAN EDITOR GAGGED.

For the second time in the last three weeks a publication of M. Souvorin, Russian editor, has been suppressed.

The Government this week placed his newspaper, of a counter-revolutionary character, under the ban, and it will be permitted to appear no more. The paper had an exceptionally large circulation.

Only three weeks ago another paper gotten out by Souvorin was suppressed for its counter-revolutionary doctrines.

PRESS RODEO ON COAST.

The San Francisco Newspaper Men's Club will hold a California Cowboys' Round-Up on September 8-9-10. A few thrillers of old California days will feature the occasion.

SUNDAY ISSUE IN SYRACUSE.

THE POST-STANDARD ENTERS SEVEN-DAY-A-WEEK FIELD TOMORROW.

The Syracuse (N. Y.) Post-Standard will be published hereafter seven days a week, the first number of the Sunday Post-Standard being scheduled for tomorrow, September 2. The price will be 5 cents.

The Sunday edition will have full telegraphic news service of the Associated Press, augmented by special dispatches from other reputable news agencies. It will also cover Central and Northern New York more thoroughly than it has been covered for the daily edition. The news, local and general, will be generously illustrated.

In addition to its backbone of news, the Sunday paper will also include a weekly review and magazine, designed to interest all members of the household. It will have special departments and special articles on sports, theaters, motion pictures, finance and markets, fashions, humor, fiction, juvenile features and illustrations.

During the summer months the Post-Standard has been preparing for the addition to its family by remodeling its building throughout and with the addition of new machinery of modern design.

The Post-Standard is represented in the national advertising field by Paul Block, Inc., New York, Chicago, Boston and Detroit.

COURSE FOR RURAL PRINTERS.

The first short course for country newspaper foreman and printers ever held in the state, and probably the first to be held in the United States was closed last week at Ames, Ia., after a three-day session.

More than a score of printers from various parts of Iowa attended the session. Special instructions were given them along practical lines in newspaper make-up and job estimating. Educational movies were shown and a banquet was given on the last night.

The instructors were J. L. Frazer and E. H. Keating of the Inland Printer of Chicago, and A. E. Brown, publisher of the Owatonna (Minn.) Journal-Chronicle at that place.

The course was conducted by the department of journalism at the Iowa State College and directed by F. W. Beckman, head of the department.

ELVERSON'S FINE YACHT.

Motor yacht enthusiasts are loud in the praises of the Inquirer, the new speedster just built for Colonel James Elverson, Jr., publisher of the Philadelphia Inquirer. The boat is powerfully engined, will make a speed of twenty-five miles an hour and is luxuriously furnished. Colonel Elverson will use it for cruises in Long Island and Philadelphia waters, it is said.

A LITTLE ON THE SIDE.

Harry Carr, for many years feature writer for the Los Angeles Times, is now writing publicity stories for the Mack Sennett Studios in that city. He remains on the Times staff.

W.W. YOUNG IN NEW CONNECTION.

ELECTED EDITOR-MANAGER OF NATIONAL EDITORIAL
SERVICE.

W. W. Young has been made editor and manager of the National Editorial Service, Inc., with headquarters at 225 Fifth avenue, New York.

This service is confined to a daily signed editorial of from 750 to 1,000 words on a timely topic and by an authority on the particular subject. It has been continuous for more than two years, having been started originally in connection with the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Mr. Young is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, where he founded the Daily Cardinal in 1892. Because of this and the fact that he was the first student to elect studies specially fitted to a journalistic career, he is looked upon as practically the founder of that university's school of journalism. His first metropolitan experience was on the New York World from 1894 to 1900, most of which time was spent on Sunday edition work.

W. W. YOUNG.

When W. R. Hearst established his Chicago newspapers, Mr. Young was made the first Sunday editor of the Chicago American, afterwards changed to the Sunday Examiner. He held that position five years and during all that time he had charge also of the editorial pages and the daily "home" pages of Mr. Hearst's morning and evening Chicago papers. In 1905 he went to the Chicago Daily Journal, shortly after it was purchased by John C. Eastman, as feature editor. He had charge of everything in the paper that was not news.

In 1908 Mr. Young returned to New York as managing editor of Hampton's Magazine and remained with that magazine until a month

Curbing Rising Costs On the Hartford Times

"We average 100 columns of advertising in the daily edition of the Hartford Times. Handling this advertising is a gigantic task. For ten years costs steadily increased. Not until 1916 was there introduced into our composing room a single factor that had any tendency to curb the increase. Then came the Model 9 four-magazine Mergenthalers—three of them. Immediately they effected a saving of time. In fact, from the minute the ads reached the composing room until they were in the completed forms, this saving in time could be measured in dollars and cents. The Model 9s certainly speeded up production on the Hartford Times. The first edition is on the press at 2 P.M."

C. P. CHAMBERLIN, Business Manager.

*The "Linotype Line," a 16-page Folder describing
"The All Slug Route to Profit." Write for a copy.*

Mergenthaler Linotype Company
Tribune Building, New York
CHICAGO TORONTO SAN FRANCISCO NEW ORLEANS

before its demise in 1912. After that he was managing editor of Good Housekeeping, Sunday editor of the New York Press and one of the editors of the McClure Newspaper Syndicate. More recently he has been active as advisory publisher of magazines, also doing considerable writing and syndicate promotion.

Of the National Editorial Service he says:

"It requires optimism to believe that any syndicate can be made to grow during such times as these, but it is just because of the times and the peculiar way in which this particular service fits them that I see its biggest chance for growth and usefulness, and that is the reason that I have preferred to become identified with it rather than accept other positions that have been offered.

"As a people, we are now thinking harder than ever, and the war and the events following the end of the war are going to make us keep on thinking harder and harder about the every-day problems of life as well as vastly bigger things than those petty problems. More and more people will want to read what real authorities on vital subjects can impart to them in brief, direct-to-the-point editorials.

"Here is an organization with a staff of more than fifty of the world's greatest experts writing regularly on call and with practically the whole field of experts of various kinds as occasional contributors.

"The basic idea being good, the only chance for improvement is in the selection of material and it will be only in the way of getting more editorials on big business subjects that I shall make any radical changes. Business is the one big thing in the world today.

"Business jealousy caused the world war and it will be business that will stop it. It will be business—a wider and radically reorganized business—that will build up the world again. The right sort of editorial matter supplementing the news is going to make the newspaper the biggest factor in putting the world right, economically and in every other way."

ARGENTINA CITY HAS TWELVE DAILY NEWSPAPERS.

In La Plata, Argentina, twelve daily newspapers are published, reports Robert S. Barrett, special agent of the Department of Commerce at Buenos Ayres.

This is believed to be a greater number than is to be found in any other city of its size in the world. The population is 142,572. It is only an hour's ride from Buenos Aires, and all of the great dailies of that city are sold on its streets.

Eleven of La Plata's dailies are general in character, and publish telegraph, state, and local news. The twelfth is the Official Bulletin of the province of Buenos Aires, of which La Plata is the capital.

One of the publications has a circulation of 15,000 copies, and the others print from 1,000 to 6,000 copies each. Each has its own printing plant, and two of these are equipped with modern perfecting newspaper presses and typesetting machines. Their subscription prices range from $4.40 to $20 per annum, and the advertising rates from 3½ to 60 cents an inch.

WHAT ADVERTISING HAS DONE FOR CLOTHING.

FAMOUS READY-TO-WEAR CLOTHIER CALLS IT INDUSTRY'S GREATEST AID—URGESCO-ORDINATED PUBLICITY.

By DAVID KIRSCHBAUM,
Of the A. B. Kirschbaum Company.

While the first systematic attempt to produce ready-to-wear clothes took place in 1841, the rapid development of the industry in this country may be said to date from the year 1880.

Seven or eight years later one of two makers ventured, somewhat hesitatingly, into advertising. In those days advertising had a good many of the qualities of an adventurous experiment. It required, I fancy, a greater boldness to spend those modest appropriations than it does the vast budgets which prevail today in an industry ranking sixth or seventh in the United States.

To be absolutely fair in appraising the true place of advertising in this development, let us admit that the times were propitious for popularizing the ready-to-wear principle in clothes.

The era since 1880 has been one of restless commercial expansion. A wide diffusion of wealth has enabled people of all classes and occupations to give thought to the improvement of their dress. The tremendous growth of the American population has presented a market of constantly enlarging proportions.

But if these factors were favorable, there was one which was not. The best public opinion frowned upon the idea of wearing ready-made clothes. There was a deep social prejudice to be overcome before they could be worn generally by aspiring American citizens. And to add to the difficulty at the start, no particular standards were observed in the manufacturing of the clothes and practically no ethics in the retailing of them.

When we look back to these beginnings, we realize how far we have traveled. Step by step, ready-to-wear clothes have mounted the scale of excellence and respectability. Step by step, standards have been advanced, and today nothing is too fine in fabric, design or tailoring for the high-grade clothes makers to achieve. As a result, the vast majority of American men—reputed to be the best dressed body of citizens in the world—are patrons of the retail clothier.

What has brought about this remarkable transition? I confess to my belief that it was an evolution, inevitable in the very nature of things.

But without the enlightening power of advertising the industry would not have been where it stands today for possibly another 25 or 50 years.

Advertising propelling a fundamentally sound principle has enabled it to move forward at locomotive speed instead of an ox-team pace. Old and lingering prejudices have been erased—public thought has been remolded completely in its attitude toward ready-to-wear clothes by a comparatively few years of educational publicity.

For speeding this process of development, both the clothing industry and the American people are debtors to advertising.

To provide clothes for the men and young men of this country—20,000,000 of them—constitutes an industrial task of imposing magnitude. And it is imperative that a service so vital to the public welfare be rendered with the least possible waste and dissipation of effort.

Think what would be the cost of clothing our male population by the old merchant-tailor methods—then think of the economies and betterments effected by displacing these thousands of small shops by modern clothes-making institutions where scientific management, modern equipment and modern sanitation can be successfully applied.

The wide margin between the two systems in the producing of 60,000,000 or more garments annually, is a telling answer to that school of economists which affects to look upon advertising as a mere dead weight laid upon the consuming public's back.

CO-ORDINATED UNITY.

Co-ordinated unity is displacing the old theory of loose individualism all through American business life. For a quarter of a century I have watched the working out of this trend in the clothing world. And as the manufacturing clothiers and the retail clothiers are drawing closer together, the costly evils of cancellations, cut-price sales and many forms of waste in merchandise distribution are gradually being diminished.

The decisive part advertising has played in bringing about the recognition of this community of interests has been far too little appreciated.

When a retail merchant accepts the agency for an advertised line, he must vouch to his clientele for the reliability and the good intent of the maker.

And the manufacturer, in associating his name with that of the clothier, gives his endorsement to the selling methods of the latter.

Thus the retailer has a stake in the making of the clothes and the maker has a stake in the retailing of the clothes.

To a large extent the interests of the two are merged.

Both recognize their mutual dependence for success upon a high conception of service to the public—for whose patronage they are jointly appealing.

In the national advertising of the large clothing institutions this obligation of manufacturer and retailer to consumer was first given recognition.

It was in the clothing business that the one price system was first adopted; that methods of haggle and barter were first abolished; that the strictly American institution of "absolute satisfaction or your money back" was first evolved, with the wearer as sole and supreme judge of what constitutes absolute satisfaction.

Going further in this same direction, I believe the future will see practically all clothing sold at a price affixed to the garment by the clothes-maker. In assembling the materials for his garments and determining the grade of tailoring by which they are produced, the manufacturer has a definite retail price in mind, at which he invites the competition of the world.

He is willing to stake his success upon the public verdict of the value he gives at that price, which, of course, provides ample margin for efficient retail distribution. But let that price be raised to cover an undue profit or wasteful methods—on the part of either manufacturer or retailer—and the success of both is put in jeopardy.

In other words, the fixed price—at least so far as a non-patentable article is concerned—makes it impossible to levy the tax of industrial inefficiency upon the consumer.

ADVERTISING THE DECISIVE FACTOR.

Unmistakably, the present trend is toward concentration of the industry in the hands of those houses which have modernized their processes of production and distribution. I should have been inclined to attribute this tendency to the difficulties and hazards of the business, such as rapid style changes, wide fluctuations in cost of materials, tremendous financial investments and so on, were it not for the experience of our colleagues, the women's garment manufacturers.

But a careful comparison of the two industries clearly indicates that the greatest contributing factor toward concentration in our industry has been national publicity.

I recall that twenty years ago there were no less than 15 fair sized manufacturing clothiers in Philadelphia, whose sales volumes ranged from one-half a million to three million annually.

Today, in that city of 1,750,000 inhabitants, there is only one large plant making high grade garments.

Now look at the women's field.

Here advertising has not been employed by manufacturers except to a minor extent.

While women buy many more garments than men in the course of a year, still there are no individual concerns making women's apparel, which approach in size the larger concerns in the men's apparel field.

It has long been an unsolved problem to me why women—much more discerning than men in their knowledge of needlework and materials—should be satisfied with the present order of things.

Women are equally, if not more, responsive than men to intelligent advertising.

I predict that when the day of awakening comes and some far-visioned manufacturer begins to make and to advertise women's garments along the same modern methods employed by men's clothing makers, he will reap a harvest beyond his most rosy dreams.

At any rate, the striking contrast between the two industries should be conclusive proof to the most confirmed skeptic that advertising makes for more scientific manufacturing, higher ethics in the conduct of business, and above all, a better service to the public.

IDENTIFYING LABELS.

But let me not convey the impression that the making and distribution of men's apparel has reached a state of unqualified perfection. Much still remains to be done.

For one thing, we should attempt to secure the enactment of laws requiring an identification mark on every article sold at wholesale or retail, certifying as to the conditions under which that article is manufactured. Particularly, in the case of so intimate and personal a thing as wearing apparel—the purchaser is entitled to know whether it was made in whole or in part in overcrowded sweat shops or in modern, sunlit, sanitary plants.

Of course, in the shops of practically all reputable clothes-makers, every safeguard is provided for the worker's health and well being. But thousands, yes, hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of wearing apparel—and millions of dollars worth of other articles—emanating

Finest Quality

FELT PRESS and MOULDING BLANKETS

DIRECT from Factory to Newspaper

at

ONE PROFIT

Write for prices to Newspaper Dept.

Chas. W. HOUSE
& Sons
UNIONVILLE, CONN.

from the most questionable sources, are still sold to the American public every year. Once the country is aroused to the danger, by nationwide agitation, for a label which would be a clue to its origin, we will be free from the menace of unclean and unsanitary merchandise.

The second task of which I would speak is the elimination of fraudulent advertising.

By the unscrupulous, advertising has been looked upon as a bonanza field where the miracle of publicity could turn wind into gold and frauds into substantial dividends. As a consequence, public confidence in the truthfulness of the printed word has often been grievously shaken.

BAD ADVERTISING.

Many of our newspapers and periodicals unfortunately permit the advertiser, within the columns he has leased, to deal with facts as loosely and inaccurately as he chooses. A strange paradox that in their editorial and news columns newspapers should display such a solicitude for the welfare of business and yet allow deception and fraud to find refuge in their advertising columns.

We owe it to the cause of advertising to conserve public confidence by moderation of statement—by a broad tolerance of fair competition—and by a swift and stern invoking of the law wherever fraud and misrepresentation show their heads.

Most of us absorbed in the activities incidental to the war, have had little opportunity to think of or prepare for the "war after the war."

Our entrance into this struggle marks the beginning of the most important chapter in American life. The past 25 years have been years of tremendous energies and accomplishment. We have achieved and reckoned not the cost. Waste has been the cardinal sin of the nation and in no phase of commercial life has this sin been more persistent than in advertising.

We will emerge from the tension of these serious times practiced in self denial and knowing the value of thrift. Meanwhile, we shall all have to carefully measure the means to this end. The ablest men of the advertising profession will be in greater demand than ever and will be summoned to contribute their full share to the process of severe economic readjustment.

I referred a few minutes ago to advertising as a unifying force to kindred industries.

So far as clothing is concerned, no one house could monopolize to itself the benefits of this advertising, for the same influence which decides

Save Your Stereotyping Blankets

With high and low type in the form, extra pressure is required in stereotyping to bring up the low letters. This causes undue wear and tear on the blankets. With the

Ludlow Typograph

there are no low letters. The constant uniformity in height-to-paper of Ludlow Slugs, preserves the life of your blankets.

Stereotyping blankets are expensive—this saving is worth while.

Know all the economies the Ludlow Typograph effects in newspaper production. Send for the complete Ludlow Literature.

MERGENTHALER LINOTYPE CO.

Sole Selling Agents

Tribune Building, New York
CHICAGO NEW ORLEANS
SAN FRANCISCO TORONTO

a man to buy a better suit makes it necessary for him to wear better shoes, a better hat, better style shirt and scarf.

SPEAKING AND SERVING TOGETHER.

Recognizing that the benefits of national clothing publicity go far beyond the boundaries of the industry, I believe the future will see a close co-ordination among the nationally known factors engaged in the making of all kinds of wearing apparel.

Without submerging their identities in the slightest, a cooperative campaign by the important houses of every industry would eliminate much unnecessary waste resulting from an overlapping of advertising effort, and it would be another step toward that era of concerted business and industrial effort on which the curtain is now rising.

I am sure I speak for my colleagues and competitors, as well as for myself, in welcoming the approach of the day when we can "speak together and serve together."

JERE O'LEARY FOR MAYOR?

Jeremiah O'Leary, editor of Bull, a periodical just barred from the mails because of seditious contents, is considering an offer to run for mayor of New York on a platform calling for "peace, a free press, and the maintenance of constitutional rights."

SPORT REPORTERS VINDICATED.

McGRAW RESPONSIBLE FOR "REPUDIATED INTERVIEW," SAYS HIS LEAGUE.

After several weeks' deliberation, the National League vindicated Sid Mercer, a baseball reporter for the New York Globe, and other sporting writers, in their report of an interview with John McGraw, manager of the New York "Giants," who had repudiated the interview at a previous session of the league's directors. McGraw was fined $1,000 for criticism of John K. Tener, the league president, contained in the "repudiated interview."

Following McGraw's denial of the baseball reporters' story of his remarks, the league closed the case, but reopened it at the request of the New York chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association. At subsequent hearings, testimony was heard from the writers affected and from witnesses of the interview, which definitely established that McGraw had been correctly quoted and that he had approved the copy of the interview, submitted to before being sent to the newspapers.

The finding the league directors is as follows:

"To the New York Chapter of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

"GENTLEMEN: In response to your resolution under date of June 27 the directors of the National League of Professional Baseball Clubs have carefully considered the matters referred to and have unanimously made a formal finding, as follows:

"1. Manager McGraw of the New York club of our league was asked to appear before this board on June 19 to explain articles appearing in certain New York newspapers on and about June 16.

"2. Manager McGraw denied that he had given interviews as published and voluntarily signed a statement to the effect, and the board, accepting this in perfect good faith, did not then try him for his alleged utterance.

"3. At the hearing, held at your request, several witnesses were heard. They were present at the talk between Manager McGraw and three reporters. All agreed that McGraw did not make the statement published in the interviews.

"Nevertheless he technically approved the interview when after having been given an opportunity to suppress or correct it he failed to do so; and while witnesses differ as to whether he actually read the article or not he gave his sanction by handing the same back to the reporters, saying, 'I guess that is all right.'

"Therefore, he must be charged with responsibility for the article so far as this board is concerned.

"4. By so doing Manager McGraw failed in his duty to his club and the league, and we formally condemn and censure him for his gross lack of care in thus permitting the publication in question.

"5. The incident leading up to the matter has already resulted in a fine of $500 and the suspension without salary for sixteen days. Therefore the board finds there should be imposed in addition to this formal reprimand and censure a fine of $1,000.

"This is deemed by the board of directors the proper time to warn managers and other employees of the league that on any similar conviction of offense of this nature a penalty of suspension for the season will be the minimum punishment."

HOBBY ACTING GOVERNOR.

W. P. Hobby, editor of the Beaumont Enterprise and lieutenant-governor of Texas, has become governor of that state, pending the disposition of charges of misconduct in office against Governor James E. Ferguson.

NASSAU QUALITY METALS

ALWAYS UNIFORM
ELECTROTYPE
LINOTYPE MONOTYPE
INTERTYPE
STEREOTYPE
AUTOPLATE
THOMPSONTYPE
COMPOSOTYPE

Manufactured by the
Nassau Smelting & Refining Works
608 West 99th Street NEW YORK

LIVE TOPICS FOR MEETING IN WASHINGTON.

"Should Not the Person Buying Government Printed Envelopes Pay the Freight?"

"Hang the Space Grifters."

"Should the Government Pay For Liberty Loan Advertising?"

"My Experience in Raising Advertising Rates."

"Guaranteed Circulation."

"Does It Pay to Give Premiums?"

"Advertising in a Town That Will Not Advertise."

"Shall We Take Out-of-Town Advertising?"

"Foreign Advertising Rates."

"Charge the Legal Rate."

"Are Patents and Plates Really Readable and Worth What They Cost?"

This are a few of the subjects up for discussion at the meeting of Willamette Valley Editorial Association (Washington State), which leaves Albany in a special car on the regular Newport train September 8. The session will be held on the train and time at Newport given over to pleasure.

R. H. LEE SERIOUSLY ILL.

Richard H. Lee, who was to have joined the New York Tribune's business forces today, was taken sick in Cleveland this week and is now in that city suffering from typhoid fever.

NATIONAL AND LOCAL NEWS FOR BANK ADS.

THERE ARE MANY WAYS OF USING SPACE
IN NEWSPAPERS THAT PROVE HIGHLY PROFITABLE.

By DAVE S. MATTHEWS,
Of the Farmers and Merchants Bank, Stockton, Cal.

The state from which I hail—California—is a firm believer in advertising.

It was a little over three score years ago that John W. Marshall's keen eyes caught the glitter of the precious metal nature so kindly stored in the crevices of the Sierra Nevada mountains, and the announcement of the discovery of gold, even though an unintentional advertisement, broke all records for its pulling power.

It drew men from all parts of the world. These argonauts were our first colonists. As we progressed and learned more about the science of advertising, we told our Eastern friends about our many other resources. Running the gauntlet from gold to climate and oranges, we have continued to bring the settler to our shores.

Advertising is a sign of progress and California is a progressive state; and it is pleasing to observe that evidence of our progressiveness is seen in the fact that our banks are demonstrating a greater appreciation of the importance and value of financial advertising.

The subject, "How to Use Current Events and Local Happenings as Basis for Bank Advertising," I shall present from the standpoint of our experiences, appreciating the fact that circumstances alter cases and there are localities where some of the features we have adopted possibly cannot be carried out.

A bank has a message to deliver to the people; something it desires to call to the public's attention.

Whether it is seeking new accounts or is simply desiring to impress upon the general public the unexcelled service it can render, it must present the message in a manner that will strike home.

A bank ad is one of many advertisements and no matter how logical the argument, unless it contains that something that will immediately attract the eyes, it stands greater chances of being unnoticed by Mr. Reader.

Therefore if you can attach to your bank advertisement a little local color; if you can occasionally build your ad on some current event or local happening the chances of attracting the reader's attention are decidedly in your favor.

First, we must attract his attention and then he will read the message.

Now, how are we going to do this? It's very simple. A nose for news will help the bank advertising man immensely. Read the newspapers and see where you can apply current events and local happenings of importance to your bank ads.

Take, for example, such items as the following, which appeared in one of our local papers:

"ELEVEN HUNDRED DOLLARS IN BILLS PICKED FROM HIS POCKET."

"Eleven hundred dollars in bills was lifted from the pocket of E. P. Gunn, a Nebraska farmer who is touring California, presumably at the corner of El Dorado and Weber avenue, a few days ago while he was waiting to make a trip to Sacramento. Mr. Gunn reported his loss to Chief of Police Simpson, who is giving what assistance he can. The loss left Mr. Gunn penniless and the Stockton chief wired to the man's Nebraska home and succeeded in obtaining funds for him."

We took this item, ran a replica of it in our ad, and after referring to the unfortunate occurrence, suggested as a precaution that it would be far better to place one's money in a strong bank such as ours and when traveling to secure travelers' checks, which we issued on all parts of the world.

We featured our comments by writing them in longhand and having a plate made of the same. The heading "Eleven Hundred Dollars in Bills Picked From His Pocket" caught the reader's eye and natural curiosity caused him to read our comments.

The daily papers contain numerous such instances, which can be used to advantage.

WHEN A FIRE OCCURS.

Suppose Mr. Jones' house burns down; suppose he has a safe deposit box in one of the local banks.

Very likely he will have no objection to your referring to the fact in your bank ad and emphasizing the importance of the precaution he took.

It would certainly be a fine opportunity to call to hundreds of other people who undoubtedly keep their important documents at home, the mistakes they are making. Strike while the iron is hot.

It is after a big disaster that the officials usually put into effect laws that tend to increase public safety, so why not take advantage of such opportunities as cited above in driving home the advantages of a bank account, safe deposit box, etc.

It is the psychological time. It is human nature to close the barn door after the horse is gone. I know of a real estate firm that has a number of standing reader ads on fire, accident and burglary insurance which are run under all appropriate news items.

You will often find that questions of nation-wide interest offer fine opportunities for timely bank ads.

Take, for example, the high cost of living problem.

You recall the experiments conducted by the Life Extension Institute of New York, when twelve men in the New York Police Training School lived on 25-cent-a-day menus. We sent for a copy of the menus, had a number printed and under this advertising heading "Twenty-five-cent-a-day Menu," told the people about the experiments and informed the housewives we would be pleased to present them copies.

The day before the last Presidential election our ad ran as follows:

ELECTION DAYS.

"Election Day—Your Decision."

Stating that the reader had undoubtedly made his decision as to how he was going to vote, we added:

"Very likely you have thought for some time about starting a savings account. Why not make your decision now?" etc.

During the preparedness discussions we ran an ad containing the picture of the flag and emphasizing that preparedness began with the individual and that the best form of preparedness was a savings account.

About the time the tax collector announced taxes were due our ad read: "The Tax Problem A Solution." The solution was a savings account.

During safety-first week we advertised as follows:

"Safety First—This is safety first week. The safety first campaign is a very creditable movement and is worthy of the support of all good citizens. Precaution is important in all things. This applies to your finances. You should provide for the future by starting a savings account. Take advantage of such events as Washington's and Lincoln's birthdays by running their pictures and quoting them on thrift."

When President Wilson was addressing the nation on various international problems, one of our ads was headed: "President Wilson's View." we gave it—on savings.

There was a very bright young man in Stockton who won a college scholarship. His picture had appeared in the newspapers. We ran his picture in an ad without giving his name, told of his accomplishments and incidentally declared he had had a savings account at our bank for a number of years, having saved consistently. We did the same thing in the instance of a young business man who had consummated a big business deal.

There was a very bright young man in Stockton who won a college scholarship. His picture had appeared in the newspapers. We ran his picture in an ad without giving his name, told of his accomplishments and incidentally declared he had had a savings account at our bank for a number of years, having saved consistently. We did the same thing in the instance of a young business man who had consummated a big business deal.

There was a very bright young man in Stockton who won a college scholarship. His picture had appeared in the newspapers. We ran his picture in an ad without giving his name, told of his accomplishments and incidentally declared he had had a savings account at our bank for a number of years, having saved consistently. We did the same thing in the instance of a young business man who had consummated a big business deal.

There was a very bright young man in Stockton who won a college scholarship. His picture had appeared in the newspapers. We ran his picture in an ad without giving his name, told of his accomplishments and incidentally declared he had had a savings account at our bank for a number of years, having saved consistently. We did the same thing in the instance of a young business man who had consummated a big business deal.

There was a very bright young man in Stockton who won a college scholarship. His picture had appeared in the newspapers. We ran his picture in an ad without giving his name, told of his accomplishments and incidentally declared he had had a savings account at our bank for a number of years, having saved consistently. We did the same thing in the instance of a young business man who had consummated a big business deal.

There was a very bright young man in Stockton who won a college scholarship. His picture had appeared in the newspapers. We ran his picture in an ad without giving his name, told of his accomplishments and incidentally declared he had had a savings account at our bank for a number of years, having saved consistently. We did the same thing in the instance of a young business man who had consummated a big business deal.

There was a very bright young man in Stockton who won a college scholarship. His picture had appeared in the newspapers. We ran his picture in an ad without giving his name, told of his accomplishments and incidentally declared he had had a savings account at our bank for a number of years, having saved consistently. We did the same thing in the instance of a young business man who had consummated a big business deal.

There was a very bright young man in Stockton who won a college scholarship. His picture had appeared in the newspapers. We ran his picture in an ad without giving his name, told of his accomplishments and incidentally declared he had had a savings account at our bank for a number of years, having saved consistently. We did the same thing in the instance of a young business man who had consummated a big business deal.

There was a very bright young man in Stockton who won a college scholarship. His picture had appeared in the newspapers. We ran his picture in an ad without giving his name, told of his accomplishments and incidentally declared he had had a savings account at our bank for a number of years, having saved consistently. We did the same thing in the instance of a young business man who had consummated a big business deal.

There was a very bright young man in Stockton who won a college scholarship. His picture had appeared in the newspapers. We ran his picture in an ad without giving his name, told of his accomplishments and incidentally declared he had had a savings account at our bank for a number of years, having saved consistently. We did the same thing in the instance of a young business man who had consummated a big business deal.

There was a very bright young man in Stockton who won a college scholarship. His picture had appeared in the newspapers. We ran his picture in an ad without giving his name, told of his accomplishments and incidentally declared he had had a savings account at our bank for a number of years, having saved consistently. We did the same thing in the instance of a young business man who had consummated a big business deal.

There was a very bright young man in Stockton who won a college scholarship. His picture had appeared in the newspapers. We ran his picture in an ad without giving his name, told of his accomplishments and incidentally declared he had had a savings account at our bank for a number of years, having saved consistently. We did the same thing in the instance of a young business man who had consummated a big business deal.

There was a very bright young man in Stockton who won a college scholarship. His picture had appeared in the newspapers. We ran his picture in an ad without giving his name, told of his accomplishments and incidentally declared he had had a savings account at our bank for a number of years, having saved consistently. We did the same thing in the instance of a young business man who had consummated a big business deal.

There was a very bright young man in Stockton who won a college scholarship. His picture had appeared in the newspapers. We ran his picture in an ad without giving his name, told of his accomplishments and incidentally declared he had had a savings account at our bank for a number of years, having saved consistently. We did the same thing in the instance of a young business man who had consummated a big business deal.

There was a very bright young man in Stockton who won a college scholarship. His picture had appeared in the newspapers. We ran his picture in an ad without giving his name, told of his accomplishments and incidentally declared he had had a savings account at our bank for a number of years, having saved consistently. We did the same thing in the instance of a young business man who had consummated a big business deal.

There was a very bright young man in Stockton who won a college scholarship. His picture had appeared in the newspapers. We ran his picture in an ad without giving his name, told of his accomplishments and incidentally declared he had had a savings account at our bank for a number of years, having saved consistently. We did the same thing in the instance of a young business man who had consummated a big business deal.

There was a very bright young man in Stockton who won a college scholarship. His picture had appeared in the newspapers. We ran his picture in an ad without giving his name, told of his accomplishments and incidentally declared he had had a savings account at our bank for a number of years, having saved consistently. We did the same thing in the instance of a young business man who had consummated a big business deal.

There was a very bright young man in Stockton who won a college scholarship. His picture had appeared in the newspapers. We ran his picture in an ad without giving his name, told of his accomplishments and incidentally declared he had had a savings account at our bank for a number of years, having saved consistently. We did the same thing in the instance of a young business man who had consummated a big business deal.

There was a very bright young man in Stockton who won a college scholarship. His picture had appeared in the newspapers. We ran his picture in an ad without giving his name, told of his accomplishments and incidentally declared he had had a savings account at our bank for a number of years, having saved consistently. We did the same thing in the instance of a young business man who had consummated a big business deal.

There was a very bright young man in Stockton who won a college scholarship. His picture had appeared in the newspapers. We ran his picture in an ad without giving his name, told of his accomplishments and incidentally declared he had had a savings account at our bank for a number of years, having saved consistently. We did the same thing in the instance of a young business man who had consummated a big business deal.

of Commerce in urging all who could to participate in the auto caravan to Calaveras, etc.

Of course, we always see to it that a marked copy of the newspaper reaches the committeemen. There is one result we are certain of and that is good-will. Whether we get any direct returns or not, we know it has increased the bank's popularity. We not only adopt this plan as a means of co-operating with out-of-town public affairs, but we have used it in their efforts to make their entertainments a success.

BUILDING A NEW HOME.

If any reader is so fortunate as to represent a bank that is building a new home, you have a wonderful opportunity to exploit the bank and most inexpensively.

This can come under the heading of local happenings. A bank building is a local happening and in the smaller communities is a basis for no little publicity. I think we have built our bank building in the newspapers from the foundation up and we are just about to complete the job with a big public opening.

One feature we used to advantage was advertising the fact that practically all the contracts were let locally. We likewise mailed copies of the ads to all the business houses. We played upon the bank's foundation by running a picture of the same and comparing it with the firm financial foundation upon which the institution rested.

There's still another method of securing bank publicity based upon local happenings that has worked out satisfactorily with us. Whenever we attend any community celebration or make a trip to some neighboring locality we take occasion to write an interview for the papers.

Thus we connect the bank's name with the story and are afforded an opportunity to say something nice about our neighbors. In many instances the papers in the community so boosted copy the article and the bank not only receives the benefit of the publicity, but continues to increase its popularity.

HATRICK MOVES UP.

E. B. Hatrick, a well known newspaper man, has been elected secretary of the International Film Service. He was for several years a reporter, telegraph editor and bureau manager for the United Film Service, joining the Hearst forces in 1909. He took charge of the photograph departments of the various Hearst newspapers and welded them into one organization for the gathering and distribution of newspaper illustrations.

Actors, actresses and the people of the show-world generally hold in rare and high esteem.

The BILLBOARD

Among themselves they seldom refer to it save by the nickname they have dubbed it, viz., "Old Billyboy."

And they revere it by it because they have learned through years of experience that they can trust it implicitly.

There is not enough money in the world to induce us to run an ad that in our estimation is designed to deceive or take unfair advantage of them.

Weekly. Member A. B. C.

Circulation 40,000 Copies.

The Billboard Publishing Co.

Broadway and 42d St. NEW YORK

STANLEY CLAGUE A.B.C. MANAGER.

CHICAGO AGENT SUCCEEDS
WHITMAN—FUTURE OF ORGANIZATION.

The directors of the Audit Bureau of Circulations, meeting in Chicago on August 28, elected Stanley Clague, vice-president of the Taylor-Critchfield-Clague Advertising Agency, Chicago, as managing director of the bureau, to succeed Russell R. Whitman, who resigned on August 18 to take charge of his new property, the New York Commercial. Mr. Clague accepted the new responsibilities and will take charge of the A.B.C. work at once.

For a time, at least, there will be no organic changes in the Taylor-Critchfield-Clague Agency, further than the retirement of Mr. Clague from active participation in its work. Whether or not his name will be dropped from the agency title has not been announced, though Mr. Clague has expressed a desire for such a change. Mr. Clague will have his office in the A.B.C. group of offices in the Venetian Building, Chicago.

The new managing director has been active in the A.B.C. since its organization, being one of the leading figures, indeed, in the organization of the bureau. He has been a director, a member of the executive committee and chairman of the standard forms and audit committee of the bureau since its inception and is more thoroughly acquainted with the inner workings of the organization than any other man, barring Mr. Whitman, the retiring managing director.

Mr. Clague was not a candidate for the place and accepted the responsibilities only at the request of a committee from the A.B.C. His acceptance of the post was over an appreciative protest of the directors of Taylor-Critchfield-Clague, presented to Mr. Clague by Major E. E. Critchfield.

"The breadth and scope of the Audit Bureau of Circulations and its value to the participating interests are just now beginning to be recognized," said Mr. Clague to THE FOURTH ESTATE. "The advertising agencies, the advertisers and the publishers are just now awaking to the true stabilizing value of the organization."

"Because of my early participation in its growth and progress, I have come to regard the A.B.C. as a parent regards a beloved child, and in my new capacity I shall work more diligently than ever before to forward the progress of the organization."

STANLEY CLAGUE,
THE NEW MANAGING DIRECTOR OF THE AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS.

ward the progress of the organization."

There will be no abrupt departures in policy; no startling changes in personnel. It is Mr. Clague's plan to continue the present policies of the bureau and to broaden the usefulness of the organization in every possible way.

Mr. Clague's long experience in various phases of the advertising field would seem to equip him for the responsibilities of his new post. After long service as head of the advertising service department of the Curtis Publishing Company in Philadelphia he went to Chicago in 1908 and formed the Clague Agency. Two and a half years ago he became an official in the Taylor-Critchfield-Clague Agency, through the consolidation of his company with Taylor, Critchfield & Co.

In addition to his active responsibilities in the Audit Bureau of Circulations, Mr. Clague has been widely honored in publishing and advertising circles. He has been president of the Affiliated Advertising Agents Association of America, president of three terms of the Western Advertising Agents Association, member of the national commission of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World and vice-president of the National Outdoor Posters Association.

Having a prominent share in conventions, wherever advertising men very wide acquaintance in the general advertising field.

eral advertising field.

At the meeting of the A.B.C. directors have gathered, Mr. Clague has a vote of appreciation was given Russell R. Whitman, the retiring managing director.

Among the directors present at the meeting, sessions of which were executive, were: W. H. Field, Chicago Tribune; Lafe Young, Jr., Des Moines Capital; F. H. Squier, Milwaukee; Louis Bruch, American Radiator Company; M. F. Harris, Armour & Co.; Curtis Brady, Woman's World, and Frank E. Long.

PROSPECTS FOR THE FUTURE.

For some time past there have been rumors of internal dissension, including possibility of withdrawal or even the formation of another organization on somewhat different lines, avoiding methods that have been open to criticism.

Numerous dailies, including some of the most important in the United States, such as the New York World, Philadelphia Bulletin and the San Francisco Chronicle, have refused to join the A.B.C.; and some of the present members have been considering withdrawal.

Commenting on these rumors, President Louis Bruch of the A.B.C. said:

"Of course one cannot argue against rumors, but there has been no dissatisfaction because of delay in rendering reports on newspapers."

"As a matter of fact, we owe less than a dozen audits to any publishers, and the few towns thus represented are geographically a little expensive to get at or the A.B.C. would not owe any service. Actually, if it had not been for the draft taking away several of our family of auditors we would have been obliged to have curtailed our forces because of the work being in such an up-to-date condition."

"It was simply Mr. Whitman's desire to go into business for himself, which is every man's privilege, and if it were not that he believes it to be a most excellent opportunity he no doubt would be glad to continue with us indefinitely."

"The rumor that the advertising agencies are planning to have an audit bureau of their own is at least four years old and antedates the formation of the A.B.C. Their officers tell me they have had no talk or discussion since that time and would not consider a movement of that kind at the present moment because of the accurate, rapid and augmented service that the A.B.C. has been able to finally bring about and in so brief a time."

B. L. Bierce has become the editor of the Havana (N. D.) Union.

A Short Story: DETROIT SATURDAY NIGHT

—gained 35% in
Advertising and
Circulation in 1916

[NOW IN ITS ELEVENTH YEAR]

Represented by G. Logan Payne Co.
New York. Chicago. Boston. Detroit.

INTERTYPE

"The BETTER Machine"

Model A Single Magazine

$2100

Model B

Two Magazines

$2600

Model C

Three Magazines

$3000

Side Magazine Unit, Applied Before Shipment, $150 Extra

A composing machine which requires much time for adjustments and repairs is a pretty expensive proposition, however versatile it may appear to be.

All Intertypes—the versatile multiple-magazine models as well as single-magazine machines—are so simple and durable that loss of time due to complicated design or delicate construction is an unknown factor among Intertype users.

INTERTYPE CORPORATION
Terminal Building Brooklyn, N. Y.

DRIVING FAKE ADS FROM CLASSIFIED COLUMNS.

U.S. POST OFFICE AND NEWSPAPERS HAVE HARD TASK TO GET CUNNING FRAUDS OUT OF THEIR LAST REFUGE.

By WALDON FAWCETT.

To say that the United States Post Office Department, in its continuous effort to prevent the use of the mails for fraudulent purposes, is making a special drive on the suspicious propositions that nestle in the classified columns of the newspapers might convey a wrong impression, and yet that it about what it amounts to—this present policy of the Post Office. Bait such as "Work at Home," "Be a Detective," "Agents Wanted," etc., etc., is being scrutinized more closely than almost any other form of teaser that is held out to the unsophisticated and the unwary.

For all that the "secret service" of Uncle Sam's postal establishment is dropping its heaviest projectiles in the form of "fraud orders" in the classified trenches it may as well be admitted that it is merely a case of happen so that has directed the main attack in this quarter. The fakirs and swindlers are themselves responsible, in that an increasing proportion of the gentry of easy money have, despite all the precautions of the newspapers, taken refuge in the classified columns.

It looks very much like a "last stand" for such of the confidence men as must rely upon other than direct-by-mail advertising to uncover the steady procession of new prospects that are essential for their prosperity.

That the Post Office inspectors have been enabled this past year or two to accomplish as much as they have in curbing the pests of the classified columns has been due in great measure to the active cooperation of the newspapers. Publishers of newspapers of standing are quite as anxious as the postal authorities to ferret out the fakirs, and well they may be, for the presence of fraudulent liners for any length of time will go far to discredit an entire classified section which, as every newspaper proprietor realizes, is at best a child of slow growth. But for all the sincerity of his desire to have his "classified" present a clean bill of health, the newspaper publisher or advertising manager has never found it so difficult as at present to detect and uproot the swindlers.

Owing to the increasing cunning of the mail-order frauds anything in the way of a superficial censorship will no longer suffice to keep clean the classified columns. The publisher who thought he was safe when he barred out such enemy liners as the "Racy Pictures" and "Love Powder" lures now has to think several times in succession ere he can feel any assurance on this score. The cleverness of mail order swindlers in devising advertisements that are entirely plausible on the face of things has complicated the situation immensely. Furthermore it is almost always, nowadays, a case of separating the sheep from the goats. There are so many reputable correspondence schools, for example, that it is out of the question for a newspaper to reject all the "instruction by mail" advertising that is offered, and yet some of the most brazen swindles are in this class.

Another phase of the situation that has served to multiply the troubles of the publisher is the persistence of the latter-day mail order swindler and his agility in bringing forth new dress for his proposition as rapidly as he may be unmasked.

Newspaper men who followed the case will recall the lightning-like changes of a Buffalo manipulator whose "automobile league" for the ostensible sale of tire and auto supplies at cut prices was, in its various guises, one of the several notable cases for which evidence was supplied to the Post Office Department by the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World.

UNCLE SAM HAS LONG ARM.

It is just here that the Post Office Department is in a position to render practical assistance to the newspaper publisher who is really keen to keep clean his classified. No publisher can, without unwarranted expense, trail through various aliases the swindler who has once been excluded from the advertising pages, but the Post Office Department makes a specialty of thus following up an offender who has once been detected in wrong doing and shows no disposition to mend his ways.

Similarly, were it not for the police functions of the postal authorities, newspaper publishers would face almost insurmountable obstacles in attempting to identify, as of common origin, suspicious advertisements giving different addresses.

That the Post Office Department has been enabled to accomplish what it has, these past few years, in cleaning up the classified pages—ever the cradle of the mail swindler of small means—has been due in great measure to the revival of the "fraud order."

The fraud order which quickly puts a snuffer on the operations of mail swindlers by shutting off their mail and money orders instead of allowing them to continue operations unmolested while a case drags its weary length through the courts is authorized under Sections 3929 and 4041 of the Revised Statutes, as amended by the Acts of September 19, 1900, and March 2, 1895.

Prior to 1913, however, the issuance of fraud orders had been practically discontinued, the department evidently feeling that the fraud order did not "reach the spot" and preferring to rely upon the Criminal Code.

With the advent of the present administration came a movement for the revival of the "fraud order," and it is this movement which has latterly borne fruit so plentifully. Incidentally there was perfected a modified form of procedure that seems to have freed the system from any such criticism as it was subjected to in years gone by.

No fraud order is issued without a fair trial of the accused, who has opportunity to present any evidence that he may desire to offer. At the same time, the mills, in the case of the guilty, grind much more quickly than they did under the other plan, and, best of all, the fraud order promptly cuts off the swindler's supply of funds from victims, instead of allowing him to continue to receive mail and in the end get off with a fine which he could well afford to pay out of his ill-gotten gains.

One fact that the postal authorities have clearly established during the four years of activity since the resurrection of the fraud order is that this form of Federal discouragement cannot be successfully evaded by a mere change of name. To continue a fraudulent scheme under a new name requires the distribution of new advertising copy as well as the printing of new circulars and follow-up literature and under the plan of cooperation now in operation the officials in the office of the Solicitor for the Post Office Department can usually aid a publisher in watching for the reappearance of a proposition that it is desired to permanently exclude.

While there must inevitably be a certain amount of red tape connected with the issuance and publication of a "fraud order," the officials at Washington are alive to the fact that the effectiveness of this remedy for fake advertising will be dependent upon the promptness with which publishers and the public are warned of the swindle. Accordingly every precaution is taken that there shall be no repetitions of that experience wherein an operator who netted $350,000 a year was enabled to work his scheme for years ere he could be put out of business.

Judge W. H. Lamar, solicitor of the Post Office Department, has on more than one occasion bestowed praise upon the metropolitan newspaper that has a rule barring from its classified columns all advertisements relative to starting persons in the mail-order business; promoting circular distributing schemes; soliciting the preparation of mailing lists; exploiting detective schemes; offering to teach the young the "detective business;" soliciting the opportunity to set song poems to music; offering to publish songs and to create a demand therefor; and advertising work-at-home schemes, such as writing, knitting, sewing, etc. However, it is not the expectation of the Post Office Department that many newspapers will adopt such an advanced or extreme code.

Inasmuch as the leading magazines of the country are divided on the question of whether or not to accept "opportunity" advertising, so called, it is rather much to expect that newspapers will throw out all of this business any more than they can be expected to turn down all "Agents Wanted" liners because it has been found that some advertisers demand that the prospect make an unwarranted payment for a "canvasser's outfit."

HOW TO HELP GOVERNMENT.

The degree of practical cooperation that the postal authorities would, however, like to have from all newspapers that aspire to a place on the nation's "white list" is two-fold. In the first place the Post Office Department would like to be tipped off regarding any suspicious copy that may be proffered for insertion.

The officials would like such information even though the publisher who supplies it has rejected the advertising in question, because mail swindlers usually offer their copy simultaneously to a long list of daily or Sunday papers and not all publishers are equally alert in detecting deception in an innocent little bid for inquiries.

As a second feature of teamwork, the postal officials would fain see newspaper proprietors not wait for Uncle Sam to sound an alarm on mail-order frauds but adopt a policy of requiring every suspected user of the classified to furnish the burden of the proof that his business is legitimate.

Or, if the advertising manager does not wish to be quite so harsh about it, the paper owes it to its readers, according to the logic of the Post Office officials, to have an office boy write decoy letters to unproven advertisers that will serve to bring their follow-up under the scrutiny of the publisher whose columns are being used to recruit prospects.

NEWSPAPERS MIGHT "START SOMETHING."

It has been intimated, too, at Washington, in a perfectly good-natured way, that some newspaper makers might do a little housecleaning in the classified out of their own intimate knowledge of their own business. It is surmised that the practical newspaper man merely smiles when he notes in running through his classified columns, proposals to transform country boys into newspaper correspondents or press photographers, with prospects of large earnings—all for the payment of a fee ranging from $5 to $25 according to the proposition.

However, it is suggested that if the newspaper man would uncover the whole proposition baited in this wise he would oftentimes find a scheme to mulct the innocent victim of more than a nominal fee for "press credentials" or "correspondent's cards" of quite as doubtful value as the star-shaped badge which the amateur detective purchases in the belief that it will entitle him to admission to all the circus performances and theatrical entertainments in his back of the woods.

Two strokes of good fortune have materially aided the postal authorities in their ambition to make the classified columns safe for the most gullible. One of these is adoption in many newspaper offices of a policy of excluding all medical advertisements, or at least all advertisements that hold out hope of a cure of such ailments as cancer and consumption.

This serves to bar the classified to many rank frauds, even though there still slip through the rosy promises of advertisers who would make all women slender and sylph-like, would

(Continued on Twenty-sixth Page.)

THE ORGANIZATION OF A DAILY NEWSPAPER.

ARTICLE XI

TEST FOR WHETHER CAPITAL INVESTED IN A BUSINESS IS EMPLOYED WHERE IT CAN EARN MOST PROFIT.

By EDMUND WALKER,
Chicago Herald Building.

From the invoice synoptic, which we dealt with very fully in Article VI (See THE FOURTH ESTATE for July 6, 1917) all expense items were posted to the general or private ledger, and a trial balance having been taken off and proved, the profit and loss account of our company must now be compiled.

Before doing this however it is advisable that we consider some points which have a direct bearing on this statement.

What is the object of preparing a profit and loss account? Primarily to ascertain whether or not the business has been conducted at a profit or a loss.

Then what is a profit?

In my dealings with publishers I have found a very great difference in opinion on this all important subject and the intention of this article is to clear the atmosphere in this respect.

Economists have declared that every business is made up of three distinct parts: Capital, land and labor.

Wages is the payment made to labor, rent is the payment made to land, and what payment is made to capital?

Obviously capital earns interest and this answer also proves that interest on capital must be charged as an expense of the business just as wages or rent.

To determine the rate to charge as interest on capital one must determine the value of money, and current bank rates will guide to the correct solution. I do not intend to go into the question of the value of money—you can decide that more accurately yourself, because money is worth more in Idaho than in New York City. But I do want to show that any calculation of profit without charging interest on the capital employed is inaccurate and misleading.

To take a specific example:

Suppose John Doe and John Smith each have $100,000 in cash.

John Doe decides to invest his money in Government bonds and to work on a salary for some other corporation. His income is the amount of his salary plus about $5,000 dividends on his capital.

John Smith on the other hand decides to start a business of his own and shows a statement at the end of the year whereby he claims that as a compensation for his undertaking commercial risks and going into business for himself he has made, what he claims to be, profit of $7,000.

On analysis however we find that this is really no profit at all, because he has not charged the business with any salary for himself nor any interest on his capital.

In other words, assuming that John Doe's salary was $3,000 per annum then in the above example his total income was $10,000; whereas Smith's income was only $7,000, so Smith not only lost $3,000 but also received nothing for taking commercial risks.

Since you are in business presumably to earn a profit it follows that your earnings, if you are to be counted successful, must exceed the salary you could earn elsewhere plus the dividends you could receive by safely investing your capital.

You will readily see the importance of this item when considering cost accounting. A newspaper business is essentially speculative—therefore the yield received on any investment in a newspaper should be much higher than the yield on Government bonds—if it were not, you had better sell out—put the proceeds in bonds and earn a fixed salary with some other company.

Some publishers own their own buildings and charge themselves with no rent. On this basis land is receiving no payment which is inaccurate.

If you have not calculated your profits on the above basis, just take the figure which you have and deduct an amount which you feel you would have to pay another party to carry out your duties for you—that should be your salary—then deduct an amount which will represent the dividends you could earn with the entire capital invested in your business, and the result of that calculation will give you your real profit—the real compensation you have received for being in business and undertaking all the risks which go with business.

These articles are not intended for professional accountants or bankers and I therefore will not go very deeply into a question which might be raised and which is very involved.

It is well however to mention the point and I will cheerfully answer personally any questions you may care to write me about.

In forming our hypothetical company we created goodwill and this intangible asset was reflected in the common stock issued. One of the explanations of goodwill is that it represents the capital value of the excess or super profits which the business is making and is expected to make in the future.

If we therefore calculate interest on the full capital issued in our company, we will be charging a portion of that interest or its equivalent twice over.

You will see that this viewpoint brings up a very involved question and rather than discuss the same in this article I would suggest that the easiest way for you to do is to take the amount of money which you could get for your business, if you sold it as a going concern, and charge profit and loss account each year with a fair rate of interest on that amount.

Your argument for doing this will be that you could today sell out for $100,000 and you could take that money and get 5 percent per annum on it or $5,000 per annum and you could accept a salaried position at $5,000 per annum, thus your total income could be made to be $10,000 per annum.

Now compare that figure with the amount your business paid you—have you earned a profit or a loss?

A VALUABLE COLLECTION.

James Madison, who conceals laughing material for such artists as Al Johnson, Nat Willis, Frank Tinney and Nora Bayes, has what he considers the most complete collection of early San Francisco play-bills and theatrical data in existence and is not infrequently called upon to loan treasured programs of days gone by for re-production in various publications.

On the walls in his office in the Putnam Building, New York, hang a number of rare specimens.

NEWSPAPER VICISSITUDES.

By KENNETH O'HARA.

The Copy-Reader to the Reporter:

Your stuff is rotten all the way.
You don't know how to write;
You use the split infinitive;
Your copy is a sight.

You write ungainly similes.
You never tell the news;
You try to set the town agasp
With pseudo-daring views.

You think you'll paint a picture grand.
With long bombastic words;
And when you're through your story looks
Like cheese with all its curds.

Your interviews with famous men
Are jokes—they reek with rot!
You think you're a reporter? Well,
Believe me, boy, you're not!

The Reporter to the Copy-Reader:

Aw, can that kick—you long-haired boob!

You don't know how to read;
You mutilate my stories; to
My style you pay no heed.

You rip and slash my comic yarns
And head them with a growl;
You have a sense of humor like
A pessimistic owl.

You never see the point I write;
You cross it out—you dub!
The only point you ever see
Is on your pencil stub.

You don't "let ride" a clever line;
You "kill" it at a slant;
You think you can read copy? Well,
Believe me, man, you can't!

The Composer Speaks:

I wish they'd pay me twenty more
A week, and let me do
The work those feather-brains downstairs—
Those awful bores—put through!

The star reporter carelessly
Pounds out a misspelled name;
It's not corrected by the desk—
Results—I get the blame!

The copy-readers are so slow
They don't know they're alive,
They take as long to read a stick
As I take setting five.

And when the copy gets to me
It surely is a mess;
Could I be scribble and read stuff, too?
Believe me, Mister, yes!

H. B. Myers has disposed of the Columbus (N. D.) Reporter to Van W. Figel.

A WRONG THEORY THAT CLINGS.

PUBLIC MUST BE CORRECTED FROM BELIEF THAT ADS INCREASE PRICES.

By EDWIN T. JONES.

The hard work that has been so thoroughly in vogue for years and years of eliminating from the minds of producers and sellers of all classes of merchandise the idea that advertising necessarily must increase the cost to the consumer, is still being carried on. The theory clings fast to many.

It is generally conceded, I believe that to produce and market a commodity, two very essential items are always figured in the cost of the commodity—namely, the cost of manufacturing and the cost of selling. These items are inevitable expenses.

It is quite natural to suppose, from a clear business viewpoint, that every manufacturer figures down to the minimum the cost of manufacturing his commodity.

It is quite natural to also credit the manufacturer with the same business keenness as to the cost of selling—but, has the average manufacturer been successful in this?

If he looks upon advertising as an extra expense, he has not.

Advertising is the selling force that has the power to reduce the manufacturing cost, thus enabling a general selling reduction.

I had the pleasure of receiving, a few years ago, a very gratifying admission from a business man, who said:

"Until you convinced me that newspaper advertising was both a business builder and an expense, reducer, I had always figured it in my mind as an unnecessary expense, an expense that would reduce the profits of my business, thus forcing me to deprive myself and my household of many luxuries."

"I was very skeptical about trying the venture, but the first year showed me a much larger volume of business, with a greater net profit, after deducting the amount of my advertising expenses, than my business had ever enjoyed. This result has continued."

A frank statement of this nature coming from a merchant, who had fought long and hard against the use of advertising space, was both pleasing and encouraging. It was the demonstrable proof that advertising was not an additional expense.

A selling force that has the power of enormous selling at the lowest minimum cost, should have, as it does, a tendency to reduce the cost of all advertised commodities to the consumer. Advertising is like a well directed bullet, it goes straight to the mark aimed at—it saves time, saves energy and saves the cost that wasted time and energy cause.

The world-wide consumer can always rest assured that in purchasing advertised products—in dealing with merchants who regularly advertise—economy is guaranteed.

Advertising in addition to its tremendous selling force possesses a wonderful creative power; in other words advertising creates the customer and sells to the consumer thus created—a power not to be found in any other individual salesman.

THE FOURTH ESTATE

A NEWSPAPER FOR THE MAKERS OF NEWSPAPERS AND INVESTORS IN ADVERTISING.

Entered as second class matter in the New York Post Office, March 29, 1894. Issued every Saturday by THE FOURTH ESTATE Publishing Company.
Ernest F. Birmingham, President and Treasurer. Fremont W. Spicer, Vice-President and Secretary. 232 West 59th Street, New York City.

Subscription: TWO DOLLARS a year. Postage free in the United States, Hawaii, Porto Rico, the Philippines and Mexico. Postage extra to Canada, 58c.; to other countries in Postal Union, $1.04.

Subscribers should have their copies of THE FOURTH ESTATE addressed to their homes, so as to avoid chance of loss in the mass of exchanges (second and third class matter) which goes to all offices.

Single copies, TEN CENTS (except Special Editions, 25 cents).

Back Numbers—Less than 3 months old, 25 cents; more than 3 months old, $1 each.

OFFICES AND PRINTING HOUSE
Broadway and 59th Street
232 West 59th St. NEW YORK
Columbus Circle.
Telephones, 7740, 7741, 7742 Columbus

ERNEST F. BIRMINGHAM, Publisher

No. 1227.

FOR THE WEEK ENDING SEPTEMBER 1, 1917

RECORD ADVERTISING FOR FALL BUSINESS.

The extent of newspaper and general advertising during the coming fall has been a matter of more or less conjecture.

THE FOURTH ESTATE has undertaken to ascertain the true condition and learned from one of the largest dailies in America, with the highest rate, that at the present moment the contracts in hand for advertising break all records for the same period, both in amount of space contracted for and number of advertisers.

The best sign of how advertisers feel is the fact that eighty-five per cent of national advertisers are paying an excess rate for preferred position.

Another straw that shows which way the wind blows is that last Monday one large national advertiser made a single contract with a well known New York weekly for $230,000 worth of space to be used in one year from November 1.

In addition to existing contracts, it is known that almost every advertising agent in this country is working on important lists and preparing plans for many new advertisers, as well as broadening the field of operations for old ones.

In all the plans, the newspaper is more prominent in the figuring than ever before, as it should be.

With the general recognition of the great value of publicity, the newspapers themselves are relying upon THE FOURTH ESTATE to carry their message to the men who are seeking the live ones, as is evidenced by many inquiries in this direction.

A great factor in a general awakening of lethargic business men was the wonderful success of the last Government bond issue through newspaper publicity.

Skeptics were convinced of the efficacy of newspaper advertising and began to figure how this vital force could be best applied to their particular business.

Advertising managers and advertising agents have pointed out the way, and the path leads through the columns of the daily press.

The advertising forms close on Thursday. Advertisements should be received as early in the week as possible to insure proper classification.

ADVERTISING RATES.

Transient, 50 cents a line; agate measure (14 lines to the inch; 140 lines to the column; 560 lines to the page).

One page, $280; Front page, $400.

Discounts for consecutive insertions: One month, 10 per cent; two months, 20 per cent; three months, 30 per cent; six months, 40 per cent; one year, 50 per cent. Discounts based upon advance payment.

Small advertisements under classified headings, such as Help Wanted, For Sale, To Let, Instruction, Writers, Correspondents, Office Necessary, 25 cents a line (about 7 words), each insertion, without discount. Situations Wanted 10 cents a line net.

Advertisements in special position (not less than 28 lines in depth of column) double price.

THE NATIONAL ADVERTISING ADVISORY BOARD.

The other day a man who believes, as we all do, that Congress should buy advertising space in newspapers to sell the second installment of the Liberty Bond was heard to remark:

"Look! The same gang of advertising space grafters that got the free advertising for the first section of the loan is going to handle the next section, too. It is the best evidence that Congress will spend no money."

The complainant referred to the National Advertising Advisory Board, and no doubt the same opinion is held by other folks.

Recently O. C. Harn of New York, a member of the advisory board and one of the best known national advertisers in the country, explained the relations of the board with the first Liberty Loan.

He told how the board did all it could to get an advertising appropriation from Congress, but without avail; so like good soldiers the members went ahead and took the trench with the best weapons they could muster.

Mr. Harn's explanation is printed in THE FOURTH ESTATE this week, and it is well worth while reading, if for no other purpose than to learn of the National Advertising Advisory Board's true position, so that credit may be given it for the excellent patriotic work the board accomplished.

Every practical business man must realize that Congress should provide the means to sell the second Liberty Loan to the people on a businesslike basis. Mr. Harn brings out the point well when he says:

"The financing of this war is a business problem. It is not businesslike to prosecute it on donations."

This—from the men who obtained the donations in the first loan—is clear evidence that the board wants Congress to buy its advertising.

It is not fair to the advertising men on the board to cast aspersions on their business reputations, as the aforementioned complainant did, without giving them a chance to state their side of the case.

Everybody can be certain that the Advertising Board is doing all in its power to get an advertising appropriation for the next loan.

But, if it fails, those same men, as soldiers, will go ahead and take the next trench as they did the first—with the best means at their command.

And when it comes to the point of patriotism, the newspapers will be at their elbows.

At the same time, we all hope Congress can be persuaded to do the right business thing—buy advertising space for the Liberty Loan as it buys all other things that go into its issuance.

The patriotic men giving all they can to the Advertising Advisory Board are deserving of the highest praise for doing their "bit."

REPUTATING BONA FIDE INTERVIEWS.

The board of directors of the National League of Baseball Clubs is to be congratulated on its fair-minded ruling in the McGraw case.

And it should be a source of great satisfaction to the many newspaper men who cover baseball news over the whole country to be vindicated as the New York writers have been. Their fate concerned all.

Manager McGraw of the New York team, it will be remembered, several months ago declared that quotations as from him, criticizing President Tener of the league, appearing in the New York newspapers, were false. He repudiated them in a signed public statement when called to time by his chief.

In doing so he cast discredit on baseball writers who were known as reliable and faithful workers. He held them up as falsifiers before their readers.

But the newspaper men were members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America, which exists for just such protecting purposes as the McGraw repudiation case brought up.

The New York chapter of the association, without waste of time, challenged McGraw and demanded a hearing of the writers' side of the case by the league directors, or the chapter would bring the matter into court.

The writers were given the hearing and produced their proofs that McGraw had given permission to print the interview he afterward repudiated.

It was shown that the writers made every effort to submit to him the interview, before publication, for approval, but that he refused to look at it, telling them to go ahead, "Anything you say will be all right." A man as careless as that deserves full punishment.

The Baseball Writers' Association, in winning its case, proved that it is entitled to a foremost place among American newspaper organizations, and that it is a protective force for newspaper workers that must be reckoned with when it comes to fighting for a right.

NOTE AND COMMENT.

Liberal advertising space used by the Whole Grain Wheat company in daily newspapers of Fort Wayne, Ind., in the company's recent campaign in that city brought especially gratifying results. This fact was admitted by C. Dixon How, advertising counselor for the Whole Grain Wheat company.

Mr. How is a firm believer in the use of large advertising space. He claims the way to wake the public up to the fact that you have a health food beneficial to the entire family, is this:

"Give them plain, honest facts, use page ads if necessary, and you are bound to make good."

That is the way Mr. How put Whole Grain Wheat up to the Fort Wayne people and it went over big.

When the roster of American soldiers "mentioned in dispatches" for bravery, or in the grim casualty lists, happens to include one or more citizens of Brooklyn, N. Y., the Brooklyn Eagle will be on the spot with a picture and a short biography of the fighter.

With the lists of local men accepted for service in the National Army, those commissioned at Reserve Officers Training Camps and complete rosters of men in the regular Army the Navy and the local regiments of the National Guard as a starting point, the Eagle has made arrangements with a Brooklyn photographer to take a picture of every man whose name has appeared in any of those lists, the Eagle bearing all expenses, unless the "subject" wants extra photographs for his family and friends.

Letters which have been sent out in the past few days have received a liberal response from Plattsburgers and from the newly drafted men.

The Methodist Episcopal Church, through its convention of pension agents held in Chicago last week, voted to set aside $100,000 for an advertising fund to further the movement for pensions for superannuated ministers.

"The board is learning that there is a difference between paid and free publicity" said Rev. Dan. B. Burmitt, Chicago editor of the Epworth Herald in discussing the issue.

"The church needs the newspapers more than the newspapers need the church" said Rev. J. T. Smith, editor of the Veteran Preacher. "Our motto should be: 'Always At It'; not sporadic advertising, and it must be clean, honest and upright."

The Omaha Bee has been running a Sunday feature of "Then and Now" pictures showing Omaha "prominents" twenty years ago and at the present. Last week the members of the Bee staff took their own medicine, "then and now" portraits of several of the staff appearing. Those thus pictured were: Monroe Reeves, managing editor, Victor Rosewater, editor-in-chief, T. W. McCullough, associate editor, T. J. Fitzmorris, exchange editor, and Charles L. Thomas, city editor.

Many live newspapers have strong service departments, which work both to the advantage of themselves and their advertisers, but not many go further along this line than does the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, which guarantees an excellent service to every advertiser who includes the weekly Globe-Democrat in his list, but also "plugs the game" of the local newspapers in the territory covered by the Weekly Globe-Democrat in carrying out that campaign.

If an advertiser decides to invade the Missouri territory and to use the Globe-Democrat's weekly edition in doing so, the "Globe-Democrat Plan" steps in. The advertiser is asked for a complete analysis of his campaign, covering all information of value to local weekly publishers and also giving a list of dealer-helpers, all of which information is transmitted to the publisher of the local weekly in a town where the goods are to be displayed.

Supplied with this information, the local publisher is taught by the Globe-Democrat how to solicit advertising from the local dealer, thereby supplementing the national campaign, increasing the advertising revenues of the neighboring weekly papers and helping the national advertiser.

As part of the plan, a monthly journal is issued under the name of Team-Work, which goes to local dealers and publishers, telling the former of the merits of advertised goods and informing the latter how to get the dealers to advertise.

The Chicago Daily News says it helped over 15,000 men, women and children to get positions on farms since its farm labor recruiting bureau was started on April 23.

PURELY PERSONAL.

Medill McCormick, Congressman-at-Large from Illinois and formerly one of the owners of the Chicago Tribune, had a narrow escape from death in the American trenches on the French front last week. He was visiting the "Sammees," when a soldier practicing war maneuvers inadvertently threw a trench bomb in his direction.

Emile H. Rabiger of the Wilmington (Del.) Every Evening, who has joined the colors, has been presented with a wrist watch by his fellow-employees.

James K. Lambert, editor and publisher of the Natchez (Miss.) Democrat, accompanied by Mrs. Lambert, is on a two weeks' recreation and business trip to Chicago and Northern cities.

Jesse W. Blythe, a well-known St. Louis newspaper man, has been appointed secretary of the board of control of the St. Louis Zoological Garden at $2,500 a year.

Edward H. Johnson, president of the Staten Island (N. Y.) Richmond County Advance, has just returned from Hot Springs, Ark., where he has been taking the baths. He is in perfect health and ready for duty again.

Al Weeks, dramatic editor of the Detroit News, is in New York this week looking over the new shows.

Richardson Webster, political writer for the Brooklyn Times, is the Democratic nominee for register of Kings County. Mr. Webster is well known in local newspaper and political circles and a few years ago was candidate from the Eleventh District for alderman on the Democratic ticket. He is a member of the Press and Crescent Clubs and other organizations.

E. T. Conkle, manager of the central division of the United Press, with offices in Chicago, has just returned from a three weeks' trip to

JEROME D. BARNUM,

WHO HAS JUST ADDED A SUNDAY EDITION TO THE SYRACUSE POST-STANDARD. See Tenth Page

New York, Boston and Washington in the interest of the service. During his absence H. J. Jacobs has been in charge of the Chicago office.

Sidney Wire, publicity director for the "Hip Hip Hooray Girls," is doing big things in Rockford, Ill.

Sidney Smith, one of the Chicago Tribune cartoonists, is home from his vacation.

A. W. Rogers, advertising manager of the Beaumont (Tex.) Enterprise, is spending his vacation in Galveston.

WEDDING BELLS.

Miss Mary Cabeen Meek, daughter of Samuel W. Meek, treasurer of the New York Times, and Lieutenant John Dorsey Brown, U.S.R., have become engaged.

Paul W. Stiles, circulation manager of the Middletown (Ohio) Journal, and Miss Lurena Eleanor Baughn

Xenia, Ohio, were married last week in Middletown.

James Stiles, editor of the Freeport (N. Y.) Nassau Post, and Miss Florence A. McIntosh will be married today in Freeport.

Robert Lyle Stubbs, news editor of the Springfield (Ill.) News-Record, and Miss Edna Etta Hamann were married on August 18.

O'MALLEY TO WED?

According to unconfirmed rumors along Park Row and Broadway, Frank W. O'Malley, for many years on the staff of the New York Sun, intends to commit matrimony within the next few weeks. The future bride, whose name is not divulged, is said to be a newspaper woman.

The Farmers Non-Partisan paper has been moved from Centerville to Lake Mills, Ia.

STAFF CHANGES.

Paul Wagner, editor of the Shreveport (La.) News-American since its organization, has resigned to join the copy desk of the Birmingham (Ala.) News.

Albert A. Cormier, for nearly two years with the New York Morning Telegraph's advertising staff, has become advertising manager of the Exhibitors' Trade Review. He succeeds Fred Becroft, who has become chief of advertising on the Motion Picture News.

E. J. Melton, who has been connected with the California (Mo.) Herald, has joined the Miami (Okla.) Daily Record-Herald.

Herbert H. Claggett, for four years editor of the Jackson (Tenn.) Sun, has become editor of the Columbia (Tenn.) Daily Herald, succeeding James I. Finney, now in the Army.

Miss Nellie Fitzgerald has joined the editorial staff of the St. Louis Times. She was formerly editor of the Maryville (Mo.) Democrat-Forum.

James Blaine Gibson has become advertising manager of the Fort Collins (Colo.) Courier.

Robert Bell has resigned as editor of the Isabel (Kan.) Staff.

E. E. Manney has resigned as editor of the Ford (Kan.) Promoter.

Miss Myrtle E. Colson has been placed in sole charge of the educational bureau of the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

J. L. Morrison, city district manager for the Des Moines Register and Tribune has resigned to become general manager of the Conrad Telephone Exchange at Conrad, Ia., owned by his father.

Mrs. L. A. Gurnett has resigned as editor of the woman's department of the Toronto Mail & Empire to become secretary of the women's auxiliary to the Dominion Organization of Resources Committee.

Paul Donald Brown, for the past three years financial editor of the Indianapolis Star, has resigned to become associated with the brokerage firm of Thomson & McKinnon. Mr. Brown, who went to the Star from the Chicago Evening Post, will be succeeded by J. H. (Bert) Henley, of the editorial staff of the Star and formerly connected with the Terre Haute (Ind.) Star.

Arthur H. Folwell, formerly with the New York Tribune, is now with the Brooklyn (N. Y.) Times, contributing a daily column. At one time Mr. Folwell was editor of Puck, the humorous magazine.

Eben J. Chamberlain, for many years Associated Press operator in the Battle Creek (Mich.) Enquirer office, has been transferred to the Detroit office of the A.P.

Webster L. Babbitt has been transferred from the Chicago office of the United Press to St. Louis, where he will have charge of the office. Miles Vaughn, formerly manager in St. Louis, has been transferred to Kansas City. Mr. Babbitt went to Chicago two months ago from the Detroit Journal.

T. A. Read is now assistant day city editor of the Chicago Tribune.

Harry Spellman and Orville Dwyer, both from the Chicago Examiner staff, are now with the Chicago Tribune.

CIRCULATION FEATURES for Circulation Managers

Timely, down-to-date premium specialties, popular prices, best quality obtainable. When in doubt, write to "Blake," the Premium Specialty man. He will send you full particulars on his latest premium offer.

S. BLAKE WILLSDEN
29 E. Madison St., CHICAGO.

WE HAVE THE Auto Comic
you have been looking for

The International Syndicate
Established 1899. BALTIMORE, MD.

ATLANTA CROWDED SAYS SIMMONS.

I.C.M.A. MEMBERS URGED TO RESERVE HOTEL ROOMS IMMEDIATELY.

There is room enough in Atlanta for the circulation managers who

JOHN D. SIMMONS.

will attend the 1918 convention of the I.C.M.A. in October in that

Going to France

in a few days as an accredited war correspondent. Can I serve you either with special cables, letter service or syndicate matter?

O. H. DOWNEY
Churubusco, Indiana

The True News FIRST

Always—Accurately

INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE

10th Floor, World Bldg. NEW YORK

I Get the Money!

J. A. McAVOY

*Special Editions
Weekly Review Pages
Cartoon Books*

*Not! Exch. Bk. Bldg.
PROVIDENCE, R. I.*

city, according to John D. Simmons of the Atlanta Journal, who is in charge of arrangements, but late-comers will find it hard to get comfortable quarters unless arrangements are made well in advance.

Mr. Simmons says the city is comfortably full even now, and with the opening of Camp Gordon, the local army cantonment, he expects that every hotel will be crowded to capacity.

Mr. Simmons had made arrangements with all the amusement places around the city for the reception of the I.C.M.A. delegates, their families and guests, and informs THE FOURTH ESTATE that the "boys" and "girls" will have few idle moments while under his care.

Of course, no great negotiations were necessary with the department stores for the entertainment of the ladies, but Mr. Simmons did not consider it amiss to drop a hint or two that a large party of keen-eyed members of the fair sex would spend a couple of October mornings bargain hunting in Atlanta's stores. He feels that the merchandise managers and the ladies themselves can be relied upon to do the rest.

TO TEST ANTI-PREMIUM LAW IN DENVER.

Charges of violating the new Denver anti-premium ordinance, filed against the Denver Post and its president, H. H. Tammen, last week, were sustained in the local police court and fines of $5 were assessed on the defendants. The latter stated that they would appeal immediately to determine the constitutionality of the ordinance.

The statute in question prohibits the giving away of premiums or favors with advertisements. The defendants made no effort to disprove the fact that the Post had committed infractions of the anti-premium law since it became effective on August 7.

TRADE JOURNAL FOR WESTERN MICHIGAN EDITORS.

Members of the Western Michigan Press Association have decided to found a trade journal, which will start issuing at once.

KEEN PUBLISHERS Everywhere Are Buying Electric BulletinMachines

They have written us letters giving their opinions. They make interesting reading. We wish we could send them to you complete. Some of the letters are in our New Illustrated Catalogue. Why not let us send you One?

National Electric Bulletin Corporation.
NEW LONDON, CONN.

China Premiums ARE THE BEST!

Distinctive Service in Many Sizes Write for Samples.

The Limoges China Co.
SEBRING, OHIO

NEWS NOTES OF CIRCULATORS.

R. D. Decker, late of Reading, Pa., is now with the Albany (N. Y.) Knickerbocker Press as circulation manager.

Thousands of mothers want to know how to save their babies. A special feature which is now running in the Atlanta Daily Georgian and Sunday American, written by prominent and capable medical men of the country, tells them. Science shows that one out of every seven dies, but science also shows that with proper care the seventh can be saved.

That is one reason agents for the Daily Georgian and Sunday American are making inroads. When agents can tell a prospective customer about the many merits of their paper, and in addition show how a baby series will aid mothers, it is easy for them to increase their drawings.

Mrs. Frances Quilan is the only woman traveling representative of the Atlanta Georgian and Sunday American. She had made a phenomenal success in securing prepaid subscriptions, according to the country circulation department.

The Columbus (Miss.) Dispatch is conducting a second circulation campaign under the direction of V. H. Austin, giving two automobiles and other prizes.

The Xenia Gazette-Republican, Dover Reporter, and New Philadelphia Times are a trio of Ohio newspapers which are conducting circulation contests under the direction of the Morton Ross Corporation. Two automobiles and minor prizes are being given in each contest.

At the suggestion of Edward E. Keavin of Boston, well known as the friend of newsboys, Mayor Curley has requested the trustees of the Boston Public Library, of which William F. Kenney is chairman, to provide in the basement of the Old South Church, and in connection with the proposed Business Men's Library, a convenience station for newsboys.

The Chicago Herald is distributing among its readers a war map of

The only journal outside of the United States published in the interest of newspaper men.

THE 30 pages Weekly NEWSPAPER WORLD

Annual Postal Subscription
Everywhere $2.40.
(Established 1898)

Specimen Copy Sent Free
Address: 14 Cross Street
FINSBURY, LONDON, ENG.

NEWSPAPER FEATURE SERVICE

"The CIRCULATION Builders"
37 West 39th Street, NEW YORK

the United States. This shows the location of the different army encampments, training camps and similar points of war interest.

NEBRASKANS CONDEMN PRESS OF HYPHEN SYMPATHY.

The state council of defense of Nebraska, in a recent statement, strongly condemns local German language press for alleged promulgation of anti-American propaganda, and calls on Congress to enact laws which will curb the editors of the papers if present laws are not sufficient to deal with the matter.

WILSON'S DOUBLE KEPT BUSY.

C. F. Doying, general manager and secretary of the Jacksonville (Ill.) Courier, is now also acting as local and telegraph editor of that paper. He is thirty years old, the youngest son of G. E. Doying, who founded the Courier, and is said to bear a remarkable likeness to President Wilson, especially in profile.

WAR SUFFERERS AIDED.

The income from the estate of the late F. C. Shattuck, Wisconsin paper manufacturer, will be devoted to war relief during the conflict abroad. Arthur Shattuck, concert pianist and heir to the estate, has just made the announcement that he will forego the income which amounts to more than $50,000 a year.

Butte H. Tipton has sold the Baker (Mont.) Times to Frank J. Hains and Karl R. Pleissner.

Complete BOOKLOVER'S PICTUREGAME, SUITABLE FOR NEWSPAPERS OF LARGE OR SMALL CIRCULATION. $350.00

which includes everything—2,000 Competition Booklets—complete copy service—sets of all 48 pictures—expert supervision throughout.

An original feature that will wake up every department of the newspaper—and make a profit. Possible only through the originators in this field.

The Booklovers Sales Co.

Incorporated
110 West 40th St., New York City
SEND FOR THE DETAILS.

NATIONAL AD BOARD AND THE LIBERTY LOAN.

THEIR RELATIONS EXPLAINED—WAR CAN'T BE PROSECUTED ON DONATIONS—SPACE APPROPRIATION NEEDED.

By O. C. HARN.

If a man has two hands and two feet which his country can use and gives them, he is doing his bit. If he knows how to greatly multiply what two hands and two feet can do, it is his duty and his great privilege to devote that special know-how to the cause.

It is a great thing to be a fine marksman and an intelligent soldier. It is a greater help to the army to be able to train a hundred unskilled men how to shoot.

It is a great thing to lend $100 to Uncle Sam when he needs it; it is a greater thing to induce 100 men to buy each a $100 bond.

Every American owes to his country whatever his country needs from him. We, as advertising men, stand ready to give not only blood but brain.

It was his alert sense of this double obligation that led Herbert S. Houston, then president of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, to foresee the duty of advertising men long before the need arose.

When the Council of National Defense first began its valuable work of preparedness, Houston offered the services of organized advertising ability to the Government, and, thanks to the fact that we were organized, immediate and valuable aid was given in Howard Coffin's stupendous work of industrial survey.

A year later, when the hour had struck and war could no longer be honorably avoided, Mr. Houston was again at the elbow of the Government, with an offer, not of a helpless, unorganized patriotism, but of a definite, representative and concrete organization. As head of this great organization, known as the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, the largest and most vital because best organized business force in the country today, he called into being as representative of this association what has become known as the National Advisory Board.

I wish to call special attention to the care with which he built this board. It does not and could not contain all the best brain of our organization. It was not necessary that it should.

But it was very necessary that it be representative of that best brain. So you will observe that the men called to the colors for this special job were, for the most part, men whom their fellows in some division or other of advertising activity had previously selected to represent them by placing them in prominent positions.

The board was made up of seven advertisers, seven advertising agents and one man each from twelve classes of advertising media which might presumably be used, making twenty-six men in all. These men were:

THE TWENTY-SIX MEN.

Advertisers.

Louis Bruck, president of the Audit Bureau of Circulations.
M. W. Cresap, vice-president of Hart, Schaffner & Marx, Chicago.
Harry W. Ford, president of the Saxon Motor Car Company, Detroit.
O. C. Harn, New York, chairman of the National Advertising Commission.
George W. Hopkins, New York, sales and advertising manager of the Columbia Phonograph Company.
L. B. Jones, board of directors, Association of National Advertisers.

Lee Otwell, New York.

Advertising Agents.

Collin Armstrong, New York Advertising Agents' Association.
E. E. Critchfield, Chicago Advertising Agents' Association.

W. C. D'Arcy, St. Louis, now president of the A.A.C.W.
William H. Johns, National Advertising Commission and New York Advertising Agents' Association.

Mac Martin, Minneapolis, chairman of the A.A.C.W. research committee.
St. Elmo Massengale, Atlanta, president of the Southern Advertising Agents' Association.

William H. Rankin, Chicago, president of the Western Advertising Agents' Association.

Representing the Media:
Magazines—Herbert S. Houston.
Newspapers in large cities—William A. Thomson, director of the Advertising Bureau of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association.

Newspapers in small cities—Courtland Smith, president of the American Press Association.

Foreign language newspapers—Louis N. Hammerling, president of the Foreign Language Newspaper Association.

Advertising Press—John Irving Romer, publisher of Printers' Ink, New York.

Business press—James H. McGraw, New York.

Agricultural press—E. T. Meredith, Successful Farming, Des Moines.

Religious press—Charles H. Ridder, Catholic News, New York.

Poster advertising—John E. Shoemaker, Washington, D. C., president, Poster Advertising Association.

Painted bulletins—O. J. Gude, New York.

Street car advertising—Barron G. Collier, New York.

Direct mail advertising—C. R. Lippman, New York.

In order that there could be no suspicion of ulterior motives directed at any of the board's plans, it was decided that the recommendation to be made to the Government as to media should be placed entirely in the hands of the advertisers and the agents of the board, who should be known as the committee on plan and scope. These men had nothing to sell.

Owing to the representative character, the board was promptly recognized by the Secretary of War, the Secretary of the Navy and the Secretary of the Treasury.

The universal service bill, however, eliminated the necessity of the services of the board to the War and Navy Departments, and so the Secretary of the Treasury has had the exclusive services of the board so far.

Nothing, I believe, throws out in relief the flexibility of the great Associated Advertising Clubs organization more than the way its National Advertising Advisory Board adapted itself to rapidly changing conditions.

EXPECTED BUSINESSLIKE AD AMOUNT.

The first plan which was laid before the Secretary of the Treasury for the utilization of the force of advertising in selling the Liberty Bonds was predicated upon the assumption that the whole work would be directed from the Treasury Department and that there would be a businesslike appropriation of necessary promotion funds.

Congress failed to see the necessity of any promotion funds, the one-tenth of one per cent allowed by the bill for expenses being required for manufacturing and administrative expenses—that is, for buying the paper, printing the bonds, registering and distributing them.

As he had no selling funds, Secretary McAdoo put the job of selling the bonds up to the governor of the State of his respective Reserve Banks.

Did the advertising board of the A.A.C.W. falter?

It did not.

Immediately by wire President Houston appointed a chairman in each Federal Reserve Bank city—with instructions for him to appoint his own helpers and offer this subcommittee's services to the governors of their respective Reserve Banks.

The response was immediate. In most cases the telegrams of acceptance of the duty was accompanied by the word that the committee was already at work.

The district chairmen were:

Boston—Frank Black, president Pilgrim Publicity Association.

New York—Collin Armstrong.

Philadelphia—Rowe Stewart, president Poor Richard Club.

Cleveland—William H. Raddatz, president Cleveland Advertising Club.

Chicago—William H. Rankin.

Atlanta—St. Elmo Massengale.

Richmond—R. R. King, president Richmond Advertisers' Club.

St. Louis—W. C. D'Arcy.

Minneapolis—Mac Martin.

Dallas—J. C. Phelps, president Dallas Advertising League.

Kansas City—William H. Besack, president Kansas City Advertising Club.

San Francisco—C. H. Brockhagen, president San Francisco Advertising Club.

These men were either the presidents of their local clubs or members of the original national board. I have not time to tell you how these men and their assistants worked night and day, neglecting their own business, devoting all their time without a cent of cost to the Government, for just one reason. They recognized that the first trench that must be won in the great war for liberty and civilization was the floating of the Liberty Loan. That was a trench which brains, not blood, must take. It was a trench in the taking of which it was not our physical prowess but our professional skill which counted.

WHAT PROPER ADVERTISING COULD HAVE DONE.

We believe that this trench could have been taken more easily if business men had been allowed to plan the campaign on business lines.

We believe that if an advertising and selling plan properly financed by Congress had been adopted, the entire five billions authorized would have been subscribed as easily as a billion can be sold under the prescribed lack of plan.

The Government allowed the work to be assumed by a few which should have been imposed upon all.

Advertising men of the country would not let this charge upon the first trench fail. Led by the board which Commander Houston appointed, advertising men conducted the necessary advertising and selling campaign just as if Uncle Sam had given them an appropriation with which to do it.

They were like soldiers who had been asked to attack without guns. They went out and got their own weapons. They bought rifles when they could. They accepted donations of artillery and when there was not enough they seized hose or filled their pockets with good hard stones. And with this improved attack the advertising men took the Liberty Loan trench.

What I want to impress upon advertising men and the whole business and official world is that the success of the Liberty Loan was not a vindication of the belief of Congress that a patriotic loan should be floated without a businesslike selling plan.

All honor to Louis M. Hammerling and his 400 and more foreign language newspapers that gave freely of their advertising space that their readers might know about the loan and buy the bonds!

All honor to the individual newspapers in our own language which did the same!

All honor to John E. Shoemaker and his Poster Advertising Association who donated $120,000 worth of billboard space!

All honor to Gude and Collier and the International Car Advertising League, who gave freely of their space and talents.

All honor to H. E. Leean, the National Cartoon Service and countless individuals who bought and paid for advertising space and turned it over to be used for the Government without price.

All honor to the merchants and bankers of hundreds of cities who turned their advertising space to Liberty Loan copy. All honor to the artists who contributed their art and to the advertising agencies who gave regular agency service without charge.

But, fellow citizens and fellow advertising men, these very gifts proved what?

Not that the latent patriotism of a nation is sufficient to work a miracle over night.

No, but rather that the keen business sense of a trained few foresaw that the patriotism of the people must be translated into the desire to lend their money. The business men know that patriotism does not absorb billions of bonds over night any more than patriotism makes an army of a million soldiers over night.

WAR CAN'T BE PROSECUTED ON DONATIONS.

The financing of this war is a business problem.

It is not businesslike to prosecute it on donations.

It is not businesslike, first, because it is not fair.

Why should you and I, whose regular business is not in a line which can be used, except our fellow citizen who happens to get his living from selling advertising service, ex-

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES.

$20,000 Cash

available for first payment on purchase of an attractive daily newspaper property. Atlantic coast locations preferred.

Proposition P. J.

CHAS. M. PALMER
NEWSPAPER PROPERTIES
225 Fifth Ave. NEW YORK

Daily Newspapers

We have at this time several attractive opportunities to buy Daily Newspaper Properties in New York and adjacent states. Cash payments required range from $10,000 to $200,000.

The owners of all the properties in question are represented exclusively by this firm.

AUBREY HARWELL HENRY F. CANNON

Harwell & Cannon
Newspaper and Magazine Properties
Times Building NEW YORK

EXCLUSIVE EASTERN FIELD

Only paper in Eastern city of 20,000, covering large field and showing satisfactory growth without direct effort. Price $150,000, including real estate on main street of city. Ask for Key No. 2301x. References required.

CHANCE FOR MERGER.

Two evening papers in live Central West field may be bought for $50,000 and merged. Every prospect of netting annually from $15,000 to $20,000. Details to inquirers furnishing references. Proposition 1m319x.

H. F. HENRICH
NEWSPAPER PROPERTIES
LITCHFIELD, ILLINOIS

For an exceptionally good weekly will trade clear California property, part or all, valued at $15,000, or will apply as part payment for interest in evening daily. Years of experience qualifies me to handle either business or editorial end. Address Box 834, care The Fourth Estate.

SPECIAL AND CHICAGO NEWS
DAILY NEWS REPORTS.

YARD'S NEWS BUREAU
184 W. Washington Street, CHICAGO

pect him to bear our burden and his own, too?

In the second place, it is not businesslike because it is not efficient.

What one of us would expect to build a real business in soap, in flour, in talking machines, or in automobiles by using only such fragmentary and occasional advertising space as might be donated to us by friends who happened to be publishers and personally friendly and generous?

Our friends, the newspapers, sometimes seem to be trying hard to spoil us advertisers by giving us publicity which we do not pay for, but even this does not make us so foolish as to enter upon a serious selling campaign without buying a definite amount of advertising space proportioned properly to a definite purpose; and this we back with a properly proportioned sales effort.

HELP WANTED.

WANTED—An engraver to operate and manage engraving plant in connection with well established daily paper. Plant in good condition. Unusual opportunity for first-class man. Address, giving reference and experience: R.P.C., care The Fourth Estate.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES.

Newspapers For Sale!

Opportunities few to buy California dailies in good location. Evening paper, job shop, good equipment. Town 12,000. Price $20,000 to move it. Liberal terms. No agents. Box 1186, Los Angeles, California.

Competent newspaper man wants controlling interest in afternoon paper in Middle West. Town of 25,000. Address Box 846, care The Fourth Estate.

Wanted—Sample copies for Representatives for Ohio. The Ohio Novelty Agency, Youngstown, Ohio.

PRINTING

A printer with first-class plant desires to arrange with one or two more weekly publications. Is an expert in keeping the prices down to rock bottom. Address Caslon, care The Fourth Estate.

POLLOCK'S NEWS

You can reach 2,500 Editors and Publishers in the Northwest—the wide-awake ones—every month, through the Classified Ads in Pollock's News. That is 20,000 of them in a year for ten dollars. Send for samples and display rates. 710 Temple Court, MINNEAPOLIS

TYPO

CREDIT BOOKS, REPORTS, COLLECTION
General Offices
278 Fourth Avenue NEW YORK

The newspaper man who wants a good position, and doesn't know enough to advertise for it in

THE FOURTH
ESTATE,

when it costs so little (perhaps nothing), does not deserve the position.

SERVICE CORNER

588—"Can you supply us with a list of firms supplying syndicate newspaper features?"

589—"Will you give us the name of a high class firm managing circulation contests."

HELP WANTED.

Opportunity afforded thorough-going young man who has the experience and character qualified for the job to take business management of newspaper and job business in town of 11,000. Daily edition to be re-established this fall. Man who has successful record as assistant business manager and can submit unqualified endorsements should apply. Must not be over 35. Give full particulars, references and state salary wanted until your success is demonstrated. Address Middle West, care The Fourth Estate, New York City.

WANTED—A high grade special edition man to put on industrial edition in prosperous 25,000 city in Middle West. Must have gilt edge record. Submit full proof of same in first letter. Address Box 847, care The Fourth Estate.

Experienced young man wanted on a trade (coal) paper who can get news and write it in condensed form. He must also know something about circulation, advertising and general office work. Small salary to start, but good prospects. Address Box 825, care The Fourth Estate.

Wanted—At once, a first class man for city editor and larger reportorial work on an evening daily in a town of 25,000. Virginian greatly preferred. Must be able to do some desk work. Answer experience and salary expected, to Room 901, 171 Madison avenue, New York City.

AMUSEMENTS.

Astor—B'way & 45th—"The Very Idea."
Booth—45th, W. of B'way—Russian Ballet.
Bijou—West 45th—"Mary's Ankle."
Broadway—At 41st—"Pay Me."
Geo. M. Cohen—B'way and 43rd—"This Way Out."
Cohan & Harris—W. 48d—"A Tailor Made Man."
Cort—39th st. and B'way—"Love o' Mike."
Cort—48th E. of B'way—"The Inner Man."
Criterion—B'way and 44th—"The Manx Man."
Eldorado—W. of 48d—"Business Before Pleasure."
44th St.—W. of B'way—San Carlo Grand Opera Co.
48th St.—E. of B'way—"What Happened to Jones."
Globe—B'way and 46th—"The Spy."
Harris—W. 42d—"Daybreak."
Hippodrome—4th av. and 44th st—"Cheer Up."
Hudson—E. 44th st.—"The Deluge."
Lyceum—B'way & 45th—"The Lassoo."
Lyric—42d W. of B'way—"The Masquerader."
Liberty—W. 42d st.—"Hitchy-Koo."
Longacre—W. 48th—"Leave It to Jane."
Manhattan Opera House—W. 84th—"The Wanderer."
Marine Elliott—C9th st. E. of B'way—"Eyes of Youth."
New Amsterdam—W. 42d—"Ziegfeld Follies."
Palace—B'way near 47th—Vandeville.
Playhouse—48th E. of B'way—"The Man Who Came Back."
Princess—59th near B'way—"Oh, Boy."
Republic—W. 49d—"Peter Ibbetson."
Shubert—44th, W. of B'way—"Maytime."
Winter Garden—B'way and 50th—"Passing Show of 1917."

The problem of covering the Canadian Field is answered by obtaining the service of the

Dominion PRESS CLIPPING AGENCY

which gives the clippings on all matters of interest to you, printed in over 95 per cent of the newspapers and publications of CANADA. We cover every foot of Canada and Newfoundland.

74-76 Church Street, TORONTO, CAN.

MACHINERY FOR SALE.

TRUSTEE'S SALE
SEPTEMBER 8th.

The following property of the American Printing Company will be sold by me at St. Joseph, Mo., on Sept. 8:

3 Cylinder Presses
4 Platen Presses
2 Cross Automatic Paper Feeders
3 Linotype Machines
1 Folding Machine
1 Stitching Machine
1 Self-Clamp Paper Cutter
1 Otto Gas Engine
1 Dynamo, together with all belting, shafting, pulleys, etc., used in connection therewith.

Also type of all kinds and descriptions, imposing stones, type cabinets, all furniture and fixtures of any kind whatsoever. WALTER FULKERSON, Trustee.

Owners desiring to sell newspaper properties may advertise them in these columns over an assumed name, and answers will be received in entire confidence and forwarded without charge.

Rate twenty-five cents per line a day.

FOR SALE—A Campbell New Model press and stereotype outfit complete. Rebuilt five years ago by R. Hoe & Co. and guaranteed to be in perfect condition. Prints four or eight pages, 6, 7 or 8 columns to the page, and can be seen running daily in our plant. Reason for selling is we are about to install larger press. Small cash payment and balance in monthly installments. First reasonable offer gets it. Address Campbell New Model, care The Fourth Estate, 323 West 50th street, New York City.

FOR SALE—Goss High-Speed Straight line Five Roll Double Width Press equipped with all modern improvements and in very good condition. This press prints 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20 page papers at 72,000 per hour. $2, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32 page papers at $6,000 per hour. For prices and terms write

WALTER SCOTT & Co.,
PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY

AFTERNOON DAILY

FOR SALE.

New Plant in Beautiful Eastern City. Owner has other business interests that demand his attention. Good opportunity for some man who knows business. Represents investment of about $75,000. Can be bought for less. Address Box 568, care The Fourth Estate.

GOSS FOUR DECK PRESS—Prints 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 14, 16, 20, 24, 28 or 32 pages. Overhauled and rebuilt. Will sell at very low price. The Goss Printing Press Co., Chicago, Ill.

LINOTYPE—Three Model 1 machines with complete equipment of molds, magazines and matrices. New Haven Union Co., New Haven, Ct.

LINOTYPE—Model No. 2, Serial No. 10100; 1 magazine, assortment of matrices. Fort Wayne Printing Co., Fort Wayne, Ind.

LINOTYPE—Model No. 1, Serial No. 2010, and Model No. 1, Serial No. 2011, with 1 magazine, liners, ejector blades, font of matrices (for each machine). Tribune Printing Co., Charleston, W. Va.

FOR SALE—Mats; four sets of 6-pt Roman No. 2, with Bold Face No. 1; five sets 7-pt Roman No. 2 with Bold Face No. 1. Write for details of font arrangement. News, Dayton, Ohio.

For Sale—18-page Potter Press in good running order, in use by Daily Argus-Leader, over 10,000 circulation, including stereotype outfit, also 12 turtles and 12 chaw. Delivery about December 1, following installation larger press. A big bargain. Write The Argus-Leader Co., Sioux Falls, S. Dakota.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

A LIVE WIRE

experienced newspaper woman, young and enthusiastic, and willing to handle any sort of assignment, will fill in gap, caused by conscription, on your editorial staff. Has handled general and feature work on large city dailies for several years. Address Box 848, care The Fourth Estate.

EXPERIENCED.

well-trained newspaper and advertising man wants position as business manager or managing editor of progressive afternoon daily. Has long and successful record on newspapers and in retail advertising. Thirty-six years old and thoroughly dependable. Might make moderate investment if desired. Prefer city of 30,000 to 60,000. Will consider trade journal proposition. Address Box 849, care The Fourth Estate.

EDITOR

Extensive Experience
Desires change
Exempt from conscription
References
Box 845,
Care The Fourth Estate.

Circulation Department

Three years in charge of daily of 35,000 circulation, several years previous in mailing and list departments. A strong believer in system and efficiency. Competent to assume charge of either department. References previous employers. Am twenty-nine years old, married, have wife and one child dependent. Must have work. What have you? Address Box 851, care The Fourth Estate.

Live wire Advertising-Business Manager, morning or evening daily of ten to twenty thousand circulation, open for position September 15. Salary $50 a week. For details or personal interview address Box 859, care The Fourth Estate.

CARTOONIST

First class, 15 years' experience, national reputation. Can furnish convincing recommendations and samples of recent work. All-around newspaper artist; exceptionally good on pen portraits. Can deliver the goods and expect good salary. Answer at once. Box 861, care The Fourth Estate.

EXPERT TYPOGRAPHER

with fifteen years' practical experience desires connection with substantial advertising agency. University man. State full particulars. Address E. C. T., care The Fourth Estate.

The publisher who needs
A managing editor
A city editor
A circulation manager
or anything in the newspaper line, must be hard to suit if he can't find in this column what he wants.

OUR LETTER BOX.

Advertisers and all other friends of THE FOURTH ESTATE are invited to make our office their headquarters for correspondence, etc., etc.

At present there are letters waiting for
A. B. Coddington
S. Chivers-Wilson
Anna B. Corshane
Geo. W. Craig
L. D. Cartwright
Thos. E. Donnelly
Arthur T. Eagan
W. Burton Ellis
A. Finley
A. Fisher
R. Herts Service
Sam'l M. Evans
George S. Teall
J. W. Glenister
W. A. Faver
Theodore Blacns
Ray E. Wilcox
J. G. Disher
G. S. Myers
Griffith Bonner
H. H. Patterson
Publicity Bureau
Glenn C. Wilson
O. Weg
Chas. H. Forman
A. W. Seaborn
J. H. Muegat Co.
A. P. Robyn
Richard Neville
Clinton E. Woods
C. E. Persons
C. S. Kendall
W. E. Hornaday
R. D. Van Alstine
A. E. Rickson.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

PUBLISHER'S ATTENTION

Do your circulation charges each month tally with your A. B. C. report? Or is there a deficit charge? Do you get a trial balance the first day of each month showing to a cent your circulation charges, allowances, cash, accounts receivable, etc.?

If you do not get the above you are in the dark as to leaks in your circulation revenue.

What about your city carrier service? Your mail subscription country promotion work and office methods incidental thereto? Are you satisfied? If not the writer will guarantee to satisfy you in all the above respects if given a six months' contract for a compensation of $2,000.

I can show a seventeen year record in circulation work. Now employed and have saved my present employer $5,000 per year in overhead and leaks in the past six months.

Address G. L., care The Fourth Estate.

ATTENTION PUBLISHERS!

Who has the best position to offer a newspaper man of 30 years' experience? At present employed as night editor of a large New England daily but desires a change. Send answers to Egbert, care The Fourth Estate.

A Practical Printer with four years' good all-around experience and a thorough course at the Mergenthaler factory as a machinist-operator wants to connect with some publication or a private plant where attention to business is appreciated and advancement made accordingly. Best of references from former employers. Address Austin Savadel, 108 Targee street, Stapleton, N. Y.

WANTED—Position as editor or feature writer on newspaper or trade publication. Married, sober and fully competent. Position must be permanent on ability to make good. Understand advertising and printing business in full detail. Can come at once. Address W. H. Van Doran, 416 Sherman st., Elkhart, Indiana.

MANAGING EDITOR of morning newspaper in Southern city of 75,000 wishes to make change. Experienced on larger Southern dailies. Afternoon newspaper preferred. Address O. K. L., care The Fourth Estate.

CIRCULATION MANAGER WANTS PLACE

as general, mail or city circulation manager on a live paper. Competent to promote special campaigns and successfully handle any kind of territory. Familiar with all approved systems. Experience covers large and small cities. Am employed, but desire a change at once. Age 38, references. Address Box 862, care The Fourth Estate.

Successful advertising man of wide experience in newspaper work is seeking new connections. Can write fetching copy and is live, energetic solicitor. Married, sober, industrious. References on request. Address Box 866, care The Fourth Estate.

YOUNG MAN WHO CORRESPONDS

with five hundred newspapers wishes position as press agent or publicity manager with some person or firm desiring wide and international newspaper publicity. Address Box 868, care The Fourth Estate.

Mr. Publisher—Has the war hit your advertising department and do you want an experienced solicitor at once? Am unexpectedly at liberty. Have had over 20 years' experience selling advertising, not copy chasing. Full of ideas and know how to put them over. References cannot be beaten. Name what salary you will pay; it must be good, but I will earn it. For quick action, write Experienced Solicitor, care The Fourth Estate.

A good man for a good position. I know the newspaper game from Alpha to Omega; 20 years' experience, coast to coast. Gifted salesman and copy writer. Born diplomat and executive. I want a man's job with a man's salary. What have you? Advertiser, 60 West Alexandrine, Detroit.

WANTED—Position, managing or telegraph editor. Thoroughly experienced, fully competent; now employed. Not subject to draft. Address Wembee, care The Fourth Estate.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

Do you need a competent editor or reporter? I can deliver the goods, as employers for last 15 years will testify; will be glad to give full details; why not write me at Box 793, care The Fourth Estate.

Cartoonist

Can do any kind of cartooning. Can supply one comic strip a day; also comic cards or animated cartooning; samples on request. Address C. Williams, 415 15th street, West New York, N. J.

Live circulation manager of evening daily of 18,000 desires to make a change; 33 years of age, 10 years in present place. Recently has been through a raise of 50 per cent in price of paper and got by with flying colors. Best of references given. Address Box 861, care The Fourth Estate.

Circulation Manager, resourceful, successful business getter, using original campaign methods; many years' experience; methodical, economic; wishes to connect with metropolitan newspaper. Best references. Address Box 861, care The Fourth Estate.

Circulation Manager—Have worked in and understand all departments from carrier up. Have a steady position but desire change for personal reasons. Not subject to draft. Address Box 869, care The Fourth Estate.

PARAGRAPHER AND EDITORIAL WRITER

wishes to give up a good job for a better one. Young, original, forceful. Convincing clippings and references on request. Address Box 860, care The Fourth Estate.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

You may need to know

How you can get in touch with the right man for a position vacant, or
How you can find a suitable opening for yourself or some friend whom you can recommend.

Keep in mind the scope of our work. Ours is a service bureau for employers and employees in all departments of the Publishing, Advertising and Printing field, East, South and West.

No charge to employers; registration free; moderate commissions from successful clients.

Fernald's Exchange
Third National Bank Building
SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

Editor—Extensive experience daily, weekly, monthly; writer, reviewer; familiar with make-up; engaged, desires change; references. Not subject to draft. Address Box 883, care The Fourth Estate.

WANTED—Position on first class daily as business or advertising manager, by a high-class man of unusual character, ability and experience. Best of references. Address Box 888, care The Fourth Estate.

Circulation and advertising man with a record of 30 years' successful work seeks position in the West or Southwest. Address Box 793, care The Fourth Estate.

Experienced newspaper man wants business or entire management of small city daily, or would lease the property. Good references. Now located Pacific coast and prefer to stay there, but will go elsewhere if advantageous. Address L. L. K., care The Fourth Estate, 283 West 69th street, New York.

Business Manager—Competent efficiency man now "making good" in metropolitan field desires general management of small city paper. Excellent record in all departments as an organizer and producer. Preference for position demanding careful, economical development. Address Box 886, care The Fourth Estate.

Circulation manager of a 18,000 daily who has worked up to his position, desires to advance in circulation work. Address Box 888, care The Fourth Estate.

HEMSTREET
PRESS CLIPPINGS

Tenth Avenue at 45th Street NEW YORK CITY

We can Increase Your Business.
You want it Increased, don't you?

Of course you have thought of Press Clippings yourself—but let us tell you how Press Clippings can be made a BUSINESS-BUILDER for you.

"BURRELLE"

ESTABLISHED
A QUARTER OF
A CENTURY.

60 and 62 Warren Street
NEW YORK

NEW RECORDS FOR TEXAS CO.

LARGE ADVERTISING CITED IN ANNUAL STATEMENT OF CORPORATION.

Extensive advertising, increases in prices received for crude and refined oils and enlargement of its field of operation and distribution enabled the Texas Company to establish new records for earnings in the last year. Its statement, which includes the twelve months ended June 30, shows a surplus of $19,724,526 available for dividends, or an increase of $5,825,664 over the preceding fiscal year.

L. A. JACOBS.

This surplus is equivalent to $35.54 a share earned on the $55,500,000 capital stock, as compared with $37.66 a share earned last year on the smaller capitalization of $37,000,000.

The balance of $19,724,526 compares with $13,898,802 in 1916, $6,393,327 in 1915 and $6,185,975 in 1914. The company's surplus amounts to $40,270,189, as compared with $25,078,163 in 1916. Reserves of $3,183,398 were set aside from the net earnings comprising $2,047,217 for the sinking fund and depreciation account, $1,000,000 for taxes and $136,180 for bad and doubtful accounts.

One factor which brought the Texas Company rapidly to the front was the advertising campaign in newspapers and magazines in behalf of its products, particularly automobile oils, directed by L. A. Jacobs, advertising manager of the company. This campaign is being increased annually.

NEWS OF THE AD AGENCIES.

John Callan O'Loughlin, formerly Washington correspondent for the Chicago Tribune and later for the

JOHN C. O'LOUGHLIN.

Herald, has become vice-president of the Lord & Thomas Advertising Agency, Chicago. He will have charge of a new department—that of advising big firms on advertising.

The Pioneer Advertising Agency, Inc., has been chartered to do a general advertising business in New York, with a capital of $2,000. Its incorporators are Frank F. Lopez, Aristides G. Odio and Charles F. Root.

Milton Fuessle of Erwin & Wasey, Chicago, has joined the copy staff of the Williams & Cunningham Agency, Chicago.

C. W. Jackson, copy man of the Gundlach Advertising Co., Chicago, has been called to France by a cable from Major Grayson P. Murphy, who will have charge of much of the engineering work in connection with the Pershing expedition. Mr. Jackson, it is understood, will be given an important post in the purchasing department.

J. E. Kelley, for many years connected with the copy department of W. D. McJunkin, Chicago, has been chosen head of the department to succeed J. P. Roche, who resigned that post to enter military service.

C. E. Raymond, vice-president of J. Walter Thompson Company and manager of the Chicago office of that firm, is now in Washington as a member of the Hoover Food Commission.

A. D. Carson and Mrs. F. H. Rose are new members of the copy department of W. D. McJunkin Agency, Chicago.

Bruce Farson has resigned from the copy department of Williams & Cunningham, Chicago, to become associated with the Chicago office of the Cosmopolitan Magazine.

S. B. Newton, manager of the New York office of Williams & Cunningham, has returned from a business stay at the Chicago office.

The William H. Rankin Company, Chicago, has a new vice-president in Robert F. Rinehart, manager of the New York office.

Gray Puffer, copy man in the Gundlach Advertising Company, Chicago, has resigned and is now serving as a captain in the new army. He will be stationed at Rockford.

John D. Dunham, formerly of the Erwin & Wasey Agency, Chicago, has joined the Williams & Cunningham Agency, having been elected secretary of the latter organization.

J. B. Kirk, formerly with the Blackman-Ross and the Frank Presbrey Agencies in New York, has been appointed production manager of the Erickson Company, Inc., also of that city.

Glenn Florea, formerly with Calkins & Holden, Inc., New York, has joined the staff of the George Batten Company, Inc., being attached to the New York office.

S. H. Fox, formerly sales manager of A. W. McCloy Company, has been appointed executive manager of McCloy's Advertising Agency, Pittsburg, to which he will devote his entire time.

The agency is owned by the A. W. McCloy Company, but has a complete and separate organization.

The sales volume of the A. W. McCloy Company has enjoyed a very substantial increase under Mr. Fox's administration.

The personnel of the agency, aside from this important addition, will remain the same, including R. L. Mitchell, whose time hereafter will be devoted to the development of the growing number of accounts secured.

Harry F. Phillips is responsible for the space buying, planning, and, in part, copy-writing.

F. M. Lippincott is in charge of the art department and the outside solicitors include W. O'Neil Goodwin and L. A. Quill.

In addition to representing the agency for the customary service, Mr. Fox will give attention to the cost finding department. This new service is a most interesting development for the agency and its clients.

AD FOLKS' NEWS.

The New York Advertising Club News will issue a military number on September 24, devoted to facts and faces of club members now in the country's service.

The Better Advertising Bureau of the Chicago Advertising Association is making a stiff fight against off-color advertising methods in Chicago. A suit has just been instituted by the Bureau against Bloch & Roth, jewelers, alleging "fake" bargain sales.

Educational meetings will be the main part of the 1917-1918 program of the St. Paul Advertising Club, just as they were last year, according to Frank L. Madden, the club's new president. In the season which ended last spring, the club had held eight educational meetings, in the course of which the members made an extensive survey of St. Paul and the Northwest, studying those markets from the viewpoint of the manufacturer, jobber, retailer and consumer, and amassing information and data of considerable value.

F. L. MADDEN.

This year there will be a series of perhaps six meetings for the study of analysis, which Mr. Madden and the club's educational chairman, James I. Haynes, advertising manager of Griggs, Cooper & Co., St. Paul, believe will work well in with last year's accomplishments.

Mr. Haynes is now working on details of the program and expects to have at least one educational evening meeting a month, with the balance of the evening meetings devoted to

TO MANUFACTURERS:

If the links between the making of your product, your sales department, your advertising, your distributing channels and the consumer are not welded into one harmonious unit, your advertising cannot be made to produce its highest possible volume of returns. The Presbrey method has united these various branches in the case of many others. Why not learn wherein it can be made to earn for you? Your correspondence entails no obligation.

FRANK PRESBREY COMPANY

GENERAL ADVERTISING.
Makers of Commercial Booklets.
450 4th Av. (31st St.) NEW YORK

H. W. KASTOR & SONS ADVERTISING COMPANY

CHICAGO ST. LOUIS
An organization of merchandising men highly specialized in the solution of advertising problems.

G. LOGAN PAYNE CO.

SPECIAL REPRESENTATIVES.
Fifth Avenue Building, NEW YORK
750 Marquette Building, CHICAGO
40 Broomfield St., BOSTON
Krege Building, DETROIT

VERREE & CONKLIN

PUBLISHERS' REPRESENTATIVES.
235 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK
11 Lafayette Boulevard, DETROIT
28 E. Jackson Boulevard, CHICAGO

JOHN BUDD CO.

Representing Newspapers of
Burrell Bldg., NEW YORK
Tribune Bldg., CHICAGO
Chemical Bldg., St. LOUIS

JAMES ZOBIAN CO.

GENERAL ADVERTISING
155 Fifth Avenue NEW YORK

Daily Publishers!

MORE ADVERTISING?

If you want real wide awake advertising representation, here in Chicago and the West, get in touch with us at once.

We get business by going after it: keeping after it until we get the order. Why not discuss the matter with us today? Write us at once.

YOUNG & FARRELL

Room 400, 20 N. Dearborn St.
CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

nationally known speakers or lecturers on various subjects.

Noon luncheon meetings will be held every other week instead of weekly, and will be devoted to open discussions on the subject of the last educational meeting and on topics of current interest.

J. R. Bolton has been appointed advertising manager of the Royal Typewriter Company, New York.

C. F. Leslie, assistant advertising manager of the Emerson-Brantingham Implement Company, Rockford, Ill., has been appointed advertising manager. He was formerly with Fairbanks, Morse & Co., and with the International Harvester Company.

The annual election of the Chicago Advertising Association will be held September 10. At this time there is only one ticket in the field, that headed by W. Frank McClure for president. In former elections there have been as many as three tickets in the field, with attendant enthusiasm and excitement.

J. Buist Richardson is the new president of the Nashville (Tenn.) Advertising Club.

Ernest D. Anderson has been elected president of the Buffalo (N. Y.) Advertising Club.

INTRODUCING AD FOLKS.

Fred R. Lufkin, who has opened an office in Elgin, Ill., intends to establish a business among manufacturers and engineering concerns which desire to sell their product, be it machinery or service, by publicity methods founded on the same principles that are followed in other departments of their business.

Mr. Lufkin, who spent some time in the electrical business before going with Walter B. Snow & Staff, Boston, five years ago, explained his plan to THE FOURTH ESTATE as follows: "No manufacturer would think of hiring a book-keeper to work in his machine shop. He hires a man trained in the handling of machinery in order to get the results that he wants.

"But many a manufacturer has been obliged to place his publicity in the hands of those who know little or nothing about machinery or its uses. And when this machinery is sold to customers trained in engineering, the lack of an engineer's training on the part of the publicity man is deplorable. This is the field in which I shall endeavor to build my field and clientele."

HAWKS ON U.S.S. RECRUIT.

Lieutenant Wells Hawks, the well-known press agent, spends his time these days either at his desk or planking the quarter deck of the U. S.S. Recruit in Union Square, New York, where he makes his headquarters. He is quite proud of the big "land dreadnought," too, and has asked the newspapers to print stories which will induce visitors to New York to include the ship in their itinerary of "sights worth seeing."

C. H. Beaulieu has become the editor of the White Earth (Minn.) Tomahawk.

ELBERT H. BAKER,

PRESIDENT AND GENERAL MANAGER OF THE CLEVELAND PLAIN DEALER, WHICH IS NOW THE SOLE OCCUPANT OF THE MORNING NEWSPAPER FIELD IN THAT CITY. See Second Page

TO LIST CASUALTIES OF THE AMERICAN FORCES.

Arrangements have been made for giving information to families in America of United States troops killed, wounded or taken prisoner, through the Red Cross Bureau of Casualties, with an office at Paris under the direction of W. R. Castle, Jr.

It will be part of the bureau's duties to furnish lists of prisoners in America to the International Red Cross in Geneva and to receive its lists of Americans in German prison camps.

The central office of the bureau will be at Washington, where card catalogs of prisoners and all American casualties will be kept. The Paris office will be the headquarters of the American Red Cross, 4 Place de la Concorde.

MOSES WITH SELZNICK.

Vivian M. Moses has become publicity manager of the Lewis J. Selznick Enterprises, New York, succeeding Randolph Partlett, who has joined the editorial staff of Photoplay Magazine.

ROBERTSON'S NEW DUTIES.

F. A. Robertson has been elected president of the Fitchburg (Mass.) News Company, assuming the duties of that position in addition to his work as manager of the News.

During the past two years the News has almost doubled its circulation, climbing from 3,178 in July, 1915, to 6,034 in July, 1917, with a gain of 7 per cent in its net cash earnings from sales and advertising for the first seven months in 1917 over the same period in 1915.

SELLING "STANLEY" METALS.

J. Henry Stephany, formerly with the American Type Founders Company, is now calling on the printing and publishing trades as the representative of the Syracuse Smelting Works of Brooklyn, N. Y., manufacturer of the "Stanley Process Type Metals."

NEW RAILROAD EDITOR.

Frank A. O'Connell has been appointed editor of the Baltimore & Ohio Employees' Magazine, succeeding Lieutenant R. M. Van Sant and A. W. Grahame, who have entered military service.

WASHINGTON MEN CONVENE.

KAYNOR PRESIDENT; OFFICES TO BE OPENED IN NEW YORK AND CHICAGO.

More than 100 editors and publishers from all parts of Washington and Oregon attended the thirty-first annual meeting of the Washington State Press Association held at Chehalis, Wash., from August 22 to 25.

A fine program of addresses was carried out, in which all phases of newspaper work were discussed.

Resolutions were passed uncompromisingly supporting President Wilson in the war period; pledging every support to encourage and strengthen the patriotism of the people of the nation; pledging subordination in papers of political questions; endorsing the work of the Federal committee on public information; and ordering the creation of a "Roll of Honor" for newspaper men serving in the Army and the Navy.

A committee was appointed to work to obtain the next meeting of the National Editorial Association for Washington State.

The print paper situation was taken up with paper dealers and a committee was appointed to handle cooperative buying.

J. C. Kaynor of the Ellensburg Record was elected president; E. M. Conner, South Bend Pilot, first vice-president; and Sol H. Lewis of the Lynden Tribune, second vice-president. N. Russell Hill of the Lincoln County Times, Davenport, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

The next meeting was voted to Spokane.

The Washington Newspaper Association, which handles foreign advertising for Washington State newspapers, reported a prosperous year. Secretary E. E. Troxell will leave this month to establish offices in New York and Chicago for the association.

SIR HUGH'S FULL TITLE.

Readers of THE FOURTH ESTATE knew several months ago that Sir Hugh Graham, publisher of the Montreal Star, had been raised to the peerage, but his full title, as noted in the London Gazette, has just become known in the United States. It is: "Baron Atholstan of Huntington, in the Province of Quebec, the Dominion of Canada and the city of Edinburgh."

SPECIAL AGENCY CHANGES.

Springfield (Ill.) State Register (Eastern representation)—from MacQuoid-Miller Agency to Verree & Conklin, 225 Fifth avenue.

THE PITTSBURGH POST

ONLY Democratic Paper In Pittsburgh

CONE, LORENZEN & WOODMAN
Special Representatives
New York, Detroit, Kansas City, Chicago

THE PITTSBURG PRESS

HAS
THE Largest
DAILY AND SUNDAY
CIRCULATION
IN PITTSBURG

Foreign Advertising Representatives
J. A. KLEIN, Metropolitan Tower, N. Y.
JOHN GLASS, Peoples Gas Bldg., Chicago

SEATTLE "P-I"

The only seven day A. P. paper in the Metropolis of the entire Northwest.
The one paper in the entire West without competition in its field. It reaches into the homes of the most prosperous
people on earth.

W. M. J. MORTON CO., Eastern Rep.,
Fifth Ave. Bldg., NEW YORK.
Tribune Building, CHICAGO

DRIVING OUT THE FAKERS.

(Continued from Sixteenth Page.)
banish wrinkles and gray hair and put an end to baldness.

The other form of first aid has been found, oddly enough, in the world war which has served to diminish, for the time being, the flow of advertisements from Europe of books and pictures that if they materialize are seldom as startling as had been anticipated. Occasionally nowadays a fraud order is issued against some concern in Europe, but the instances are less frequent than formerly.

"WORK AT HOME" FRAUD KILLED.

Post Office officials who make a specialty of picking up clues in the classified columns take perhaps their greatest pride in the success they have attained in recent years in driving in cover the "Work at Home" swindlers—a particularly contemptible class, since they prey upon ignorant old women, usually on the verge of poverty.

Presumably every newspaper publisher is familiar with the game in most of its phases. Upon answering a "Help Wanted" advertisement of this class the prospect is bolstered in her hope of earning $12 or more per week at home, but is informed that she must first make an investment for an outfit or for materials or patterns or what not.
Once this deposit is in the hands of the advertiser the tasks set are either too difficult for accomplish-

The Remarkable Advertising
Pulling Qualities of the
WASHINGTON
TIMES

are built on the Foundation Stones of

Size of Circulation

Confidence of Its Readers

A Right Rate

In Washington, D. C.,
The Times is Preferred.

Topeka Daily Capital

GOVERNMENT REPORT

for six months ending April 1, 1917.
showing net paid circulation.

34,567

Member A. B. C.

Arthur Capper PUBLISHER
TOPEKA, KAN.

ment or else the completed work is rejected as "unsatisfactory" as rapidly as it is turned in.

For all that the postal officials feel that they are making some progress in cleaning up the classified they are handicapped for lack of adequate machinery for keeping track of new frauds as they appear. From the very nature of things, as any newspaper man can testify, it would be difficult to perform constant sentry duty on the classified columns—indeed, the limitations involved explain why a greater proportion of publishers do not more rigidly censor their lines—but in the case of the Post Office Department it is for the most part a case of waiting until somebody complains, and a classified ad has usually attained wide circulation ere the victims are heard from.

Uncle Sam has on his staff several hundred Post Office inspectors who devote a considerable part of their time to obtaining evidence against the mail frauds, but there is no system at headquarters for regularly reading, as a press clipping bureau would do, the classified sections and promptly referring to inspectors as soon as published the new traps or old friends in disguise.

It also operates against this plan of waiting for trouble instead of looking for it that many of the swindles worked via the classified involve in the case of each transaction so modest a sum that comparatively few victims think it worth while to complain.

No wonder one of the "Cure Yourself Without Drugs" artists collected $1,500,000 in fees ere the Post Office shut down on him.

EDITOR JOINS UNIVERSAL.

S. D. Palmer, former editor of the Ogdensburg (N. Y.) Journal, has joined the publicity staff of the Universal Film Company, taking charge of out-of-town syndicate news.

LITERARY BENT.

In order to devote more time to literary work, Lee Shippey has sold the Higginsville (Mo.) Jeffersonian.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

The Fraternal Publishing Company of Chicago has asked court permission to wind up its affairs and quit.

BOSTON POST

CIRCULATION JULY, 1917
"NO RETURNS"

The Daily Post 523,332

The Sunday Post 354,316

KELLY-SMITH CO., Representatives
230 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK
C. GEORGE KROGGESS, Western Rep.
Marquette Building, CHICAGO

Today's Housewife

Net Paid
Guaranteed

For Every Issue

GEORGE A. McCLELLAN, Gen. Mgr.
661 Fourth Avenue, NEW YORK

NEWS NOTES FOR SUPPLY MEN.

BUSINESS CHANGES.

LEXINGTON, Mo.—Bate C. Drummond, former editor of the News, has again taken over the editorship of that paper, J. B. Slater having resigned. Harry Dunford has become business manager of the paper.

BEACON, N.Y.—G. N. Stille, founder of the Charleston (Mo.) Republican in 1909, has just purchased the Beacon Eagle and taken charge of the same.

LOCK SPRINGS, Mo.—Charles R.
Clark has purchased the printing plant of the late J. B. Ferguson and will continue publication of the Herald.

SAN MARCOS, TEX.—George C.
Staples has sold the Record to Henry Barnhouse, linotype operator on that paper, and B. E. Norwood.

LANE, KAN.—W. M. McCurdy has sold the Journal to the Osawatimic Publishing Company, and has purchased and taken charge of the Randall News. The Lane Journal will be continued as a weekly paper, published at Osawatimic and mailed from the Lane post office.

RAVENWOOD, Mo.—Albert Hulen, formerly connected with the Plattsburg (Mo.) Leader, has purchased and taken charge of the Ravenwood Gazette, formerly owned by F. G.
Graf.

COLONY, KAN.—Captain William
Payton has sold the printing equipment of the Colony Free Press and the paper will continue to be printed at Iola as it has been for some time.

CONWAY, ARK.—The name of the Arkansas Farmer, a weekly paper published here, has been changed to the Conway Weekly Times, the original name under which it was founded 20 years ago.

WINDSOR, Mo.—Nate McCutchan has sold his interest in the Windsor Review to Charles H. Burgess, who will be associated with Will G. Gotten in publishing that paper.

NEW ENTERPRISES.

LONGVIEW, TEX.—The Daily Times
Clarion has resumed publication here after a suspension of 7 months. The

1916 Broke All Records
of the

Toledo BLADE

9,807,578 Lines

of advertising in 313 days.
AN AVERAGE OF OVER
104 COLUMNS PER DAY.

Member A.B.C.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
250 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK
Mallory Building, CHICAGO
201 Devonshire St., BOSTON
Kresge Building, DETROIT

YOU MUST
USE THE LOS ANGELES
EXAMINER

TO COVER THE
GREAT SOUTHWEST

Largest Sunday Circulation—more than 150,000

weekly edition of the paper has been discontinued.

POFFJOY, IA.—The News is the name of a new paper just started here by James C. Barnes.

INDUSTY, KAN.—The News is the name of a new paper being published by Mr. Wilson, editor of the Longford Leader, from the office of the Leader.

INSTALLING EQUIPMENT.

ST. FRANCIS, KAN.—The St. Francis Herald has just installed a new Model 19 Mergenthaler Linotype.

LIBERAL, KAN.—The News has started moving into its new headquarters.
The building is to be completely remodelled and new fixtures installed.
The News has recently enlarged the size of its paper from a 6-column to a 7 column sheet.

CONSOLIDATIONS.

MEDICINE LODGE, KAN.—I. M. Ax-line, publisher of the Cresset, has sold that paper to Painter & Herr, owners of the local Index, who will consolidate the two papers into one weekly. F. A. Reese of Stafford will be business manager of the Index.

SUSPENSIONS.

NORFOLK, OKLA.—The Sun, a weekly, has suspended publication. G. H.
Woods was the editor and owner of the paper.

The plant of the Plymouth Printing Company, publisher of the Der Le Mars (Ia.) Herald, a German newspaper, has been destroyed by fire.

The Open Door
to the workshop of the world

The Philadelphia Record

Special Representatives:
STORY, BROOKS & FINLEY,
Fifth Ave. Bldg., NEW YORK
Peoples Gas Bldg., CHICAGO

THE NEW YORK WORLD

(Morning Edition)

Prints MORE
ADVERTISING
than any other
newspaper prints.

The Cincinnati Community

consists of an area of 70 square miles with a population of 600,000

THE CINCINNATI ENQUIRER

is the MEDIUM YOU SHOULD USE in this unparalleled market.

Foreign Representatives
John Glass, Peoples Gas Bldg., Chicago
J.A. Klein, Metropolitan Tower, New York

WORLD'S POOREST ADVERTISER.

HERBERT S. HOUSTON SAYS IT IS THE CHURCH—HOW THE A.A.C.W. OFFERS AID.

"What is advertising?" was a question recently asked by the Church Advertising Department of the A.A.C.W. of Herbert S. Houston, ex-president of the Associated Advertising Clubs. In reply he said:

"Every sermon is an advertisement. At least that is what it should be and that is what it is if it bears a real message.

"For advertising, which I have been asked to define, is the declaring, the telling, the publishing, by word, by print or by paint the merits of something to somebody who is likely to be interested.

"It may be reverently said that the great commission was a mandatory message to advertise righteousness. And just in proportion as the church has envisaged that message in the vivid human language of life and deed, it has succeeded.

"Advertising is, broadly speaking, merely expression with a purpose.

"It is self expression, community expression, church expression, trade expression—but always with a purpose.

"Advertising is direction with a destination. It is aim with a target. It is a message with some one to receive it.

"This is broad and universal advertising. But direct, paid advertising, to the development of which this great A.A.C.W. movement is devoted, is the same in principle.

"The fundamental difference is that the paid advertising with which we are concerned is subject to complete control. We can see it when and where and how our judgment directs and our purse permits. And

Trenton TIMES

New Jersey's Leading
FOOD MEDIUM

Million lines food advertising in two years—developed by our Thursday Food Feature Pages.

This "food atmosphere" and "housewife interest" will increase your sales.

KELLY-SMITH CO.
280 6th Av., N. Y.; Lytton Bg., Chicago

Baltimore News

Net Daily Circulation 91,250
JULY, 1917
GAIN over JULY, 1916 15,388

Special Representatives
DAN A. CARROLL J. E. LUTZ
New York Chicago

churches by the score are finding that by using it they replenish their purses and fill their pews.

"But the advertising which does that is interesting, clear and convincing.

"It must be colored by human sympathy and charged with human appeal, just as the sermon must be, which it invites people to hear.

"Of course if cold, formal and stereotyped advertising is used by a church it irresistibly bears the impression that the sermon will be of the same kind.

"It is past all understanding that a church, established by its Divine Founder to serve men, a church whose walls ring with uplifting music, from whose pulpit sounds the challenge to nobler living and among whose members is the quickening spirit of sympathy and service—that such an institution with so much to offer, should call through the highways and byways in a small, dull, formal advertisement, I repeat, it is past all understanding.

"Such advertising, in fact, falls so far below the truth that it is essentially untruthful, and I am not sure but that it cries to heaven for the corrective service of our A.A.C.W. vigilance committees.

"At least this can be said without fear of challenge in this great parliament of advertising—the church, which is the greatest institution in the world, has the poorest advertising in the world."

"But I do not make this strong statement as one without hope. Instead I make it because I have the highest hope of new and better things. The A.A.C.W. department of church advertising gives ground for that hope. You are brought into the closest contact through this department with the best advertising service. As it rises to meet its great opportunity it will become one of the most essential and quickening parts in the church militant, hastening the day of the church triumphant."

ILLINOIS DATES.

The annual meeting of the Illinois Select Newspaper Association will be held on September 7-8 at the Hotel LaSalle, Chicago.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat

DAILY—SUNDAY—WEEKLY.

To reach Farmers in Mississippi Valley and Southwest use

Weekly Globe-Democrat

Can give advertisers effective co-operation. Write for "Team-Work" and "Globe-Democrat Plan."

PATERSON

New Jersey's Famous Manufacturing City PRESS

GUARDIAN Its BIG Independent Newspaper
G. LOGAN PAYNE COMPANY
New York Chicago Detroit Boston

BOY SALES FORCE FOR NEWSPAPERS.

HOW AN ENTHUSIASTIC AND EFFICIENT ORGANIZATION MAY BE DEVELOPED.

By H. M. WHEELER,
Circulation Manager, Hartford (Ct.) Times.

Nine years ago it was my good fortune to act in the capacity of traveling representative for one of the leading magazine publishing houses in this country. For three years my time was devoted to the establishing of boy sales organizations. During this time I found that through this method I could always get circulation and plenty of it and that business so obtained was easily held.

During my magazine experience I came in contact with many newspaper circulation managers, and often suggested that they promote their circulation through boys' organizations, rather than through the expensive house to house canvassing method.

In many instances I was laughed at and told that selling methods, applicable to weekly magazines were not applicable to newspapers. Since those days newspaper circulators, as well as other sales promoters, have found that boys sales organizations are practical, efficient and economical.

It is a matter of record that one of the most successful selling campaigns ever pulled off was a boy campaign conducted by one of the leading tea and coffee houses in this country. If boy sales organizations can sell tea, coffee and magazines, is it not reasonable to say that they can sell newspaper subscriptions or any other salable commodity?

To my mind, the juvenile salesmanship method cannot be beaten, no matter whether it is in the city where you publish or in surrounding towns and cities. For an illustration as to the economy of the method, let me cite the following:

In 1913 I was employed to establish a boy sales organization to promote the circulation of a new daily in a city of 30,000 inhabitants. I went with this company two weeks

A Gain of 73%

During the past four years the Detroit Free Press has enjoyed a gain of 73 per cent in circulation. Character and solidity explain this increase. ADVERTISING MUST PAY in a medium which calls forth such a tremendous response from the public.

The Detroit Free Press

"MICHIGAN'S
GREATEST
NEWSPAPER."

VERRE & CONKLIN, Foreign Reps.
NEW YORK CHICAGO DETROIT

before the first publication day. When the first issue came off the press we had a bona fide list in the city and outside of 4,000 subscribers. Not one penny was spent for prizes, etc.

How long would it have taken, and how much would it have cost to get this business with canvassers?

A great many will say that the method is O. K. in the publishing city, but how about surrounding towns and cities? I have found that boy sales organizations are practical in any cities or towns that are large enough to warrant three or more boys.

In our suburban territory we have a small city to which we were sending 577 papers daily. A road man was sent to this city with instructions to remain two weeks, start a $17 cash prize offer and instruct boys in juvenile salesmanship.

In the two weeks we increased about 150 copies and established an organization that held the increase and continued to get more business after the road man had left.

Today we are sending to that city more than 900 papers daily.

In establishing successful boys' sales organization, the following are vital factors:

First. An efficient organizer, a man who can bring out all of the salesmanship qualities that are in a boy.

Second. Securing the right kind of boys. My experience has been that the very best boys are those boys who do not have to work, but take up the carrying of newspapers because they are ambitious and want to become independent by earning their spending money, working their way through college or attaining some other worthy object.

Third. The boys' profit. This is one of the most vital factors in any boy sales organization. If a boy feels that he is well paid, he is very apt to hold his enthusiasm and work harder.

Carriers, newsdealers and boy agents who handle the Times earn one cent profit on every paper they sell. For this reason, we never have any trouble with the boys "throwing over" their routes.

One of the most successful boy sales managers once remarked in my presence that when you cut the profit of your boys you cut your own throat so far as circulation is concerned.

Fourth. The product for sale. This is the most vital factor. The boy salesman can get the business, but to hold it the publishers must give the people the best possible paper at a reasonable price.

THE WASHINGTON POST

WASHINGTON, D. C.
Net Paid Daily Circulation

For the Month of July, 1917

46,650

DAILY 2c—SUNDAY 5c

(Member A. B. C.)

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
New York Chicago Boston Detroit

BUFFALO EVENING NEWS

The only Buffalo newspaper that censors its advertising columns. Many of our advertisers use our columns exclusively. The above is one of the many reasons WHY?

EDWARD H. BUTLER, Editor and Pub.
Represented in the foreign field by
KELLY-SMITH COMPANY,
280 Fifth Ave., NEW YORK.
Lytton Building, CHICAGO.

THE DAYTON SUNDAY NEWS

in the first five months of 1917 has carried 110,264 lines more local business than its only competitor.

With the Springfield News (the two at .085 per line) it's a great Sunday combination.

NEWS LEAGUE OF OHIO
DAYTON, OHIO
I. A. Klein, Metropolitan Tower, N. Y.
John Glass, Peoples Gas Bldg., Chicago

IN THE AD FIELD.

ADVERTISING ACCOUNTS NOW BEING PLACED BY THE AGENCIES.

NICHOLS, 20 E. Jackson Boulevard, Chicago.—Sending out orders and handling all the advertising activities of the Alabastine Company, Grand Rapids, Mich.

LORD & THOMAS, Mallery Bldg., Chicago.—Sending out orders to farm papers for Mitchell Motors Co., Racine, Wis.

STEWART-DAVIS, Kesner Bldg., Chicago.—Preparing orders with daily newspapers for advertising of William Wrigley Chewing Gum Company, Chicago.

LESSING, 225 5th st., Des Moines.—Orders to dailies for A-S-Nomor Co., asthma remedy, Des Moines.

KIRTLAND-ENGEL, Lytton Bldg., Chicago.—Orders going out for Young Typewriter Co., Chicago.

WOODWARD'S, 910 Michigan av., Chicago.—Reported handling account of Texas Company, "Texaco Oil," 17 Battery pl., N. Y., advertising to be handled by Martin Horrell of N. Y. branch, 501 5th av.

ARMSTRONG, 1457 Broadway, N. Y.—Planning campaign for Janan Society, Inc., 165 Broadway, on Japanese tea.

FOLEY, Bulletin Bldg., Philadelphia.—Again making 1,000-line, 1-year contracts with Western newspapers.

St. Paul and the Northwest

best can be reached by advertising your wares in the columns of the

ST. PAUL DISPATCH
and ST. PAUL PIONEER PRESS

In St. Paul, the St. Paul Dispatch has an average total daily circulation of 53,678; the St. Paul Pioneer Press, an average total daily circulation of 45,622; the St. Paul Sunday Pioneer Press, an average total Sunday circulation of 47,802.

They also enter thousands of homes, located in cities, towns and rich farming districts of the Northwest.

TOTAL CIRCULATION
St. Paul Dispatch (daily). Over 81,000.
St. Paul Pioneer Press (daily). Over 64,000.
Sunday Pioneer Press. Over 77,000.
They Cover the Field.

It Pays to Advertise in the ST. LOUIS TIMES

Now generally recognized as the HOME NEWSPAPER OF ST. LOUIS.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
260 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK.
Mallory Building, CHICAGO.
201 Devonshire Street, BOSTON.
Kresge Building, DETROIT.

THE Philadelphia Bulletin HAS THE Largest TWO-Cent Circulation in the East.

Net Daily Paid Average for June
358,191 Copies
WILLIAM L. McLEAN, Publisher.

pers for Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co., St. Louis.

SIEGFRIED, 20 Vesey st., N. Y.—Orders to newspapers in selected sections for Manhattan Briar Pipe Co., 425 Greenpoint av., Brooklyn, N. Y.

FEDERAL, 6 E. 39th st., N. Y.—Will run newspaper campaign in 25 cities for Bradley Knitting Co., Delavan, Wis., "Bradley Knit Goods." Also planning magazine and women's publication campaign for same company.

JONES, Binghamton, N. Y.—Making 2,000-line contracts generally with newspapers for Tokolon, Inc., 20 W. 22d st., N. Y.

McMULLEN, Cambridge Bldg., N. Y.—Orders to newspapers for E. F. Dalley & Co., "Two-in-one Shoe Polish," Hamilton, Ont., and Jersey City, N. J.

METROPOLITAN, 6 Wall st., N. Y.—Making 2,000-line contracts with Eastern and Southern newspapers for George P. Ide & Co., "Ide Collars," Troy, N. Y.

PORTER, 18 E. 41st st., N. Y.—Placing 5,000-line, 1-year contracts with Northwest newspapers for Nestle Food Co., "Nestle Baby Food," 233 Broadway, N. Y.

WADE, Old Colony Bldg., Chicago.—Now handling account of Redden Motor Truck Co., Chicago.

CHAMBERS, 616 Maison Blanche Bldg., New Orleans.—Sending out fall copy for the Falcon Shoe Co. to farm papers and mail order publications.

JAMES, 110 W. 19th st., N. Y.—Orders to newspapers generally for Sloan's Liniment.

GENESEE, 45 E. 17th st., N. Y.—Orders to newspapers generally for "Peterson's Ointment."

TALOR - CRITCHFIELD - CLAGUE, Brooks Bldg., Chicago.—Now handling farm paper advertising of Estate Stove Co., Hamilton, Ohio.

McJUNKIN, Mallery Bldg., Chicago.—Placing dealer ads in Chicago papers for the "Fridger" patent refrigerator account.

GUNDLACH, Consumers Gas Bldg., Chicago.—Placing copy for Standard Burner Co., Chicago, kerosene burners, in list of farm papers.

THE NEW YORK EVENING JOURNAL

has the largest circulation of any newspaper in America.

MONTREAL DAILY MAIL

The circulation of the Daily Mail in Greater Montreal is larger than that of any other Montreal morning newspaper, English or French.

Verraz & Conklin, Inc., 225 5th Av., N. Y.
I.S. Wallis & Son, 1st Nat. Bk. Bg., Chicago

NEW K. & E. PRESS AGENT.

James Jay Brady, the new general press representative of the Klaw & Erlanger theatrical interests, has been connected with the business since before the great blizzard of 1888,

JAMES JAY BRADY.

starting as "mixer among newspaper men" for J. J. Hill at the old Union Square Theater in New York. Previous to that he had been a court reporter, therefore an expert at shorthand, which came in handy when he was with Denman Thompson in "The Old Homestead." Mr. Thompson kept his part "in his head," but Mr. Brady for protection sat in a private box and took it down in shorthand during performances.

He was in the advertising business for a time, but got back into the theatrical line, traveling ahead of plays for Gilmore & Tompkins, Henry C. French, Charles Frohman and Joseph Brooke for four years. Then he took on the publicity of the Cen-

THE SYRACUSE POST-STANDARD

—Central New York's FAVORITE newspaper—increases its circulation lead:

Daily (Net Paid) 55,498 CIRCULATION

April, 1917 Figures—A.B.C. Basis.—Only morning paper in the metropolis of a rich, agricultural and manufacturing territory.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
260 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK.
Mallory Building, CHICAGO.
201 Devonshire St., BOSTON.
Kresge Building, DETROIT

THE JOURNAL IS THE ONLY MORNING AND SUNDAY PAPER PUBLISHED IN DAYTON, OHIO

STORY, BROOKS & FINLEY, Inc.
Fifth Ave. Bldg., NEW YORK.
Mutual Life Bldg., PHILADELPHIA.
People's Gas Building, CHICAGO.

tury Theater, St. Louis, and the Dearborn Stock Company, Chicago, jumping to the Rogers Brothers and "Ben Hur," both of which were Klaw & Erlanger enterprises.

For a time he spent the winter with K. & E. and the summer with Ringling Brothers' circus, later joining the circus firm exclusively. Six years were spent under the big tents, then three at the Colonial Theater, Chicago, and three with the George M. Cohan Theater, New York, before Mr. Brady made his present connection.

ON DECK AT HOUSTON.

C. M. Schutz, special correspondent for the Chicago Tribune at Houston, Tex., was one of the innocent bystanders injured in the recent race riots in that city. Mr. Schutz was sent to Houston from Chicago for the prosaic task of keeping tabs on the military affairs there, but he broke into "first page" happenings on his first day.

During the melee, in which the negro troopers participated, the newspaper man suffered a gashed knee, which required several stitches. He kept on the job, however, and filed his story before seeking medical aid.

WITH SUCCESSFUL SHOW.

"The Man Who Came Back" will round out a year's run next week at the Playhouse Theater, New York, of which David Wallace is press representative.

THE KANSAS CITY STAR

MORNING-EVENING-SUNDAY

Each Issue
Over 200,000 Circulation

THE Boston Herald (Morning and Sunday) and the Boston Traveler (Evening)

Net Paid Circulation:
DAILY, over 208,000
Sunday, over 119,000

Member Audit Bureau of Circulations.

DALLAS EVENING JOURNAL

Published by
A. H. Belo & Co.
Covers the afternoon field as completely
as does the Dallas News in the morning
37,659 NET PAID average during 6
months period ending April 1,
1917. P. O. Report.
LARGEST AFTERNOON Circulation
J. D. LORENTE, Manager Eastern Dept.
738 Tribune Building, NEW YORK

WAR TAX STRATEGY IN THE SENATE.

PAPERS WARNED TO GUARD AGAINST FUTURE JUMPS IN POSTAL RATES.

EDITOR THE FOURTH ESTATE.

Sir: Mortgaging the future of publishers is a Senatorial diversion that cropped out in most pronounced form in Washington this past week.

While a considerable proportion of the membership of the Senate is protesting against war bond issues that will obligate future generations and declaring in favor of a pay-as-you-enter war the cost of which will be levied principally in current taxes, a number of these same Senators are trying to force down the throats of newspaper owners the very doctrine which they rail against as applied to the community at large.

This general proposition to let second-class postage rates alone for the time being, but to boost them later, is, it need scarcely be emphasized, one of the most insidious that has been attempted to put over on the newspaper industry. The whole tendency of such putting off of the evil day is to lull the publishers and induce them to consent, by default or otherwise, to an increase at some time in the future—an increase that may appear remote and indefinite at present but that will develop into an unpleasant reality all too soon.

Strategy of this character has been

EVERY EVENING

Delaware's LEADING Newspaper

CARRIED 22,787 LINES

more automobile advertising the first four months of the year than its next competitor.

EVERY EVENING

ALWAYS LEADS IN WILMINGTON

DELAWARE

The wealthiest city per capita in America.

BRYANT, GRIFFITH & FREDRICKS
New York Boston Chicago

BRIDGEPORT

CONNECTICUT
(The Eden of America)
The Property Center of the United States and the Industrial Center of New England.

THE Post & Telegram

(Evening) (Morning)
Cover This Field Absolutely.
Members of the A. B. C.
JULIUS MATHEWS, Representative
1 Beacon Street, BOSTON
171 Madison Avenue, NEW YORK
Hartford Building, CHICAGO

Joliet, Ill. (The PITTSBURGH) of the West

Surrounded by the most fertile agricultural section in the Illinois corn belt. Covered by but one daily newspaper.

The Herald-News

ALCORN-HENKEL, Representative
New York Chicago

persistently urged upon Congress ever since it took up the proposal to make the newspapers help pay for the war by increasing postage charges. Indeed, readers need not be reminded that the Revenue Bill, as it passed the House, incorporated a zone system of second-class rates that was to remain in force for only four months, when the rates would be arbitrarily "marked up," with the sequel that four months later prices would be again boosted in accordance with the prearranged schedule.

When it became apparent that the Senate was not likely to accept the House formula the interests that are bent upon increasing the burdens of the publishers by successive additions—each supposedly too small in itself to provoke opposition—gave their proposal a new dress. The scheme of Senator Hardwick and other similar proposals would go farther than the House plan in that the successive increases would extend not over one year, but over three or four years.

There would be one increase on July 1, 1918, another on July 1, 1919, a third on July 1, 1920, etc.

From the standpoint of the men who engineer it, this is a clever move to out-manuever the newspaper publishers. First of all, by proposing no increase until a year hence it purports to take care of the objections of Senator Weeks and others that while an increase in newspaper rates may be justified at some date in the future this is no time to pile fresh burdens upon the shoulders of publishers already bowed under the weight of excessive news-print prices.

Secondly, the scheme for advances by easy stages is supposed to answer the objections of the Congressmen who have protested that it is unjust to suddenly advance rates on newspapers that are piled up with long-time advertising and subscription contracts.

Has it escaped these strategists, though, that in thus consenting to postpone until the summer of 1920 or until the summer of 1921 the levying of the full toll that they desire to take from newspapers they have, by their own confession, as it

THE DETROIT JOURNAL

with over 100,000 net paid
Circulation daily is indispensable in covering Detroit and surrounding territory.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.,
New York Chicago Boston Detroit

Newark Star-Eagle

NEW JERSEY'S
LARGEST PENNY PAPER

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.,
New York Chicago Boston Detroit

were, given proof that this postage increase is not a "war measure?"

Publishers have all along protested that war need was merely being employed as a ruse by Post Office Department officials, One-Cent Letter Postage Association promoters and others who have long desired to secure an increase in second-class rates, whatever the means to the end. There has been indignant refutation in some quarters. The second-class increase was needed, so it was represented, for the contribution it would make to the war chest.

Even Senator Simmons, chairman of the Senate finance committee, said in his address in the Senate that the committee did not see how it could let the newspaper publishers off in view of the fact that everybody else would have to do his bit by paying higher letter postage.

Now, to the confusion of all such representations, comes the confession that the interests that are after the newspapers are willing to wait, for the realization of their dreams, until until 1921, by which date the war will doubtless be over. At the same time the Senate has by a decisive vote come out against that increase in first-class postage which was supposed to render compulsory a proportionate advance of the second-class rate.

The happenings of the past week in the Senate have further emphasized to publishers that they must be ever ready, until the final curtain is rung down on war revenue legislation, to combat a hostile spirit that stands ready to make any compromise so long as that compromise will take something from the tills of the publishers. In other words, the champions of additional newspaper taxation are disclosed as versatile bluffers who will accept little if they cannot get much.

This policy has been clearly disclosed in the various proposed revisions of the zone system that have been trotted forth in an effort to "buy off" this or that section of the newspaper and periodical press. For example, there is the proposal from the Post Office Department to let the old rates stand on reading matter but to work, by gradual steps, up to a rate of 8 cents per pound on adver-

The Plain Dealer

First Newspaper of Cleveland, Sixth City
prints a far greater total of paid advertising and paid advertisements than any other newspaper in

CLEVELAND

Over 150,000 Daily. || Over 200,000 Sunday.

JOHN B. WOODWARD, Eastern Advertising Representative, Times Bldg., N. Y.
JOHN GLASS, Western Advertising Representative, Peoples Gas Bldg., Chicago.

BALTIMORE CITY OF HOMES

and noted for its great industries and thrifty working classes, affords National Advertisers one of the best fields. Use the

AMERICAN and STAR

Morning—Sunday Evening
Baltimore's greatest newspapers, to thoroughly cover city and state. Member A.B.C.
C. GEORGE KROGNES, CHICAGO.
VERREE & CONKLIN, Inc., New York

tising sections—a scheme that is generally interpreted as a sop to religious, labor, fraternal and other publications that carry no advertising and as hint to all publishers that under this arrangement they would, as though by Uncle Sam's orders, pass the entire increase on to advertisers.

Another move of the past week likewise calculated to break the newspaper alliance was the introduction in the Senate of that substitute for the postal section that would continue the present second-class rate within a radius of 300 miles of the place of publication or mailing, but would increase the rate by zones outside the 300-mile limit.

Here is an overture plainly designed to persuade the small publishers to conclude a separate peace on the promise that their circulations, confined presumably to the 300-mile radius, will be taken care of while they will at the same time be relieved from some competitive pressure on the part of publishers of metropolitan dailies, etc., by reason of the added expense under which such publishers would operate.

Publishers cannot, of course, take the Senatorial disposition of the second-class postage amendment as closing the incident. The House has incorporated a definite "mark 'em up" program in its bill as approved and it is intimated that the House conferees may not this time be as obliging as usual about "receding" from the position taken. W. F.

Washington Newspapers

Sworn statements of the newspapers at the National Capitol to the Post Office Department for the six months ending March 31, 1917:

Evening Star	83,194
Evening Times	35,569
Washington Post	34,293
Washington Herald	30,454

Since this statement the circulation of the Star, Times and Post has materially increased.

The special features of
THE
BUFFALO TIMES

Have made it the most popular newspaper in
Western New York

NORMAN E. MACK, Proprietor.
VERRE & CONKLIN, Inc.
Special Advertising Representatives,
NEW YORK, DETROIT, CHICAGO

Schenectady POPULATION
EVENING 100,000
EXCEPT Union Star
SUNDAY.
AUDITED CIRCULATION 20,643
Home circulation reaching best path scientific, technical and skilled mechanics
in America.
LA COSTE & MAXWELL
Special Representatives
NEW YORK CHICAGO

JUDGE GOODWIN DIES.

Judge C. C. Goodwin, editor and author and for twenty-one years editor of the Salt Lake City Tribune, died in Salt Lake City on August 25. Judge Goodwin was a member of a brilliant coterie of writers which sprang up in California and Nevada during the '60s and '70s. Though he was best known as a journalist, his vocations included those of school-teacher, merchant, miner, lawyer, furist, politician, and orator.

During the California gold rush, at the age of twenty, he journeyed to the new field and, settling in Marysville, became a lumber merchant. He lost his fortune by fire, so turned miner and took up the study of law. He edited the Territorial Enterprise, which became a noted mining paper.

With the decline of the Comstock Lode at Virginia City he moved to Salt Lake City where he served as editor of the Tribune and Telegram, and later Goodwin's Weekly, a paper established by J. T. Goodwin, his son. He was the author of "The Comstock Club," "The Wedge of Gold," "The Divine Light," and several other widely read books.

Judge Goodwin was born near Rochester, N. Y., April 4, 1832.

OTHER OBITUARY NOTES.

CHARLES ALFRED LEWIS, connected with the New York Morning Telegraph, died on August 28 in New York. He was for many years a member of the New York chapter

If this territory presents a sales problem to you, the Merchandising Service
Department.

of the Boston American will, upon request, make a trade investigation covering various sections of Metropolitan Boston and submit a report which will help you solve that problem. Ask how this department works.

BOSTON AMERICAN

W. D. BOYCE CO.
500-514 North Dearborn St., CHICAGO
205 Metropolitan Tower, NEW YORK
PUBLISHER

THE INDIANA DAILY TIMES

INDIANAPOLIS
THE FARMING BUSINESS
High-class farm weekly, magazine form.
BOYCE'S WEEKLIES
The Saturday Blade, Chicago Ledger.
THE LONE SCOUT

"BOYCE'S" IS A SYNONYM for SUCCESSFUL ADVERTISING

Peoria TRANSCRIPT
Only morning newspaper in Peoria.
Peoria JOURNAL

Only evening paper in Peoria with Associated Press facilities. Leads in circulation and advertising. Member A.B.C. SUNDAY JOURNAL-TRANSCRIPT.
Combination Advertising Rate
HENRY M. PINDELL, Proprietor.
CHAS. H. EDDY CO., Representatives.
NEW YORK BOSTON CHICAGO

of the Baseball Writers of America and was a nephew of Irving J. Lewis, managing editor of the Morning Telegraph. His brother, Samuel Lewis, is state printer of Colorado.

Among the more prominent newspaper men present at the funeral were William E. Lewis, owner of the Telegraph; Irving J. Lewis, managing editor; W. J. MacBeth and Weed Dickinson, of the Baseball Writers; Bide Dudley, of the World; Edward Staats Luther, Thomas Hanley, Walter Juan Davis, Henry Parker, Seymour Pierson and Jack Starkey. Every department of the Telegraph was represented.

WILLIAM LETHAM McALPIN, for 20 years the Paris correspondent of the London Daily Mail and later representing the London Daily Mirror, is dead at his home in Paris in his fiftieth year.

Mr. McAlpin was born in Glasgow and after graduating from college in that city he started his newspaper career in London and afterward went to Paris, where he worked until his death, from heart disease, brought on by his exertions since the beginning of the war.

JOHN W. CORBETT, one of the founders of the Wellington (Kan.) Daily Mail and for many years city editor of the Winfield Courier, died recently at Mountain Air, N. M.

FRANK BURNHAM BAGLEY, former newspaper man, writer of short stories and motion picture scenarios, died in East Orange, N. J., on August 25, aged forty-three years.

ARNOLD C. BUTTERS, managing editor of Machinery, a publication issued by the Industrial Press Corporation, died in New York on August 25. He was fifty-two years old and had been affiliated with trade journals for many years.

MRS. THERESA R. ARNOLD, editor of Missionary Tidings, a publication of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Free Methodist Church, died last week in Chicago.

A. B. CAMPBELL, editor of the Tolona (Ill.) Herald, died August 21 after a brief illness at his home in Tolona. In addition to his editorial

The BEST Advertising BUY in CLEVELAND
THE NEWS
Quality Evening Newspaper
With Quantity Circulation

THE LEADER
Sunday

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.,
350 Fifth Ave. NEW YORK
Mallory Building, CHICAGO
301 Devonshire St., BOSTON
Kresge Building, DETROIT

THE NEW ORLEANS
ITEM

Largest Afternoon Circulation in the
entire South.
(April A.B.C. Not Paid Statement)
Sunday 68,875 Daily 55,041
THE JOHN BUDD COMPANY
NEW YORK CHICAGO ST. LOUIS

duties, he was also cashier of the Citizens' Bank at Tolona. He was forty-five years old.

GUS H. BEAULIEU, editor of the White Earth (Minn.) Tomahawk, is dead.

WILLIAM E. WOERTENDYKE, for the past fourteen years business manager of the Newburg (N. Y.) Daily News, and for more than twenty years connected with that newspaper, died suddenly last week of acute indigestion. He was forty-three years old.

Mr. Woertendyke had been with the News since his twenty-sixth year, with the exception of a short time in New York, and rose from a clerical position.

EDGAR F. FASSETT, until two years ago editor of the Arlington (Neb.) Review-Herald, died recently in Colorado Springs, Colo.

JOHN WEERTZ, secretary of the Record Publishing Company, publisher of the St. Louis Record, was accidentally killed recently.

GUSTAVUS F. KIMBALL, former editor of the Belleville (Ill.) Advocate and recently proprietor of the Kimball Printing office, Topeka, Kan., died in Topeka last week, aged eighty-one years.

C. E. LYDDANE, veteran newspaper man, died at Winchester, Ky., recently after 15 years' illness.

BYRNE IN NEW YORK FOR THE BROOKLYN TIMES.

The Brooklyn Times has appointed Frank Byrne as its representative in the New York advertising field, with offices in the World Building. He succeeds Martin Ready, who recently resigned. Mr. Byrne was formerly assistant advertising manager of the Brooklyn Citizen and has been in the advertising business for about eleven years.

NEW HUBBARD PAPER.

The Roycroft is a brand new publication issued from East Aurora, Ill. It takes the place of the Fra, although it greatly resembles the Philistine. Elbert Hubbard, II, is editor-in-chief, with Felix Shay as editor.

THE PITTSBURGH DISPATCH

reduces to the minimum all chance in advertising expenditures.

H. C. Reeb, Real Est. Trust Bdg., Phila.
W. C. Brooker, 385 Fifth Ave., New York
Ford-Perrine Co., Michigan Ave., Chicago
W. E. Edge, Atlantic City, N. J.
Derland Co., 19 Regent St., London, Eng.

The City of Richmond 15,309 qualified
VIRGINIA, has voters

THE TIMES-DISPATCH
RICHMOND.

is delivered 12,000 of the city's
daily into best homes.
In all VIRGINIA it's the same.
STORY, BROOKS & FINLEY, Inc.
New York Philadelphia Chicago

SHIFTS IN INDIANAPOLIS.

Hillard D. Garrison, night editor for the Associated Press in the Indianapolis office, has resigned to succeed William McClure, who entered the second training camp for reserve officers at Fort Benjamin Harrison, as assistant city editor of the Indianapolis Star.

Mr. Garrison's place has been filled temporarily by A. M. Easterling, formerly of the Omaha and Lincoln (Neb.) offices of the Associated Press. Mr. Easterling, as soon as he can be relieved, will go to Chicago to take the examination for the aviation corps.

NEWS IS BETTER THAN LAW.

Miss Jessie E. Magley, for many years court news reporter and special writer on the Decatur (Ind.) Democrat, has recently been admitted to the bar. Miss Magley intends to keep right on with her newspaper work and was admitted to the bar merely for the purpose of having legal permission to wind up her mother's estate.

"My first case and probably my last," says Miss Magley, "will be the settlement of my mother's modest estate, instead of paying a large fee to attorneys."

M. Meyers has sold his interests in the Columbus (N. D.) Reporter to Van W. Fiegel.

The Circulation of the NEW YORK EVENING MAIL

represents a greater purchasing power per unit of circulation than is found in any other New York Evening Paper.

A Powerful List is the MILWAUKEE GERMANIA LIST

CIRCULATION
 Germania Herald36,989
 Only German Morning daily in Milwaukee
 Sonntag Post37,000
 Only German Sunday daily in Milwaukee
 Weekly Germania107,413
 (German Farm Journal) Weekly, 103,353
 Die Rundschau, Weekly....25,008
 Eastern Representative
 LOUIS KLEBAHN
 1 West 84th Street NEW YORK
 Telephone 215 Greeley

A National American Daily and Sunday printed in the Polish language reaching over 150,000 readers.

A Splendid Advertising Medium
 Phone Stuyvesant 2004
 90 East 10th St. NEW YORK

SENATE VOTES FOR 2D CLASS ZONES.

(Continued from Second Page.)
 be made so small that it will not perceptibly affect his circulation.

"In the case of the daily newspapers, however, the increase of governmental revenues would be small under the proposed plan, while the publishers would inevitably be subjected to losses.

"Very few newspapers circulate extensively beyond the 300-mile zone. For the few copies, comparatively speaking, that go to distant points, the price of the newspaper cannot well be raised to meet the increase of rate.

"A newspaper sells at retail for 1 to 3 cents. Some of the more prosperous journals, to be sure, circulate far beyond the city of publication, but in diminishing numbers of copies as the distance increases.

"If the rates are raised according to Mr. McKellar's plan, the daily newspapers would have to raise their prices for the mail circulation from 50 to 100 per cent. This is out of the question, and in most cases the proposed increase of second-class postage on newspapers mailed to distant points would give no revenue at all to the country, and the distribution to those points would discontinue.

"This is clearly not the idea of Senator McKellar, to cut off any source of revenue. As a matter of fact, the daily newspapers should not be classed under the law with the weekly and monthly publications sell-reaches the GERMAN reading and speaking population of St. Louis as no other medium can.

THE ST. LOUIS WESTLICHE POST

THE ONLY POLISH DAILY IN NEW ENGLAND

Kurier Bostonski

27 Beverly st., BOSTON, MASS reaches 600,000 Poles in New England. They want to buy your goods

Use Kurier Bostonski.

ing for comparatively high prices.

"The daily newspapers are cheap and should be within the reach of all. They represent public opinion.

"Any restriction of their circulation will be a public deprivation.

"The opinions of certain papers are so eagerly looked for in all parts of the country that they are often telegraphed to distant points when a matter of great public importance is under consideration.

"The amendment affecting second-class matter should be further amended to separate the daily newspapers from other publications.

"They constitute a very small proportion of the bulk of mail matter beyond the 300-mile limit, the revenue gained by the increased cost of postage would be inconsiderable, and the Senate would serve its purpose better by fixing a fair rate which would not tend to diminish circulation."

SENATE TO VOTE SEPTEMBER 10.

The Senate by unanimous consent has agreed to take up the measure on Monday, September 10, for the third vote. This agreement was reached after Senator Simmons, chairman of the finance committee, yielding to the insistence of leaders on both sides, had consented to withdraw a motion for closure.

Under the agreement reached the Senate at 5 o'clock on September 5 will proceed to vote on the amendments beating on excess war profits. In the meantime debate on these amendments will go on. A vote on the income tax amendments will be taken on September 7. After that the Senate will devote itself to consideration of the remaining features of the bill.

WAITING ON HEARST.

New York politicians of all kinds, Fusion and anti-Fusion, Tammany and anti-Tammany, Socialist and pacifist, are all waiting to see whether William R. Hearst will or whether Mr. Hearst won't be a mayoralty candidate at the coming primaries. By law his withdrawal must come not later than today, if at all.

E. E. Van Deusen, circulation manager of the Schenectady (N. Y.) Gazette, goes on his vacation next week.

MONTREAL LA PRESSE

is CANADA'S largest and wealthiest city—sixth in America in population; fourth largest French city in the world—and a wonderfully fine market for all kinds of advertised goods.

is Canada's largest circulating daily—over 140,000 and still growing—and it thoroughly covers Montreal's population which is over 700,000, and of which 70 per cent is French Canadian element. Get particular

NEW J. MORTON CO., Special Reps
 NEW YORK, Fifth Ave. Building.
 CHICAGO, Tribune Building.
 LONDON, ENG., 10 St. James Avenue
 Southampton Row.
 PARIS, 6 rue du Rocher

THE JEWISH MORNING JOURNAL NEW YORK CITY

carries more advertising than any other Jewish newspaper. Circulation in New York City largest of all foreign language newspapers.

Member A. B. C.

SIMONE AGENCY'S TROUBLES.

A creditors' petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Charles Simone, doing business as the Charles Simone Advertising Agency, Curry Building, Pittsburg, Elliott Frederick, Chamber of Commerce Building, Pittsburg, has been appointed receiver.

Mr. Simone, however, hopes to be able to continue business under an agreement with his creditors to pay the indebtedness in full from notes at one, two and three years.

The statement is made in Mr. Simone's behalf that his difficulties were caused through unfortunate investments, including $3,500 in cash in stock of the Mollinger Medicine Company, $2,500 in the International Seed Company and $1,400 in the Phonograph Sales Company.

Mr. Simone claims that these investments have inured to the benefit of the newspapers because the companies mentioned were large and extensive advertisers and are still continuing their advertisements.

It is proposed to organize a corporation of which Mr. Simone will be general manager, giving his entire time and attention thereto in an effort to earn sufficient money to pay all obligations in full.

Under the Pennsylvania law, the landlord would be entitled to one year's rent of the office in the Union Arcade, $1,300, as a priority claim and this, with the expenses of the bankruptcy, would practically cover all the assets, leaving nothing for the general creditors.

The receiver has not yet issued a statement of assets and liabilities. The attorney for Charles Simone is Harry N. Stein, 301 Curry Building, Pittsburg.

LIEUT. HOLMES ON VISIT.

George R. Holmes, formerly in the New York and Washington offices of the International News Service and now second lieutenant in the United States cavalry, was in New York this week on a few days' leave. He has returned to his regiment "somewhere in America" and hopes to report soon for "somewhere in France."

The Hewitt (Minn.) Banner has suspended publication.

NEW YORK THE DAY

America's Greatest Jewish Community

America's Foremost Jewish Daily.

Reaches the cream of purchasing power of the Jewish element in America. CIRCULATION OVER 70,000 Despite advance in price from one to two cents.

THE DAY The National Jewish Daily.

Member A. B. C.

Main Publication Office: 159 East Broadway, NEW YORK

NARODNI List

Established 1898.

An American newspaper published every day in the year in the Croatian Language

Sworn Circulation as required by law, OCTOBER, 1, 1916...25,066 Ideal Newspaper for National Advertisers

Phone 2930 Beekman 61 Park Row, NEW YORK

PAPERS WORK TOGETHER ON BIG "DOLLAR DAY."

A decidedly successful "Dollar Day" was held in Schenectady, N. Y., on August 23 with the Schenectady Union-Star and the Schenectady Gazette cooperating in its direction. These papers always work together on "Dollar Days" and the results are all that can be asked for.

"Some live town," is the way a traveling man gave his impression of Schenectady as he came out of one of the big hotels and saw the throngs of shoppers clamoring for admission into the Dollar Day stores.

Long before opening hours they came about, by automobile and trolleys, and when the doors were opened the crowds extended beyond the curbs.

A department store head said it was by far the biggest "Dollar Day" crowd they had ever had, and added, "There are many more out-of-town shoppers than usual."

Another big store said the crowds were fully equal to that heretofore experienced, but that from casual observation he thought they were mostly local shoppers.

Altogether the 1917 August "Dollar Day" in Schenectady will be long remembered.

Considering the steadily rising cost of merchandise and the difficulty of securing goods that could be sold for a dollar, the values offered by the Schenectady merchants gave convincing evidence of Schenectady's ability to "make good."

THE TERRE HAUTE TRIBUNE

The big home evening paper of its section of Indiana.

In Charge of Foreign Advertising G. LOGAN PAYNE COMPANY New York Chicago Boston Detroit

BROOKLYN DAILY TIMES

In 1916 Carried

(Publishing 6 days a week, no Sundays)

3,230,368 ^{Agate Lines of} Advertising

An increase over 1915 of

151,417 lines

Brooklyn's FASTEST GROWING NEWSPAPER

The Rotogravure Section

Space for Fall Advertising Going Fast

The soft tints, the delicate shadings, the lifelike brilliance of detail, which distinguish the genuine rotogravure printing, are found only in THE CHICAGO SUNDAY TRIBUNE'S ROTO- GRAVURE SECTION.

This section is printed in two separate colors, a delicate green and soft sepia brown, and reproduces with the accuracy and realism of a perfect photograph the portraits of famous men and women and striking scenes of world events gathered from every corner of the earth.

The finest advertising illustrations you can secure—whether photographs or the work of master artists—are transferred direct to a copper cylinder and reproduced in The Chicago Sunday Tribune's Rotogravure Section with a lifelike realism and fidelity to detail such as the roto- gravure process alone can give.

There are no halftones, no electros, no mats. Your illustrations are printed direct from the original etching on the copper cylinder.

These rotogravure pages are 9 $\frac{3}{4}$ inches wide by 15 $\frac{3}{4}$ inches deep, giving you liberal space for large and striking photographs or drawings and imposing type.

An automobile company recently wrote the following:

"We have always been partial to run of paper, black and white copy, but since our page in the Rotogravure Section of January 28th we now believe that the Tribune Rotogravure Section is one of the best advertising mediums for the motor car industry."

Space for Fall Advertising is going fast—better let our nearest office go into detail with you.

The Chicago Tribune

The World's Greatest Newspaper

(Trade Mark Registered)

Member Audit Bureau of Circulations

Eastern Advertising Office:
251 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK

Pacific Coast Advertising Office:
742 Market Street, SAN FRANCISCO

A NEWSPAPER FOR
THE MAKERS OF NEWSPAPERS
AND INVESTORS IN
ADVERTISING

Published Weekly at 888 West
88th Street (Near Broadway)

NEW YORK CITY

SATURDAY, SEPT. 8, 1917

THE FOURTH ESTATE

"EDMUND BURKE SAID
that there were Three Estates
in Parliament, but in the Reporter's Gallery yonder there
sat a 'Fourth Estate' more important far than they all."
—Carlyle's "Heroes and Hero Worship." Lecture V.

PRICE 10 CENTS.
TWO DOLLARS A YEAR

ESTABLISHED
1864

No. 1228

Announcement

On September first The Cleveland Plain Dealer purchased the news service, franchises, good will and subscription lists of the

CLEVELAND LEADER

(six day morning) which suspended publication with its issue of August 31st, effective with September 1st. The Plain Dealer guarantees its advertisers a net paid daily circulation exceeding 175,000 copies.

The Plain Dealer

FIRST NEWSPAPER OF CLEVELAND, SIXTH CITY

Western Advertising Representative:

JOHN GLASS

CHICAGO, Peoples Gas Building

Eastern Advertising Representative:

JOHN B. WOODWARD

Times Building, NEW YORK

NEWSPAPERS PAY OWN WAY IN SECOND CLASS

FEW DAILIES HAVE A CIRCULATION BEYOND 300-MILE RADIUS, WHICH ONE CENT MORE THAN PAYS FOR.

Newspapers are under no obligations "for favors received" if the two houses of Congress finally agree that publishers must be unjustly overburdened by paying increased second-class postage rates on the zone plan proposed by Senator McKellar.

Senators who talk of a "subsidy" being permissible in the case of knowledge-disseminating newspapers have nothing to apologize for, if they only know it.

The newspapers of America are paying roundly for all they receive and in many instances they are doing much more than that.

The feature of the new zone plan is that it continues the present rate of one cent per pound on newspaper mail destined for points within a radius of 300 miles of the place of publication.

Congressmen may have been told that, with a few notable exceptions, few newspapers have any circulation worth mentioning outside a territorial belt 600 miles wide, so they figure the amendment as framed takes care of nearly all newspaper interests.

As a matter of fact, however, postal statistics—the very figures submitted by the Post Office Department for the benefit of Congress in framing revenue legislation—go to show that under the McKellar plan there will be no newspapers (packaged or individually wrapped) put into the post at the minimum rate for any distance that will not pay all, or very nearly all, that the Post Office Department calculates it costs to handle and transmit.

To be specific, it is conceded by the authorities that in the case of newspapers to local addresses, including destinations on radiating R.F.D. routes, one cent per pound more than pays the cost. Likewise, in the first and second zones one cent will more than cover the expense.

It is only when the third zone is reached that the Post Office calculates that things are evenly balanced and then only in the case of the farther reaches of the third zone.

To be exact, 289 miles is set down as the dead line of the service within a cost of 1 cent.

This means that it is only the few newspapers that are sent a distance of more than 289 miles that go to pull in averages against the overwhelming number of newspapers sent distances of less than 289 miles at an actual expense on a descending scale from one cent per pound.

Moreover it must be borne in mind that all the above is predicated on the calculations of the Post Office Department, as to what it costs to handle second-class mail.

Therefore the cost of handling the comparatively small number of newspapers that is sent in second class beyond the 289-mile line is more than paid for by the vast quantity that is sent shorter distances than 289 miles, at less than cost.

So how can any part of the claimed $80,000,000 loss annually in second class mail be laid to the newspapers, as many Congressmen and post office officials try to do?

Obviously the right thing to do would be to draw a distinctive line of classification between the newspapers and other kinds of second class mail. The newspapers' case is well presented by the New York Times as follows (reprinted from THE FOURTH ESTATE last week):

THE LINE OF DEMARCATION.

"Obviously, the adoption of this (the McKellar) system as a means jeered to losses.

"Very few newspapers circulate extensively beyond the 300-mile zone. For the few copies, comparatively speaking, that go to distant points, the price of the newspaper cannot now be raised to meet the increase of rate.

"A newspaper sells at retail for 1 to 3 cents. Some of the more prosperous journals, to be sure, circulate far beyond the city of publication, but in diminishing numbers of of increasing the revenue will work no injustice in the case of the magazines which circulate in large numbers all over the country. The magazine publisher can save himself from loss by a slight increase in the selling price of his publication, and the increase can be made so small that it will not perceptibly affect his circulation.

"In the case of the daily newspapers, however, the increase of governmental revenues would be small under the proposed plan, while the publishers would inevitably be subcopied as the distance increases.

"If the rates are raised according to Mr. McKellar's plan, the daily newspapers would have to raise their prices for the mail circulation from 50 to 100 per cent. This is out of question, and in most cases the proposed increase of second-class postage on newspapers mailed to distant points would give no revenue at all to the country, and the distribution to those points would discontinue.

"This is clearly not the idea of Senator McKellar, to cut off any source of revenue. As a matter of fact, the daily newspapers should not be classed under the law with the weekly and monthly publications selling for comparatively high prices.

"The daily newspapers are cheap and should be within the reach of all. They represent public opinion.

"Any restriction of their circulation will be a public deprivation.

"The opinions of certain papers are so eagerly looked for in all parts of the country that they are often telegraphed to distant points when a matter of great public importance is under consideration.

"The amendment affecting second-class matter should be further amended to separate the daily newspapers from other publications.

"They constitute a very small proportion of the bulk of mail matter beyond the 300-mile limit, the revenue gained by the increased cost of postage would be inconsiderable, and the Senate would serve its purpose better by fixing a fair rate which would not tend to diminish circulation."

HOW ARE NEWSPAPERS FIGURED?

As readers of THE FOURTH ESTATE are aware, Don C. Seits, chairman of the American Newspaper Publishers Association's postal committee, and other eminent authorities who have made a study of this question have contended through a long term of years that the postal officials never have known what they were talking about when it came to figuring operating costs and that, actually, the figures adduced by the Post Office Department statisticians should be reduced by one-half or somewhere thereabouts. The A.N. P.A. stands against any second-class increase at all.

Then again, it must be borne in mind that the figure of one cent, which has been taken as the average cost of handling within the third zone limit, is, manifestly a cost allowance for all second-class mail.

Senator McKellar has said:

"At the present rate the magazines are paying their way up to about three hundred miles."

With respect to the newspapers, then, this figure makes absolutely no allowance for the contention so vigorously set forth at Washington during the present session, that it costs the Post Office Department less to handle and transfer newspaper mail than it does in the case of the greater proportion of periodical mail.

Of the newspaper publishers who have within the past few weeks expressed their views in letters and telegrams addressed to members of Congress, if any increase is to be made in second-class at all, a clear majority is in favor of the McKellar zone plan, as compared with the zone plan adopted by the House of Representatives or any other alternative system.

ADVERTISING PROPORTIONS.

The scheme fathered by the Post Office Department, and sponsored by Senator Hardwick, for continuing the present second-class rate on reading sections of publications, but drastically increasing the postage rate on advertising portions, has never found much favor with newspaper publishers and it has found even less since statistics prepared for Senator Hardwick by the Post Office Department show that by and large the proportion of advertising in daily newspapers is as heavy or heavier than in magazines.

For purposes of tabulation the space measurers selected given issues of representative newspapers for various dates during the month of May, 1917.

The computations indicate that newspaper advertising percentages, in proportion to total space, range from as low as 15 per cent to as high as nearly 70 per cent.

Even some country weeklies (special proteges of the average Congressman) carry more than 61 per cent advertising, or within a fraction of one per cent as much as some of the more liberally patronized metropolitan dailies, while there are any number of small weeklies that run 40 to 50 per cent advertising.

Incidentally it may be noted that the figurers chose the issue of May 12 of THE FOURTH ESTATE for the census of advertising in this quarter.

I. P. ASKS 3 CENTS FOR PAPER

ORDERED BY GOVERNMENT UNDER WAR ACT—2½ CENTS PROTESTED.

In accordance with President Wilson's war order the International Paper Company is supplying the Government with news print for the Official Bulletin at 2½ cents a pound, but under protest.

In a letter to the Secretary of War, Philip T. Dodge, president of the International Paper Company, declares that news print cannot be made and sold at a profit now at 2½ cents per pound and that he will take whatever steps he may to protect the interests of his company in the matter. He asks for an order permitting the I.P. Company to be paid 3 cents a pound for the paper in question.

The letter follows:

"This company is in receipt of your telegraphic order demanding the shipment of 400,000 pounds of news print paper to the Government Printing Office, at a price of 2½ cents per pound, under the authority of Section 120 of the act entitled 'An Act for Making Further and More Effectual Provision for the National Defense,' etc.

"As a matter of loyalty and patriotism, this paper will be furnished to meet the alleged needs of the Government.

"Section 120 of the National Defense Act provides that 'the compensation to be paid to any individual its products or materials * * * shall be fair and just.'

"The price named by you, 2½ cents per pound, is an arbitrary, unfair and unjust price and does not meet the requirement of the law.

"It is not a proper price and is not a price which will give this company a profit.

"I assume that your action in fixing this price is based on the finding of the Federal Trade Commission that 2½ cents per pound from March 1 to September 1, 1917, is a proper price for news print paper.

"The commission fixed that price only to September, 1917, and its ruling does not cover the period in which the paper is to be furnished under your order.

"As a matter of fact the 2½-cent price was fixed on an investigation of costs of manufacture of the first half of the preceding year, 1916. The conditions today are vastly different from those then in existence. The cost of materials, labor, transportation and other elements entering into the manufacture of paper has enor-

(Continued on Thirty-first Page.)

650,000 Men and Young Men, employed in all forms of labor and industry, will require

New Fall Clothing

in Philadelphia

The Third Largest Men's Clothing Market in the United States.

Dominate
Philadelphia!

Create maximum impression on both dealers and consumers at one cost by concentrating in the Dominant Newspaper, the

PHILADELPHIA
BULLETIN

The Bulletin is read by "nearly everybody" in and around Philadelphia—practically 100% of the entire potential market. Net paid average two-cent circulation for Aug. 1917

351,976 Copies
a Day

Largest Two-Cent Circulation in the East

WILLIAM L. McLEAN, Publisher

Dan A. Carroll, Tribune Building
NEW YORK

J. E. Verree, Steger Building
CHICAGO

THE CLEVELAND LEADER BROUGHT $750,000.

SALE INCLUDED ONLY SUBSCRIPTION LIST AND GOOD-WILL—PRICE A HIGH
TRIBUTE TO MANAGER W.P. LEECH.

William P. Leech, vice-president of the Cleveland Company, was in New York yesterday and, referring to the big Cleveland merger, said:

"I have pleasure in complimenting you on the story you printed in last week's issue of THE FOURTH ESTATE covering the transaction between the Cleveland Plain Dealer and ourselves in connection with the sale of the six-day Morning Leader.

"I regret that I am unable to say the same of a story I saw in another trade paper.

"The sale for three-quarters of a million in cash, which did not involve a nickel's worth of machinery or equipment, can hardly be characterized as a suspension, particularly in view of the obvious implication that the publication was not profitable.

"As you know, we control four paper mills, which have an average daily production of 220 tons, which may well be regarded as an important asset in these days for a daily newspaper.

"It would be interesting if you would print the value of the six-day Morning Leader placed upon it by the Plain Dealer people at the time I went to Cleveland, as compared with the amount just covered in the transaction, copy of which I hand you and which I believe is the first thing of the kind a trade paper has ever printed in its entirety. I further believe that it will be interesting to all publishers of daily newspapers."

"The full details of the sale are given in the following reproduction of the agreement between the sellers and purchasers of the Morning Leader:

THIS AGREEMENT, made this 30th day of August, 1917, by and between THE CLEVELAND COMPANY, its successors and assigns, D. R. Hanna, his heirs, representatives and assigns, and W. P. Leech, his heirs, representatives and assigns, as first parties; THE PLAIN DEALER PUBLISHING COMPANY, its successors and assigns, as second party; and THE CLEVELAND TRUST COMPANY, of Cleveland, Ohio, as trustee, third party.

WITNESSETH:

WHEREAS, the Cleveland Company is the owner and publisher of the six week-day morning Leader, and has decided to discontinue the publication of said newspaper upon the 1st day of September, 1917, and has offered for sale certain of the assets and privileges owned by it in connection with said newspaper;

NOW, THEREFORE, it is agreed between the parties hereto as follows, to wit:

I.

The Cleveland Company agrees to sell to the Plain Dealer Publishing Company, and the Plain Dealer Publishing Company agrees to buy from said the Cleveland Company, the following properties, privileges and good-will owned by said the Cleveland Company in connection with the publication of said six week-day morning Leader, to wit:

The subscription list of said six week-day morning Leader and the good-will pertaining to said six week-day morning Leader (this is exclusive of the Sunday edition of the Leader); also the Cleveland Company agrees to relinquish in favor of the Plain Dealer Publishing Company the six week-day morning Associated Press franchise; all for the sum of Seven Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars ($750,000), on the terms and conditions hereinafter stated.

The Plain Dealer Publishing Company shall, on the 1st day of September, 1917, at the office of the Cleveland Trust Company, pay to the Cleveland Company the sum of Five Hundred Thousand Dollars ($500,000) in cash; and said the Plain Dealer Publishing Company shall, on said date, deposit with the Cleveland Trust Company as trustee, third party herein, the sum of Two Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars ($250,000), the same to be paid by it to the Cleveland Company upon the first day of September, 1919, without interest, but upon a certificate signed by the Cleveland Company and the Plain Dealer Publishing Company that the conditions of Article V hereof have been complied with by the Cleveland Company, D. R. Hanna or his legal representatives, and W. P. Leech, or his legal representatives.

II.

The Cleveland Company shall assign to the Plain Dealer Publishing Company the seven-day wire of the International News Service, and also such morning features of the Feature Department of that organization as agreed upon between said companies. The Plain Dealer Publishing Company agreeing to pay for such wire and feature service the prices stipulated in the contract between the Cleveland Company and the International News Service dated May 15, 1916, and terminating November 29, 1919; this assignment, however, to be subject to the right of cancellation reserved in the contract referred to.

Such wire and feature service shall be paid for weekly by the Plain Dealer Publishing Company upon bills rendered to it by the Cleveland Company.

III.

The Cleveland Company shall deliver to the Plain Dealer Publishing Company an amount of print paper equal to sixty-six (66) tons per week, calculated from the date of the discontinuance by the Cleveland Company of the publication of the six week-day morning Leader, to and including the 31st day of December, 1917; the same being the six week-day Leader's proportion of the Cleveland Company's present paper contract; and the Plain Dealer Publishing Company shall pay the Cleveland Company therefor at the rate specified in said Cleveland Company's present paper contract, which is understood to be Two Dollars and Ninety-Five Cents ($2.95) per hundred pounds f. o. b. mills, and the Plain Dealer Publishing Company shall, in addition, pay all freight, cartage, delivery and storage charges on said paper.

The Cleveland Company shall endeavor to secure an option for the same amount of print paper per week for the year beginning January 1, 1918, and the Plain Dealer Publishing Company shall have the right to exercise said option if secured.

IV.

The Plain Dealer Publishing Company agrees to carry out all unexpired prepaid subscriptions to the six week-day morning Leader, by delivery of the Plain Dealer on said subscriptions and the Cleveland Company agrees to reimburse the Plain Dealer Publishing Company for such service pro rata on said unexpired subscriptions.

V.

The Cleveland Company, its successors and assigns, D. R. Hanna, and his legal representatives, and W. P. Leech or his legal representatives, individually and severally, agree, on the considerations above stated, not to engage in nor to become interested, directly or indirectly, in any morning newspaper printed in the English language in the city of Cleveland before September 1, 1922; and the Cleveland Company, its successors and assigns, D. R. Hanna, his heirs, representatives and assigns, and W. P. Leech, his heirs, representatives and assigns, agree, individually and severally, that they will not dispose of the Sunday Leader and the Cleveland News, or either of them, prior to September 1, 1922, without providing in the contract of sale that the purchaser or assignee shall not engage in nor be interested in the publication of a morning newspaper printed in the English language in the city of Cleveland, before September 1, 1922.

VI.

In the event the Cleveland Company, its successors or assigns, D. R. Hanna, or his legal representatives, and W. P. Leech, or his legal representatives, individually or severally, directly or indirectly, fail to observe the agreement not to publish a six-day (week-day) morning paper in the English language in the city of Cleveland prior to September 1, 1919, then and in that event the Cleveland Trust Company, trustee, shall retain said deferred payment of Two Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars ($250,000), and shall, after thirty (30) days' notice to the Cleveland Company, D. R. Hanna, or his legal representatives, and W. P. Leech, or his legal representatives, of its intention so to do, repay it to the Plain Dealer Publishing Company, which shall retain and keep said sum as agreed minimum damages for said breach; but said retention shall not operate to prevent the Plain Dealer Publishing Company from claiming greater damages.

The breach prior to payment of said Two Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars ($250,000) due September 1, 1919, of said agreement not to publish a six week-day morning English paper in the city of Cleveland by D. R. Hanna or his legal representatives, or W. P. Leech or his legal representatives, either or both, shall operate to relinquish any claim of the Cleveland Company to said Two Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars ($250,000), whether the said D. R. Hanna or his legal representatives or assigns, D. R. Hanna or his legal representatives, either or both, be at that time connected with the Cleveland Company, its successors or assigns, or not. The Plain Dealer Publishing Company retains at all times its right of damages against the Cleveland Company, its successors or assigns, D. R. Hanna or his legal representatives, and W. P. Leech or his legal representative, individually or severally.

VII.

The Cleveland Trust Company, trustee, agrees to receive from the Plain Dealer Publishing Company said sum of Two Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars ($250,000), deferred payment, and to keep same in trust and pay over the same under the terms of this agreement; and the Plain Dealer Publishing Company shall pay said trustee its reasonable charges for administering said trust.

The said Trust Company shall not be answerable under said trust for anything except willful misconduct or gross negligence.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties hereto have signed this instrument in triplicate as of the day and year first above written.

THE CLEVELAND COMPANY.

By W. P. LEECH, Vice-President.

J. J. LEWIS, Secretary.

D. R. HANNA.

W. P. LEECH.

THE PLAIN DEALER PUBLISHING COMPANY.

By ELBERT H. BAKER, President.

G. S. HOLDEN, Secretary.

THE CLEVELAND TRUST COMPANY.

By J. F. FREIBYER, Vice-President.

Cleveland, Ohio, September 1, 1917.

Received from the Cleveland Plain Dealer Publishing Company Two Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars ($250,000) to be held as provided in the foregoing instrument.

THE CLEVELAND TRUST COMPANY.

By F. H. GOFF, President.

J. F. FREIBYER, Vice-President.

The Cleveland News and the Sunday Leader continue to be represented in the national advertising field by Paul Block, Inc., New York, Boston, Chicago and Detroit.

NEWS WIRE ACROSS CANADA.

Starting with the morning papers of September 3, there became available to the newspaper readers of Canada, for the first time, a truly national news service, linking up in a news sense the remotest sections of the country, from Sydney to Victoria, and including every daily paper in the nine provinces, as well as those of Newfoundland and of the Yukon.

"CENSORSHIP" BY INDIVIDUALS.

ASSOCIATED PRESS REQUESTS COURTS TO RULE ON BISBEE INCIDENT.

Acting upon complaint of Melville E. Stone, general manager of the Associated Press, Attorney General Wiley E. Jones of Arizona has taken up the censorship exercised by officials of the Phelps-Dodge Corporation over the Western Union office at Bisbee at the time of the deportation of Industrial Workers of the World from that place on July 12.

The attorney general said that it will be decided at a conference between the United States attorney and himself whether procedure shall be taken in the Federal court for violation of interstate or in the state court for violation of state commerce.

DENIES ANTI-ALLY ACTS.

The Omaha Daily Tribune (printed in German) in an answer to a statement of the Nebraska State Council of Defense, emphatically denies any misrepresentation of America's allies.

The Nebraska Defense Council's statement declared public opinion must be brought to bear in suppressing foreign language newspapers until Congress could enact laws which would govern them.

In conclusion the Tribune declared:

"We call upon all citizens, including the members of the State Council of Defense, if they have any real love for their country, to lay aside personal animosities, to arise above all prejudice and narrow-mindedness, to put aside all differences of race or creed, and strive together as a united people in support of the American cause."

BATTLE CREEK BUSY.

Because of the sudden increase in the population of the town, owing to the location there of a military encampment, Battle Creek (Mich.) newspapers are finding some difficulty in handling the local news situation.

The three newspapers in the city have increased the size of their local staffs—although widespread advertising was necessary in order to find the men.

To help meet the emergency, Mrs. Harry J. Walker, wife of the city editor of the Morning Enquirer, has resumed newspaper work and will handle feature assignments for that paper.

RAN THE BLOCKADE.

William H. Burquest, associate editor of Domestic Engineering, Chicago, has just received a letter from John A. Hagerty, well known Western newspaper man, relating the latter's experiences in running a submarine blockade on a recent trip from Liverpool to New York. Hagerty was a passenger on the armed merchantman Mongolia, which had a lively brush with the U-boats on a recent voyage.

WITH SELLS-FLOTO CIRCUS.

F. W. Deck, who has had newspaper experience in Indiana and California cities, has become press agent of the Sells-Floto Circus, succeeding "Billy" Exton, who has entered military service.

Supreme in Their Field

THE Tacoma Daily News
(Evening, Associated Press)

THE Sunday News-Ledger
(Sunday, Associated Press)

THE Tacoma Daily Ledger
(Morning, Associated Press)
(The only morning paper in Tacoma)

Circulations Guaranteed

Effective October 1st, 1917, the following circulations are guaranteed advertisers:

The Tacoma Daily News, 25,000
The Sunday News-Ledger, 32,000
The Tacoma Daily Ledger, 18,000

Flat Rate is Instituted.

Effective Oct. 1, 1917, advertising will be accepted for the News and the Ledger at a flat rate of 5 cents per agate line for each newspaper. An additional charge of 10 per cent. is made for the Sunday News-Ledger. Agency commission will be 15 per cent. with 2 per cent. cash discount.

GUARANTEED CIRCULATION IS WHAT COUNTS.

The circulation figures given above are guaranteed.

The News and the Sunday News-Ledger lead all Tacoma newspapers in circulation and the best part of it is that the bulk of it is paid-in-advance.

(This announcement was published on the front page of the Tacoma Daily News of Aug. 31, 1917.)

The Daily News Leads Its Field

The Tacoma Daily News is supreme in its field.

The News has more carrier circulation in Tacoma than any other local newspaper.

The News has more street sales in Tacoma than any other local newspaper.

The News has more circulation within a radius of 50 miles than any other local newspaper.

The total circulation of the News is greater than that of any local newspaper.

The News has more paid-in-advance circulation than that of all other local newspapers combined.

Virtually the entire circulation of the News is within a radius of 50 miles of Tacoma.

The Sunday News-Ledger has approximately 10,000 more circulation than any other Tacoma Sunday newspaper.

UNLAWFUL USES OF RED CROSS.

MANY VIOLATIONS CAUSE A WARNING TO BE ISSUED BY SOCIETY.

Because of the growing misuse of the Red Cross emblem commercially the American Red Cross has just issued a new warning to those who may be violating the law regarding it.

While much of this misuse of the emblem is unintentional and through excessive zeal, the national Red Cross can no longer acquiesce in these violations, many of which have been and are of a serious nature.

Under the statute the Red Cross emblem can only be used by authority.

It cannot be used in the manufacture or sale of Red Cross buttons or pins except upon such authorization. Many novelty manufacturing houses and stores, taking advantage of the great increase of popular interest in the Red Cross, as well as the growth in membership to nearly 4,000,000, have put on sale large quantities of Red Cross pins, post cards, and devices.

An equally common abuse has been on the covers of patriotic songs and popular magazines.

It is the feeling of Red Cross officials that the Red Cross emblem should be regarded much as the flag is regarded.

Under the law and the Geneva international agreement the emblem is set apart for the work of relief and mercy.

It should not be used in any way to detract from that high office. Its use to stimulate the sale of magazines, songs, post cards, or other articles under the guise of patriotism, therefore, should not be regarded as proper.

Provisions of the law are as follows:

"It shall be unlawful for any person, corporation, or association other than the American National Red Cross and its duly authorized employees and agents and the Army and Navy sanitary and hospital authorities of the United States, for the purpose of trade or as an advertisement, to induce the sale of any article whatsoever or for any business or charitable purpose, to use within the territory of the United States and its exterior possessions the emblem of the Greek red cross on a white ground, or any sign or insignia made or colored in imitation thereof, or of the words 'Red Cross' or any combination of these words."

DAKOTA MANAGER RESIGNS.

Lewis H. Harrison, for the last five years manager of the Bismarck (N. D.) Tribune, has resigned and has gone to Detroit Lake, to join Mrs. Harrison, who is residing there.

Mr. Harrison will take a much needed rest before taking up any new business proposition. The Harrisons will spend some time in Minneapolis, Mr. Harrison's old home city.

NEW OFFICIAL PAPER.

The Roslyn (N. Y.) News has been designated as the Republican official county newspaper of Nassau County. William McCarthy, its editor, owns several Long Island newspapers.

VERREE & CONKLIN, Inc.

Sole Eastern Agents

NEW YORK
225 Fifth Ave.

CHICAGO
28 E. Jackson Boulevard

DETROIT
11 Lafayette Boulevard

PITTSBURG POST IS SEVENTY-FIVE.

HAS BEEN PUBLISHED UNDER PRESENT TITLE SINCE SEPTEMBER 10, 1842.

The Pittsburgh Post will celebrate on September 10 the 75th anniversary of its existence under its present title. The issue of the Post of that day will be augmented by articles appropriate to the occasion and showing the growth and present prosperity of Pittsburgh in all activities.

An interesting feature of the number will be a reproduction of the first issue, four pages, of the Post of September 10, 1842.

While the Post has been published under its present title for seventy-five years, it traces its ancestry through a direct line of predecessors under other titles, back to 1804, thus making it one of the oldest newspapers in the United States.

The history of the Pittsburgh Post is that of the development of the Pittsburgh district in seventy-five of most progressive years known.

Its pages have shown faithfully the growth of Pittsburgh from a population of less than 30,000 to a metropolitan center of more than a million, the state from 1,800,000 to 8,000,000, and the country from about 18,000,000 to more than 100,000,000.

In the record of its own facilities it has shown the marvelous development of the printing press from the one that turned out 125 small papers an hour to the perfecting press that produces 24,000 of the large modern papers an hour, and the advances from hand composition to the Linotype machine. The press room facilities of the Post today could turn out 192,000 such papers as the original Post in an hour.

Here are some events and incidents in the life of the Post:

On March 20, 1904, the Post issued a "Jubilee Number," with this announcement:

"It commemorates the establishment of Democratic journalism in western Pennsylvania. The Commonwealth, issued in 1804, made its advent with the first administration of Thomas Jefferson as President of the United States, as a living and potential fact. The Pittsburgh Post is its legitimate and continuous successor as a Democratic newspaper."

Here are the progenitors of the Post:

The Commonwealth, founded in 1804 by Ephraim Pentland.

The Mercury. A newspaper of this name seems to have been started in 1811 by James C. Gilleland, but the earliest files of the Mercury in the Pittsburgh Carnegie Library, of the famous weekly which had a continuous run for years, shows Volume 1, Number 1 as of July 9, 1812, and with John M. Snowden as the publisher.

The Allegheny Democrat, started in 1824 by John McFarland.

The American Manufacturer, founded in 1830 by William B. Conway.

The Daily Pittsburger, launched in 1839 by William Jack and John W. Shugert.

Publication of the Commonwealth ceased April 25, 1818, its plant being devoted to the issuing of the Statesman, but with its Democratic patronage passing largely to the Mercury.

The Allegheny Democrat, from the office of which the Pittsburger was issued, seems to have passed into the Pittsburger in 1839.

A. E. BRAUN,

VICE-PRESIDENT AND GENERAL MANAGER OF THE PITTSBURG POST.

John W. Shugert soon was succeeded in the firm publishing the latter paper by William McIlroy. Early in 1841 William H. Smith, into whose hands the Mercury had passed, purchased the Pittsburger from Jack & McIlroy and revived the name of the Allegheny Democrat in the consolidation of the plant of the Pittsburger with that of his paper, under the title of the Pittsburgh Mercury and Allegheny Democrat.

Soon the name was changed to the Pittsburgh Mercury and Democrat. At this time the American Manufacturer was owned by Thomas Phillips. The Pittsburgh Mercury and Democrat and the American Manufacturer were consolidated as the Mercury and Manufacturer about the first of September, 1842, with the announcement that the chief purpose of the combination of their plants was to issue the Daily Morning Post.

To William H. Smith, editor of the Pittsburgh Mercury and Democrat and the father of Edwin Z. Smith, a member of the county board of viewers, belongs the credit for the idea that led to the founding of the new daily.

STARTED WITH $44.

In a personal record he kept this is found among the entries for 1842: "I had resolved to start a daily paper on my own account. I told Phillips and asked him to join me. He agreed at once, and on the 10th of September, 1842, the Post appeared. It was successful from the jump. We had our type and presses, to be sure, but only $44 cash capital was required, namely, to help pay the first week's wages."

In the '30's and early '40's newspapers were constantly springing up to represent factions or individuals in addition to the so-called "regular party organs." But while they called themselves newspapers, most of them gave little attention to news; their chief concern was factional politics. Some of the journals bore grotesque names, showing that they had been started only for temporary purposes and others were published by secret committees.

In 1839, although the population of Pittsburgh was placed at about 18, 000, there were 4 dailies, 11 weeklies and 10 other periodicals in the town.

In 1838 an attempt had been made to launch a Democratic daily, but without success.

When the Post was started it enumerated 6 dailies in existence in Pittsburgh and reported that it heard of another about to be started to represent Clay.

Pittsburgh with national and many local disputes to stir it, was one of the hottest political beds of the country when the Post was launched.

The first number of the Post had four pages 20 by 15, and with six columns to the page. It was printed

J. E. TROWER,

Advertising Manager, Pittsburgh Post. on Washington hand presses, each with a capacity of about 125 papers an hour, the first edition numbering 2,000. The regular issue for some time was in the neighborhood of 500, the price being 2 cents a copy or a yearly subscription rate of $5. While there were advertisements on the first page, as was the fashion of the time, care was taken to leave room for some anecdotes of Andrew Jackson, the news being found principally on the inside pages.

RECORD OF OWNERS.

During the first 13 years of the Post it passed through several changes in management, but with each new manager announcing his determination to maintain the principles of Jefferson and a high standard in the treatment of news.

In July, 1845, the paper was sold to John Bigler, Robert Sargent and Washington Bigler, Mr. Smith entering the banking and insurance business and Mr. Phillips going into the newspaper business in Illinois.

The new owners did not keep the Post long. John Bigler went to California and eventually was elected governor of that state on the Democratic ticket, serving from 1852 until 1856.

"Lucky" Harper acquired control of the Post in 1846, remaining in charge until July, 1853, but with John Layton associated with him from (Continued on Twenty-seventh Page.)

A "BONE DRY" AD RULING.

"DRY" PLACE PAPERS CAN RUN
"ANTI-DRY" CAMPAIGN ADS
SAYS P. O. LAWYER.

L. H. Gibson, campaign manager of the Ohio "wets," has given out a statement quoting from rulings showing that newspapers do not violate the Federal "bone dry" law by publishing advertisements against the proposed prohibition amendment.

J. J. Southerland, acting solicitor of the Post Office Department, Washington, is quoted as follows:

"Advertisements or circulars containing arguments with reference to the merits and demerits of prohibition are not affected by the act of March 3, 1917.

"However, of course, it should be understood that should political advertisements of this character contain expressions which could be construed as advertisements or solicitations of orders for particular kinds of intoxicating liquors, the department would be compelled to regard them as unlawful."

Attorney General McGhee is quoted as ruling that voters of Ohio have the right to hear both sides of a proposed constitutional amendment.

PHILADELPHIA BULLETIN'S MUSIC PLEASES TROOPS.

An outburst of song has followed the distribution among soldiers encamped in New Jersey of "patriotic pamphlets," containing American songs and sentiments, by the Philadelphia Bulletin. Community singing among the thousands of soldiers is now engaging the attention of the various brigade and division commanders as a means of keeping their men busy and his Satanic Majesty correspondingly idle.

The Bulletin accordingly took advantage of the situation to compile a small book containing all of the songs that soldiers like to sing, interspersed with stirring quotations from President Wilson's various addresses on the war and from the words of the strong men of other American wars.

In addition, there are also relatively complete statistics of the warring countries, showing the estimated total of men under arms and the estimated strength of the various navies.

NEW GERMAN PRESS BUREAU.

Hereafter every government department in Germany is to have its own press bureau. The North German Gazette of Berlin, the semi-official organ, in discussing the plan, says the object is to establish close collaboration on a larger scale between the government and the newspapers.

The press, however, says the semi-official organ, "notwithstanding the new scheme for its enlightenment, is to maintain its right of free judgment, which will be far greater in the new Germany—the Germany of world politics and internal reconstruction."

AT CAMP SHERMAN.

James E. Grube is now at Camp Sherman, near Chillicothe, Ohio, where he is associated with Frank B. Wilson, formerly of the Columbus (Ohio) Monitor, in getting out a "Camp Sherman" edition of the Chillicothe Scioto Gazette. He was formerly city editor of the Middletown (Ohio) Journal.

One Magazine On Your Linotype Is Worth Three on the Wall

In a middle-west composing room, operating thirty single-magazine Linotypes, five hours of one man's time were consumed each day in making magazine changes.

Such unproductive time has been converted into productive time by the following prominent newspapers which retired their earlier models for time and labor-saving

Multiple Magazine Linotypes

Lynn Item
Portland Oregonian
Shreveport Times
Brooklyn Eagle
Charlotte News and Observer
New York Evening Mail
Philadelphia Ledger
Chicago Tribune
Detroit News
Omaha Bee

Cleveland Press
San Antonio Light
Philadelphia Record
Charleston Mail
Buffalo Times
Seattle Times
Birmingham News
Brooklyn Home Talk
Chicago American
Detroit Free Press

and scores of others of equal prominence.

The trend of the trade is determined by the leaders who compose it. Their collective satisfaction is worth many times the cost of individual experiment.

"The Linotype Line," is a 16-page folder briefly describing all Linotype Models. Ask us to send it.

Mergenthaler Linotype Company
Tribune Building, New York

CHICAGO TORONTO SAN FRANCISCO NEW ORLEANS

FRIENDLY BY NAME AND BY NATURE.

E. S. Friendly, assistant business manager of the New York Times, started his fifth year in that capacity on September 1.

Mr. Friendly began his duties on the Times as a clerk in the publication office and his advance was rapid. His next step was to take charge of the publication office, and later he was promoted to become head of the financial advertising department.

The gain in that classification was a surprise even to himself, certainly to all others; his third advance brought him to his present position, which all his friends believe to be just a stepping stone to something bigger.

E. S. FRIENDLY.

How he is trusted and respected by those under his jurisdiction is best depicted by an anecdote of a short time ago: A stranger who came into the office found it necessary to duplicate that visit and had time to observe Mr. Friendly's attitude to his staff. The gentleman asked Mr. Friendly if that was really his name or whether the employees nicknamed him that.

FRENCH PAPERS RAISE PRICE.

Daily newspapers in France, which maintain their original form, advanced their prices this week from the equivalent of 1 cent to 2 cents. This action was to meet the government's solution of the news print crisis, the theory being that sales would decrease proportionately to the increase in price, leaving the revenues of the publishers unaffected and reducing the demand for paper.

Some newspapers, such as the Paris Patrie, preferring not to increase their price, will reduce the size to quarter of the original, or to about four pages of ten by twelve inches.

HOW STATE BODIES CAN ECONOMIZE.

NORTH CAROLINA PUBLISHERS GIVE A PRACTICAL DEMONSTRATION—CAN BE DONE ELSEWHERE, TOO.

By J. L. HORNE,

Of the North Carolina Association of Afternoon Newspapers.

In North Carolina we have worked along the lines of meeting our own problems, and what we have done or attempted to do has been of necessity, or for the improvement of our properties, or getting the most for our dollar.

Getting together and threshing out our problems in a harmonious manner has for the past six years had its good results, and not without a few accomplishments to the North Carolina Afternoon Newspapers Association's credit at that.

It was six years ago that the afternoon papers in the state, being served with four or five different telegraph news reports at as many different prices as there were papers, began to compare notes and then it was that the game was up so far as the press associations were concerned.

It was found that papers closer to a point of filing were paying more than the man further off for identically the same report, while fellows in another part of the state that were better traders, but located just as far away from point of filing, received the same 500 words for half the money. It was here that the need of an association of state dailies was established—especially in my mind as I found that my paper was paying a third more than a fellow further off, and that another afternoon paper was buying it for less than half—and we all received the same identical filings.

So it was we decided to see what we could do by getting together, as none of us could pay the exorbitant charge of the then dominating press association—though one or two tried it for a while.

The result was all that one could wish; and, though we took on a very good service as a starter and we worked that way for some months, we later switched and today we have membership in the Associated Press, the greatest news gathering agency in the world, hold our territorial rights, enjoy the April luncheon at New York's swellest hotel, if we have the wherewithall to get there, listen to the waves roll on the Pacific coast by long distance telephone, and an address of the President.

We haven't grown great at all, but we all get from 2,000 to 3,000 words of press daily—under the old figure, when we stood apart. At the old rate quoted us it would have cost us in excess of $125 a week and we get it for a little more than 10 percent of that amount.

It was necessity that made us do that. Any one of the papers would have, as an accepted thing, found $20 a week prohibitive for a press service. Now those fellows that could stand that and a little better have jumped for the leased wire—quoted before the get together at $150 and more per week, and now it's sold to a half dozen in the lot at $55 and $60.

MEETINGS

The meetings of this association of dailies are held semi-annually by appointment and an average of three or four times a year on call. They are always for business and there is never anything social about them save the evening meal. This is a "Dutch" treat pure simple.

No summer resort gets its season started with a meeting and no special rates are asked or taken, with the hotel proprietor expecting you to go back home and write a column of "sob stuff" about the excellence of his hotel, when in truth you might have had to buy a hammer to crush a lump of salt to put on a green tomato—as you famished for food. The meetings are always of two sessions, afternoon and night of one day—they are pretty long sometimes—but not to the man that is learning something worth while.

LOOKING AHEAD.

Different from the associations of dailies, of which I have read as existing in other states, there are no paid officers in the association of "Down Homers"—each fellow gives of his part, his time and effort for the good of the whole and all matters are handled by committees of which there are some half a dozen or more.

The chairman and members of the committee, as far as possible, keep in touch with the different phases of endeavor not only in so much as it affects his individual interest, but the association's interest as well.

It was by this means that last year the chairman of the committee on news print as early as February sounded the warning of the approaching unprecedented rise in price, and during 1916 there was but little news print used by members that cost as much as three cents a pound. Sizes have been standardized for both sheet and roll news and the specifications for the 1,500 tons needed for a year's supply could be given in a jiffy.

NATIONAL ADVERTISING.

Our advertising for national business is cooperative under the direction of a live advertising committee, which from time to time issues attractive booklets, compiles advertising data, which the respective papers carry, listing all the membership of the association.

The booklets are attractively gotten up, giving much about the state and the great opportunity for the advertiser to reap a harvest, and with each paper having an opportunity to tell something about his own field, his circulation, quote his rates and other information, required by a national advertiser. There are furnished in several hundred quantities to members who use them as enclosures in case of inquiries from prospective advertisers.

The representative of the association in Chicago and New York uses them to fire on the hoped to be user of space from another angle. Incidentally that same national representative represents no other papers in the state and he approaches the man who wants to buy space in North Carolina papers with the field practically at his finger tips, and he speaks in terms of so much an inch for fifteen towns and cities in the state. Of course, he does place individual business for this and that paper where an advertiser insists on one point and that he does not want the other.

ECONOMIC NEWS GATHERING.

A committee on wire reports has made good use of the facility of each paper bring in wire communication with each other several times a day.

With a central clearing house or bureau located at the state capitol, we are enabled to clear much of the sharp, crisp state news occurring in our respective territories each day. Thus a greater part of the state is covered without correspondents or the expensive wire tolls. This year we had a session of the legislature and we all clubbed together under the committee's direction and employed two men, one in the House and the other in the Senate. We get from 100 to 500 words a day, up to the last minute, flashed along on our circuits without extra cost for tolls, and the outlay was the grand sum of $2 to each paper per week. Individually lots of us have paid ten times that amount and gotten a poorer report because one man cannot cover both branches of the Assembly.

We have a state advance letter whereby news events are written in advance and mailed with a last minute correction by wire, but I will not burden you with the details of that.

ADVERTISING REPRESENTATION.

We are now working on a proposition whereby each paper becomes a sort of local representative in his locality for the other fourteen members.

In other words, if there is a general user of advertising space over the state that starts up in Charlotte or in Durham or Greensboro, the members in that town are expected to present the fourteen other papers, using the same argument as to the total number as does the national representative, of so much an inch for all.

Being prepared, of course, to place it in part if requested. The advertisement is then forwarded to the different papers and billed direct, completing that member's task—unless the advertiser turns out to be slow pay or some trouble develops. There have been a few nice orders cleared this way, though as I explained in the outset the plan is new.

And as yet we look upon the case—
(Continued on Twenty-ninth Page)

Going Over the Top

For the past fourteen months the circulation of THE SUN has averaged more than 150,000 copies daily, considerably more than double the circulation of THE SUN prior thereto.

With this doubled circulation there came as a natural result—

Doubled Influence

For the past eighty years THE SUN has exerted a mighty influence in the affairs of the nation and of New York State. Think what that influence is now with more than double the number of readers.

It's the influence of a newspaper that pays advertisers. Therefore,

Greater Results

were obtained by those advertisers who were using THE SUN when its influence of many years was so materially increased and extended.

These greater results naturally attracted

More Advertising

and still more advertising until the record for the first seven months of 1917 shows remarkable gains in total advertising and especially in those lines appealing to substantial interests, such as

National Advertising—THE SUN gained 209,632 lines
Automobiles—	138,944 "
Books and Publishers—	70,150 "
Real Estate—	11,834 "

THE SUN gained twice as much as its nearest competitor in Automobiles, Books and Publishers. In Real Estate it was the only morning newspaper to make a gain. In National Advertising THE SUN beat all competitors in gains.

The Sun "New York's Morning Newspaper"

McADOO CANNOT BUY AD SPACE IN NEWSPAPERS.

BUT HIS DEPARTMENT NOW PAYS FOR POSTERS AND WINDOW CARDS FOR THE LIBERTY LOAN.

Liberty loan committees—many of them new and others of them the old groups—began forming this week to put across the second liberty loan of 1917—probably $3,000,000,000—at a date not later than October 1.

The actual time for starting this second tremendous sale of bonds wherewith to finance the war depends upon Congressional action, but Secretary McAdoo believes that body will act directly upon the big bond and certificate bill.

Meantime the Secretary is debating the question of buying space to advertise the loan. He believes advertising a sound proposition, but states that under publishers' plans the government would have to take space in some papers which a private commercial venture would probably not accept. A statement he issued praises the press for its loyal cooperation in printing news stories of the first bond issue, and denies he had asked free advertising in the first campaign.

Secretary McAdoo's complete statement follows:

"I am receiving numerous communications as to the attitude of the Treasury Department with respect to the campaign now in progress in the country to induce the Government to engage in a policy of paid advertising in connection with future issues of the Liberty Loan. It is necessary, therefore, that the position of the department should be made clear.

"In the first Liberty Loan campaign the department did not pay for any advertising space in newspapers, street cars, billboards, or other mediums. Some newspapers voluntarily advertised the loan free of cost to the Government, as did street car, billboard, and other advertising agencies. In addition, many bankers, investment houses, merchants, and others, inspired by the same public spirit, bought advertising space or gave over to the Liberty Loan part of the advertising space for which they had contracted.

"There seems to be an impression that the Treasury Department in the first Liberty Loan campaign applied for free advertising, or paid for advertising in some papers and not in others. That is entirely erroneous.

"The Treasury Department did not ask newspaper publishers for free advertising, because I realized that the newspapers' only profitable commodity is advertising space, and that there are many papers which are not able to give free advertising—especially in view of the high cost of print paper.

"Newspapers and press associations loyally cooperated with the Government in the first Liberty Loan.

"News and editorial columns were devoted most generously to the issue. They carried its message into every home in America, and deserve great praise for their service of patriotism.

"The people of the country want to know the financial needs of the Government and the details of the issues of bonds. That is news.

"This information was given to them in the most comprehensive form possible, and the newspapers and press associations have the satisfaction of knowing that they contributed immeasurably to the success of the loan. Success could not have been accomplished without their aid and co-operation. I have no doubt that the Government will have the same genuine support from them in their news and editorial columns in connection with the second issue.

"The question of paid advertising presents a serious problem for the Government.

"The value of such advertising cannot be doubted, and, if the operation could be governed by the same considerations as those which determine the action of private enterprises, it would be much simplified.

"A private enterprise may advertise in a selected number of mediums most useful for its purpose, and may control its expenditures for that purpose, without any limitation except its own desires or ability to pay. If the Government engages in such a campaign it must advertise in every newspaper and periodical in America without discrimination, all must have equal treatment, and should have equal treatment.

"The Government must be thoroughly democratic and impartial in a matter of this sort. To make the advertising thorough and effective, it should be done on a broad and liberal scale. The cost of such an undertaking would be very great, and would exceed the appropriation which the Congress has thus far made available for the sale of Liberty bonds.

"The question is, however, being carefully considered by the department, but obviously a final decision cannot be reached until more light has been received as to the cost of an effective advertising campaign, and until it has been decided what appropriations will be made available by the Congress for future issues of Liberty bonds."

In spite of the secretary's attitude on the purchase of newspaper advertising space, the Official Bulletin for September 5 notes that:

"Contracts for 4,000,000 posters in eight designs and 500,000 window cards in one design for use in the second Liberty Loan campaign have been awarded by the Treasury Department. The awards were made on the basis of competition, both as to designs and to prices."

NEW YORK BEGINS PUBLICITY.

The Liberty Loan Committee of the New York Federal Reserve District, which will have charge of the flotation of the second war loan, held its first meeting on September 5 at the offices of the Federal Reserve Bank. It considered definite plans of organization for the next campaign, which is expected to begin on October 1, and approved of the preliminary work done by the sub-committees on distribution and publicity.

Governor Strong, the chairman, made the following statement:

"The object of the meeting was to ratify the work of preliminary organization which has been carried on under the direction of the Federal Reserve Bank during the past six weeks. It has been necessary to do a considerable amount of work along the lines of outlining distribution policies and reaching various sections of the district with a view to obtaining the best possible help in the next loan. It has been necessary to reach the magazines which are now about to appear with material emphasizing the need of saving for the next loan.

"While the exact date of the beginning of the campaign has not been announced, and we are not familiar with the amount to be raised and various other details, we feel that the announcement by Secretary McAdoo last week was the first gun in the new campaign. We know that the campaign will begin within a few weeks, and we know the amount to be raised will require the best efforts of all our committees and of the public who have generously offered to work with them.

"Our distribution and publicity organizations will be hard at work during the next few weeks, and any members of the public who are desirous of offering their services or who have any suggestions to make with regard to the next campaign are urged to communicate in writing with the Liberty Loan committee immediately."

EDITOR IN JAIL FOR WRITING AGAINST THE DRAFT.

Carl Ahlteen, editor of the Alarm, a semi-weekly publication devoted to the interests of the Industrial Workers of the World, was arrested in Minneapolis on September 5, on an indictment charging him with violation of the military laws of the United States and the state of Minnesota.

Mr. Ahlteen declared he had printed nothing in his paper that could be interpreted as seditious and that he did not know what article the grand jury found that warranted his arrest.

He is said to have published an article aimed against the draft and declaring that men who go to Europe as soldiers are sent as tools of millionaires, of Wall Street, of capitalist control. His article is said to have been printed in the Swedish language and to have been signed by himself.

A PLEASANT TASK.

Charles R. Baker, since his arrival in New York from Chicago, has been making many friends for the San Carlo Grand Opera Company, now playing at the 44th Street Theater. Mr. Baker's work is lightened by the fact that he is backed by a company of artists of genuine merit, as the newspapers of New York quickly discovered, with the result that the notices of the recent opening performances of the San Carlo Company are such that any organization should be very proud of them.

NEW YORK CITY'S AD RECORD.

SEVEN-MONTH TOTAL AHEAD OF 1916—SMALL AUGUST LOSS—PAPER SAVING.

Despite the fact that 1916 was an abnormal year for newspaper advertising, the fifteen New York City daily newspapers are ahead of it, in 1917 for the period of January-August (inclusive), by 2,148,389 lines, according to the New York Evening Post's statistical bureau's report for the month of August.

The report showed that four of the fifteen English printed dailies made gains over their records for August, 1916.

The total loss of the eleven others amounted to 172,294 lines.

The total advertising carried by all fifteen papers was 6,882,076 lines. In only one year since 1911 has this figure for August been exceeded. That was in 1916, a record year.

It is also interesting to note that the New York dailies saved 174 pages of paper as compared with August last year. The size record by pages of each follows:

	1917	1916
American	778	756
Brooklyn Daily Eagle	708	778
Evening Journal	424	428
Evening Mail	374	366
Evening Post	494	470
Evening Sun	362	386
Evening Telegram	532	508
Evening World	348	348
Globe	334	350
Herald	810	870
Brooklyn Standard-Union	350	382
Sun	558	604
Times	702	814
Tribune	568	594
World	848	782

Total 8,360 8,544
*Sundays included

PLAN FOR NATIONAL ARMY PUBLICITY BUREAU.

Spearman Lewis, veteran Chicago publicity man, is assisting General Thomas H. Barry in the establishment of a press bureau at Rockford, the cantonment for the Illinois contingent of the new National Army. A farmhouse has been commandeered as headquarters for the bureau and some of the newspaper men among the privates and officers will be designated to gather the news of the camp and supply it in approved form to the different newspapers represented at the camp.

Through this cooperative plan the military authorities will have supervision over the outgoing material and the newspapers will have the benefit of a greatly augmented supply of news.

7,817,447 Agate Lines in eight months.

In 8 months of 1917 The New York Times published 7,817,447 agate lines of advertising, 632,908 lines more than in the first eight months of 1916, and 1,810,842 lines more than in the first eight months of 1915—a greater volume and a greater gain, Help and Situation Wanted advertisements alone excepted, than any other New York newspaper.

Average net paid circulation, daily and Sunday, exceeds 345,000 copies.

PAPER MARKETS OF THE WORLD.

ANGLO-SWEDISH EMBARGO DISPUTE STILL UNSETTLED—SCANDINAVIAN OUTPUT SHOWING DECREASE.

Scandinavian pulp and paper markets displayed a weakness during July, due principally to the difficulties attending shipments and the lessened demand from England. Fairly large quantities of paper and pulp from Canada and the United States have been delivered in English ports and have lessened the amounts permitted under license, according to the monthly digest of the world's pulp and paper markets issued by the News Print Manufacturers Association.

There has not been as weak a demand for mechanical wood pulp as there has been for chemical and prices remain at about the levels that prevailed during June.

English importers have adopted a waiting attitude, hoping that shipments of chemical wood pulp from Sweden will ease their situation. Paper is becoming dearer everywhere and the supply diminishes month by month, especially in the southern countries.

FRANCE.

Little is known of the pulp and paper making situation in France and conditions are presumed to be about as stated last month, with prices higher. The mechanical wood pulp market (pine) is about 20 per cent higher than was quoted in June; unbleached sulphite wood pulp has advanced about 20 per cent; but bleached sulphite, soda and sulphate pulps maintain the same levels as previously reported.

In regard to the difficulties facing the press and the general curtailment of sizes, Charles Humbert, director of the Paris Journal, is quoted in L'Industria della Carta, Milan, Italy, on August 1, 1917, as criticising the government's action of limiting the editions of the papers instead of adopting the policies pursued by England, Italy and Germany in seeing that sufficient quantities of pulp were imported into the country.

This article states that news print paper, which, before the war, brought $47.27 per short ton, now costs $157-$175 per short ton and will cost within three months $262.63 per short ton, if it can be obtained at all.

JAPAN.

American sulphite pulp, for which there was little demand on account of its inferiority in quality, has become very popular and is used mixed with superior European pulps.

The price is still far below that of the European pulp and the delivery is good. The pulp is almost all unbleached chemical wood pulp, mostly sulphite and a little soda pulp, no mechanical and straw pulp being imported.

About 30 per cent of the imported bleached pulp is consumed for Japanese paper, the rest being used for fourdrinier machines.

The best grade of news print has been imported from England and Sweden, while an ordinary grade was principally obtained from Germany and Belgium. This has naturally stopped and as a consequence the Japanese-made printing papers are in great demand. What is known as "Zara" paper, a rough mechanical wood pulp paper, as that used for newspapers, is entirely supplied by home production. Printing paper known as "B-printing paper" is also nearly all supplied by home manufacture. Only the book papers and coated papers are not yet successfully made in Japan.

On the subject of the Japanese pulp industry Svensk Export, Stockholm, Sweden, June, 1917, writes as follows:

"Wood pulp has for some time been produced by the Japanese paper mills, except by a few smaller ones, and consequently the imports were small even before the European war. Chemical pulp for the production of finer kinds of printing paper was principally imported from Sweden and Norway and amounted to about 4,409 short tons a month on the average before the war.

"Last year the imports were very lively, as it was feared that the supply from foreign countries might be shut off altogether or that the prices would be prohibitive.

"The imports during 1916 were 63,137 short tons, but this year the figures have fallen heavily. During January and February less than 2,000 short tons were received. For March and the following months the amount is not yet known, but it has probably been very small as the shipments which arrived have been as small as 5 to 10 short tons.

"This great decrease in the imports is due partly to the lively imports in 1916 and also to the vigorous development of the chemical wood pulp industry in Karafuto. The supply is now pretty good and quotations are low compared with the foreign market.

"On this account several attempts have been made to export wood pulp from Japan. In April the first export to India took place, amounting to 551 short tons, and since then the exports have increased. In Tokyo alone 3,307 short tons have already been delivered for export to foreign countries.

"This may be only incidentally, as the capacity of the Japanese mills cannot yet satisfy the demand of the country. But it should be remarked that the paper mills in Oji and the wood pulp mills in Karafuto are to be enlarged within the near future, and the paper mill in Fuji will have its own wood pulp mill ready towards the end of the year. In that case the supply will be greater than the demand for the product of Mr. Koike's mill, and the present temporary export can then develop into a permanent export. The problem is the cost of production, but to judge from results already obtained, it may not give cause for worry."

Japan uses annually about 70,000 tons of mechanical wood pulp and about 90,000 tons of chemical wood pulp. The great bulk of mechanical is manufactured in Japan, but almost 75 per cent of the 90,000 tons of chemical pulp required is imported.

ITALY.

The following article on the increased cost of manufacturing paper is taken from L'Industria della Carta, Milan, Italy, August 1, 1917:

"A very important question—but of which the newspapers and the editors in their arguments with the manufacturers of paper have always taken little or no consideration as though it were of no importance and of secondary influence—is that of the increase of the raw materials necessary to the manufacture of paper.

"With noble and praiseworthy forethought the administrative office of the Italian Paper Mill in Turin has compiled the following table, which shows exactly the increase of the said prices from the beginning of the war to the end of June, 1917.

"It is a very impressive table and requires no comment, because the figures so speak for themselves as to cause one to shudder.

"We are reproducing it completely (on the basis of values for equal quantities:

	July 31, 1914.	July 31, 1917.
Coal	$5.78	$37.54
Unbleached chem. pulp	30.67	323.91
Bleached chem. pulp	31.59	525.26
Mechanical wood pulp	21.01	330.17
Poplar wood	8.15	10.61
Felt63	2.18
Wire170	1.04
White rags08	.08
Colored rags01	.04
Rosin	33.06	218.86
Aluminum sulphate	19.26	166.73
Chloride of lime	39.76	210.10
Gums	157.58	613.80
Nails	41.83	435.70
Oils	70.00	625.26
Clay	7.03	48.57
Size	48.57	353.20
Color	760.85	10,505.20

"N. B.—The above mentioned prices not being at all fixed, but still subject to increase as it has already occurred in the case of some articles, it follows that even for paper there will exist higher limits than the present ones."

The Italian newspapers are obliged to print two pages twice a week and there is talk of limiting the publication to two pages three times a week.

RUSSIA.

The Paper-Maker and British Paper Trade Journal, London, August 1, 1917, writes as follows:

"Agents and representatives of American electrical engineering firms have visited various districts in South Russia to study those waterfalls or stretches of water which they think capable of being used as a source of water-power, with a view, apparently, to obtaining concessions. It has been admitted that Russia will afford a profitable field for electrical development at the conclusion of hostilities; and of this American firms, always well informed by their consuls, were not slow to take notice."

Svensk Pappers Tidning, Stockholm, Sweden, June 30, 1917, states that the Russian Newspaper Publishers Association has had great difficulties in obtaining Swedish paper because of the money exchange situation. Swedish paper prices are exceedingly lower than those asked in Finland, but the exchange situation more than equals the difference in prices.

ENGLAND.

For some time past there have been rumors that the Swedish Government would probably at an early date lift the embargo on the exports of chemical wood pulp to Great Britain. At the annual meeting of Albert E. Reed & Co., Ltd., the chairman intimated that certain developments were taking definite shape, thus giving relief to those papermakers particularly who had bought and had been unable to obtain delivery, necessitating storage.

While the embargo may not altogether be lifted, licenses to ship chemical wood pulp from Sweden to England are said to be under consideration. It is probable that a proportion of the production—in some quarters one-eighth is suggested—will be allowed to be imported.

Whether certain stipulations put forward, such as quick dispatch and full return cargoes, will impede shipments remains to be seen, but it is evident that several difficulties present themselves. It is thought arrangements will probably be made to secure Norwegian and Danish bottoms, with 60 per cent of approved imports and 40 per cent of other goods—mainly chemical wood pulp.

With arrivals from Sweden, it will be interesting to watch the trend of prices, as in many quarters they are expected to soon reach the level of the Norwegian product, particularly as mills in Norway, faced with high freights for coal, etc., may materially limit output.

Despite recurring rumors concerning the raising of the Swedish embargo on chemical wood pulp, the fact remains that nothing has happened save a further tightening of the order. The position is clear enough. Sweden will supply Germany with all the pulp she can take. Other countries are allowed to buy on the strict understanding that Great Britain gets no part of the consignment.

"A quiet tone dominates the pulp market for the moment. The British demand is uncertain, and in Scandinavia some apprehension exists in view of the competition from Canadian and American mills. The result of these new sources of supply has been to bring about a welcome easing of the position. Prices continue to vary in sympathy with the diversity of demand. Although there is no official announcement of the lifting of the Swedish embargo, it is felt that such a move or partial release is imminent.

The following prices, obtained August 10, having eased off slightly in the cases of bleached and news sulphite from the general July quotations:

Sulphite, bleached,
Per short ton.
good quality	$225.94—$238.98
Sulphite, easy bleaching, 1st quality...	195.53—199.87
Sulphite "news" or strong quality ...	173.80—195.53
Soda, unbleached, 1st	195.53—
Soda unbleached kraft or strong...	173.80

The mechanical wood pulp market has also weakened slightly with very little trading going on. Upon the issuing of new licenses it looked as though trade would be stimulated, but simultaneously with the licenses came the news that a further closing down of the North Sea had been caused by the extension of the mine field.

The paper imports, however, amounted to over 15,000 short tons, the largest amount received since January of this year. The paper received during the January to June period, 1917, amounted to only 88,000 short tons, however, a shrinkage of 216,000 short tons from the same period last year.

Exports of British paper were very small in June, 1917, amounting to only 4,000 short tons, against 10,000 short tons in June last year, and the shipments from January to June, 1917, amounted to 30,000 short tons against 78,000 short tons during the same period last year. Of this loss 33,000 short tons represented printing paper, 3,000 short tons writing paper, 7,000 short tons wrapping paper, and other grades 5,000 short tons.

SWEDEN.

According to Svenska Pappers Tidning, Stockholm, Sweden, June 30, 1917:

"The demand for paper in Sweden is at present very lively, and especially is this the case with paper for the German and Austrian markets.

"Recently, however, the German and Austrian buyers have requested that half of the payment should remain deposited in German or Austrian banks until after the closing of peace, but, as far as we know, no paper mill has agreed to such a mode of payment, and we hope that the solidarity of the Swedish mills will be strong enough to prevent such terms from being forced on them."

Dry mechanical wood pulp, according to Affarsvarlden, Stockholm, Sweden, was in good demand during July, with the renewal of licenses, and sales were made at unchanged levels, viz.: $53.49, $54.70 per short ton f. o. b. Gothenburg and $43.76 per short ton f. o. b. Bothnian ports, all inclusive of the usual agent's commission, with the market firm. Little interest was shown for wet mechanical wood pulp.

The above authority states that the chemical wood pulp market was very quiet during July as all available tonnage was used to deplete the large stocks on hand. Production has been reduced to 60 per cent of normal and more serious conditions are seen in the future. In the July 25th issue of this journal it is stated that quotations are firm and unchanged for both sulphite and sulphate wood pulp, but quotations are omitted.

NORWAY.

Farmand, Christiania, Norway, July 7, 1917, writes of the pulp wood situation in Norway as follows:

"A misfortune almost without precedent has befallen those branches of the wood industries which obtain their logs from the Glommen River district. The director of the association under whose management lies the floating of the logs in the River Glommen has sent the newspapers for publication a letter which he has addressed to the Association of Forest Owners.

"Because of the immense quantity of logs to be floated down the river this year, a late spring and a rapid thaw, a quantity, estimated at almost 5,500,000 logs, has been piled up at Bingfoss lock, tied one with the other almost inextricably in an enormous height, and it is only possible to extricate the logs one by one with immense work and difficulty.

"As the situation stands now," says the director, "it is hardly probable that we shall be able to clear the quantity of timber at the Bingen lock in less than two years, and there is no prospect of our being able to release this year much more than one-half the quantity of timber which has been marked this season floating in the Glommen River."

"This is an event which is without parallel in the long time which has elapsed since floating of logs in the Glommen River commenced, and it will affect the planing mills at Fredrikstad, among other cellulose mills the large mills belonging to the Kellner Partington Paper Pulp Company, the Greaser Cellulose Mill, and all the other mills which are situated by the Glommen River, but more or less all pulp mills in the south of Norway will be inconvenienced by this stoppage, for all of them obtain at least a part of their log supply from the Glommen River district."

According to Affarsvarlden, Stockholm, Sweden, July 11, 1917, freights from Norway to England have fallen, easing the situation slightly, but the margin of English buyers' profits is so low in comparison with the risks taken that many firms are doing nothing. In London many old established firms are negotiating for the sale or lease of their yards and wharfs, as they have sold all their stock and are determined to conserve their capital for better times, this journal declares.

The paper market, July 1, was as follows, according to Tidsskrift for Papirindustri, Christiania, Norway:

"There has been a little more activity in the paper market and we learn that inquiries and orders are proportionately frequent. The production is, as far as Norway is concerned, very restricted, 58 of the 88 paper machines being idle.

"Many of the Norwegian paper mills which are in operation have now arranged for heating with wood instead of coal and, in spite of the high prices on wood, the method comes out considerably cheaper than coal firing."

The last Norwegian journal received was Papir-Journalen, Christiania, Norway, July 19, 1917, which quotes as follows:

"The market for all sorts of chemical pulp continues quiet. The removal of the Swedish embargo to the United Kingdom is now generally awaited. This question has been up several times during the last months without having led to any result, but we learn from leading people in the trade that there now is a reason to be lieve that a solution is to be found.

"As a consequence of this fact the buyers are not very willing to enter into new engagements at the prices quoted by the Norwegian mills, although a more brisk market had been expected after July 1, when new import licences were to be granted. The reason is undoubtedly to be found in the above mentioned expectations.

"We have heard of very few sales indeed, and the prices might be as follows:

Prime strong sulphite.....$121.56
Prime easy-bleaching sulphite 126.42
Prime bleached182.34 per short ton f. o. b. east Norway ports.

English trade journals issued late in July stated that the expectations of the Norwegian manufacturers that the renewal of licenses would bring brisk trading had not been realized and that markets were still very dull.

THE ADVERTISED TRADE-MARK

(Copyright, Mallory, Mitchell & Faust.)

Both of these results are desirable—standard article and a fair price. Either one is to be desired by the consumer. But when both go hand in hand they form the ideal combination.

These results are brought about by advertising the product and then identifying it by means of a trade-mark or brand name.

When a product becomes known to the consuming public through advertising, it tends to become standardized. Being produced on a large scale, it naturally follows that there comes to be a uniformity of quality of the different units. Each unit is exactly the same as every other unit bearing that label.

People come to know just what this product is. It stands for something definite. It represents a definite value characteristic of this particular product. It becomes standardized.

In addition to this, the very fact that it does become standardized and known makes possible a greater market for it. This greater market makes possible the economies of large scale production.

That is, a manufacturer who produces 10,000,000 units of a product can produce each unit more cheaply than the manufacturer who produces but 10,000 units, through having more improved machinery, being able to carry the specialization of labor to a greater degree, having less waste, and having more units of production to bear the expense of general management and overhead.

The result of this large scale production is a lower price to the consumer per unit.

CHANGES IN VANCOUVER.

B. A. McKelvie, formerly with the Vancouver (B. C.) Province, has become managing editor of the Vancouver Sunday Tribune, which has succeeded the Saturday Chinook, published by George M. Murray. The Chinook was formerly published in South Vancouver as a Saturday night paper, but is now located in that city itself and is issued on Sunday morning as the Tribune.

L. D. Taylor, formerly mayor of Vancouver and ex-publisher of the Vancouver World, is planning a new weekly for that city. Until recently he has been publishing a newspaper at Fort George, in the Northern Interior.

FOR WESTERN AD GOLFERS.

The fifth of the Western Advertising Golfers' Association tournaments will be held at Chicago on September 11.

SHIFTS IN BURLINGTON, VT.

The war and other causes are making some changes in the staff of the two dailies in Burlington, Vt.

Donald G. Babbitt, who assumed the editorship of the News a few months ago, leaving a position on the Boston Record, has gone to the second officers' camp at Plattsburg.

John B. Taylor, business manager of the News, has been obliged to give up work because of poor health, and will go to Denver, Colo.

Mr. Babbitt has been president and and Mr. Taylor treasurer of the corporation which purchased the News from Joseph Auld and others.

Arthur N. Chamberlin, for several years on the Free Press staff, was scheduled to succeed Mr. Babbitt as editor of the News, but on Saturday received an appointment as an aerial observer in the United States Signal Corps and left Sunday night to begin training.

Perley M. Stoughton, for many years a reporter on the Free Press, is already in the aviation corps.

Leland Hays, a member of the Free Press staff for a year and a half, has just gone to Manchester, Ct., to become editorial writer and telegraph editor on the Herald.

CLASS IN TYPE OPENS.

A free course in proofreading and typography will be given at the Stuyvesant Evening Trade School, 15th street, near First avenue, New York, starting on September 17.

Men and women engaged in the printing, publishing, advertising, and allied lines are eligible for the classes, which are directed by Arnold Levitas.

The classes each meet twice a week—Monday and Tuesday and Wednesday and Thursday, from 7.30 to 9.30 p. m.

Certificates of proficiency are issued at the end of the term.

SOLD PAPERS FOR SOLDIERS.

Illinois troopers whose peace-time homes are in or near Rockford, Ill., benefited last week when members of the "Hip, Hip Hooray" musical comedy company sold over 900 copies of the Rockford Republic in the city streets, realizing a tidy sum for the company funds.

A RELIC OF THE DARK AGES.

EDITOR THE FOURTH ESTATE.

Sir: I wish to enter my protest against publication of items like the following:

Robbers entered the office of the Advocate Review, a community newspaper in the south side of Chicago, last week and demanded largesse from M. E. Doroch, the editor. Mr. Doroch paused in his work of getting his paper ready for press long enough to laugh loudly at the robbers for hoping to find money in a newspaper office. When they discovered their mistake, the robbers left.

The idea that a newspaper office never has any money is an exploded one. It was all right way back in the dark ages, when a newspaper took cord-wood, pumpkins or any other commodities in exchange for subscriptions.

The newspaper business today is just as legitimate and money-making a business as any. It requires more than the average ability and nerve to make it successful, and items like the above tend to cast discredit upon it.

J. L. STURTEVANT,
Publisher, Wausau (Wis.) Record-Herald.

THE U.S. LATIN-AMERICAN ADVERTISING INQUIRY.

WILL COVER THE PEOPLE AND ALL MEDIA OF ADVERTISING—MR. SANGER IS NOW IN SEATTLE.

Since the Department of Commerce of the United States Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce some time ago announced it had engaged J. W. Sanger to make a study of the problem of advertising in South America, American advertisers and newspapers have been very anxious to learn of the complete extent of the Government's investigation. Just when Mr. Sanger was en route to Seattle on August 27, THE FOURTH ESTATE got into touch with him and obtained at least a preliminary outline of what he intends to do in the assignment he is about to undertake. Mr. Sanger said:

"I am glad of the opportunity to say a word to the readers of THE FOURTH ESTATE concerning this investigation of advertising methods which the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce proposes to undertake throughout the countries of Latin America.

"Manufacturers who do a domestic business only are familiar with the tremendous power of advertising in helping to gain a hold in new markets for either new or old products. We have reliable information on this subject and know that if the product is right and the service is what it should be that with a given sum of money devoted to advertising, the work of the sales force can be greatly supplemented.

"Unfortunately the same information is not available concerning foreign countries, particularly those countries of Latin America toward which our manufacturers are casting longing eyes as a probable field for export trade development.

"After the great war is over there will ensue the keenest and perhaps the bitterest competition for these markets that the commercial world has ever known and it is to anticipate this struggle and to furnish us practical information for that time that the United States Government operating through the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce has determined to conduct a thorough-going investigation with the purpose of reporting back to manufacturers in the United States what advertising methods can best be employed to win a larger share of the market in the countries to the south of us.

"Roughly speaking, the investigation will cover, first, the people. Many manufacturers say to me:

"In preparing our advertising, which is a form of selling appeal, we would like to know just what kind of people we are talking to. Are they fundamentally different or are they practically the same kind of people with whom we are accustomed to deal in this country, with such changes as are brought about by difference of language, traditions, habits of the thought and other considerations?

"They say to me:

"We want to sell goods to these people but we cannot advertise to them until we know what sort of people they are."

"Secondly, the investigation will cover all recognized mediums of advertising appeal, such as export journals, local newspapers, direct by mail, street car and poster advertising, electric signs, motion picture advertising, novelties, sampling, demonstrations, etc.

"Insofar as it is humanly possible, not a stone will be left unturned to make this investigation thorough-going and thoroughly practical and the results of it will be published by the government in the form of a book available for distribution everywhere at a very nominal cost.

"In addition to this, after my return from the investigation, and after the book has appeared my services for a brief period will be available as a special agent of the bureau with the purpose of making specific application to any manufacturers' problem of the plans and suggestions offered in the book.

"I will return to New York about October 1 for a ten-day stay before sailing, and hope then to have the opportunity of meeting exporting manufacturers, etc., individually or as groups for a further conference and discussion of their problems preliminary to my trip to Latin America."

DWYER TO BACK HIS CHARGES BEFORE GRAND JURY.

John P. Dwyer, managing editor of the Philadelphia Record, who has charged Francis Fisher Kane, United States Attorney, with neglect of duty in his direction of draft violation prosecutions and conduct of office generally, has been subpoenaed to appear before the Federal Grand Jury in Philadelphia. He is directed to bring with him all records and data in connection with the cases in which there were alleged violations of the law.

The action follows quickly on the heels of steps taken by Mr. Dwyer to have Mr. Kane removed from his post by appealing to Washington.

Mr. Kane has denied that he had been in any way derelict in enforcing the draft law or that relating to public meetings, as charged by Mr. Dwyer and others.

MERGED WITH DAILY.

The Wooster (Ohio) Democrat, established in 1826, was discontinued last week, the circulation being merged with the Wooster Daily News, published by the same company. The Democrat was for many years a political power in the Democratic ranks of Wayne County. It was published as a weekly until a few years ago, when it was made a semi-weekly.

EVENING POST TELLS OF OIL'S USES IN WAR TIME.

Among the biggest of the war-time crises is that of oil. A tremendous demand has been created by the fact that the use of oil in the world-war has been great and far-reaching. Not a single phase of military operations at home or abroad could be carried on without the use of oil or one of its by-products. The airplane, the submarine, the oil-burning battle-cruisers, the motor trucks used for transporting troops and supplies in a country where there are no railroads, and motorboats used as submarine chasers, all would be useless if the oil supply was exhausted or cut off.

This exigency gives special timeliness to the Oil Industry Supplement issued by the New York Evening Post, consisting of fifty-six pages, with many illustrations. It reveals the fact that the industry is straining every nerve to meet the emergency. At Washington there is both optimism and pessimism as to the ability of the country's resources to meet the test. America is producing two-thirds of the entire world's supply.

The struggle of the independent companies for supremacy, the value of geology in producing petroleum, the place of the industry in modern life, the manufacture of gasoline from natural gas and the use of petroleum for transportation purposes are discussed, with carefully prepared articles on the oil fields of this country, Mexico, Russia and Rumania. A Texas oil gusher is shown on the cover.

MORNING PAPER NEXT WEEK FOR HATTIESBURG, MISS.

The publishers of the Hattiesburg (Miss.) News have completed arrangements for a new morning daily for Hattiesburg and Camp Shelby, to be known as the Herald. The first issue will appear on September 11. Although published from the same office under the same business management as the News, the paper will be distinct as to news and features.

C. S. Partridge, at one time city editor of the Washington Herald and more recently connected with the Cleveland Leader, will be managing editor of the Herald, with full control over both editorial and news columns. The Herald will receive the morning report of the Associated Press over a leased wire and will be issued daily except Monday.

LOCATE YOUR SOLDIER FRIEND AT A GLANCE.

Those with friends or relatives in khaki will be grateful to the New York World when they see the two-page map of the United States in its magazine section tomorrow. Every camp which houses or will house divisions of the National Guard or the National Army is accurately placed and marked with the name of the division. National Guard cantonments are marked in red, while those of the National Army are designated by blue stars.

The rules promulgated by the Post Office and covered in recent issues of THE FOURTH ESTATE on the proper methods of addressing soldiers are also clearly set forth as a supplement to the map.

WHEN METAL POISONS.

Many Linotype operators and machinists believe that the molten metal in the Linotype crucible produces fumes which are injurious to the lungs.

This is not a fact, says the Linotype Bulletin, because a temperature sufficiently high to produce lead fumes is never reached on the Linotype.

Type foundry and persons engaged in rubbing and preparing type are the ones who suffer. In all the processes, therefore, it is lead dust which has to be considered, and not fumes from molten lead at a temperature of 550 degrees, as employed in the Linotype.

Skimming the metal pot is far more likely to be injurious than the fumes of the molten metal, for in skimming the dross from the top of the machine pot or the remelting furnace a small cloud of dust arises when the ladle is emptied. Any vessel, therefore, of molten lead, in which skimming is necessary, requires a hood and exhaust shaft to carry off the dust found in the oxide or dross.

A separate exhaust can be arranged for the removal of the dust immediately above the point where the skimmings are deposited.

It follows, then, that dust arises from a bath of molten metal while being stirred, if dross or oxide is present in any noticeable quantity.

Linotype operators and machinists should remember, then, that the lead dust is injurious and not the metal fumes. It is not necessary to have a hood and exhaust on the Linotype proper for carrying off metal fumes, but it is desirable for carrying off gas or gasoline fumes from the pot burner.

The most urgent need for the hood and exhaust is at the point where the metal is stirred, or where the dross is skimmed and the ladle emptied.

LITTLE'S BIG JOB.

Luther B. Little, former newspaper man and later head of the publicity department of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, has been selected by the Fusion committee of New York to direct Mayor Mitchell's campaign for re-election.

The plant of the Seaforth (Minn.) Item is to be moved to Lucan.

A RECORD

Daily Net Paid

July, 1915 . . . 3178
Dec., 1916 . . . 5568
July, 1917 . . . 6054

A. B. C. statements.

Net cash earnings, sales and advertising, gain first 7 months 1917, over same period, 1915.

56½%

A remarkable record of growth in a field of keen competition.

FITCHBURG

(MASSACHUSETTS)

DAILY NEWS

"The Paper That Does Things."

Member Audit Bureau of Circulations

KANSAS CITY STAR LANDS "TEDDY."

COLONEL ROOSEVELT WILL COMMENT REGULARLY ON CURRENT EVENTS.

Theodore Roosevelt will become a member of the staff of the Kansas City Star on October 1, and will contribute by wire his comments on current events. The Star commented in its announcement as follows:

"The Star has long felt that a daily newspaper would give him the best possible medium for the expression of opinion on matters on which his views are of prime importance. In this belief Colonel Roosevelt has now come to acquiesce.

"Several courses were open to him, including that offered by an urgent invitation to write for a syndicate of newspapers. But he held that the strategic place of Kansas City in the very heart of the country, and the sharing of common ideals by himself and the Star, made this newspaper the appropriate medium with which to ally himself.

"The Star would be guilty of false modesty if it did not frankly confess its happiness in the acquisition of Colonel Roosevelt to its organization in the capacity of a regular contributor. The honor of such an acquisition is one of which any newspaper in America or Europe might well feel proud. Moreover, it believes that the connection thus established will arouse the keen interest of the country in general and of Kansas City in particular.

"It will make Kansas City the center of a momentous discussion of events of transcendent importance—a discussion that will be watched not only by the whole United States, but by all the nations of Europe as well.

"This newspaper counts itself fortunate to be able to do the public service of printing regular contributions from such a man."

Colonel Roosevelt, in acknowledging that he had joined the staff of the Star, said he would continue to contribute one editorial a month to the Metropolitan Magazine, on the staff of which he has been for more than a year.

MAY BE SOLDIER-EDITOR.

Linn A. F. Gale, editor of Gale's Magazine, Worcester, Mass., has been accepted in the draft and wants to continue his magazine at the cantonment where he is sent for training. Mr. Gale is a well known newspaper man of Albany, N. Y., and until a short time ago was editor of the Rensselaer Jeffersonian Democrat.

NASSAU QUALITY METALS

ALWAYS UNIFORM
ELECTROTYPE
LINOTYPE MONOTYPE
INTERTYPE
STEREOTYPE
AUTOPLATE
THOMPSONTYPE
COMPOSOTYPE

Manufactured by the
Nassau Smelting & Refining Works
606 West 29th Street NEW YORK

Save Your Stereotyping Blankets

With high and low type in the form, extra pressure is required in stereotyping to bring up the low letters. This causes undue wear and tear on the blankets. With the

Ludlow Typograph

there are no low letters. The constant uniformity in height-to-paper of Ludlow Slugs, preserves the life of your blankets.

Stereotyping blankets are expensive—this saving is worth while.

Know all the economies the Ludlow Typograph effects in newspaper production. Send for the complete Ludlow Literature.

MERGENTHALER LINOTYPE CO.

Sole Selling Agents

Tribune Building, New York

CHICAGO NEW ORLEANS
SAN FRANCISCO TORONTO

SOME NEW BOOKS.

"JAPAN IN WORLD POLITICS," by K. K. Kawakami; Macmillan Company, publisher.

Most of the chapters of this book were originally published as separate articles in the North American Review, Atlantic Monthly, Century Magazine, American Review of Reviews, Forum, New York Evening Post and Pearson's Magazine. The process of revision and elaboration produced a clear exposition of the relationship of Japan to our own country. But the equally interesting—and for a complete understanding of Japanese world policies—equally necessary, history of her relationship with the other world powers, is summarized in three brief chapters.

The newspaper world may not be pleased at the author's opinions of certain American daily papers. He may, moreover, have made statements difficult to refute.

It is not necessary, however, that we regard Kawakami's views as final. We find a great deal to commend in his fairness in criticism of both Japan and America, and this is particularly true with reference to the Japanese problems of our Pacific Coast states. Many of the "jingo" stories are shown in their true light by the author's knowledge of the facts of the situations out of which these stories sprung. A wide circulation of the book among the legislators of the Pacific Coast states would have no other than a good effect on the legislative program of these states.

"THE UNITED STATES POST OFFICE," by Daniel C. Roper, first assistant postmaster-general, 1913-1916; Funk & Wagnalls Company, publisher.

The author describes the growth of the American Post Office from its inception in the intercolonial postal union of Alexander Hamilton to its present enormous dimensions, intricate network of routes, and highly developed organization. It is a worth while story, told in popular style, of a department of our government the volume of whose business is almost unbelievable.

W. N. U. SOUTHERN SHIFTS.

Joe H. Simpson is now manager of the Atlanta office of the Western Newspaper Union, succeeding Frank E. Coffee, who has resigned to become a member of the Lewis-Seabrook Advertising Company, in the Georgia metropolis. Mr. Simpson has been manager of the Birmingham office and is succeeded by R. B. Vail, who has been connected with the W. N. U. for some time.

WEDDING BELLS.

Frank Ward O'Malley of the New York Sun and Miss Grace Edsall Dalrymple, well known newspaper artist and society woman, were married on September 1 in the Church of the Sacred Heart, New York, Owing to the recent death of Miss Dalrymple's mother the wedding was private.

Mr. O'Malley is widely known in the newspaper world and has a particularly wide acquaintance in theatrical and art circles. He is forty-one years old, was born in Pittston, Pa., and was educated at Notre Dame University. He afterward studied art, first in the Pennsylvania Academy of Art and later at the Art Student's League in New York. For the first four years after coming to New York he was an illustrator.

Immediately after the ceremony the couple left for the North Woods.

Lieutenant Richard Oulahan, U.S. R., son of Richard V. Oulahan, Washington correspondent of the New York Times, and Miss Mildred Bacon have become engaged.

Madison Worth Colwell, well known New York writer and publicity man, and Miss Dorothy Weld Raymond have announced their engagement. Mr. Colwell, since the entrance of the United States into the war, has been handling one branch of recruiting publicity and last week took the examination for admission to the aviation section of the Signal Corps, U.S.A. He is now awaiting the decision of the War Department.

A.P. CHICAGO CHANGES.

Among the recent changes in the Chicago offices of the Associated Press are the following:

Mason Taylor, night pony editor, has entered the second officers' training camp at Fort Sheridan.

Robert Brugere of the St. Louis office has been transferred to Chicago.

A. C. E. Schoeneman, formerly of the Mason City (Ia.) office and more recently in Chicago, has been transferred to Detroit.

New men in the Chicago office are Don Ewing of Omaha and R. A. Hall of Columbus.

Paul Brindel has been transferred to the Kansas City office. Before going to Chicago, Brindel was in the office of the Cedar Rapids (Ia.) Times-Tribune.

J. M. Miller has purchased the Burke (S. D.) Gazette and will assume active management of that paper in the near future.

J. M. HUBER

Manufacturer of Black and Colored

News Inks

Main Office: 65-67 W. Houston Street
NEW YORK CITY

Color, Varnish & Ink Factories
BROOKLYN, N. Y.
Carbon Black Works, DOLA, W. VA.

SERVICE BRANCHES
Boston, Baltimore, Chicago, Omaha,
Cincinnati, Los Angeles, St. Louis,
Philadelphia, San Francisco.

RECORD ADVERTISING IN THE SOUTH

PROMISED FOR THE FALL—ADVICE ON PAPER TRAFFIC AND CANTONMENTS FOR ARMY—OTHER NEWS.

Secretary-Treasurer Walter C. Johnson of the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association declares that:

"Reports received from a number of members of the S.N.P.A. indicate that there has been no so-called summer dullness this year. Business has in a number of cases been as brisk as during the spring and fall months.

Circulations have not only held their own, but contrary to the usual custom have shown splendid increases. The volume of advertising has shown increases over the corresponding months last year.

"One of the most encouraging features of this increase in advertising is the fact that a considerable portion of the increase is national advertising.

"Indications are that the daily newspapers of the South will break all records this fall so far as increases in circulation and advertising are concerned. Increased cost of news print and other supplies, advances in labor and other expenses, brought on by the war, combined with that of the impending war tax, are causing many to speculate as to whether or not they will be able to show a profit for the year."

The S.N.P.A. also warns its members that:

"At no time has there been a greater demand for freight cars than the present, according to the car service commission of the railroads' war board. The movement of lumber to the cantonments and supplies for the government has brought about the use of more than 100,000 cars. The movement of grain and food products is going to be especially heavy during the next few months. The 600,000 recruits to be transported to cantonments and other traffic movements due to the war will interfere with freight movements.

"In view of the above conditions, publishers should watch their news print stock closely and see that a sufficient quantity is on hand and in transit to take care of shortages likely to occur through delayed shipments.

PRESENCE OF ARMY CAMPS.

"The fact that a great many Southern cities will soon have army camps in their vicinity will bring about changes in established local customs and especially with the retail trade in these cities.

"Publishers should suggest to their merchants that they visit cities where camps are already located with a view to obtaining first-hand information from dealers in their same lines as to the kind of goods for which there will be an extraordinary demand. The dealers will learn that the needs of the soldiers are many and varied and a knowledge of their requirements will prove quite helpful in buying stocks. Practically every line of business is affected either directly or indirectly through the presence of soldiers."

Other interesting points in the S. N.P.A. current report are:

PUBLISHER HANSON'S BUILDING.

"All Alabama, the whole South, and Birmingham in particular, should be proud of the great newspaper plant built in Birmingham by the Birmingham News—a plant which will compare favorably with any similar plants in the world—according to Edgar M. Foster, business manager of the Nashville Banner, who was in Birmingham recently, on which occasion he was personally conducted through the building by V. H. Hanson.

MEMPHIS MEN TO ARMY AND NAVY.

"Every department of the Memphis Commercial-Appeal has contributed volunteers to Uncle Sam's army and navy. A total of twenty-seven employees and former employees make up the long list who have volunteered for service with the colors, a majority of whom selected places in the three regiments of the Tennessee National Guard. Business Manager J. W. Hays has given three sons to the National Guard; C. P. J. Mooney, managing editor, has given his youngest son. The business office, editorial, mechanical and art departments are represented in the roster. Even six of the paper's office boys, copy boys and elevator boys have heard the call to higher duty and have joined the colors.

PUBLICITY SUGGESTIONS.

"Walter F. Dumser, director of publicity of the United States Public Service, Reserve, Washington, D. C., is asking publishers for suggestions in the conduct of this department. One publisher, in replying, stated that while the publishers of the United States have shown that they are glad to do everything possible for the government, a great many feel that they are getting a 'raw deal' in return.

SANFORD'S DREAMS REALIZED.

"Ever since the fire which destroyed the Hotel Imperial, Knoxville, Tenn., A. F. Sanford, publisher of the Journal & Tribune, has dreamed of a new and more handsome building on the site, which is in close proximity to the office of his paper. Sanford's expectations are about to be realized, as is shown in the announcement that actual building operation on the new Hotel Faragut will be commenced on September 15."

BIG ADS FOR ARMOUR.

Plans for a record advertising campaign during the coming year were formulated at the annual banquet of the Armour Packing Company's advertising staff at the Hotel La Salle, Chicago, on August 31.

BUSINESS IN WEST BOOMING.

NEWSPAPERS OF THE PRAIRIES ACCLAIM "DIRECTORY OF SPECIALS."

EDITOR THE FOURTH ESTATE:

SIR: On my return from a long trip West, calling on my papers, I feel that I must write you and tell you what a splendid hit you made with your issue of July 28, giving the National Directory of Special Representatives.

All of our papers were very glad indeed to have the information contained in that issue and you would be surprised how much they were interested in it and in looking over the directory to see who represented their competitors' and their friends' papers in the East and West.

I believe you can do a good thing for the business by getting out this directory once a year.

I made one jump from Chicago to Salt Lake City and spent most of my time west of the Mississippi River, that is, in Salt Lake City, Denver, Kansas City and St. Louis.

Everywhere I went I found that local business is better than it was a year ago. I never saw the Western country so prosperous or the people so liberal in spending money. You could see this plainly by looking in the display windows of the different stores in the cities.

The class of goods, dresses, etc., displayed would prove to you that the people are buying a better grade of clothing, dresses, hats, etc., than ever before and you could easily see by observing the people on the street that the entire population of the Western cities is more prosperous than it ever has been.

I noticed this particularly in Salt Lake and Denver. These two cities are booming. They do not seem to realize that there is any war so far as business is concerned.

Kansas City is growing very rapidly and is busier than it has been in years. The farmers in that district and around St. Louis have immense crops and are getting the biggest prices they ever secured.

I was away for two weeks and was agreeably surprised on my return on going over our orders to find that we actually sent out from our New York office in August this year more business than we did last year. Every indication all over the country is for a big fall business. I know that it is so in our Chicago, Detroit, Kansas City and Atlanta offices as well as in New York.

You know I have been in the advertising business for thirty-six years and am not inclined to be over-enthusiastic, but I cannot help telling you that I believe (in spite of the war, which, I realize, as we all do, is a very serious thing and is going to be even more serious than it is now) we are going to have about the best fall business we have ever had in the newspaper and advertising world.

EDWARD S. CONE,

Cone, Lorenzen & Woodman.

MERGER IN GETTYSBURG.

The Gettysburg (Pa.) Star-Sentinel has ceased publication, its subscription list having been taken over by the Gettysburg Times-News.

NEW JOB FOR BAUMGARTNER.

J. Hampton Baumgartner, publicity representative of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, has resigned to become assistant to President S. Davies Warfield of the National Association of Owners of Railroad Securities. He entered upon his new duties this week.

Mr. Baumgartner has a wide acquaintance in financial, business and publishing circles. He has directed the affairs of the Baltimore & Ohio's publicity department since July, 1911, and has been identified with the various national publicity campaigns conducted by the railroads to enlighten and educate the public concerning the problems facing the railroads.

J. HAMPTON BAUMGARTNER.

As publicity representative of the Baltimore & Ohio, his efforts have also been directed towards promoting friendly public relations through the medium of the press and other agencies between the railroad and its patrons and the communities it serves, insuring an intelligent understanding of both the position of the public and that of the railroad.

He is a native of Westminster, Md., and is 30 years of age. Prior to his appointment as publicity representative of the Baltimore & Ohio he was connected for several years with the executive offices of the company under Vice-President George M. Shriver.

DETROIT SATURDAY NIGHT

Holds a commanding position in the progressive and prosperous homes of Detroit and Michigan.

One reason why it gained 35% in circulation and advertising during 1916.

Represented by
G. LOGAN PAYNE COMPANY
New York Chicago Boston Detroit

THE ORGANIZATION OF A DAILY NEWSPAPER.

ARTICLE XII.

USE OF A TIME-SHEET IN SEGREGATING PRODUCTIVE AND NON-PRODUCTIVE COSTS IN OFFICES.

By EDMUND WALKER,
Herald Building, Chicago.

The distinction between productive and non-productive expenses may at first sight appear to be very easily laid down, but in actual practice I have found a wide divergence of opinion among publishers, and this is an all important matter in the calculation of our costs.

Generally speaking, one may say that productive expenses, viewed from an accounting standpoint, are only those expenses directly incurred in the producing of the article to be sold or those expenses necessary to bring raw materials into the condition where they may be sold.

Every business is engaged in adding utility to commodity. Do not confuse "utility" with "usefulness."

Water is useful, but has no utility. There are different kinds of "utility."

The cold storage corporation adds "utility of time" to a commodity, the railroads add "utility of place" to a commodity, the manufacturer adds "utility of form" to raw materials.

The publisher adds "utility of form" to raw materials.

These are economic terms, but if thoroughly grasped will help us decide more intricate questions later on.

Obviously news print is part of the production cost of your paper, so is ink, stereo wages, composition, both hand and machine, and press wages. That you would at once agree to, but what percentage of your composing room wages represents "distribution"—is that productive?

Distribution is necessary and useful just as the rent is, but it is not represented in the finished product, and it is no more productive than the wages of the janitor who cleans out the composing room.

No publisher who has not a costing system knows what his distribution costs him, and a higher percentage of your pay roll is going into that channel than you might think.

We see then that we cannot take the broad item of wages and charge them all to production costs—the wages must be analyzed and you must ascertain what you are paying for.

Distribution is merely one of the non-productive operations your mechanical employees perform. How about repairs, cleaning machines, corrections to advertisements, standing time? All these, too, are non-productive.

To accomplish the desired result a cost system is installed, and this subject will be dealt with in a later issue of THE FOURTH ESTATE, but suffice it to say that each mechanical employee is furnished daily with a time sheet and he records what class of work (not which particular job, as in a job printing business) he was doing.

This may at first sight appear to necessitate a lot of detail work, but a very simple plan is to have a sheet ruled with the hours divided into ten equal parts of six minutes each.

The employee then merely draws a line in the column representing the class of work performed and each column is quickly totaled on the adding machine, or otherwise, and the total is expressed in so many hours and so many decimal parts of an hour.

For example, the total of the advertising composition column might read 6.5 hours, which would be 6 hours and 30 minutes. This allows the hours to be added up and subtracted and multiplied in exactly the same manner as dollars and cents and obviates all awkward calculations of minutes.

On the left hand side of the time sheet we will group the productive classifications and on the right hand side the non-productive classifications.

The sheets for the different departments will be of different colors, which will allow us to quickly separate them each morning for posting the totals. I will be glad to send forms to any reader on request.

Sometimes in classifying expenses one is apt to get confused between productive and non-productive, and more especially is this the case when the statement is made that all expenses are necessary for the proper conduct of the business and that the editorial department and the advertising department and the accounting department are all productive of some part of the whole business.

This is all very true, looked at from one viewpoint, but for purposes of costing and accounting and for purposes of ascertaining the cost of any advertisement or of an hour's time or an issue of your paper, these must be regarded as non-productive and their sum total cost must be treated as an "on-cost" expense and loaded onto the productive expenses. Thus each hour of productive time may be made to bear its pro rata proportion of the burden charges.

Speaking from an economic standpoint, wages, capital and land are all productive elements of your business, but in this article we are not interested in dividing your business into economic divisions and parts. Therefore think along the lines first laid down only.

When determining whether or not an expense is productive or non-productive ask yourself if that expense was "directly" incurred and is "directly" reflected in the finished product—your newspaper.

Insurance on your plant is not reflected in the finished product, although it is very necessary—therefore insurance charges are non-productive.

JEFFERSONIAN IS BARRED.

GEORGIA COURT OF EQUITY DENIES INJUNCTION OF
T. W. WATSON.

Judge Emery Speer, in the United States District Court for the Southern District of Georgia, at Macon, has rendered a decision denying to Thomas W. Watson's Jeffersonian second class mailing privileges, the reason being that the periodical has advocated "treason, disloyalty and mutiny."

Watson brought an injunction suit against J. Q. West, a Georgia postmaster, to compel him to admit the Jeffersonian to the second class privileges.

Postmaster General Burleson, after charging the existence of an organized propaganda to discredit and handicap the government in the prosecution of the war, declared that such matter was in violation of section 3 of title 1 and sections 1 and 2 of title 12 of the Espionage Act and was nonmailable.

He held that "for these reasons the publication is not a newspaper or other periodical publication within the meaning of the laws of the United States governing mailable matter of the second class, and the deponent so decided after due and thorough consideration of the matters and things stated herein."

In this conclusion Judge Speer found that he was fully justified and added:

"There is, moreover, an additional consideration of the weightiest character, which obliges the denial of such an injunction as is here sought. An appeal is made to an American court of equity to oblige the postal authorities of our country to contribute its mailing facilities for the furtherance and success of a propaganda against the nation as distinct as it is truculent and dangerous."

"Under the familiar rule in equity such an appeal is addressed largely to the discretion of the court. It is to be determined by the conscience of the chancellor, and always with proper regard to the public's welfare."

"And, a party seeking this extraordinary remedy, under a rule equally familiar, must come into court with clean hands. Can one be said to come with clean hands when the policy, methods and efforts he would maintain may cause his hands to be imbued in the blood of the demoralized and defeated armies of his countrymen?"

"If by such propaganda American soldiers may be convinced that they are the victims of lawless and unconstitutional oppression, vain indeed will be the efforts to make their deeds rival the glowing traditions of their hero strain."

"On the contrary, the world will behold America's degradation and shame, the disintegration under fire of our line of battle, the inglorious flight of our defenders, like the recent debacle of the Russian army, brought about by methods much the same, the ultimate conquest of our country, the destruction of its institutions and the perishing of popular government on earth."

"The preliminary injunction is denied."

Searching inquiry into the utterances of German language newspapers in the United States, socialistic magazines, and literature of so-called peace societies and associations is being conducted by the Department of Justice.

The department considers its position strengthened by the recent decision of Federal Judges Hough of New York and Speer of Georgia in sustaining the action of Postmaster General Burleson in refusing the privileges of the mails to the Masses and the Jeffersonian.

Recent utterances and activities of Mayor Thompson of Chicago and the Republican, a newspaper which supports him in connection with the so-called convention there of the People's Council of America for Democracy and Peace, are also being scrutinized.

The department has held repeatedly that it is not its function to prohibit or to break up pacifist meetings or conventions, but a close scrutiny of the utterances of speakers and others at such meetings is maintained to determine violation of the Espionage act.

Included in the investigation of alleged seditious publications and others of a character regarded as open to question are individual newspapers and magazines published in German in this country and the advertising and other literature of the American Union Against Militarism, the People's Council, the League of Conscientious Objectors, and other organizations affiliated with them or of a similar character.

The time is not far distant, in the opinion of some officials, when the Government will begin prosecutions. Hundreds of newspaper and magazine articles whose propriety is admittedly open to two interpretations have been placed before the officials. In most instances, it is said, these articles have been cleverly worded so as to bring them virtually within the law, while at the same time creating the effect desired.

A large number of articles and editorials under investigation do not attack the Government, but center their criticism upon allies of the United States. What proceedings, if any, can be taken in these instances, it was said, depends wholly upon the wording of each article.

ARRESTS FOLLOW BOMBING OF PUBLISHER'S HOME.

Seven opponents of conscription have been seized by the Montreal police, charged with complicity in the dynamiting on August 9 of the summer home of Lord Atholstan, publisher of the Montreal Star. The Star's policy has been strongly in favor of conscription and Lord Atholstan received several threatening letters before the bomb was set off under his residence in Cartierville.

Elie Lalumiere, head of the Constitutional party, an anti-conscriptionist organization, has been charged with murder in connection with the dynamiting and the names of the seven others arrested have been withheld by the police pending further developments.

If You Entertain

you will now and then need the services of professional entertainers—or it may happen you will find yourself upon the entertainment committee appointed by your lodge, club, bunch or society, in which event a dollar ad stating your requirements if inserted in

The BILLBOARD

will place you in touch with hundreds of humorists, musicians, vocalists, magicians, etc., etc., or if you do not feel competent to choose, with agents who purvey entertainment.

Weekly. Forms close at 12 noon Mondays.
The Billboard Publishing Co.
Broadway and 49d St. NEW YORK
Chicago, St. Louis Cincinnati and San Francisco.

(Member A. B. C.)

LIKE OUR The WORLD is

The steady onward and upward march furnishes a constant topic for conversation

August

August is usually a poor month to break records, but all months are alike to the WORLD.

The latest report of the Statistical Bureau of the New York Evening Post shows that out of FIFTEEN daily newspapers in Greater New York, ELEVEN show a LOSS in the volume of advertising, ranging from 5,901 to 78,053 agate lines. Only FOUR show a GAIN.

The NEW YORK WORLD'S gain for August was 87,878 lines!

SOME AUGUST HISTORY—The Post figures illustrate, probably better than anything else, the steady growth of the New York WORLD in the estimation of careful advertisers. Here is a four-year record of advertising published in the WORLD during August:

1917	1916	1915	1914
1,009,771	921,893	780,572	746,199

The Answer? Simply that THE SOLDIERS MARCHING ON!

of the NEW YORK WORLD in Metropolitan advertising circles.

1917, to date

The increase in the volume of advertising printed in the WORLD is not confined to August, or any other single month.

The Post report, referred to on the left, shows that in 1917, from January 1st to August 31st, inclusive, THE WORLD LEADS ALL the newspapers, MORNING and EVENING, in the METROPOLITAN DISTRICT in ADVERTISING VOLUME, as well as in INCREASE—and it is MORE THAN A MILLION AHEAD of its nearest competitor.

The relative standing of the morning newspapers is shown by the following table from January 1 to August 31, 1917, as against 1916

	1917	1916	GAIN	LOSS
WORLD . . .	8,915,486	8,131,401	784,085
Times	7,817,447	7,184,539	632,908
American . .	5,871,180	6,148,052		276,872
Herald	4,852,482	4,835,583	16,899
Tribune . . .	3,066,573	2,732,370	334,203
Sun	2,736,262	2,530,687	205,575

WORLD PAYS ADVERTISERS

THE FOURTH ESTATE

A NEWSPAPER FOR THE MAKERS OF NEWSPAPERS AND INVESTORS IN ADVERTISING.

Entered as second class matter in the New York Post Office, March 29, 1894. Issued every Saturday by THE FOURTH ESTATE Publishing Company, Ernest F. Birmingham, President and Treasurer, Fremont W. Spicer, Vice-President and Secretary, 232 West 59th Street, New York City.

Subscription: TWO DOLLARS a year. Postage free in the United States, Hawaii, Porto Rico, the Philippines and Mexico. Postage extra to Canada, 52c; to other countries in Postal Union, $1.04.

Subscribers should have their copies of THE FOURTH ESTATE addressed to their homes, so as to avoid chance of loss in the mass of exchanges (second and third class matter) which goes to all offices.

Single copies, TEN CENTS (except Special Editions, 25 cents).

Back Numbers—Less than 3 months old, 25 cents; more than 3 months old, $1 each.

OFFICES AND PRINTING HOUSE
Broadway and 59th Street
232 West 59th St. NEW YORK
Columbus Circle.
Telephones, 7740, 7741, 7742 Columbus

ERNEST F. BIRMINGHAM, Publisher

No. 1228.

FOR THE WEEK ENDING SEPTEMBER 8, 1917

HOW LONG IS CANADA TO BE OUR PAPER DICTATOR?

A report just issued by the Canadian director of forestry on Canada's exports of pulp wood and paper pulp to the United States shows a condition of dependency by this country on Canada for news print paper that is shocking.

The report shows that in 1916 Canada exported to the United States 1,009,207 cords of pulp wood to be made into pulp and paper here.

Canada's exports for 1916 of mechanical and chemical pulp to the United States were 468,761 tons.

Some part of the imported pulp wood and wood pulp is used in the manufacture of other grades of paper than news print.

Altogether this raw material provided for the making of well over 1,000,000 tons of paper in the United States in 1916.

Besides, Canada's paper mills supplied us during 1916 with 468,000 tons of news print paper.

The consumption of news print paper in the United States during 1916 was practically 1,700,000 tons.

It is safe to say that the United States supplies less than 20 per cent of the material that daily goes into the news print paper consumed in the United States.

Is not this a deplorable state of affairs?

The United States under present conditions is entirely at the mercy of Canadian paper manufacturers.

And unless something is done quickly to make the United States news print users independent, it is sad to contemplate what the future may bring about in the way of absolute dictation of news print terms to Americans by Canadian manufacturers.

The one feasible way for the United States to declare paper independence from Canada is to "unlock" the water powers and other natural resources possessed by our own nation.

Today conditions for properly working these resources are prohibitive to investors, as the law provides no guarantee for protection to operators.

A permit may be given today and

The advertising forms close on Thursday. Advertisements should be received as early in the week as possible to insure proper classification.

ADVERTISING RATES.

Transient, 50 cents a line; agate measure (14 lines to the inch; 140 lines to the column; 560 lines to the page).

One page, $280; Front page, $400.

Discounts for consecutive insertions: One month, 10 per cent; two months, 20 per cent; three months, 30 per cent; six months, 40 per cent; one year, 50 per cent. Discounts based upon advance payment.

Small advertisements under classified headings, such as Help Wanted, For Sale, To Let, Instruction, Writers, Correspondents, Office Necessaries, 25 cents a line (about 7 words) each insertion, without discount. Situations Wanted 10 cents a line net.

Advertisements in special position (not less than 25 lines in depth of column) double price.

cancelled tomorrow.

The Walsh Bill, the Small Bill and the Shields Bill now before Congress provide for the issuance of 50-year permits to operate natural resources, and they provide that the Government shall have no right to cancel permits except on violation of the contract by the permittee; or by mutual consent; or by reimbursing the investor for the improvements he has made.

Nature has largely segregated her natural resources in the far Western states. There forests necessary to the manufacture of wood pulp and paper line the banks of the falling water. Pine, spruce, larch and hemlock timber is wasting each year in our Western forests, contiguous to wasting water powers sufficient to produce, at cheapest cost, all the wood pulp and paper required by the newspapers of this country.

Why not give those who would develop our wasting water-power the right to work, the right to build and expand and develop, the right to help create a greater and more powerful industrial nation?

Why not give them laws to work under, which, while placing them under the constant supervision of the public authorities, and safe-guarding every public interest, yet shall be of such fair and businesslike character that under their operation men may hope for a generous return for their work and their risk in a necessarily hazardous business, and capital be assured of a safe investment?

The American Newspaper Publishers Association is doing its utmost to awaken the American newspaper publishers to the wisdom of doing their best to help bring about the passage of the Walsh, Small or Shields Bill.

THE FOURTH ESTATE time and again has reiterated the necessity of concerted support by the publishers to get the measure through to a law at the present session of Congress.

If any publishers have not yet realized the need of cooperating, can they afford to do so any longer in the face of such mocking figures as show that the United States supplies only 20 per cent of the material that goes into their news print?

We will have to stand Canada's dictation of paper terms until a law releases our resources.

This is sad, but true.

How can any American newspaper publisher stand by idly and refuse to aid in pulling his country out of a position that rates it second to another nation in any respect?

America has the natural resources to be independent in paper making. Therefore it is a patriotic duty to help loose its bonds.

Get into touch with the A.N.P.A. at once and find out the best way you can help.

THE NEWSPAPERS' PART IN COAL CONSERVATION.

As a patriotic duty newspapers should emphasize to their readers that now is the time for every user of coal to endeavor to reduce his coal requirements.

Heretofore, the man who used more coal than he needed might feel that he caused no loss except to his own bank account. Few were influenced by thought of conserving the world's supply of coal.

Today coal is a sinew of war, and he who unnecessarily reduces the country's available stock of coal may curtail the nation's energy in the great industrial conflict.

In the past, if the available supply of coal was not sufficient for all needs, however extravagant, new mines could be opened and, by heavier withdrawals from the great supply of coal in the ground, even the most extravagant users of coal could be supplied without interfering with other industries.

Under such conditions those endeavoring to arouse a widespread desire to eliminate the wasteful use of coal have found slow response from a public accustomed to think more of the present than of the future, and many industrial plants using 50 per cent more coal in their power plants than necessary to produce the same power have not allowed their attention to be directed to the economy offered by good methods of stoking.

No thinking man can fail to realize the obligation which the war situation imposes upon the user of coal. On a vast scale the situation is similar to that where people are in an open boat at sea with a limited supply of food. The man who wastes coal today is an enemy of mankind.

Under these circumstances all newspapers are justified in calling upon all men to give thought to avoiding waste of coal.

Let every man consider how his coal requirements can be reduced.

Induce all organizations of business men to engage in a vigorous effort to promote the discussion of wasteful methods in coal consumption and the adoption in all power power plants of those stoking methods which produce power without waste of coal.

There is a great opportunity for associations, particularly engineering societies, to conduct campaigns of education.

The executive committee of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States is forming a special committee to act as a clearing house of efforts to reduce the unnecessary consumption of coal.

Urge business men to form local committees to co-operate with Chamber of Commerce committee, without delay. There is real work to be done.

Newspapers joining the coal conservation movement can work along the following five points of suggestion to local coal users; including themselves:

1—Inquire into the methods employed by your fireman and consider his methods in relation to those suggested by the Bureau of Mines.

2—Learn what plants in your locality secure the best results from coal.

3—Endeavor to have the wasteful users of coal profit by the best experience of the locality.

4—Improve all local methods by consultation with the Bureau of Mines and study of the stoking methods recommended by the Bureau.

5—Buy your coal as near home as possible.

IS YOUR BID IN FOR THE NATION'S NEW WEALTH?

Business reports from all parts of the country continue to indicate that unexampled prosperity is being enjoyed by various industries and that the outlook is favorable for business for some time to come, at least.

Newspaper publishers of the South this week joined with those of the North, as already noted in THE FOURTH ESTATE, in reporting that unprecedented fall advertising is being booked for their newspapers.

All this serves to justify the prediction that the fall will be a record newspaper advertising season for publishers who go about it properly to get business.

In connection with this prediction a glance at the national business record for the month of August is enlightening. Bradstreet's points out it is worth noting that August this year had fewer failures than in any month for four years past, and also that the August total this year was the smallest reported in that month since 1911.

Liabilities in August showed a decrease from those in July, and were the lightest recorded in August since 1911.

Very much the same showing is recorded for the eight months' period, the failures being the fewest reported since 1911, and the liabilities being the smallest since 1909.

There were only 999 failures in the month of August, as reported to Bradstreet's Journal, a decrease of 4.7 per cent from July, and of 23 per cent from August of a year ago.

Liabilities for August were $13,458,873, a decrease a 22 per cent from July, and of 22 per cent from August a year ago.

Continued activity is noted, by the New York Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin, in the formation of new enterprises.

Incorporations in the Eastern states last month with a capital of $1,000,000 or over involved $382,100,000.

This is considerably above the average monthly total, although the figures show a falling off as compared with July of $34,250,000. But in that month incorporations were exceptionally heavy, having made the best showing in years.

In August, 1916, the output of new companies aggregated $113,472,000.

The grand total of all companies chartered with $100,000 or over covering all states amounted to $462,061,000, comparing with $174,933,000 in August a year ago and $148,186,000 two years ago.

The incorporations are of a diversified character, so much so that all lines of business are included in the returns.

Also notice that an analysis of the foreign trade of the United States during the first three years of the war shows that exports from this country to the neutral nations doubled and exports to the belligerent nations trebled.

In the fiscal year 1917 exports to the neutral sections of the world other than those in Europe were $1,838,000,000, against $877,000,000 in 1914, while those to neutral Europe were $414,000,000, against $184,000,000 in 1914. Total exports to all neutral countries in the fiscal year 1917 were $2,252,000,000, compared with $1,061,000,000 in 1914.

Exports to belligerent Europe in the fiscal year 1917 were $4,042,000,000, against $1,304,000,000 in 1914.

Wise business men are doing the above noted record advertising in order to insure their participation in the distribution of the new national wealth.

Newspaper publishers should be doing the same thing—and as never before.

Their natural bid for business is to the national advertiser, and the best way to reach him is through his national advertising manager who reads THE FOURTH ESTATE, his trade newspaper.

NOTE AND COMMENT.

New Yorkers will have an opportunity to hear half a dozen eminent musicians, both instrumental and vocal, on September 27, when the Humanitarian Cult will give the first of its concerts for the 1917-1918 season, but only those who subscribe to the Humanitarian Magazine will receive tickets to Madison Square Garden, where the concert will take place. The funds realized will go to the Humanitarian Magazine.

A booklet reproduction of a series of war editorials by Lafayette Young, from his Des Moines Capital just issued, breathes the writer's characteristic spirit of true patriotism. Mr. Young has been editor and publisher of the Capital for twenty-seven years and he is also chairman of the Iowa Council of Defence. He spent four months in Europe during the first year of the war, and has had a full understanding of the European situation from the start. This he has used to give his paper's readers a full understanding of the war.

The Mergenthaler Linotype Company has just issued an impressive booklet entitled "More Profits in Booklet and Catalog Composition," designed by W. A. Dwiggin, and the composition was entirely from the Linotype.

The text bristles with good advice for the advertising manager, and points the way to economies in printing production.

Altogether the booklet is a handsome example of what can be done with ideas and a Linotype.

Advertising managers, and others interested in the production of booklets and catalogs will find much information in "More Profits in Booklet and Catalog Composition," a copy of which will be furnished gratis by the Mergenthaler Linotype Company, Tribune Building, New York.

Few city rooms in the country can boast of the rarefied atmosphere of the Chicago Evening Journal. "No Smoking" signs are rigidly enforced in that department.

John R. Palendek of Chicago, editor and publisher of the United Serbian and the Balkan World, is setting an excellent example for other foreign language publishers by lecturing at different points in Chicago on patriotism and loyalty to Uncle Sam in the present war.

The Brooklyn Daily Eagle made a hit with the recruits for the National Army who paraded in Brooklyn on September 5 by distributing copies of an address to the "rookies" delivered by the chaplain of a local regiment at the public celebration in their honor.

PURELY PERSONAL.

Colonel O. S. Hershman, president and editor of the Pittsburg Press, will leave his summer home at Allenhurst, N. J., for Pittsburg on September 10.

Edward E. Britton, editor of Josephus Daniels's newspaper, the Raleigh News and Observer, has been appointed private secretary to the Secretary of the Navy.

Victor Murdock, editor of the Wichita (Kan.) Eagle, was sworn in this week as a member of the Federal Trade Commission, completing the membership of that body.

Marcellus E. Foster, publisher of the Houston (Tex.) Chronicle, was in New York this week.

Clarence Snyder, Jr., assistant general manager of the International News Service, is on a fishing trip in Pennsylvania.

Harry M. Bitner, managing editor of the Pittsburg Press, has been in New York City this week on a business trip.

Charles M. Stauffer, former business manager of the Santa Fe New Mexican Printing Company, is the father of a new baby girl.

Griffin L. Frost, an employee of the Rock Springs (Wyo.) Miner, was severely injured in a recent fall.

Wesley L. Robertson, editor of the Gallatin (Mo.) Democrat, has been appointed by the governor, a member of the state board of charities.

Ed A. Palmer, editor of the Kingman (Kan.) Leader-Courier, recently underwent an operation for spinal trouble and his condition is now very favorable.

Miss Mary Dougherty, society editor of the Chicago American, visited Des Moines on her vacation and was a guest of honor at a luncheon given by the Scoops, an organization of Des Moines newspaper women.

H. Serine led the field in the qualifying tournament this week for the New York Newspaper Golf Club's September tournament. He had a card of 84—14, 70.

Stanislaus Szewajk, for twenty-five years editor-in-chief of the Chicago Polish Daily News, has been made a Papal Knight of St. Sylvester.

E. T. Sandberg, newspaper correspondent of Duluth newspapers in Aurora, Minn., is about the busiest man in the town. In addition to covering the news of Aurora, Sandberg also serves as mayor, chief of fire department, member of park board, member of library board, manager of moving picture theater and drives his own automobile.

George E. Whitenack, city editor of the Wilmington (Del.) Sunday Star, has been visiting at Rehoboth, Del.

James M. Thacker, managing editor of the Starch Room Journal and publisher of the Hamilton County Mason, is on a visit to his home in Richmond, Va. It is "Jim's" first visit home in four years.

George Carter, editor of the Wilmington (Del.) Evening Journal, a few days ago entertained a party of friends on a fishing trip to Bowers' Beach, Del.

Carey Orr, cartoonist for the Chicago Tribune, has returned from his vacation.

George W. Cottingham, who was sent to Houston to cover the Texas military camp for the Chicago Evening Post, has been compelled to give up newspaper work. He is now serving Uncle Sam in the training camp at Rockford, Ill.

Harry Smith, news editor of the Chicago Daily News, has gone to Canada for his annual fishing and hunting trip.

R. J. Finnegan, managing editor of the Chicago Journal, is back from his vacation spent in northern Wisconsin. W. S. Blum, city editor, was acting managing editor during Mr. Finnegan's absence.

J. S. Mason, managing editor of the Chicago Evening Post, is back from a vacation spent along the Maine coast.

William S. Haddock, circulation manager of the Pittsburg Press, is the leading candidate for the Republican nomination for sheriff of Allegheny County.

Peter S. Lambros, editor of the Greek Star in Chicago, is the father of a brand-new boy, born on his father's birthday, August 28.

A. H. Laidlaw, of the Chicago City News Bureau, is home from a vacation spent at his old home in southern Indiana.

Paul Cowles, superintendent of the Associated Press in Chicago, has gone to San Francisco to meet his daughter, whose husband (Lieutenant Marcus of the Navy) was killed recently in a submarine explosion at Cavite, P. I.

Frederick K. Reybold, managing editor of the Wilmington (Del.) Evening Journal, is spending his vacation on his country place near New Castle, Del.

B. H. Beitler, city editor, and Ben Hecht, feature writer on the Chicago Daily News, are back from their vacations.

Miss Ruth Parrett, society editor of the Columbus State Journal, has been on her vacation. During her absence, Miss Ruth Edith Young acted in her place.

Royden K. Jones, city editor of the Wilmington (Del.) Morning News, has returned from his vacation, which he spent at Rehoboth Beach, Del.

LEUSCHER ON THE JOB.

Mark A. Leuscher is back at his old job as press representative of the New York Hippodrome.

STAFF CHANGES.

T. L. Gard, Associated Press operator, has been shifted from Columbus, O., to Chicago. Wyman McKelvy has been assigned to the Columbus office.

Harry C. Simons has resigned an advertising manager of the Edward Wren Company, Springfield, O., to join the advertising staff of the Cleveland Press. Formerly Mr. Simons was with the Springfield Sun.

Charles Copenharve, for many years city editor of the Butte office of the Anaconda (Mont.) Standard, and Charles L. Stevens have resigned from the Standard.

Roy E. Murphy, formerly connected with the Omaha (Neb.) Bee, and recently Associated Press operator on the Muscatine Journal, has resigned.

L. M. Hildebrand, who has been city editor of the Newton (Ia.) Daily News, has gone to an officers' training camp.

Theodore R. Palm, for the last three years a member of the advertising department of the Twentieth Century Farmer, Omaha, has enlisted in the aviation corps.

Joseph D. Salkeld, veteran reporter, has been placed in charge of the Chicago Journal staff at the Rockford (Ill.) camp. Reporters in the "crew" are H. M. Beardsley and Edwin Baird.

Cornelius Rourke of the Chicago Daily News staff has been assigned to cover the military camps at Houston, Tex. Paul Leach will cover the Rockford, Ill., camp for the News.

Carl Sandberg, formerly on the Chicago Day Book, has become a member of the reporting staff of the Chicago Daily News.

W. P. Stone, night north wire editor in the Chicago office of the Associated Press, has entered the Rantoul aviation camp.

E. J. Cour, reporter-photographer, has been assigned to cover the Rockford training camp for the Chicago Evening Post. Cour is a reporter who takes his own pictures.

Paul Crissey, financial editor of the Chicago Journal, has given up newspaper work to join the new National Army.

ROCHE'S NEW PLAY.

Arthur Somers Roche, a former New York reporter and now an author who has gained a big reputation in the last few months, will see his first play, "A Scrap of Paper," produced at Atlantic City on Monday evening with Robert Hilliard in the leading role. The play was dramatized by Owen Davis from the serial that first appeared in the Saturday Evening Post. Mr. Roche will take a party of friends to Atlantic City by automobile on Sunday to see the opening. In the party will be Mr. and Mrs. Ray D. Lillibridge and Mr. and Mrs. O. O. McIntyre and Miss Ethel Petit.

DUDLEY HAS NEW SHOW.

"Bide" Dudley and Mrs. Dudley have returned to New York after spending the summer at Sea Gate. Mr. Dudley, who runs a dramatic column in the Evening World, is co-author of "Odds and Ends" which is to be produced by Jack Norworth at the Jack Norworth Theater this month.

CIRCULATION FEATURES for Circulation Managers

Timely, down-to-date premium specialties, popular prices, best quality obtainable. When in doubt, write to "Blake," the Premium Specialty man. He will send you full particulars on his latest premium offer.

S. BLAKE WILLSDEN
29 E. Madison St., CHICAGO.

China Premiums ARE THE BEST!

Distinctive Service in Many Sizes
Write for Samples.

The Limoges China Co.
SEBRING, OHIO

GETTING INTO THE CANTONMENTS.

HOW A NEW ENGLAND PAPER DID IT—INTRODUCING NEW EDITIONS.

By H. E. DUNCAN,
Circulation Manager, Fitchburg (Mass.) News.

We were recently planning to inject an edition into Ayer, some fifteen miles east of Fitchburg, and now famous as the site of the New England cantonment for the new army.

Incidentally, the Daily News was aware of the coming of this cantonment long before any newspaper in the country, and we had laid our tentative plans to secure circulation and advertising early in the spring. We realized that a city of 30,000 soldiers, 10,000 civilian employees, plus the population of Ayer before the war (we will say 6,000 souls); as well as some 6,000 people living in Harvard, Pepperell, the Grotona and Vose, who trade in Ayer, would be the richest field we had ever entered.

We were debating the final details. The camp had started to spring up, and, as Ayer is territory of the Lowell and Boston papers, we realized we must use more or less strategy to "get the jump" on our opposition.

Allow me to go back. For several years we had tried to invade this territory. We failed. Two Ayer weeklies, the Lowell Courier Citizen and

The True News FIRST

Always—Accurately

INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE

10th Floor, World Bldg. NEW YORK

I Get the Money!

J. A. McAVOY

Special Editions
Weekly Review Pages
Cartoon Books

Nat'l Exch. Bk. Bldg.
PROVIDENCE, R. I.

the Boston Post were too well entrenched.

In our final drive for Ayer, in less than two weeks we had circulation, net paid, nonreturnable, of 1,500 copies daily, 100 of which was in the trading territory and the rest sold in Ayer. This was only the beginning. We plan for 5,000 circulation in Ayer after September. Now I have the preamble. The next to tell is how it was done.

F. A. Robertson, our business manager, visited the site and I did the same. Our trips were not made together and we both received different impressions, but both knew the ultimate result, if we laid our plans well.

Our city editor and our publisher paid visits to the camp and town and then, after "war councils," it was decided to make Ayer "our town."

In view of the fact that in order to properly attend to the work in this city it was decided that the best mode of operation was to secure some man with newspaper experience, plus a little cash and "pep" to speculate and take over our Ayer edition.

This we did. There are plenty willing to jump at that chance in a boom town. We secured a man who had worked for us writing subscriptions and was a resident of Ayer. He took over the responsibility of handling the papers, getting the distribution and also news and advertising, posting a bond satisfactory to both parties, we retaining all publishing and other rights.

Next, we sprung a daily paper all their own upon the good people of Ayer and vicinity. We sampled the territory for two days and the Ayer manager reported 275 paid subscriptions in that town alone, and that list has grown by leaps and bounds. We now have routes established, our own, and sell also to a wholesaler.

The edition carries all foreign, some local and Ayer advertising and conforms to the A.B.C. ruling on that matter. We carry in it fifteen suburban towns and as soon as Ayer proper has been worked the manager plans to invade these towns for stiff subscription work, no premiums or

KEEN PUBLISHERS Everywhere Are Buying Electric BulletinMachines

They have written us letters giving their opinions. They make interesting reading. We wish we could send them to you complete. Some of the letters are in our New Illustrated Catalogue. Why not let us send you One?

National Electric Bulletin Corporation.
NEW LONDON, CONN.

Auto Comic you have been looking for

The International Syndicate

Established 1899. BALTIMORE, MD.

inducements, but a good clean, newsy newspaper.

As to the future, we have no anticipation of trouble to secure the canteen rights for our paper and will make it a real newspaper for army men as well as for civilians.

This is the second, or rather third, successful attempt on the part of the Fitchburg Daily News to establish new editions. We established a country edition nearly a year ago and that today requires slightly over a thousand copies.

When I first went to Fitchburg, six years ago, a local extra on a big news event was unknown, except during the world series or on election nights.

By beating our competitors from ten to twenty minutes on extras of that sort, we established a reputation of being the first on the field.

Within the year, we have put extras out night after night and now find it easy for us to dispose of them. Street boys buy heavy on Daily News extras, stands require them, and, although non-returnable, never hesitate to buy.

Why? Simply because we use good common sense in following ideas that pay in a big city.

I have given you the working out of a theory.

Here is my theory in regard to news editions. Keep clinging at the public and letting them know that they are missing something by not taking your paper.

Let them know, above all, if you are an evening paper, that you can give them wire news hours ahead of any competing big city paper.

Instill into the boys the idea that the new edition is "different;" that it will sell, then go after the dealers.

The public always wants something new, whether it is a new edition or a newspaper or a new idea in dress.

We are making our Ayer venture pay for itself by making a distinct separation between it and our country or city editions. It is, in the Ayer case, simply the Western idea. Pick out your site, start your daily paper and soon people realize that you are making a city out of a dead sandpile.

Newspapers and Western progress go hand in hand. The East could well copy.

The only journal outside of the United States published in the interest of newspaper men.

THE 30 pages Weekly NEWSPAPER WORLD

Annual Postal Subscription
Everywhere $2.40.
(Established 1898)

Specimen Copy Sent Free
Address: 14 Cross Street
FINSBURY, LONDON, ENG.

NEWSPAPER FEATURE SERVICE

"The CIRCULATION Builders"
37 West 39th Street, NEW YORK

The Booklovers Sales Co.
ANNOUNCES Incorporated

Its Perfected Plan for a BOOKLOVERS' PICTUREGAME

Complete for 350.00
Complete means Complete.
SEND FOR THE DETAILS
110 West 40th st., New York City

NEWS NOTES OF CIRCULATORS.

The next meeting of the New England Association of Circulation Managers will be held in Hartford, Ct., on November 8 and 9 and Secretary-Treasurer H. M. Wheeler is sending blanks to members asking what topics they wish to have discussed at the gathering and upon what topics they feel best prepared to read a paper.

The Oklahoma City Daily Oklahoman will publish a weekly newspaper for the soldiers of the National Guard from Missouri and Kansas, who will train at Fort Sill. The paper will contain eight pages and will be distributed to the soldiers free.

The Liberal (Kan.) Democrat will issue a daily paper for the week of the local Chautauqua.

G. C. Gardner is the new circulation manager of the Des Moines Capital, succeeding L. L. Ricketts, who is now at the officers' training camp at Fort Snelling, Minn.

William F. Coe has resigned as circulation manager of the Roanoke (Va.) Times.

Louisville newspapers are rapidly completing buildings at Camp Taylor, the United States army cantonment on the outskirts of the city, where representatives of the editorial and circulation departments will be permanently stationed. Under army orders, each newspaper desiring representation at the camp must put up its own building on a site designated by camp officials. The Louisville Herald and the Evening Post will occupy jointly a building, while the Evening Times and the Courier-Journal will erect one.

The
William L. Betts
Company

NEWSPAPER CONTEST SPECIALISTS

Suite 406, World Bdg., NEW YORK

SMOKES FOR TROOPS FROM "PHILLY."

NORTH AMERICAN CARES FOR SOLDIERS AND THOSE LEFT BEHIND.

The spirit which cares for the soldier abroad and honors his family at home was demonstrated in the two floats of the Philadelphia North American in the "send-off" parade for Philadelphia troops on September 1.

The first float was that showing how the "smokes" so necessary to the men in the trenches are provided through the North American.

On the float ten marines conducted a little recruiting campaign as they distributed thousands of packages of tobacco for which the North American is raising funds to send to the men in the trenches.

These packages, containing 45 cents worth of tobacco, have been put up by the American Tobacco Company so that they can be sent to one soldier for 25 cents. The North American is raising the funds through its readers, and the Red Cross has arranged for distributing the packets to the men. In each packet is a return post card by which the soldier who gets the packet personally can thank the donor.

As the float moved along the marines picked out uniformed men in the crowds as recipients for the packets. When the thousands asked for the tobacco, the marines would shout back, "Get in uniform."

When they spied a sailor or marine in a second-story window they threw the packets up to their comrades in arms. The truck made a tour among the marchers before the parade started, distributing the smokes.

The second float exhibited for the first time the "service flag" used to mark the home where a soldier has been sent to war.

This flag, a red one with a white field and one blue star for every man who has gone to war from a home, is being given out by the North American.

"If you've sent a boy, fly a flag" read one of the signs on the truck.

The second float was also a tribute to those who stay at home. "The Military Four," the quartet of the Pennsylvania field hospital No. 3, provided through the courtesy of M. Witmark & Sons, the music publishers, sang half a dozen of the better known of the new war songs as the float went along.

A. E. MacKinnon, circulation director, devised and executed the idea.

POLLARD-ALLING MFG. COMPANY

System and Machinery for ADDRESSING NEWSPAPERS and PERIODICALS to SUBSCRIBERS

From Thin Aluminum Plates.

Saves considerable money in operating costs and facilitates obtaining renewals at practically no cost for the addressing. Write for particulars.

912-916 East 84th St. NEW YORK

A PHILADELPHIA NORTH AMERICAN FLOAT.

CIRCULATION AND ORGANIZATION.

SALES OF GOOD CARRIER CREW NOT AFFECTED BY LEADER'S ABSENCE IN EMERGENCY.

By L. V. VANCELEAVE,
Circulation Manager, Rockford (Ill.) Republic.

How important a thoroughly organized and trained circulation department is to a newspaper was never better illustrated than on July

L. V. VANCELEAVE.

20, the day of the great human lottery in Washington.

I had decided on a vacation beginning July 14, said vacation to extend over a week or ten days. I had it "doped" that the "big doings" would not come off during my absence, but nevertheless I went over the situation thoroughly with my assistants before I left. Each eventuality was discussed and picked to pieces with the result that each employee knew in advance just what steps to take to meet any emergency.

The lottery was held on Friday, the 20th. The evening previous our carrier and street organization was brought together in a rousing meeting. The boys were told to report the following morning prepared to hustle as they had never hustled before.

They came, full of enthusiasm and "pep." Our first extra was out on the streets at 9 a. m.

From then until our final edition at 9 p. m. it was one continual stream of newspapers and hustlers.

There was no extraordinary confusion connected with this work. Each man and each boy knew what was expected of him, and know how to do it. The absence of the circulation manager meant little to them. They had been trained along those very lines, and best of all were "for Van." A total of 7,480 extra papers was sold on this day. The people got the news. The boys got the money. The boys got the money, and all were satisfied, myself particularly so.

There is no better asset to a newspaper than a thoroughly trained and organized circulation force, one that can step in and do things even though the head of the department is miles away from them.

I do not believe we could have sold a single paper more had I been on the job, instead of "looking them over" in the Windy City.

FOR ALL BUSINESS MEN

The United States Chamber of Commerce has called a war convention of American business men to meet at Atlantic City, N. J., on September 18-21.

WESTERN CANADA CIRCULATORS

PLAN ASSOCIATION AROUND NUCLEUS ORGANIZED IN WINNIPEG LAST WEEK.

Circulation managers of all Winnipeg dailies and farm papers met last week at luncheon and formed the nucleus of an association that will probably be known as the Western Canada Circulation Managers Association. Nine circulation men were present and discussed many phases of circulation work. W. E. McTaggart, circulation manager of the Grain Growers Guide, was chairman.

"Traveling Solicitors and How to Deal With Them" was the chief topic under discussion at the preliminary meeting. It was unanimously decided that only the best type of men should be employed, that they be bonded and if they couldn't stand the searching investigation of the bonding company that they should not be employed.

A committee consisting of F. B. Sweeney, city circulation manager of the Free Press; W. H. Henderson, circulation manager of the Telegram; W. S. Hamilton, circulation manager of the Western Home Monthly, and Mr. McTaggart, was appointed to go into the matter of organizing a circulation managers association in Western Canada and to report within a month.

This committee is now at work and has lined up almost all the circulation managers in Western Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia.

While the organization was initiated by the Winnipeg men it will not be purely a Winnipeg association, for circulation men throughout the West have expressed themselves as keenly interested and in hearty sympathy with the movement.

Circulation men at the luncheon were: M. Edelstein, Farmers Advocate; Hugh Anderson, Nor-West Farmer; W. S. Hamilton, Western Home Monthly; J. L. Middleton, Canadian Thresherman; J. F. Sweeney, Free Press; W. B. Cowan, Free Press; W. H. Henderson, Telegram; J. A. Shaughnessy, Tribune; W. E. McTaggart, Grain Growers Guide.

INTERTYPE

"The BETTER Machine"

Model A

Single Magazine

$2100

Model B

Two Magazines

$2600

Model C

Three Magazines

$3000

Side Magazine Unit, Applied Before Shipment, $160 Extra

A composing machine which requires much time for adjustments and repairs is a pretty expensive proposition, however versatile it may appear to be.

All Intertypes—the versatile multiple-magazine models as well as single-magazine machines—are so simple and durable that loss of time due to complicated design or delicate construction is an unknown factor among Intertype users.

INTERTYPE CORPORATION
Terminal Building Brooklyn, N. Y.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES.

$15,000

available for first payment on a daily newspaper property. California locations preferred.

Proposition P. M.

CHAS. M. PALMER
NEWSPAPER PROPERTIES
225 Fifth Ave. NEW YORK

Easy Money

Only paper in modern Central West city of nearly 20,000, splendidly equipped and showing annual profit to owners of about $30,000. Three-fifths interest offered for $75,000. Ask for Proposition 683x and give financial references.

Who wants to take advantage of a real newspaper opportunity in North Carolina, valued at $20,000? Proposition 689x.

H. F. HENRICH
NEWSPAPER PROPERTIES
LITCHFIELD, ILLINOIS

Eastern advertising man, well and favorably known, will give live, energetic representation to papers of real worth to advertisers. Attractive proposition. Address James A. Francis, Room 707, 141 B'way, New York City.

OBITUARY NOTES.

FARLEY A. DARE, a well known editor of northern Minnesota and twice member of the lower house of the Minnesota legislature from the forty-second district, is dead at his home near Walker, Minn. Mr. Dare was born in Elk River, Minn., thirty-eight years ago. He went to Walker ten years ago as editor and publisher of the Pilot. Because of failing health he disposed of his newspaper several months ago. He was president of the Northern Minnesota Editorial Association in 1912. He was elected vice-president of the Northwestern Minnesota Editorial Association and was a member of the 1914-1915 House of the Minnesota Legislature and was elected again last November.

WILLIAM S. WALKER, former Chicago newspaper man, died at his home in that city on August 27. He was for many years connected with the Chicago Times and other leading dailies. He was city editor, editorial writer, Washington and European correspondent of the Times in the days of the late Wilber F. Story, and was a special correspondent of the Tribune for many years. At one time Mr. Walker was editor and part owner of the Chicago Telegraph, from which the old Chicago Herald was founded. He was seventy-two years old.

J. PRESCOTT McKINNEY, son of J. P. McKinney, the New York publishers' representative, died on September 6 in Rochester, N. Y., aged thirty-one years. He had been ill for several years of pulmonary

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES.

Daily Newspapers

We have at this time several attractive opportunities to buy Daily Newspaper Properties in New York and adjacent states. Cash payments required range from $10,000 to $300,000.

The owners of all the properties in question are represented exclusively by this firm.

AUBREY HARWELL HENRY F. CANNON

Harwell & Cannon

Newspaper and Magazine Properties
Times Building NEW YORK

FOR SALE—Half interest in the most influential and prosperous newspaper property in the Southwest. Fine plant and equipment, splendid little city with all advantages, growing proposition in every way. Daily and weekly of highest rank. Guaranteed cash in advance weekly circulation of 3,600. Weekly publication is classed as one of the representative newspapers of the United States. My partner, who will continue with the business, is one of God's noblemen. He handles editorial end. My half interest for $10,000 will bear closest investigation and is a bargain for a live wire who understands business end. We netted $10,300 in 1916. If you are interested in a 50 per cent investment in one of the finest county seat towns in Oklahoma and a proposition throughout without one single drawback, address "Julian," care Western Newspaper Union, New York, N. Y.

PRINTING

A printer with first-class plant desires to arrange with one or two more weekly publications. Is an expert in keeping the prices down to rock bottom. Address Caslon, care The Fourth Estate.

AFTERNOON DAILY FOR SALE.

New Plant in Beautiful Eastern City. Owner has other business interests that demand his attention. Good opportunity for some man who knows business. Represents investment of about $75,000. Can be bought for less. Address Box 869, care The Fourth Estate.

trouble. He was formerly employed in editorial work on Western newspapers chiefly and was at one time managing editor of the Tulare (Cal.) Advance.

H. MCCOY WINTERS, for several years on the staff of the Texarkana (Tex.) Four States Press, died in Augusta, Ark., a few days ago, following ten months' illness. He had been a newspaper man for twenty years.

DONALD P. CAMPBELL, for several years on the staff of the Spokane (Wash.) Spokesman-Review, died in Kellogg, Idaho, a few days ago, aged thirty-six years.

ERVIN SCHMIDT, a seventeen year old carrier for the Columbus (O.) State Journal, was run down and killed by an automobile a few days ago.

ROGER VAIL, for many years of the Irish Standard, Minneapolis, is dead.

The initial number of the Huxley (La.) New Era has been issued. The publishers are Woods & Hendrickson.

MACHINERY FOR SALE.

Owners desiring to sell newspaper properties may advertise them in these columns over an assumed name, and answers will be received in entire confidence and forwarded without charge.

Rate twenty-five cents per line agate.

FOR SALE—Goss High-Speed Straight line Five Roll Double Width Press equipped with all modern improvements and in very good condition. This press prints 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20 page papers at 72,000 per hour. $2, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32 page papers at $4,000 per hour. For prices and terms write

WALTER SCOTT & Co.,
PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY

GOSS FOUR DECK PRESS—Prints 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 14, 16, 20, 24, 28 or 32 pages. Overhauled and rebuilt. Will sell at very low price. The Goss Printing Press Co., Chicago, Ill.

LINOTYPE—Three Model 1 machines with complete equipment of molds, magazines and matrices. New Haven Union Co., New Haven, Ct.

LINOTYPE—Model No. 8, Serial No. 10100; 1 magazine, assortment of matrices. Fort Wayne Printing Co., Fort Wayne, Ind.

LINOTYPE—Model No. 1, Serial No. 8010, and Model No. 1, Serial No. 8011, with 1 magazine, liners, ejector blades, font of matrices (for each machine). Tribune Printing Co., Charleston, W. Va.

The problem of covering the Canadian Field is answered by obtaining the service of the

Dominion PRESS CLIPPING AGENCY

which gives the clippings on all matters of interest to you, printed in over 95 per cent of the newspapers and publications of CANADA. We cover every foot of Canada and Newfoundland.

74-76 Church Street, TORONTO, CAN.

POLLOCK'S NEWS

You can reach 2,500 Editors and Publishers in the Northwest—the wide-awake ones—every month, through the Classified Ads in Pollock's News. That is 80,000 of them in a year for ten dollars. Send for samples and display rates.

710 Temple Court, MINNEAPOLIS

prominent in Masonry and the Press Club, delivered the eulogy. Maurice Nitke of the Press Club rendered Handel's "Largo" and other selections on the violin, with organ accompaniment. Mr. Gillig's remains were interred in the family plot at Woodlawn Cemetery.

FRIEDMAN ON THE ROAD.

Leon Friedman is press representative of the "Ziegfeld Follies," which closes its run at the New Amsterdam Theater, New York, on September 15 and goes on the road. Mr. Friedman will accompany the company, his itinerary being Boston, September 17; Philadelphia, October 20; Baltimore, November 12; Washington, November 10.

GASOLINE BLOWS UP.

The plant of the Byesville (O.) Enterprise has been destroyed as the result of a gasoline explosion. The loss is $7,000. The Enterprise will use the plant of the Pleasant City News for the present.

HELP WANTED.

Opportunity afforded thorough-going young man who has the experience and character qualified for the job to take business management of newspaper and job business in town of 11,000. Daily edition to be re-established this fall. Man who has successful record as assistant business manager and can submit unqualified endorsements should apply. Must not be over 35. Give full particulars, references and state salary wanted until your success is demonstrated. Address Middle West, care The Fourth Estate, New York City.

Experienced young man wanted on a trade (coal) paper who can get news and write it in condensed form. He must also know something about circulation, advertising and general office work. Small salary to start, but good prospects. Address Box 864, care The Fourth Estate.

Wanted—Sample copies for Representatives for Ohio. The Ohio Novelty Agency, Youngstown, Ohio.

Circulation Manager Wanted. Young American, exempt, between 25 and 35 years, single or married, steady and reliable. Quick advancement for right man, with steady work and good pay. Address Box 864, care The Fourth Estate.

Combination editor and ad man, trade paper (financial) experience necessary. Give experience, age and references in first letter. Small salary to start, but good prospects. Address Texas Bankers Journal, Houston, Texas.

Wanted—An advertising salesman and copy writer for clean high class daily with 5,000 circulation. Salary $35 weekly and 10 per cent commission on increased local business. Magnificent field and fine opening for a hustler with tact and experience. State experience, habits and give references first letter. Address Box 866, care The Fourth Estate.

BRIGHT BOY WANTED in office of weekly trade newspaper. Advancement assured to conscientious worker. Address with full particulars as to salary expected and references, E. E., care The Fourth Estate.

Advertising Manager of proved ability and acquaintance with leading retail advertisers in New York City wanted for daily paper. Must be a man of best standing, who knows space buyers in stores, has had experience, is sober, industrious and reliable and has managing ability. Permanent position to the right man on a first class daily paper of best standing. Address in confidence giving full details, A. T. E., care The Fourth Estate.

Newspaper in city 400,000 wants real salesman of advertising (not a solicitor). Must be able to create new business, and hold it by real service to clients. Copy writing ability preferred. No "whirlwinds." Must be a maker of friends. Good future. Tell past performances, married or single, and references (confidential). Box 866, care The Fourth Estate.

Advertising solicitor wanted at once for special work on daily newspaper. Live wire that is worth a substantial salary desired. Address Special Proposition, Box 868, care The Fourth Estate.

TYPO

CREDIT BOOKS, REPORTS, COLLECTION
General Office,
373 Fourth Avenue NEW YORK

SPECIAL AND CHICAGO NEWS
DAILY NEWS REPORTS.

YARD'S NEWS BUREAU

184 W. Washington Street. CHICAGO

WITH ARMY Y. M. C. A.

A. G. Fegert, who has been religious editor of the Chicago Herald, has gone to Camp Logan, Tex., where he will work with the Army Y. M. C. A. as a director of religious work.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

Advertising Manager

wants change to North or Northwest; specialty service and autos; no world beater but real business builder; increased business 400 per cent on present job in two years. Age 33, total abstainer, married; wants $2,400 drawing account against commissions. Can change on 30 days' notice. Wire or write Box 867, care The Fourth Estate.

Live wire Advertising-Business Manager, morning or evening daily of ten to twenty thousand circulation, open for position September 15. Salary $50 a week. For details or personal interview address Box 859, care The Fourth Estate.

CARTOONIST

First class, 15 years' experience, national reputation. Can furnish convincing recommendations and samples of recent work. All-around newspaper artist; exceptionally good on pen portraits. Can deliver the goods and expect good salary. Answer at once. Box 861, care The Fourth Estate.

Efficient Circulation Manager open for position. Twelve years' experience morning and evening papers, thorough knowledge of constructive circulation methods, and efficient systematizer. Strong believer in boy power to build circulation. Member of I.C.M.A. Highest references. Age 35; married. Address Box 863, care The Fourth Estate.

STEREOTYPYER

desires foremanship; able to take charge any size shop; 14 years' experience; 29 years old, married, two dependents; sober, reliable, union, economical, and references. Address Stereotyper, care The Fourth Estate.

SERVICE CORNER

590—"Can you tell me the present whereabouts of M. L. Chizzola, formerly an advertising man of Chicago?"

591—"Will you kindly let me have a copy of THE FOURTH ESTATE in which is published an article read before the International Circulation Managers Association convention in 1913?"

592—"Can you give me the legal definition of wording of a 'legal' country newspaper? Our circumstances are as follows:

"The newspaper is printed in a near-by city, which is, however, out of our state. It is taken to our home town post office, where it is mailed. It complies with all the requirements of the postal laws; furnishes a sworn statement to the Government; is one of the two weekly papers in our county furnishing a sworn circulation statement to the American Newspaper Annual and Directory.

"It has carried considerable 'legal' advertising, but one of its competitors told the township authorities that it is not 'legal' because it is not printed in the county.

"Will you please give me the necessary facts and authority to prove that we are legal?"

COMES TO NEW YORK.

Frank Hammer, day news editor of the Chicago Herald, has been placed in charge of the New York office of the Herald. His work has been taken over by Edgar Owen of the Herald staff.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

ATTENTION PUBLISHERS!

Who has the best position to offer a newspaper man of 20 years' experience? At present employed as night editor of a large New England daily but desires a change. Send answers to Egbert, care The Fourth Estate.

A Practical Printer with four years' good all-around experience and a thorough course at the Mergenthaler factory as a machinist-operator wants to connect with some publication or a private plant where attention to business is appreciated and advancement made accordingly. Best of references from former employers. Address Austin Savadel, 108 Targee street, Stapleton, N. Y.

The cost of a "Situation Wanted" ad in this column is only ten cents a line (count seven words to the line) each insertion.

AMUSEMENTS.

Astor-B'way & 46th—"The Very Idea." Relaxed-W. 44th—"Polly With a Past." Booth 45th, W. of B'way—"De Luce Annie."

Bijou-West 45th—"Mary's Ankle." Broadway-At 41st—"Sirens of the Sea." Geo. M. Cohen-B'way and 42d—"This Way Out."

Cohan & Harris-W. 43d—"A Tailor Made Man." Casino-39th st. and B'way—"Love o' Mike."

Cort-48th E. of B'way—"The Inner Man." Criterion-B'way and 44th—"The Manx-Man."

Eltinge-W. of 42d—"Business Before Pleasure." 39th St.-Near B'way—"Lucky O'Shea." 44th St.-W. of B'way—"San Carlo Grand Opera Co."

45th St.-E. of B'way—"What Happened to Jones." Fulton-B'way & 46th—"The Pawn."

Gaiety-B'way, 46th—"The Century Girl." Globe-B'way and 46th—"The Spy."

Harris-W. 42d—"Daybreak." Hippodrome-6th av. and 44th st—"Cheer Up."

Hudson-W. 44th st—"Good Night Paul." Knickerbocker-B'way, 30th st-Sarah Bernhardt.

Lyceum-B'way & 45th—"The Lassoo." Lyric-42d W. of B'way—"The Masquerader."

Liberty-W. 42d st—"Hitchy-Koo." Longacre-W. 48th—"Leave It to Jane." Manhattan Opera House-W. 31th—"The Wanderer."

Marine Elliott-39th st. E. of B'way—"Eyes of Youth." New Amsterdam-W. 43d—"Ziegfeld Follies."

Palace-6th av. near 47-Vaudeville. Playhouse-48th E. of B'way—"The Man Who Came Back."

Princess-39th near B'way—"Oh, Boy." Republic-W. 43d—"Peter Ibbetson." Standard-B'way and 30th st—"The Knife."

Shubert-44th, W. of B'way—"Maytime." Winter Garden-B'way and 50th—"Passing Show of 1917."

FOR WILMINGTON JEWS.

Jewish residents of Wilmington, Del., chiefly young men and young women, propose establishing a local monthly magazine in the interests of their race in that city, to make its first appearance in October. They are now wrestling with the problem of selecting a name. They have formed a press club, which will back the project.

IN HIS FATHER'S TRACKS.

John Wilstach, who handled the press work for the "The Italian Battlefront" at the 44th Street Theater, New York, is going out in advance of William Collier in "Nothing But the Truth." He is a son of Frank J. Wilstach, the well known writer and press representative.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

Do you need a competent editor or reporter? I can deliver the goods, as employers for last 15 years will testify; will be glad to give full details; why not write me at Box 793, care The Fourth Estate.

Live circulation manager of evening daily of 13,000 desires to make a change; 33 years of age, 10 years in present place. Recently has been through a raise of 50 per cent in price of paper and got by with flying colors. Best of references given. Address Box 241, care The Fourth Estate.

Circulation Manager, resourceful, successful business getter, using original campaign methods; many years' experience; methodical, economic; wishes to connect with metropolitan newspaper. Best references. Address Box 841, care The Fourth Estate.

Circulation manager of a 13,000 daily who has worked up to his position, desires to advance in circulation work. Address Box 558, care The Fourth Estate.

YOUNG MAN

WHO CORRESPONDS

with five hundred newspapers wishes position as press agent or publicity manager with some person or firm desiring wide and international newspaper publicity. Address Box 865, care The Fourth Estate.

Circulation and advertising man with a record of 20 years' successful work seeks position in the West or Southwest. Address Box 792, care The Fourth Estate.

The publisher who needs
A managing editor
A city editor
A circulation manager
or anything in the newspaper line, must be hard to suit if he can't find in this column what he wants.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

You may need to know

How you can get in touch with the right man for a position vacant, or

How you can find a suitable opening for yourself or some friend whom you can recommend.

Keep in mind the scope of our work. Ours is a service bureau for employers and employees in all departments of the Publishing, Advertising and Printing field, East, South and West.

No charge to employers; registration free; moderate commissions from successful clients.

Fernald's Exchange
Third National Bank Building
SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

WANTED—Position on first class daily as business or advertising manager, by a high class man of unusual character, ability and experience. Best of references. Address Box 838, care The Fourth Estate.

PARAGRAPHER AND EDITORIAL WRITER

wishes to give up a good job for a better one. Young, original, forceful. Convincing clippings and references on request. Address Box 860, care The Fourth Estate.

OUR LETTER BOX.

Advertisers and all other friends of THE FOURTH ESTATE are invited to make our office their headquarters for correspondence, etc., etc.

At present there are letters waiting for
A. B. Codrington
S. Chivers-Wilson
Anna B. Corshane
Geo. W. Craig
L. D. Curtright
Thos. B. Donnelly
Arthur T. Eagan
W. Burton Ellis
A. Finley
A. Fisher
R. Herts Service
Sam'l M. Evans
George S. Teall
J. W. Glenister
Theodore Bitens
Ray E. Willcox
J. G. Disner
G. S. Myers
Griffith Bonner
H. H. Patterson
Publicity Bureau
Glenn C. Wilson
O. Wog
Chas. H. Forman
A. W. Seabolt
J. H. Mudgett Co.
A. P. Robyns
Richard Neville
Clinton E. Woods
C. S. Persons
W. E. Hornaday
R. D. Van Alstin
C. S. Kendall
A. E. Bickson.

HEMSTREET
PRESS CLIPPINGS

Tenth Avenue at 45th Street NEW YORK CITY

*We can Increase Your Business.
You want it Increased, don't you?*

Of course you have thought of Press Clippings yourself—but let us tell you how Press Clippings can be made a BUSINESS-BUILDER for you.

"BURRELLE"

ESTABLISHED
A QUARTER OF
A CENTURY.

60 and 62 Warren Street
NEW YORK

NEWS OF THE AD AGENCIES.

Vanderhoof, Condict & Comrie Chicago, have changed their name to Vanderhoof & Co. No changes have taken place in the personnel of the agency.

John J. Cuddy has joined the H. K. McCann Company and will be connected with its San Francisco office. He was formerly associated with the Royal Typewriter Company.

Andrew E. Coburn, formerly advertising manager of the Maxwell Motors Company, has joined the advertising staff of William H. Rankin Company, Chicago. Mr. Coburn will divide his time between copy department and the extension department.

ANDREW E. COBURN.

C. J. Mains, who was for about two years on the staff of the Norfolk (Va.) Virginian Pilot, has resumed his service agency after a lapse of about six months.

The Maritime Advertising Agency, Ltd., has been incorporated to carry on a general advertising and publishing business at Rothesay, N. B. Its capital stock is $10,000 and its incorporators are H. V. McKinnon, A. E. McGinley and Stanley DeW. Granville, all of St. John, N. B.

Vernon Smith, formerly with the C. F. W. Nichols Advertising Company, Chicago, has moved to Grand Rapids, Mich.

The Taylor - Critchfield - Clague Agency, Chicago, has made formal announcement of the resignation of Stanley Clague to become managing director of the Audit Bureau of Circulations. No announcement has been made of any changes in the advertising organization due to Mr. Clague's withdrawal and the Chicago advertising public assumes, therefore, that no changes will be made.

Frank H. Hilton has been appointed space buyer for the home office of the H. K. McCann Company, New York.

Harry S. Wilson, assistant manager of the Chicago branch of Nelson Chesman & Co., has entered the officers' training camp at Fort Sheridan. His duties with Nelson Chesman & Co. are being assumed by F. J. Leonard.

The Advertising Bond Corporation, with offices at 120 Broadway, New York, with an active capital of $5,000, general advertising business. It has 1,000 shares of common stock, with no par value, and will do business with an active capital of $5,000. Named as directors are A. R. Oakley, W. E. Schiels, Jr., and R. A. Webster.

Patrick F. O'Keefe, the Boston advertising agent, has been appointed chairman of the Boston Public Safety Committee.

The William D. McJunkin Advertising Agency was incorporated in Cleveland, Ohio, on August 21. The capital stock is $10,000, and the incorporators are E. E. Wagner, J. H. McGill, I. R. Winsper, G. W. Poppleton and Maurice Maschke.

New additions to the staff of the Collier Advertising Company, St. Louis, are E. R. Evans, Lew Burnham and G. M. Gasser.

AD FOLKS' NEWS.

Samuel P. Johnston, head of the Johnston Ayres Advertising Agency, San Francisco, was elected president of the San Francisco Advertising Club last week to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of C. M. Broekhagen.

Mr. Johnston is well known in the Pacific Coast publicity field and has been identified with the local ad club since its organization a number of years ago.

He was in charge of the pre-convention fight which secured the 1918 meeting of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World for San Francisco, and more recently has been chairman of the educational committee.

George Eberhard, head of the advertising agency of that name, and Don E. Gilman, were elected directors of the Ad Club to fill vacancies caused by the resignation of Broekhagen and of C. H. Tallant.

F. W. Darby has been appointed advertising manager of the Watrous Engine Works Company, Ltd., Brantford, Ont. He was formerly with Beatty Brothers, Fergus, Ont.

The annual election of officers of the Columbus (Ohio) Advertising Club will be held on September 10.

Wesley T. Engelhorn has been appointed secretary of the Cleveland Advertising Club, following several months work as assistant secretary of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce convention board. Most of Mr. Engelhorn's experience has been in the athletic line. He is a graduate of Dartmouth College and since leaving his alma mater has been coach of the athletic teams at Case School, near Cleveland. He had been selected as head coach at Colgate University for the coming year, but resigned to take up his new work at the Ad Club.

T. A. Ballantyne, former special writer on the Chicago Daily News, has been made publicity director for the Goodrich Tire and Rubber Company at Akron, O. He will have charge of the newspaper publicity, the advertising of the company being directed by the William H. Rankin Advertising Agency.

S. Roland Hall has returned to his former position as advertising manager of the Alpha Portland Cement

S. ROLAND HALL.

Company, Easton, Pa., resigning as head of the advertising department of the Victor Talking Machine Company, Camden, N. J.

The Commonwealth Edison Company of Chicago, through the William D. McJunkin Advertising Agency, is making patriotism the basis of a unique, but effective, advertising campaign. The company is advertising various household appliances such as electric irons, vacuum cleaners, washing machines, etc., and the sales suggestion is made that such appliances will release women now engaged in domestic service for more important war tasks. The plea has been unusually successful according to officials of the company.

A second ticket for the election of the Chicago Advertising Association, on September 10, has been placed in the field. It is called the "Blue Ticket" and is headed by C. H. Burlingame, advertising manager of the Morton Salt Company, who is candidate for president. Others on the ticket are Glenn Muffy, first vice-president; J. A. Simpson, second vice-president; James A. Young, third vice-president; Wallace F. Brown, recording secretary; Anderson Pace, financial secretary.

R. Winston Harvey has become sales and advertising manager of the Vick Chemical Company, Greensboro, N. C., resigning a similar position with the James Clark Leather Company, St. Louis.

The Associated Motion Picture Advertisers, whose membership includes 98 per cent of the publicity and advertising men of the motion picture industry, reorganized for the new year at their annual meeting on September 6.

The following officers were elected: President, Arthur James, Metro (re-elected); vice-president, P. A. Parson (re-elected); treasurer, Paul Gullick (re-elected); secretary, Bernard Fineman (re-elected). The new directors, in addition to the above elected officers, are Nat G. Strong, Charles E. Moyer, Terry Ramsaye, Jacques Kopstein and Julian M. Solomon.

The association's annual dinner will be held at Delmonico's on the evening of September 12.

D. R. Hobart of New York has joined the advertising staff of the Hendee Manufacturing Company, Springfield, Mass., manufacturing motorcycles and bicycles.

D. F. Whittaker is now the advertising manager for the Detroit Truck Company.

FOR WILLIAM FAVERSHAM.

Roy Henderson has been appointed press agent for William Faversham. He has hitherto been associated with Percy Burton.

INTERTYPES IN BURLINGTON.

The Burlington (Ia.) Hawkeye has completed arrangements for the installation of five new Intertypes and new composing room furniture.

TO MANUFACTURERS:

If the links between the making of your product, your sales department, your advertising, your distributing channels and the consumer are not welded into one harmonious unit, your advertising cannot be made to produce its highest possible volume of returns. The Presbrey method has united these various branches in the case of many others. Why not learn wherein it can be made to earn for you? Your correspondence entails no obligation.

FRANK PRESBREY COMPANY

GENERAL ADVERTISING.
Makers of Commercial Booklets.
456 4th Av. (31st St.) NEW YORK

H. W. KASTOR & SONS ADVERTISING COMPANY

CHICAGO ST. LOUIS
An organization of merchandising men highly specialized in the solution of advertising problems.

G. LOGAN PAYNE CO.

SPECIAL REPRESENTATIVES
Fifth Avenue Building, NEW YORK
750 Marquette Building, CHICAGO
40 Broomfield St., BOSTON
Kresge Building, DETROIT

VERREE & CONKLIN

PUBLISHERS' REPRESENTATIVES
225 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK
11 Lafayette Boulevard, DETROIT
25 E. Jackson Boulevard, CHICAGO

JOHN BUDD CO.

Representing Newspapers of Burrill Bldg., NEW YORK
Tribune Bldg., CHICAGO
Chemical Bldg., ST. LOUIS

JAMES ZOBIAN CO.

GENERAL ADVERTISING
225 Fifth Avenue NEW YORK

$80.00 ADVERTISING SOLD $1,000,000 BONDS.

RECORD OF MUNCIE, IND., IN FIRST LIBERTY LOAN CAMPAIGN—IT CAN BE DONE JUST AS WELL ELSEWHERE.

By WILLIAM H. RANKIN,
Member National Advertising Advisory Board.

The following letter from Frank McNaughton of W. A. McNaughton, wholesale dry goods, Muncie, Ind., shows that in Muncie it was unnecessary to have a bond salesman to sell Liberty Bonds.

This is the price record of any city in the United States on the Liberty Loan, which worked with the National Advertising Advisory Board to help further the sales of the bonds.

"WILLIAM H. RANKIN,
"CHICAGO, ILL.
"DEAR SIR:

"Not a solicitor did the Muncie banks send out.

"Subscribers all walked into the banks and subscribed for the bonds. That was all there was to it.

"In regard to the inquiry as to amount subscribed and how much of that amount can be traced to advertising, I will submit the figures as given me by Fred D. Rose, cashier of the Union National Bank, who had active charge of the Liberty Loan business in this (Delaware) county.

"Mr. Rose's figures are before me:
"Total amount subscribed, $1,470,-300.

"This is 212 per cent of the amount allotted to this (Delaware) county. Three hundred thousand dollars of this amount, to his knowledge, should not be credited to effects of advertising, as local capitalists subscribed that much to some outside banks of which they were stockholders, and, by request of the directors, bought up bonds. Mr. Rose's statement winds up with this: 'Over $1,000,000 should be credited to the advertising in the local campaign.'

"If Mr. Rose's estimates are right, and they should be, it certainly was a wonderful success, if I do say so myself.

"The entire advertising expense to sell this more than $1,000,000 worth of bonds was something less than $80.

"Get that right—$80.

"One full page each in morning and afternoon papers.

"Each paper contributed a full page ad, besides.

"In my estimation the most effective publicity was the human interest stories and the home-made editorials to fit local conditions.

Going to France

in a few days as an accredited war correspondent. Can I serve you either with special cables, letter service or syndicate matter?

O. H. DOWNEY
Churubusco, Indiana

INTRODUCING AD FOLKS.

H. W. L. Gardiner, who has opened a service agency in Los Angeles, has been engaged in the advertising business for many years, the past seven of which have been spent as vice-president and manager of the copy and plan departments of the Curtis-Newhall Company, Los Angeles. He was in the wholesale, export and import lines in San Francisco for four years and was secretary and manager of a chain of retail drug stores in Seattle for a like period.

He is going to put in a good part of his time at converting non-advertisers into users of paid publicity and states that it will probably not be long before the newspapers of the country will be receiving at least a reasonable amount of business from his office.

Edwin E. Taylor, the new advertising manager of the Acme Harvesting Machine Company, Inc., Peoria, Ill., has been fascinated by the printing and publishing business ever since his thirteenth year, when he began work as a newsboy in Camden, N. J. He later learned the printing trade and then switched into newspaper advertising, via the staff of the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Further progress in his field was effected when he joined the staff of the Howard I. Ireland Advertising Agency, in Philadelphia, as an order clerk and worked up to the post of assistant general manager within three years. He was also associated for a time with the Harry Hornberger Advertising Agency and Blum Advertising Agency, both of Philadelphia, spent a short time with the Philadelphia North American and then went to Detroit, joining the staff of the E. M. F. Automobile Company. Two years on the staff of Lord & Thomas, Chicago, were followed by three years as publicity superintendent with Montgomery Ward & Co., following which he went with the Acme organization.

EDWIN E. TAYLOR.

DIRECTING PRINTING PLANT.

J. R. Koffenberger, for sixteen years connected with the Wilmington (Del.) Sunday Star, has resigned to become superintendent of the Charles L. Story printing house, in that city. Mr. Story died recently and the business is being conducted by the estate.

On his departure from the Star last Saturday Mr. Koffenberger was presented with a diamond scarf pin by the employees of the Star.

NEW POLISH ASSOCIATION.

Polish editors of America held a convention in Chicago last week and laid plans for a permanent organization to be known as the Polish Editors' Association of America, which will meet in Detroit on Thanksgiving Day.

During the session in Chicago resolutions were adopted congratulating Governor Lowden of Illinois upon his steps to prevent meeting of pacifists in Chicago.

TEACHER OF WAR PICTURES.

Frederick C. Place, former staff photographer of the Minneapolis Journal, has been commissioned by the War Department as first lieutenant in the aviation section of the United States Signal Corps. He is temporarily stationed at Washington, D. C. Place will assume the role of instructor in the work of taking pictures from airplanes, a new department organized by the War Department. He formerly was in the United States cavalry.

TAKE IT TO POWERS!

"Fastest Engravers on Earth"

Open 24 hours out of 24
On Time All the Time

POWERS PHOTO-ENGRAVING
COMPANY
154 Nassau Street, NEW YORK
Telephone 4200 Beekman

Good Work
Prompt Service
Fair Prices

They tell the story of our 23 years of successful service.

And we want you to get into the habit to

"Phone the Manhattan Man for your Engraving"

MANHATTAN PHOTO
ENGRAVING CO.

261-263 William Street NEW YORK
Phone, Worth 1627-5

STANLEY PROCESS
quality a not to down
up made to a price
METAL

SYRACUSE SMELTING WORKS
BROOKLYN, N. Y. and CHICAGO, ILL.

For Particular Printing come to the
ALLIANCE PRESS
110-114 West 32d Street NEW YORK

"For these we paid nothing. The papers were very liberal, and gave us all we asked for. The only thing the editors requested was to save them all the trouble we could. Hence we got up the copy, had it typewritten, paragraphed, headed—ready for the printer.

"Our newspapers were mighty nice to us, so nice that when we came to the Red Cross Campaign we raised a fund to pay for sixteen full pages instead of two.

"For the next campaign I think that the United States Treasury should be the fellow to pay for advertising space.

"The public will pay their taxes and revenues because they know they will have to. But these voluntary subscriptions, in my opinion, will become monotonous in time."

NEW FOREIGN "SPECIAL."

The All Nations Advertising & Printing Company, Inc., has been chartered to promote advertising in foreign language newspapers and periodicals, with headquarters in the Magee Building, Pittsburg. The directors of the corporation are Joseph Mandula, Emery E. Friedman, Eugene Kepcsa and William F. Greenbaum. Its preliminary statement declares that all business for the present will be transacted on a cash-in-advance basis.

ON OHIO SELECT LIST.

The Fremont (Ohio) News and the Troy News have been admitted to membership in the Ohio Select List of Newspapers, bringing the roster of that association up to 45 newspapers. The list is represented in the national advertising field by Robert E. Ward, New York and Chicago.

HIGH SCHOOL PAPERS ON LIST.

The Collegiate Special Advertising Agency, New York, has drawn up a list of high school papers, covering 42 states, 344 cities and towns and 436 publications. Additions now in progress will make the list nationwide in scope, it is said.

NEW WACO DAILY.

The Waco (Tex.) Tribune on September 2 commenced publication of a new daily edition called the Waco Daily Tribune. A. R. McCollum is president of the Tribune Company. Publication of the Semi-weekly Tribune will be continued.

The McConnellsville (Ohio) Herald has suspended publication. It was established in 1905.

THE PITTSBURG PRESS

HAS
THE Largest
DAILY AND SUNDAY
CIRCULATION
IN PITTSBURG

Foreign Advertising Representatives
I. A. KLEIN, Metropolitan Tower, N. Y.
JOHN GLASS, Peoples Gas Bldg., Chicago

NEWS NOTES FOR SUPPLY MEN.

RECENT INCORPORATIONS.

NEW YORK.—Issues & Events Corp., publishing: capital, $50,000; incorporators, R. K. Klotz, F. C. Simons, J. Rowland, 475 Monroe st., Brooklyn.
Davis Press, general printing, engraving, electrotyping: capital, $20,000; incorporators, W. and J. Davis and G. B. Hallard, 51 Nostrand av., Brooklyn.

AUSTIN, TEX.—American Publishing Company: publishers of the Austin American: capital, $30,000; incorporators, H. M. Sevier, Charles G. Norton and J. B. Howey.

DENVER, COLO.—Oil News Publishing Company, 204 Continental Building: capital, $50,000; incorporators, John E. Leet, R. E. Fowler and T. R. Ingram.

MIAMI, OKLA.—Miami News Publishing Company: capital, $25,000; incorporators, G. L. Coleman, J. F. Robinson and R. J. Tutill, all of Miami.

FREEDPORT, N. Y.—Daisford Producing Co., theatrical, advertising: incorporators, John J. Pierre, Mabel Pierre, Harry T. Lee.

HAYFIELD, MINN.—Hayfield Printing Company: capital, $10,000; incorporators, John Johnston, John Holton and George Wicker.

HORTON, KAN.—Mrs. Charles H. Browne is again editor of the Horton Headlight, her husband having gone to war.

MECHANICVILLE, N. Y.—Hudson Valley Times Co., printing, publishing: capital, $15,000; incorporators, C. L. and H. D. Humphrey, Mechanicville.

ISLIP, N. Y.—Whitman Publishing Company, publishing: capital, $550,000; incorporators, Russell R. Whitman, Robert A. Young, Gerald A. Griffin.

THE NEW YORK WORLD

(Morning Edition)

Prints MORE
ADVERTISING
than any other
newspaper prints.

The Remarkable Advertising Pulling Qualities of the WASHINGTON TIMES

are built on the Foundation Stones of

Size of Circulation

Confidence of Its Readers

A Right Rate

In Washington, D. C.,
The Times is Preferred.

Topeka Daily Capital

GOVERNMENT REPORT

for six months ending April 1, 1917, showing net paid circulation.

34,567

Member A. B. C.

Arthur Capper, Publisher
TOPEKA, KAN.

CHANGES IN INTEREST.

LAS CRUCES, N. M.—Mrs. Josephine Foster, publisher of the local Rio Grande Republican, has sold out to Seymour Branson and sons, of Webster, S. D., who assume immediate control.

BEAUMONT, MO.—Fred L. Seba has dissolved partnership with his father, Dr. John D. Seba, in the publication of the Bland Courier, and has gone with a publishing house in Ponca, Neb.

TELL CITY, IND.—Frank Roberts has assumed editorial control of the Tell City Journal, succeeding Herman G. Bott, who is preparing to enter the army service.

MILTONVALE, KAN.—Irving Hogue, publisher of the Miltonvale Record, who recently purchased the Randall News, has sold the name and good will of the News and will return to the publishing of the Record with his son, Lowell Hogue. The plant of the News will be installed and used in publishing the Record.

QUANAH, TEX.—Mrs. Minnie Chase has filed sequestration proceedings against Roland Bush, who has been editing the Quanah Observer. Mr. Bush was supposed to keep the plant insured, which, it is said, he failed to do, and at the end of ten days Mrs. Chase will again issue the paper.

PUEBLO, COLO.—Albert E. Schraeder, formerly publisher of the Cimarron (N. M.) News, intends to establish a job printing office here for the printing of commercial work.

JEFFERSON, OKLA.—Larue Thomas, editor and publisher of the Review, has disposed of his newspaper and printing plant to E. G. Fell, who has taken charge.

NEWPORT, ARK.—The Independent, a weekly and evening daily paper owned and published by P. H. Van Dyke, has been leased to A. C. Wilkerson, who has been its business manager.

QUENFMO, KAN.—Editor Joe Frishman of the News is going to move to Riverside, Cal.

HARDEN, MO.—Editor Sanderson of the News has traded his newspaper to Mitchell and Arthur Profit for a farm.

FOUNTAIN, MINN.—P. M. Schmel-

BOSTON POST

CIRCULATION JULY, 1917
"NO RETURNS"

The Daily Post 523,332

The Sunday Post 354,316

KELLY-SMITH CO., Representatives
280 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK
C. GEORGE KROGNES, Western Rep.
Marquette Building, CHICAGO

Today's Housewife

Net Paid  For Every
Guaranteed Issue

GEORGE A. McCLELLAN, Gen. Mgr.
461 Fourth Avenue NEW YORK

zer has succeeded E. P. Johnson as owner and editor of the Review.

FIRES.

TRENTON, MO.—A fire in the office of the Trenton Times on August 22, did considerable damage to the machinery and plant. Frank P. Briggs is editor and owner of the Times.

OMAHA, NEB.—A recent fire in the Carpenter Paper Company's big wholesale house, at 8th and Harney streets, did slight damage to the stock of paper.

PAPER FOR MASONS.

The Masonic order in Delaware is to have a monthly newspaper devoted to its interests. It will be known as the Delaware Masonic Index.

Harris T. Price, an experienced newspaper man of Wilmington, now a member of the Board of Assessment in that city, is to be the editor and C. J. Morgan, an experienced business office man, also of Wilmington, will be the business manager.

It will be printed in Wilmington and will make its appearance in October.

LIEFTY BACK ON DUTY.

A. N. Liefty, president and general manager of the Schenectady (N. Y.) Gazette, has returned to his desk after an absence of a month and a half, during which he was operated upon for appendicitis and had his gall bladder removed at the Roosevelt Hospital, New York City, in July. Since leaving the hospital he has been rusticated and recuperating among the Thousand Islands.

NEW P.O. AGENT IN FRANCE.

By order of the Postmaster General John Clark, superintendent of the Fifth division railway mail service, has been appointed postal agent in charge, United States mail agency in France, effective September 1, 1917, succeeding Marcus H. Bunn, otherwise assigned.

GAIN IN FITCHBURG.

The net cash receipts of the Fitchburg (Mass.) News for the first seven months of 1917 were 56½ per cent greater than those of the corresponding period in 1915. The figures were incorrectly stated in last week's issue.

1916 Broke All Records of the Toledo BLADE

9,807,578 Lines

of advertising in 313 days.
AN AVERAGE OF OVER
104 COLUMNS PER DAY.

Member A.B.C.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
250 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK
Mallers Building, CHICAGO
301 Devonshire St., BOSTON
Kresge Building, DETROIT

YOU MUST USE THE LOS ANGELES EXAMINER

TO COVER THE
GREAT SOUTHWEST

Largest Sunday Circulation—more than 150,000

TRADE AND CLASS PRESS.

J. H. Lorrman, for several years advertising manager of Hardware & Metal, Toronto, has become associated with the Brandham-Henderson Company, Montreal paint firm.

Carl J. Simpson, for thirty years vice-president and treasurer of the Implement and Tractor Trade Journal, published in Kansas City, Mo., has gone to Idaho to represent a motor car company.

Paul W. Jordan has become the advertising manager for the Dead-Line, a Chicago publication for newspaper workers. De Lysle Ferree Cass is editor.

EMERY ADDS TO LIST.

W. R. Emery of the W. R. Emery Advertising Service, of Chicago, has been appointed Western representative for the Nation, New York, and the Nautical Gazette. Heretofore both these publications had been represented by Ryan & Inman, Chicago, in connection with their work for the New York Evening Post.

PARCEL POST LAW CHANGE.

The postal administrations interested having agreed thereto, for the future it will be necessary to attach only one customs declaration to any parcel-post package destined for Uruguay, Guadeloupe, French Guiana, Gibraltar, and Curacao.

The Open Door
to the workshop of the world

The Philadelphia Record

Special Representatives
STORY, BROOKS & FINLEY,
Fifth Ave. Bldg., NEW YORK
Peoples Gas Bldg., CHICAGO

The Cincinnati Community

consists of an area of 70 square miles with a population of 600,000

THE CINCINNATI ENQUIRER

is the MEDIUM YOU SHOULD USE in this unparalleled market.

Foreign Representatives
John Glass, Peoples Gas Bldg., Chicago
I. A. Klein, Metropolitan Tower, New York

PITTSBURG POST IS SEVENTY-FIVE.

(Continued from Sixth Page.)

early in 1851. In 1847 the telegraph line between Philadelphia and Pittsburgh was completed, and by this time the Post was running its press by steam. Consequently, a new department was launched in the paper under the heading:

"Received by Lightning: Printed by Steam."

In July, 1853, the Post passed to the control of a firm named Phillips & Gilmore.

Then George F. Gilmore published it for a time by himself, but Joseph B. Montgomery became associated with him in July, 1854.

Gilmore and Montgomery continued to publish it until April 27, 1857, when it was sold to James P. Barr, who remained continuously at its head until his death, September 12, 1886.

James P. Barr had been thoroughly trained in the newspaper business in Pittsburgh and his direction of the Post covered the great period of the Civil War and the reconstruction, during the early days of which political partisanship counted for but little.

In 1866 Mr. Barr associated with him as partners Edwin A. Myers, William Schoyer and Joseph S. Larc, under the style of J. P. Barr Co., in 1886 the Post was incorporated as Post Publishing Company. On the death of James P. Barr that year, his son, Albert J., succeeded to the direction of the Post.

SOME BIG EVENTS.

One of the greatest events in the life of the Post was its starting of the popular afternoon newspaper, the Sun, on March 1, 1906. There was a vast difference between this and the launching of the Post with Washington hand presses in 1842. Whereas the Post prided itself on its initial issue of 2,000 the number of copies

Member A.B.C.

THE WASHINGTON POST

DAILY 2c—SUNDAY 5c

LARGEST
Morning Circulation in the Nation's Capital.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
New York Chicago Boston Detroit

Trenton TIMES

New Jersey's Leading

FOOD MEDIUM

Million lines food advertising in two years—developed by our Thursday Food Feature Pages.

This "food atmosphere" and "housewife interest" will increase your sales.

KELLY-SMITH CO.

280 5th Av., N. Y.; Lytton Bg., Chicago

Baltimore News

Net Daily Circulation 89,711
AUGUST, 1917

GAIN over
AUGUST, 1916 14,183

Special Representatives

DAN A. CARROLL J. E. LUTZ
New York Chicago

of the Sun sold its first day was 118,000.

The Post had had a weekly edition from its beginning, the title of the Mercury and Manufacturer covering it until about 1846, when it was changed to the Saturday Morning Post, with "Being a Continuation of the Mercury and American Manufacturer" underneath it in small letters. For a time, later on, a semi-weekly paper was issued by the Post in addition to the daily. There was a Weekly Post until 1900, when it was seen that the Sunday Post, which immediately became popular, met all requirements. Thus the fiftieth anniversary of the Post was celebrated in a lasting manner.

In February, 1904 the Post moved to its location at Liberty avenue and Wood street, in the heart of the business section.

WHAT PRESENT OWNERS HAVE DONE.

On November 25, 1911, the Post and the Sun passed to the ownership of the present management, which consists of: President, T. Hart Given; vice-president and general manager, A. E. Braun; secretary, R. M. Irvin; advertising manager, J. E. Trower; managing editor, W. U. Christman.

Since then the full report of the International News Service and the Chicago Tribune service have been added to the Associated Press report and no pains have been spared to gather the local and state news; new machinery has been added to facilitate the production of an attractive newspaper, and special attention has been given to promoting the interests of the community, in an educational and civic way as well as industrially.

Politically the Post has conducted a vigorous warfare against factionalism.

It has kept watch on the public service of the community with a readiness to aid with constructive suggestions as well as to condemn what it believes to be wrong.

In national politics, the Post was vigorous from the start in the move of Democracy that placed Woodrow Wilson in the White House. It has never wavered in its support of Wilson. It was one of the first newspapers to call for his renomination. The motto, "News Is Colorless,"

St. Louis Globe-Democrat

DAILY—SUNDAY—WEEKLY.

To reach Farmers in Mississippi Valley and Southwest use

Weekly Globe-Democrat

CIRCULATION INCREASING.

Now 115,000 each issue, 230,000 per week. Rate 50c per line per week.

PATERSON New Jersey's Famous Manufacturing City

PRESS GUARDIAN

Its BIG Independent Newspaper

G. LOGAN PAYNE COMPANY
New York Chicago Detroit Boston

that was placed at the head of the editorial column by the present management has been held to rigidly.

The success it has attained in adhering to this policy, and in keeping the paper clean as well as enterprising in its news service, is shown by the statement of the management that the Sunday Post in the past three years has gained in circulation 53 per cent and the Daily Post 27½ per cent.

Thus the Post, on its 75th birthday, is growing rapidly and substantially. Rich in its experience, and with the consciousness of a record of usefulness, it goes forward with a vigor that carries the conviction that when it came on September 10, 1842, it was to stay.

The Post and its morning edition, the Sun, are represented in the national advertising field by Cone, Lorenzen & Woodman, of New York, Chicago, Kansas City, Detroit and Atlanta.

CHICAGO PAPERS RAIDED.

Federal Government officers, armed with search warrants, on the night of September 6 raided four Socialist publishing offices in Chicago and seized quantities of literature and plates alleged to have been used in a propaganda to hinder the carrying on of the war. The offices raided were:

Arbeiter Zeitung, 1642 North Halsted street, a German newspaper plant where the American Socialist, national organ of that party, is published.

Socialist Demokraten, 2002 North California avenue, a radical publication, of which Frank Hurop is editor. Radnicka-Straza, office at 1944 South Racine avenue, headquarters of the Croatian branch of the South Slavic Socialist Federation of the United States.

The Radical Press, North Clark street, where considerable Socialist literature is published.

NEW A. N. P. A. MEMBERS.

The Paducah (Ky.) Evening Sun has been elected to active membership in the American Newspaper Publishers Association and the Streater (Ill.) Independent-Times to associate membership.

A Gain of 73%

During the past four years the Detroit Free Press has enjoyed a gain of 73 per cent in circulation. Character and solidity explain this increase. ADVERTISING MUST PAY in a medium which calls forth such a tremendous response from the public.

The Detroit Free Press

"MICHIGAN'S
GREATEST NEWSPAPER."

VERREE & CONKLIN Foreign Reps.
NEW YORK CHICAGO DETROIT

SEATTLE "P-I"

The only seven day A. P. paper in the Metropolis of the entire Northwest.

The one paper in the entire West without competition in its field. It reaches into the homes of the most prosperous people on earth.

W. M. J. MORTON CO. Eastern Rep.,
Fifth Av. Bldg., NEW YORK.
Tribune Building, CHICAGO

AID FOR THE RED CROSS.

President Wilson has said:

"Men who are willing to give their lives for the defense of their country deserve to find the people they protect prepared to cure for the sick and wounded."

"A large, well organized and efficient Red Cross is essential for such a result."

"Therefore it is both a patriotic and humane service that is rendered by every citizen of this country who becomes a member of the American Red Cross."

There have been no more active agencies working for the furtherance of Red Cross work in the United States than the newspaper and advertising folks. They have been leaders in the building of membership, the gathering of supplies and money, and in every other way that the Red Cross has required it.

At present work of raising funds to buy tobacco for our soldiers is in full swing by the New York Sun and Philadelphia North American. Likewise many similar and other phases of Red Cross endeavor are being aided by every patriotic newspaper and advertising worker in the land.

The great national membership and fund campaign successes in the earlier part of the year were due in greater part, without question, to the untiring efforts of the same class of people.

We all recognize in the Red Cross work a duty for each individual person. Certainly the newspaper and advertising professions are doing their bit.

THE PITTSBURGH POST ONLY

Democratic Paper In Pittsburgh
CONE, LORENZEN & WOODMAN
Special Representatives
New York, Detroit, Kansas City, Chicago

BUFFALO EVENING NEWS

The only Buffalo newspaper that censors its advertising columns. Many of our advertisers use our columns exclusively. The above is one of the many reasons WHY?

EDWARD H. BUTLER, Editor and Pub.
Represented in the foreign field by
KELLY-SMITH COMPANY,
220 Fifth Ave., NEW YORK.
Lytton Building, CHICAGO.

THE DAYTON SUNDAY NEWS

In the first five months of 1917 has carried 110,364 lines more local business than its only competitor.

With the Springfield News (the two at .055 per line) it's a great Sunday combination.

NEWS LEAGUE OF OHIO
DAYTON, OHIO
I. A. Klein, Metropolitan Tower, N. Y.
John Glass, Peoples Gas Bldg., Chicago

IN THE AD FIELD.

ADVERTISING ACCOUNTS NOW BEING PLACED BY THE AGENCIES.

AYER, 300 Chestnut st., Philadelphia—Making 480-inch contracts with Ohio and Pennsylvania newspapers for Capital City Dairy Co.

BATTEN, Fourth Av. Bldg., N. Y.—Placing orders with Middle Western newspapers for E. A. Mallory & Sons, Danbury, Ct., in cities where dealers are located.

BAYER-STROUD, 19 W. 44th st., N. Y.—Orders with large city newspapers for Basic Products Corp., Woolworth Bldg., N. Y.

BLOOMINGDALE-WEILER, 1420 Chestnut st., Philadelphia—Placing 4-inch, 33-time orders with Pennsylvania newspapers for Hanover Hotel, Philadelphia.

CROSS, 214 S. 12th st., Philadelphia—Making 4,000-line contracts with Pennsylvania newspapers for Wilson Chemical Co.

NICHOLS-FINN, Consumers' Bldg., Chicago—Placing large copy in newspapers for Crow-Elkhart Motors Company, Elkhart, Ind.

GRAY, 14th and Oak sts., Kansas City, Mo.—Again making contracts and placing copy with newspapers for Barbo Mfg. Co., "Barbo Compound," Dwight Bldg., Kansas City.

FEDERAL, 6 E. 39th st., N. Y.—Will use newspapers this fall in

St. Paul and the Northwest

best can be reached by advertising your wares in the columns of the

ST. PAUL DISPATCH

and ST. PAUL PIONEER PRESS

In St. Paul, the St. Paul Dispatch has an average total daily circulation of 53,679; the St. Paul Pioneer Press, an average total daily circulation of 45,529; the St. Paul Sunday Pioneer Press an average total Sunday circulation of 47,608.

They also enter thousands of homes, located in cities, towns and rich farming districts of the Northwest.

TOTAL CIRCULATION

St. Paul Dispatch (daily). Over 81,000.
St. Paul Pioneer Press (daily). Over 64,000.
Sunday Pioneer Press. Over 77,000.
They Cover the Field.

It Pays to Advertise in the ST. LOUIS TIMES

Now generally recognized as the
HOME NEWSPAPER
OF ST. LOUIS.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
250 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK.
Mallers Building, CHICAGO.
201 Devonshire Street, BOSTON.
Krege Building, DETROIT.

THE Philadelphia Bulletin HAS THE

Largest TWO-Cent
Circulation in the East.

Net Daily Paid Average for August

351,976 Copies

WILLIAM L. McLEAN, Publisher.

twenty-five cities for Bradley Knitting Co., "Bradley Knit Goods," Delavan, Wis.

HANFF-METZGER, 95 Madison av., N. Y.—Again making contracts with newspapers for F. M. Hoyt Shoe Co., "Beacon Shoes," Manchester, N. H.

LESSING, Davidson Bldg., Des Moines—Placing 1-inch, 30-time orders with newspapers generally for As-No-Mor Co., Des Moines.

McLAIN - HADDON - SIMPERS, 220 Broadway, N. Y.—Placing orders in N. Y. City newspapers for Holophane Glass Co., "Holophane Lens," 340 Madison av., N. Y.

PRESBREY, 456 4th av., N. Y.—Placing orders with N. Y. City newspapers for Lyknu Polish Mfg. Co., "Lyknu Polish," Pittsburg and N. Y. Placing orders with newspapers for American Hunyadi Splits Corp., N. Y.

SHERMAN & BRYAN, 79 5th av., N. Y.—Placing newspaper copy for A. S. Haight & Co., "Lackawanna Underwear," 81 Worth st., N. Y.

TAYLOR - CRITCHFIELD-CLAGUE, Brooks Bldg., Chicago—Placing farm paper advertising for Estate Stove Co., Hamilton, Ohio.

THOMPSON, Lytton Bldg., Chicago—Placing newspaper copy for Felt & Tarrant Mfg. Co., 1713 N. Paulina st., Chicago.

WOOD, PUTNAM & WOOD, 111 Devonshire st., Boston—Gradually extending newspaper campaign of Legalite Co., "Legalite Auto Lamp."

WOODWARDS, 910 S. Michigan av., Chicago—Now placing advertising of Texas Oil Co., 17 Battery pl., N. Y.

GUNDLACH, Peoples Gas Bldg., Chicago—Placing account of Birch Motor College, Chicago.

COOLIDGE, Hubbel Bldg., Des Moines—Placing orders with daily papers for the Des Moines Capital.

DEUTE-TYLER, Portland, Ore.—Placing orders for R. M. Wade Co., "Drag-Saw," Portland Ore.

WADE, Old Colony Bldg., Chicago—Placing orders for Redden Motor Truck Co., Chicago.

LEE, 6 Church st., New Haven, Ct.—Preparing newspaper campaign

THE NEW YORK EVENING JOURNAL

has the largest circulation of any newspaper
in America.

MONTREAL DAILY MAIL

The circulation of the Daily Mail in Greater Montreal is larger than that of any other Montreal morning newspaper, English or French.

Veree & Conklin, Inc., 225 6th Av., N.Y.
I.S. Wallis & Son, 1st Nat. Bldg., Chicago

for Lionel Mfg. Co., electrical toys, 48 E. 28th st., N. Y.

ARMSTRONG, 1463 Broadway, N. Y.—Preparing newspaper campaign for Globe Tea Co., "Milhoma Formosa Tea," 136 Water st., N. Y.

TRACY-PARRY, Lafayette Bldg., Philadelphia—Planning campaign in newspapers and magazines for A. Theodore Abbott & Co., Wayne Junction, Philadelphia.

WALE, 110 W. 40th st., N. Y.—Placing advertising of Boston Varish Co., Everett, Mass.

GOLDSMITH, 25 E. 26th st., N. Y.—Placing advertising of M. Martin & Co., 102 Madison av., N. Y.

MATHEWS, Marquette Bldg., Chicago—Placing advertising of Chapin & Co., feeds, Chicago.

McJUNKIN, Mallers Building, Chicago—Placing fall campaign in Chicago newspapers for Building Materials Exhibit, Insurance Exchange Bldg., Chicago.

DYER, 42 Broadway, N. Y.—Placing special newspaper copy for Gillette Safety Razor Co., "Gillette Safety Razors," Boston.

Sending out orders to a list for Remington Arms-U. M. C. Cartridge Co., Woolworth Bldg., N. Y.

THOMPSON, 242 Madison av., N. Y.—Orders to a list for Pictorial Review, N. Y.

RANKIN, Monroe Bldg., Chicago—Placing magazine copy for a new account, American Correspondence Schools.

Placing special campaign of pages in Chicago newspapers for Chicago Board of Underwriters.

CHESMAN, Goddard Bldg., Chicago—Placing newspaper copy in "dry" states for "Barman" cereal beverage manufactured by Van Blatz Brewing Company, Milwaukee.

DIRECT—Meadows Mfg. Co., Pontiac, Ill., is placing orders in farm papers.

"K. C. B." BACK IN NEW YORK.

K. C. Beaton ("K.C.B.") of the New York American has returned to New York after a three months' visit with relatives in San Francisco. Mrs. Beaton returned with him and they have taken an apartment in Irving Place.

THE SYRACUSE POST-STANDARD

—Central New York's FAVORITE newspaper—increases its circulation lead:

Daily (Net Paid) 55,498
CIRCULATION

April, 1917 Figures—A.B.C. Basis.

—Only morning paper in the metropolis of a rich, agricultural and manufacturing territory.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
250 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK.
Mallers Building, Chicago.
201 Devonshire St., BOSTON.
Krege Building, DETROIT

THE JOURNAL IS THE ONLY MORNING AND SUNDAY PAPER PUBLISHED IN DAYTON, OHIO

STORY, BROOKS & FINLEY, Inc.
Fifth Ave. Bldg., NEW YORK.
Mutual Life Bldg., PHILADELPHIA.
People's Gas Building, CHICAGO.

SOLDIER BOYS HONORED.

A banquet was tendered recently at a local hotel by the staff of the Cincinnati Enquirer to the "boys" of the editorial department who have joined the colors. Horace M. Potter, city editor, acted as toast master. The following were the guests of honor:

Jack Koons and Harry Blaney of the First Infantry; Phil Lawwell and Stanley Allison of the First Field Hospital; Harry Kenney of the Regular Army medical department; and A. C. Dunn, who resigned from the staff to return to Meridian, Miss., his home town, to enlist with the troops there.

NEW PENNSYLVANIA EDITOR.

Burton M. Alleman has become publisher and editor of the Littlestown (Pa.) Independent, succeeding his father, the late David B. Alleman. He has been associated with his father for many years and during the latter's illness had been in complete charge of the paper. The paper will continue its present policies, both in the news, editorial and advertising conduct. It has installed a cut service for advertisers, thereby adding a large amount to the space taken by local merchants.

CADY A PUBLISHER.

William S. Cady, who has been advertising manager of the Lawrence (Kan.) Journal-World, has purchased a half-interest in the Fredonia (Kan.) Daily Herald and will act as its manager.

THE KANSAS CITY STAR

MORNING—EVENING—SUNDAY

Each Issue
Over 200,000 Circulation

THE
Boston Herald
(Morning and Sunday) and the Boston Traveler
(Evening)

Net Paid Circulation:
DAILY, over 208,000
Sunday, over 119,000

Member Audit Bureau of Circulations.

DALLAS EVENING JOURNAL

Published by
A. H. Belo & Co.
Covers the afternoon field as completely
as does the Dallas News in the morning
37,659 NET PAID average during 6
months period ending April 1,
1917. P. O. Report.
LARGEST AFTERNOON Circulation
J. D. LORENTZ, Manager Eastern Dept.
718 Tribune Building, NEW YORK

STATE BODIES AND ECONOMY.

(Continued from Eighth Page.)

sociation as having great possibilities. In fact, we have hardly gotten started, though I have not touched on the activities of our other committees that are working along many lines, included among them being one seeking to improve the laws in the state affecting legal advertising, and in turn doing its best to block some of the adverse legislation that is proposed by the fellow who has a grudge or would do hurt and doesn't know it.

Or a committee on the purchase of supplies, another that is seeking to build a paper mill and so on.

I am an enthusiast for this proposition of cooperation—doing it together. Necessity has forced it upon us Tar Heels, though I am frank to say that in these meetings of the fellows situated as myself I have found the light out of some mighty dark problems in the past, while for the future we hope for even greater and better things.

CAPPER IN NEW YORK.

Governor Arthur W. Capper of Kansas, editor of the Topeka Capital, and Mrs. Capper are in New York this week. Governor Capper and important business in Washington and decided to come on to New York and look over the newspapers while Mrs. Capper did some shopping.

WILMINGTON
DELAWARE

is the "High Spot" between Philadelphia and Washington.

EVERY EVENING

covers this territory more completely than any other newspaper.

Net Paid 13,280 Daily

A high class Home newspaper for intelligent readers.

BRYANT, GRIFFITH & FREDERICKS
New York Boston Chicago

BRIDGEPORT

(CONNECTICUT
(The Eden of America)
The Prosperity Center of the United States and the Industrial Center of New England.

THE Post & Telegram

(Evening) (Morning)
Cover This Field Absolutely.
Members of the A. B. C.
JULIUS MATHEWS, Representative
1 Beacon Street, BOSTON
171 Madison Avenue, NEW YORK
Hartford Building, CHICAGO

McKERNAN'S GREAT WORK.

James McKernan, circulation manager of the New York World, has been busy this week receiving congratulations from his many friends on his eleventh anniversary as manager of the World's circulation department.

Mr. McKernan has every reason to be proud of the distinction of holding this position for this long number of years, for during that time the circulation of the World has shown some wonderful increases.

The World for 1916 had a net daily average circulation of 377,194, which was 73,524 more per day than in 1906, when Mr. McKernan assumed charge. The Sunday World's average net circulation was 501,689, which was 121,546 per issue more than eleven years ago; and the Evening World in 1916 enjoyed an average net circulation of 407,308, more per day by 113,929 copies than in 1906.

JAMES McKERNAN.

In 1916 the number of Worlds circulated totaled 270,002,211, which was 63,358,305 more than eleven years ago, or an average net increase of 1,218,428 copies per week.

Mr. McKernan says that he does not wish it to be understood that he makes any claim of taking credit for

THE DETROIT
JOURNAL

with over 100,000 net paid Circulation daily is indispensable in covering Detroit and surrounding territory.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.,
New York Chicago Boston Detroit

Newark Star-Eagle
NEW JERSEY'S
LARGEST PENNY PAPER

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.,
New York Chicago Boston Detroit

his showing, but is proud to have been in charge of the circulation department during a period that showed such wonderful growth.

Mr. McKernan is chairman of the New York City Circulation Managers' Association, director of the I.C.M.A. and vice-president of the New York State Association of Circulation Managers.

CONDENSED NEWS NOTES.

N. J. Christman is planning to establish a newspaper at Tony, Wis.

R. D. Webster has purchased the Coates (Kan.) Courant.

V. L. Chipman has bought the Clay Center (Neb.) Patriot.

Guy R. Louis will have complete charge of the Winner (S. D.) Journal in the future succeeding John W. Shevlin.

J. W. Strang has sold the Taylor (N. D.) Reporter to Phil W. Starkle.

Ed. Johnson has sold his Fountain (Minn.) Review to a Mr. Smelzer.

The Bloomington (Wis.) Record and the Cassville Index have consolidated and in the future will be published from the Bloomington office.

The Cameron (Wis.) Review has suspended publication.

G. C. Elwood has sold the Cameron (Wis.) Record to the Cameron Shield.

J. W. B. McGee has sold the De Witt (Ia.) Observer to W. Leonard Simmer of Troy Center, Wis.

The Toronto Daily News is now using a new style of name plate on its front page, featuring the line "Toronto's Newest Newspaper."

The Nebraska Republican is the name of a new weekly newspaper launched on September 1, at Lincoln, Neb. George W. Kline is at the helm.

Vaughn Smith has bought the interests of his associates in the publication of the Leon (Ia.) Mink Monthly and has changed the name to the American Scout.

W. D. Bell has traded the plant of the St. James (Minn.) Journal-Gazette to an investment company in St. Paul.

The publishing houses of the Montevideo (Minn.) Commercial, Leader

The Plain Dealer

First Newspaper of Cleveland, Sixth City prints a far greater total of paid advertising and paid advertisements than any other newspaper in

CLEVELAND

Over 150,000 Daily. || Over 200,000 Sunday.

JOHN B. WOODWARD, Eastern Advertising Representative, Times Bg., N. Y.
JOHN GLASS, Western Advertising Representative, Peoples Gas Bg., Chicago.

BALTIMORE CITY OF HOMES

and noted for its great industries and thrifty working classes, affords National Advertisers one of the best fields. Use the

AMERICAN and STAR

Morning—Sunday Evening
Baltimore's greatest newspapers, thoroughly cover city and state. Member A.B.C.
C. GEORGE KROGNESS, CHICAGO.
VERREE & CONKLIN, Inc., New York

and Advance have been purchased by Ludwig I. Roe and the three papers will be consolidated and will be published weekly.

Carey Schaffer, editor of the Gas City (Kan.) Herald, has been appointed professor of journalism at the University of Missouri.

Beachy Musselman of Arkansas City, Kan., will be this year's business manager of the Agawan, the university comic publication.

PRESS CLUB'S LAST HONORS TO H. F. GILLIG.

An impressive funeral service for Henry F. Gillig, a life member of the New York Press Club, was held at the Campbell Funeral Church, New York, on September 1. The Press Club was represented by fifty of its oldest members.

The services were conducted by the Press Club. Emanuel Loewenstein, SLATTERY A PRESS AGENT.

Daniel Slattery, formerly secretary to Police Commissioner Bingham of New York, has become press representative for the Weber & Anderson theatrical interests, succeeding E. A. Weil.

INK MAN DEAD.

William French Foster, well known for years as sales manager of the Sigmund Ullman Company, New York, manufacturer of printing inks, died in Brooklyn, N. Y., on August 28.

Washington Newspapers

Sworn statements of the newspapers at the National Capitol to the Post Office Department for the six months ending March 31, 1917:

Evening Star	83,194
Evening Times	35,569
Washington Post	34,293
Washington Herald	30,454

Since this statement the circulation of the Star, Times and Post has materially increased.

The special features of THE BUFFALO TIMES

have made it the most popular newspaper in
Western New York

NORMAN E. MACK, Proprietor.
VERREE & CONKLIN, Inc.
Special Advertising Representatives
NEW YORK, DETROIT, CHICAGO

Schenectady POPULATION 100,000
EVENING Union Star
EXCEPT SUNDAY.
AUDITED CIRCULATION 20,643
Home circulation reaching best paid
scientific, technical and skilled mechanics
in America.
LA COSTE & MAXWELL
Special Representatives
NEW YORK CHICAGO

HOTEL REPORTER CHANGES.

Harrie Davis, managing editor of the Daily Hotel Reporter, New York, heard the call into military service this week and heeded it, with the result that Howard W. Hillegas, formerly news editor and editorial writer on the New York Herald, assumed the news direction of the hotel paper.

Mr. Hillegas has been in the New York newspaper field for many years, joining the Evening World shortly after graduating from Franklin & Marshall College in 1894. He covered the Boer War for the Morning World and left the big city in 1900 for three years to try his hand at publishing the Saratoga (N. Y.) Daily Sun.

Returning to New York he spent two years with the American and then joined the Herald staff, on which he served as copy reader, assistant night city editor, night city editor and day city editor, also as city editor and news editor at various times until 1916, when he was made editorial writer. Recently he occupied the news editor's desk for a time.

The Daily Hotel Reporter is published by the Gehring Publishing Company, which also issues the Hotel Review and Daily Attractions. The Hotel Reporter was established in 1877 and claims the distinction of being the only ten-cent daily in the United States.

FROM KANSAS CITY.

B. F. Sparkes of Kansas City, Mo., is a new member of the staff of the New York American.

If this territory presents a sales problem to you, the Merchandising Service
Department..

of the Boston American will, upon request, make a trade investigation covering various sections of Metropolitan Boston and submit a report which will help you solve that problem. Ask how this department works.

BOSTON AMERICAN

W. D. BOYCE CO.
500-514 North Dearborn St. CHICAGO
305 Metropolitan Tower, NEW YORK
PUBLISHER

THE INDIANA
DAILY TIMES
INDIANAPOLIS
THE FARMING BUSINESS
High-class farm weekly, magazine form.
BOYCE'S WEEKLIES
The Saturday Blade, Chicago Ledger.
THE LONE SCOUT

"BOYCE'S" IS A SYNONYM FOR
SUCCESSFUL ADVERTISING

Peoria TRANSCRIPT
Only morning newspaper in Peoria.
Peoria JOURNAL

Only evening paper in Peoria with Associated Press franchise. Leads in circulation and advertising. Member A.B.C.
SUNDAY JOURNAL-TRANSCRIPT.
Combination Advertising Rate
HENRY M. PINDELL, Proprietor.
CHAS. H. EDDY CO., Representatives.
NEW YORK BOSTON CHICAGO

NEW INVESTMENT PAPER.

The Investment Digest is a recently established New York publication devoting itself exclusively to the investments that are offered to the stock and bond buying public.

The business manager, Norman Crystall, has been with the New York American for ten years, resigning a few weeks ago to join the new paper. He has also served with the George Batten Company, Inc., in the advertising department of the Royal Baking Powder Company and as advertising manager of the Goertz Optical Company. He gained circulation experience on the staff of the New York Evening Mail and also on the New York Times. Mr. Crystall is a Stevens Institute of Technology man.

The editor of the Investment Digest is G. Simon, who has been connected with metropolitan dailies and class publications for the past seventeen years, among them the American Banker, the Financier, New York Commercial, Daily Bond News, American Investor, Morning Telegraph, New York Clipper, Variety, Knickerbocker Magazine, Harlem Star, New Yorker and the Criterion. He has also written stories and analytical articles for a number of weekly and monthly publications.

The Investment Banker is now furnishing the daily press with a news service.

CALDWELL FISHING.

George B. Caldwell, president of the Sperry & Hutchinson Company, New York, will no doubt have a number of "fish" stories to relate when he returns from his fishing trip to Maine.

DOWN ON LONG ISLAND.

Leonard B. Patten of the advertising staff of the Sperry & Hutchinson Company, New York, is enjoying his vacation, with his family, at Huntington, Long Island.

FILLING THE BREACH.

Mrs. J. W. Brown is editing the Hemphill (Tex.) Reporter, her husband having entered the Reserve Officers Training Camp at San Antonio.

The BEST Advertising BUY in CLEVELAND
THE NEWS

Quality Evening Newspaper
With Quantity Circulation

THE LEADER

Sunday

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.,
350 Fifth Ave., NEW YORK
Mallory Building, CHICAGO
361 Devonshire St., BOSTON
Kresge Building, DETROIT

THE NEW ORLEANS
ITEM

Largest Afternoon Circulation in the
entire South.

(April A.B.C. Net Paid Statement)

Sunday 68,875 Daily 55,041
THE JOHN BUDD COMPANY
NEW YORK CHICAGO ST. LOUIS

ANOTHER GLENISTER MAKING A BIG NAME.

From writing for a newspaper to writing for the movies is not such a far cry—both being international institutions. Alice Glenister, who was formerly a St. Louis newspaper woman, has recently come to New York and taken up moving picture work as her vehicle for writing. In Saucy Stories she is editing a motion picture department—her writing is snappy, humorous and fitting to the title of the magazine.

ALICE GLENISTER.

At present she is novelizing moving pictures and has written a number of short stories. She is the wife of John W. (Jack) Glenister, who is among the best known of all circulation men, having a wide personal acquaintance throughout the country and is now circulation director of all the Warner Publications in New York.

A new weekly newspaper will be started in Berlin, Wis., about October 1. D. S. Johnson is to be the editor.

THE PITTSBURG DISPATCH

solicits your business on the basis of genuine and established merit.

H. C. Reek, Real Est. Trust Bdg., Phila.
W. G. Brooker, 225 Fifth Ave., New York
Ford-Persons Co., Michigan Av., Chicago
W. E. Edge, Atlantic City, N. J.
Dorland Co., 10 Regent St., London, Eng.

The City of Richmond qualified
VIRGINIA, has 15,309 voters

THE TIMES-DISPATCH
RICHMOND.

is delivered 12,000 of the city's
daily into best homes.

In all VIRGINIA it's the same.
STORY, BROOKS & FINLEY, Inc.
New York Philadelphia Chicago

BIG AD GAIN IN AUGUST FOR NEW YORK WORLD.

Though August is notably a "slow" month for advertising of all kinds and notwithstanding the fact that eleven of Greater New York's fifteen daily newspapers showed a loss in volume of advertising, according to the statistical bureau of the New York Evening Post, the New York World on the sixteenth and seventeenth pages of this issue produces figures which is no way smack of the "dog day slump."

The World's gain for August was 87,878 lines.

The statistics also show that in August, 1914, the World carried 746,199 lines; in August, 1915, 780,572 lines was the figure; 1916 showed 921,893 lines, and 1917 brought the August total over the million mark, to 1,099,771 lines.

Further proof of strength is given by the fact that the World carried 8,915,486 lines of advertising from January 1 to August 31 this year, against 8,131,401 lines in the same period last year, thereby gaining 784,085 lines for the eight months.

INTERRED MAN STARTS PAPER

Lieutenant F. S. Hobbs, former publisher of the Hasting (Ont.) Star, has started a small magazine in Murren, Switzerland, where he was interned after being taken prisoner by the Germans.

The Circulation of the
NEW YORK
EVENING
MAIL

represents a greater purchasing power per unit of circulation than is found in any other New York Evening Paper.

A Powerful List is the MILWAUKEE GERMANIA LIST

CIRCULATION

Germania Herald 36,989
Only German Morning daily in Milwaukee
Sonntag Post 37,000
Only German Sunday daily in Milwaukee
Weekly Germania 107,413
(German Farm Journal) Weekly, 103,333
Die Rundschau, Weekly, 25,008
Eastern Representative
LOUIS KLEBAHN
1 West 84th Street NEW YORK
Telephone 215 Greeley

TELEGRAM CODZIENNY

A National American Daily and Sunday printed in the Polish language reaching over 150,000 readers.

A Splendid Advertising Medium
Phone Stuyvesant 2004
90 East 10th St., NEW YORK

I. P. ASKS 3 CENTS FOR PAPER.

(Continued from Second Page.)

mously increased since the date on which the 2½-cent price was fixed.

"This company is willing at all times to assist the Government and to furnish paper, as it offered to do in its recent bid for less than the market price and less than the price it receives under contracts.

"It protests most vigorously against the arbitrary action, fixing 2½ cents per pound, and hereby gives notice that it reserves the right to appeal if necessary to the proper legal authority for the constitutional protection of its property against confiscation.

"Feeling, however, that you have no intention of dealing unjustly with an American manufacturer, I beg that you will take under consideration the facts above stated, and either make an order permitting us to be paid 3 cents for the paper in question, or that some person or committee be authorized to take the matter up with us so that we may present facts justifying the price named in our bid."

If the International Paper Company had refused to furnish the news print at 2.50 when ordered by the Secretary of War, under the National Defense Act the War Department could immediately take possession of any mill and operate it through the Bureau of Ordnance. In the case of the individual, if he refused such an order, he could be declared guilty of felony and given three years imprisonment with a fine of $50,000 or both. Such a provision is included in the Congressional act under which this paper was obtained.

MAYOR THOMPSON SUES.

William Hale Thompson, mayor of Chicago, on September 6 filed suit for $250,000 damages, charging libel against the Chicago Herald and James Keeley, publisher, simultaneously.

He made a long public statement, defending himself against charges of "anti-Americanism" and alleging the had been grossly libelled by the "press of Chicago and others."

THE ST. LOUIS WESTLICHE POST

reaches the GERMAN reading and speaking population of St. Louis
as no other medium can.

THE ONLY POLISH DAILY IN NEW ENGLAND

Kurier Bostonski

27 Beverly st., BOSTON, MASS
reaches 600,000 Poles in New England. They want to buy your goods

Use Kurier Bostonski.

SUPPLEMENT TO THE AYER DIRECTORY.

A big improvement in the 1917 American Newspaper Annual and Directory, published by N. W. Ayer & Son, Philadelphia, is a mid-year supplement supplied to all purchasers of the Directory. It records a list of material changes in the publications of the country for the first half of 1917. These include such as tend to interest advertisers and publishers—changes of name, issue, consolidations, suspensions and removals.

No reference is made to management, size, circulation, price, politics, street address or other changes, which already number perhaps 15,000.

The supplement also includes a list of new papers received up to May 10. The supplement pages are the same size as those of the Annual and Directory, and they are printed only on one side, which allows them to be cut apart, if desired, and the information placed wherever it is considered most appropriate.

A WELL EARNED VACATION.

O. O. McIntyre, who is New York correspondent of some eighty Middle West, Southern and Western newspapers, is taking his first vacation this next week that he has had in five years. He goes to Atlantic City and from there to Washington and then to Kansas City, Mo., to see his father.

Mr. McIntyre was formerly city editor of the Dayton (O.) News, Cincinnati Post, associate editor of Hampton's Magazine and was news editor on the New York Evening Mail before he organized his own syndicate. Rumor has it also that Mr. McIntyre is in negotiation with a big theatrical producer for the sale of a play he has written which will be presented on Broadway late in the fall.

HEARST WON'T RUN.

William R. Hearst has withdrawn as a candidate for the Democratic nomination as mayor of New York in favor of the candidate endorsed by the regular Democratic organization. Mr. Hearst's declination was filed just before the legal time limit expired.

MONTREAL LA PRESSE

is CANADA'S largest and wealthiest city—sixth in America in population; fourth largest French city in the world—and a wonderfully fine market for all kinds of advertised goods.

is Canada's largest circulating daily—over 145,000 and still growing—and it thoroughly covers Montreal's population, which is over 700,000, and of which 70 per cent is French Canadian element. Get particulars.

W. M. J. MORTON CO., Special Reps.
NEW YORK, Fifth Ave. Building.
CHICAGO, Tribune Building.
LONDON, Finsbury, 19 Sutilian Avenue
Southampton Row.
PARIS, 6 rue du Rocher.

THE JEWISH MORNING JOURNAL NEW YORK CITY

carries more advertising than any other Jewish newspaper. Circulation in New York City largest of all foreign language newspapers.
Member A. B. C.

CHURCH PAPERS AID IN SCHOOL STANDARDS.

Commissioner P. P. Claxton of the Bureau of Education, Department of the Interior, has sent the following letter to the editors of religious papers:

"It is of the greatest importance that the schools of the United States of all kinds and grades—public, private, and parochial—be maintained during the war without any lowering of their standards or falling off in their attendance.

"This is necessary both for the protection of our boys and girls against many unusual temptations to delinquencies of various kinds, and that they may have full opportunity for preparation for the work of life and for the duties and responsibilities of citizenship; all of which will require a higher degree of preparation because of the war.

"For many reasons there will be need in this country for higher standards in average of ability, knowledge and virtue, when the boys and girls now in our schools have reached manhood and womanhood than we or any other people have yet attained to.

"In the making of public opinion and popular sentiment necessary for the maintenance of standards of efficiency, to keep children in the schools, and to prevent their exploitation in the mills and shops, the churches may do much. I am, therefore, appealing to all ministers to urge this from their pulpits, and to all superintendents of Sunday-schools and all leaders of young peoples' societies to have this matter discussed in their meetings.

"To do this is a patriotic duty which should be performed gladly, both for the present defense and for the future welfare of the country."

FOREIGN LANGUAGE EDITORS MEET TODAY.

The Foreign Language Press Club will meet today at the rooms of the New York Press Club. The club is made up of the leading foreign language newspaper publishers of New York and was organized last May.

NEW YORK THE DAY

America's Greatest
Jewish CommunityAmerica's Foremost
Jewish Daily.

Reaches the cream of purchasing power of the Jewish element in America.
CIRCULATION OVER 70,000
Despite advance in price from one to two cents.

THE DAY The National Jewish Daily.

Member A. B. C.

Main Publication Office:
183 East Broadway, NEW YORK

NARODNI List

Briacoe Motor Corp. of Jackson, Mich., has just played 19,800 agate lines of Briscoe advertising in the Narodni List. This is the best proof that the Narodni List is one of the best advertising mediums in the foreign languages for National advertisers.

Ideal Newspaper for National Advertisers
Phone 2989 Beckman
61 Park Row, NEW YORK

INSURANCE FOR THE STAFF.

Members of the Williamsport (Pa.) Sun family assembled in the business office at noon one day recently and were informed by A. W. Fell, business manager, that the newspaper had made arrangements to present to each member of the force who has been employed for three or more years a $1,000 life insurance policy.

Thirty-six employees will benefit immediately by the action of the newspaper. Employees who have not been on the Sun's payroll for three years will be presented with a policy as soon as they have worked for that period.

When the pay envelopes were distributed a neatly printed card announcing the meeting at noon the following day was enclosed in each envelope.

MISSOURI WRITERS' JAUNT.

The annual outing of the Missouri Writers' Guild will be at Elk Springs, Mo., the week of September 22. A special car will be provided from Kansas City. Outdoor amusements, river trips, literary "experience meetings" and a round table program will be arranged for by J. Breckenridge Ellis of Plattsburg, president of the guild.

The fall outings of the writers' organization, since its inception two years ago, have been held in the Missouri Ozarks. Each year the program is varied, but the features always are of a "back to nature" sort.

Daily Publishers!

MORE ADVERTISING?

If you want real wide awake advertising representation, here in Chicago and the West, get in touch with us at once.

We get business by going after it; keeping after it until we get the order. Why not discuss the matter with us today? Write us at once.

YOUNG & FARRELL

Room 400, 80 N. Dearborn St.
CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

THEODORE ROOSEVELT

Joins the Staff of the

KANSAS CITY STAR

An Announcement.

October 1 Theodore Roosevelt will become a member of the staff of The Kansas City Star. Thereafter he will contribute regularly by wire his comment on current events.

The Star has long felt that a daily newspaper would give him the best possible medium for the expression of opinion on matters on which his views are of prime importance. In this belief Colonel Roosevelt has now come to acquiesce.

Several courses were open to him, including that offered by an urgent invitation to write for a syndicate of newspapers. But he held that the strategic place of Kansas City in the very heart of the country, and the sharing of common ideals by himself and The Star, made this newspaper the appropriate medium with which to ally himself.

The Star would be guilty of false modesty if it did not frankly confess its happiness in the acquisition of Colonel Roosevelt to its organization in the capacity of a regular contributor. The honor of such an acquisition is one of which any newspaper in America or Europe might well feel proud. Moreover, it believes that the connection thus established will arouse the keen interest of the country in general and of Kansas City in particular.

It will make Kansas City the center for a momentous discussion of events of transcendent importance—a discussion that will be watched not only by the whole United States, but by all the nations of Europe as well. For Colonel Roosevelt is undoubtedly among the two or three leading authorities in the world on domestic and international affairs. Everything that he has to say on these questions inevitably carries very great weight and is read with the closest attention in London, Paris and Berlin, as well as in New York and Washington.

What he writes is the fruit of reflection on a career that has hardly been matched. Legislator, rancher, civil service commissioner, police commissioner for New York City, national civil service commissioner, assistant secretary of the navy, colonel in the Cuban war, governor of New York, Vice-President and President—he has had every variety of human experience. His knowledge of foreign problems is that of a man who won the Nobel peace prize for settling the Russo-Japanese War and one who dealt successfully with international controversies of every character.

He has a personal acquaintance with most of the important figures in the world war, and with the men in active charge of things in the United States. His point of view is that of the modern man—the progressive, who works in practical fashion to insure the supremacy of human rights over property rights; and the nationalist, who has confidence in national solutions of national problems.

This record is here thus hastily reviewed to invite the attention of the readers of The Star to the importance of the contributions that have been arranged for.

This newspaper counts itself fortunate to be able to do the public service of printing regular contributions from such a man.

KANSAS CITY STAR

A NEWSPAPER FOR
THE MAKERS OF NEWSPAPERS
AND INVESTORS IN
ADVERTISING

*Published Weekly at 222 West
60th Street (Near Broadway)*

NEW YORK CITY

SATURDAY, SEPT. 15, 1917

THE FOURTH ESTATE

"EDMUND BURKE SAID
that there were Three Estates
in Parliament, but in the Reporter's Gallery yonder there
sat a 'Fourth Estate' more important far than they all."
—Carlyle's "Heroes and Hero Worship." Lecture V.

PRICE 10 CENTS.
TWO DOLLARS A YEAR

ESTABLISHED 1894 No. 1229

Two Sections

FOR THE MAKER OF SHOES.
During the first six months of 1917, the Chicago Daily News printed more shoe advertising six days a week than any other Chicago newspaper printed in seven days. The figures (in agate lines) are:

	LINES
The DAILY NEWS . (6 days)	176,128
The Tribune . . . (7 days)	151,544
The American . . . (6 days)	88,436
The Journal . . . (6 days)	60,340
The Herald . . . (7 days)	59,652
The Examiner . . . (7 days)	36,668
The Post . . . (6 days)	35,434

Do these figures have any bearing on YOUR advertising plans for Chicago?

The Chicago Daily News

"It Covers Chicago"

SENATE REJECTS SPECIAL PUBLISHERS' TAXES.

WAR TAX BILL SENT BACK TO HOUSE WITH NEWSPAPERS ON SAME BASIS AS EVERY OTHER BUSINESS.

In its vote on the War Revenue Bill, the United States Senate on September 10 eliminated all special newspaper taxes and made publications subject only to the corporation taxes, which every other class of American industry will have to pay.

The McKellar amendment, recently adopted, to provide a zone system for computing second-class mail rates, and expected to yield $12,600,000 annually, was stricken from the bill on motion of Senator Smoot, of Utah, by a vote of 40 to 34. The McKellar amendment provided for the application of the zone system of postal charges beyond 300 miles to second-class matter.

Senator Hardwick's amendment, to levy second-class postage rates upon newspapers and magazines according to the amount of space devoted to advertising, was voted down, 48 to 20. Senator Hardwick's proposal was estimated to raise $16,500,000 next year.

A motion by Senator Simmons, to strike out the House second class postal rate increases, was carried, 59 to 9.

The finance committee's special publishers' profits provisions also were defeated.

The finance committee also recommended three-cent letter postage, but the Senate rejected it.

The following Senators voted to reject the McKellar amendment:

Borah, Brady, Brandegee, Calder, Colt, Curtis, Dillingham, Fall, Fernald, France, Gerry, Hale, Hollis, Hustung, Johnson of California, Jones of New Mexico, Jones of Washington, Kellogg, Kendrick, King, Lodge, Nelson, New, Newlands, Owen, Page, Penrose, Poindexter, Ransdell, Saulsbury, Sherman, Smith of Michigan, Smoot, Sterling, Stone, Wadsworth, Watson, Weeks, Williams, Wolcott.

Of these the following originally voted for the McKellar amendment:

Curtis, Hollis, Hustung, Kendrick, Owens, Ransdell, Sterling.

Senator Simmons did not vote on the McKellar amendment; Senators Frelinghuysen, Hitchcock, Knox, McCumber and Phelan were all paired, but would have voted against the McKellar amendment.

Senator William Alden Smith of Michigan, who owns the Grand Rapids Herald, came to the rescue of the newspapers in grand style.

Because he is a publisher himself, Senator Smith was able to present facts on behalf of the newspapers that made his fellow Senators realize great harm would be done by subjecting them to special taxes; and that the newspapers were right in their fight for justice.

Nothing now remains of the postal provisions except the brief section giving the free mailing privilege to soldiers and seamen in France.

The prediction of the members who will form the conference committee is that the bill will be a law within ten days. The general feeling is that it will be enacted in substantially the form as passed by the Senate, although there will be changes in details.

In general, the House is entirely satisfied with the Senate revisions. There is a feeling in the House that war developments have proved the necessity for more revenue than the original House bill would have provided. One of the conferees from the House said that strong pressure would be brought to bear to increase the money to be raised by restoring to the bill some of the items approved originally by the House but stricken out in the Senate.

The House sent the $2,400,000,000 War Revenue bill to conference on September 12, but it required a special rule to do it.

Speaker Clark appointed Democratic Leader Kitchin and Representatives Rainey, Illinois, and Dixon, Indiana, Democrats, and Fordney, Michigan, and Moore, Pennsylvania, Republicans, as conferees to represent the House. General instructions were given to disagree to all Senate amendments, which number 321.

Already an informal proposal is before the conferees to insert in the bill the original increase on first-class mail matter and an increase on second-class rates under the McKellar zone system. These two increases would bring the total yield under the bill up to $2,500,000,000.

Representative Cooper of Wisconsin has made a protest against an increase in second class rates, and blocked unanimous consent to send the bill to conference, forcing a special rule.

"The zone system for the transmission of mail should never obtain in the United States," he said. "The one thing which has done more than anything else to bring about a unity of sentiment and feeling in this great republic has been the dissemination everywhere of the newspapers from one section of the country to another at the lowest possible rate. The zone system tends to circumscribe the circulation of publications. There is no more reason why they should be subjected to a zone system than that letters should be carried at zone rates."

SUNDAY PAPER IN NASHVILLE.

The Nashville Banner has issued a Sunday edition, which will be published under the same subscription price as now covers the daily edition alone.

U.S. SENATE CURBS TEUTON PRESS.

ENGLISH TRANSLATIONS OF ALL WAR COMMENTS CALLED FOR.

The project to establish a "deadly parallel" in the columns of newspapers now printed in German, by compelling them to publish a translation in English in the next column to a German story, has been approved by the Senate, in passing by a viva voce vote the Trading with the Enemy Act, as amended by Senator King of Utah, this week.

Mr. King recently introduced a bill along similar lines, which would have affected newspapers printed in all foreign languages, while his present amendment will concern only those printed in German. It requires all comment in such papers on the Government, its allies or the war, to be accompanied in a parallel column, with a full and true translation in English.

Failure to do this would subject the offending paper to forfeiture of the privileges of the mails.

The amendment reads:

"That during the pendency of the present state of war, and until peace shall be concluded and the fact declared by proclamation of the President, it shall be unlawful for any person, firm or association to print or publish or cause to be printed or published in the German language any comments respecting the Government of the United States, or of any nation with which Germany is at war, its policies, international relations, the state or conduct of the war, or of any matter relating thereto, without printing or publishing in a column parallel to such matter a true and complete translation of the same in the English language.

Any print or publication in the German language which does not conform to the provisions of this section shall not be admitted to the mails, and it shall be unlawful for any person to transport, carry, or otherwise publish or distribute the same. Any person violating the provisions of this section shall on conviction thereof be punished by a fine of not more than $500 or by imprisonment for a period of not more than one year, or may in the discretion of the court be both fined and imprisoned.

In speaking for the amendment before the Senate, Senator King said:

"The time for legislation against these treasonable journals has come. The American people are amazed at the existence of these vipers in their midst. These newspapers preach disloyalty to the country; they are doing what they can to make the war unpopular; they are trying to stir up sedition and revolt in the United States and to lead astray people who otherwise would be loyal.

"It must be said that most of the newspapers of our land, indeed, the vast majority, are loyal. They have done what they could to aid the Government in its task of conducting the war.

"While they have done that, these vile seditious journals printed in German have done what they could to misrepresent the attitude of our country in the war. They have tried in every way to hamper the winning of the war by the United States.

"I have talked with the Department of Justice about this matter and I am informed that there is no adequate law to deal with these newspapers. The Postmaster General wants us to pass this measure. He will be able to act swiftly against these traitorous newspapers if we give him this power."

The amendment was adopted without a dissenting vote and will be discussed in conference next week. It has already passed the House, without the Senate amendments.

"QUACK" ADS BARRED IN NEW YORK STATE.

Advertisements of treatment for venereal diseases are now prohibited in New York State by virtue of an amendment to the penal code, passed by the Legislature last May and just approved by Governor Whitman. A general clean-up of advertisements of such character, wherever displayed is now in order. The section is:

"Advertisements relating to certain diseases prohibited. Whoever publishes, delivers, or distributes or causes to be published, delivered, or distributed in any manner whatsoever an advertisement concerning a venereal disease, lost manhood, lost vitality, etc., and calling attention to a medicine, article, or preparation that may be used therefor or to a person or persons from whom or an office or place at which information, treatment, or advice relating to such disease, infirmity, habit, or condition may be obtained, is guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment for not more than six months, or by a fine of not less than $50 dollars nor more than $500 dollars, or by both such fine and imprisonment."

Scientific treatises which do not advertise persons or places where information may be obtained, together with notices issued by incorporated hospitals, licensed dispensaries, municipal boards of health, and the State Department of Health, are not subject to the provisions of the new law which is aimed at quacks and disreputable agencies credited with preying upon victims of the diseases named.

GEORGIA'S FLAG LAW.

A new law in Georgia makes it a misdemeanor "to copy, print, publish or otherwise use the flag or national emblem of the United States of America for the purpose of advertising, selling or promoting the sale of any article of merchandise whatever within this state."

NEW HOME IN AUGUSTA.

The new home of the Augusta (Ga.) Herald will be ready for occupancy about October 1, according to Bowdre Phinizy, president of the company. The Herald's plant was completely destroyed by fire in March, 1916, and its new outfit, including new fixtures, will cost $150,000 when completed.

GERARD STORY TO APPEAR IN HEARST NEWSPAPERS.

The Hearst newspapers will carry "My Four Years in Germany," by former Ambassador Gerard, which has been running in the Philadelphia Public Ledger for the past six weeks. Publication in the Hearst papers will start tomorrow.

JEFFERSONIAN QUILTS.

The Jeffersonian, published by Thomas A. Watson, which was barred from the mails recently and denounced from a Federal District Court bench, has suspended publication.

M. M. Lord is now promotion manager for the Boston Herald. He was formerly sales and advertising manager of the Package Confectionery Company, Boston.

TRUE ECONOMY IN WAR TIME

The Only Machine that Pays for itself With its By-Products.

OF THE HUNDREDS OF SATISFIED USERS OF MONOTYPES WE NAME A FEW

Atlanta (Ga.) Constitution
Baltimore Sun
Boston American
Boston Post
Birmingham (Ala.) Age-Herald
Buffalo (N. Y.) News
Canton (O.) Repository
Chicago Examiner
Chicago Tribune
Cincinnati Enquirer
Cleveland Leader
Cleveland Plain Dealer
Columbus (O.) Dispatch
Denver (Colo.) News-Times
Dubuque (Ia.) Telegraph-Herald
Houston (Tex.) Chronicle
Los Angeles (Cal.) Examiner
Macon (Ga.) Telegraph
Madison (Wis.) Wisconsin State Journal
Minneapolis Journal
New York World
New York Journal
New York Times
New Orleans States
Norfolk (Va.) Ledger-Dispatch
Omaha (Neb.) News
Omaha (Neb.) Bee
Philadelphia Enquirer
Philadelphia Record
Pittsburg Post
Richmond Times-Dispatch
Seattle (Wash.) Times
Sioux City (Ia.) Tribune
South Bend (Ind.) Tribune
San Francisco Bulletin
St. Paul (Minn.) Dispatch
Tacoma (Wash.) Tribune
Topeka (Kan.) Daily Capital
Trenton (N. J.) Times
Washington Post
Washington Star

consists not in mere reduction of the outlay for production, but more in getting greater returns for every dollar you spend.

The most economical outlay a newspaper can make is a complete MONOTYPE equipment for its ad-room.

The Monotype and Non-Distribution System will prove the best paying investment you ever made.

Do not take our word for it. Ask Monotype users who have tested it out.

The Monotype Non-Distribution System eliminates all the non-productive time in the ad-room, abolishes all the type-foundry bills, makes satisfied advertisers and readers, and reduces the cost of production to such an extent that it pays for itself.

LANSTON MONOTYPE MACHINE COMPANY

PHILADELPHIA

NEW YORK, World Building
CHICAGO, Plymouth Building

BOSTON, Wentworth Building
TORONTO, Lumsden Building

Monotype Company of California: SAN FRANCISCO.

SUIT OVER GERARD COPYRIGHT.

PUBLIC LEDGER WOULD STOP KANSAS CITY POST FROM EARLY PUBLICATION.

The Philadelphia Public Ledger Company has taken steps to protect its exclusive rights in the articles written by Ambassador Gerard, entitled "My Four Years in Germany." A bill in equity has been filed to restrain the Kansas City Post from continuing to publish these articles, for which it had secured the concession for publication after September 16, but which it published, at an earlier date. The bill also asks for damages and penalty.

A temporary injunction was refused by the district judge, as the application for the injunction was not made by the Ledger until the period required for the publication of the articles had about half expired. The court, however, in declining the injunction, required the Post to enter a bond of $15,000 to pay any damages which the Ledger may have suffered through the violation of its copyright.

The Kansas City Post, following the decision, made the following statement on the case:

"An effort to prevent the Post from publishing the remainder of the Gerard articles failed signally when Judge Kimbrough Stone, sitting for the first time since his appointment as United States Circuit Judge of Appeals refused to grant the temporary injunction which was asked.

"The Ledger Publishing Company of Philadelphia, claimed that the contract for the publication of the articles was on the basis that they should not be published until September 16.

"Attorney Frank M. Lowe, for the Post, contended that the contract was for immediate publication and successfully represented that any difference of opinion as to the terms of the contract was a matter of law, not equity, and that the remedy was not injunctive relief.

"At its own suggestion, the Post supplied a bond of $15,000 to cover any damages.

COPYRIGHT QUESTION RAISED.

"Of great interest to every newspaper publisher and to every citizen was the further claim of Attorney Lowe that the articles are not subject to copyright, inasmuch as the copyright law is not intended to protect the product of opportunity but of originality.

"He contended that a copyright has been issued for "My Four Years in Germany," but contended that the law was never intended to apply to such articles but that its purpose was to protect only the output of originality.

"He contended that the Gerard articles are merely the product of opportunity and that Mr. Gerard, as ambassador to Germany, obtained his information by virtue of the opportunity given to his position as the representative of the president of the United States to the German emperor, and that such information was obtained at the expense of the American government, and came to him solely upon account of his official position and therefore could not be protected by copyright.

"The articles will be published by this newspaper until the close of the series, without interruption.

"The Public Ledger company was also represented by J. L. White of Philadelphia."

Thomas Raeburn White, attorney for the Public Ledger, said to THE FOURTH ESTATE on the Post's statement:

"The statement circulated by the Kansas City Post regarding this case is wilfully misleading and untrue. The case was in the District Court, and not in the Circuit Court of Appeals.

"The amount of the bond which the Court required was not the sug-

"So the People May Know"

THE KANSAS CITY POST

TWELVE YEARS OLD AND

"The Fastest Growing Newspaper in America"

PAID CIRCULATION 150,000

98% within the trading radius of Kansas City —the most prosperous district of the U.S.A.

Average Daily Circulation August, 1917 . . 153,992

Average Daily Circulation August, 1916 . . 131,491

Gain 22,501

ADVERTISING RATE: } 15 Cents an Agate Line

CONE, LORENZEN & WOODMAN
Foreign Representatives

Brunswick Bldg.,
NEW YORK.

Advertising Bldg.
CHICAGO.

American Bldg.
DETROIT.

Chandler Bldg.
ATLANTA

gestion of the Post. On the contrary, the Post argued that it should be required to file a bond of only $250 or $500.

"The court rejected this suggestion and decided that a bond of the amount above stated must be given.

"The remainder of the article is a statement of arguments which it is said were advanced by the attorney for the Post. These arguments are of no consequence or importance, as the court did not sanction or approve any of them in rendering his decision.

"The Ledger will prosecute the case vigorously to a conclusion."

CHICKENS COME HOME.

Edward F. Warfel, who, as publicity expert of the Indiana State Council of Defense, is winning much commendation for the council on its war publicity from the National Council, War Department, and state councils, has been meeting some of his "old friends" during the last few weeks. When Mr. Warfel was in Washington as secretary to the late Congressman D. W. Comstock, of the Sixth Indiana District, he had a penchant for mailing Congressional records to a large number of newspapers in Indiana and now some of these same Congressional Records are coming back to him at the State House, encasing copies of the newspapers.

Since the price of paper went so high, and for the smaller papers was almost impossible to obtain at any price, many of the Indiana newspapers have been using most anything they could get as wrappers for their mailing list.

"Well, I certainly am glad they find the Records good for something," was Mr. Warfel's comment as the mail carrier dropped a bundle of Indiana papers in the office of the committee on publicity, of which George Ade, the Hoosier author, is chairman, at the State capitol the other day.

LA UNION PLANT FIRED.

Mobs which swept through the city of Buenos Ayres, Argentina, after the dismissal of the German envoy to that country, attacked the building of La Union, a pro-German newspaper, setting fire to it in several places and inflicting other damage. Dispatches from the city do not indicate the extent of the damage.

VANCOUVER SUN BUYS RIVAL.

ALONE IN MORNING FIELD, IT WILL BE PUBLISHED AS SEVEN-DAY PAPER.

The Vancouver (B. C.) Sun has purchased the plant, good-will and mailing lists of the Vancouver News-Advertiser, thus acquiring a monopoly of the morning field in that city. The Sun has an exclusive morning and Sunday membership in the re-organized Canadian Press, Ltd., and will be issued seven days a week.

In its valedictory, written by J. S. H. Matson, the News-Advertiser said:

It has been known for some time that one morning paper would fully supply the demands of the city of Vancouver and I am sure the Sun Publishing Company will make a special effort to meet the requirements of the constituency in every essential particular."

Mr. Matson states that it is his intention to devote his entire time to the Victoria Colonist, which he still owns and controls.

The News-Advertiser was the first morning paper in Vancouver and the fourth oldest in the province. It came into being in 1887, as an amalgamation of the News and Advertiser. These papers were born when Vancouver was known as Gastown.

The Vancouver Daily Sun was founded six years ago and soon won a place for itself in the morning field, but it became evident in the last few years that the city's newspaper row was overcrowded.

A year ago C. A. Abraham, who had previously been connected with Eastern newspapers, joined the Sun as business manager and has devoted most of his energy to gaining supremacy and finally absolute control of the morning field. He is business manager of the new paper.

In recent months the news department of the Sun has been under the direction of H. A. Stein, who now occupies the position of news editor. Many of the former staff of the News-Advertiser are now employed on the Sun.

The new paper will be published from the office of the News-Advertiser on Pender street. The subscription rate will be $6 a year in the city and suburbs, delivered, and $4 a year by mail.

William D. Ward, Tribune Building, New York, will represent the Sun in the Eastern field.

E. C. Thatcher has sold the Alta (Ia.) Advertiser to Leroy Rader.

CONTEST SPECIALISTS

The MYERS

CIRCULATION CO., Inc.

We want two more contracts for this fall.

In position to start work at once.

Will concentrate both crews in large city.

Our service is clean and a credit to your publication.

Home Office:
The Myers Building

Waterloo, Iowa

AN ANNOUNCEMENT

Revolutionary and Evolutionary

The American Press Association is in spirit, in fact and in function an Association of 6,132 Country Newspapers, with a combined circulation of 8,141,683. It is the biggest, the most powerful and the most potent force for public intelligence in all the world.

Through its advertising department, the American Press Association has become an aggressive force for the presentation of commercial intelligence to these millions of country homes.

The American Press Association has disposed of its manufacturing interests devoted to stereotype and plate manufacturing. In the future it will concern itself with and devote itself wholly and solely to

Constructive National Service to Advertisers and Advertising Agencies

The American Press Association has organized a Service Department. It will be manned by men who know merchandise, who know methods, who know men, and who know the geography of the United States and its relation to the needs of the individual.

The function of the Service Department will be to confer with the manufacturer and his advertising agent in planning marketing campaigns and to insure the active co-operation of the 6,132 newspapers in the Association—to stimulate the buying impulse of the sixty millions of people who live in the country communities.

On September 15th, our seventeen manufacturing branch offices throughout the United States will be assumed by the Western Newspaper Union. The American Press Association will continue its administration offices at 225 West 39th Street, New York, and its Chicago advertising office at 634 People's Gas Building.

For thirty-five years the American Press Association has published "The American Press," its weekly journal, which is read by 12,500 country newspaper publishers throughout the United States every Saturday. This publication will be strengthened in its text and its contents, and continue to serve as the coordinating medium of the 6,132 publishers who are included in

The American Press Association

COURTLAND SMITH, President.

PHILA. TAGEBLATT SEIZED.

VIOLATION OF ESPIONAGE ACT IS CHARGED BY THE GOVERNMENT.

Federal agents this week, in a raid on the office of the Philadelphia Tageblatt, a long established German morning newspaper, arrested the managing editor and business manager and found what they think is evidence of a nation-wide conspiracy against the United States.

The prisoners taken at the time of the raid, on September 10, were Dr. Martin Darkow, managing editor, and Herman Lemke, business manager. Two other editors surrendered to the Federal authorities the next day. They were Louis Werner, editor-in-chief, and Waldemar Alfredo, an editorial writer. Bail was fixed at $10,000 each.

Peter Schaefer, president of the company, and Paul Vogel, treasurer, for whom warrants were issued, were in Cincinnati at the time of the raid, but surrendered on September 13.

The warrants on which the arrests were made charge certain members of the Tageblatt staff with "willfully making and conveying false reports and statements with the intent to promote the success of the enemies of the United States, while the United States is at war with the Imperial German Government."

A second warrant charges the staff with using the mails for the same purpose.

According to Government officers, the Tageblatt, on September 8, published statements telling Germans in this country how to evade the postal laws and forward letters to Germany and naming a man in Stockholm, Sweden, through whom letters would be delivered in Germany.

N. Y. STAATS-ZEITUNG ASKS GOVERNMENT INQUIRY.

Bernard H. Ridder, president and publisher of the New York Staats-Zeitung, has sent the following letter to Attorney-General Gregory in Washington:

"An Associated Press dispatch from Philadelphia contains an indirect charge that the syndicate department of the New Yorker Staats-Zeitung is the head of a national German propaganda.

"Let me say, in answer thereto, that we sell material published in the Staats-Zeitung in matrix form to any papers desirous of purchasing this material.

"In view of the implication in these news dispatches that the Staats-Zeitung is at the head of a disloyal propaganda, may I not ask you to investigate not only the syndicate department of the Staats-Zeitung, but its business, editorial and financial transactions in order to arrive at the truth?

"We would welcome an investigation of this character, and will gladly open the entire business for examination by your representatives."

INLAND AUTHORS MEET.

The Midland Authors, comprising in the membership writers of note, held a meeting in Chicago last week. Emerson Hough was one of the speakers.

NEWSBOYS' Raincoat Outfits

To Sales Managers: We have the liveliest PREMIUM for boosting the circulation of any Newspaper in the country. Our clients are numerous in your field. One in particular is the PITTSBURG LEADER.

The Boy's Raincoat Outfit

is made from size 6 to 16 and is the most practical Premium for the next six months. Two materials to choose from. Our cloth No. 12, being Olive Asia cloth with Scotch plaid with para rubber interlined, or cloth No. 30, Olive Asia cloth with Para Rubber lining. Special prices for each article.

	Cloth No. 30	No 12
Boy's Coat Only	$1.35	$1.65
Boy's Hat (To Match)	.20	.25
Boy's Newspaper Bag 20 in. x 14 in.	.30	.40

Printing on Newspaper Bag charged at cost price.

Large assortment of materials for Men's, Women's and Children's Raincoats up to $10.00 per garment.

Send us your order now, or send for Catalog.

CHESTER WATERPROOF COMPANY 32 Union Square, New York

STATEMENT FROM SCHRADER.

Frederick F. Schrader, editor of Issues and Events, a New York weekly, makes emphatic denial of statements he charges were made recently by some New York publications, "that Issues and Events is owned or controlled by an 'alien enemy,' who employs him as editor."

Mr. Schrader says: "It is unqualifiedly false," and in an editorial, Issues and Events replies to the charges of disloyalty as follows:

"Issues and Events is an American publication not under the influence of the Kaiser nor under that of the Navy League or any other self-elected body of men for the regulation of public morals, and, moreover, it has never had any affiliation with or been identified with any form of alien propaganda, paid or voluntary.

"It has taken a decided stand for universal military training, has administered rebuke alike to hot heads and extremists of both sides in the war discussion, resolutely opposed violence, anarchy and sedition, and at all times counseled obedience to existing law."

BOOSTING AK-SAR-BEN.

George Dodds, of the advertising department of the Omaha Bee, has been placed in charge of Ak Sar-Ben publicity during the illness of J. D. Weaver, secretary. Ak-Sar-Ben is Omaha's annual fun fest and Dodds is getting literature together for the proper heralding of the event.

SPECIAL LYCEUM NUMBER.

The Billboard this week issued a special convention number for the annual meeting of the International Lyceum Association, advertising covering a goodly share of the 90 pages.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

The Myers Advertising Agency, Rochester, N. Y., has filed a petition in bankruptcy, stating liabilities of $14,088, with assets of $3,950.

NEW WEEKLY FOR WOMEN.

A woman's weekly newspaper was given to the public under the name of the Women's Press, in Chicago this week. It is an eight-page newspaper, eight columns to the page, filled with articles and pictures of interest to women. Men are not entirely overlooked.

The paper officially represents the Emergency League, the Fashion Art League of America, the Woman's Committee of the State Council of Defense and the Chicago chapter of the American Red Cross. The new paper is owned, edited and published by the Women's Press Publishing Company.

It is a new weekly launched in Chicago by Ferd E. Fisher and Mrs. Fisher. The latter has been identified with the Chicago American and Mr. Fisher was formerly city editor of the Chicago Evening Post.

PROGRESS IN CANADA.

Toronto's place in the business of Canada and the growth of both the Dominion and its metropolis since the Confederation of the provinces are well set forth in the Toronto Mail & Empire's "Trade Expansion Special Number," issued this week. Articles on all phases of industrial work in Canada are written by either members of the Mail & Empire staff, trade paper specialists or prominent men in the line under discussion. Thirty-nine full pages of advertising feature the number, which is well printed and contains a number of interesting pictures.

PACIFISTS THREATEN SUITS.

The American Union Against Militarism has declared its intention of suing for libel "any newspaper or press association which suggests that we are 'German agents,' or are 'pro-German,' or supported by 'German funds,' or are guilty of 'sedition' or 'treason,' however those words may be modified." Several such suits are in preparation it is said in Washington.

Since the outbreak of the war, the Union states, it has sent to the Department of Justice every piece of literature it has issued.

The Hastings (Minn.) Gazette has been discontinued.

INTERTYPE

"The BETTER Machine"

Model A

Single Magazine

$2100

Model B

Two Magazines

$2600

Model C

Three Magazines

$3000

Side Magazine Unit, Applied Before Shipment, $150 Extra

A composing machine which requires much time for adjustments and repairs is a pretty expensive proposition, however versatile it may appear to be.

All Intertypes—the versatile multiple-magazine models as well as single-magazine machines—are so simple and durable that loss of time due to complicated design or delicate construction is an unknown factor among Intertype users.

INTERTYPE CORPORATION
Terminal Building Brooklyn, N. Y.

TYPIST DEADLY TO U-BOATS.

ERROR IN OFFICIAL MESSAGE CAUSES CONFUSION TO NAVY AND NEWSPAPERS.

The torpedo boat destroyer would soon give way to the typewriter if events would only bear out the statements that pass through the hands of officials—and stenographers—of the Navy Department. This week, the Secretary of the Navy announced that an American merchant fleet convoyed by American war vessels had met six submarines and destroyed every one of the attackers.

That story went all over the country on the wires of every press association and was featured in big headlines as a naval victory; it was flashed to President Wilson on his yacht at Gloucester, Mass., and there was general rejoicing until four hours later, when Secretary Daniels issued another statement, saying that a Navy Department stenographer had substituted the word "all" for "one" in transcribing the paraphrase of the official message.

The error was corrected in the late editions of the evening papers and was the subject for considerable comment, some humorous and some sarcastic, recalling the "elaboration" of the Fourth of July dispatch on the encounters of the first transport convoy with submarines.

George Creel, who figured prominently in the "elaboration" mix-up, was not concerned personally with this week's error in any way, the Committee on Public Information passing the dispatch as it was issued from the Navy Department, with the addition that Secretary Daniels had cabled for further details.

LAIT WITH CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

Jack Lait, formerly of the Chicago Herald staff, but now of the Chicago Tribune, will begin his duties on the latter paper soon. He plans to write a short story daily for the Tribune. Mr. Lait is perhaps the most prolific newspaper writer in the country, having turned out a daily short story for the Herald for several months, in addition to much magazine work and the authorship of a play or so.

RETAILERS TALK NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING.

Advertising in daily newspapers was one of the most important subjects discussed at the National Association of Retail Clothiers held in Chicago on September 4, 5 and 6. S. N. Baskin, advertising manager of the Hub store, was one of the principal speakers.

WAR CROSS FOR WHITNEY.

Raymond Whitney, formerly University of Chicago correspondent for the Chicago American, who went to France as an ambulance driver, has returned on leave, wearing proudly the Croix de Guerre for distinguished behavior under fire. He will return to France after his short furlough expires.

NEW INTERTYPE IN DETROIT.

The Detroit Journal has added a new Model C Intertype to its composing room, which is being entirely equipped with steel furniture.

Magazines on the Wall are Reserves—Put Them on the "Firing Line"

A well-known New York publisher recently found his Linotype machinist had made nineteen magazine changes in one day on one of his single-magazine Linotypes.

Since then he has changed to Multiple Magazine Linotypes. He now finds his machinist averages three changes a week to every four machines.

MODEL 9 LINOTYPE
(Four Magazines)

MODEL 14 LINOTYPE
(Three Magazine)

Scores of other publishers have taken advantage of this time and labor-saving means of increasing their output and curbing their costs.

Let Us Submit the Figures in Your Case.

Mergenthaler Linotype Company
Tribune Building, New York

CHICAGO TORONTO SAN FRANCISCO NEW ORLEANS

MUENZEN AD WAY FORBIDDEN.

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION ORDERS IT TO CEASE ITS MISLEADING OFFERS.

Following complaints that unfair methods of advertising were employed by the Muenzen Specialty Company, consisting in particular of offering a well-known carpet sweeper at a cut price, and then recommending its own brands of sweepers and cleaners to customers, the Federal Trade Commission has ordered the company to cease and desist from:

"(1) Representing to the public directly or indirectly that it is an impartial advisor, and not especially interested in any one kind of cleaner, so long as it is especially interested in the sale of the Imperial Electric Vacuum Cleaner, the Eureka Electric Vacuum Cleaner or any other sweeping or cleaning device, by reason of the fact that any such devices are manufactured especially for respondent, or that it is an agent for the sale of any such devices unless special interest is fully disclosed at the time such representations are made;

"(2) Tampering with competitive cleaners used in demonstrations, or demonstrating with sweepers or cleaners not properly adjusted;

"(3) Making false and injurious statements to prospective customers concerning the material of which competitive cleaners are constructed, or concerning the cost of production of such competitive cleaners;

"(4) Making false statements to prospective customers concerning the reliability or financial condition of manufacturers of vacuum cleaners calculated to prevent the sale of cleaners produced by said manufacturers;

"(5) Advertising annual or special sales of vacuum and suction sweepers and cleaners in such a manner as to convey to the public the impression of an unusual or especially advantageous offer for a limited period, when in fact the prices during such sales are no different than the prices obtained before and after such sales;

"(6) Falsely representing or conveying the false impression that respondent purchases vacuum sweepers and cleaners in large quantities for cash and is thereby enabled to sell them at the prices at which they are offered;

"(7) Representing or conveying to the public the impression that the regular price of the Imperial Electric Vacuum Cleaner is higher than the advertised price, when in fact the advertised price is no lower than that usually obtained by the respondent for said cleaner."

NAUTICAL GAZETTE A WEEKLY

The Nautical Gazette, which was recently acquired by the New York Evening Post Company, has been made a weekly instead of a semi-monthly. At the time of the purchase in July it was announced that numerous improvements would be made and this change is line with that policy.

The editorial staff has been strengthened by the addition of Walter B. Hayward, for many years with the Evening Post and for a while with the New York Times. The Nautical Gazette is one of the oldest shipping papers in the country, having been established in 1871 by Captain B. S. Osborn.

Coincident with the change to a weekly the subscription price has been raised from $2 to $3.

NEW POST FOR SCOTT

Floyd B. Scott, who for twelve years has been a member of the staff of the Kansas City Star, has resigned to become assistant manager of the Orpheum Theater in that city. Mr. Scott was identified with the dramatic department of the Star several years.

THE FOURTH ESTATE

A NEWSPAPER FOR THE MAKERS OF NEWSPAPERS AND INVESTORS IN ADVERTISING.

Entered as second class matter in the New York Post Office, March 29, 1894. Issued every Saturday by THE FOURTH ESTATE Publishing Company.
Ernest F. Birmingham, President and Treasurer. Fremont W. Spicer, Vice-President and Secretary, 229 West 59th Street, New York City.

Subscription: TWO DOLLARS a year. Postage free in the United States, Hawaii, Porto Rico, the Philippines and Mexico. Postage extra to Canada, 68c.; to other countries in Postal Union, $1.04.

Subscribers should have their copies of THE FOURTH ESTATE addressed to their homes, so as to avoid chance of loss in the mass of exchanges (second and third class matter) which goes to all offices.

Single copies, TEN CENTS (except Special Editions, 25 cents.)

Back Numbers—Less than 3 months old, 25 cents; more than 3 months old, $1 each.

OFFICES AND PRINTING HOUSE
Broadway and 59th Street
229 West 59th St. NEW YORK
Columbus Circle.
Telephones, 7740, 7741, 7742 Columbus

ERNEST F. BIRMINGHAM, Publisher

No. 1229.

FOR THE WEEK ENDING SEPTEMBER 15, 1917

WE PROPHECY AGAIN.

At the beginning of 1914, THE FOURTH ESTATE published the following editorial, which, by the way, was extensively reprinted throughout the United States:

"Remember our prediction!

"The year 1914 is going to be the greatest year for newspaper advertising since the first newspaper came off the press!

"Every plan for future advertising and publicity on the part of national advertisers begins with newspaper advertising—and many include no other kind.

"The real 'day of the newspaper' is dawning! The immediate results from newspaper advertising—tangible and intangible—are appreciated now as never before.

"Financial restrictions caused many advertisers to more carefully analyze expenditures, and more closely watch results, during the past year than ever before.

"These conditions proved a god-send for the newspapers, demonstrating their real worth under the critical test of economy. The newspapers 'delivered the goods'!

"THE FOURTH ESTATE is realizing constantly increasing benefit from the great recent interest in newspapers.

"Advertising managers of large national accounts, advertising agents throughout the country, and others interested in present-day advertising, are eager and constant readers of THE FOURTH ESTATE to keep in touch with newspaper conditions and changes, that they may keep their fingers on the newspaper pulse. They are interested as never before.

"During the past week THE FOURTH ESTATE has received communications from only a small percentage of its advertiser readers, but even they, alone, said they would place an aggregate of more than $10,000,000 worth of advertising in newspapers during 1914."

"We bespeak for our friends and readers a very prosperous, healthful and happy New Year, and take our hat off to usher in 1914—the Newspaper Advertising Year."

An analysis of advertising figures proved that the volume of newspaper advertising for 1914 showed a great increase over 1913, and that the fig-

*As a matter of fact, it was found that the subscription list of THE FOURTH ESTATE included spenders of some fifty millions, or an average of about a million dollars a week, in the newspapers that year.

MORAL TO NEWSPAPER PUBLISHERS: Avail yourselves of the intensiveness of THE FOURTH ESTATE's circulation, covering those who are now planning their 1917-1918 expenditures for advertising.

The advertising forms close on Thursday. Advertisements should be received as early in the week as possible to insure proper classification.

ADVERTISING RATES.

Transient, 50 cents a line; agate measure (14 lines to the inch; 140 lines to the column; 560 lines to the page).

One page, $350; Front page, $400.

Discounts for consecutive insertions: One month, 10 per cent; two months, 20 per cent; three months, 30 per cent; six months, 40 per cent; one year, 50 per cent. Discounts based upon advance payment.

Small advertisements under classified headings, such as Help Wanted, For Sale, To Let, Instruction, Writers, Correspondents, Office Necessities, 25 cents a line (about 7 words) each insertion, without discount. Situations Wanted 10 cents a line net.

Advertisements in special position (not less than 28 lines in depth of column) double price.

ures have steadily climbed since.

We now predict that the volume of newspaper advertising for the coming fall season will be the greatest in history and that the year 1917 will break all records.

Remember our prediction!

KEEP FOOD PLEDGE BEFORE YOUR READERS.

Every available medium for keeping the food pledge before every man, woman and child in the United States must be used during the whole period of the war and even for a considerable period afterwards. For this problem of saving food is a responsibility put upon every one every day.

The food pledge is making its way very rapidly with the whole American people, but the terrible world emergency behind it has not yet come home to all of us.

Living in a land which now has the largest remaining stock of food in the world, we are a little slow to realize that this stock cannot possibly be our own to use as we see fit, but must be divided with countries where famine is a constant haunting specter.

We live in the midst of plenty this year, but famine is just across the seas, and next year, or two years from now, it may be in our own land unless we can realize the full significance of food saving today and adjust our habits to provide for tomorrow.

Every provision of the food pledge, from wheat to soap fats, has been carefully thought out after detailed study of the world's supply of food today and its probable supplies for several years to come.

Butter must be conserved because the world's stock of edible fats is rapidly diminishing and an increased production cannot be secured except by organized effort in the dairy and allied industries extending over several years.

Sugar must be conserved because there is a serious, immediate shortage.

To the individual at the breakfast or dinner table it may seem one of the lesser duties of war.

But in the mass it is one of our greatest and most immediate duties.

Every publication and every person that aids in the daily work of reminding the American people of this duty renders a true patriotic service.

VIGILANCE.

The Senate of the United States on September 10 justified the long fight of the newspapers of the country to be placed on the same plane of war taxation as every other American industry.

This victory was the culmination of probably the most trying siege of attempted oppression from opponents that the newspapers have ever had to stand in the Government manufactory of legislation. For months past they have had to fight, with might and main, efforts of many of the strongest men in Congress to overburden them with special war taxation in the form of various advertising taxes, second class mail increases, and extra profit taxes that no other class of American industry was asked to pay.

Passage of any of these forms of special taxation would have worked an irreparable injury on the newspapers, which pay their way beyond question in the second class mails, and in every other way for which they are dependent on the Government for service.

But the Senate's rejection of the House tax propositions and the many other proposals from its own members and committees, is only the first attack repulsed by the newspapers.

In order to be permanent, the Senate's action must now be ratified by the House and Senate conference, which necessitates every defensive gun being brought into play by the publishers if they are to retain the ground they have won.

Final success will depend on watchful vigilance being maintained by the newspaper forces for attacks at unexpected points and times.

VIGILANCE!

STAND TOGETHER NOW.

The United States Senate does not share the feelings of some Congressmen that the Post Office Department should be used as an instrument of taxation or that American newspapers should be subjected to punitive attack.

Newspapers have constantly expressed their entire willingness to bear their share of war taxation, imposed in exactly the same way as upon other industries, and now that the Revenue Bill passed by the Senate has justified them, it is hoped that all publishers will present a united front in support of the Senate measure.

NOTE AND COMMENT.

M. F. Harris, advertising manager of the famous house of Armour & Co., Chicago, says:

"It is the work being done by the newspapers today in the education of the local market to the value of goods nationally and locally advertised that is responsible for the wonderful increases shown in the advertising appropriations being spent with newspapers each year."

Mr. Harris proved his beliefs by experience with a leading Pacific Coast daily, by the name of the Los Angeles Examiner.

Canadians have found a brand new idea as a possible way by which manufacturers of specialized articles may enforce the resale price of their products. At the annual convention of the Dominion Board of the Retail Merchants' Association, in the Windsor Hotel, Montreal, recently the following resolution was adopted:

"Resolved: That it is the opinion of this convention assembled that if the manufacturers who place a retail selling price on any article of merchandise make no proper provision to see that the price so fixed is properly maintained, and that such goods are used by the illegitimate price-cutters as 'bait' to attract customers in order to sell them other lines, that the retail trade should insist that the manufacturers leave the retail selling price off the same."

"That we believe that it would be in the best interests of legitimate retailing if manufacturers who manufacture trade-marked articles with the intention of selling them at a certain retail price would have said retail price incorporated as part of their trade-mark, and that the executive be requested to deal with this matter, and, if necessary, have the Trade-Mark Act so amended as to comply with the same."

Wide-awake city editors will probably appreciate two novel departments which have recently made their appearance on the front page of the St. Louis Times. One is a half-column of "breezy" paragraph comment on current news of the kind found on many editorial pages, but the feature of this department is that it is a line-cut reproduction of the writer's natural chirography, which, by the way, is unusually legible for the present age of typewriters. It is headed, "On the Stroke of the Hour," the heading being written and enclosed in a conventional Linotype border.

The other department, even more interesting, is stretched all the way across the foot of the page to a depth of four inches and gives readers of the Times an opportunity to express their opinions on all sorts of subjects, varying from Missouri's compensation laws and the draft to favorite sports and the public highways. Representative citizens of all classes are among the interviewed.

So that American troops who will go to France within the next few months will be able to put more than one French word in a sentence when they reach their new surroundings, the New York Globe has started another class in French. Sessions opened yesterday in the Gordon-Detwiler Auditorium in the Tribune Building, and will continue for nine lessons. The Globe has issued free 2,000 tickets entitling the bearer to the course, which is conducted on the Gordon-Detwiler conversational method.

The American Press Association last week bought a double-page advertisement in the Washington Times calling the attention of Congress and Secretary McAdoo to the necessity of advertising the next issue of the Liberty Loan.

PURELY PERSONAL.

Emil Scholz, publisher of the New York Evening Post, who is having an outing in Northern Wisconsin and on is expected to ship a load of game to his friends in New York, has made a good start by landing a 46-pound muskallunge. (That's what he says.)

S. Blake Willsden, the premium specialist, of Chicago, is spending a week at Bay View, Mich.

Gus Karger, the well known Washington newspaper correspondent, is receiving the sympathy of his friends this week because of the death of his mother, Mrs. Therese Karger, in Columbus, Ohio.

Leslie D. Bell, who was Sunday editor of the Columbus (Ohio) Monitor, which recently suspended, has moved to New York.

Wancie King, cartoonist on the staff of the Louisville Herald, has returned to his desk after two weeks spent at Port Huron, Michigan.

Miss Hortense Flexner, club editor of the Louisville Herald, and Miss Margaret Boyd, society editor, also have returned from vacation trips spent in the East.

Mrs. Edith Charlton Salisbury, formerly a special writer on Buffalo newspapers, has been called to Washington to take up an important line of work in the department of agriculture.

W. B. Cleage, formerly city editor of the Chattanooga News and now editor of the Hamilton (Tenn.) Herald, a weekly, is a candidate for sheriff.

Ray Baumgardner, day editor of the Associated Press in Indianapolis, is taking his vacation and George W. Moister, formerly editor of the Record, published in the interest of the first Reserve Officers' Training Camp at Fort Benjamin Harrison, has been filling in during his absence.

Waldon Fawcett, Washington correspondent, is resting this week in Franklin County, Pa., among the Blue Ridge Mountains.

Mrs. Jessie O. Donohue, club editor of the Chicago Herald, is away on her vacation.

P. F. ("Jim") Lowder has gone to Houston for the Chicago Herald to report the military activities of that busy center.

Paul Holmes, star copy boy on the Chicago Herald—"the only copy boy in Chicago who writes a better story than the average 'big time' reporter"—is giving up newspaper work to enter college.

Wallace E. Smith is writing a letter and a story daily for the Chicago American as staff representative at Camp Grant in Rockford. Frank Reutlinger is assisting Smith.

G. T. Hodges, advertising manager of the New York Sun, who has been on a fishing trip "somewhere in Maine" during the last ten days, will be back at the Sun office on Monday.

JOHNSON WITH TRIANGLE FILM.

Julian Johnson, until recently editor of the Photoplay Magazine, has been appointed editor-in-chief of the Triangle Film Corporation, Los Angeles.

STAFF CHANGES.

Frederick Ballard, until recently enrolling secretary of the Louisville Advertising Club, has joined the staff of the Louisville Herald. He has taken up quarters at Camp Taylor, the United States Army cantonment, where, with other members of the Herald staff, he will handle military news.

J. L. Townsend, formerly of the Owensboro (Ky.) Messenger and other western Kentucky papers, is with the Louisville Herald's reporting staff.

T. Q. Munce has left the newspaper field to take a position with a paper company. Mr. Munce for several years has been on the copy desks of Louisville and Dallas (Tex.) news papers.

R. K. Jacks, former advertising manager of the Hutchinson (Kan.) Gazette, has assumed similar duties on the Little Rock (Ark.) Gazette.

Loren Palmer, formerly Sunday editor of the New York Sun, has become associate editor of Every Week, succeeding Eustace L. Adams, who is now serving Uncle Sam in France.

Miss Laura Schmitz, for three years on the staff of the Chillicothe (Mo.) Tribune, has become associate editor of the Carrollton (Mo.) Republican-Record.

A. M. Easterling, night editor in the Indianapolis bureau of the Associated Press, has successfully passed the examination for service in the aviation corps.

Louis F. Dow, telegraph editor, is acting as managing editor of the Burlington (Vt.) Daily News, while Donald G. Babbitt, president of the company and editor of the paper, is at the Plattsburg officers' training camp. Mr. Dow has been with the News for the past year.

Paul Crissey, financial editor of the Chicago Journal, has gone to a National Army cantonment as a member of the first contingent. He has a wife and child but did not claim exemption.

Tom Martin, formerly copy editor of the Chicago Evening Post, has been officially ordered to the National Army cantonment at Rockford, Ill., where he has been located for some time, doing publicity work for the War Department.

Lewis D. Payne, formerly of the advertising staff of McCall's Magazine, is now with the advertising department of the New York Commercial.

Roy O. Wiker has been transferred from the Associated Press night office at Lincoln, Neb., to the Chicago office.

"Jack" Lincoln, for fifteen years dramatic critic with Boston dailies, is now with the Richmond (Va.) Times-Dispatch in a similar capacity.

Leonard G. Diehl has resigned as business manager of the Butte (Mont.) Miner and is now business manager of the Great Falls (Mont.) Tribune.

William G. Ferguson, formerly news editor of the Missoula (Mont.) Missoulian, is now doing similar work for the Great Falls (Mont.) Tribune. He is succeeded on the Missoulian by George P. Stone, for the past five years on the editorial staff of that paper, who is the son of A. L. Stone, dean of the school of journalism at the University of Montana.

Charles L. Rundell, for the past eight years managing editor of the Chatham (N. Y.) Republican, has resigned to become vicinity editor of the Albany Times-Union.

Joseph Mellugh, for seventeen years associated with the Chicago City Press Association, has resigned to join the staff of the Chicago American.

Richard Milton, a Denver newspaper man, as a newcomer on the Chicago American staff.

H. M. Barratt has resigned as sporting editor of the Great Falls (Mont.) Tribune and is now news editor of the Salt Lake City Herald Republican.

L. Brooks Burnside of Columbus has joined the staff of the Dayton (Ohio) Journal.

Charles D. Cory, Jr., formerly of the Chicago Examiner staff and more latterly Chicago correspondent for Dry Goods Guide, Inland Storekeeper and other technical publications, has become associate editor of Illustrated World, Chicago, succeeding Anthony M. Rud, who has entered the freelance field.

VISITORS IN NEW YORK DURING THE WEEK.

David B. Plum, general manager of the Troy (N. Y.) Record.

J. E. Klock, editor and business manager of the Kingston (N. Y.) Freeman.

W. B. Howe, business manager of the Burlington (Vt.) Free Press.

Charles H. Willoughby, managing editor Pittsfield (Mass.) Daily News.

HOOSIER SHIFTS.

Frank Roberts, a Boonville (Ind.) attorney, has become editor of the Tell City (Ind.) Journal. He succeeds Herman Bott, son of the founder of the Journal, who has gone to Chicago to enter newspaper work.

The Bryant (Ind.) Independent, an Spang weekly, ceased publication last week and George F. Mills, for twelve years its editor, will devote himself to the practice of law.

Evan B. Jones has discontinued the Kirkland (Ind.) Journal, and probably will locate his business elsewhere.

Fay Jackson has purchased an interest in the Mooresville (Ind.) Times and the firm hereafter will be Sage & Jackson.

CHANGES IN MUSCATINE.

The interests of Dr. E. B. Fulliam as a stockholder and officer of the Muscatine (Ia.) News-Tribune have been taken over by J. J. Legler and T. H. Brannan. Mr. Legler becomes president of the company and Mr. Brannan will act as publisher of the paper. He expects to devote much of his time to the development of the editorial department. The News-Tribune has just contracted for the full leased wire service of the United Press.

PRESS AGENT SHIFTS.

James J. Heron, formerly press agent of the LaTena Circus, is now business manager of the Tempters.

WEDDING BELLS.

Helen Rowland, a writer for the New York Evening World, and Frederic Kinney Noyes, a member of the editorial staff of the Frank A. Munsey Company, have let the word in on their secret, which is that they were married on June 9. Miss Rowland, now Mrs. Noyes, has a wide following among the readers of the New York Evening World, in which she writes, under the name of "Mrs. Solomon," witty, cynical and satirical epigrams on marriage, the single state and divorce. Mr. Noyes is a Yale man and is a son of the proprietor of the Norwich (Conn.) Bulletin.

Lieutenant William H. Wright, U. S. R., formerly on the staff of the New York Tribune, and Miss Madeline Hodskins were married this week in New York. Lieutenant Wright has been out of newspaper work for some time, leaving the Tribune to become fiction editor of Harper's Bazar. He has been identified with Outing Magazine for the past year.

Miss Iveagh Hunt Sterry, a writer of New London, Conn., and Warren W. Lewis, connected with the press staff of the Shubert theatrical interests, will be married today in the church of the Transfiguration, New York.

Capt. J. M. (Jack) DeBeaufort, Belgian army officer and former war correspondent, was married recently to Miss Helen F. Remon, society girl of Terre Haute, Ind. The two met at a military ball given at Governor's Island, N. Y.

Harmon Hathaway, editor of the Coatesville (Ind.) Herald, and Mrs. Grace Walton were married at the home of the bride's parents last week.

George Shor, formerly telegraph editor of the Chicago Herald, and Miss Dorothy Williston, formerly club editor of that paper, were married in Houston, Tex., on September 8. Mr. Shor is now attached to the staff of Major General J. Franklin Bell at Houston.

Leo A. McClatchy, youngest son of V. S. McClatchy, publisher of the Sacramento (Cal.) Bee, and Mrs. Helen L. Graves, were married at St. Mary's Cathedral, San Francisco, on September 8. Mr. McClatchy is employed on his father's newspaper.

C. K. Gummerson, editor of the Monongahela (Pa.) Times, and Mrs. Gladys P. Scott of Washington, Pa., were married on September 12. Mr. Gummerson was until recently engaged in newspaper work in Pittsburgh.

COMBINATION GROWS.

The Fowler (Ind.) Review, which is a consolidation of the Hoosier Leader and Fowler Republican, has added another paper to the combination and hereafter will issue the Boswell (Ind.) Review. George L. Roby is business manager and J. R. McCullough editor of the Fowler Review.

A ROLL OF HONOR.

The Topeka Daily Capital claims the Southwestern branch for the number of men sent into various departments of military service. Fifty-five men from the various departments of the Capital are now serving their country.

A. N. P. A. CALLS FOR 2.50 PAPER FOR EVERYBODY.

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION TO CHECK PAPER OUTPUT—CANADA NOT IN DANGER OF SULPHUR SHORTAGE.

The American Newspaper Publishers Association paper committee says it is inconceivable that the Government should take such action as ordering the International Paper Company to supply it with news print at 2.50 on the recommendation of the Federal Trade Commission without giving the same regard to the prices now ruling in the news print market. The committee says:

"Some time ago it was stated authoritatively that the Administration's policy would be one that provided the same price for the public as for the Government. This can be only taken to mean that the recommendation of the Federal Trade Commission should be given wide application to fix the price at which news print can be sold in the United States during the war period."

To keep a check on the news print paper situation, the Federal Trade Commission will institute a system of monthly and weekly reports by manufacturers. The aim is to keep publishers constantly informed as to the rate of production and consumption and as to the amount of paper stocks on hand.

The trade commission hopes that the system will put newspaper publishers in a position to demand fair prices and make it impossible for producers to raise prices through fear of a paper shortage. The Canadian government will be asked to cooperate.

The following letter has been sent to every American news print manufacturer.

"In order that accurate information regarding conditions in the news print paper industry may be available for manufacturers, dealers and publishers, the commission has decided to collect, compile and publish statistics of production, consumption, shipments and stocks on hand.

"Manufacturers of print paper are required to furnish a partial report each week and a more complete report each month. The weekly reports are for the operations of each mill and the monthly reports for the operations of each company.

"The first weekly report should be mailed on or before Tuesday, September 25, for the week preceding, and the first monthly report on or before October 5 for the month of September."

NO CANADIAN SULPHUR SHORTAGE.

The A.N.P.A. paper committee believes it is not likely that Canadian producers of news print paper will experience any difficulties due to the embargo placed by the Government of this country on exports of sulphur. It says:

"The Canadian mills have been invited to make an inventory of their needs during the next year which will be submitted to the American officials, to be used by the Export Council in its consideration of the licenses for export to Canada.

"Since the outbreak of the war Canada has been largely dependent upon the United States for its sulphur supply, owing to the impossibility to secure either Sicilian or Japanese sulphur in any quantity.

"Canada's sulphur requirements have greatly increased during the last three years. For the fiscal year ending March 31, 1917, the imports of sulphur amounted to 167,944,710 pounds, of which 158,424,825 pounds came from the United States; 9,314,475 pounds from Japan; and 199,803 pounds from Italy. For the previous fiscal year the importations amounted to 75,730,678 pounds, while in 1915 the total importations amounted to only 69,712,420 pounds.

"It is estimated that the Canadian mills will use in the neighborhood of 75 tons of sulphur per day in the manufacture of news print paper. In addition to this, a quantity amounting to 30 to 35 tons per day is used by mills manufacturing sulphite exclusively and by mills manufacturing a surplus of sulphite. That is, about 50 per cent of the total importations last year were used in the paper industry, the remainder being used in other lines, notably in the manufacture of explosives and munitions.

"The Government has issued orders that sulphur concerns must give preference to munition and fertilizer manufacturers. The principal producer is the Union Sulphur Company. It is learned that the Government has commandeered at least one of the large steamships used by this company in carrying its sulphur from Louisiana to the Atlantic ports.

"It is thought, however, that the Government control of this important commodity will tend to more evenly distribute the sulphur production among American and Canadian users.

"The fact that Canada and the United States are working hand in other directions, such as the distribution of the wheat and coal production, has disrupted any belief that licenses for the export of sulphur to Canada will be held up. Many of the Canadian paper mills already have large supplies of sulphur on hand and are not, therefore, in any immediate danger from sulphur shortage. Moreover, it is expected that Government control of this commodity will tend to maintain prices at a fair level."

GROUNDWOOD AND SULPHITE.

The committee reports:

"Canadian mills are accumulating large quantities of both groundwood and sulphite pulp during the present dull period, while the news print market also has softened considerably in recent months. Of course, the surplus pulp is being held against a better market which the mills believe will come this fall.

"The forecast is scarcely correct. Last year's cut of pulpwood in Canada was the largest in the history of the country and while the labor situation there is critical, most of the larger mills have ample supplies of wood now on hand. If this pulp is placed on the market this fall along with the normal output of mills making pulp exclusively, the extra supply is bound to affect, if not overcome, the influence of labor conditions.

PRICES.

"Many paper contracts are being renewed at under 3 cents.

"This points to the fact that the mills anticipate a further easing off of conditions in the pulp and paper market during the next few months.

"Export business is practically at a standstill owing to shortage of ocean freight space, and the necessity for securing export license under the recent Government order prohibiting the export of news print paper, wood-pulp and cellulose, and spruce wood, except under license.

"Some shipments of Swedish and Norwegian pulp have arrived at Atlantic Ports during the last few weeks. The pulp has been offered at prices considerably under quotations from American mills."

LAURENTIDE PROFITS.

The annual report of the Laurentide Paper Company for the year ended June 30 last, submitted to the annual meeting held in Montreal on September 4, showed the largest profit in the company's history.

Net earnings, including the returns from investments, amounted to $2,220,680 against $1,244,283 last year. The sum of $268,181 was reserved against the Canadian business profits tax.

Deducting profits tax, interest charges and depreciation, etc., net profits amount to $1,720,011, or at the rate of 17 per cent on the common stock.

In his annual report to the shareholders, President George Chahoon stated that "the favorable position of the company in respect to the diversity of products has enabled it to materially increase profits during the last year. A large portion of these profits have been derived from the sale of pulp products, which have been developed pending the time when you deem it wise to continue the further development of your paper products."

THE CANADIAN 2.50 PAPER PRICE

RECOMMENDED FOR TWO MORE MONTHS BY COMMISSIONER PRINGLE

Commissioner Pringle, appointed by the Canadian Government to inquire into the price of news print paper in Canada, has recommended to the Minister of Finance the extension by two months of the existing Order-in-Council fixing the price of news print in Canada at $2.50 per hundred pounds.

Commissioner Pringle also has been charged by the Government with a thorough investigation of the book and magazine phase of the industry in Canada.

BOOK PAPER MEN'S HEARING

CALLED FOR WASHINGTON ON OCTOBER 10 BY THE TRADE COMMISSION.

Book paper manufacturers of the United States have been advised by the Federal Trade Commission that a public hearing will be held on October 10 in Washington to investigate the complaint that these manufacturers have combined to advance prices. The commission has ordered a long list of companies to cease alleged violations of the law in this regard. The action is taken against Charles F. Moore, secretary of the Bureau of Statistics of the Book Paper Manufacturers, and twenty-three producers. Sections 4 and 5 of the official notice served on these respondents by the Commission states:

"That in the aggregate said respondents manufacture, sell and control by far the greater portion of the entire book print paper manufactured, sold and used in the United States."

"That said respondents through said Bureau of Statistics and particularly through its secretary, Charles F. Moore are now and for about two years last past have been engaged in a concerted movement unduly to enhance the prices of book print paper and to maintain said enhanced prices and to bring about a substantial uniformity of such prices—due allowance being made for grades, brands, etc. As a result of such activities prices of book print paper in the United States have been unduly enhanced and such enhanced prices are being maintained. Such enhancement and substantial uniformity of prices have been effected and are being maintained through the medium of telephone communications, by correspondence and by personal meetings between the secretary and various respondent members of said Bureau of Statistics, and by like communications between members and others engaged in the book print paper industry."

AN A.N.P.A. PAPER OFFER.

A member of the A. N. P. A. advises the paper committee that he has for sale 50 tons of high grade news print, 45½-inch rolls. These rolls are 30 inches in diameter, with 3-inch iron cores. Anyone interested can be put into touch with the inquirer on addressing the correspondence to the office of the A. N. P. A. World Building New York.

A RECORD

Daily Net Paid

July, 1915 . .	3178
Dec., 1916 . .	5568
July, 1917 . .	6054

A. B. C. statements.

Net cash earnings, sales and advertising, gain first 7 months 1917, over same period, 1915.

56½%

A remarkable record of growth in a field of keen competition.

FITCHBURG (MASSACHUSETTS)

DAILY NEWS

"The Paper That Does Things."

Member Audit Bureau of Circulations

WINDOW DISPLAY WEEK.

SUGGESTION FOR LETTER TO RETAIL TRADE, WORKING WITH THE A.N.P.A.

The Bureau of Advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers Association is sending the following form letter as a suggestion for the use of newspapers writing to dealers about the coming International Newspaper Window Display Week:

DEAR SIR: You have in stock the following articles that are advertised by the manufacturers in this newspaper:

(Insert list of products as indicated in pamphlet "What to Do! How to Do It!")

These products and all others advertised in the newspapers will be displayed in store windows by merchants all over the United States and Canada during the week of October 8 to 13—International Newspaper Window Display Week.

We want you to join in the big movement because it means more business.

We want you to pick out the articles named above, fill your windows with them, and paste up the enclosed signs during the week of October 8 to 13. It won't cost you anything but a little time and it will attract public attention to your store.

Our subscribers know and buy these articles through reading about them in the advertising columns of this newspaper.

Let every one who passes your store know that you handle the goods.

Customers will come in to ask for them and you will have an opportunity to make new patrons.

Newspapers and merchants are getting together to prove to manufacturers and jobbers that merchants are willing to push goods that are advertised in the newspapers because there is always a direct local demand for these goods. We want to see more advertising done by manufacturers in the newspapers, and the more that is done the more customers for your store.

Just let the manufacturer see that you are willing to push goods that are advertised in the newspapers, and many who don't advertise now will be glad to advertise their products.

And whenever they advertise anything you have in stock you get the benefit through new customers.

You will help, won't you?

Just pick out a few samples of each of the newspaper advertised articles named above and arrange them in your window for the week of October 8-13.

Be sure to paste up the window signs enclosed. We will send you as many more as you need, and we shall be glad to answer any questions you want to ask.

Yours very truly,

STARZL GETS NEW PAPER.

John Starzl has become the owner and editor of the LeMars (Ia.) Globe-Post.

Mr. Starzl will continue the publication of his German paper, Der Herold, and will issue both papers from the one plant, the Herold office having been badly wrecked by fire.

NASSAU QUALITY METALS

ALWAYS UNIFORM

ELECTROTYPE
LINOTYPE MONOTYPE
INTERTYPE
STEREOTYPE
AUTOPLATE
THOMPSONTYPE
COMPOSOTYPE

Manufactured by the
Nassau Smelting & Refining Works
608 West 50th Street NEW YORK

Save Your Stereotyping Blankets

With high and low type in the form, extra pressure is required in stereotyping to bring up the low letters. This causes undue wear and tear on the blankets. With the

Ludlow Typograph

there are no low letters. The constant uniformity in height-to-paper of Ludlow Slugs, preserves the life of your blankets.

Stereotyping blankets are expensive—this saving is worth while.

Know all the economies the Ludlow Typograph effects in newspaper production. Send for the complete Ludlow Literature.

MERGENTHALER LINOTYPE CO.

Sole Selling Agents

Tribune Building, New York

CHICAGO NEW ORLEANS
SAN FRANCISCO TORONTO

NEW RATES IN TACOMA.

The Tacoma (Wash.) Daily News, the Tacoma Daily Ledger and the Sunday News-Ledger, with new circulation guarantees dating from October 1, will institute an advertising rate on that day of 5 cents a line for each daily paper, with an additional charge of 10 per cent. for the Sunday-News-Ledger. Agency commission will be 15 per cent., with 2 per cent. for cash discount.

The Daily News guarantees a circulation of 25,000 for October 1, the Sunday News-Ledger a circulation of 32,000 and the Daily Ledger of 18,000.

SELLING PLANT PIECEMEAL.

Confirmation of piecemeal sales, totalling $9,472.29, of equipment of the Columbus (Ohio) Monitor was asked last week in a petition filed in county courts by the receiver, E. H. Gilkey, former editor of the Monitor. Permission to continue disposing of the plant furnishings piecemeal also was asked. No bids on the whole have been submitted.

SALE IN MONTANA.

The Livingston (Mont.) Enterprise has been sold to a Livingston syndicate, headed by Judge J. F. O'Connor and T. M. Swindlehurst.

STATE CHARTER DENIED TO APPEAL TO REASON.

The Appeal to Reason, Socialist publication at Girard, Kan., cannot do business in Kansas under a state charter. Members of the state charter board have taken positive action against encouragement of the Socialist paper by denying an application for a charter. Officers and stockholders of the company sought incorporation as a printing and publishing concern with a capitalization of $10,000.

The Post Office Department recently issued an order against the Appeal to Reason, according to information furnished the board, which held that if the paper could not use the mails, it was not a proper organization to operate under the corporate laws of the state.

HUNGARIAN EDITOR HELD.

Carl Rothfisher, editor of a Hungarian paper in Chicago, has been arrested by Federal officials on a charge of promoting a lottery among members of the International Workers of the World, the proceeds to be used for financing the paper. The Post Office Department has barred the paper from the mails.

Butte H. Tipton has disposed of the Baker (Mont.) Times to Frank Maina

THE ADVERTISED TRADE-MARK ENABLES YOU TO SELECT.

(Copyright, Mallory, Mitchell & Faust.)

When you buy a pair of hosiery, or a cake of soap, or a pail of lard which you like, you want to be able to buy another like it.

On the other hand if you buy an article that proves unsatisfactory, you want to be able to avoid it hereafter.

In short, you, as a consumer, demand a means of identification upon the product you buy so that you may have a means of selection and of rejection.

This is the function of the trade-mark or brand name. It enables you to recognize individuals, to distinguish between friends and enemies.

The advertising of the trade-mark standardizes the product.

By creating a demand for the product, it makes production possible on a large scale. This means that the raw materials can be purchased in large quantities and the preparation of the final product from the raw material can be done in a uniform manner.

This insures that goods bearing the same trade-mark or brand name are of uniform quality. Every can or package is the same.

But when you buy food products, for example, in the bulk, you have no assurance of uniformity of quality. One barrel or box or can may be exceptionally good while the next may not be fit for use. You have no means of telling until you try. You are able to identify a product as standard only when it is trade-marked or branded.

In these days of high cost of living you can't afford to take any chances. Always insist on the standardized brands and be sure of quality and satisfaction. You can make no mistake in buying standard, branded, advertised goods, for when the manufacturer puts the trade-mark, the mark of identification, upon the package, he backs the product with his name and reputation. So you are guaranteed against inferior quality.

Good quality and uniformity of quality are thus the results of advertising, while the trade-mark on the package enables you to select what you find to be good and to reject what has proved unsatisfactory.

WEEKLY CHANGES HANDS

P. A. Badour has sold the Oconto (Wis.) Enterprise, which he established some twenty years ago, to a syndicate headed by R. H. Downie, who has been in charge of the paper since Mr. Badour's appointment as postmaster.

ONE HUNDRED DAILY NEWSPAPERS

NOW USE THE

THOMPSON TYPECASTER

Complete Non-Distribution System—Type, Leads, Slugs.

Costs $500 less than any other and does more.

Thompson TYPE MACHINE CO.
223 West Erie Street 38 Park Row
CHICAGO NEW YORK

AMERICAN PRESS RETIRES FROM PLATE BUSINESS.

SELLS TO WESTERN NEWSPAPER UNION AND WILL GIVE ALL ATTENTION TO ITS ADVERTISING DEPARTMENT.

The American Press Association today withdraws entirely from the plate business, in which it has been engaged for the past thirty-five years, and will hereafter devote itself exclusively to its advertising department, which represents 6,132 smaller city and country newspapers in the national advertising field.

The Western Newspaper Union, with headquarters in Omaha, Neb., acting under authority granted by the courts, has purchased the A.P.A. plate and photo news business, and theatrical department, and will continue the service without interruption. The W.N.U. will serve the publishers from its present thirty-two offices, and in addition will continue the A.P.A. offices in Buffalo, Philadelphia, Columbus, O., San Francisco, and Portland, Ore. The W.N.U. heretofore has had no offices in the last five named cities.

The reasons for the sale were explained to THE FOURTH ESTATE by Courtland Smith, president of the A.P.A., as follows:

"The American Press Association has conducted its plate business for a number of years at no profit. It did so from a sense of duty to the publishers it has served for so long and as a slight evidence of the obligation it owed those publishers for past profits. But with the beginning of the war the situation became financially more and more difficult. It finally became impossible to avoid a heavy loss each month. Our prices to publishers were as low as they were twenty-five years ago, but our costs were from 25 per cent. to 100 per cent. higher.

"In the meantime, however, we had developed a department that had become important to our publishers and one that possessed immense possibilities—namely, our advertising department. We desired at all costs to continue that department and to develop and enlarge it.

"We therefore approached the Western Newspaper Union and offered to sell them our plate business, provided we could obtain the consent of the courts. Having a large ready-print business, the W.N.U. people were and are in a position to divide the heavy overhead of the plate business. They agreed to purchase our plate business and thereby make it possible for us to continue our advertising department, and the consent of the courts was obtained.

"The publishers owe us in cash $120,000 and in metal $275,000. These accounts, together with our plant account, we have sold to the Western Newspaper Union for $500,000, guaranteeing that they can be collected from the publishers.

"In return that money will go back to the publishers through the work and development of our advertising department.

"The Western Newspaper Union has voluntarily placed itself under an injunction of the court to forever keep its plate prices down to 'cost plus a reasonable profit.' And, in my opinion, it is only through this consolidation that the present prices for plates could have been maintained even by the Western Newspaper Union."

The American Press Association retains its engraving business, in addition to its advertising department, but every other service is taken over by the W.N.U. All A.P. base and plate is being called in, being made returnable at any of the W.N.U. offices.

The price paid by the W.N.U. has not been divulged, being "confidential and indefinite," in the words of a representative of the W.N.U. to THE FOURTH ESTATE.

The headquarters of the W.N.U. will remain in Omaha, and just what changes, if any, will be made in the officer personnel have not been decided upon. H. H. Fish, vice-president, is the general manager and C. L. Earnsworth is secretary-treasurer.

Practically the entire staff of the A.P.A., with the exception of the workers in the five offices taken over by the W.N.U., are let out by the new owners.

The A.P.A. will retain its publication, the American Press; and the W.N.U. will continue to publish its weekly, the Publishers' Auxiliary.

E. W. Julian continues as Eastern manager of the Western Newspaper Union, while W. W. Hallock and E. T. Blaber continue in charge of the Eastern advertising department. All have their offices at 239 West 39th street.

The Western Newspaper Union will continue all the most popular features of the A.P.A. in plate form, and no change will be made in its ready print service.

HISTORY OF A.P.A. AND W.N.U. COMPETITION.

The sale of the A.P.A. business is the culmination of years of struggle for business supremacy in the "plate" field between the A.P.A. and the Western Newspaper Union. Their competitive methods led the Department of Justice in 1912 to make an inquiry into their operations, which resulted in the filing of a decree, unique in the annals of American newspaper history and an advanced step under the Sherman Anti-Trust law. Both the A.P.A. and the W.N.U. were restrained from combining, or continuing alleged unfair methods of competition which would destroy one or the other, and set up a complete monopoly for the survivor with all its potential power of influencing the sentiments of the readers of the 16,000 small newspapers of the United States, which, it was estimated, fell into the hands of two-thirds of the people of the country.

Pointing out that an attempt was made in 1909 to bring about a consolidation of these interests the 1912 Government petition said:

"The expectation was that in view of the great power thus acquired in disseminating information the united property could be disposed of at great profit to those interested in installing certain economic ideas in the minds of the public and that it is the design that such a disposition of it should be made.

"The circulation from week to week of information and of articles dealing with questions of public importance is of the interstate commerce, and for one concern to acquire the power to distribute all such information and to deceive the public by its perversion is itself a serious restraint upon and a monopolizing of interstate trade and commerce. Such a restraint and monopoly will result, unless defendants be restrained from carrying on their warfare against each other.

"If all plate and ready-print were supplied by one concern then the news thus distributed and the discussion of economics and other important questions thus supplied would all be designed to mold the sentiments of the readers to one particular view, and that presentation of diverse views and full and free discussion of important questions from different standpoints, which is essential to their proper understanding and hence necessary to the best public interests, would be prevented."

The Government did not seek the dissolution of either corporation.

As the result of the failure of negotiations to effect a consolidation in 1909, the Government petition charged that the defendants began a campaign of destructive competition in 1911. The decree forbade the continuance of these alleged practices. Expressing the belief that unless forestalled one or the other of the corporations would be wiped out, the petition said:

"As the Western Newspaper Union has assets to the value of $6,500,000 and the American Press Association's assets are only about $1,600,000 in value, it is quite probable that the latter will be the one to succumb, leaving the Western Newspaper Union in control of the entire field."

Since the failure to effect negotiations in 1909 the chief weapon used by the two associations in their fight was price-cutting. The scale of prices of the American Press Association had not gone below the figure of $1.50 per page, but that of the Western Newspaper Union had been at fifty cents.

It was evident that with the great difference in the prices of the two concerns the Western would soon make inroads into the business of the A.P.A. to such an extent as would drive it out of business or force a merger. It was at this stage of affairs that the Government took a hand. This constituted the alleged unfair methods in competition.

The Sherman law could not govern the scale of prices of corporations. It could, however, provide that a corporation in competition must fix its prices at a profitable basis, and not sell at a loss for the purpose of putting competitors out of business.

The Government so decreed, which compelled the W.N.U. to raise its prices nearer to the level of the A. P. A.

At that time Mr. Smith said that the American Press Association was opposed to any effort on the part of others to combine with it.

COURT CHANGES VIEW.

Conditions continued in accordance with the Department of Justice's decree until representatives of the American Press Association appeared in the United States district court at LaCrosse, Wis., on May 31, 1917, to seek a ruling from Judge Landis permitting it to sell its plate business to the Western Newspaper Union. President Smith told the court that his organization had been operated at a loss for four years.

He claimed the Western Newspaper Union reduced prices on this commodity on January 1 to such an extent that the American Press Association lost $16,000 in four months. President Smith testified that the A.P.A. would have to suspend business if the court refused to modify the 1912 decree, which forbade a merger of the A.P.A. and the W.N.U. businesses.

Judge Landis ruled unfavorably, and on June 28, former Supreme Court Justice Charles E. Hughes appeared in the United States District Court of Appeals, Chicago, as counsel for the A.P.A. in an attempt to obtain a modification of the decision of Judge Landis, who decided that such a sale would violate the anti-trust law.

In July the Court of Appeals granted final right to the A.P.A. to dispose of its business to the W.N.U., and ruled it would not be a violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust law.

PLATE FIELD REDUCED.

Since that time the arrangements for the W.N.U. taking over the A.P.A. business have proceeded until the result announced today. The permission by the court for the merger was granted because of the changed business conditions in the newspaper field brought on by the increased cost of production expenses. Newspapers using plate and ready print services reduced their sizes to such an extent as to make the plate business of too small a nature to allow two competitive concerns to operate with profit.

Under the court permit, the Western Newspaper Union cannot raise prices of plates to publishers unless it proves to the United States Court of Appeals in Illinois that the cost of manufacture necessitates it.

Western Newspaper Union offices are now located in:

Atlanta, Baltimore, Billings, Birmingham, Boston, Buffalo, Charlotte, Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, O., Dallas, Denver, Des Moines, Detroit, Fargo, Fort Wayne, Houston, Indianapolis, Kansas City, Lincoln, Little Rock, Memphis, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, New York, Oklahoma City, Omaha, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Portland, Ore., St. Louis, Salt Lake City, San Francisco, Sioux Falls, and Wichita.

PHOTOGRAPHERS ENTER AIR SERVICE AS OFFICERS.

Fred Place, staff photographer of the Chicago American, has been chosen for an important post in the United States aviation-photographic service. He has been given a commission of lieutenant with the salary of major and has been authorized to organize this particular department of war activity.

Norman Alley, also an American photographer, expects to enter this department of military service.

A Short Story: DETROIT SATURDAY NIGHT

—gained 35% in
Advertising and
Circulation in 1916

NOW IN ITS ELEVENTH YEAR

Represented by G. Logan Payne Co.
New York, Chicago, Boston, Detroit.

THE FOURTH ESTATE

Section Two

New York, Saturday, September 15, 1917

No. 1229

LIBERTY LOAN AD PLAN "STEAM-ROLLED."

A PLAY ACTED IN THE HOUSE, ENTITLED "NEVER ALLOW THE GOVERNMENT TO PAY FOR ANY PUBLICITY."

The plan to have $2,500,000 set aside, out of the expense amount authorized by Congress to sell the coming installment of the Liberty Loan bonds, was rejected by the House of Representatives on September 6. A proposed amendment to the $17,000,000 authorization was defeated by a vote of 27 ayes and 105 noes.

The House put the whole matter of spending the money appropriated for selling the bonds entirely up to Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, but refused to specify that he must spend any part of it for advertising. The matter is left entirely optional with him.

As the Secretary of the Treasury has heretofore stated that he could not see how the Government could advertise the bonds unless it used every medium in the land, and that there would not be enough money to do this in the $17,000,000 allowed him (unless Congress authorized it), it means that the Government will not advertise, unless the Senate can be persuaded to change the decision of the House, and authorize the selling of the bonds on a business-like basis.

The House discussion of the plan brought out many points of interest among the Representatives on what they know about advertising and newspaper publishing; also much opinion among the members and the Secretary of the Treasury on the question of advertising the bonds that had not heretofore been brought to light.

The advertising plan was presented to the House by Representative Johnson of Washington.

The entire discussion on the advertising plan follows:

Mr. JOHNSON of Washington. "I understand that the Secretary of the Treasury did not in the hearings express himself as absolutely opposed to the plan for national advertising.

"He doubted that a general plan could be perfected and feared it might not reach all of the newspapers and advertising mediums, and that the expense would be too heavy. He intimated, however, that he would not agree to an advertising plan out of the sum allotted for the turning over of these bonds when the percentage for expense was placed at a higher figure than now appears in the bill. However, after this bill was reported to the House, with the amount for handling the bonds less than had been named originally, the statement was made that no fixed sum would be spent for advertising.

"I want to say very frankly that I believe that to have it understood that nothing would be spent by the Government for advertising in handling this enormous issue of bonds would be a tremendous mistake; and I want to say further that the authorization of $2,500,000 as a portion of this one-seventh would be a trifling sum, while it would add 30 per cent to the efficiency and the business effort to turn over this bond issue quickly and correctly and with the minimum of lost motion.

"Now, of course, the newspapers will boost, and boost hard, even if they receive not a single penny, but they will do it spasmodically, without system and in a disorganized way.

"Why not have the advertising done according to system, each advertisement in order, each one in sequence, so that the pulling power of all is of full value? This is the one detail that should not be overlooked.

Do not think that the newspapers are not patriotic and that they will not promote this bond sale to the limit; but do not, I beg of you, be parties to the riding of a gift horse to death."

MOORE of Pennsylvania. "How many newspapers are there in the United States which might seek this advertising?"

JOHNSON of Washington. "There are 20,000 newspapers and available publications."

MOORE of Pennsylvania. "Surely there are more than 20,000."

JOHNSON of Washington. "There are, of course, a few that will not expect this advertising. For instance, certain popular monthlies go to press fully 60 days ahead of their dated line. It would be hardly practicable to advertise in the monthly magazine for the first campaign. Then, further, there are some strictly technical and class publications which could not expect to seek advertising of this kind. And there are a few college dailies which are not in the general advertising field. But the dailies, the weeklies, the farm papers, and all of the others would come in on a general advertising campaign of great power and force, each to receive its exact share according to its accepted rate card."

SLOAN. "Does the gentleman list of available advertising papers include agricultural and trade papers?"

JOHNSON of Washington. "Yes; all of them."

SLOAN. "And it is not contemplated that there shall be any distinction as to partisanship?"

JOHNSON of Washington. "Absolutely none. That is just what is to be avoided. Every one knows that, next to money itself, advertising is the thing that makes the wheels go round, and the brightest minds that are known to the advertising business have organized to aid this Government just the same as the automobile manufacturers and others organized, and they have prepared and presented a plan, with which I regret to say I am only partially familiar, but enough so to give you a fair outline.

"By this plan, for $2,500,000 they will place real advertising to the amount of from two to four pages of newspaper size in the 1,773 daily papers of the United States with a circulation of more than 24,000,000 copies daily; and in 14,000 country weeklies with a weekly circulation of 14,541,000 copies; and in several hundred foreign-language papers and in—"

SLOAN. "I should like to ask the gentleman right there if it is not understood that in the presentation of this plan, if the advertising is fairly distributed to the best advertising mediums—that is, the newspapers—there will be additional notice given, editorial and otherwise."

JOHNSON of Washington. "Certainly. Now, for $2,500,000 you can not only advertise in all of the weeklies, all of the dailies, nearly all of the foreign-language papers and all of the farm papers and even the religious papers, but also in all of the street cars and with all of the billboard organizations, which cover every city. If all that is not worth considering, nothing is. I do not think the House should overlook this. The plan has been carefully prepared. Further, this is not a staggering sum or even a large sum."

MOORE of Pennsylvania. "Has the gentleman examined the situation sufficiently to be able to say how much might be apportioned amongst these 20,000 newspapers?"

JOHNSON of Washington. "Yes. $1,500,000 of this sum will go to the daily and weekly newspapers, including the cost of matrices."

MOORE of Pennsylvania. "How would the gentleman apportion the appropriation—in accordance with the circulation of the newspapers?"

JOHNSON of Washington. "Yes; in part. It is proposed to utilize the advertising machinery of the great agencies, which machinery is already set up and is just as necessary to the newspaper business generally and the periodical business as railroads are necessary to business operations."

MOORE of Pennsylvania. "I concede all that, but how would the selection be made in order to be fair to the entire newspaper fraternity?"

JOHNSON of Washington. "It will be made by placing from two to four pages in every publication at its actual advertising rates."

MOORE of Pennsylvania. "At their ordinary advertising rates?"

JOHNSON of Washington. "At their ordinary advertising rates."

JOHNSON of Washington. "Now, then, the railroads of the United States advertised in all the newspapers of the country last year at an expense of $249,000. That is not a great sum when you consider the number of railroads and the amount of advertising for a year and the business that resulted."

GORDON. "Does the gentleman think that the railroads increased their business enough to warrant the spending of that amount?"

JOHNSON of Washington. "I know they did."

GORDON. "How does the gentleman know it?"

JOHNSON of Washington. "They carried advertising for passenger trade and they thought it profitable, and it was profitable."

GORDON. "The railroad carries everybody that comes, and if a man does not want to go he does not go."

JOHNSON of Washington. "If the gentleman from Ohio is sitting in Cleveland on a hot July day and reads an alluring advertisement of an excursion rate on an electrified railroad across the Rockies and the Cascades to the Pacific Northwest, where it is cool and comfortable, he may become possessed of an idea to take the trip."

CANNON. "The railroads do not even publish the time tables in most of the counties in the United States."

JOHNSON of Washington. "If they do not, they go on the theory that the time table carries an element of news which the newspaper might carry on its own account."

CANNON. "But they do not publish them."

JOHNSON of Washington. "The papers of this town publish the time tables, do they not?"

CANNON. "I do not think so. They do not publish them in Danville or in any place in my district."

JOHNSON of Washington. "Well, that is neither here nor there. I desire to discuss the reaching of the little newspapers with a systematic series of bond-selling advertisements."

CANNON. "If the gentleman will allow me, I do not know about these advertisements; are you going to reach all the country papers?"

JOHNSON of Washington. "Every last one of them."

CANNON. "I think there are more than 20,000."

JOHNSON of Washington. "Oh, no. The number now existing has been carefully computed."

CANNON. "The gentleman says two to four pages—some papers do not have four pages."

JOHNSON of Washington. "If a paper is only a half sheet, it must have two pages."

FORDNEY. "How many insertions would the money the gentleman speaks of give in the great daily papers?"

JOHNSON of Washington. "That would carry on a systematic campaign of advertising for one month in the country papers; that would not mean an insertion every day in a great daily like the Chicago Tribune, but it would mean two pages in the Saturday Evening Post at a cost of $2,500 a page."

STAFFORD. "I understand the gentleman's amendment provides that the Secretary of the Treasury shall expend two and a half million dol-

THE PITTSBURG PRESS

HAS THE Largest DAILY AND SUNDAY CIRCULATION IN PITTSBURG

Foreign Advertising Representatives
I. A. KLEIN, Metropolitan Tower, N. Y.
JOHN GLASS, Peoples Gas Bg., Chicago

lars of the sum available for advertising—

JOHNSON of Washington. "Yes."
STAFFORD. "How much would be left for the Secretary for other purposes?"

JOHNSON of Washington. "Fourteen million five hundred thousand dollars."

DICKINSON. "Does the gentleman contemplate publishing an advertisement in the weekly papers as well as the dailies, including all weekly papers?"

JOHNSON of Washington. "Including the smallest weekly newspaper that has the second-class privilege of postage rate."

BORLAND. "Do I understand the purpose of the amendment to be set aside two and half million dollars of the funds devoted to placing the bonds to be used for newspaper advertising?"

JOHNSON of Washington. "For all advertising—newspapers, periodicals, street cars, and billboards—largely at the discretion of the Secretary of the Treasury."

BORLAND. "Does it require him to spend that amount for advertising?"

JOHNSON of Washington. "It names advertising as part of the necessary expenses and gives $2,500,000 as the top figure for the advertising campaign."

BORLAND. "Did I understand the gentleman to say that there are 20,000 daily papers in the United States?"

JOHNSON of Washington. "Oh, no; I thought there were about 25,000 publications of all kinds, but I am told now that the number is a few more than 20,000 periodicals, daily and weekly, and the like."

BORLAND. "Assuming that there are 20,000, that would give about $125 to each paper."

JOHNSON of Washington. "Yes;

THE NEW YORK WORLD

(Morning Edition)

Prints MORE ADVERTISING than any other newspaper prints.

*The Remarkable Advertising
Pulling Qualities of the*
WASHINGTON
TIMES
are built on the Foundation Stones of
Size of Circulation
Confidence of Its Readers
A Right Rate

*In Washington, D. C.,
The Times is Preferred.*

Topeka Daily Capital
GOVERNMENT REPORT
for six months ending April 1, 1917.
showing net paid circulation.
34,567
Member A. B. C. Publisher
Arthur Capper TOPEKA, KAN.

but it is not designed to prorrate that way."

BORLAND. "How far would that go toward advertising in a great paper that has a real circulation?"

JOHNSON of Washington. "Each paper would not get $125. Some would receive much more. Say there is a paper in Joplin, Mo., and its rate by the page once a week for a month is 18 cents an inch. The advertising would be placed at that rate, whereas in the Chicago Tribune it might be $1.25 an inch, and the Tribune would get four insertions at its rate."

BORLAND. "Does the gentleman think that an average of $125 would produce the results that are expected?"

JOHNSON of Washington. "The sum is not divided by the number of papers. If a paper had 2,000 subscribers in a community of 10,000 people, and those 10,000 people read the local advertisement carrying an explanation of the short-time issue of these war-emergency certificates, written by some of the brainiest men in the United States who know how to write advertisements, I know it would double the sale of these bonds in one-half the time that will be necessary otherwise."

BORLAND. "I will say to the gentleman that $125 would get just about one-quarter of a page one Sunday morning in a Kansas City newspaper."

JOHNSON of Washington. "I think the Kansas City daily papers would get much more than that."

BORLAND. "About one-quarter of a page on Sunday morning."

JOHNSON of Washington. The Kansas City newspaper has an advertising agent in New York City, and his rate card is there, and this estimate is made up upon that basis. The Kansas City paper will get its rate. That applies not only to the Kansas City Star, but to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, the New Orleans Picayune, the Chicago Tribune, and all of the big dailies, and then on down to the small dailies and on down to the weeklies.

"I want to assure the membership that this is a practical plan. It is all left to the Secretary of the Treasury, who is not averse to it at all,

BOSTON POST

CIRCULATION AUGUST, 1917
"NO RETURNS"

The Daily Post 532,595
The Sunday Post 352,792

KELLY-SMITH CO., Representatives
280 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK
C. GEORGE KROGNES, Western Rep.
Marquette Building, CHICAGO

Today's Housewife

Net Paid For Every
Guaranteed Issue

GEORGE A. McCLELLAN, Gen. Mgr.
461 Fourth Avenue NEW YORK

and it simply gives an indication on the part of Congress that it is desired that in selling these great bond issues, out of this $17,600,000 authorized for the overturn of the bonds, there shall be placed with all of the newspapers and advertising agencies of the country the sum of $2,500,000. It is not too much at all."

RAINEY. "What organization figured out those estimates?"

JOHNSON of Washington. "A series of associations representing all the leading advertising men who were recently called upon to come before the Secretary of the Treasury with the plan."

RAINEY. "When did that occur?"

JOHNSON of Washington. "Within the last few days. The notice from the Secretary gave very short time. They had only 24 hours in which to appear. I think the entire plan written out is on his desk, and I have not any doubt at all that as this bond sales goes on that he will endeavor to carry it out, but I think the least Congress can do is to make sure that we have proper publicity for the sale down into the last hamlet of the United States. One thing more: Both France and England have systematically advertised their bond sales from the start at great saving."

RAINEY. "From the remarks of the gentleman from Washington (Mr. Johnson) I understand that this is not a proposition submitted by the newspapers and magazines and the billboard organizations of the country, but it is a proposition promoted and advocated by those advertising agencies in this country, which place advertisements in the newspapers and magazines of the country, and perhaps also in the street cars and on billboards throughout the land."

"I deny that the patriotic newspapers and magazines of the country are demanding pay for the services they render their country in publishing the interesting reading notices which have reference to the placing of war bonds, and the necessity for it."

"Large, full-page advertisements have recently appeared in the newspapers of Washington advocating

1916 Broke All Records
of the
Toledo BLADE
9,807,578 Lines

of advertising in 313 days.
AN AVERAGE OF OVER
104 COLUMNS PER DAY.
Member A.B.C.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
260 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK
Mallers Building, CHICAGO
301 Devonshire St., BOSTON
Kresge Building, DETROIT

YOU MUST USE THE
LOS ANGELES
EXAMINER
TO COVER THE
GREAT SOUTHWEST
Largest Sunday Circulation—more than 150,000

payment to newspapers and magazines for their services to the country. These particular advertisements are inserted not at the expense of any newspaper or magazine, but they are paid for and inserted by a great agency which supplies to 8,000 newspapers in the land boiler-plate advertisements for their inside or outside sheets. I do not believe that for $2,500,000 four pages of reading matter can be inserted in every newspaper in the land, as has been stated on this floor, and also a corresponding amount of billboard and street car advertising can be accomplished.

"There are 20,000 newspapers and magazines—more than that in the country. Many of them do not have more than four pages in their regular issues. These small papers, when the advertising agencies dole out to them the small amount they will be willing to pay, will find if they carry these advertisements that the extra paper occasioned by inserting them will cost about as much as they can get out of the agencies. The smaller newspapers of this country are familiar with the methods of these advertising agencies. If they insert the stuff they send out in their papers, they insert it for a small compensation indeed."

"The statement of the gentleman from Washington (Mr. Johnson) is that if his amendment goes in, $2,500,000 will be distributed through these advertising agencies—through these boiler-plate companies—to the

The Open Door to the workshop of the world

The Philadelphia Record

Special Representatives
STORY, BROOKS & FINLEY,
Fifth Ave. Bldg., NEW YORK
Peoples Gas Bldg., CHICAGO

The Cincinnati Community

consists of an area of 70 square miles with a population of 600,000

THE CINCINNATI ENQUIRER

is the MEDIUM YOU SHOULD USE in this unparalleled market.

Foreign Representatives
John Glass, Peoples Gas Bldg., Chicago
I. A. Klein, Metropolitan Tower, New York

newspapers of the land.

"How much will the agencies keep of this amount? Ten per cent would be an exceedingly moderate estimate. If they keep 10 per cent of this amount we are then paying, not to the newspapers of the land but to the organized agencies the gentleman discusses, one-quarter of a million dollars, at the very least, for five or six weeks' work.

"No wonder their representatives are here in conference with the Secretary of the Treasury. No wonder their representatives are inserting in the newspapers of Washington at large expense these full-page advertisements advocating the appropriation of this sum for this purpose.

"No such proposition as the gentleman has discussed was ever presented for consideration to the Committee on Ways and Means, which drew this bill. This committee has until now heard no such suggestion as this.

"The section of the bill sought to be amended makes a definite allowance to the Secretary of the Treasury of not to exceed $17,000,000 for the purpose of paying the necessary expenses connected with the printing and placing of this enormous bond issue. He can expend of that sum as much as is required for that purpose. This is the largest transaction in the history of nations. We must place these bonds.

"This section in this bill makes this allowance to the Secretary of the Treasury, and if it appears necessary in order to obtain subscriptions for these bonds to advertise in the newspapers of the country, the Secretary has the right to do it without this amendment.

"Throughout the land during the campaign for the sale of liberty bonds newspapers rendered most excellent service. Without compensation they continually called attention to the fact that these bonds

Member A.B.C.

THE WASHINGTON POST

DAILY 2c—SUNDAY 5c

LARGEST Morning Circulation in the Nation's Capital.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
New York Chicago Boston Detroit

Trenton TIMES

New Jersey's Leading

FOOD MEDIUM

Million lines food advertising in two years—developed by our Thursday Food Feature Pages.

This "food atmosphere" and "housewife interest" will increase your sales.

KELLY-SMITH CO.

220 5th Av., N. Y.; Lytton Bg., Chicago

Baltimore News

Net Daily Circulation 89,711

AUGUST, 1917
GAIN over
AUGUST, 1916 14,183

Special Representatives

DAN A. CARROLL J. E. LUTZ
New York Chicago

were being offered for sale. So far as I know they did not ask any compensation. So far as I know the small newspapers of the country and the large newspapers of the country are still anxious without compensation to discharge this patriotic duty. All over this land, from ocean to ocean, men and women, banks, trust companies, and newspapers will be found discharging their patriotic duty urging upon those who have money to invest—a small amount or a large amount—the necessity of subscribing for these bonds.

HASTINGS. "Then why should we make any provision or appropriation at all for any expenses in connection with the sale of the bonds if every one is patriotic and if every one is willing to lend their time and assistance to the sale of them?"

RAINEY. "Because we are engaged now in the greatest war in history and we cannot afford to take any chances, and this bond issue must be properly presented to the country in such a manner as the exigencies of the campaign may demand. If every man and every woman and every agency rendering service in placing these bonds demands and receives compensation there will not be much left with which to aid the young men of the country who will soon be fighting on land and on sea for our institutions and our flag."

JOHNSON of Washington. "If the gentleman will permit me, there was paid in excess of $500,000 to two metropolitan newspapers to promote the last bond issue by other advertising agencies—not the Government. The advertising by the billboard advertisers given to the Government was in excess of $500,000, and they will do it again. So with the newspapers. But now the Secretary himself says that these bond houses and others who spent money out of their own pockets should not be asked to do it again, and so long as there is a necessity for this expense I contend that the newspapers should be paid something."

RAINEY. "Newspapers and individuals who desire to tender their services ought to have that opportunity. I understand that these

St. Louis Globe-Democrat

DAILY—SUNDAY—WEEKLY.

To reach Farmers in Mississippi Valley and Southwest use

Weekly Globe-Democrat

CIRCULATION INCREASING.

Now 115,000 each issue, 230,000 per week. Rate 50c per line per week.

PATERSON

New Jersey's Famous Manufacturing City

PRESS GUARDIAN

Its BIG Independent Newspaper

G. LOGAN PAYNE COMPANY
New York Chicago Detroit Boston

newspaper advertising association and this association which inserts these large advertisements in our city papers advocating this method of procedure expect to make a large amount of money out of it. This of procedure expect to make it a large advertisements asking pay for newspapers for this patriotic service sells the boiler-plate advertisements that will be used throughout the land in 8,000 papers or possibly more than that.

"These advertising agencies who are here are not here at the request of the patriotic newspapers of this land and their owners. They are here because they expect themselves to pull down commissions out of this transaction. That is the reason they are here. They have simply joined the vultures that hover over this Capitol. If it is necessary to pay any man or any newspaper for services of value in connection with the negotiation of these bonds, we will have to do it, of course.

"But I object to a proposition that makes it obligatory upon the Secretary of the Treasury to donate, to give, to the advertising agencies of this land $2,500,000 in cash, a part of the same to be distributed by them among the newspapers, magazines, and billboard organizations of the country—such part of the same to be so distributed as they may in their generosity determine."

RAINEY. "It may be necessary to do so. These papers have varying advertising value. Some of them have a circulation of only a few hundred, some a circulation of many thousands. If in the Congressional district of any member this money is unequally distributed among the newspapers, you are going to hear from it.

"You are insulting the publishers of the country when you propose to dole out to them through cut-throat advertising agencies such part of $2,500,000 as these agencies may be willing to divide with them.

"Leave these matters in the hands of the Secretary of the Treasury; he will keep down the expense of negotiating these bonds to the minimum, and if we are compelled to select advertising mediums, whether

A Gain of 73%

During the past four years the Detroit Free Press has enjoyed a gain of 73 per cent in circulation. Character and solidity explain this increase. ADVERTISING MUST PAY in a medium which calls forth such a tremendous response from the public.

The Detroit Free Press

"MICHIGAN'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER."

VERREE & CONKLIN, Foreign Reps.
NEW YORK CHICAGO DETROIT

SEATTLE "P-I"

The only seven day A. P. paper in the Metropolis of the entire Northwest.

The one paper in the entire West without competition in its field. It reaches into the homes of the most prosperous people on earth.

W. M. J. MORTON CO., Eastern Rep.,
Fifth Av. Bldg., NEW YORK.
Tribune Building, CHICAGO

billboards, which now tender their services for nothing, or the newspapers, which now tender their services for nothing, and pay for it, he is capable of doing it and paying them according to their recognized advertising rates, if that is what they charge.

"I think we ought to give them the opportunity of rendering this service for nothing if they want to do it for nothing. If the small newspapers demand pay, and it is necessary to pay them in order to float these bonds, why, we will have to pay, of course; but we ought not to pay them through the advertising agencies.

"The money paid newspapers ought to be paid to them direct from the Treasury of the United States; it should not reach them through agencies which expect to retain a large part of the amount allotted as commissions.

"Referring now to the great national newspapers and magazines, I want to say that if they will give up the $90,000,000 mail subsidy they now pull out of the Treasury of the United States, and which they cling to with such tenacity, we could afford to pay them a much larger sum than is contemplated in this proposed amendment. [Applause.]

[Mr. ALMON addressed the committee.]

SLOAN. "Mr. Chairman, I am in favor of this proposition. In the floating of this $7,500,000,000 of bonds the proposition as it now

THE PITTSBURGH POST ONLY Democratic Paper In Pittsburgh

CONE, LORENZEN & WOODMAN
Special Representatives
New York, Detroit, Kansas City, Chicago

BUFFALO EVENING NEWS

The only Buffalo newspaper that carries its advertising columns. Many of our advertisers use our columns exclusively. The above is one of the many reasons WHY?

EDWARD H. BUTLER, Editor and Pub.
Represented in the foreign field by
KELLY-SMITH COMPANY,
280 Fifth Ave., NEW YORK.
Lytton Building, CHICAGO.

THE DAYTON SUNDAY NEWS

in the first five months of 1917 has carried 110,284 lines more local business than its only competitor.
With the Springfield News (the two at .055 per line) it's a great Sunday combination.

NEWS LEAGUE OF OHIO
DAYTON, OHIO
I. A. Klein, Metropolitan Tower, N. Y.
John Glass, Peoples Gas Bldg., Chicago

stands contemplates an expenditure of about $11,000,000.

"Four million dollars is for floating the certificates of indebtedness. Now, then, the amount appropriated by this amendment would be less than 25 per cent of the total amount provided for the expenditures for floating the bonds. I believe that in the disposition of the money of the country, if there are to be large expenditures, while a large discretion be given to the administration officers, it should be entirely taken from this House.

"I think the best advertising medium in this country is the weekly paper in every county throughout this Union.

"I think the next is the daily paper, and following these are the agricultural and trade papers.

"And those papers are the ones that are read at the fireside and believed in by the readers. They are not the sporadic presentation of a project brought about by speeches of men and by brass bands. They are the usual medium of communication of good and patriotic business doctrine. They are the best advertising medium on earth."

COX. "There is nothing in the bill as it now stands that will prevent any paper in the United States from voluntarily publishing any advertisement the Secretary of the Treasury might offer?"

SLOAN. "Not at all. And there should not be; and I doubt not that

THE KANSAS CITY STAR

MORNING—EVENING—SUNDAY

Each Issue
Over 200,000 Circulation

It Pays to Advertise in the ST. LOUIS TIMES

Now generally recognized as the HOME NEWSPAPER OF ST. LOUIS.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
280 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK.
Mallory Building, CHICAGO.
201 Devonshire Street, BOSTON.
Krepps Building, DETROIT.

THE Philadelphia Bulletin HAS THE Largest TWO-Cent Circulation in the East.

Net Daily Paid Average for August
351,976 Copies
WILLIAM L. McLEAN, Publisher.

if this fair business proposition is carried out, this advertising medium—I speak of the papers themselves—with the patriotic impulses of those papers, in addition to carrying out the business contract they make with the Government, will show upon their editorial pages and elsewhere a large amount of free, effective advertising.

"Now, I quite agree with the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. Rainey] that the newspapers of this country ought to pay their carriage. Most of the newspapers are doing that now. There is no difference between us on that proposition. It is a business matter, and the sooner we come to a business basis with the newspapers and other publications of this country the better it will be for the newspapers and the country.

"For that reason I am in favor not only of exacting from the newspapers what they should pay for their carriage between points in this country, but I believe, where this Government has a large amount of business to do, and this Congress has the power to direct it, it should not neglect its opportunities to see that fair treatment is accorded them.

"This matter is not new. It was brought up before the Committee on Ways and Means. It was discussed there with the Secretary of the Treasury.

"The proposition presented was discussed at that time. The question was asked of the Secretary how the distribution would be made under the plan. He said it would not be confined to any party, faction, sect, or trade, but every recognized public medium for advertising would be recognized, one the same as the other and without discrimination.

"And it seems to me that this Congress, in setting apart $11,000,000 for the floating of this $7,500,000,000 of bonds, could well exercise its proper function in saying that while we are delegating a large amount of discretion to the Secretary of the Treasury our business judgment dictates that we shall recognize the best advertising mediums in the Republic—the weekly and daily papers, the agricultural and the trade papers.

"It is not enough to say the excellent patriotic support given the former loan by the press is an ear-

THE NEW YORK EVENING JOURNAL

has the largest circulation of any newspaper in America.

MONTREAL DAILY MAIL

The circulation of the Daily Mail in Greater Montreal is larger than that of any other Montreal morning newspaper, English or French.

Verve & Conklin, Inc., 235 6th Av. N.Y.
I.S. Wallis & Son, 1st Nat. Bldg. Chicago

nest that their space—their large stock in trade—shall be thrown open to the Secretary that he may have it free, and then pay out the millions provided in this bill to spend in doubtful experiments with ineffective means. Printer's ink will bring better results than the organized hysteria of brass bands and platform appeals.

FORDNEY. "Mr. Chairman, I have no objection to the Secretary using his judgment as to where this money shall go or that he may pay to the newspapers a fair share or portion of this money in advertising for the sale of these bonds. But so far I have contended, and I am going to continue to contend, that the hands of the Secretary of the Treasury should not be tied. He should be permitted to handle that money to the best of his judgment in advertising for the sale of those bonds. He did state that the banks of the country and the newspapers of the country had assisted in the last sale of liberty bonds."

RAINEY. "Under the provisions of this bill, is it not true that if necessary the Secretary could expend a much larger sum than $2,500,000 with the newspapers?"

FORDNEY. "He could expend any portion of that money allowed him that he thought in his best judgment would be proper."

STERLING of Illinois. "Did he not also state to the committee that he thought the newspapers ought to be paid for space for this purpose, showing that it is his intention to exercise his discretion to pay whatever he chose?"

FORDNEY. "He did, and he stated further than that that the banks of the country had very largely made the last sale of these bonds and had paid out large sums of their money. And I know that to be true. The various banks of the country were apportioned a certain amount of bonds to be sold and those banks advertised them very extensively. Not only that, but they sent men throughout the country—I know they did in the state and county in which I live—and the banks paid the expense of sending them around through the farming country to visit

THE SYRACUSE POST-STANDARD

—Central New York's FAVORITE newspaper—increases its circulation lead:

Daily (Net Paid) 55,498
CIRCULATION

April, 1917 Figures—A.B.C. Basis.
—Only morning paper in the metropolis of a rich, agricultural and manufacturing territory.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
280 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK.
Mallory Building, CHICAGO.
201 Devonshire St., BOSTON.
Krepps Building, DETROIT

THE JOURNAL IS THE ONLY MORNING AND SUNDAY PAPER PUBLISHED IN DAYTON, OHIO

STORY, BROOKS & FINLEY, Inc.
Fifth Ave. Bldg., NEW YORK.
Mutual Life Bldg., PHILADELPHIA
People's Gas Building, CHICAGO.

the various farmers who had money on deposit in the banks. The banks of the country know where the money is.

"The know the owners of the money that is deposited in the banks, and therefore they sent agents about the country and the various townships, made a complete canvass of everybody who had money to loan, and induced them to subscribe for a certain amount of this last loan. And the banks and the newspapers will perform a very important part in the future in the sale of those bonds. But I do not believe that the Congress of the United States ought to say to the Secretary of the Treasury, 'You shall pay so much here and so much there' in the sale of bonds."

JOHNSON of Washington. "In reference to the inquiry of the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. Sterling], and that the inference in the hearing is that the Secretary believed in advertising and that he would advertise, what would the gentleman say if after the bill had been put in the basket with the percentage reduced, the Secretary's office then said to the newspaper men there would be no advertising?"

FORDNEY. "My good friend, it is going to cost a large amount of money to sell those bonds. It is going to be spent somewhere. Somebody must do some advertising, and the men who do the work ought to receive the pay."

"Now, it is said that the Secretary

St. Paul and the Northwest

best can be reached by advertising your wares in the columns of the

ST. PAUL DISPATCH and ST. PAUL PIONEER PRESS

In St. Paul, the St. Paul Dispatch has an average total daily circulation of 53,678; the St. Paul Pioneer Press, an average total daily circulation of 48,532; the St. Paul Sunday Pioneer Press an average total Sunday circulation of 47,802.

They also enter thousands of homes, located in cities, towns and rich farming districts of the Northwest.

TOTAL CIRCULATION

St. Paul Dispatch (daily). Over 51,000.
St. Paul Pioneer Press (daily). Over 61,000.

Sunday Pioneer Press. Over 77,000.
They Cover the Field.

THE
Boston Herald
(Morning and Sunday) and the Boston Traveler
(Evening)

Net Paid Circulation:

DAILY, over 208,000
Sunday, over 119,000

Member Audit Bureau of Circulations.

DALLAS EVENING JOURNAL

Published by
A. H. Belo & Co.
Covers the afternoon field as completely
as does the Dallas News in the morning
37,659 NET PAID average during 6
months period ending April 1,
1917. P. O. Report.
LARGEST AFTERNOON Circulation
J. D. LORENTZ, Manager Eastern Dept.
798 Tribune Building, NEW YORK

of the Treasury, if it is left to his discretion, may give this money to friendly newspapers of his party—Democratic newspapers. Let him try if he dare, and you will see the biggest row in the next campaign that you ever heard of. There will be a perfect hornet's nest turned loose on him. It would destroy him politically. He would not dare to do a thing of that kind. An honest man would not do it. We must contend that the Secretary of the Treasury is an honest man until we find out differently."

JOHNSON of Washington. "No one charges him with being otherwise."

FORDNEY. "No. No one has attempted to convey any such idea. The idea, gentlemen, is that the hands of the Secretary of the Treasury ought to be left free to expend this money where he knows it ought to be expended."

GORDON. "Mr. Chairman, the gentleman from Washington [Mr. Johnson] proposes an amendment here requiring the Secretary of the Treasury to spend at least $2,500,000 for newspaper advertising. Now, as has been stated by members of the committee, the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to expend this entire sum appropriated in this bill for newspaper advertising if, in his judgment, that is how it ought to be expended. I think the bill confers too large powers entirely on the Secretary. I think it gives him entirely too much money to spend in the sale of these bonds."

"Now, the great success of the last

TIMES PLAZA
THE CENTER OF BROOKLYN

The Federal Authorities have recognized Times Plaza as the business center of Brooklyn by renaming Post Office Station L "TIMES PLAZA STATION."

FROM THIS CENTER

THE BROOKLYN DAILY TIMES

REACHES ALL OF BROOKLYN AND LONG ISLAND.

BRIDGEPORT

CONNECTICUT
(The Eden of America)
The Prosperity Center of the United States and the Industrial Center of New England.

THE
Post & Telegram

(Evening) (Morning)
Cover This Field Absolutely.
Members of the A. B. C.
JULIUS MATHEWS, Representative
1 Beacon Street, BOSTON
171 Madison Avenue, NEW YORK
Hartford Building, CHICAGO

Joliet, Ill. (The PITTSBURGH) of the West

Surrounded by the most fertile agricultural section in the Illinois corn belt. Covered by but one daily newspaper.

The Herald-News

ALCORN-HENKEL, Representative
New York Chicago

bond issue, as has been stated, was due largely to the bankers of the country, who took hold of it with their organizations and made a success of it—a tremendous success. They have never asked any compensation, and I do not understand that the newspapers are asking for any. The contention of the gentleman from Washington seems to be that we ought to make a donation to the newspapers. They did not charge anything before, and we do not know that they are going to charge anything this time."

JOHNSON of Washington. "The Secretary says in the hearings that he is not ready to call upon the bankers and the mechanical institutions who floated the last loan. Is it not fair to give to the newspapers, who gave their space and libel to the making popular of that loan, some assistance this time?"

GORDON. "The gentleman will find, if he will read the statement of the Secretary with care, that the Secretary does not propose to pay anybody for advertising these bonds. What he said was that he wanted to reimburse these banking institutions for money they actually pay out to their own employees for the extra meals they purchase in doing the extra work that they may be required to perform. That is the only thing he mentions. If you are going out to buy newspaper space to hawk these bonds around among the people, where are you going to stop?"

"So far as the newspapers and magazines are concerned, they are at present, under the existing postal laws, enjoying a subsidy of about $90,000,000 a year out of the I cent a pound second-class postage rates. I hope that this Congress will abolish at least a part of that subsidy before it adjourns. I think we are in a fair way to do it. That particular 'graft' has cost the people of the United States $1,200,000,000 in the last 32 years. I think that now, during this war, when we are reaching down into everybody's pocket, it is a good time to reduce that. I shall have something to say about that later on."

"As to this proposition of the gentleman from Washington [Mr. John-

THE DETROIT JOURNAL

with over 100,000 net paid Circulation daily is indispensable in covering Detroit and surrounding territory.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.,
New York Chicago Boston Detroit

Newark Star-Eagle
NEW JERSEY'S
LARGEST PENNY PAPER

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.,
New York Chicago Boston Detroit

son], I cannot understand why it should be brought here. The Government is not going to give people money for nothing. I hope. The newspapers had a good deal to do with that first bond issue, and talked about it a great deal, and they undoubtedly helped the flotation of it among the people. They have not asked anything. Why should we promise to volunteer to donate them $2,500,000 out of the Public Treasury? I think this amount in the aggregate ought to be cut down. It is out of all due proportion. The last statement of figures that I saw concerning it was that it was $23,000,000. It is out of all proportion to the amount of expense involved in the last bond issue."

JOHNSON of Washington. "It is not that much."

STAFFORD. "It is $15,000,000."

GORDON. "Yes; it may be $15,000,000. Then the committee reduced it."

CAMPBELL of Kansas. "Then the Secretary of the Treasury, as I understand, can use a very large amount of this $15,000,000 with the newspapers?"

GORDON. "Yes; he can use it in any way he pleases."

CAMPBELL of Kansas. "Does not the gentleman think it would be well enough to direct the manner in which this sum should be expended?"

GORDON. "No; I do not."

CAMPBELL of Kansas. "The organization that has been referred to here as an advertising agency could do the work more cheaply than the Secretary of the Treasury."

GORDON. "Oh, all that the advertising agency does is to collect a commission on the money we appropriate and divide it up among members of the agency." [Laughter.]

CAMPBELL of Kansas. "I am not as much afraid of being eaten up as I have been heretofore. Would it not also secure the work being done for less money by this agency than the Secretary of the Treasury could do it for?"

GORDON. "I do not see how. If they got this service performed before for nothing I cannot see how you will get it now for less."

[Laughter.]

CAMPBELL of Kansas. "On the

The Plain Dealer

First Newspaper of Cleveland, Sixth City prints a far greater total of paid advertising and paid advertisements than any other newspaper in

CLEVELAND

Over 150,000 Daily. || Over 200,000 Sunday.

JOHN B. WOODWARD, Eastern Advertising Representative, Times Bg., N. Y.
JOHN GLASS, Western Advertising Representative, Peoples Gas Bg., Chicago.

BALTIMORE CITY OF HOMES

and noted for its great industries and thrifty working classes, affords National Advertisers one of the best fields. Use the

AMERICAN and STAR

Morning—Sunday Evening
Baltimore's greatest newspapers, to thoroughly cover city and state. Member A B C
C. GEORGE KROGNES, CHICAGO
VERRE & CONKLIN, Inc., New York

theory that the Secretary of the Treasury will expend $2,500,000 or $5,000,000 on newspapers—"

GORDON. "If he did not spend anything before on the newspapers, why must we assume in advance that we must go out and buy them up now?"

CAMPBELL of Kansas. "We are going to pay a higher rate of interest on these bonds than we paid before."

GORDON. "Is that a good reason why they should come forward and ask the Government for pay for advertising the people to buy them?" [Laughter.]

MORGAN. "Mr. Chairman, I want to read what Mr. McAdoo did say in regard to newspaper advertising. On page 35 of the hearing he says:

"I have felt all along, I am perfectly frank to say, that if the Government entered upon a campaign of advertising in the newspaper, it ought to pay for it at reasonable rates, because the only commodity the newspapers have is their advertising, and we ought not to ask them to give it for nothing any more than to ask the steel mills to give their product for nothing or the farmers to give their produce to the Government for the purposes of the war."

"So the Secretary endorses this proposition."

LOWMYER. "The gentleman failed to read what the Secretary said on page 38."

MOORE of Pennsylvania. "That would be explanatory."

MORGAN. "I take it that on the whole the Secretary is favorable to newspaper advertising; and if I

Washington Newspapers

Sworn statements of the newspapers at the National Capitol to the Post Office Department for the six months ending March 31, 1917:

Evening Star	83,194
Evening Times	35,569
Washington Post	34,293
Washington Herald	30,454

Since this statement the circulation of the Star, Times and Post has materially increased.

THE PITTSBURGH DISPATCH

is a capable and welcome salesman in thousands of good homes.

H. C. Roeb, Real Est. Trust Bdg., Phila.
W. G. Brooks, 225 Fifth Av., New York
Ford-Persons Co., Michigan Av., Chicago
W. B. Edge, Atlantic City, N. J.
Dorland Co., 19 Regent St., London, Eng.

The City of Richmond qualified
VIRGINIA, has 15,309 voters

THE TIMES-DISPATCH RICHMOND.

is delivered 12,000 of the city's
daily into best homes.
In all VIRGINIA it's the same.
STORY, BROOKS & FINLEY, Inc.
New York Philadelphia Chicago

thought he was not, I would be much more in favor of this amendment. He says that we must undertake a great campaign of selling bonds, such as never been witnessed certainly in this country or any other country.

"There is only one way that the great masses of the people can be reached, and that is through the newspapers of this country, great and small.

"He said he wanted to compensate the bankers for their outlay.

"Do not the newspapers have an outlay as well as the bankers? The little amount which the newspapers of this country would get would be but a small portion of the money that they will actually expend. In this age of the world there is no great business that undertakes anything of importance without utilizing the power of the press. So in this campaign, in undertaking to sell these vast quantities of bonds, mounting up into the billions of dollars, in my judgment, it would be the height of folly, indeed almost a public calamity, if the Secretary of the Treasury did not advertise the sale of these bonds in the newspapers of the country.

"The Secretary of the Treasury should advertise these bonds in the newspapers, not merely as a favor to the newspapers; he should do it as a business proposition. Public sentiment must be molded. Our citizenship must be educated.

"This cannot be done without the aid of the press. The small amount paid to the publishers will in no sense compensate them for the space they will use in making the sale of these bonds successful. The space paid for will be but a small per cent of the amount freely given to the Government by our newspapers, magazines and other periodicals before the bond-selling campaign will have closed.

"Since the inception of this war, with few exceptions, our editors have done their full duty. They have been loyal and patriotic. Throughout every section of this country the same spirit has been manifested. The calls of the Government upon them have been great. They have stood by the

The BEST Advertising BUY in CLEVELAND

THE NEWS

Quality Evening Newspaper
With Quantity Circulation

THE LEADER

Sunday

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.,
130 Fifth Ave., NEW YORK
Mallory Building, CHICAGO
301 Devonshire St., BOSTON
Kresge Building, DETROIT

THE NEW ORLEANS ITEM

Largest Afternoon Circulation in the
entire South.

(April A.B.C. Not Paid Statement)

Sunday 68,875 Daily 55,041
THE JOHN BUDD COMPANY
NEW YORK CHICAGO ST. LOUIS

Government. They have upheld the President, the Commander-in-Chief of our Army and Navy. They have rendered unselfish service which cannot and will not be compensated by any paid advertisements authorized by the pending amendment. The great dailies have done their part. They have not, however, done more according to their ability than county weekly newspapers have done. After all, it is the home paper, the small dailies, and county weekly papers, which wield the greatest influence. But all classes of papers should be recognized and all should be compensated, in part at least, for the expenditure necessary on their part to make the sale of these bonds successful.

"As I have read the testimony of the Secretary of the Treasury I do not think he is opposed to the proposition. In my judgment he will be glad to have Congress vote favorably on this proposition, and I hope it will be adopted."

WOOD of Indiana. "Mr. Chairman, if the gentleman from Oklahoma had read a line further in the testimony of the Secretary of the Treasury he would have found that it was the intention of the Secretary of the Treasury not to pay out any of this money for advertising in newspapers. The gentleman from Illinois [Mr. Rainey] says that there is no demand by the newspapers of this country that this amendment be passed. Some week or 10 days ago I received a letter from a publication in my district, and a few days afterwards I received another communication upon this very proposition, both of which letters I sent to the publicity committee of the Council of National Defense. They were pointing out the fact how loyally the newspapers had supported the last liberty loan, how generously they gave their space in advertising the Red Cross fund and in popularizing the conscription act, and that for all these activities of the Government they had been giving their space without stint. They point out that they have to pay more for their paper, ink, and everything that goes into the make-up of a newspaper

W. D. BOYCE CO.

500-514 North Dearborn St., CHICAGO
305 Metropolitan Tower, NEW YORK
PUBLISHER

THE INDIANA DAILY TIMES

INDIANAPOLIS

THE FARMING BUSINESS

High-class farm weekly, magazine form.

BOYCE'S WEEKLIES

The Saturday Blade, Chicago Ledger.

THE LONE SCOUT

"BOYCE'S" IS A SYNONYM for
SUCCESSFUL ADVERTISING

Peoria TRANSCRIPT

Only morning newspaper in Peoria.

Peoria JOURNAL

Only evening paper in Peoria with Associated Press franchise. Leads in circulation and advertising. Member A.B.C. SUNDAY JOURNAL-TRANSCRIPT.

Combination Advertising Rate

HENRY M. PINDELL, Proprietor.
CHAS. H. EDDY CO., Representatives.
NEW YORK BOSTON CHICAGO

than ever before, and they say they cannot hope to exist if they continue to give their space as they have been giving it.

"I think the Congress should bear in mind that this is but the beginning of the sale of bonds. There will be many other bond issues to be sold hereafter, and if we wish to keep the continued good will of the people of this country, whose money we are expecting to pay for these bonds, we should keep on the good side of the medium that reaches the people of this country and brings these advertisements home to them."

RAINEY. "Does the gentleman say that in these patriotic matters in order to keep on the good side of the newspapers we have got to pay them money?"

WOOD of Indiana. "The newspapers of the country cannot live on patriotism alone. They have got to have something of substance. The people who sell them their print paper are not patriotic enough to give it to them. The men who furnish the ink and the type and the men who work the presses are not patriotic enough to give their material and time and services for nothing.

"So I say that this great Government of ours, that is spending money by billions, should not expect these papers to give their services entirely without compensation.

"It is not enough for the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. Rainey] and others to say that these newspapers are dragging down millions each year by reason of the postal privileges which they now have. Most of these newspapers get nothing out of the cheap postage rates. The newspapers in my section of the country are getting nothing from that source. The newspapers that circulate mostly in the district of every Congressman here are getting nothing from that source."

BLACK. "Is it not true that they circulate absolutely free in the country of publication?"

WOOD of Indiana. "Yes; and that is the end of it. But I want to say that there is a demand that this amendment pass. It is the demand

The special features of THE BUFFALO TIMES

have made it the most popular newspaper in
Western New York

NORMAN E. MACK, Proprietor.

VERREE & CONKLIN, Inc.
Special Advertising Representatives.
NEW YORK, DETROIT, CHICAGO

Schenectady POPULATION
100,000

Union Star

Evening EXCEPT SUNDAY. AUDITED CIRCULATION 20,643

Home circulation reaching best paid scientific, technical and skilled mechanics in America.

LA COSTE & MAXWELL
Special Representatives
NEW YORK CHICAGO

of common justice."

KETTNER. "Mr. Chairman, the statement has been made several times that the newspapers have not asked for the passage of this amendment. I hold in my hand several letters from the newspapers of my district."

The clerk read letters from W. S. Conger of the San Bernardino (Cal.) Index; Ora K. Hart of the Lost Hills (Cal.) Gusher; H. V. Alexander of the Fallbrook (Cal.) Enterprise; and Crombie Allen, president of the Southern California Associated Dailies. They argued that the newspapers should be paid for the space used for advertising the Liberty Loan Bonds, just as the Government pays for other commodities.

JOHNSON of Washington. "Mr. Chairman, I regret that there has been any criticism of the machinery that must be used if the Government is to place an advertisement in every publication in the United States.

"These great advertising agencies have, in my opinion, offered their services at the cost of operation and distribution.

"When the gentleman from Ohio intimates that there is no cost in the work he is very much mistaken.

"The advertisements will be sent in the form of matrices, so that the type metal can be poured into them at the minimum cost when they reach the town where they are to be published.

"The postage and express bill will be large and will be paid by the agencies.

"They have built up a great national advertising system, which you see used every day by the greatest business concerns of the country. If these agencies are asked to handle the publicity of the bond issue, they will make it go—make it go regularly, systematically, and successfully—cutting down other expenses, doing away with friction, and seeing that all newspapers and all advertising mediums are justly and properly treated.

"Mr. Chairman, it is true that the editor of every little newspaper, as was said in the last letter read, re-

A Powerful List is the MILWAUKEE GERMANIA LIST

CIRCULATION
Germania Herald 36,989
Only German Morning daily in Milwaukee
Sonntag Post 37,000
Only German Sunday daily in Milwaukee
Weekly Germania 107,413
(German Farm Journal) Weekly, 103,333
Die Rundschau, Weekly, 25,002
Eastern Representation
LOUIS KLEBAHN
1 West 84th Street NEW YORK
Telephone 216 Greeley

A National American Daily and Sunday printed in the Polish language reaching over 150,000 readers.

A Splendid Advertising Medium
Phone Stuyvesant 2004
90 East 10th St., NEW YORK

ceives every day from the Federal Government in franked envelopes more bureaucratic boosting stuff than he can open or can possibly print. There is one of the great Government extravaganzas, my friends."

RAINEY. "Will the gentleman state what the newspaper advertising agency will get out of it?"

JOHNSON of Washington. "Not one agency alone but all of the national agencies. They will receive 5 to 7 per cent, for which they will render a great service. If the Secretary of the Treasury thinks that is too much, he can call in some man like John Wanamaker who knows what systematic advertising accomplishes, and authorize him to fix the agency rate at 2 per cent or 3 per cent, or whatever is absolutely fair for the cost and value of the work to be performed."

"Newspapers generally, Mr. Chairman, will resent the charge made on this floor that the proposal to pay them a mere fraction of what they will earn is in the nature of a gift or gratuity. There is no robbery in the plan, there is no gift, and there is no graft. It is simply an attempt to do justice to the newspapers." [Applause.]

KITCHIN. "Mr. Chairman, I must express surprise that this proposition of the gentleman from Washington is taken seriously by any considerable portion of the membership of this House. I want to ask every man here, to answer himself, this question: If you vote for the amendment of the gentleman from Washington, are you really, in your opinion, voting for the interests of the Government and in the interest of the sale of these bonds, or are you voting in your own interest to please the newspapers in your section or in your district?"

KETTNER. "Will the gentleman permit me to answer?"

KITCHIN. "No; I said you could answer it yourself and not aloud. Now, gentleman, I want to ask another question: Why not put in an amount here for the telegraph companies? Why not include $500,000 for sending telegrams about these bonds?"

JOHNSON of Washington. "Be-

THE ST. LOUIS WESTLICHE POST

reaches the GERMAN reading and speaking population of St. Louis as no other medium can.

THE ONLY POLISH DAILY IN NEW ENGLAND

Kurier Bostonski

27 Beverly st., BOSTON, MASS.
reaches 600,000 Poles in New England. They want to buy your goods

Use Kurier Bostonski.

cause they receive a Government rate."

KITCHIN. "Why does not some good friend of the railroads put in a provision including passenger fares made necessary by the sale of the bonds? Why does not some man that is a friend to the ink manufacturers and the paper manufacturers ask us to put in a separate sum for paper and ink?"

"Why, gentlemen, the Treasury Department must sell these bonds. It has had experience in selling bonds. The responsibility is on Mr. McAdoo and his assistants to sell these bonds and not upon us. Why do you want to specify how he shall proceed to sell the bonds?"

LONGWORTH. "It has been suggested by a number of gentlemen, and by the gentleman from Oklahoma a moment ago, that the Secretary advocated this proposition before the committee."

KITCHIN. "Oh, no."

LONGWORTH. "May I be permitted to read one sentence from the statement of the Secretary of the Treasury?"

KITCHIN. "Yes; to show that he did not advocate it."

LONGWORTH. "I am reading from page 38. The Secretary of the Treasury says:

"Some of the advertising clubs of the United States, which rendered very patriotic and effective service in the last campaign for liberty bonds, have been urging upon my attention a scheme for paid advertising. I have made no commitment about it. On the contrary, my general feeling has been that it was too expensive an operation for the Government to engage in, and I have said so to them frankly."

"And yet a gentleman sitting on the floor not far from me has told me that within the last two or three days a representative of this organization came into his office and said that he came there with the acquiescence of the Secretary."

MOORE of Pennsylvania. "I want to suggest that the Secretary further said:

"If we should engage in advertising we should have to advertise in every paper in the United States. You cannot discriminate against the newspapers. It would have to have universal application."

KITCHIN. "Yes; you will see

MONTREAL LA PRESSE

is CANADA'S largest and wealthiest city—sixth in America in population; fourth largest French city in the world—and a wonderfully fine market for all kinds of advertised goods.

is Canada's largest circulating daily—over 145,000 and still growing—and it thoroughly covers Montreal's population, which is over 700,000, and of which 70 per cent is French Canadian element. Get particulars

WM. J. MORTON CO., Special Reps.
NEW YORK, Fifth Ave. Building.
CHICAGO, Tribune Building.
LONDON, ENG., 10 Sicilian Avenue
Southampton Row.
PARIS, 8 rue du Rocher.

THE JEWISH MORNING JOURNAL NEW YORK CITY

carries more advertising than any other Jewish newspaper. Circulation in New York City largest of all foreign language newspapers.

Member A. B. C.

that he could not do it. The Secretary further says:

"The Government cannot say that it thinks one newspaper is a good advertising medium and another one is a bad one, or that another one is so poor that it is not worth using. Therefore, if we engage upon an advertising campaign at all, it has got to be a very extensive one, and it would be a very expensive one at the same time."

"Certainly, it would take millions and millions of dollars to engage in such an extensive campaign of advertising in all of the newspapers throughout the United States. If he advertised in one and not in another he would discriminate, and one man would object because he would say that his paper was as good as he other. The Secretary of the Treasury knows, as every business man here knows, and every man inside and outside of the House knows, that he can utilize the money that you want to expend on the newspapers to a better advantage in putting before the people the advantages of these bonds and certificates."

"Gentlemen, we have sold bonds in this country for the last 50 or 60 years, and never before was it ever hinted at by any man in this House or in this Capitol that you should put in an authority to pay newspapers for advertising or pay anybody for advertising. It has always been left to the discretion of the Secretary of the Treasury at all times to use the methods he deemed best."

"The Secretary of the Treasury has had experience in selling bonds. He knows the best methods to use to promote the interest of the Government in the sale of these bonds."

"Now, let me say one thing about the little country newspaper. Why, there is not one little country newspaper with its county circulation, and the most of them are limited to county circulation, that would have the audacity to ask this Government to pay for its advertising a Liberty Loan through the newspapers when it knows that the Government is giving free transportation and delivery of their papers in the county to all subscribers at the cost of millions of dollars to the Government. [Applause.]

"I have in my district about as many country newspapers as most

NEW YORK THE DAY

America's Greatest
Jewish Community

America's Foremost
Jewish Daily

Reaches the cream of purchasing power of the Jewish element in America.
CIRCULATION OVER 70,000
Despite advance in price from one to two cents.

THE DAY

The National Jewish Daily.

Member A. B. C.

Main Publication Office:
188 East Broadway, NEW YORK

NARODNI List

Briacoe Motor Corp. of Jackson, Mich., has just placed 19,860 square lines of Briacoe advertising in the Narodni List. This is the best proof that the Narodni List is one of the best advertising mediums in the foreign languages for National advertisers.

Ideal Newspaper for National Advertisers
Phone 1989 Beckman
61 Park Row, NEW YORK

The Only ITALIAN Daily Newspaper in New England.

Published Daily and Sunday.

La Notizia—The News

32-34 Battery St. BOSTON
consolidated with La Tribuna del Popolo and Il Messaggero di Worcester.

100,000 Italians in Boston.
300,000 Italians in Massachusetts.
1,000,000 Italians in New England.

any other man has in his district, and there is not one that has ever intimated to me by letter or otherwise that the Government ought to pay for advertisements in it."

MEEKER. "If that were granted, and advertisements sold, the editor would have to put 'Adv.' after it, would he not?"

KITCHIN. "Surely."

MORGAN. "Mr. Chairman, I think gentlemen ought not to misrepresent the Secretary. Two gentlemen have left out a part of what he said. Let me read what the Secretary said:

"On the other hand, I have said I should be glad if they would give me full estimates, with specifications in each instance, as to what it would cost to make the minimum advertising campaign they have in their minds, and what it would cost for a moderate-sized campaign, and what it would cost for a maximum campaign."

KITCHIN. "Oh, the Secretary is smart enough to know that when they made their estimates for an extensive campaign it will take practically all of the money that we would allow him to sell these bonds, and he wanted to find out from them what they thought would be the cost of a moderate campaign. He is against it, and he told them so."

The question was taken; and on a division (demanded by Mr. Johnson of Washington) there were Ayes 27, Nays 108.

So the amendment was rejected.

NEW A.N.P.A. MEMBERS

The Wichita Falls (Tex.) Morning Tribune has been elected to active membership in the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, and the Charlotte (N. C.) News and the Pittsfield (Mass.) Berkshire Evening Eagle to associate membership.

The Albion (Neb.) Argus is under the management of George M. Gaskill Five thousand grocers are supplying nearly two-million consumers with Food Products in Philadelphia

The Third Largest Market in the United States

DOMINATE Philadelphia! Create maximum impression on both dealers and consumers at one cost by concentrating in the Dominant
Newspaper—The Bulletin.

“Nearly everybody” in and around Philadelphia reads The Bulletin—practically 100% of the entire potential market.

Net paid average two-cent circulation for August, 1917

351,976 COPIES
A DAY

The Largest Two-Cent Circulation in the East

PHILADELPHIA BULLETIN

WILLIAM L. McLEAN, Publisher

DAN A. CARROLL
NEW YORK, Tribune Building

J. E. VERREE
Steger Building, CHICAGO

PROTEST ON RED CROSS MAGAZINE.

IS MONEY BEING SQUANDERED THAT MIGHT BETTER BE SPENT OTHERWISE?

Herbert Myrick, president of the Phelps Publishing Company, Springfield, Mass., has sent the following letter to H. P. Davidson, Chairman of the American Red Cross, Washington, D. C.:

"Permit me hereby formally to protest against a continuance of your 'Red Cross Magazine.'

"Why squander upon it money so generously donated which is so much needed for other purposes?

"Why discourage co-operation of the press in the work of the Red Cross by exploiting the publishing business for the benefit of your treasury?

"Why add one more to the already over-production of magazines?

"Advertisers may easily be misled into thinking that if you solicit their business for the Red Cross Magazine, it is equivalent to a demand or obligation on their part: so their money they pay you for advertising they will take away from their advertising contracts in regularly established periodicals.

"I can speak for the publishing business from a disinterested standpoint, as I am not interested in any magazine other than agricultural periodicals.

"In these times when the publishers are harassed beyond all other manufacturers by increasing costs, higher postage and legislative interference, at a time when more than ever the country needs the co-operation and support of the legitimate press, is not a favorable time for organizations like the Red Cross to unfairly increase competition in a manner for which they have no excuse."

POPE SUPPRESSES PAPER.

After the publication of the Pope's peace proposals the Roman Catholic newspaper, Courriere Fuli, printed an article in which Italian soldiers were advised that they were freed from the oath of allegiance, and urged to throw down their arms. The paper is published in Rome.

The paper was suspended for fifteen days, and its editor, a priest, and the manager were interned. When Pope Benedict was informed of the incident he ordered that the paper be suppressed permanently.

If You Entertain

you will now and then need the services of professional entertainers—or it may happen you will find yourself upon the entertainment committee appointed by your lodge, club, bunch or society, in which event a dollar ad stating your requirements if inserted in

The BILLBOARD

will place you in touch with hundreds of humorists, musicians, vocalists, magicians, etc., etc., or if you do not feel competent to choose, with agents who purvey entertainment.

Weekly. Forms close at 12 noon Mondays.

The Billboard Publishing Co.

Broadway and 42d St. NEW YORK
Chicago, St. Louis Cincinnati and San Francisco

(Member A. B. C.)

BIGGER JOB FOR LUESCHER.

Mark A. Luescher, one of the best known press agents in America, has been advanced to general representative by Charles Dillingham at the New York Hippodrome, where during the past two seasons Mr. Luescher has been getting remarkable results as moving spirit of the publicity department.

While he is widely known as a press agent through activities which date back to the time when "La Domino Rouge" surprised and puzzled Broadway, Mr. Luescher has also established himself as an executive.

It was at the Herald Square Theatre, that he came to Broadway from Rochester, N. Y., to represent that young firm in its first New York venture, and those who chronicle the history of metropolitan theatricals credit Mr. Luescher with much of the early success and popularity of the Shubert trademark at the very foundation of that interesting and now potent theatrical firm's career.

MARK A. LUESCHER.

Within a few years Mr. Luescher attracted the attention of A. L. Erlanger, head of the theatrical syndicate, who selected him as manager of the New Amsterdam Theatre. It was Mr. Luescher who applied the slogan the "house beautiful" to that magnificent edifice.

Mr. Luescher later formed an association with Louis F. Werba, the nephew of Mr. Erlanger, which led to the formation of the firm of Werba & Luescher and the exploitation to renown and stardom of Elsie Janis, Mizzi Hajos, Alice Lloyd, Mlle. Dazie, Tom McNaughton and Christie MacDonald.

During Mr. Luescher's regime at the New Amsterdam, by the way, the late William Winter spoke of him as "the manager affable of the house beautiful"—a sobriquet which was often repeated and which this amiable and popular young manager says he is always trying to live up to.

CO-OPERATION IN DELIVERY.

ECONOMICAL, BUT DECREASES BENEFICIAL EFFECTS OF COMPETITION.

By C. F. HOSLEY.

Circulation Manager, New Haven (Ct.) Register.

Would a Consolidated Delivery Service in Any City be Practical and Would It Further Help Worth While Economy?

This is a topic which is open to considerable argument, because the conditions which exist in New Haven may be vastly different from those of other cities.

Insofar as my experience with the circulation of newspapers in other cities is concerned, it has been somewhat limited. However, I believe that a rule which works well with one newspaper in New England will work well with another. You note I say New England.

I am greatly opposed to a consolidated delivery, as I had given this subject careful investigation some months ago. At that time it was generally agreed upon by the circulation managers of the Union and Leader and myself that it was not practical, however economical.

There is no doubt that from an economical standpoint it would prove quite efficient. Undoubtedly an arrangement could be made whereby each newspaper could save between 25 per cent. and 40 per cent. of its delivery expense.

However economical it may be, it is circulation we are striving for primarily. That being the case, then we must look at it from that standpoint.

In the first place not one of the three evening papers goes to press at the same time, there being a variation from 20 to 40 minutes in the regular starting time. The Leader starts first, as it has considerable circulation in distant towns (where the Union and Register do not circulate) and finds it necessary to connect with earlier trains.

Owing to mechanical difficulties it is impossible for the remaining papers to start at the same time every day. This means that two papers must wait for the belated paper, which results in loss of sales by all.

That service and prompt delivery are important factors in increasing circulation is acknowledged by all.

Of course we all have sympathy for the unfortunate, but sympathy does not get circulation in these days of close competition. Sometimes the delays are due to gross negligence on the part of the advertiser and composing room, which a well-organized paper should not suffer.

On the other hand, in case a paper has a "beat" and is anxious to get out earlier than usual, what is the result? It is held back until the others are ready. Furthermore, what is to prevent the competitors from holding back the paper that has the story, until they can make over.

The result is that they all have the story and nothing gained for the wide-awake paper. Otherwise the paper with the beat might have been on the stands, say from 20 to 40 minutes before the competitors could make over and distribute.

Time in delivery is also to be taken into consideration. As it is now, the papers for a certain route are given out and the delivery man starts directly to deliver, whereas, if he were working on a consolidation basis, he would have to call at each mailing room for his allotment. This means that anywhere from 10 to 30 minutes would be wasted in getting the balance of his papers, under favorable conditions. In brief, it slows up the service and the public is kept waiting.

I am sure that on these facts it will be generally agreed that it is not a desirous proposition for an evening paper. However, it can be worked well with a morning combination, where time is not so limited and such an important factor.

MRS. MCGILL SOCIETY EDITOR OF NORTH AMERICAN.

Mrs. Alice E. McGill, for more than six years society editor of the Philadelphia Press, has just joined the staff of the Philadelphia North American to take up the same line of work. Besides having been in charge of the Press society department, Mrs. McGill was a contributor to the Sunday magazine of the same publication and was the originator of a series of illustrated articles on the country estates in the vicinity of Philadelphia, which attracted wide interest.

MRS. ALICE E. MCGILL.

Mrs. McGill has been the Philadelphia correspondent of the Spur for a number of years and has also done considerable publicity work of a social nature.

Under Mrs. McGill's direction the North American will inaugurate a daily as well as a Sunday society department.

PAPER A GIFT.

James Walsh, editor and owner of the Columbus (Ohio) Athletic Club Journal, has presented the Journal to the club and has given up the editorship. He is now promotion man and sales manager of the Phelps Factories Company of Columbus.

Service Flags

PUBLISHERS—Place your order now for SERVICE FLAGS and announce to the world the number of employees you have given to the Government service. This flag shows a star for every member of a family or firm in the service of Uncle Sam. Flags furnished with any number of stars without extra charge. Can supply cotton bunting, Samson bunting or Standard wool bunting at very low prices. Write today for samples and prices.

S. BLAKE WILLSDEN
29 E. Madison St., CHICAGO.

China Premiums ARE THE BEST!

Distinctive Service in Many Sizes
Write for Samples.

The Limoges China Co.
SEBRING, OHIO

STENCIL SYSTEM HOLDS READERS.

PROMPT DELIVERY AIDED AND "STOPS" QUICKLY CHECKED
—OTHER GOOD RESULTS.

By EARL W. VAN DEUSEN,
Circulation Manager, Schenectady
(N. Y.) Gazette.

Mr. Van Deusen has been with the Gazette eight years and is well qualified to speak on this subject, having had complete charge of the work since its inauguration on the Gazette. Mr. Van Deusen is a charter member of the New York State Circulation Managers Association.

The problem of why mail and express trains are "missed" and how to overcome this weekly, if not daily, occurrence has long been the chief problem confronting the circulation managers.

On the Gazette we have practically eliminated this problem in so far as the circulation or mailing departments are concerned by the introduction of the Elliott system.

Truly, a "miss" will occasionally occur because of a press hold-up, to get in a bit of late or ultra important news, or in case of press troubles, but this can never be entirely overcome.

The general construction of the addressing machine is well known, and all know that the addressing is done by means of stencils.

The stencils are cut daily for new subscribers, and the dates are changed daily on the renewal stencils. For convenience we reverse the dates in cutting, thus: January 26, 1918, is cut 18-26-1. If this is renewed for four months, the one is blotted out by cutting over it with the letter W, and a 5 is cut adjoining it.

The renewed date looks like this 18-26-W5. After cutting and changing the stencils each day the wrappers are run for the following day.

Nine by twelve-inch wrappers are used for single copies and as the stencils are all arranged in trays accordingly to dispatch from the mail room, the wrappers are all in order when completed.

When the mailing force appears

The True News

FIRST

Always—Accurately

INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE

10th Floor, World Bldg. NEW YORK

I Get the Money!

J. A. McAVOY

Special Editions
Weekly Review Pages
Cartoon Books

Nat'l Exch. Bk. Bldg.
PROVIDENCE, R. I.

in the morning, the wrappers are on boards, so constructed that they do not have to be laid out, ready for wrapping.

When the press starts, a boy wraps on each board, and three boys on the singles together with those on bundles are able to keep up with the press without any great effort.

EARL W. VAN DEUSEN.

When the press-run is completed, the bundles and singles are all on their way to their respective destinations. The secret of the matter lies in the fact that no addressing has to be done on the individual papers during the run. The papers receive better handling in the post office, being single-wrapped, and the subscriber is better pleased in receiving his paper in its individual wrapper—on time.

The Gazette's mail list is entirely paid-in-advance and this system helps greatly in keeping it so. On Saturday each week the stencils are looked over and all those which ex-

KEEN PUBLISHERS Everywhere Are Buying Electric BulletinMachines

They have written us letters giving their opinions. They make interesting reading. We wish we could send them to you complete. Some of the letters are in our New Illustrated Catalogue. Why not let us send you One?

National Electric Bulletin Corporation.
NEW LONDON, CONN.

Act quickly if you want the Tin Can Garage
as lots of orders are coming in for Hop's new daily comic.

The International Syndicate
Established 1899. BALTIMORE, MD.

pire during the following week are pulled out and segregated in a separate tray.

Renewal cards and return envelopes are mailed to each of these subscribers from the stencils. As they renew the stencils are redated and placed back in the regular trays and all remaining in the renewal tray on Saturday are stopped.

These are not thrown away at the time, but are held in reserve and literature is sent them from time to time.

Although there are always a few stops, we find that they fall in line within a short period, and with the new subscriptions which we constantly receive, the list is kept on a 100 per cent basis.

SOLDIER CIRCULATION.

In order to bring home the need of subscribing for papers for "our soldier boys" the Gazette is running timely copy with appropriate cuts to draw the local subscriber's attention to the subject.

The results have been all that could be asked for.

NEWS NOTES OF CIRCULATORS.

The Philadelphia Public Ledger is running a daily department, called "Public Ledger Old Folks." Cuts and brief biographical sketches of long-time readers of the Ledger are used.

W. Perlits of the Houston (Tex.) Chronicle carrier staff has been presented with a gold watch by the Chronicle company for excellent work and a good record.

The Johnstown (Pa.) Leader has just started a subscription contest, using four automobiles and various other prizes. The campaign is under the management of the Morton Ross Company.

The Des Moines Register and Tribune has a system of investigating all complaints of delivery delays on the part of carriers. Immediately upon receipt of a complaint it is taken up with the railway mail service or the express company and with every person who handled the papers from the

The only journal outside of the United States published in the interest of newspaper men.

THE 30 pages Weekly NEWSPAPER WORLD

Annual Postal Subscription
Everywhere $2.40.
(Established 1898)

Specimen Copy Sent Free
Address: 14 Cross Street
FINSBURY, LONDON, ENG.

NEWSPAPER FEATURE SERVICE

"The CIRCULATION Builders"
37 West 39th Street, NEW YORK

time they left the mail room until their delivery to the carrier. The investigation also shows whether the carrier received the papers subsequent to his complaint and the cause of the delay.

The New Philadelphia (O.) Times will close a subscription contest on September 25. It is being directed by the Morton Ross Company.

The Canal Dover (Ohio) Reporter closed a subscription contest on September 8, which, the Morton Ross Company reports, increased the circulation 42 per cent.

J. V. Simms has become circulation manager of the Charlotte (N. C.) News, the paper for which he did his first work, serving for six years in the same position he now occupies. Since then he has been publisher and part owner for four years of the Raleigh (N. C.) Times, and for an equal period general manager of the Charlotte (N. C.) Observer.

The Booklovers Picture Corporation, of New York City, was incorporated in New York State this week with $1,000 capital stock, by Gustave C. Dreyfus, Raymond S. Harris and Charles S. Gosling.

The New York Evening Mail is giving tickets for Loew Theaters with insertions of want ads.

Thomas P. Myers of the Myers Circulation company has returned from a two months' fishing trip in Idaho.

SCHUSTER WITH U.P.

M. Lincoln Schuster, who graduated from the Pulitzer School of Journalism last June, is now on the Washington staff of the United Press. He has been in Washington for the past four months, the first three of which were spent with the New Republic News Service, a feature syndicate which suspended business about two weeks ago.

Mr. Schuster is also doing feature work on the side and is now awaiting publication of some of his writings in World's Work and Everybody's.

I. C. M. A. ROUTES TO ATLANTA.

RAIL AND WATER SCHEDULES, WITH INDIVIDUAL AND PARTY FARES.

By JAMES MCKERNAN,
Circulation Manager, New York
World and Chairman I. C. M. A.
Transportation Committee.

The date for the I.C.M.A. convention is settled, President Schmid and the board of directors having decided to follow the choice of the majority of the members who attended our last convention in Grand Rapids. The convention will be held in the city originally chosen, Atlanta, headquarters at Piedmont Hotel. The dates are October 9, 10 and 11.

All well regulated newspapers offices have now adjusted themselves to the conditions which caused the postponement of the convention in June. The only thing that may bother some of our members is the fact that the post season baseball games are held in the early part of October. This, however, should not affect the attendance.

It is a poorly run department whose head cannot absent himself for a few days without injuring the interest of the paper he represents, especially when there is so much information and knowledge to be gained by attending the I. C. M. A. meeting.

Arrangements for the transportation of I. C. M. A. members had to be changed on account of the new dates. The original itinerary called for a sailing on the Savannah Line, but at present there is no boat scheduled to leave New York on this line, that would come any where near accommodating our members.

The last information received from the Eastern passenger agent of the Savannah Line, is to the effect that in all probability there will be a revised list of sailings for October. It is likely there will be a sailing on October 4, which will bring the members into Savannah October 7. This would give the members from 6 a. m. until 8 p. m. Sunday, or Monday night; according to whether they prefer to spend one or two days in Savannah. The train from Savannah leaves at 8 p. m. and arrives in Atlanta, at 6.25 the following morning.

With the exception of the board of directors (who must be in Atlanta on October 8) members taking the Monday night train from Savannah will arrive in Atlanta on Tuesday, October 9 in plenty of time for the Extra Money to Help Pay High Paper Bills.

I have a few dates open for EXTRA NEWSPAPER EDITIONS. My twenty years business management of newspapers, two years among best papers in this business, insures the publisher a square deal, a good advertisement, a good bunch of money from sources you never have any revenue from.

I guarantee you absolute satisfaction. Will be glad to forward all the testimonials from publishers you want.

Temporary Address:

C. L. SLOUGH,
Care Sandusky (O.) Register.
Permanent, 1466 Lauderdale Avenue
LAKEWOOD, CLEVELAND, O.

WHERE THE I. C. M. A. WILL MEET IN ATLANTA.
THE PIEDMONT HOTEL, OF WHICH WILLIAM C. ROYER IS MANAGER.

convention. If the sailings are scheduled as expected, delegates choosing this route will leave New York Thursday, October 4 at 3 p. m., arriving in Savannah Sunday October 7 at 6 a. m.

It is proposed to stop at the De Sota Hotel in Savannah, which is under the management of Mr. Phoenix, who took such good care of our members at the convention held in Murray Bay, Canada. Members can spend one or two days as they see fit, sight-seeing in and around Savannah and take the night train leaving at 8 p. m. arriving in Atlanta the following morning.

The Clyde Line has a sailing from New York on October 5 at noon, arriving in Charleston October 7 early in the afternoon.

The train leaves Charleston for Atlanta at 5.15 p. m. and arrives in Atlanta the following day at 6.10 a. m.

The fare is the same on either the Savannah or Clyde Lines.

First-Class one-way $21.95.

First-Class excursion $39.50.

The committee figures, as is the case in all conventions, as soon as the business is over members will want to return by the quickest route. Arrangements for train or boat schedules for return trip can easily be made after they arrive in Atlanta.

The following are the best train schedules from New York to Atlanta:

Birmingham Special, Southern Railway, leaving Pennsylvania Station at 11.08 a. m., arriving in Atlanta at 2 p. m., central time, the following day.

New York & New Orleans Limited, leaving New York at 4.35 p. m., arriving at Atlanta at 5.30 p. m., central time, the following day.

Seaboard Air Line, leaving New York at 3.34 p. m., arriving at Atlanta at 5.15 p. m., central time, the following day.

The best schedule from Chicago and the West follows:

Leaving Chicago (P. R. R.) 9.20 p. m.

Arriving at Cincinnati (P. R. R.) 7.12 a. m. the following day.

Leave Cincinnati (L. & N.) 8 a. m. the same day.

Arriving at Atlanta (L. & N.) 9.55 p. m. the same day.

Attention is called to the special rate on railroads and steamship lines for 10 or more traveling together. The steamship and railroad rate are both the same from New York City, the only difference being that the fare on the boat includes meals and stateroom. As far as expense is concerned there is very little choice between the two modes of traveling; those who go by boat would have one or two days additional hotel expense in Savannah. A boat trip is popular on account of giving the members an opportunity to get together to discuss important matters previous to the convention.

The boat is also preferred by many as the most pleasant way of traveling. I do not think that a boat trip along the coast will have any particular danger on account of the war, as suggested in our July number of the Official Bulletin.

To sum the matter up, those member who can leave on Thursday may take a pleasant trip by boat; members pressed for time will of course prefer to go by rail route from New York as they will not have to leave New York until Sunday afternoon. It takes from 24 to 26 hours by train, therefore, members must leave New York not later than Sunday to be in Atlanta in time for the opening of the convention Tuesday morning.

Members from the West of course will travel by train.

As suggested in the March number of our official Bulletin, our Western members who utilize the Big Four Railroad should assemble in Cincinnati and from that point travel either by the special rate for 10 or more, or by special train, if 100 members can be gotten together.

Members who desire to go via Cincinnati should advise President John Schmid, so that he can make the proper arrangements. In order to be in Atlanta at the opening of the convention, members must leave Cincinnati on October 8, not later than 8 a. m.

It is immaterial which railroad the members travel by, as far as the fare is concerned, the rate being about the same on all railroads.

The following are the railroad rates from the principal points:

	One-Way Individual.	One-Way Party 10 or More.
Boston	$25.95.	$32.70
New York	21.95.	18.34
Philadelphia	19.70.	16.31
Baltimore	17.30.	14.15
Washington	16.30.	13.25
Chicago	17.95.	15.05
Detroit	18.29.	15.66
Cincinnati	11.92.	9.80
Louisville	11.22.	9.00
St. Louis	15.79.	12.80
Pitts'bg (via Wash)	20.38 (via Wash)	17.70
Pitts'bg (via Cin)	18.60 (via Cin)	16.10
Buffalo	21.50.	18.40

MORE PROSPERITY.

William L. Betts, circulation and contest specialist, New York, has just returned from a long trip and reports business good.

Complete BOOKLOVER'S PICTUREGAME
SUITABLE FOR NEWSPAPERS OF LARGE OR SMALL CIRCULATION.
$350.00

which includes everything—2,000 Competition Booklets—complete copy service—maps of all 48 pictures—expert supervision throughout.

An original feature that will wake up every department of the newspaper—and make a profit. Possible only through the originators in this field.

The Booklovers Sales Co.
Incorporated
110 West 40th St., New York City
SEND FOR THE DETAILS.

ZOBIAN AGENCY SUSPENDS.

ITS HEAD'S STATEMENT TO CREDITORS—HOPES TO SETTLE IN FULL.

The James Zobian Company, general advertising agency at 225 Fifth avenue, New York, has discontinued business with the following explanation by James Zobian, given to THE FOURTH ESTATE on September 13:

"Owing to a series of unfortunate events which occurred in my business in the last twelve months, such as business disappointments and cancellations of contracts caused by the war, bad debts, illness, death, etc., I find it advisable to discontinue my advertising agency.

"I have just accepted an offer to go into the export business in connection with a young New York concern of high standing.

"In the matter of my indebtedness, I am sorry to say that I am unable to make any payment at present, in spite of every effort I have exerted to do so. But the chief purpose of this statement is to inform and assure that I have no intention or desire to make any settlement whatever except paying one hundred cents for every dollar I owe.

"All I ask of my creditors is a reasonable length of time in which to pay.

"At this writing it is impossible for me to make a definite promise as to the time when I expect to be able to settle my accounts. However, I hardly need tell you of the excellent opportunities before me in my new venture. You know as well as I the remarkable growth of the export business in the last two years and its much more brilliant future which will inevitably come in the next few years. In view of these facts, coupled with my thorough knowledge of, and experience in, the foreign trade, I feel confident of my liberal share of the prosperity that is bound to come to this country through the export channels.

"I have some equity in certain suburban real estate. This property is recorded in my name. It will stay in my name. But, unfortunately, its value has depreciated during the war to such an extent, like most other real estate, that not only there is no demand for it at present, but even the highest price that might possibly be obtained for it would hardly cover mortgage, taxes, interest, etc.

"Until a few months ago, when I was successful, I always had the reputation of meeting my obligations with the utmost accuracy and promptness; and the same will again be my reputation in the near future. The American Newspaper Publishers Association is well aware of this fact, as my principal dealings have been with newspaper publishers throughout the United States and Canada.

"Under the circumstances, I trust creditors will give the matter the only wise and logical consideration it deserves and will refrain from taking any action which could only result in waste of time and money and which could not be of any benefit to anybody except lawyers and courts. The only other possible result of such action would be a strain which would naturally hinder my new activities and consequently cause a further unnecessary delay in the payment of their claims.

"I expect to be very busy in the next few months, but I shall be glad to see creditors for any further information or necessary conference that they may desire to have. Mail will always reach me at my home in Hartsdale, N. Y."

NEWS OF THE AD AGENCIES.

Guy Patton, well known in the newspaper and magazine advertising field, has become associated with the Martin V. Kelley Company of New York and Toledo, to engage in special research work.

George D. Lee, head of the George D. Lee Agency of Portland, Ore., has become a member of the Lion Clothing Company of Portland, in charge of the advertising and sales departments. The Lee agency will be succeeded by the Provost-Staehli Company, under the management of Miss Florence Provost and Ralph S. Staehli, formerly of the Lee agency.

Fred H. Cone of the Cone Advertising Agency, New York, has bought the California bungalow on Edgecliff Terrace, Park Hill, Yonkers, N. Y. This was one of the first California bungalows to be erected in the East. The exterior is constructed of California redwood, imported especially for the purpose.

Willard N. Record, general manager of the Chicago office of Albert Frank & Co., advertising agency, has been appointed secretary of the Federal Reserve Bank's publicity committee, for the forthcoming Liberty Loan.

Frank James Rascovar, president of Albert Frank & Co., has been appointed chairman of the executive committee to represent the advertising agents of New York City in the "Day's Pay Campaign" now being organized by the New York County Chapter of the American Red Cross. Mr. Rascovar has appointed the following advertising men to the committee:

Stanley Resor, president of J. Walter Thompson Company; Robert Tinsman, president of the Federal Advertising Agency; H. H. Douglas, president of the Morse International Agency; Wendell P. Colton, president of the Wendell P. Colton Advertising Agency; Joseph A. Hanff, president of the Hanff-Metzger Agency.

The committee has been formally organized and is among the first of the subsidiary committees of the Local Red Cross to get into shape for business.

R. N. Inglis of the Williams & Cunningham Advertising Agency, Chicago, is on his vacation.

The Harry Stephens Company, Union Central Building, Cincinnati, Ohio, is the successor to the Advertisers Service Company at the same address, of which Harry Stephens was president and principal stockholder.

The Powers-House Company, Cleveland, has added A. C. Green and Edward T. Conrad to its staff. Mr. Green was formerly assistant advertising manager of the Republic Rubber Company, Youngstown, O., and Mr. Conrad was advertising manager of the McClaskey Register Company, Alliance, O.

The J. Roland Kay Agency, Chicago, has appointed Henry Jay Stephens, late of the Smith Motor Truck Corporation, to its staff.

Fred H. Gillespie has been added to the copy staff of the Erwin & Wasey Company, Chicago. He comes from the Sales Service Company.

Carl Spier is a new member of the staff of the Batten Agency, New York.

AD FOLKS' NEWS.

The Junior Advertising Association of Chicago has set September 25 as the date of its opening meeting of the winter season. Plans will be discussed and ideas which have been maturing during the summer will be presented for approval. Among them are educational talks by leading advertising experts and a public speaking class, to be open to all members of the association. The groundwork for the club's program this year will be the textbook "Advertising: Its Principles and Practice."

J. D. Chappell has resigned as assistant advertising manager of the Delaval Separator Company, New York, and on October 1 will take charge of the department of promotion and exploitation for the Winchester Arms Company, New Haven.

The first general meeting under the auspices of the new president and his executive committee of the Omaha Ad Club will be a "Made-in-Omaha" dinner to be held at the Blackstone on September 20.

Advertising men in leading American cities may organize to help the government to detect movements or propaganda harmful to the prosecution of war at the suggestion of Charles S. Anderson, president of the Columbus (Ohio) Advertising Club of the Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Anderson's idea, forwarded to national officers of the Associated Advertising Clubs, favors enlisting the ad fraternity in an organization to co-operate with the federal government.

"Advertising men are familiar with business dealings and are often able to detect malicious schemes in their world, designed to thwart the carrying on of war," Mr. Anderson says.

"Advertising clubs, organized on an associated basis, could, by means of their own co-operation, help the government, and receive suggestions from it that might produce big results.

"Thus many men who are not qualified to join the military could do their bit in a 'help to win the war' movement."

Dr. C. F. Reisner, New York's foremost advertising clergyman, addressed the members of the Kansas City Ad Club last week on the importance of church advertising. "I believe in church publicity to put the church on the map," Dr. Reisner told his hearers.

James A. Dummett of the San Francisco Advertising Club is beginning a tour of the United States for the purpose of encouraging attendance at the Associated Ad Clubs' meeting in San Francisco next year.

The Shreveport (La.) Ad Club has just finished a successful campaign for the benefit of the anti-tuberculosis movement in Shreveport. $1,018 was raised for the fund.

H. P. Lowell, late with the copy staff of the William Rankin Advertising Agency, Chicago, has become advertising manager of the M. O'Neil Company, Akron, O., succeeding W. H. Corcoran, who becomes merchandise manager.

Robert T. Walsh, advertising manager of the Briscoe Motor Corporation, Jackson, Mich., has resigned to become associated with the Robert Smith Printing Company, Lansing, Mich.

"Advertising" has been incorporated into the extension course of the University of California.

Samuel P. Johnston, president of the San Francisco Ad Club, spoke at the first lecture this week. These lectures are open to the public, under the same conditions as other university extension classes.

Joseph R. Bolton has become advertising director of the Royal Typewriter Company, New York, succeeding John J. Cuddy, who has joined the H. K. McCann Company. Mr. Bolton has been with the Royal Company for several months, doing special direct-by-mail work, which

TO MANUFACTURERS:

If the links between the making of your product, your sales department, your advertising, your distributing channels and the consumer are not welded into one harmonious unit, your advertising cannot be made to produce its highest possible volume of returns. The Presbrey method has united these various branches in the case of many others. Why not learn wherein it can be made to earn for you? Your correspondence entails no obligation.

FRANK PRESBREY COMPANY

GENERAL ADVERTISING.
Makers of Commercial Booklets.
486 4th Av. (31st St.) NEW YORK

H. W. KASTOR & SONS ADVERTISING COMPANY

CHICAGO ST. LOUIS
An organization of merchandising men highly specialized in the solution of advertising problems.

G. LOGAN PAYNE CO.

SPECIAL REPRESENTATIVES
Fifth Avenue Building, NEW YORK
760 Marquette Building, CHICAGO
40 Bromfield St., BOSTON
Krege Building, DETROIT

VERREE & CONKLIN

PUBLISHERS' REPRESENTATIVES
255 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK
11 Lafayette Boulevard, DETROIT
28 E. Jackson Boulevard, CHICAGO

JOHN BUDD CO.
Representing Newspapers of
Burrell Bldg., NEW YORK
Tribune Bldg., CHICAGO
Chemical Bldg., ST. LOUIS

he will continue in connection with his new duties.

Previous to that he had been associated with the closing sale of the Encyclopedia Britannica. He was assistant advertising manager of the National Cloak & Suit Company for five years and for an equal period was advertising director of Perry, Dame & Co.

Being very much interested in the small town field in Ohio, the Cincinnati Advertisers Club on September 12 had Robert E. Ward of Chicago address the members on that subject. Mr. Ward's long association with the Ohio Select List has especially fitted him to discuss this topic and the information he gave was enthusiastically received.

R. E. Hall has assumed his duties as secretary of the Better Business Bureau of the Spokane Ad Club, succeeding W. G. Oves, who has become secretary of the industrial bureau of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce.

SPECIAL AGENCY CHANGES.

Beaumont (Tex.) Journal (Eastern representation)—from LaCoste & Maxwell, New York, to Putnam & Randall, 341 Fifth avenue, New York.
Oakland (Cal.) Enquirer (Eastern representation)—from Robert D. Ward to the William J. Morton Company, New York.

New York Commercial (Western representation)—from Henry DeClerque to Ryan & Inman, McCormick Building, Chicago.

NEW SPECIAL AGENCY APPOINTMENTS.

The Hannibal (Mo.) Journal has appointed Putnam & Randall, 341 5th avenue, N. Y., to represent it in the Eastern advertising field.

MICHIGAN PAPERS MERGE.

The Sturgis (Mich.) Journal has purchased the Times-Democrat, which will be consolidated with the Journal and published as an afternoon daily, beginning September 17. The Times-Democrat has been a daily paper and the Journal a bi-weekly. The consolidation adds Sturgis to the long list of Michigan cities that now have but one daily paper.

The Journal was founded in 1859. What the name of the new daily will be has not been determined, but it is probable that the choice of a name will be left to the readers of the two papers. The owner of the consolidated papers is Mark P. Haines, for the past two years owner of the Journal.

Going to France

in a few days as an accredited war correspondent. Can I serve you either with special cables, letter service or syndicate matter?

O. H. DOWNEY
Churubusco, Indiana

INTRODUCING AD FOLKS.

Frank A. Kapp, for several years a member of the advertising staff of Willys-Overland, Inc., is the new advertising manager of the Mitchell Motors Company, Inc., Racine, Wis.

FRANK A. KAPP.

Mr. Kapp's appointment has created considerable stir in the advertising world, as the youthful Toledoan is but thirty years of age. After graduating from the University of Michigan, he allied himself with the advertising department of Willys-Overland, Inc., holding various positions in that department.

As a member of the Toledo Advertising Club he played an important role in the development of that organization. He was also vice-president of the Central division of Associated Ad Clubs of the World.

NEW RECORD FOR WORLD.

On September 11 the New York World established a high-water mark in the number of separate paid advertisements printed in any one issue, beating its own record by over 1,000 advertisements, and incidentally establishing a new record for separate paid ads printed by any newspaper in the world.

On that day the World printed 8,737 single paid advertisements. Of that number 3,895 were "Male Help Wanted" and 2,778 "Female Help Wanted" ads. There were only 706 ads of men seeking situations and 237 of women.

These figures not only reflect the condition of the labor market at the present time, but, in view of the fact that the war has taken away about 10,000 men from various positions in New York for military service, it is interesting to note the big bid that employers are making to fill up the gaps in the ranks of their employees from among the readers of the New York World.

J. M. Miller has purchased the Burke (S. D.) Gazette.

BURLINGAME NEW PRESIDENT.

CHICAGO AD ASSOCIATION SPLITS TICKET IN LIVELY ELECTION MEETING.

Following one of the most spirited campaigns in its history, the Chicago Advertising Association at its annual election on September 10 chose the following officers:

President, C. H. Burlingame, advertising manager Morton Salt Company; first vice-president, Wilbur D. Nesbit, vice-president William H. Rankin Company; second vice-president, E. L. Virden, sales manager S. W. Straus & Co.; third vice-president, James A. Young, publishers' representative; recording secretary, Wallace F. Brown, manager Ankrum Mailing Service; financial secretary, John C. McClure, Christy Letters Company; treasurer, Robert J. Virtue, publishers' representative; directors, John A. Tenney, president Adams Publishing Company; Charles H. Stoddart, Western advertising director Munsey Publications; Sam J. Turnes, advertising manager, George P. Bent Company.

The officers chosen represent both tickets in the field, the majorities in most cases being small. President Burlingame won over his opponent, W. Frank McClure of the Redpath Chautauqua, by a margin of only four votes.

SCANDINAVIAN EDITORS IN ANNUAL MEETING.

The Norwegian-Danish Editorial Association's national convention at Fergus Falls, Minn., came to a successful close on September 9 after the election of officers.

A resolution was adopted endorsing woman suffrage, and copies will be sent to President Wilson and all Scandinavian Congressmen.

A committee of five was appointed to show foreign language newspapers are the only means of reaching directly the large number of foreign citizens and giving them American ideas and American ideals, and to prove each newspaper is free and independent.

The editors will have their meeting in Fergus Falls next year.

The following officers were elected: President, P. O. Thorson, re-elected, Grand Forks; first vice-president, T. Eggen, Minneapolis; second vice-president, N. T. Moon, Fergus Falls; secretary, J. P. Wist, Decorah, and treasurer, A. M. Sudheim, Minneapolis.

BAKER ON TOUR.

Charles R. Baker, advance manager of the San Carlo Grand Opera Company, will spend another week at the Forty-fourth Street Theater in New York before the company leaves for a road tour. The week of September 24 will be spent at Quebec and the following week in Montreal. From then on, the itinerary will be as follows:

Syracuse, N. Y., October 8, 9, 10; Rochester, N. Y., October 11, 12, 13; Cleveland, week of October 15; Pittsburgh, week of October 22; Buffalo, week of October 29, and Detroit, week of November 5.

TAKE IT TO POWERS!

"Fastest Engravers on Earth"

Open 24 hours out of 24
On Time All the Time

POWERS PHOTO ENGRAVING COMPANY
154 Nassau Street, NEW YORK
Telephone 4200 Beekman

Good Work
Prompt Service
Fair Prices

They tell the story of our 23 years of successful service.

And we want you to get into the habit to

"Phone the Manhattan Man for your Engraving"

MANHATTAN PHOTO ENGRAVING CO.

351-353 William Street NEW YORK
Phone, Worth 1657-8

STANLEY PROCESS
a quality not down to a price up made METAL

SYRACUSE SMELTING WORKS
BROOKLYN, N. Y. and CHICAGO, ILL.

For Particular Printing come to the
ALLIANCE PRESS
110-114 West 32d Street NEW YORK

A USEFUL BOOK.

"THE SOLDIERS' ENGLISH AND FRENCH CONVERSATION BOOK," compiled by Walter M. Gallichan; J. B. Lippincott Company, publisher.

This vestpocket book seems to be an indispensable aid to the American soldier. It contains hundreds of useful sentences and words, enabling the carrier to converse with French and Belgian allies. The correct pronunciation accompanies every translation. The sections contain a vocabulary of every-day words, useful phrases for landing, marching, train, camping, billeting, transport, action, convoy, aviation, trenches, purchasing, wounded, conversations, money, weights, etc.

Of the many works of this kind that have been published since it became apparent that the United States must enter into the war, this book is unquestionably the best. The compiler has sought carefully to include only those words and phrases likely to be of use to the soldier. This, for one reason, makes it quite different from the usual phrase books compiled for the holiday tourist.

Newspapers desiring to aid the soldiers, could do no better than to raise a fund among their readers to provide each soldier with one of these hand books. Or it undoubtedly be done by other means. Every soldier unquestionably should have one.

William D. Frawley has purchased the Omega (Sask.) Optic.

CALL FOR AD MEN TO AID ON LIBERTY BONDS.

HOPE NOT GONE FOR PAID CAMPAIGN
BY GOVERNMENT—NEWSPAPER
ADS CERTAIN, ANYWAY.

BY WILLIAM H. RANKIN,

Acting Chairman the National Advertising Advisory Board.

We have not yet been officially advised that there will be no advertising for the Liberty Loan. We know that the Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. McAdoo, favors paid advertising, provided the House and the Senate will give him funds.

Advertising sold on the "Chicago Plan" was so generally effective that each Federal Reserve Bank Board will either collect an advertising fund for newspaper advertising—as New York, Philadelphia and St. Louis did last time—or have patriotic business men pay for full-page space, as was so effectively done in Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Buffalo, Des Moines, Indianapolis, and hundreds of other cities.

Advertising men will meet the emergency this time, just as they did last time.

It is their patriotic duty to stand back of the Secretary of the Treasury and make advertising do its part to help sell the Liberty Bonds, just as the bankers are giving their services without stint.

One thing is certain—bankers, bond salesmen and business men realize the necessity for newspaper advertising and because of that no matter what happens there will be adequate newspaper advertising for the Liberty Bonds.

Here's the first call to advertising men to get into action on the Second Liberty Loan. It is directed to the president of each advertising club in the United States, and acceptances are coming in promptly:

The Second Liberty Loan has just about reached the stage where it is up to the advertising men to take their coats off and go to work again.

We want you to take the chairmanship in your city, to co-operate with the bankers in selling the bonds, and to advertise and secure publicity in the newspapers. Will you kindly let me have your acceptance of the appointment by return mail?

As you know, the National Advertising Advisory Board, with the active support of advertising and newspaper men all over the country, has been urging upon Secretary McAdoo the necessity for a paid advertising campaign to insure the success of the Second Liberty Loan.

A carefully thought out, well planned and adequate campaign has been placed in his hands by a committee of the board. I know he is thoroughly impressed with the power of such a campaign, as demonstrated in the last campaign. The one, big question is the expense. If Congress allows one-fifth of one per cent. for expenses, instead of one-tenth of one per cent., I believe a paid advertising campaign will result.

But, whether through a paid advertising campaign, or a volunteer campaign, the Second Liberty Loan must not fail: It must be even more of a success than the first. It is our great answer to the World War!

It is up to every one of us to stand behind President Wilson and Secretary McAdoo and make the Loan successful, thus answering the summons of our great President:

"I summon you to a great duty, a great privilege, a shining dignity and distinction. I shall expect every man who is not a slacker to be at my side throughout this great enterprise. In it no man can win honor who thinks of himself."

I know that advertising men will not fail to answer this call. And that spells success for the loan.

I shall be expecting your acceptance by return mail, and shall count heavily on your co-operation.

N. Y. TIMES AGAINST GOV'T ADVERTISING OF BONDS.

The New York Times declared to its readers editorially on September 13 that "paid advertising of the Liberty Loan Bonds would be both expensive and superfluous." The Times said:

"Representative Johnson of California offered in the House the other day an amendment to the bond bill providing that a sum not in excess of $2,500,000 shall be used for advertising in the daily and weekly papers and such other mediums of publication as the Secretary of the Treasury may direct."

"This was an amendment to the section of the bill providing for the payment of all necessary expenses, including rent, incident to the sale of the next issue of war bonds."

"In support of this amendment communications from publishers were read in the House, chiefly from publishers of newspapers published in California, the Southern California Associated Dailies, the Evening Index, the Fall Brook Enterprise, and the Lost Hills Gusher."

"To this and all proposals for advertising the war bonds Secretary McAdoo has made a sufficient answer in this explanation of the practical effect of a requirement that the Government shall promote the sale by paid advertising:

"A private enterprise may advertise in a selected number of mediums most useful for its purpose, and may control its expenditures for that purpose without any limitations except its own desires or ability to pay. If the Government engages in such a campaign it must advertise in every newspaper and periodical in America without discrimination; all must have equal treatment and should have equal merit. The cost of such an undertaking would be very great and would exceed the appropriation which Congress has thus far made available for the sale of Liberty Bonds."

"It is not going to be necessary to promote the sale of bonds by paid advertising."

Mr. McAdoo points out that the newspapers and press associations loyally and powerfully cooperated with the Government in the first Liberty Loan. They carried its message into every home in America and deserve great praise for their service of patriotism.

"In telling the people of the financial needs of the Government and the details of the bond issue they were printing news; in urging subscriptions to the loan they were performing a patriotic duty. The newspapers, says the Secretary of the Treasury, have the satisfaction of knowing that they contributed immeasurably to the success of the loan."

"Mr. McAdoo has not decided the question; that is for Congress if it chooses to take action."

"The Secretary says that the question is being carefully considered, but we assume that, unless otherwise directed by Congress, he will not embark upon the costly and unnecessary venture of advertising the next issue of bonds."

"The newspapers can be depended upon to render the same loyal and patriotic service in connection with the next issue that they rendered in helping the sale of the Liberty Bonds."

"Mr. McAdoo is right—paid advertising of the bonds would be both expensive and superfluous."

WRITER FILES SUIT.

Harry B. Wandell, former St. Louis newspaper man, has filed suit for $10,000 against N. D. Thompson, head of the N. D. Thompson Publishing Company of St. Louis. The litigation arises from a claim of the plaintiff that the publishing house refused to publish a book he had written regarding the James boys, Younger and Quantrell raiders.

COMMISSION FOR DUNN.

Frank Dunn, formerly on the editorial staff of the Victoria (B. C.) Colonist and the Victoria Times, has been granted a commission in a British regiment after two years' service in Europe. He is a son of Robert Dunn, editor of the Victoria Times.

A SUBSTITUTION RULING.

The following decree has been issued by the Court of Common Pleas No. 3 of Philadelphia County, in the case of the Charles E. Hires Company vs. John Apostolos & Co.:

"That John Apostolos and John Harria, co-partners trading as John Apostolos & Co., defendants, be and they hereby are perpetually restrained from selling or offering, exposing or advertising for sale, as and for 'Hires,' or under the name 'Hires' any beverage other than the genuine 'Hires' made by plaintiff or by the addition of carbonated water to the syrup made by the plaintiff in accordance with its formula."

"That said defendants be and they hereby are ordered to pay to the plaintiff the penalty provided in Section 4, of the act of June 20, 1901, P. L. 582, of $200 for each sale in violation of the said act, or $1,800 in all."

"That defendant shall pay the costs of this proceeding."

MORE WAR-TIME SHIFTS.

The war continues to cause some of the smaller newspapers in Indiana to cease publication, and has changed the editors on others.

The plant of the Otterbein Sun, the oldest newspaper in Benton County, is offered for sale since the editor, Wade Bolt, enlisted in the navy.

Wheeler McMillen, of the Covington Republican, was caught in the draft and his paper will not issue during the remainder of the war.

Herman Bott, editor of the Tell City Journal, has abandoned his editorial duties for service in the army. He is succeeded on the Journal by Frank Roberts, an attorney.

J. Frank McDermott, of the Altica Tribune, sought exemption from the draft on the plea that he could be of more service to the government in the publication of war information than in the National Army, but the exemption board overruled him.

RUCKER STRICKEN BLIND.

L. V. B. Rucker, for many years with the United Press, the International News Service and the Hearst newspapers, has been forced by blindness to retire from newspaper work. He is spending his time at Richmond, Mo. Mr. Rucker was for many years a well known newspaper man in New York, Washington and St. Louis and spent eleven months last year on the Mexican Border. He lost his eyesight several months ago.

The Circulation of the NEW YORK EVENING MAIL

represents a greater purchasing power per unit of circulation than is found in any other New York Evening Paper.

Finest
Quality

FELT PRESS and MOULDING BLANKETS

DIRECT from Factory to Newspaper

at

ONE PROFIT

Write for prices to Newspaper Dept.

Chas. W. HOUSE
& Sons
UNIONVILLE, CONN.

NEW YORK EVENING WORLD AS HOST.

REPORTER OVERCAME MANY OBSTACLES IN ARRANGING DINNER FOR TROOPS.

The indomitable spirit of the late Joseph Pulitzer, implacable foe of those who told him a thing "couldn't be done," must have rejoiced a few days ago when the New York Evening World carried through its project of a "send-off" dinner to the National Guard troops encamped around New York, 30,000 of them or more, after a unanimous verdict of "It can't be done!" had been rendered by the critics.

The Evening World proposed the plan editorially, was told that it "would never get a committee together to undertake the job" and then assigned Augustin McNally of its staff to carry it out. Mr. McNally was the man who first suggested it in the World office.

Less than a week after he got his orders, he had organized a general committee, headed by August Silz, a wholesale game and produce dealer. Two days before the formal organization of the committee the president of a large Eastern railroad heard of the plan and offered to organize a committee of railroad men who would buy the food and everything needed for the honor of serving on such a committee.

AUGUSTIN MCNALLY.

But that was entirely contrary to the intentions of Mr. McNally. He wanted a dinner representing throughout the gratuitous offering of men who handle foodstuffs and everything that enters into a dinner.

Of course, he met difficulties and once it looked as if the whole proposition had "gone on the rocks," at a time when the soldiers in every camp near the city were looking forward to the affair. But Mr. McNally hauled his executive committee up to Major General O'Ryan's office in the Municipal Building, and the general came to the rescue by appointing Captain Moore of his staff as aide to the committee.

Then, with official recognition, the difficulties faded. Food rolled in and the checkers passed turkey by the thousands of pounds, bread, potatoes, corn on the cob (two ears for every man), cantaloupes, cakes, cheese, coffee, bananas, cigarettes, after-dinner mints and cigars.

The dinner was served the night before the farewell parade to the New York guardsmen, and one of the troops called it a success from "cantaloupes to mints." The Evening World's contemporaries, too, were generous in their praise, the Sun stating that it was the "biggest night the town ever had."

From the moment the "grub" began pouring into the Ninth Regiment Armory, used as the base of supplies, until the 165th Infantry at Camp Mills, 22 miles away, sat down to the feast, there was not one interruption in the program.

Some 80 actors, men and women, were hurried to encampments and armories in 42 automobiles, also contributed. There were nine acts put on everywhere the dinner was served.

It was a $50,000 feast that cost New York City not a cent, and Mayor Mitchell was so impressed by the patriotic work that, at the suggestion of the Evening World, he made the committee official.

In order to add dignity to the occasion, Mr. McNally suggested a formal dinner to General O'Ryan and his staff, which was also "put over" at the Biltmore Hotel. The Evening World and its energetic representative received high praise for their enterprise from every speaker.

HOW NEWARK STAR-EAGLE AIDS AMERICAN TROOPS.

The "soldiers' bounty basket" idea, as carried out by the Newark (N. J.) Star-Eagle, is this:

Baskets are placed in department, drug, cigar and confectionery stores with placards explaining the needs of the soldiers and the articles they find hard to get at the camps and in the field. The public is urged to buy an extra article for a soldier and drop it in the basket.

In tobacco stores the baskets are soon filled with packages of cigarettes and tobacco, pipes and boxes of cigars; in drug stores, talcum powder, tooth powder, shaving and toilet soap, witch hazel and similar articles are dropped in the baskets.

The department and dry-goods stores yield handkerchiefs, socks, sewing kits and such.

Collections are made several times a week by a Star-Eagle representative and the chaplain of Newark's home regiment. The articles are distributed among the soldiers by lot, they afterward making trades among themselves. The idea has proved popular with the merchants, the public and the soldiers. No money is accepted in the baskets.

The "Buy an extra article" idea is played up in the placards.

CONDENSED NEWS NOTES.

The Allen (Neb.) News has been sold to Millard N. Martia, who contemplates the purchase of new presses and type.

THROUGH MINE TO STAGE.

Arthur J. Kellar, general press representative for George Broadhurst, broke into newspaper work as a reporter on the Scranton (Pa.) Republican about eighteen years ago. He covered the 1900 anthracite coal strike for that paper and was still there for the 1902 strike and the sessions of the Roosevelt Commission. He worked later for the other Scranton newspapers and got into the theatrical end by handling publicity for the local theatres and the summer amusement park at Scranton.

His first "big" engagement was on the press staff of the B. F. Keith interests, handling the publicity of the Orpheum Theatre in Boston, and after two years in the "Hub," he went on the road, exploiting various stars and attractions under the management of the Shuberts, Oliver Morosco, Lew Fields, Arthur Hopkins, John Cort, Joe Weber and others.

ARTHUR J. KELLAR.

As business manager he handled the New York engagement of the "Poor Little Rich Girl" at the Hudson Theatre and established his first business association with George Broadhurst when he produced "Today" at the Forty-eighth Street Theatre four seasons ago. The following season he directed the destinies of four "Today" companies on the road. He has been associated with Mr. Broadhurst since then and at present is handling "Over the Phone" at the Forty-eighth Street Theatre and William Faversham's production of Geo. Bernard Shaw's "Misalliance" at the new Broadhurst Theatre, which opens next week.

WRIST WATCH FOR O'MALLEY.

Members of the engraving department of the Chicago Tribune have presented an engraved wrist watch to their former colleague, Joe O'Malley, who recently joined the navy.

PITTSBURG POST WINS PRAISE FROM ALL QUARTERS.

The Pittsburgh Post, which celebrated its seventy-fifth birthday this week, has received messages of congratulation from prominent men in all walks of life and from all parts of the country. Among the names which appeared under messages in the Post of September 10, are:

William G. McAdoo, Secretary of the Treasury; Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War; Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy and publisher of the Raleigh (N. C.) News and Observer; W. B. Wilson, Secretary of Labor; Champ Clark, Speaker of the House of Representatives; P. C. Knox and Boies Penrose, United States Senators from Pennsylvania; Guy E. Campbell, M. Clyde Kelly, W. Temple and Thomas S. Crago, Congressmen from Pennsylvania.

Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad and a member of the advisory commission of the Council of National Defense; Arthur Brisbane, editor of the New York Journal and publisher of the Washington Times; Oswald Garrison Villard, president of the New York Evening Post Company; Henry Waterson, editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal; Don C. Seitz, business manager of the New York World; Norman E. Mack, editor and proprietor of the Buffalo Times; James Schermerhorn, publisher of the Detroit Times; W. F. Wiley, managing editor of the Cincinnati Enquirer, and many prominent men in the life of Pittsburgh.

THOMPSON STILL SUING.

Mayor Thompson of Chicago has filed praecipes in more libel suits. He asks $500,000 damages from the Chicago Tribune; $250,000 from the Chicago Daily News and Victor F. Lawson, its publisher; $200,000 from Jacob M. Dickerson, former Secretary of War, who has made vigorous comment on the mayor's war-time attitude; and $200,000 each from H. H. Merrick and Arnold Joerns, the president and secretary, respectively, of the local chapter of the National Security League.

Mr. Joerns is a prominent Chicago advertising agent.

Previously the mayor sued the Chicago Herald and James Keeley, publisher, for $250,000. Thus the total of damages asked is $1,600,000.

Following the filing of the suits, Mayor Thompson gave orders that reporters could not communicate with him orally hereafter. Any information which they may require must be put in writing and sent in to the mayor.

In addition, he sent word to members of his official family and others in his confidence not to hold communication with him hereafter over the telephone. This was due to the declaration of the mayor that his telephone wires at home and office have been tapped and sound-recording devices placed in the walls of his apartments and in his private office in the City Hall.

Mayor Thompson refused to give an opinion as to whether the sound devices were agents of the Federal Government, of the state's attorney or of the newspapers, which he declares have been hounding him.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES.

$15,000

available for first payment on a daily newspaper property. California locations preferred.

Proposition P. M.

CHAS. M. PALMER
NEWSPAPER PROPERTIES
225 Fifth Ave. NEW YORK

Easy Money

Only paper in modern Central West city of nearly 20,000, splendidly equipped and showing annual profit to owners of about $30,000. Three-fifths interest offered for $75,000. Ask for Proposition 683x and give financial references.

Who wants to take advantage of a real newspaper opportunity in North Carolina, valued at $20,000? Proposition 689x.

H. F. HENRICH
NEWSPAPER PROPERTIES
LITCHFIELD, ILLINOIS

Eastern advertising man, well and favorably known, will give live, energetic representation to papers of real worth to advertisers. Attractive proposition. Address James A. Francis, Room 707, 141 B'way, New York City.

OBITUARY NOTES.

CLARENCE CLAYTON EATON, for twelve years owner and publisher of the Columbus (Wis.) Democrat, died in Tacoma, Wash., last week, aged fifty-five years.

GEORGE REED, publisher of the Plymouth (Ohio) Advertiser, fell dead while on his way to his office a few days ago. He was fifty-five years old.

E. N. A. PHENIX, for many years on the staff of the Toronto (Ont.) Globe, died in that city a few days ago. Failing health compelled his retirement from active work a short time ago.

ALLEN S. PAGE, owner of the Sussex (N. J.) Register, a well known weekly of New Jersey, died last week in Oakland, N. J., aged twenty-nine years. He was a member of the 1915 class in the Pulitzer School of Journalism, Columbia University, and left in February, 1915, to purchase the Register, which he has since edited and managed.

WILLIAM E. TALBOYS, a veteran Minnesota editor, died in Chisholm, Minn., last week, aged sixty-four years.

JUDGE N. C. MARTIN, founder of the Brazil (Ind.) Enterprise, died recently.

LOUIS T. GLASS, editor of the Trenton (Tenn.) Gazette, died there last week.

WILLIAM H. O'BOYLE, a member of the advertising staff of the Milwaukee Sentinel, died in that city last week, aged thirty-five years. He had been connected with several of

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES.

Daily Newspapers

We have at this time several attractive opportunities to buy Daily Newspaper Properties in New York and adjacent states. Cash payments required range from $10,000 to $800,000.

The owners of all the properties in question are represented exclusively by this firm.

AUDREY HARWELL HENRY F. CANNON

Harwell & Cannon
Newspaper and Magazine Properties
Times Building NEW YORK

FOR SALE—Half interest in the most influential and prosperous newspaper property in the Southwest. Fine plant and equipment, splendid little city with all advantages, growing proposition in every way. Daily and weekly of highest rank. Guaranteed cash in advance weekly circulation of 3,500. Weekly publication is classed as one of the representative newspapers of the United States. My partner, who will continue with the business, is one of God's noblemen. He handles editorial end. My half interest for $10,000 will bear closest investigation and is a bargain for a live wire who understands business end. We netted $10,300 in 1916. If you are interested in a 50 per cent investment in one of the finest county seat towns in Oklahoma and a proposition throughout without one single drawback, address "Julian," care Western Newspaper Union, New York, N. Y.

DIVIDENDS.

INTERNATIONAL PAPER CO.

September 5th, 1917.
The Board of Directors has declared a regular quarterly dividend of one and one-half per cent (1 1/2%) on the preferred capital stock of this Company, payable October 15th, 1917, to preferred stockholders of record at the close of business, October 5th, 1917.

OWEN SHEPHERD, Treasurer.

the Milwaukee dailies and was well known in the city's journalism.

CAPTAIN JOHN J. WHEELER, said to be the oldest newspaper editor in Indiana, died last week at Crown Point. He was seventy years of age and for forty years had been editor of the Crown Point (Ind.) Star.

MRS. HARRIETT KENNEDY, a correspondent for a number of Pacific Coast newspapers, died recently at her home in Colton, Cal. She was formerly a Chicago newspaper woman.

HENRY B. SPEED, for nearly forty years connected with the A. N. Kellogg Newspaper Company and the Western Newspaper Union, died in Chicago last week, aged seventy years.

MRS. HARRIET KENNEDY, a former Chicago correspondent for Pacific Coast newspapers, died at Colton, Cal., last week.

DR. A. H. WESTON, editor of the Colorado (Tex.) Record, recently committed suicide.

HENRY R. BRYAN, publisher of the Hudson (N. Y.) Republican, died suddenly in that city on September 11. He was well known in Republican politics and for seventeen years was postmaster of Hudson. He was fifty-eight years old.

He was at one time a member of the New York State Editorial Association and later president of the New York Associated Dailies, in which he always took an active interest.

REV. C. ARMAND MILLER, D.D., an editor of the American

MACHINERY FOR SALE.

FOR SALE—Goss High-Speed Straight line Five Roll Double Width Press equipped with all modern improvements and in very good condition. This press prints 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20 page papers at 75,000 per hour. $2, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32 page papers at $5,000 per hour. For prices and terms write

WALTER SCOTT & Co.,
PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY

GOSS FOUR DECK PRESS—Prints 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 14, 16, 20, 24, 28 or 32 pages. Overhauled and rebuilt. Will sell at very low price. The Goss Printing Press Co., Chicago, Ill.

LINOTYPE—Three Model 1 machines with complete equipment of molds, magazines and matrices. New Haven Union Co., New Haven, Ct.

LINOTYPE—Model No. 3, Serial No. 10109; 1 magazine, assortment of matrices. Fort Wayne Printing Co., Fort Wayne, Ind.

LINOTYPE—Model No. 1, Serial No. 8010, and Model No. 1, Serial No. 8011; with 1 magazine, liners, ejector blades, font of matrices (for each machine). Tribune Printing Co., Charleston, W. Va.

MACHINERY WANTED.

Wanted—Second-hand Miller Universal saw trimmer with router and jig saw attachments. Quote price. Sun, Paducah, Ky.

The problem of covering the Canadian Field is answered by obtaining the service of the

Dominion PRESS CLIPPING AGENCY

which gives the clippings on all matters of interest to you, printed in over 95 per cent of the newspapers and publications of CANADA. We cover every foot of Canada and Newfoundland.

74-76 Church Street, TORONTO, CAN.

POLLOCK'S NEWS

You can reach 3,500 Editors and Publishers in the Northwest—the wide-awake ones—every month, through the Classified Ads in Pollock's News. That is 30,000 of them in a year for ten dollars. Send for samples and display rates. 710 Temple Court, MINNEAPOLIS

Lutheran Survey and a well known writer, died in Liberty, N. Y., on September 11, aged fifty-three years.

THOMAS H. HOLMES, a printer on the staff of the New York Evening Sun, died on September 10, in Brooklyn, aged fifty-eight years.

ARTHUR ASA HILL, a well known newspaper and trade paper man, died in New York on September 13. For many years he was editor of the Automobile Dealer and Repairer and of the Blacksmith and Wheelwright. Mr. Hill was born in Greenwich, Mass., sixty-four years ago, the descendant of an old New England family. On his mother's side he was related to Ralph Waldo Emerson. He entered the newspaper business in his youth and at one time owned and edited the Haverhill (Mass.) Gazette and later the North Adams Evening Herald. He afterward came to New York and was one of the original members of the New York Press Club. Mr. Hill developed several inventions, one a typesetting machine.

HUSE IN INDIANA.

N. A. Huse, vice-president of the American Press Association, addressed the members of the Northern Indiana Editorial Association at Wabash, Ind., yesterday afternoon on "Foreign Advertising for Country Newspapers."

HELP WANTED.

An Unusual Opportunity

One of the leading New York and Chicago special agencies (many years in business and representing only permanent papers) has an opening for a high-class, energetic solicitor. An unusual opportunity. Application treated with strictest confidence. Give full particulars and references. Address Box 872, care The Fourth Estate.

Advertising solicitor wanted at once for special work on daily newspaper. Live wire that is worth a substantial salary desired. Address Special Proposition, Box 868, care The Fourth Estate.

WANTED—Copy and makeup editor for national magazine of highest character. Not only technically expert, but soundly educated and widely informed. Preferably not under 35, several years happily married, with high ideals of citizenship, marriage and the home. Not just a "job." A permanent, progressive position for a man of sound body, clean mind, good habits, tact and judgment, who will make the most of an unusual opportunity to fit himself for responsibilities in a big organization. Full details, please. Address Box 870, care The Fourth Estate.

Wanted—Sample copies for Representatives for Ohio. The Ohio Novelty Agency, Youngstown, Ohio.

Circulation Manager Wanted.
Young American, exempt, between 25 and 35 years, single or married, steady and reliable. Quick advancement for right man. With steady work and good pay. Address Box 861, care The Fourth Estate.

Combination editor and ad man, trade paper (financial) experience necessary. Give experience, age and references in first letter. Small salary to start, but good prospects. Address Texas Bankers Journal, Houston, Texas.

Wanted—An advertising salesman and copy writer for clean high class daily with 5,500 circulation. Salary $30 weekly and 10 per cent commission on increased local business. Magnificent field and fine opening for a hustler with tact and experience. State experience, habits and give references first letter. Address Box 866, care The Fourth Estate.

BRIGHT BOY WANTED
in office of weekly trade newspaper. Advancement assured to conscientious workers. Address with full particulars as to salary expected and references, E. E., care The Fourth Estate.

Advertising Manager of proved ability and acquaintance with leading retail advertisers in New York City wanted for daily paper. Must be a man of best standing, who knows space buyers in stores, has had experience, is sober, industrious and reliable and has managing ability. Permanent position to the right man on a first class daily paper of best standing. Address in confidence giving full details, A. T. E., care The Fourth Estate.

Newspaper in city 400,000 wants real salesman of advertising (not a solicitor). Must be able to create new business, and hold it by real service to clients. Copy writing ability preferred. No "whirlwinds." Must be a maker of friends. Good future. Tell past performances, married or single, and references (confidential). Box 865, care The Fourth Estate.

TYPO

CREDIT BOOKS, REPORTS, COLLECTION
General Offices
878 Fourth Avenue NEW YORK

The cost of a "Situation Wanted" ad in this column is only ten cents a line (count seven words to the line) each insertion.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

PARAMOUNT FILMS IN NEWSPAPERS.

NATIONAL ADVERTISING WILL BE USED BY LEADING MOVIE FIRM.

The decision of the Paramount Pictures Corporation to produce motion picture serials, and the organization of a special serial advertising department, mark the entrance of another great motion picture company into the field of nationwide newspaper advertising. Paramount is going into the newspapers in a big way and the contracts are now being made for advertising its first serial, "Who Is Number One?" which begins the campaign.

Edward A. MacManus, who originated the motion picture serial, "What Happened to Mary" was chosen by Adolph Zukor and Jesse L. Lasky to head the department. Associated with Mr. MacManus are Gardner W. Wood and Jerome Beatty, both men of wide newspaper magazine and motion picture experience.

Mr. MacManus invented his motion picture serial and the plan of novelization when he was searching for a definite plan for producing a motion picture that could be profitably advertised in the newspapers.

The fifteen-week run made possible the use of advertising campaigns of an extent vastly greater than could be used with profit on feature pictures that completed their first runs in the best theatres after a week's showing.

Mr. MacManus had long experience on newspapers, magazines and in conducting special advertising campaigns before he conceived his serial idea.

When the International Film Service was organized, Mr. MacManus made its head and he directed the International's famous serial successes—a long list topped by "Patria," in which Mrs. Vernon Castle was starred.

Mr. MacManus has sold advertising, and bought it, and he believes in newspaper advertising for motion pictures. He is one of the small, but rapidly growing number, of motion picture men who know the value of newspaper space.

Gardner W. Wood, associated with Mr. MacManus, was his partner in newspaper syndicate work several years ago. Mr. Wood was formerly on the New York Times and New York Herald, on the editorial staff of McClure's Magazine and the Ladies' World, with the Ben B. Hampton Agency, and later Eastern

Leader in Display Advertising

In August the New York Times published 637,659 lines of displayed advertising, a gain of 29,232 over August last year, a greater volume by 240,662 lines and a greater gain by 5,000 lines than any other New York newspaper, morning or evening.

Average net paid circulation, daily and Sunday, 345,000 copies.

EDWARD A. MACMANUS,
WHO WILL DIRECT THE BIG PARAMOUNT MOVIE ADVERTISING CAMPAIGN.

manager of the Essanay Film Company.

Jerome Beatty is a magazine writer and a newspaper man who has done extensive work on newspapers in New York, New Orleans, Kansas City, Washington and Los Angeles. He was associated with Mr. Wood in "The Strange Case of Mary Page" campaign, publicity director for the Thanhouser Film Corporation, and director of newspaper publicity for McClure Pictures in the campaign on "Seven Deadly Sins."

GOV. CAPPER SEES "DRY" U.S. IN FIVE YEARS.

After spending a week visiting in New York, Governor Arthur Capper, editor of the Topeka Capital, started for home on Monday, but left Mrs. Capper and her niece here for a few days longer. Before leaving town, Governor Capper addressed Dr. Christian Reiser's Grace Methodist Episcopal Church congregation and predicted national prohibition in less than five years. He also said that equal suffrage had proven a great success in Kansas.

NEW MONOTYPE USERS.

Installations of the Monotype "non-distribution system" have been made on a number of the New York state papers, including the Buffalo Times, the Buffalo Courier & Inquirer, the Binghamton Press, also the Bridgeport (Ct.) Post-Standard and the Elizabeth (N. J.) Journal. These papers have installed Monotype "type-and-rule" casters in their ad rooms.

The Syracuse (N. Y.) Post-Standard and the New Haven (Ct.) Union have ordered additional Monotypes to take care of increasing business and to handle their ad composition.

BENCHLEY WITH BRADY.

Robert C. Benchley, formerly on the staff of the New York Tribune, has become general press representative for William A. Brady.

BULL WANTS MAIL RIGHTS.

Bull, a publication which was barred from the United States mails, has instituted an action to enjoin Postmaster Thomas Patten of New York from continuing the exclusion.

Mr. Patten's action was taken in August. The complaint states that, if continued, exclusion of the publication from the mails will virtually ruin the Bull Publishing Company.

The contention also is made that there is no reason in law or equity why Bull should be excluded from the mails, but that, nevertheless, 5,000 properly wrapped and addressed copies of the September issue of the publication, with the postage for them paid, have not been forwarded and still are held at the local post office.

PATRIOTS IN WISCONSIN.

Wisconsin editors have organized the Wisconsin Patriotic Press Association, to promote a campaign of patriotic education in the state along wholly non-partisan lines.

The organization elected Richard Lloyd Jones, editor of the Madison Journal, as chairman; A. M. Brayton, La Crosse Tribune, vice-chairman, and Charles Broughton, Sheboygan Press, treasurer.

The secretary of the Wisconsin Loyalty League will be the secretary also of this organization.

FRUIT PAPERS MERGED.

Samuel Adams has purchased Green's Fruit Grower, of Rochester, N. Y., and will combine it with the American Fruit Grower and the Fruit Grower as Green's American Fruit Grower. Publication offices will be in the Marquette Building, Chicago, and the paper will be represented in the national advertising field by Barnhill & Henning, New York and Chicago.

KERENSKY SUPPRESSES THE NOVOE VREMYA.

The Russian Provisional Government has suppressed the Novoe Vremya, a prominent Petrograd newspaper, as punishment for printing prominently General Korniloff's proclamations, while publishing those of M. Kerensky in contracted form.

PLANS IN ELKHART.

The Elkhart (Ind.) Truth has accepted plans and contracted for a new home for its newspaper and publishing business, to cost $35,000. C. W. Trowbridge and his associates recently secured full control of the property, Fred Palmer retiring as editor.

Daily Publishers! MORE ADVERTISING?

If you want real wide awake advertising representation, here in Chicago and the West, get in touch with us at once.

We get business by going after it; keeping after it until we get the order. Why not discuss the matter with us today? Write us at once.

YOUNG & FARRELL
Room 400, 20 N. Dearborn St.
CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

IN THE AD FIELD.

ADVERTISING ACCOUNTS NOW BEING PLACED BY THE AGENCIES.

CECIL, Mutual Bldg., Richmond, Va.—Placing orders with newspapers for Riggs Furniture, 318 Franklin st., Richmond, and 41 W. 40th st., N. Y.

FRANK, 26 Beaver st., N. Y.—Placing 27-inch, 1-time orders with Southern newspapers for Joseph P. Day, 31 Nassau st., N. Y., on auction of Southern real estate.

FRANKLIN, Bulletin Bldg., Philadelphia—Contemplating wider newspaper campaign for Radium Chemical Co., Philadelphia.

LORD & THOMAS, Mallers Bldg., Chicago—Making newspaper contracts for Alfred Decker & Cohn, "Society Brand Clothes," 317 Franklin st., N. Y.

LYDDON & HANFORD, Cutler Bldg., Rochester, N. Y.—Placing orders with newspapers for C. S. Clark, "Bon Opto," 203 Pearl st., N. Y.

RANKIN, 104 S. Michigan av., Chicago—Making contracts with Western newspapers for Cheney Talking Machine Co., Chicago.

SEAMAN, 461 8th av., N. Y.—Placing orders with newspapers for Silver Co., "Bethlehem Spark Plugs," South Bethlehem, Pa.

Making new contracts with newspapers for Runkel Brothers, "Runkel's Cocoa," 451 W. 30th st., N. Y.

TAYLOR - CRITCHFIELD - CLAGUE, Brooks Bldg., Chicago—Placing orders with newspapers for American Radiator Co., "American Radiators" and "Ideal Boilers," 820 S. Michigan av., Chicago.

Orders to weeklies for Acord Brass Mfg. Co., Chicago.

BLACKMAN-ROSS, 95 Madison av., N. Y.—Sending out 4,000-line contracts to Sunday newspapers for Mayo Mills, underwear, Mayodam, N. C.

CHURCHILL-HALL, 50 Union sq., N. Y.—Sending out orders to farm papers for Edison Phonograph Co., N. Y.

BATTEN, 381 4th av., N. Y.—Sending out 15,000-line contract to newspapers for Columbia Phonograph Company, New York.

RANKIN, 104 S. Michigan av., Chicago—Recent new accounts added by this agency are:

American School of Correspondence, Chicago; Chicago Board of Fire Underwriters, Chicago; Farquhar-Moon Company (washing tablets), Chicago; Chicago Y.M.C.A.; E. G.

THE TERRE HAUTE
TRIBUNE

The big home
evening paper
of its section of Indiana.

In Charge of Foreign Advertising
G. LOGAN PAYNE COMPANY
New York Chicago Boston Detroit

Revision of the Lists

OF THE

Advertising Agents of the World is almost completed for the Semi-Annual

Advertising
Agents' Number

OF

THE FOURTH ESTATE

To be issued September 29th, 1917

Previous Advertising Agents' Numbers of THE FOURTH ESTATE have always attracted profound attention in the advertising world, as providing the only list of its kind to be had anywhere.

The fact that it is preserved and frequently referred to, gives the advertising contained in it more than usual life.

This is probably the reason why so many advertisers look for its issue.

It's an advertising bargain for the newspaper or advertising agent with a message.

Early copy catches the position—
Why not send copy TO-DAY?

THE FOURTH ESTATE

232 West 59th Street

NEW YORK

Staudt Manufacturing Company ("Make-a-Tractor"), St. Paul, Minn.; Cheney Talking Machine Company, Chicago; Hartman Trunk Company, Racine, Wis.; American Wall Paper Company, Chicago; Graham Brothers ("Orcine Shampoo Powder"), Chicago; Sealy Mattress Company, Sugar Land, Tex.; Chamberlain Metal Weather Strip Company, Detroit; Tanner-Gilman Company, Chicago; Diamond T. Motor Car Company (trucks), Chicago; Kerosene Burning Carburetor Company, Chicago.

CARNEY & KERR, 461 8th av., N. Y.—Will handle magazine campaign of Hammond Typewriter Co., 53 E. 69th st., N. Y.

STANDARD, 150 Nassau st., N. Y.—Will handle religious publications advertising of Hammond Typewriter Co., 53 E. 69th st., N. Y.

FOWLER-SIMPSON, 1900 Euclid av., Cleveland—Preparing campaign for Outlook Co., Cleveland, "Outlook Windshield Cleaners."

CHAPPELOW, International Life Bldg., St. Louis—Placing account of Reflectolyte Co., St. Louis, lighting systems.

SINGLETON - HUNTINGTON, Citizens Bldg., Cleveland—Placing advertising of Adamson Manufacturing Co., "Adamson Vulcanizers," East Palestine, Ohio, in daily newspapers.

GREEN, Steger, Bldg., Chicago and Detroit—Contemplating large campaign for the Nash Motors, Kenosha, Wis.

NICHOLS, 20 E. Jackson Blvd., Chicago—Placing advertising of Electromatic System, Chicago, in selected agricultural publications.

DOREMUS & MORSE, 31 Nassau st., N. Y.—A list of more than 400 newspapers (daily, weekly and Sunday) is to be used for advertising the White Tar Company's moth-proof paper bags.

AYER, 300 Chestnut st., Philadelphia—Making contracts with Eastern papers for Capital City Dairy Co.

WINCHELL, Transportation Bldg., Chicago—Placing the advertising of W. J. Livingston, coffee, Chicago, in selected farm papers.

FOLEY, Bulletin Bldg., Philadelphia—New schedules for October and November are being sent out to a list for Liggett & Meyers' "Velvet Tobacco."

ELLIOTT, 208 St. Paul st., Buffalo, N. Y.—Sending out 2,800-line contracts to a list of papers for "Shinola," Rochester, N. Y.

NICHOLS, 20 E. Jackson Boulevard, Chicago—Has secured full charge of the advertising for the Alabastine Company, Grand Rapids, Mich., part of which it has been placing.

CHURCHILL-HALL, 50 Union Sq., N. Y.—Now handling account of Boyce, Wheeler & Boyce, New York, manufacturers of women's "Comfy-Cut" underwear.

HONIG-COOPER, 742 Market st., San Francisco—The 4,500 members of the California Prune & Apricot Growers, Inc., have appointed this agency to conduct a national consumer advertising campaign for them.

DIRECT—McKee Glass Company, Jeanette, Pa., placing copy in daily newspapers direct.

NORTHCLIFFE WILL ADDRESS
AMERICAN BUSINESS MEN.

Lord Northcliffe, chairman of the British Mission in this country, will be one of the speakers before the War Convention of American Business Men under the auspices of the United States Chamber of Commerce which will be held at Atlantic City, September 18 to 21. Lord Northcliffe is expected to tell that gathering what American business men can do to aid the cause of the Allies.

A TRIPLE MERGER.

The Montevideo (Minn.) Leader has been sold to Ludwig I. Roe of Northfield, who has also bought the Montevideo Advance and the Montevideo Commercial and will consolidate the three papers into one. He has also leased the Advance office, which was built expressly for a printing office, and the new paper will be published and the business carried on at that place.

If this territory presents a sales problem to you, the Merchandising Service
Department

of the Boston American will, upon request, make a trade investigation covering various sections of Metropolitan Boston and submit a report which will help you solve that problem. Ask how this department works.

BOSTON AMERICAN

I.N.S. Is One "Beat" After Another One Week's Record:

Sept. 6th I.N.S. beat all opposition by several hours on review of American troops by President Poincaré of France.

Sept. 8th I.N.S. first to touch the tape, and by a wide margin, on the Swedish diplomatic crisis.

Sept. 11th I.N.S. scored tremendous newsbeat on the battle between American merchant ships and German submarines.

On this story I.N.S. was a half-hour ahead at New York—away ahead of ALL opposition at Buffalo, Cleveland, Indianapolis, Atlanta, St. Louis; twenty minutes ahead at San Diego.

Coast to coast—the same story.

From Hartford Evening Post.

HARTFORD POST LEADS FIELD WITH STORY OF SWEDEN'S DUPLICITY.

The exposure of Swedish duplicity, as revealed by Secretary Lansing in Washington on Saturday afternoon, was printed in the first edition of the Hartford Post, which was on the street at 2.15 o'clock. These revelations were the "big" news in the Sunday morning papers and again in this morning's papers, and the Hartford Post regards it as a particularly notable feat to have been able to display this news to its full value in its first edition on Saturday, while the Post's evening contemporary failed to give prominence to it in its city edition.

The Hartford Post scored over all afternoon papers in Connecticut on this story. The International News Service, over whose leased wire the Post received the Swedish story, once more showed its usual speed in handling news dispatches.

From Buffalo Enquirer.

"What we did to the fellows down the street was a mortal sin. We had an eight-column head and full story. They only had a few lines under one-column head."

G. K. RUDULPH,
Managing Editor.

From Chicago American.

HOURLY AHEAD OF OTHERS

The Chicago Evening American, through the International News Service, on Saturday scored another notable "beat."

This newspaper was the first newspaper in Chicago to print Secretary Lansing's expose of the German-Swedish intrigue against Argentina. Readers of the American were given the text of the Count Luxburg notes, one of the most amazing diplomatic revelations of the war, a full hour ahead of the readers of other Chicago newspapers, again proving that the American always is

FIRST WITH THE LATEST

Washington is the NEWS Capital of the World
Get the benefit of the incomparable Washington Service of the INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE.

The True News FIRST—Always, Accurately
INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE
WORLD BUILDING NEW YORK CITY

A NEWSPAPER FOR
THE MAKERS OF NEWSPAPERS
AND INVESTORS IN
ADVERTISING

Published Weekly at 222 West
60th Street (Near Broadway)
NEW YORK CITY

SATURDAY, SEPT. 22, 1917

THE FOURTH ESTATE

"EDMUND BURKE SAID
that there were Three Estates
in Parliament, but in the Reporter's Gallery yonder there
sat a 'Fourth Estate' more important far than they all."
—Carlyle's "Heroes and Hero Worship" Lecture V

PRICE 10 CENTS.
TWO DOLLARS A YEAR

ESTABLISHED
1894 No. 1230

The Cost of Advertising Reduced!

CAN you think of any commodity that sells at a lower price today than it did a year, or two years or ten years ago?

Yet, the advertising rate per line per thousand circulation of the Cleveland Plain Dealer is now actually lower than at any previous time in the Plain Dealer's history.

The multiplicity of facts which bring about this condition are not at all surprising when one stops to consider how well the Plain Dealer has served for over seventy-six years.

People buy the Plain Dealer because they like it. Advertisers in the Plain Dealer reach the greatest market in the territory covered by Cleveland papers—the people who have money to spend and an inclination to spend it.

The Plain Dealer

FIRST NEWSPAPER OF CLEVELAND, SIXTH CITY

Eastern Advertising Representative:	Western Advertising Representative:
JOHN B. WOODWARD	JOHN GLASS
Times Building, NEW YORK	CHICAGO, Peoples Gas Building

PUBLISHERS' TAXES BACK IN REVENUE BILL.

HOUSE CONFEREES INSIST, ON THREAT TO HOLD UP MEASURE, THAT SECOND CLASS RATES MUST BE RAISED.

The question of increasing second class postage rates has been the troublesome feature of the week's Congressional joint conference to settle the final details of the War Tax Bill, and the postal matter is still open to final determination.

Despite the fact that it has been held behind locked doors and under a pledge of secrecy by everybody taking part, the news leaked out that regardless of the Senate's elimination of special taxes upon them, the House conferees insisted, on threat of holding up the War Bill indefinitely, upon making newspaper publishers pay war taxes that were not imposed upon any other industry.

Latest indications are that a tentative agreement, with a half-way compromise between the original House scheme and the McKellar substitute might stand, but this cannot be taken as assured.

As the new schedule of publishers' tax was finally agreed upon, the rate, it was said at the time of going to press, starts at one-fourth of a cent a pound, to be applied after the first zone, the distance being changed from 300 miles to 250 miles. This one-fourth of a cent a pound is to be imposed in addition to the existing 1 cent pound flat rate.

It is said this agreement contemplates a graduated tax which would reach a maximum below 6 cents a pound. The conferees adopted a schedule of time, to run with the new rates, so that the entire tax would not be operative, until the end of a four-year period. The tax is calculated to yield much less than either the original House zone system or the McKellar substitute.

Some of the conferees favored putting on an additional tax on publishers' profits, but the majority is understood to be opposed to it.

While the Congressional conferees expected to reach a definite agreement on the war tax measure this week, it is said that if they found it impossible to agree upon the second-class postage tax they would report back to the House and Senate for instructions. It is expected that at this juncture is reached there will be at least another week of delay.

The agreement came after Chairman Kitchin of the House Ways and Means Committee warned the conferees that unless this tax on publishers went back into the bill it would tie up the conference indefinitely.

While the conferees, maintaining the obligation of secrecy, declined to disclose the details of the compromise, it is understood that it is to be a half-way agreement as between the original House scheme and that evolved by Senator McKellar, which was inserted and then struck from the bill before it passed the Senate.

Under the House system a graduated tax was contemplated running from 1½ cents a pound up to 2½ cents a pound, according to zone, until November 1 of this year; 1½ cents a pound up to 4½ cents a pound until March 1, 1918, and 1½ cents a pound up to 8 cents a pound after March 1 next. This tax would, it is estimated, yield $19,000,000 this year.

Under the McKellar system the zone rates were 1 cent a pound under 300 miles, 4 cents between 300 and 600 miles, 5 cents between 600 and 1,000 miles, 6 cents between 1,000 and 1,400 miles, 7 cents between 1,400 and 1,800 miles, and 8 cents over 1,800 miles. The zone distances run the same in both the McKellar and House schedules.

In the compromise the conferees are understood to have struck a basis slightly under the House schedule.

The conferees came to their decision after Secretary McAdoo had urged that a rate such as that proposed by the House was excessive, and that it would deprive many of the smaller publications of the use of the mails. Mr. McAdoo advised leaving the second-class postage rate alone, it is understood, but the House conferees insisted that sentiment was too strong in the House to attempt to pass the bill without some tax being levied upon publications.

Postmaster General Burleson appeared before the committee in behalf of the special advertising increase plan and Secretary McAdoo's influence was thrown for the McKellar plan and generally against drastic rate increases. An increase of a quarter a cent a pound until 1918 and 1 cent thereafter, with a zone system of special increases on advertising portions of publications are said to be features of the compromise being drafted.

The House conferees favored putting a tax of one-fourth of 1 per cent on publishers' profits, while the Senate conferees insisted on adhering to the action of the Senate in eliminating the entire tax on publishers.

The Senate conferees argued that the publishers, being subject to other war taxes, had enough of a burden to carry.

First Assistant Postmaster General Koons testified for several hours.

UNDER SECRECY PLEDGE.

Much time was spent in arguing over whether the public should be informed of the progress of the conference, with Mr. Kitchin again leading a successful fight against official publicity. Publication of the early results of the conference was pointed to by some conferees as proof that it was impossible to keep the deliberations secret, but finally the pledge of secrecy was renewed, and several members threatened to urge official investigation of further publication of the proceedings. Desire to keep lobbyists away from the conferees is the reason given for opposition to publicity. For a time it looked as if the conferees on the $2,400,760,000 War Revenue bill were hopelessly deadlocked.

Angered over publicity given the tentative agreement reached the day previous on second-class postage and other features in dispute, the House conferees, insisting that there was a "leak" somewhere in the secrecy agreement, bolted the conference early in the morning of September 19 and went into an executive session of their own.

The break, which lasted four hours, during which time the House conferees met in a room on the House side and the Senate conferees in their Finance Committee room, came to an end late in the afternoon, when the House men went back to the Senate side and renewed deliberations.

The split, so far as could be learned, came entirely upon the proposal to put the zone system of second-class tax upon publishers back into the bill, with a compromise between the original House schedule and the McKellar substitute, which was struck from the bill in the Senate after having once been accepted by that body.

The House conferees voted with the Senators on September 18 to reinstate the zone system, and everything seemed settled, excepting as to the precise rates to be fixed.

When the House conferees went into conference in the morning of September 19 some of them expressed impatience that the newspapers had been able to ascertain what had happened and insinuations were made as to some one divulging conference secrets.

The Senators indignantly denied having broken the secrecy agreement. One or two Representatives expressed disgust with the whole outcome of the conference.

The resolutions pledging secrecy, solemnly adopted at the outset of the conference, were strengthened so that any conferee who gives out information regarding the deliberations now is subject to exclusion from further conferences.

Representatives of various interests, stirred by publication of reimposition of tax rates affecting them, went to Washington this week in great numbers and were heard by individual conferees, while other members of both houses were deluged with telegrams from business interests in their home states protesting against the rates.

NEW ADVERTISING DIRECTOR FOR N. Y. GLOBE.

W. McK. Barbour has been appointed advertising director of the New York Globe, succeeding A. J. Kobler, who recently went with the New York American.

Mr. Barbour has for a year past been in charge of the advertising for the Boston American. At other times he filled executive posts with the Minneapolis Journal, the Minneapolis Tribune, the Los Angeles Express and Tribune, the Los Angeles Times, and was engaged in the advertising agency business in Los Angeles.

J. C. Giles has turned over the lease of the Lismore Free Press to J. G. Johnson.

"BOLT" IN N. Y. OVER SECOND-CLASS.

TRIBUNE AND EAGLE VOTE AGAINST PROTEST RESOLUTION.

An interesting sidelight on the newspaper publishers' fight against Congress placing upon them exclusively special taxation, in the form of increased second class mail rates, is a diversion over the question in the ranks of the New York City publishers.

The breach blew wide open at the meeting of the Publishers' Association held on September 19. When a resolution protesting against mail rate increases came up for balloting the representatives of the New York Tribune and the Brooklyn Daily Eagle voted against it. All the other members, representing newspapers in New York, Brooklyn and Jersey City, voted for the resolution.

The resolution was as follows:

"The Publishers' Association of New York City respectfully renews and reiterates its earnest protest against the imposition of any special war tax upon publishers exclusively.

"They desire to remove a false impression that seems to prevail among some members of the Congress that newspaper making is in some respects a war industry and that newspapers in some mysterious manner profit by war.

"There is not a newspaper in the United States that is not bearing additional burdens of expense by reason of the war, and we do not know of a single newspaper that is deriving profit from the war. Increases in circulation, where they have occurred, do not at current prices for white paper bring increased profits.

"The newspaper publishers recognize the wisdom, the justice and the necessity of imposing heavy tax burdens at this time upon all those who are able to bear them, and the newspaper publishers expect and desire to pay their full share of all such taxes that are imposed upon all businesses.

"But the Newspaper Publishers respectfully urge that while they are deriving no profit from war, they are necessarily one of the chief agencies of Government in making successful vital policies like the Conscription Act and the Liberty Loan; that they have co-operated with the Government at all times promptly and willingly, without expense to the Government and at great expense to the newspapers, and without any advantage to the newspapers except the high satisfaction that all citizens feel in doing effective work for their Government.

"The policy urged by a few representatives and senators in Congress to impose a special tax on publishers either by the zone system or otherwise, will tend to destroy the business taxed without compensating advantage to the Government in taxes. It will tend to restrict that freedom of communication, the dissemination of common knowledge and in Daniel Webster, once said: 'Next to the unity of the nation. A great statesman, Daniel Webster, once said: 'Next to the Christian religion I know nothing to be compared with the influence of a free intercourse in softening asperities, removing prejudices, extending knowledge and promoting human happiness.'

The Tribune has been advocating increased second class rates for some time past.

BRIDGMAN'S STATEMENT.

A few days before the publishers' meeting, Herbert L. Bridgman of the Brooklyn Standard-Union, chairman of the Publishers' Association, made the following statement, to which wide publicity was given by the newspapers:

"In view of the reported effort to restore in the pending revenue bill a provision for increased taxation on the transportation of daily newspapers

(Continued on Thirtieth Page.)

1,750,000 Men, Women and Children are constantly purchasing new

Shoes in Philadelphia

The Third Largest Market in the United States

DOMINATE Philadelphia! Create maximum impression on both dealers and consumers at one cost by concentrating in the Dominant
Newspaper—The Bulletin.

“Nearly everybody” in and around Philadelphia reads The Bulletin—practically 100% of the entire potential market.

Net paid average two-cent circulation for August, 1917

351,976 COPIES
A DAY

The Largest Two-Cent Circulation in the East

PHILADELPHIA BULLETIN

WILLIAM L. McLEAN
PUBLISHER

DAN A. CARROLL
NEW YORK: Tribune Building

J. E. VERREE
Steger Building, CHICAGO

GOVERNMENT 2.50 PAPER ORDER LOOKS GOOD.

SENATOR FLETCHER HOPEFUL THAT IT WILL MEAN PRICE FIXING FOR THE PUBLISHERS ALSO.

In his report to the Senate on President Wilson's order establishing the price of paper at 2½ cents a pound to the Government, Senator Fletcher, chairman of the Congressional Joint Committee on Printing, remarks:

"It is extremely gratifying that the Government is at last to enforce the price upon as fair and reasonable through an agency of the Government (the Federal Trade Commission) which apparently has full authority to make its mandate effective.

"I am hopeful that the enforcement of the Federal Trade Commission's price for news print paper furnished to the Government will speedily bring about the fixing of that price for the newspapers of the country, to a large number of which, the Trade Commission reports, the increased price maintained by the publishers means a difference between a living margin or complete ruin of their business and suspension of their publications."

Senator Fletcher points out that, as a result of the committee's activity, the Government will save $500,000 on its contracts for paper from the period from March 1, 1916, to March 1, 1918.

"But this saving to the Government, considerable as it is, will be small when compared with the far greater benefit that, I believe, will come to the publishers of the country through the Joint Committee's efforts to have fair and reasonable prices restored in the paper market," says Senator Fletcher in his report.

The difficulty experienced by the Government in inducing the International Paper Company to carry out an agreement to supply news print paper for Government uses at a fixed rate of 2½ cents a pound is related in the report, which cites correspondence with Philip T. Dodge of New York, president of the company, to show that while Mr. Dodge had agreed upon the stipulated price for the Government, his company afterward attempted to evade the agreement.

In order to compel the company to conform to its agreement the committee resorted to an appeal to the Federal Trade Commission, and later to President Wilson, resulting in an arbitrary order being promulgated.

The Federal Trade Commission, after an inquiry into news print paper conditions, agreed that the International Paper Company could supply paper at 2½ cents a pound and still make an appreciable profit.

The report says that up to the beginning of the contract year of 1916-17 the Government had paid approximately 2 1-5 to 2 1-4 cents a pound for standard news print, but when proposals were received for the contract year of 1916-17, the lowest bid received was 3 cents a pound.

"This did not appear excessive, in view of war conditions," says Senator Fletcher. "Accordingly, a contract was awarded for furnishing paper to the Government Printing Office at 3 cents a pound, the contractors being required to furnish such quantity as might be needed during the period of contract, from March 1 to September 1, 1916. The estimated quantity was 300,000 pounds."

But the contractor, the Republic Bag Company, of New York, refused to furnish all the paper wanted, and the Public Printer, the Senator's report says, was forced to buy an extra supply at 5.9 cents a pound. The Government is now suing the Republic Bag Company to recover $11,702, the extra price the Government had to pay.

"In the meantime, manufacturers of newsprint paper kept boosting the price higher and higher," says the report. "When the Joint Committee opened proposals on February 17, this year, for contracts for 1917-18, only two bids were found, the lowest being 7½ cents a pound for paper which had formerly cost the Government 2½ cents a pound."

"The committee promptly rejected this bid as grossly excessive, and this action was subsequently sustained by the findings of the Federal Trade Commission, which reported that 2½ cents a pound, free on board, was a fair and reasonable price for standard news print."

On May 3, 1917, the Public Printer, acting on his authority, arranged with the International Paper Company, the report goes on, for one car of newsprint paper a week for the Official Bulletin, at a price of 3.1 cents a pound. When Senator Fletcher learned of this, he protested to the Public Printer that the price was excessive, and on his suggestion the Public Printer invited proposals on 400,000 pounds of newsprint paper, fixing a maximum price of 2½ cents a pound. Of the thirty-three firms asked to submit bids, only three responded, the lowest bid being 4 cents a pound.

"I was reluctant to give up the effort to obtain the paper at a fair and reasonable price," continued Senator Fletcher's report. "I therefore appealed direct to the President of the International Paper Company (Mr. Dodge), advising him that the paper was required as a military supply for the publication of the Official War Bulletin, and inviting his attention to Section 120, of the National Defense Act, which authorizes the President to purchase or procure military supplies in time of actual or imminent war at a reasonable price as determined by the Secretary of War.

"I put the question up squarely to the president of the International Company as to whether he would furnish the paper required by the Public Printer for this purpose at a fair and reasonable price, as fixed upon by the Federal Trade Commission, and requested an immediate response.

"This message was sent to the president of the International Paper Company of New York City, on May 11, 1917, and, so far as I know, appears to be the first time that the National Defense Act was invoked to procure supplies for the Government at a reasonable price."

THE I. P. AGREEMENT.

"The president of the International Paper Company replied by wire on the same day that 'in view of the military situation we will manage to secure and will gladly supply the Public Printer with the emergency newsprint paper in quantity named in your telegram for the time being at 2½ cents per pound.'

"Believing that this action by the head of the International Paper Company settled the price of newsprint for the Government during the war emergency, I thanked him for his generous and patriotic offer, and accordingly authorized the Public Printer to purchase newsprint as needed at not to exceed 2½ cents per pound, the price fixed upon by the Federal Trade Commission."

"I was much surprised to be advised by the Public Printer on August 11 that the International Paper Company had undertaken to increase the price on an additional order for newsprint from 2½ to 3 cents per pound. I at once requested the Federal Trade Commission to advise the committee as to whether the proposed increase was justified, especially in view of the fact that the report of the International Paper Company for 1916 shows net earnings for that year of $3,836,492 and a net treasury surplus of $16,238,743."

The Federal Trade Commission, Senator Fletcher relates, gave its decision on August 15, that the increase over 2½ cents a pound was "not justified, nor is the price of 3 cents a pound a fair and reasonable one for newsprint." The commission estimated that a price of 2½ cents a pound would give the International a margin of approximately $5 a ton, or over 10 per cent profit.

THE WAR ORDER ISSUED.

On top of this decision of the Federal Trade Commission, the President, having been appealed to by the Joint Committee, issued an order through the War Department demanding the shipment by the International Paper Company of 400,000 pounds of paper at 2½ cents a pound.

This brought a reply to Secretary Baker from Mr. Dodge in which he spoke of the International Paper Company being "willing at all times to assist the Government and to furnish paper, as it offered to do in its recent bid, for less than the market price and less than the price it receives under contracts."

"It protests most vigorously against the arbitrary action fixing 2½ cents per pound, and hereby gives notice that it reserves its right to appeal, if necessary, to the proper legal authority for the Constitutional protection of its property against confiscation," wrote Mr. Dodge.

The next day, August 29, Mr. Dodge wrote a letter to Senator Fletcher, in which he said:

"As you are aware, this company recently furnished paper to the Government Printing Office at 2½ cents per pound, although it was below the price received on contracts and insufficient to give a fair and just return."

"Recently we made a bid for 200 tons additional paper at 3 cents per pound. Investigation shows that this price would not give us a profit. The reply to our bid was the brutal order from the Secretary of War."

"We will, of course, furnish the paper. The price is unfair and unjust, and we reserve our rights, whatever they may be. This corporation stands ready at all times to aid the Government in every reasonable way. It has contributed largely to the expense of sending troops abroad, aiding the Allies, and otherwise, and it is to be subjected to very heavy taxation. It is certainly a monstrous wrong that we should be subjected to the treatment we are receiving."

Senator Fletcher, commenting upon Mr. Dodge's charge that the price fixed, 2½ cents a pound, was unfair, quotes from the investigation of the Federal Trade Commission, which says that "the activities of trade associations connected with the newsprint and bookpaper industries have contributed to the rise in price of these commodities, and that the effective regulation and supervision of such activities by some governmental agency would tend to restore healthy competition in these industries and thereby to reduce prices to a normal basis."

Senator Fletcher alludes to a request of the newsprint manufacturers in May, 1916, to the Federal Trade Commission to fix a "reasonable price," and the commission finding 2½ cents to be fair, this was agreed to by the manufacturers.

Later, when indictments were brought against several of the manufacturers, including the International Paper Company, alleging violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, the manufacturers, he says, withdrew from the agreement.

CONTEST SPECIALISTS

The MYERS CIRCULATION CO., Inc.

We want two more contracts for this fall.

In position to start work at once.

Will concentrate both crews in large city.

Our service is clean and a credit to your publication.

Home Office:
The Myers Building

Waterloo, Iowa

BRITISH PAPER AT 8¼c. A POUND.

PRICE FIXED IN FEW SPECIAL CASES—SWEDES STRIVE FOR OLD SULPHITE TRADE.

Although the Royal Paper Commission of Great Britain had fixed no prices for news print paper up to September 1, it has appointed from its own number a body known as the disputes committee, which has taken up complaints of high prices made by consumers.

In settling complaints between certain large consumers and large suppliers, the disputes committee fixed for the months of April, May, June and July a price of 8¼ cents a pound for news print.

Neither has the paper commission yet taken advantage of its power to inspect the books of paper manufacturers to ascertain the relation of prices to cost of production, according to information reaching this country.

An interesting development of the recent lifting of the Swedish embargo on sulphite pulp to Great Britain is the strong effect that the Swedish pulp interests are making to regain their business in the United Kingdom. During the period of the embargo, almost two years, British paper makers have forgotten their antebellum prejudices against Canadian sulphite and in recent months have been using it in great quantities.

The Swedish pulp manufacturers have become alarmed over the possibility of the permanent substitution in Great Britain of Canadian for Swedish pulp and are making large price concessions to the British paper interests in order to regain their old trade.

As a result, newspaper publishers of the Island Kingdom are looking forward happily to a considerable reduction in the price of news print paper in the near future.

GEORGIA DAILY SOLD.

The Americus (Ga.) Times-Recorder has been sold to Franc Mangum of Macon, Ga., and Arthur Lucas of Atlanta. The latter will not be actively connected with the business. Mr. Mangum is editor and manager.

G. R. Ellis of Americus has been the owner of the Times-Recorder for seven years, and for the last two years Cranston Williams, now a lieutenant in the army, has been acting editor of it.

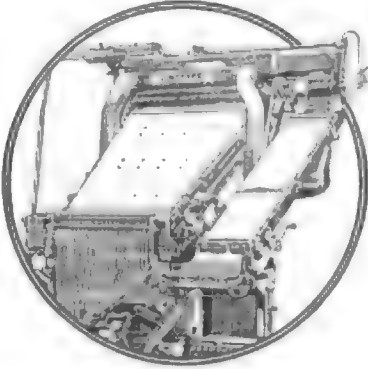

Franc Mangum, the new publisher, was for five and a half years editorial writer and paragrapher of the Macon News, and for the last two years has been practising law and running the weekly Swainsboro (Ga.) Forest-Blade. He has retired from the practice of law. He is a newspaper man of sixteen years' experience, and has worked for numerous papers in the South, having started as a "cub" reporter.

GALLAGHER IN HARTFORD.

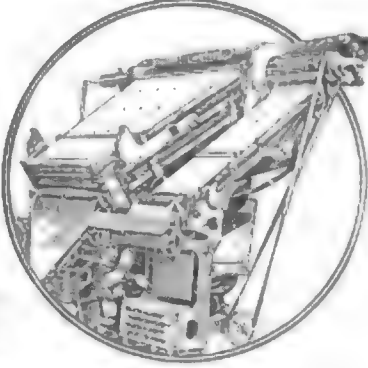

Daniel Gallagher, former Philadelphia newspaper man and short story writer, is now a member of the city staff of the Hartford (Ct.) Evening Post.

"Wise Publishers Will Install These Modern Mergenthaler Models"

—Shreveport Times

MODEL 17
LINOTYPE
Two Magazines With Auxiliary

MODEL 19
LINOTYPE
Two Magazines With Auxiliary

We have a Linotype for every office at a price and upon terms within the reach of every printer

MERGENTHALER Linotype Company

Tribune Building, New York

CHICAGO TORONTO SAN FRANCISCO NEW ORLEANS

A. P. - I. N. S. SUIT IS RENEWED.

PRODUCTION OF TWO YEARS' OFFICE BUSINESS RECORDS ASKED OF COURT.

Ex-Judge Grosscup, on September 18, appeared before Judge Alschuler, in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, Chicago, to argue a motion on behalf of the Associated Press to quash a subpoena duces tecum issued September 10 by Federal Judge Baker on application of Roy D. Keehn, representing the International News Service.

Taking the motion to quash the subpoena under advisement, Judge Alschuler granted leave to Mr. Keehn to produce, if he concludes to do so, an affidavit of Homer V. Hogan, formerly of the Associated Press, in support of contentions regarding the contents of Associated Press messages mentioned in the subpoena.

The subpoena called upon the Chicago headquarters of the Associated Press to produce before a notary public all reports of news transmitted and all service messages received or transmitted by the Central Division office during the two years immediately preceding August 21, 1917.

The International News Service is seeking to establish its contentions that the Associated Press went into court "with unclean hands" in its recent suit charging the I.N.S. with "pirating" its news matter, and therefore has no standing in a court of equity.

Ex-Judge Grosscup pointed out to Judge Alschuler that to comply with the conditions of the subpoena the central division A.P. office would have to produce 1,000 cubic feet of news bulletin sheets and other correspondence.

"This is not a subpoena for specific papers, such as the law contemplates," said Mr. Grosscup, "but a subpoena to produce the whole private correspondence, as well as public correspondence, of the Associated Press central office in the interest of one of its competitors."

"We seek the production of these messages," said Mr. Keehn, "because we know we can show the court that the Associated Press has been guilty of the same practices which it charges against the International News Service—that it has 'lifted' news from early editions of papers of clients of the International News Service."

JOHNSON ALSO A LECTURER.

The duties of Walter C. Johnson, business manager of the Chattanooga (Tenn.) News, continue to multiply. Besides his publishing cares and being secretary-treasurer of the Southern Newspaper Publishers' Association, he was called upon recently to address the Advertising Club of Knoxville. His initial appearance on the lecture platform was well received, according to the advertising critics of the press of Knoxville. His subject, of course, was "The Value of Daily Newspaper Advertising."

GRIM REAPER BUSY HERE.

Hallettsville, Tex., had eleven publications a year ago, but eight have discontinued publication in the last twelve months, largely due to the high cost of production.

A CHAIN OF ARMY CAMP PAPERS.

MANY LEADING PUBLISHERS OF NATION CO-OPERATING WITH J. S. BRYAN.

Plans for publication of a soldiers' weekly newspaper in every National Army and National Guard camp beginning with the week of September 30, under the auspices of the National War Work Council of the Y.M.C.A., have been announced by John Stewart Bryan, publisher of the Richmond News-Leader and secretary of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, who arranged details of co-operation among many other publishers.

Among contributors will be Colonel Roosevelt and many of the best known newspaper workers and cartoonists. President Wilson has endorsed the plan.

The general management of the papers will be under the personal direction of Mr. Bryan and the co-operating publishers will compose an advisory board.

"It seemed hardly probable at first that so large an undertaking could be carried out," said Mr. Bryan, "and it probably would not have been but for the assistance of H. C. Adler of the Chattanooga Times, who suggested that if the papers carried no advertising and were not sold there were no reasons why local publishers would not co-operate to the fullest measure.

"The plan was thereupon worked out by which the Y.M.C.A. would furnish 4,000 papers to each of the cantonments; four of these pages to be supplied from the New York office to the co-operating publisher, and the other four pages of camp news to be set up and all the press work done by the local newspapers."

Mr. Bryan said that among the newspapers and publishers who had joined in the undertaking were:

The Birmingham News, Montgomery Advertiser, Atlanta Constitution, Macon Telegraph, Augusta Herald, Charlotte Observer, Louisville Courier-Journal, New Orleans Item, New Orleans Times-Picayune, Washington Star, New York World, Boston Globe, Trenton Times, Topeka State Journal, Des Moines Register, Chicago Daily News, Tacoma Tribune, Houston Post, Fort Worth Star-Telegram, San Antonio Light, Little Rock Democrat and Oklahoma City Oklahoman.

Explaining his plan, Mr. Bryan said:

"The fact that a man has put on a uniform does not make him any less human. He needs and will respond to the same influences that reached him in civilian life and the publishers of this country have been quick to perceive and ready to help in giving to the men in the camps the vital touch with a great movement on which America has now embarked.

"President Wilson has cordially endorsed the movement: Secretaries Baker and Daniels have prepared articles for the paper; Colonel Theodore Roosevelt will contribute an article; the best cartoonists, among whom may be mentioned James Montgomery Flagg, will draw for the paper; the best editorial talent and the best sport

Up-to-Date Lists

OF THE

Advertising Agents of the World in the Semi-Annual Advertising Agents' Number

OF

THE FOURTH ESTATE

Next Week, September 29th, 1917

Previous Advertising Agents' Numbers of THE FOURTH ESTATE have always attracted profound attention in the advertising world, as providing the only list of its kind to be had anywhere.

The fact that it is preserved and frequently referred to, gives the advertising contained in it more than usual life.

This is probably the reason why so many advertisers look for its issue.

It's an advertising bargain for the newspaper or advertising agent with a message.

Send copy TO-DAY!

THE FOURTH ESTATE

232 West 59th Street

NEW YORK

men will give of their skill unservedly to the making of a paper that will keep the Wisconsin men, who are to be camped in Southern Texas; the New York and Pennsylvania men, who are in camp in South Carolina and Georgia, and all the rest of our American soldiers in vital and active touch with their people at home and with the great heart of this nation.

"The people and the leaders know that the speed with which this war will be won is in direct ratio to the intensity and exaltation of the spirit of the men who do the fighting, and this national paper, printed under the auspices of the war work council of the Y.M.C.A., through the co-operation and assistance of the publishers named, will prove a powerful and effective means for the creation and development and focus of that spirit."

Mr. Bryan's paper, the Richmond (Va.) News-Leader, will cover Camp Lee, near Petersburg, Va.

William M. Rynearson has bought the Edison (Neb.) Star-Mail.

NEWTON NEW CUSTOMS HEAD AT NEW YORK.

Byron R. Newton, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in charge of public buildings, had been selected by Secretary McAdoo to be Collector of the Port of New York to succeed Dudley Field Malone.

Mr. Newton was born at Wirt, N. Y., in 1861, and began newspaper work in Buffalo in 1887. He represented the Associated Press in Cuba during the Spanish-American war and was with the New York Herald for eight years. Mr. Newton became Mr. McAdoo's private secretary in March, 1913, and in October of that year was made Assistant Secretary of the Treasury.

ON CANTONMENT PAPER.

Earl Adams Clark of Fountain City, Indiana, well known in Indiana newspaper circles, has been selected by Secretary of War Baker to take charge of the publication of a military service newspaper at the Louisville (Ky.) cantonment.

BREAKING THE WAR NEWS RULES.

WAR DEPARTMENT GETS A COMPLAINT AGAINST BOSTON NEWSPAPER.

Reports from Boston say that Major General Clarence R. Edwards, Commander of the Twenty-sixth Division, and Brigadier General John A. Johnston, Commander of the Department of the Northeast, have complained to Washington about repeated and flagrant violations by a Boston newspaper of the censorship restrictions imposed by the Government upon the publication of certain classes of news relative to the movement of troops.

On several occasions when the newspaper has published a story calculated to furnish information of military policies, plans and movements to the enemy, the matter has been overlooked on the apology of the editors and the agreement to use more judgment and foresight in the future. Now, however, the military authorities have come to the conclusion that the desire of the offending newspaper to "beat" its contemporaries has been allowed to outweigh its patriotism, and the facts are to be submitted to the Adjutant General's Department at Washington, both as to the Boston paper referred to and a New Haven paper.

The story which is said to have precipitated the present action was one published on September 19, wherein several hundred men are reported as absent from one of the training camps of the State without leave, when, as a matter of fact and according to the report of the officer in command, only twelve of his men were absent, and those on accredited leave.

"It is of the utmost importance that all leakage and sources of information be stopped," said General Johnston. "The press, having imposed upon itself the rules of the Committee on Public Information approved by the Council of National Defense for the protection of the lives of our sons, has placed itself on honor to observe secrecy in absolutely all matters of the movement of troops."

BIG AD IN EDMONTON.

The Edmonton (Alta.) Bulletin last week published a sixteen-page advertisement of a "Made-in-Canada" sale for the James Ramsey, Ltd., Department Store, and had to run a page and a half of the copy over to the next day. The advertisement, which the Bulletin staff believes is the largest ever published in the province, was worked out with the manufacturers by G. H. Tyndall, a well known advertising man of the Canadian Northwest, and most of the advertisements were written by E. W. Gibberd, advertising manager of James Ramsey, Ltd.

CHICAGO NEWS SHIPS SMOKES.

The Chicago Daily News has already sent a preliminary consignment of eight cases of tobacco and cigarettes to the soldiers, sailors and marines in France. Every newspaper in Chicago is raising a tobacco fund for the fighters, but the News is the first to make an actual shipment of smokes.

THE GOSS COMET

Prints 4, 6 or 8-page Newspapers
from Type Forms and Roll Paper

This Press Will Increase Your Profits
Let Us Tell You How

Hundreds of Satisfied Users
Descriptive Literature
Gladly Sent

THE GOSS
PRINTING PRESS
COMPANY

16th Street and Ashland Avenue
CHICAGO, ILL.

THE HERALD'S ICE FUND PRAISED.

CLOSES TWENTY-SIXTH YEAR OF CHARITY AMONG THE POOR OF NEW YORK.

With the approach of cool weather, ending their necessity until next summer, the New York Herald free ice stations closed on September 13, and to the good it has done. An especially gratifying tribute was paid throughout the city, marking the end of the twenty-sixth year of this most useful charity.

The Herald Free Ice fund, which maintained seventeen distribution stations throughout the poorer sections of the city this year, is supported by voluntary contributions of friends of the newspaper. Social service workers and mothers in the more congested neighborhoods have borne witness to the good it has done. Dr. Haven Emerson, health commissioner, whose official position makes his opinion great weight.

"The fact that the Herald Free Ice fund has performed a wonderful service for the poor of the tenements," said Dr. Emerson, "is reflected in the report of infant mortality this summer, which was the lowest on record. During the heat wave in the first part of last August, the infant mortality was only trifling compared with that during the last corresponding heat wave in 1901. We attribute this to the fact that the mothers have been taught to keep the milk cold with Herald free ice."

"I have received many recommendations of the Herald Free Ice Fund from mothers and social workers, so I know how they feel about it. If it had not been for the distribution of this free ice many more babies would have died. The Herald Free Ice Fund has been saving future citizens to the republic. This is certainly a public service, since every citizen, even more particularly in these times, is an asset to the country."

Miss Mary Arnold, executive secretary of the Babies' Welfare Association, a federation of various organizations seeking a betterment in conditions for infants, also commended the Herald Free Ice Fund.

"Through the Herald's co-operation the poor babies of the city are being cared for better every year," she said. "I feel that it is the biggest and greatest charity of them all. Where babies cannot be taken out of the city during the extremely hot weather the next best thing is to supply ice so that their milk may be kept sweet and fresh."

Receipts to the fund came from many different sources. There were many individual subscriptions, and a large number of receipts from benefits and entertainments in the city and at nearby summer resorts.

During the last season 2,800,000 pounds of ice was distributed and 11,200 families were supplied. This was an increase of approximately 300,000 pounds in the amount of ice distributed. Nearly thirty thousand children, mostly babies, were benefited by not getting contaminated food, much of which would have spoiled had it not been for the free ice.

At the last distribution thousands of women joined in telling those in charge of the stations how much they thanked the Herald and the contributors to its fund.

FRIENDLY ADVICE TO NEWSPAPERS.

ADVERTISER TELLS HOW TO GET BUSINESS VIA FREE PUBLICITY.

EDITOR THE FOURTH ESTATE:

SIR: Below is some friendly advice from the Sharples Separator Company, West Chester, Pa., to newspapers. The original is on file in our office.

CARPENTER-SCHNEIDER COMPANY.

Independence Examiner, Independence, Mo.

GENTLEMEN: Your paper of course reaches quite a number of farmers. It is for this reason that we feel sure it will pay our dealer to advertise in it. We want to prove this to him. We can, with co-operation, get him lined up for a nice contract with you.

Suppose you let us have the names of those farmers who subscribe for your paper, who you know are milking cows and should be good prospects for a cream separator or a milking machine. You can probably give us from 500 to 1,000 or more names.

Then, we will circularize these with our literature, enclosing return post cards to check them. Now, when they come back, we'll go right to our dealer, tell him that these people buy and read your paper, and make him realize the necessity of his advertising.

We have worked this scheme before in other towns, and it has never failed to get the dealer to contract for advertising in his local paper.

We have also always found the newspaper glad to insert the following mention in their personal column:

"FREE ART CALENDAR: Every farmer milking cows sending his name and address to the Sharples Separator Co., West Chester, Pa., will receive a beautiful art calendar in nine colors."

Farmers always want everything they can get free. They write in for this in big numbers. Here again we have an excellent lever for getting our dealer to advertise in your paper.

Will you kindly give this matter your consideration, and let us have this list as soon as you can, also advise us when you will run that calendar insert?

SHARPLES SEPARATOR CO.
A. P. Jennings, Mgr. Dealer Service.

AGARD'S NEW WORK.

Clarence M. Agard, former Bridgeport (Ct.) newspaper man, is to act as publicity adviser and press representative of the Woman's Committee of the Connecticut Branch, National Council of Defense. He is also to act in a similar capacity for the Connecticut Allied Temperance Organizations in their campaign to secure favorable action on the legislative amendment, scheduled to come up at the next legislative session, to make the state "bone-dry."

During the last legislative session he was press representative of the Connecticut Prison Association and Connecticut Society of Social Hygiene in their successful campaign to secure legislative authorization for a state reformatory for delinquent women. Also, acting for the third year, as publicity representative of the Connecticut State Conference of Charities and Correction.

CHANGES IN INDIANAPOLIS.

F. J. Miller, who has succeeded Luther K. Bell as exchange editor of the Indianapolis News, has been with that paper for nearly five years, first as assistant telegraph editor and later war editor. Since his graduation from Wesleyan College in 1907, Mr. Miller has spent most of his time in newspaper work, with the Hartford (Ct.) Courant, Havana (Cuba) Post, Oneonta (N. Y.) Star, Detroit Free Press and Indianapolis News.

He is also manager of the American Newspaper Men's Bureau and publisher of the Indianapolis Spectator, both of which have been under the direct personal charge of his brother, Lynn S. Miller, who recently became a corporal in the machine gun company of the First Indiana Infantry.

Hazel T. Sullivan, who has been on the News telegraph desk, has taken the war desk, being succeeded by M. L. Staadecker, formerly city editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal.

NOTES FROM HERE AND THERE

Mose Strauss, city editor of the Cincinnati Times-Star, who has been quite ill for several weeks, suffering from rheumatism, will be back on the job in a couple of weeks.

J. W. Markberry, Cincinnati newspaper man, has been summoned to Washington in connection with the Hoover food investigation.

Joseph T. Mannix, dean of Minnesota newspaper men and former state printer, left Minneapolis this week on a trip to the Orient. He will spend several weeks on the Pacific Coast.

William Truitt, chief operator of the central division of the United Press, Chicago is on vacation, his duties being assumed temporarily by A. F. Platter.

Theodore T. Eckel, agent for the Pittsburgh Press at West Bridgewater, Pa., is a candidate for jury commissioner.

Raymond H. Coll, son of Raymond S. Coll, well known Pittsburgh newspaper man, is in a hospital in France suffering from an attack of acute appendicitis. Young Coll is a member of a regiment of engineers now in France.

Carl A. Wilhelm, reporter on the Dubuque (Ia.) Telegraph Herald, the only married man drafted in Dubuque who did not claim exemption, has become a member of the National

NO LONGER GERMAN.

The Oregon Deutsche Zeitung of Portland, on September 20 changed its name to the Portland American.

Its editor, Max Lucke, who has been under investigation by the Government, and other German employees have been dismissed, according to A. M. Kern, its publisher and hereafter it will be printed wholly in English.

Kern said the changes were made because he had been notified the paper would be suppressed if it attempted to continue publication in German.

Simon P. Olson has become owner of the Upsala (Minn.) News-Tribune.

The Nebraska Republican is the name of a new publication at Lincoln owned by Kline & Smith.

A DINNER OF GREAT POLITICAL SIGNIFICANCE.

A number of New York newspaper men were the guests on September 15 of the Mexican Consul General, Juan T. Burns, at a dinner at the Hotel Astor in celebration of the 107th anniversary of Mexican Independence.

At this banquet were assembled the most prominent Mexicans in New York, without distinction of political party. Men who had been bitter enemies, men of wealth and political significance, accepted the hospitality of Mr. Burns, who on that occasion scored a great success in uniting such previously antagonistic elements.

For instance, among the guests were Rafael Hernandez, former head of the Madero Cabinet; Pedro Lascurain, former secretary of foreign affairs in Mexico and acting president after the resignation of President Madero; Jesus Flores Magon, former minister in the Madero Cabinet and a noted Socialist leader; Fernando Solis Camara and Rudeindo Nieche, members of the Comision Regulatora del Hemiquen, an institution which has been able to raise the price of Yucatan hemo from three to eighteen cents; Emiliano Loper Figueroa, former chief of police of Mexico City; Jose Louis Requena, candidate for the vice-presidency of Mexico on the Felix Diaz ticket; Rafael Reyes Retena, eminent lawyer of Mexico; Jose Castellot, the highest Masonic authority in Mexico and translator of Omar Khayyam poems into the Spanish, and Vladimir Bogunaw Wendhaus, just appointed Russian consul to Mexico.

DISPATCH LINES UP CLUBS TO AID "SMOKES FUND."

The Pittsburgh Dispatch has appealed to the clubs of the city for contributions to its fund for tobacco and other luxuries for American soldiers. Replies enclosing checks have been received from several social and civic organizations and the fund is growing appreciably day by day, being now well past the thousand dollar mark.

BARNHART ELECTED.

The Northern Indiana Editorial Association at its meeting this week in Wabash elected the following officers: President, Dean Barnhart of Rochester; vice-president, Charles Ross of Delphi; secretary, Morton Stults of Wabash; and treasurer, Harry Palmer of Manchester.

NEW AGENCY CHARTERED.

The W. A. Patterson Company of New York was incorporated on September 20 as a general advertising agency by W. A. Patterson, formerly manager of the New York office of the Curtis Publishing Company; A. J. Brown and A. M. Williams of 414 Chestnut street, Brooklyn.

DONAHUE IN NEW YORK.

Scott Donahue has been added to the New York staff of Cone, Lorenzen & Woodman, publishers' representatives. He is a Western man of several years' experience.

NOW CAPTAIN FORD.

Captain Alfred J. L. Ford, formerly with the Boston Herald, is now with the 101st Regiment in the 26th Division, U. S. A.

A STRICTER CENSORSHIP ON NEWS GOING ABROAD.

A provision for censorship, under regulations of the President, of mail, cable, radio, or other communication between the United States and foreign countries, was written into the Trading with the Enemy Bill on September 20 by the Senate and House conferees at a special meeting. It is designed to prevent military information from reaching Germany by relay through Latin-American and other neutral countries.

HAYES SERVES HIS COUNTRY BEST WITH PEN.

On the basis that his editorial articles on food conservation are worth more to the nation than the services of any one man at the front, military exemption has been granted to Glenn G. Hayes, managing editor of Better Farming, a Chicago publication. The exemption was granted upon the request of Fred L. Chapman, president of the Farm Press Publishing Co.

ACKERMAN TO SPEAK.

At the September 27th dinner of the New York Advertising Club's export division, Carl W. Ackerman of the New York Tribune, former newspaper correspondent in Germany, will speak on "The Economic Plans of the Central Powers."

PAPER CARGO COMING.

The Publishers Paper Company is loading a large ship with news print at its Harmsworth Mill in Grand Falls, N. F., the cargo to arrive in the United States within the next week.

TEXANS SHOW PROSPERITY.

An exceedingly interesting and profitable semi-annual session of the East Texas Press Association was held this week in Henderson. J. I. Taylor of the State Press Association and the Galveston News made two addresses. The editors were happy and showed signs of the prosperity which is sweeping the agricultural and timber sections throughout East Texas.

The newspaper men were shown every courtesy by the Henderson citizens, who felt honored in having them as their guests. The next meeting will be held in Longview in April. Officers for the current year are: President, G. E. Watford, Lufkin News; secretary, W. L. West, Polk County Enterprise.

LEAD STARTS LIBEL SUIT.

Suit for $40,000 for alleged libel has been filed against H. L. Baggerly and R. L. Burgess, publisher and editor, respectively of the San Jose (Cal.) Evening News. The suit grew out of a story published in the news alleging that Max Reinhard, the plaintiff, manufactured toys of lead and shipped them to Switzerland, later to be re-shipped into Germany to be re-made into bullets.

O'MALLEYS OUT WEST.

Charles J. O'Malley, president of the O'Malley Selling & Advertising Service, Boston, and Mrs. O'Malley are enjoying a month's trip in the Rocky Mountain region. They are "doing" Yellowstone Park this week and next, and then will go to Estes National Park in Colorado, where they will remain for a time.

K. C. POST FILES A REBUTTAL.

RELEASE DATE OF GERARD STORY NOT SET BY PUBLIC LEDGER, IT SAYS.

EDITOR THE FOURTH ESTATE.

SIR: A Philadelphia lawyer named Thomas Raeburn White seems to have gone to considerable trouble to impress upon the readers of THE FOURTH ESTATE that the statement of the Kansas City Post in regard to its dispute with the Public Ledger over the Gerard articles is "wilfully misleading and untrue."

Now, we do not know Mr. White or anything about him except that he is a Philadelphia lawyer. Of course this fact arouses considerable suspicion within us, but maybe we should be excused for this because we of the West have long been taught to beware of Philadelphia lawyers.

Anyway, to set THE FOURTH ESTATE and its readers right and Mr. White wrong, we wish to submit the following statement:

Early in August we noticed that the Denver Post, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and the Oklahoma City Daily Oklahoman were publishing the Gerard articles simultaneously with the Philadelphia Public Ledger. These three papers are located to the west, east and south of us and within a 500-mile radius. We naturally desired to also publish the articles to prevent these papers from encroaching on our territory.

With this aim in view, we wired the Ledger, offering $150 for the articles. We received no answer to this telegram and two days later we again wired as follows:

"Will pay same price as Denver Post for Gerard articles. Two papers are under same ownership. Appreciate reply by wire."

Within two hours we received this reply:

"Accept your offer for Gerard series at same price paid by Denver Post or three hundred dollars."

In these wires, not one word was said about a release date and as other papers surrounding us were publishing them, we naturally supposed they were for immediate release.

In fact, they would not have been of the least value to us unless they were. The minute we received the telegram of acceptance, we announced in a large way that the articles would start in the Post the next day. We also printed and distributed through our carriers and agents many thousands of full-page circulars.

After all this had been accomplished, a bomb arrived in the shape of a wire from the Ledger, stating that we could not publish the series until September 16. Naturally we were in a serious predicament and there was nothing left for us to do but go ahead and publish as we had announced and so wired the Ledger.

In answer to this wire we received a host of telegrams threatening all sorts of dire penalties. In other words the Ledger expected us to carry the burden and make ourselves ridiculous in the eyes of our readers because somebody in their office had not made the date of release clear in the telegram of acceptance of our offer.

In the hearing on the temporary injunction before Federal Judge Stone, the Ledger attorney claimed we knew the date of release to be September 16, because of a circular letter which had been addressed to F. H. Bonfils, who is the president of the corporation which owns the Post.

We certainly had no knowledge of such a letter and neither had Mr. Bonfils and the first we heard of it was when a supposed copy was introduced as evidence. From its appearance, it was one of those letters which every syndicate sends out broadcast when ever it has anything to sell.

Further, Mr. Bonfils makes his headquarters in Denver and is only in Kansas City about four or five times a year and then only for short periods. At the time the Ledger claims to have sent him the letter, which was several days before any communication between this paper and the Ledger, he was away from Denver on an extended fishing trip.

At the injunction hearing the position of the Post's attorney, F. M. Lowe, was that the matter was a question of damages, if any, and was not a question for injunctive relief. It was he who first suggested that this paper give bond and Mr. White's statement in THE FOURTH ESTATE that the suggestion did not originate with us is absolutely false, which is also true of his further statement that we desired to furnish a bond of "only $250 or $500."

In one of the Ledger's threatening telegrams, it stated that it would hold us to damages to the amount of $250 for each time we published an article, about $7,000, and this was the amount of the bond we suggested. The Ledger attorney asked for a bond of $1 for each copy of the Post containing the articles, which meant the sum of $150,000 each day for about 30 days, or $4,500,000. The rather humorous compromise was $15,000.

The Ledger's statement that the reason the injunction was not granted was because the Ledger did not apply for it until the period of publication had about half expired is also far from the facts.

Judge Stone, in refusing the injunction, made no statement of his reasons. He did not say it was because of that fact or because Mr. Lowe had made the point that Mr. Gerard had obtained his information as a public official and at public expense and therefore had no right to copyright his articles and that the law distinctly states no injunction can be granted in copyright cases where there is the least doubt of the legality of the copyright.

W. M. BARTON.
General Manager, Kansas City Post

DRAMATIC WRITERS SHIFT.

Brock Pemberton, until recently dramatic reporter of the New York Times, has joined the staff of Arthur Hopkins, theatrical manager.

George S. Kaufman, formerly dramatic reporter on the New York Tribune, has succeeded Mr. Pemberton on the Times.

J. A. Pierce, formerly of the Evening Sun, has succeeded Mr. Kaufman on the Tribune.

AMERICA'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER PLANT

TWELFTH AND OLIVE STREETS

A Monument

To the Platform of

Joseph Pulitzer

THIS imposing structure of steel, stone and concrete, the fifth home of the POST-DISPATCH, was born of necessity. The paper's circulation during the thirty-three years of its existence has steadily grown, until today "St. Louis' One Big Newspaper" ranks as one of the five largest Sunday newspapers in America.

A GREAT PLANT

Built to Make the

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH.

A Greater Newspaper

AN entirely new modernized equipment, from the lead slugs to the presses, has been installed, and now the POST-DISPATCH, with its clear, perfectly printed pages, tremendous circulation, more news and more features, is one of the best, if not THE BEST, advertising "Buy" in America.

The "Backbone" of POST-DISPATCH Supremacy is Quality and Quantity Circulation.

OUR GUARANTEE:

The Post-Dispatch will accept advertisements with the guarantee that its paid circulation in the City of St. Louis is greater than that of all the morning or evening newspapers combined.

92% Weekday in St. Louis and Suburbs

Member Audit Bureau of Circulations

THE S. C. BECKWITH SPECIAL AGENCY,

Sole Agents Foreign Advertising

Tribune Building New York 3rd Natl. Bk. Bldg. St. Louis, Mo. Ford Bldg. Detroit Tribune Building Chicago

WITH HANNIBAL JOURNAL.

Things have started to move briskly in Hannibal (Mo.) newspaper circles since William G. Naylor took charge of the Morning Journal as general manager. He has made several radical changes in the make-up of the paper and has added considerably to the local advertising patronage of the paper. The plant of the Journal is being thoroughly overhauled and repaired.

Frank Trew, formerly with the Hannibal Municipal Gas Company, has become advertising manager of the Journal, succeeding Charles Herin, who is now connected with the Acme Milling Company in Hannibal.

E. B. Church, formerly with the Standard Printing Company in that city, has been appointed job foreman and E. E. Church has been advanced from make-up man to mechanical superintendent.

SERVICE CORNER

599—"I want to get in touch with a good wide-awake reporter at once."

600—"We are thinking of putting on a circulation contest and would appreciate your sending the name of two or three contest men who are using your columns."

601—"Wire us, please, names and addresses of the best known contest companies. We naturally want the strongest and most reliable men in the business."

FORMER CHICAGO WRITER IN BRITISH AIR CORPS KILLED.

David K. Billings, former Chicago newspaper man, has been killed during a practice flight at Birmingham, England, where he was serving as a member of the British Royal Flying Corps. He was at one time Sunday editor of the Inter-Ocean.

CANADA ADVERTISES TO SELL ANOTHER LOAN.

WHOLE CAMPAIGN PLACED IN HANDS OF THE C.P.A.—PAPERS GET FULL CARD
RATES WITHOUT COMMISSIONS.

Sir Thomas White, Finance Minister of Canada, has decided to conduct an extensive educational advertising campaign in connection with the "Fourth Domestic War Loan," which, it is expected, will be issued in November.

Changed conditions make it desirable from an economic standpoint that there should be a much wider distribution of this loan than was considered necessary in connection with any of the three preceding domestic war loans. Consideration has been given also to the psychological effect on the national spirit in relation to the war, of the arousing of general interest in the coming war loan and the consequent increasing of the number of subscribers from 37,000 as in the last war loan to 100,000 or 150,000.

In view of these considerations, it has been decided to make the advertising campaign in the press such as would appeal to the patriotism, devotion and self-sacrifice of the great masses of the people as well as to the business sense of the investor.

While detailed statements of the cost of the campaign have not been prepared, it is likely the expenditure on press advertising will be in the neighborhood of $150,000.

The press publicity campaign will be handled by the Canadian Press Association with the assistance of five recognized advertising agents selected for that purpose by the Association. It will be readily understood that the campaign, as outlined above, is one that calls for expert copy-writing and illustrating service. Through the patriotic co-operation of the five agents selected, with the Finance Minister and the Canadian Press Association, Inc., arrangements have been made under which the various publications will receive their full card rates for the advertising without any deduction for commission.

The Finance Minister will pay to the Canadian Press Association a certain sum for the organization of the campaign, preparation of plans, copy, etc., and that sum will be distributed by the Canadian Press Association among the co-operating advertising agents.

At the request of the Finance Minister, the Canadian Press Association named two advisory boards, composed of publishers and advertising agents, respectively, to co-operate with the Finance Minister and the bond dealers in the promotion of the publicity campaign. These boards are composed as follows:

Advisory board of publishers.—J. H. Woods, Calgary Herald; W. J. Taylor, Woodstock, Sentinel-Review; George E. Scroggie, Toronto Mail and Empire; H. A. Robert, La Presse, Montreal; W. E. Smallfield, Renfrew Mercury; John Weld, Farmer's Advocate, London; John M. Imrie, manager of the Canadian Press Association.

Advisory board of advertising agents.—C. T. Pearce, A. McKim, Ltd., Toronto; J. J. Gibbons, J. J. Gibbons, Ltd., Toronto; J. P. Patterson, Norris-Patterson, Ltd., Toronto; E. Desbarats, Desbarats Advertising Agency, Ltd., Montreal; J. E. McConnell, McConnell & Fergusson, London.

The five advertising agents directly represented on the advisory board of agents are those selected to prepare the copy, etc., for the campaign.

For working purposes these two boards have been merged into one joint committee of which the chairman is J. H. Woods and the secretary John M. Imrie, president and manager, respectively, of the Canadian Press Association.

The C.P.A. is emphasizing to Canadian newspapers that the loan must be made a success and must have the fullest promotion and from the press. A statement sent out to the press says:

"It is absolutely essential in the interests of the country that the 'Fourth Domestic War Loan' should be a complete success. The loan is required not only to finance Canada's further participation in the war but also to finance the purchase of food and other war supplies in Canada by Great Britain and the Allies. Unless the Canadian Government is in a position to arrange credits in Canada for these war purchases, they will have to be made in other countries in which such credits can be arranged. The failure or merely partial success of the Fourth Dominion War Loan would have a very serious effect upon the agricultural and industrial prosperity of the country.

"Even without regard to the special circumstances in connection with the placing of this loan, outlined above, it would be the privilege and duty of the press of Canada to use every possible effort to make it a complete success. But the circumstances referred to impose a special duty and obligation on the Canadian press in this connection.

"The association has assumed the responsibility of handling the press publicity and to that extent of helping to make the loan a success. The association looks to the individual newspapers of Canada to do everything in their power to insure the complete success of the loan.

"With respect to the arrangement between the association and the advertising agencies in this campaign, the association wishes to make it quite clear to its members that this arrangement is a special one, made under extraordinary conditions for a large Government purpose. It is not to be taken as a precedent to any degree whatever either by the agencies or by the newspapers."

ON FOOD ADMINISTRATION.

For the convenience of editors who wish to have detailed information about the Food Administration the following pamphlets are now available and will be supplied on request by the trade and technical press section of the Food Administration, Washington:

"Food Administration" contains letters from President Wilson outlining a food-control policy and statements of Mr. Hoover before Congress and elsewhere dealing with food-control methods.

"The full text of the law creating the United States Food Administration."

"United States Food Administration." Executive order of President Wilson creating the United States Food Administration with announcement of the plan for wheat, flour, and bread control. Personnel of the wheat fair-price committee, and statistics of the international situation in cereals, food, animals, meats, dairy products, pork products, wool, leather, sugar, etc.

"Ten lessons on food conservation," giving statistics and facts for teaching conservation methods.

WAR SHIFTS IN HARTFORD.

The Hartford (Ct.) Evening Post staff has been particularly "shot to pieces" by the war conditions. Melville Shulthies, Trinity College undergraduate, capital and political reporter, has left to join the quartermaster's department with the rank of corporal. He was presented with a wrist watch by members of the staff as he left.

Emmett O'Neil, police and court reporter, has joined a hospital unit with rank of sergeant.

Eugene C. Kelcey of the city staff left with Company B, 101st Machine Gun Battalion, while George Vennart, also of the city staff, is a member of the Third Ambulance Company, 26th Army Division.

FIFTY YEARS AT TYPE CASE ENOUGH FOR MILLER.

After setting type more than fifty years on the Elizabeth Daily Journal and its predecessor, the New Jersey Journal, Edward Miller concluded he had worked long enough and resigned this week. It has always been Mr. Miller's boast that he never wore glasses a day and that he could handle the smallest type after fifty years' service as well as the first day he started work.

THREE PAPERS GAGGED BY KAISER'S CENSOR.

Three Berlin morning papers were suppressed last week by the censor. They are the Reventlow Journal, the Deutsche Tageszeitung, the radical Freisinnige Zeitung and the moderate Liberal Boersen Zeitung.

The reasons for this step are unknown, nor is it known how long the papers are to remain suppressed.

NEW MACHINERY.

Labor saving equipment is being installed by the Wilmington (Del.) Every Evening.

SIMPSON MOVING UP.

In defiance of Horace Greeley's "Young man, go West," Joe H. Simpson, who has just become Atlanta manager of the Western Newspaper Union, has found success in the other direction. After serving his apprenticeship over thirty years ago on the Heraldsburg (Cal.) Enterprise, he started working his way East.

JOE H. SIMPSON

His first drive took him to Stockton, Kan., where he published the Democrat in 1887. He next became a representative in the national advertising field for the Missouri Press Association, under Walter Williams, now dean of the Missouri School of Journalism. He busied himself in Sedalia, Mo., for seven years in bulletin and poster advertising and as advertising manager of the Democrat, resigning to become advertising manager of the El Paso (Tex.) Times in 1899. In the next two years he published the Corsicana (Tex.) Morning Times and the Ada (Okla.) Star and then traveled for ten years in the service of the American Type Founders Company.

In the meanwhile he managed a successful campaign in 1910 to move the capital of Oklahoma from Guthrie to Oklahoma City and in 1913 he took up headquarters in that place as manager of the local type and machinery department of the Western Newspaper Union. He was there only a short time when he was advanced to manager of the Birmingham (Ala.) branch, from which he was shifted after four years to his present connection.

ANOTHER KANSAS MERGER.

The Medicine Lodge (Kan.) Index has acquired its competitor, the Cresset, by purchase and the two papers will be merged under the Index masthead. L. M. Axline was the former editor and owner of the Cresset. In discussing the merger, the Index said:

"The thing mostly responsible for the merging is the cold fact that it was necessary as a business proposition. There is no room for two newspapers in a small town."

NEW INDIANA DAILY.

Portland, Ind., will have a new daily when the Republican, a weekly, will expand. E. A. Fulton and Levi Gilpin will be publishers of the new daily.

BOND ADVERTISING NOT AUTHORIZED.

SENATE FOLLOWS EXAMPLE OF HOUSE AND LEAVES PUBLICITY METHODS TO SECRETARY OF TREASURY.

The United States Senate, as the House did, has passed the Liberty Loan Bill without authorizing paid advertising for selling the Bonds.

Secretary McAdoo's statement to the Senate Finance Committee on the War Credits Bill indicated that the paid newspaper advertising campaign for the next issue of Liberty Bonds advocated by some publishers' and advertising associations will not be adopted.

Limited newspaper advertising at the most is possible, Secretary McAdoo stated. He advised the committee that only one bond issue between now and the December session of Congress is planned or possible.

"It may be necessary to use some advertising," said Secretary McAdoo. "I do not know whether it will be in newspapers or some other form."

He stated that the publishers' program of $2,500,000 for paid periodical advertising could not be adopted, because it virtually would take the entire available expense allowance for floating the bonds. The expense of floating the first issue with no paid newspaper advertising, he said, was about $2,600,000.

That the cost of floating new issues would exceed the last was stated by the Secretary, and the committee increased the House allowance of one-tenth of one per cent., to one-fourth of one per cent.

"There is a campaign on for paid advertising in the newspapers," said Secretary McAdoo. "I have not committed myself to any sort of advertising campaign, but to sell the bonds for one-fourth of one per cent. is a monumental task.

"Our population is not educated to buying Government bonds. The decision to sell two billion of Liberty Bonds was not made arbitrarily. We had to have the money. I am satisfied that future issues of these bonds are going to cost a great deal more than the first. If advertising is necessary, I want to be free to advertise."

Agreement on the War Credits bill, authorizing $11,538,000,000 of new bonds and certificates, was reached on September 19 by Senate and House conferees with no change in the issues proposed.

Minor changes, only, were made by the conferees. They adopted expense allowances of one-fifth of 1 per cent. for the bonds and war-saving certificates, as originally recommended by Secretary McAdoo, and one-tenth of 1 per cent. for the Treasury certificates of indebtedness.

ture campaign was in excess of a million dollars.

Advertising writers and illustrators, largely under the direction of the National Advertising Board, prepared the copy and designs—and all without a dollar's cost to the Government.

In fact, here is the distinction that was made: the Government bought the paper on which the Liberty bonds were printed at least it has never been announced that paper manufacturers contributed it, but the Government did not buy the paper space on which the advertisements of the bonds were printed.

As I have stated, that space was paid for by business men and by business organizations. In a word, a small part of the people did what all the people, through their Government, should have done; for we surely believe, in waging a war for democracy, that the people are the Government—not some of them, but all of them.

There are two points strongly urged in the Times' editorial which seem impressive, almost conclusive, but they appear far less formidable when looked at in the light of all the facts, some of which the Times could hardly have known.

The first is the point that "it is not going to be necessary to promote the sale of bonds by paid advertising."

ADVERTISING IN THE FIRST LOAN.

In the first Liberty Loan, paid advertising was used, and Secretary McAdoo bears vigorous witness to its great value. It certainly would not be of less value in the forthcoming loan. And it happens that the high degree of value which paid advertising rendered the first loan was fully demonstrated.

In Rochester, Detroit and Cleveland, where the advertising was most efficiently done, the number of bond buyers secured, in proportion to population, was far beyond the normal ratio for the country.

For example, over 60,000 individual buyers were obtained for the bonds in Rochester, equivalent to a buyer in every family.

This remarkable result, far in excess of the average for a city of the size of Rochester, was clearly due to the advertising.

The Rochester newspapers gave as much editorial and news support, on which the Times properly lays much stress, as did newspapers in any city. The Rochester bankers and business men were as generous of their time and as efficient in using it as men in other cities—but there was something in and through and behind all these efforts, the advertising, with its insistent and continuous call for action.

That is the place and function of advertising—on the broad background of news and editorial comment supplied by the press it focuses the mandatory appeal to act. Hoover found this out in his work for Belgium. News and editorial space gave information, but the final spur to action was the advertising. This has been demonstrated again and again. The experiences of Rochester, Detroit, Cleveland, among larger cities, and of Joplin, Mo., and Muncie, Ind., among smaller cities, on the Liberty Loan, are only fresh demonstrations. (Continued on Twenty-sixth Page.)

PUBLISHING PAPER HE ONCE CARRIED.

William S. Cady, who is now half-owner, editor and manager of the Fredonia (Kan.) Daily Herald, started on that paper thirteen years ago as its first carrier and stayed with it until he entered college, acting as a reporter during his high school days. During his four years at the University of Kansas he held every responsible position on both business and editorial staffs of the University Daily Kansan and upon graduation joined the staff of the Dodge City (Kan.) Daily Globe as advertising manager.

He shifted to Lawrence, Kan., early this year as advertising manager of the Journal-World and remained there until this month, when he bought out the interest of Edward F. Hudson in the Herald, which is a member of the Associated Press. His present partner, Ben S. Hudson, expects to leave for Fort Sill, Okla., in a few days as captain of Company E, Kansas National Guard.

GREEN BAY STAFF CHANGES.

George Whitney Calhoun has become city editor of the Green Bay (Wis.) Press-Gazette, succeeding Edwin C. Hart, now a second lieutenant in the Officers' Reserve Corps.

Max Rosman has been appointed to the telegraph desk of the Press-Gazette, vice T. A. Bedell, who has received a lieutenant's commission in the Wisconsin field artillery.

Victor I. Minahan, president of the Press-Gazette Company, has been commissioned a captain in the Reserve Artillery and is now regimental adjutant at Camp Custer, near Battle Creek, Mich.

A. H. Israel, reporter on the Press-Gazette, is a corporal in the Wisconsin field artillery, and Beaumont Currier, a mailing clerk on the same paper, is a private in that branch.

FRENCH PAPERS TO CUT AGAIN.

The interministerial Press Committee of France has been advised that Norwegian print paper manufacturers have just cancelled their contracts because of the German submarine blockade. A similar step has been taken by the Swedish manufacturers on the ground that the export of print paper has been forbidden by the Swedish government.

As the French newspapers draw 50 per cent. of their supply from Scandinavia it is foreseen that they very soon will be obliged again to reduce the size of their sheets. The increase in price before this caused an economy of 15 to 18 per cent. in the consumption of paper.

SHIFTS IN SAVANNAH.

Roger Daniels is acting as reporter on the Savannah (Ga.) Press, succeeding Sam Orr, now a lieutenant in the Officers' Reserve Corps, but expects to resign on September 28 to handle publicity work for the Y.M.C.A. at its Atlanta camp.

John Suthie is temporarily acting as a reporter on the Press, succeeding Nunnally Johnson, now in the Georgia Hussars, and is also covering schools, marine news, etc., which were formerly handled by Ted Dickson. The latter is in the Coast Artillery Corps.

ADS COULD HALVE TIME AND EXPENSE OF LOAN.

ASSERTIONS OF SECRETARY M'ADOO AND THE NEW YORK TIMES ANSWERED—ADVISORY BOARD PLAN OUTLINED

BY HERBERT S. HOUSTON,
Chairman National Advertising Advisory Board.

There was more than a million dollars of paid advertising devoted to the sale of the first Liberty Loan, a fact which the editorial in the New York Times, noted in THE FOURTH ESTATE last week, overlooks.

Every line of it was paid for—but not by the Government. In six great bound volumes, examples of this advertising, from every one of the twelve Federal Reserve Districts, were brought together and presented to Secretary McAdoo in Washington by the National Advertising Advisory Board, which had been constituted by the Associated Advertising Clubs to serve the nation throughout the war without pay.

In telegrams, in letters, and in person Secretary McAdoo stated to the advertising board that this paid advertising had been of "immeasurable value in making a market for the Liberty bonds"; he gave it as his judgment that it stood second in service only to the direct personal work of salesmen from banks and bond houses.

Many columns of this advertising appeared in the New York Times and in other leading papers throughout the country, and the papers were paid their full rates for it.

And the Government didn't pay for it.

Patriotic bankers, merchants, and other business men contributed space in the papers for which they had contracted or they bought and paid for additional space; advertising clubs bought space; the New York Stock Exchange carried through a notable campaign of paid advertising; the billposters of the country, the street car and electric sign advertising interests, the foreign-language newspapers generously contributed paid space—the total cost of space for the en-

SQUELCHING THE DISLOYAL NEWSPAPERS.

ALL ALIEN LANGUAGE WAR COMMENTS MAY HAVE TO BE TRANSLATED FOR POST OFFICE—NEW YORKERS ACT.

The joint conferees of the Senate and House in approving the Trading with the Enemy Act, widened the scope of the provision to prevent publication of seditious utterances or disloyal criticism of the Government in the conduct of the war.

The Senate bill carried an amendment by Senator King of Utah, compelling all German language publications to print, in parallel columns, an English translation of any criticism of the Government.

This was replaced in conference by one written by Judge Lamar, Assistant Attorney General, embracing publications printed in all foreign languages and stipulating that, instead of printing the parallel column in English, they must file an exact translation accompanied by an affidavit, with the post office of the city in which the publications are located.

Publications violating this provision may be deprived of the use of the mails.

The amendment as accepted by the conferees follows:

"Ten days after the approval of this act and until the end of the present war it shall be unlawful for any person, firm, corporation, or association to print, publish, or circulate, or cause to be printed, published, or circulated, in any foreign language, any news item, editorial, or other printed matter respecting the Government of the United States or any nation engaged in the present war, its policies, international relations, the state or conduct of the war, or any matter relating thereto:

"Provided, That this section shall not apply to any print, newspaper, or publication where the publisher or distributor thereof, on or before offering the same for mailing, or in any manner distributing it to the public, has filed with the Postmaster at the place of publication, in the form of an affidavit, a true and complete translation of the entire article containing such matter proposed to be published in such print, newspaper, or publication, and has caused to be printed in plain type, in the English language, at the head of each such item, editorial or other matter, on each copy of such print or publication, the words:

"True translation filed with the Postmaster at —, on —, as required by this act."

"Any print, newspaper, or publication, in any foreign language, which does not conform to the provisions of this section, is hereby declared to be non-mailable, and it shall be unlawful for any person, firm, corporation, or association to transport, carry, or otherwise publish or distribute any matter which is made non-mailable by the provisions of the act relating to espionage, approved June 15, 1917.

"Provided further, that upon evidence satisfactory to him that any print, newspaper, or publication printed in a foreign language may be printed, published, and distributed free from the foregoing restrictions and conditions without detriment to the United States in the conduct of the present war, the President may cause to be issued to the printers or publishers of such print, newspaper, or publication a permit to print, publish, or circulate the issue or issues of the print, newspaper, or publication free from such restrictions and requirements, such permit to be subject to revocation at his discretion. And the Postmaster General shall cause copies of all such permits and revocations of permits to be furnished to the Postmaster of the Post Office serving the place from which the print, newspaper, or publication granted the permit is to emanate. All matter printed, published, and distributed under permits shall bear at the head thereof in plain type in the English language the words: 'Published and distributed under permit authorized by the Act of — on file at the Post Office of —.'

"A person who shall make an affidavit containing any false statement in connection with the translation provided for in this act shall be guilty of the crime of perjury and subject to the punishment provided therefor by Section 125 of the Act of March 4, 1909, and any person, firm, corporation, or association violating any other requirement of this act shall, on conviction thereof, be punished by a fine of not more than $500, or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or in the discretion of the court, may be both fined and imprisoned."

NEW YORKERS ORGANIZE AGAINST SEDITIOUS NEWSPAPERS.

For the purpose of making an end of sedition in all forms, a group of prominent men met in New York on September 19 to start a national movement. James M. Beck, ex-deputy attorney general, was the principal speaker. The next step in the campaign will be the holding of a mass meeting in Madison Square Garden. The first meeting was held under the auspices of the American Defense Society.

In his address Mr Beck said:

"Within the past forty-eight hours I read a criticism so ambiguous and its force so great that its obvious purpose was to reach the people in a way which was quite beyond the processes of law.

"It was in a newspaper, and this paper is one of the most influential newspapers. The editorial in this newspaper commenced with this sentence—I am quoting from memory—'The Red Cross,' it said, 'has appropriated $10,600,000 to suffering in France and a little over $1,000,000 to the suffering in all the other countries.'

"It proceeded quite insidiously to say just that.

"And yet, as no one had ever raised a question as to the division of the Red Cross fund, what could have been the effect upon the thousands of uneducated minds that read the editorials except to feel—the Italian, the British subject, the Serb, the Armenians, or any other allied nations—to feel that they were being treated unfairly?

"That was the obvious and unavoidable effect, to create in the minds of thousands of people in this city that everything was being done for France and very little was being done for those in the other countries.

"I picked up an evening paper of New York the next day and I saw a special dispatch from Washington. It said Italy was feeling badly about the great failure of support from one of the allied nations, and it went on to say that it was not France, it was not Great Britain, it was not Russia, but it could probably be readily guessed what nation it was that had failed in the support of Italy.

"What was the purpose of that special dispatch except to suggest to thousands of Italian citizens of this country that Italy's armies, which are making such a gallant struggle on the crest of the Alps, were being slighted in this country?

"How are we going to get after those people? We cannot, because a newspaper correspondent insidiously suggests that Italy is not getting due treatment from the United States, or that the Red Cross is giving everything to France and nothing to Russia or Italy or England, say that that criticism is necessarily seditious or traitorous.

"In my study of human life the greatest power of human society appears as not the Government nor the spiritual power of the church but as public opinion. And if there be public opinion militant enough it can reach these seditious newspapers and speakers.

"Suppose the best citizens of New York would get together in a kind of quasi-jury and if all the men were large enough they could stop the sowing of the seeds of sedition. They could say to the owners of these seditious newspapers, 'Unless you stop these seditious editorials we will not advertise in your papers.'

"In other words, let the newspaper that is deliberately sowing sedition feel this public opinion in the only way it is likely to feel it, namely, in the receipts over the advertising counter."

WATSON AGAIN ON GRILL.

Thomas E. Watson has been ordered by the Post Office Department to appear in Washington September 24 to show cause why his new publication, the Thomson Guard, should not be excluded from the mails. Recently the Jeffersonian, a weekly published by the Jeffersonian Publishing Company, of which Watson is president and editor, was excluded from the mails because of alleged seditious articles and criticisms of the selective draft law.

The Thomson Guard then was acquired by Watson, and appeared as a weekly, with articles signed by him,

BANISHMENT OF MASSES FROM MAILS UPHELD.

Judge A. N. Hand of the Federal District Court of New York decided last week that the Masses, the Socialist publication, had been properly excluded from the mails and refused to enjoin Postmaster Patten from withholding the September issue from the mail.

Judge Learned Hand had directed the postmaster to mail the August number, which had also been held up, but United States Attorney Caffey obtained an order delaying the matter until after an appeal had been decided by the Circuit Court. Thus two numbers of the magazine are now held up in the Post Office.

While the refusal of Judge Hand is based principally on the technical point that the offending publication violates the rule that periodicals must be regularly issued to be entitled to the second class privilege, he says that the September issue, while much milder in tone than that of August, continues to "hold up violators of the Conscription Act to admiration" and to say what the editor thought he could safely say to promote opposition to the war.

The opinion says that a persistent propaganda glorifying the deeds of notorious violators of the Conscription Act might promote disloyalty to the military forces and cause obstruction in recruiting as much as a formal direct incitement to violation of the law. The opinion adds:

"It is always to be remembered that the Masses is not attacking a mere party program or executive policy, but is seeking to undermine those means which the nation has adopted to protect the people of the United States as well as civilization itself from the assaults of a powerful foe after a declaration of war had been made."

The court says that united effort is of the highest consequence. In the opinion are extracts from the September issue of the Masses which, the court declares, are "direct appeals to resist conscription."

TRANSLATIONS OF NO USE, SAYS THE HEROLD.

Commenting on the Enemy Trading bill providing that all foreign language newspapers must translate into English their articles commenting upon the war policies of the United States or its Allies, the New Yorker Herold said:

"We are convinced that this provision, in case it becomes a law, will signify not an advantage, but an injury, to the interest of the United States, for it will handicap the work of pacification and enlightenment of their German readers being carried on by the German newspapers—the work of pacification and enlightenment in a loyal sense. Besides, there are enough ways and means already at the disposal of the Government to-day for assuring itself of the contents of the German language sheets.

"So far as the Herold is concerned, we should like to say that the parallel translation in English of our articles will merely prove that which we have constantly directed special attention to, i. e., the entire absence of disloyal articles."

WEDDING BELLS.

James M. Cox, governor of Ohio and publisher of the Dayton News and Springfield News, and Miss Margaretta Blair were married on September 16 at Cherry Farm, the bride's country home. The honeymoon will be spent at Hot Springs, Va., and afterward they will occupy the governor's residence near Dayton, which he has just built and which is modeled after a French chateau.

Judson Richard Worrell, a reporter on the staff of the Brooklyn (N. Y.) Standard Union, and Miss Frances Post of St. George, Staten Island, have announced their engagement. Mr. Worrell is the son of J. J. Worrell, editor of the Staten Island Staten Islander, and was connected with that paper before joining the Standard-Union.

Walter Johnson, business manager of the Jackson (Miss.) Daily News, and Miss Ruth Nummery of the same city will be married on October 3.

Paul S. Dee, city editor of the Concordia (Kan.) Blade and Miss Fern Calloway were married last week.

Harry M. Stock, who recently purchased the Bunkerhill (Kan.) Advertiser, and Miss Inez Frogg were recently married.

O. L. Seed, editor of the Edwardsville (Mo.) Republican, and Mrs. N. L. Slayback of Peoria, Ill., have become engaged.

IN CUMMINGS' MEMORY.

A bronze tablet commemorating the work of the late Amos J. Cummings, editor-Congressman, in behalf of the letter carriers, was placed on the monument over his grave in the Clinton cemetery at Irvington, N. J., on September 19 by the Newark branch of the National Association of Letter Carriers.

The principal address at the ceremonies was made by Willis Holly, secretary of the New York Sun alumni, the membership of which comprises many men who were connected with the Sun when Mr. Cummings was its editor.

WILMINGTON WEEKLY SOLD.

At an auction sale of the Wilmington (Vt.) Deerfield Valley Times and job printing plant Monday, the property was bought by George C. Dixon, publisher of the Londonderry (Vt.) Sifter, and formerly publisher of the Times. Mr. Dixon expects to issue both papers from the Wilmington plant. The Times has not been issued for several weeks.

NASSAU QUALITY METALS

J.H.H.'S UNIFORM

ELECTROTYPE
MONOTYPE
INTERTYPE
STEREOTYPE
AUTOPLATE
THOMPSONTYPE
COMPOSOTYPE

Manufactured by the
Nassau Smelting & Refining Works
606 West 39th Street NEW YORK

Non-Distribution

vs.

Multiple Distribution

THE All-Slug System of composition makes Non-Distribution complete and economical. So called Non-Distribution, with movable type, is in reality Multiple Distribution.

A complete Non-Distribution system for Display composition is dependent upon the Ludlow Typograph, because it alone eliminates storage systems and the constant casting and distributing of sorts.

The Ludlow Typograph

Multiple Distribution is waste; Non-Distribution the Ludlow Typograph way is real economy.

Know all about the Non-Distribution system for Display. Send for Ludlow Typograph Literature.

Sole Selling Agents

MERGENTHALER LINOTYPE CO.

Tribune Building, New York
CHICAGO NEW ORLEANS
SAN FRANCISCO TORONTO

NEWSPAPER MEN WORK FOR BOOKS FOR SOLDIERS.

Newspaper men played a large part in preparing the way for "Camp Library Week," September 24 to 30, in which the American Library Association planned to raise $1,000,000 to construct, equip and maintain main and branch libraries in the 32 cantonments and camps in this country, and to furnish books to men at the front and in the navy and to the sick and wounded.

Frank A. Vanderlip, president of the National City Bank of New York and a former newspaper man, was chairman of the War Council appointed by Secretary Baker from the American Library Association; William F. Kenney, day editor of the Boston Globe and president of the board of trustees of the Boston Public Library, was a member of the finance committee; Harold Braddock, another newspaper man, was director of the camp library committee, and the publicity was handled by George Garner, a member of the corps of Washington correspondents, who also handled former Congressman A. P. Gardner's publicity throughout his "preparedness" campaign, and originated the celebrated dinner by Mr. Gardner to the reserve army of the United States, then 17 men.

Every penny of the $1,000,000 is to be devoted to the library work, not a cent having been diverted to any other purpose whatever.

ON COURIER-JOURNAL.

Kenneth Toill of Columbus has joined the staff of the Louisville Courier-Journal.

Y.M.C.A. AD CLASS PROGRAM.

Faced by the problem of preparing more men than ever to fill the gaps caused by war in the advertising ranks, the Twenty-third Street branch of the Young Men's Christian Association in New York has scheduled an especially attractive advertising course for this year, which, as in the past, will be under the direction of Frank Leroy Blanchard and H. W. Doremus.

Various elementary phases of advertising will be discussed by Mr. Blanchard in the first three lectures, which will be held weekly beginning October 10. After the students have learned the fundamentals, there will be weekly lectures by men prominent in the advertising field, including the following:

Bruce Bliven, Henry H. Clark, Benjamin Sherbow, Arthur Freeman, R. A. Holmes, Frank E. Fehlman, S. Brodie, W. A. Thomson, Don C. Parker, M. C. Robbins, Stanley O. Gunnison, H. J. Mahin, Vermont A. Salada, C. R. Lippman, Edward H. Schulze, James Melvin Lee, Hugh Burke, John Budd and G. B. Sharpe. Students begin writing advertising in the fourth week of the course.

NEW ALBANY "COLYUMIST."

Herbert B. Benjamin ("Ssan"), reporter and editor of a humorous column of the Albany (N. Y.) Knickerbocker Press, has been drafted into the National Army and is leaving for Yaphank this week. Mr. Benjamin was previously editor of the College Mercury, College of the City of New York. His position as "colymnist" will be filled by Harold Mayer, who signs himself "Childe Harold."

LATIN AMERICA GETS MUCH AMERICAN NEWS PRINT.

Special Agent Robert S. Barrett, who is conducting a general investigation in Latin-American countries for the United States Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce (Department of Commerce), reports that practically all the news print paper that is received by Peru, Bolivia, and Ecuador now comes from the United States.

Even before the war it formed the bulk of the American shipments to the first-mentioned country, and represented almost one-third of the total Peruvian imports of paper.

Since the outbreak of the war there has been a heavy increase in the imports, because of the fact that news print is admitted free of duty and, with the rise in the price of all other grades of paper, the retailers have found it the cheapest kind that they can obtain for wrapping purposes.

Now that it has gained extensive use for this purpose, it is believed that the imports will continue to increase even after cheaper wrapping paper is again available.

Among the features of the paper, paper products and printing machinery trade in Peru that were observed was that previous to the war nearly 50 per cent. of the paper imports of Peru came from Germany, 20 per cent. from the United States, 10 per cent. from England, and the remainder from Spain, France, Belgium, Italy, and other European countries.

The principal factors in the European strength, according to the Bureau's report, were lower prices, longer credits, better shipping facilities, more active selling campaigns, willingness to produce the goods desired, better packing, greater attention to detail, and influence of European colonies and Europeans engaged in paper and printing trades.

Similar conditions were found in Bolivia.

The annual consumption of all classes of paper and paper products in Peru amounts to approximately $700,000, of which $625,000 worth is imported. The consumption in Bolivia amounts to $300,000, of which all is imported.

Ecuador's imports have varied between $160,000 and $230,000.

EVANS LEADS SCHOOL.

J. Wainwright Evans, associate professor in the Kansas University school of journalism, has resigned to go with the Nation's Business, Washington, D. C., of which Merle Thorpe, former head of the Kansas school, is editor.

J. M. HUBER

Manufacturer of Black and Colored
News Inks
Main Office: 65-67 W. Houston Street
NEW YORK CITY

Color, Varnish & Ink Factories
BROOKLYN, N. Y.
Carbon Black Works, DOLA, W. VA.

SERVICE BRANCHES
Boston, Baltimore, Chicago, Omaha
Cincinnati, Los Angeles, St. Louis
Philadelphia, San Francisco

NEWS OF THE AD AGENCIES.

Elon G. Pratt, formerly vice-president and director of the J. Walter Thompson Company of New York City, has resigned his position with that agency. On October 1 he will join the staff of Collin Armstrong, Inc., with the office of Vice-President. Prior to joining the J. Walter Thompson Company some five years ago, Mr. Pratt was associated for many years with the Butterick Publishing Company, operating from the New York headquarters of that organization.

Albert G. Wade of the Wade Advertising Agency, Chicago, has been appointed a member of the United States Live Stock Industry Committee.

The Chicago Advertising Agencies' Bowling League has completed plans for its annual winter tournament, which started on September 20, and will continue on Thursday nights for twenty-eight weeks. C. E. Walberg is president of the tournament and states that prizes aggregating almost $1,000 will be awarded to successful participants.

Leroy A. Kling and A. G. Wallace, formerly secretary and associate merchandiser, respectively, of the H. Walton Heegstra, Inc., Advertising Agency, Chicago, have become connected with the J. R. Hamilton Advertising Agency, also of that city. New quarters have been taken by the latter agency in the Hearst Building.

The Genesee Advertising Agency, Rochester, N. Y., has moved to 45 East 17th st., New York, with C. T. Johnstone as manager.

A. E. Waldorf has joined the staff of the George E. Lees Company, Cleveland advertising agency.

J. D. Driscoll of the Chicago office of the William H. Rankin Company, advertising agency, has been transferred to the New York office. Mr. Driscoll has been on the staff of the Rankin agency for more than eight years.

J. P. Roche, formerly head of the copy department of the W. D. McKin Advertising Agency, Chicago, jumped from the copy desk into the thick of things in a martial way. After joining the quartermaster's department, Mr. Roche was sent to Houston, where he had an active share in suppressing the Houston race riots almost on the day of his arrival.

H. A. Gorth, secretary, and R. J. Mooney of the William H. Rankin Company are in the East on business for the agency. Mr. Gorth is in New York and Boston and Mr. Mooney will visit Washington and Philadelphia.

F. C. Faul, formerly with the Ethridge Association of Artists, has joined the New York art staff of the William H. Rankin Company.

S. H. Chilton has leased the Croton (S. D.) Herald from Roy Veitch and has assumed charge as editor and manager.

M. G. ANDERSON JOINS STAFF OF GILMAN & NICOLL.

Martin G. Anderson, who has been associated with the New York office of the Charles H. Eddy Company for the past eight years, has joined the soliciting forces of Gilman & Nicoll's New York office.

MARTIN G. ANDERSON.

Mr. Anderson has had wide experience in the New York field and is well acquainted with the advertisers and agencies. He has made a particular study of financial advertising.

PACKAGE FOODS ARE MORE SANITARY.

(Copyright—Mallory, Mitchell & Faust.)

Sanitary food products are put up in packages by the manufacturer.

Only by buying in the package can the consumer be assured that the product is sanitary. Bulk goods offer too many opportunities for contamination by dirty hands, dust, mice and other vermin.

As a consequence, today is witnessing the passing of the butter tub, the lard tub, the dried fruit bin, the cracker barrel and the tea and coffee bin. Today we buy all these and many other products formerly sold in bulk, neatly done up in attractive and sanitary packages, fully protected against any chance of contamination until they are opened by the housewife in her own kitchen.

Advertising is largely responsible for the development of the package idea. When a manufacturer made a good product, he wanted to tell people about it so they would buy his product in preference to some other competing brand.

This required that he identify his product in some specific way so the consumer would know it was his. This led to the marketing of the product in a package or container bearing a distinctive label.

When you buy standard advertised package foods, you buy sanitary foods.

Fred C. Freeman has sold the Schleswig (Ia.) Leader to Henry W. Faul.

AD FOLKS' NEWS.

A. G. Clark, secretary of the Portland Chamber of Commerce, addressed members of the San Francisco Ad Club at their weekly luncheon last week on "The Value of Truth in Advertising." Announcement was made that a series of fifteen lectures on advertising will be given in connection with the University of California extension division.

Vivian M. Moses has just been appointed publicity manager of the Select Pictures Corporation, New York, and is also in charge of publicity for the Selznick Pictures.

The Advertising Club of the Columbus (Ohio) Chamber of Commerce last week elected Charles S. Anderson president and Louis A. Feibel first vice-president. The other successful candidates were: A. M. Crumrine, second vice-president; Earl English, secretary; Perry B. Whitsitt, treasurer, and Walter R. Colton, librarian. Don K. Martin, publicity manager of the Chamber of Commerce, serves as manager of the Ad Club.

The two trustees chosen were C. R. Marters and Harvey R. Young, who, together with the other officers, compose the club's executive committee.

Mr. Anderson has delegated to First Vice-President Feibel charge of the department of growth, which includes the membership campaign, and Second Vice-President Crumrine direction of the department of life, which includes the programs and other activities.

The trustees will serve as the improvement committee, which supersedes the vigilance committee, and will have charge of betterments in advertising.

Earl H. Hopkins has become connected with the advertising department of Jones & Baker, New York stock brokers.

The Cleveland Advertising Club is very proud of the service flag hanging in the club rooms. It has nineteen stars now and orders have been placed for five more, which means that twenty-four Cleveland advertising men are serving Uncle Sam in the military or naval forces.

The Better Advertising Bureau of the Chicago Advertising Association has been instrumental in prosecuting a suit against Edward Perlman, a Chicago grocer, who is alleged to have used misleading advertising announcements. The case has been heard by Judge Jarecki, who will hand down his decision October 1.

Hugh Sharpe, formerly assistant advertising manager of the Harley-Davidson Motorcycle Company, has been made manager of the bicycle department.

Freling Foster, until recently advertising manager Hughes Electric Heating Company, Chicago, has joined the advertising staff of the Society for Electrical Development. He will take

Leader by a Million and Three-Quarters

Advertising Record of New York Morning Newspapers

EIGHT MONTHS OF 1917.		Agate Lines.
THE NEW YORK TIMES.....	7,817,447
Less Help and Situation Wanted.....	415,098
WORLD	8,915,486	7,402,349
Less Help and Situation Wanted.....	3,243,493
AMERICAN	5,871,180	5,671,993
Less Help and Situation Wanted.....	798,937
HERALD	4,852,482	5,072,243
Less Help and Situation Wanted.....	988,049
TRIBUNE	3,066,573	3,864,433
Less Help and Situation Wanted.....	33,460
SUN	2,736,262	3,033,111
Less Help and Situation Wanted.....	9,468
		2,726,794

THE NEW YORK TIMES, in eight months of 1917, printed 1,730,556 agate lines more advertising, help and situation wanted excepted, than any other New York morning newspaper.

the place of E. M. Hunt, now connected with the Review of Reviews.

Jack H. Frohlich is another new member of the society's publicity staff under Harry W. Alexander, director of publicity. Mr. Frohlich has been with the Frank Seaman Advertising Agency, New York, and was previously publicity agent for the Vitagraph Company of America.

The society has now completed its reorganization, made necessary by several army enlistments.

Hill Griffith, until recently with the advertising department, has been made captain of cavalry at Fort Meade, Md.

R. R. Jones is now first lieutenant in the Signal Service.

J. J. Flynn is with the National Army at Camp Upton, Long Island.

The Standard Parts Company, Cleveland, has appointed Benton G. L. Dodge as advertising manager.

The Omaha Ad Club held a "Made-in-Omaha" Dinner on the evening of September 20.

INTRODUCING AD FOLKS.

S. H. Fox, the new executive manager of McCloy's Advertising Agency, Pittsburg, was until recently general sales manager for the A. W. McCloy Company, stationer and office furniture dealer in Pittsburg. He has had a successful experience as a salesman, and during the time that he directed the selling efforts of twenty-five outside salesmen for the McCloy house the business of the house almost doubled.

For five years prior to Mr. Fox's connection with the A. W. McCloy

S. H. FOX.

Company, he had been with the selling organization of the Addressograph Company, of Chicago, covering a wide territory throughout the West and being for three years connected with the Pittsburg office.

In selling addressographs Mr. Fox came quite intimately into contact with a great many advertising departments throughout the country and through his acquaintance with advertising managers became familiar with advertising sales plans of a large number of prominent houses. It was very largely through the instigation of Mr. Fox that McCloy's Advertising Agency was started.

First of all an expert advertising man was employed to render service to patrons of A. W. McCloy Company. This was the first step that ultimately led in the establishment of the completely equipped advertising agency owned by the A. W. McCloy Company, but in every way entirely separate in its personnel and organization.

This new agency reports it has just secured a number of new accounts in the Pittsburg District.

Frank H. Hilson, recently appointed space buyer for the New York office of the H. K. McCann Company, has been associated with that concern for almost six years, holding the post of junior space buyer during the past year and a half. Previous to his connection with the McCann Company he acquired a stock of selling experience as New York manager of an automobile accessory concern.

In regard to newspaper advertising. Mr. Hilson says: "My work has kept me in close touch with methods and conditions in the newspaper field. Our newspaper advertising represents a larger number of single units than our magazine advertising, and in dealing with the publishers we have had some desirable experiences.

FRANK H. HILSON.

"We have found it advantageous to deal in card rates, and it has likewise developed desirable business relations with the newspapers which we were able to cover, and has effected the success of the campaigns through the voluntary co-operation of the publishers. I am sure it is helping to put this end of the business on a legitimate basis."

Bernard W. Magee, who has been appointed advertising manager of R. Wallace & Sons Manufacturing Company, silvermiths, Wallingford, Ct., was born in 1890, and came to New York at the age of seventeen years as a civil engineer. He was later general manager of the New Jersey Bourse, a business show, modelled after the Business Bourse of New York. He was afterwards associated with a real estate publication and aided in the publishing of chemical research data.

In July, 1914, he became connected with Daniel Low & Co., Salem, Mass., as assistant to Robert R. Updegraff, whom he succeeded as advertising manager upon the latter's resignation in April, 1916. He continued in this capacity until the first of this month, when he was appointed assistant advertising manager of R. Wallace & Sons Manufacturing Company.

RANDOLPH JOINS STAFF OF I. A. KLEIN.

E. H. Randolph has joined the soliciting staff of I. A. Klein, newspaper representative, New York, leaving the New York Evening Journal. Mr. Randolph for a number of years looked after Wall Street advertising for the New York Press, for which paper he later became advertising manager.

E. H. RANDOLPH.

Five years ago he became assistant to the publisher of the Evening Journal. During the last few years he has been associated with the national advertising department of the Hearst organization, where his successor has not yet been decided upon.

IN AUTO SALES WORK.

B. B. Bell, for several years a member of the Dallas News and Evening Journal advertising staff, has recently resigned to join the sales department of the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company, at its central offices in Kansas City, Mo. Mr. Bell is widely known in the Texas newspaper field.

ON SERVICE STAFF.

Henry Kuhns has taken charge of the advertising service department of the Stetson Press, Boston. Previously he had been advertising and assistant sales manager of the M. & C. Skirt Company.

MEETING IN MISSOURI.

The Missouri Writers Guild is holding its annual meeting today in Elk Springs.

BERGFELD MADE AD MANAGER.

WILLIAM E. WILLIS IS MADE EASTERN MANAGER FOR CHICAGO HERALD.

M. A. Bergfeld, who has been manager of the New York office of the Chicago Herald since July, has been made advertising manager of the Herald. He left for Chicago on September 20 to assume his new duties.

William E. Willis, for several years past with the advertising department of the New York American, succeeds

WILLIAM E. WILLIS.

Mr. Bergfeld in charge of the Herald's Eastern office.

The new advertising manager of the Herald is well acquainted with newspaper and advertising conditions in his new field. For seven years prior to coming to New York, four years ago, Mr. Bergfeld was with the Chicago Tribune. Until a few months ago he was the Eastern advertising representative of the Chicago American, and when the Chicago Herald opened its Eastern office last July he was placed in charge of it, with offices in the Times Building.

William E. Willis, the new Eastern manager of the Herald, joined the New York American staff in 1911 as manager of Eastern foreign advertising. Previously he had been in the special agency business for twelve years, representing at different times in New York the Philadelphia North American and the Philadelphia Ledger.

TROXELL WILL COME EAST.

E. E. Troxell, executive secretary of the Washington Newspaper Association, will leave for Chicago on September 27 to establish an office there and organize an advertising sales force. Upon completion of his work there, Mr. Troxell will leave for New York and establish offices there. Mrs. Troxell, their daughter, and Mr. Troxell's secretary, Miss Florence Manhoff, will accompany him.

HAVE CONFEREES ACTED ETHICALLY?

POSTAL OFFICIALS ALLOWED TO TESTIFY BEYOND CONTRADICTION—WHO REAL SECOND CLASS AGITATORS ARE.

BY WALDON FAWCETT.

When the bug-a-boo of an increase in the second-class rates suddenly bobbed up once more when the War Revenue Bill "went to conference" a number of publishers received the surprise of their lives.

"Why, I thought this whole subject was disposed of for good and all in the Senate," remarked one mystified publisher to the writer.

Even the publishers, who, out of their knowledge of Congressional practice, realized that no legislative question is settled until it has been finally passed upon by both houses and approved by the President were unprepared, in most instances, to have this bugbear "come back strong" as it did.

However, even when brought face to face with the resurrection of the second-class increase issue many of the publishers have gone wrong in their diagnosis of the causes.

Some publishers have attributed it to the narrow vision of backwoods Congressmen, who seldom come in contact with a metropolitan newspaper and do not give a hang so long as their little county newspapers are not inconvenienced.

Others have ascribed the turn of events to the desire for revenge on the part of disgruntled Congressmen who have been attacked by the newspapers, while yet a third contingent has heard echoes in Congress of the sentiment "Let the newspapers pay for their war."

Any or all of these influences may have been minor factors—it is impossible to say that such sentimental considerations, however unlikely, may not have played their part; but the real inspiration for the come-back of the newspaper tax in the guise of a postal increase is to be found in the Post Office Department.

The Postmaster General and some of his assistants appeared before the Senate and House conferees, engaged in the effort to effect a compromise on revenue taxation and exerted all their persuasive powers to make the second class increase stick.

Right here you have the main-spring.

The action in itself was unusual if not unprecedented.

You did not see the Secretary of Agriculture butting in to influence action on tobacco taxes nor the Secretary of Commerce putting in his oar to manipulate manufacturers' taxes.

Leaving as an open question whether or not it be ethical for postal officials to thus pull wires at the Capitol, the bald fact remains that here was a means whereby the Post Office contingent got an opportunity for the "last word" on a controversial subject and got it under circumstances that insured them freedom from interruption.

THE NEWSPAPERS' CHIEF ADVERSARIES.

At the public hearings before the Senate Finance Committee the publishers had some opportunity to answer and refute the arguments of postal rooters for higher rates, but not so in the final show down.

Here was a star chamber session, a one-sided affair with no one to say nay no matter what statement was made.

All of which brings us around to the statement of fact made at the outset of this article, namely that the newspapers have underestimated if not ignored their chief adversary in the long-drawn fight over postage rates.

Of course the average publisher has not been blind to the source of inspiration for most of the agitation for increases in second-class rates, but he seems to have just naturally not "fired back" in that direction.

It is inconceivable that this neglect has been due to a fear of getting in bad with the Post Office Department. Rather has it been due, we suspect, to the fatal fault of underestimating an adversary.

When publishers have combated the heresy that emanates from the Post Office Department they have almost invariably criticized or argued with the Postmaster General. That has been natural enough, no doubt, seeing that the Postmaster General is the responsible head of the Department and fathers the statement that emanates from it.

However, it is high time that newspaper makers awoke to what most of them must have recognized sub-consciously already.

The force that threatens the undoing of publishers is not the Postmaster General—neither the present Postmaster General nor any other—but the subordinate officials in the Post Office Department.

Probably it would be profitless to discuss at this time what are the real motives of these lesser officials. The result is the same no matter whether their impulses be a sincere desire to do their duty as they see it, a faulty system of figuring cost of mail handling or an obsession regarding the "subsidy" which publishers are supposed to enjoy.

The mere fact that these veterans in the postal administration—the fixtures who hang on to their jobs as political administrations come and go—have been able to lead one Postmaster General after another around to their way of thinking indicates the measure of menace of their power.

Mr. Hurlston is not the first occupant of the Postmaster General's chair who has been quietly brought by his associates to "see" that the publications must "pay their way" and he may not be the last "P.M.G." who will be similarly led to blindly accept a figure of 8 or 9 cents a pound as the cost of newspaper and periodical handling and transportation.

FIGURES ARE NECESSARY.

Some few publishers, be it conceded, have held all along that the publishing industry should devote more attention to an effort to make the rank and file of postal officials see the evil of their ways—or the faultiness of their logic, perhaps we had better say.

How much good might have been accomplished by such a campaign of education is problematical.

At the same time, looking back over the hardest fight that the publishers have ever been called upon to make at Washington the fact stands out that publishers' committees must exert every effort to compel the Post Office Department to audit figures covering second class mailing costs that both parties to the controversy could accept as somewhere near correct.

There is no doubt but that the figures, which the Post Office contends are impossible for it to furnish, would put the Department on the defensive instead of leaving the publishers in that position.

CAR SHORTAGE SHRINKS.

Newspaper publishers who followed the advice of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association and have not laid in great stocks of paper will draw comfort from this month's report of the country's railroads to the American Railway Association, which shows that on September 1 the excess of unfilled orders for cars in some parts of the country over surpluses in other parts was 31,591, a reduction of 14 per cent. as compared with the previous month.

The success of the combined efforts of State and Federal regulative bodies, shippers, commercial organizations, the railroads, and seasonable weather, may be seen from the fact that while the railroads have with practically no increase in facilities handled the greatest amount of freight in their history in the past four months the excess of unfilled car orders has been cut down from 148,627 on May 1, to 106,649 on June 1, to 77,682 on July 1, to 37,062 on August 1, and to 31,591 on September 1, thus achieving an improvement in four months of 78 per cent.

HAYES' LIST GROWS.

Metz B. Hayes, Boston, has been appointed New England representative of Physical Culture.

TWO JOBS FOR "ZIT."

C. F. Zittel, recently appointed general manager of William Randolph Hearst's International Film Service,

C. F. ZITTEL ("ZIT").

Inc., and one of the best-known theatrical writers in the country, addresses a large audience every day through the columns of the New York Evening Journal, under the pen name of "Zit." His appointment as head of the International will not interfere with this work, as he will divide his time between the two positions.

"Zit," as he is familiarly known in the theatrical and newspaper professions, was born, raised and educated in New York City. Soon after he left school he engaged in theatrical writing and promotion.

Twelve years ago Mr. Zittel was placed at the head of theatrical department of the New York Evening Journal, which through his indefatigable work he built into one of the most important departments of the paper. In February, 1913, he started a motion picture department which has been equally successful. His masterly manner in handling big things led to his appointment as general manager of the International. His one hobby is work. The only time he relaxes is during the summer, which he spends in the Adirondacks, motoring, fishing and playing an occasional set of tennis.

Mr. Zittel is a nephew of Henry Morgenthau, diplomat and philanthropist.

WRITER'S SON ENLISTS.

George Randolph Chester, Jr., son of the author of the famous "Get Rich Quick Wallingford" series and numerous other stories, who was on the editorial staff of the Cincinnati Commercial Tribune, has enlisted in the First Ohio Infantry and is now stationed at Camp Columbia, near Cincinnati.

POLLARD-ALLING MFG. COMPANY

System and Machinery for ADDRESSING NEWSPAPERS and PERIODICALS to SUBSCRIBERS

From Thin Aluminum Plates.

Saves considerable money in operating costs and facilitates obtaining renewals at practically no cost for the addressing.

Write for particulars. 111-115 East 114 St. NEW YORK

BIG "TIME" STUNT IN A SMALL CITY.

TOWANDA REVIEW GOT ITS PICTURES BY DAREDEVIL
AUTO DRIVING.

A splendid illustration of real newspaper enterprise was furnished by the Towanda (Pa.) Review on September 18, when Bradford County gave its farewell demonstration for its drafted soldier boys who left on September 21 for Camp Meade, Md.

The farewell parade was the biggest event Towanda had seen in the century and a half that it has nestled in its cozy corner of the valley where the Susquehanna River winds through the Appalachian Mountains. The way in which the parade was covered by the Review was probably the biggest newspaper stunt ever put over in a town of fewer than 5,000 inhabitants.

"Pictures are the thing in modern journalism," said H. M. Turner, manager of the Review, in the conference at which it was decided how the parade should be covered. "The Review must have pictures, as well as a complete story of the day."

It is a simple matter for a metropolitan city editor to decide that he will use plenty of pictures on a big story. He has his own staff of photographers, his own art department and his own engraving room, all within a few feet of his desk. But the nearest engraving plant to Towanda is in Elmira, and Elmira can be reached at certain times in the day only over forty miles of mountain roads which give a motorist all the thrills of shooting the chutes, bumping the humps and "dropping the dip."

A telephone call to the Elmira Telegram elicited the information that if the Review people could get their pictures to Elmira by 7 p. m., the finished engravings would be turned over promptly at midnight. The parade was scheduled to start at 2 p. m., but everyone knew in advance there would be some delays. It was going to be a big stunt to get pictures taken, developed and printed in time to start for Elmira by auto and deliver the pictures at 7 o'clock.

Towanda has three photographers competent to handle quick work, and the Review got all of these men out with their cameras. The last picture was taken at 3.30 p. m., and all pictures were developed, printed and delivered to the Review at 5.10 p. m. They were due in Elmira at 7 o'clock, and it is good fast driving to make those forty miles of mountain roads in three hours.

Mr. Turner had a car all tuned up and waiting, and when the pictures were handed to him he threw the gears into "high" and cut loose for Elmira. Darin Resta would have enjoyed the run through the "narrows" near Ulster, where the road is barely wide enough for the wheels, and skirts a straight drop of more than 300 feet to the river below. Barney Oldfield never rode a more thrilling race in his life than Turner had through the second "narrows," a few miles further on and even more dangerous.

Starting at 5.15, the Turner car rolled up to the Elmira Telegram office exactly at 6.45, with a quarter of an hour to spare. And while the artists and engravers toiled within, Turner and his mechanic worked at the garage, going over every bolt and nut and rod in the car as carefully as if they had been preparing for an Astor Cup race.

Just at midnight the Telegram delivered the cuts, and the ride back home began. It wasn't so easy to negotiate those curves in the starlight, when roadside foliage threw deceptive half-shadows across the way, and the slightest misjudgment would spell obliteration.

But the car took the return trip like a live thing, and if it and its driver had won any credit by making the up trip in an hour and a half they added to their laurels by making the same run in the darkness in only twenty-five minutes longer. It was 1.55 when they reached the Review office, and the forms were all locked up, with the bare bases awaiting the cuts of the parade. Seven cuts they had; one five-column spread, to be flanked at either side by a one-column pose of the two district captains, and four views of the parade itself. And at 2 a. m., the Review's regular press time, the "starter" had been locked on the press and the wheels began to hum.

From then on the process was painless, but bright and early Wednesday morning the 4,550 regular readers of the Review, as well as 800 who had ordered special copies, were seeing again in print the stirring scenes they had beheld in the afternoon before. And that is newspaper enterprise in a small town.

Up in Towanda the people really look on the Review as a metropolitan paper, because every now and then it pulls some such stunt as this. Last November, for instance, when everybody thought at midnight that Hughes was elected president, the Review got out an extra with its leased wire service from the International News Service.

After the papers were all off, and on their way over the carrier routes, the I.N.S. flashed the doubt of Hughes' election.

The Review promptly tore its first page to pieces, put a picture of Wilson where that of Hughes had been, got out a quick extra, impressed a dozen autos into service, and spread broadcast over the country the fact that probably Wilson would have four years more.

And when the Philadelphia and other big town papers arrived, later in the morning, still giving the election to Hughes, the Review was more strongly entrenched than ever, and it was easy to understand why it could advertise itself as having "the largest circulation in the world in town or city with less than 5,000 population."

CLASS IN PROOFREADING.

The recently organized class in proofreading and copy editing at the Brooklyn Evening Trade School for men and women, 7th avenue, between 4th and 5th streets, meets on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings. The evening for registration is Friday.

THE AD WOMEN PLAN BUSY WINTER SEASON.

That their program for the winter will be conducted on thoroughly systematic lines was decided upon at the first regular business meeting of the League of Advertising Women of New York, held at the Advertising Club on September 18.

The program will be devoted to both the practical and ethical sides of advertising, with representative men and women participating; the latter being taken largely from the members of the league. The women propose to start with the creation of a newspaper advertiser and a small magazine advertiser and carry the subject month by month, through the selection of mediums, distribution of product, dealer work, the copy appeal—including the illustrations—and the final results as indicated by one or two specific campaigns that have been placed upon the map.

Among the subjects to be considered are Uncle Sam's economy campaign, including advertising to the sailor and soldier; the art of solicitation; motion picture advertising; colonization and church advertising; direct advertising, etc.

The league promises to adhere strictly to both the letter and spirit of the program.

ON HUTCHINSON GAZETTE.

Chester Leasure, secretary and manager of the Hutchinson, (Kan.) Gazette Print Company, has succeeded John M. Schwinn as editor of the Gazette. Mr. Leasure was correspondent for the Wichita (Kan.) Eagle, at Guthrie, Okla., during the first days of Oklahoma's statehood. He afterwards became managing editor of the Muskogee (Okla.) Phoenix and later general secretary of the Wichita (Kan.) Business Association. He will also continue as manager.

Miss Helen M. Hayes, general assignment and society editor of the Gazette, has become telegraph editor, in place of Herbert S. Waggoner, who has entered the ambulance corps at Fredonia, Kan.

CHANGES IN VANCOUVER

Dr. S. D. Scott, who was editor of the Vancouver (B. C.) News-Advertiser for a number of years, is now chief editorial writer on the Province, of the same city. Dr. Scott changed over to the Province when the Sun absorbed the News-Advertiser.

"Dad" Williams, who up till a year or so ago had written all editorial notes for the Vancouver (B. C.) Province, has returned from an extended stay in the East and is back at his old desk once more.

POSTAL TREATY WITH SAN SALVADOR.

The Post Office Department has received notice of the ratification by San Salvador of a postal treaty with the United States which guarantees indemnity for damage and loss of insured parcel-post packages sent from this country and increases the allowable weight to 20 pounds.

A similar treaty with Mexico has been ratified.

Heretofore the United States has not had a treaty with any country giving guarantee of such indemnity, and considerable loss has resulted.

GERMAN EDITORS HELD IN $10,000 BAIL.

Five officials of the Philadelphia Tageblatt, the German language newspaper which, it is charged, "colored" war news to favor Germany, and which is alleged to have distorted war dispatches, were held in $10,000 bail each last week by United States Commissioner Long. The commissioner said there was evidence that the newspaper was in sympathy with Germany and that contention was substantially proved by an article in the paper.

The officials who were held are: Herman Lemke, business manager; Dr. Martin Darkow, managing editor; Louis Werner, editor-in-chief; Peter Schaeffer, president, and Paul Vogel, treasurer.

In releasing Dr. Darkow and Mr. Werner, both of whom are charged with treason, the court imposed an additional bail of $10,000, bringing their total bond to $20,000 each. The other defendants were released on $10,000 bond.

EDITOR SENTENCED.

E. Dana Johnson, editor of the Santa Fe New Mexican, was sentenced last week by Judge M. C. Mechem of the state district court to serve thirty days in the county jail for contempt of court because of an article published in the New Mexican, on March 30.

The defense contended that the article in question was not published with the intent of bringing the court into disrepute or of affecting pending cases, but merely was an attack on Judge Mechem in his private capacity and was in continuance of a political campaign waged against the Republican candidate for governor last fall.

CHICAGO WIRE OFFICES MOVE.

The Chicago office of the Associated Press will move into new quarters in the Ashland Building about October 1, having been unable to renew its lease in the Western Union Building, due to the fact that the telegraph company has taken over most of that structure for its own use. The City News Bureau will make a similar shift.

ENSIGN BLOSSOM, U.S.N.

Sumner N. Blossom, correspondent with Pershing's Mexican expedition for the Associated Press, is now Ensign Blossom of the U.S.N. He received his commission last week. Blossom's home is in Kansas City, where he was formerly a member of the staff of the Star.

RILEY ON DOUBLE DUTY

George A. Riley, business manager of the Newspaper Enterprise Association, is also acting as sales manager, pending the appointment of a permanent successor to K. J. Murdoch, who recently resigned on account of ill health and is now living in South Pasadena, Cal.

NEW SCHOOL EDITOR.

Oscar G. Davis has been selected as editor of the school page of the Atlanta Journal. Davis is a member of the senior class of the Boys' High School in Atlanta.

THE FOURTH ESTATE

A NEWSPAPER FOR THE MAKERS OF NEWSPAPERS AND INVESTORS IN ADVERTISING.

Entered as second class matter in the New York Post Office, March 29, 1894. Issued every Saturday by THE FOURTH ESTATE Publishing Company, Ernest F. Birmingham, President and Treasurer, Fremont W. Spicer, Vice-President and Secretary, 288 West 59th Street, New York City.

Subscription: TWO DOLLARS a year. Postage free in the United States, Hawaii, Porto Rico, the Philippines and Mexico. Postage extra to Canada, 69c.; to other countries in Postal Union, $1.04.

Subscribers should have their copies of THE FOURTH ESTATE addressed to their homes, so as to avoid chance of loss in the mass of exchanges (second and third class matter) which goes to all offices.

Single copies, TEN CENTS (except Special Editions, 25 cents.)

Back Numbers—Less than 3 months old, 25 cents; more than 3 months old, $1 each.

OFFICES AND PRINTING HOUSE
Broadway and 59th Street
288 West 59th St. NEW YORK
Columbus Circle.
Telephones, 7740, 7741, 7742 Columbus

ERNEST F. BIRMINGHAM, Publisher

No. 1230.

FOR THE WEEK ENDING SEPTEMBER, 22, 1917

NEWSPAPERS AT THE MERCY OF CONGRESS.

THE FOURTH ESTATE respectfully renews and reiterates its earnest protest against the imposition of any special war tax upon publishers exclusively.

A false impression seems to prevail among some members of the Congress that newspaper making is in some respects a war industry and that newspapers in some mysterious manner profit by war.

There is not a newspaper in the United States that is not bearing additional burdens of expense by reason of the war, and we do not know of a single newspaper that is deriving profit from the war.

Increases in circulation, where they have occurred, do not, at current prices for white paper, bring increased profits.

The newspaper publishers recognize the wisdom, the justice and the necessity of imposing heavy tax burdens at this time upon all those who are able to bear them, and the newspaper publishers expect and desire to pay their full share of all such taxes that are imposed upon all businesses.

But the newspaper publishers respectfully urge that while they are deriving no profit from war, they are necessarily one of the chief agencies of Government in making successful vital policies like the Conscription act and the Liberty Loan; that they have co-operated with the Government at all times promptly and willingly, without expense to the Government and at great expense to the newspapers, and without any advantage to the newspapers except the high satisfaction that all citizens feel in doing effective work for their Government.

The policy urged by a few Representatives and Senators in Congress to impose a special tax on publishers, either by the zone system or otherwise, will tend to destroy the business taxed without compensating advantage to the Government in taxes.

It will tend to restrict that freedom of communication, the dissemination of common knowledge and information which are necessary to the unity of the nation.

A great statesman, Daniel Webster, once said:

"Next to the Christian religion I know nothing to be compared with the influence of a free intercourse in softening asperities, removing prejudices, extending knowledge and promoting human happiness."

The above are the very modest sentiments expressed in a resolution adopted this week by the New York Publishers' Association, and the New York Times very truly adds to them that the increase proposed, while it might yield some grains of revenue, would be effective chiefly in destroying the subject of the levy, because the proposed rates under the zone system would be so exorbitant that the circulation of newspapers and periodicals beyond the first zone would be in very large measure prevented altogether.

The increased rate would raise an almost insuperable barrier against the interchange of thought and opinion between the different parts of the Union. Does Congress, does the Administration, does any branch of the Federal Government believe that that would be a good thing?

The proposed postage charge would be absolutely prohibitory between widely separated states, it would limit the circulation of newspapers to the neighborhood of their office of publication.

We do not suppose anybody would have the hardihood to deny that in time of war it would be to the advantage of the Federal Government to have public opinion homogeneous and united in support of its policy.

But the second-class postage provision of the bill as urged by the House will make it costly and difficult for the East to know the public opinion of the West, for the North to ascertain the thoughts of the South.

In respect to the industry levied upon, the increased rate is unjust, burdensome, and destructive, while as a measure of public policy it is to the last degree unwise.

ADS SELL CITRUS FRUITS.

Advertising pays, according to the annual report of General Manager G. Harold Powell of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange, who says that the consumption of citrus fruits in this country has increased 80 per cent. in the ten years since the exchange began advertising, although the population has increased only one-fourth as fast.

During last year the exchange invested in advertising 2½ cents for every box of oranges and 4 cents for every box of lemons sold, or more than $300,000.

The total California citrus crop marketed in the last season amounted to 53,830 carloads, returning $47,675,000 to the State.

Of this the exchange handled 36,218 carloads, an increase of 28 per cent. over the largest previous season.

California set a new record by supplying 71 per cent. of all the lemons consumed in the United States and Canada. The crops of southern navel and valencia oranges and lemons were the largest in history.

A new feature of the exchange's business was the employment of 5,100 tons of unmerchandise lemons in the manufacture of citric acid and kindred by-products.

Because of the greater volume of business, the exchange reports that selling costs in the last season amounted to only 4¼ cents a box, the lowest figure recorded.

HOW RAILROAD MEN VALUE NEWSPAPER ADS.

In the report of the executive committee of the Associated Railroads of Pennsylvania and New Jersey on the campaign to repeal the Full Crew Law of New Jersey and to suspend the Full Crew Law of Pennsylvania for the duration of the war, the following significant statements occur:

"The essential thing is for the railroads to get the attention and to reach the understanding of the American people. This can be done in many ways, but in none so effectively as through the press of the country. Such an agency must be utilized to get anywhere, even as the public must use the railroads for transportation. The newspapers are the established transporters of information and discussion."

"But while the columns of the press are open to all proper statements and news, there is often a distinct advantage in presenting a matter exactly as you think will best place it before the court of public opinion."

"On such occasions a carefully prepared advertisement, run in the newspapers and other publications selected to reach the audience you desire to address, makes not only the proper but the best vehicle."

"Frank publicity is their (the railroads') greatest protection. So also is the public best protected. An honest proposition thrives through publicity. On the other hand, publicity destroys that which is crooked or unfair."

That is a fair statement of conclusions by men who have experienced.

"DON'T GET EXCITED!"

From the Pulp and Paper Magazine of Canada.

THE FOURTH ESTATE frequently prints material of great interest to the pulp and paper industry.

The last issue contains an editorial entitled: "How Long is Canada to be Our Paper Dictator?"

This is intended to arouse anxiety in the minds of Americans that Canadians may take an unfair advantage of their neighbors in the matter of news print paper. If such action ever was contemplated, the best chance in history has been passed up.

Attention is called to the report of the Director of Forestry (published in the Pulp and Paper Magazine for August 30), with the observation that because of the wood, pulp and news print sent to the United States, this country really made only 20 per cent. of its news print from home grown material.

The plea of our contemporary for the newspapers to get vigorously behind the Walsh, Small and Shields Bills, whose passage, it is claimed will provide an inducement and encouragement for the establishment of a pulp and paper industry in the Western States, where wood and power abound.

This is a commendable and patriotic endeavor on the part of THE FOURTH ESTATE, but there need be no apprehension across the line in regard to the attitude of Canadian pulp and paper makers, many of whom are Americans anyway. They believe the poorest way to make a friend or retain a customer is to hit him in the eye or choke him.

NOTE AND COMMENT.

Even the financial newsgatherer now has a feeling possibly similar to that experienced by one who stands upon a lonely rock and watches the rising tide, in this case an encroaching wave of secrecy and silence, coming up to submerge him.

The really big news of the business and financial world now is, like the big news everywhere, the story of the Government's preparation for war, but the proportion of it, even from the financial point of view, that can be learned or printed is getting smaller and smaller.

A few days ago a big corporation, which, it has been common knowledge for weeks, was going to get a very important Government contract that would have been an important piece of financial news, announced that it had the contract, but that by the Government's orders no other information whatever could be given out.

A list of 337 rural weekly and semi-weekly newspapers published in the current bulletin of the Canadian Press Association indicates the concrete result to date of the campaign for a minimum subscription rate of $1.50 that had its inception at the 1915 annual meeting of the C.P.A. Eastern and Western Canada are both well represented.

The extent to which the movement has spread and the fact that the increased rate has been put into effect in the great majority of cases with little or no loss in circulation constitutes an excellent argument for the adoption of a subscription rate of $1.50 or higher by those weeklies and semi-weeklies that have not already made such an increase.

PURELY PERSONAL.

State Senator C. C. Hemenway, managing editor of the Hartford (Ct.) Evening Post, has been prominently identified on the municipal committee of that city in an appropriate send-off for the men drafted.

D. H. Evans, City Hall reporter of the Hartford (Ct.) Evening Post, has left to resume his studies in the law department of Columbia University.

Walter R. Agard, former editor-in-chief of the Amherst (Mass.) College Monthly, for the past year instructor in Greek at that institution, is a prospective member of the new National Army.

Wellington T. Brink, city editor of the Manhattan (Kan.) Nationalist and formerly with the Topeka (Kan.) State Journal, has become publicity agent for the Texas Agricultural College.

Charles S. Greer, for many years editor-in-chief of the Rockville (Ct.) Journal, is now employed by the Colts Patent Fire Arm Manufacturing Company at Hartford, Ct., in the production of war munitions.

Llewellyn Jones, literary editor of the Chicago Post, has left Chicago for his annual pilgrimage among the newspaper men of New York, Boston and Philadelphia. He expects to remain in the East for several weeks.

Thomas Brennan, political reporter for the Chicago Evening Post, expects to leave Chicago shortly with a party of friends on a motor trip to Boston, New York and other Eastern cities. He is going in his own car, too.

R. W. Casler, division advertising manager of the New York Telephone Company, has resumed his regular duties after three months' Red Cross work in Washington.

Joseph A. Will has transferred his interest in the Rising Sun (Ind.) Sun to his wife, Grace Pate Will. Mrs. Will is a well known writer. He will return to syndicate writing.

Ralph B. Neal, assistant editor of the Noblesville (Ind.) Reporter, was the first of the Hamilton County conscripts to report at Camp Taylor, Louisville, Ky.

William F. Metten, business manager of the Wilmington (Del.) Every Evening, is making a trip in the West, combining business with pleasure.

Clement B. Hallam, city editor of the Wilmington (Del.) Evening Journal, has recovered from an illness which confined him to the house for a week or two.

Tom J. Brislin, sporting editor of the Scranton (Pa.) Republican, has been re-elected president of the Inter County Basketball League.

Tom V. Nealon, labor editor of the Scranton (Pa.) Times, who recently underwent an operation for appendicitis is back at his desk.

Jack Druck, court reporter for the Scranton (Pa.) Times, has been re-elected president of the Pennsylvania Young Men's Hebrew Association.

James G. Gibbons of the Scranton (Pa.) Republican staff has been recommended for appointment as publicity man for the Scranton Board of Trade. The position is to pay between $1,800 and $2,400 a year. Definite action on the appointment is to be made within a few days.

Frank P. Blair of Blair & Austin, newspaper contest specialists, Louisville, Ky., was in New York this week.

Herbert E. Honey, managing editor of the Hartford City (Ind.) News, having decided that martial endeavor affords greater adventure than editorial work, has given up his desk to see service in an Indiana regiment soon to leave for France.

VAN LOAN IN FULL CHARGE.

There will be no serious change in the conduct of the affairs of the Hudson (N. Y.) Republican because of the death of Henry R. Bryan. He left all of his property to his widow, including a controlling interest in the Bryan Printing Company, which publishes the daily and weekly issues of the Republican and carries on a general printing business.

Emory C. Van Loan, who has an interest in the business and who has been associated with Mr. Bryan for over thirteen years, has been retained as general manager of the business and treasurer of the company.

Mr. Van Loan went with the Republican as bookkeeper in 1904, became advertising manager in 1907 and business manager in 1911. He now takes entire charge, and will manage it in the interest of Mrs. Bryan.

EMORY C. VAN LOAN.

Charles Esselstyn, who has been connected with the paper for over fifteen years, will continue as editor, and Frank L. Kent, who succeeded his father as city editor a year ago, will continue to look after that department.

The newly elected officers are: President, M. G. Bryan; vice-president, Charles Esselstyn; secretary, James E. Moul; treasurer, Emory C. Van Loan.

STAFF CHANGES.

Charles W. Smedley, police reporter for the New Britain (Ct.) Record, has joined the city staff of the Hartford Evening Post.

Richard S. Shapira, who began his newspaper career on the Chicago Evening Post four years ago, has just been made assistant city editor, succeeding L. W. Meredith, now assistant sporting editor of the Chicago Examiner.

L. O. Brewer succeeds L. N. Hildebrand as city editor of the Newton (Ia.) Daily News. He has been managing editor and advertising man for the weekly Gilman Dispatch for the last two years. He will handle the Associated Press telephone service after October.

Clayton P. Harvey, classified advertising manager of the Denver Rocky Mountain News, has been called for service in the National Army.

Effie Welsh, who was formerly employed as a correspondent for Hazleton (Pa.) Sentinel, is now sporting editor of the Wilkes-Barre (Pa.) Times-Leader.

John R. M. Polk, for the past five years on the staff of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, has become night editor of the Associated Press at St. Louis, succeeding Richard Gardner, who has joined the aviation corps.

C. H. Brownson, former wire editor of the Chicago office of the Associated Press, has re-entered the service as successor to W. B. Stone, night north wire editor, who is training for the aviation corps. Mr. Brownson has been in the hotel business in Kansas City for some time, but could not resist the lure of "the game."

Charles P. Woodward has become advertising manager of the Manistee (Mich.) News-Advocate, succeeding Lester C. Batdorff, who was the first man from his county to go with the National Army. Mr. Woodward has at various times been advertising manager of the Grand Rapids Herald, Muskegon Chronicle and Traverse City Record-Eagle.

E. C. Rodgers, formerly connected with the Clover Leaf Publications, has joined the editorial staff of the Newspaper Enterprise Association, succeeding Israel Klein.

A. J. Schinner, formerly with the Milwaukee Sentinel, has become sporting editor of the Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin, succeeding B. F. Steinel, who is now connected with the United States ambulance service.

U. G. Cox has become news editor of the Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin, succeeding S. F. Cochems. Mr. Cox was formerly state editor, which position is now filled by Hugh Reading, formerly on the reporting staff.

H. E. Drew, formerly with the Milwaukee Daily News, has become assistant city editor of the Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin, succeeding A. F. Herwig, who is now exchange editor of the Milwaukee Sentinel.

Fred J. Evans has become city editor of the Battle Creek (Mich.) Enquirer and News, succeeding Lieutenant Paul A. Martin.

J. E. Stough, for some years foreman of the ad alley in the Battle Creek Enquirer and News office, has been advanced to the advertising staff. He succeeds F. M. Fluke, who was drawn for the National Army after a few weeks' service as successor to Lieutenant C. S. Bartels.

Herbert L. Grimm has joined the staff of the Harrisburg (Pa.) Evening News as a copyreader, succeeding John Drever, who is now in military service. Mr. Grimm was formerly city editor of the Harrisburg Patriot and before that was on the Philadelphia North American staff.

Ralph F. Armstrong, a graduate of the Pulitzer School of Journalism, Columbia University, has been added to the staff of the New York Sun. He has been assistant to Professor Franklin Matthews in the Pulitzer school and has also run a pony wire for the International News Service in recent months.

Hudson Hawley, a general work reporter for the New York Sun, has joined a machine gun company.

Ralph McMillin, who formerly chronicled baseball for the Boston Herald and the Boston Journal, is now on the city staff of the Boston American, reeling off gems in rhyme and special articles.

R. C. McCabe, for many years city editor of the New York American, is now managing editor of the Boston American.

Harleigh B. Schultz is now city editor of the Boston American. He sat in "rewrite row," in the same office for half a dozen years before taking his present post.

Bert Ford, "all-around man" of the Boston American staff, is now accredited military correspondent of that paper. He was down on the Mexican border last year with the Bay State troops.

Charles I. O'Neill, one of the Boston American graduates, is now city editor of the Okmulgee (Okla.) Daily Democrat. He jumped back to the East during the "dog days" and renewed acquaintanceship right and left in the Hub.

Major W. R. Merrick has been granted a leave of absence from the Boston American copy desk so as to do his bit. Being one of the young Spanish war veterans, he easily qualified for a captaincy in the Officers' Reserve Corps. His first assignment has taken him down to one of the Texas mobilization camps.

Edward S. Cannon has resigned his position on the local staff of the Wilmington (Del.) Every Evening to resume his studies in Delaware college.

Philip A. Steinbach has been appointed correspondent for the Wilmington (Del.) Every Evening with the Delaware State troops, who are now in camp at New Castle, Del.

Julian C. Morgan, who was formerly connected with the Wilmington (Del.) Morning News, has been appointed program publisher for the Playhouse in that city.

Michael Flynn, newspaper man and former publisher of labor papers, has joined the staff of the Boston Herald, succeeding Captain Harold W. Clark, who is now attached to the Seventy-sixth Division, National Army.

L. Paul Miller has resigned as a reporter on the Harrisburg (Pa.) Evening News to teach mathematics in the Lewiston (Pa.) high school.

Service Flags

PUBLISHERS—Place your order now for SERVICE FLAGS and announce to the world the number of employees you have given to the Government service. This flag shows a star for every member of a family or firm in the service of Uncle Sam. Flags furnished with any number of stars without extra charge. Can supply cotton bunting, Samson bunting or Standard wool bunting at very low prices. Write today for samples and prices.

S. BLAKE WILLSDEN
20 E. Madison St., CHICAGO.

China Premiums ARE THE BEST!

Distinctive Service in Many Sizes
Write for Samples.

The Limoges China Co.
SEBRING, OHIO

NEWS NOTES OF CIRCULATORS.

The Atlanta Georgian and Sunday American used a page ad in the form of news-stand posters announcing the opening of "My Four Years in Germany" by Ambassador Gerard.

Secretary Johnson of the Southern Newspapers Publishers' Association says:

"With the establishment of army camps in several Southern cities a number of individuals have established agencies to handle out-of-town newspapers. In a number of instances parties are unknown to the local newspapers, while their credit responsibility is limited. Members of the S.N.P.A. are advised to require cash in advance for all papers supplied agencies who are unable to furnish satisfactory references. One camp news agency has gone so far as to order papers by telegraph from a number of publishers, the telegram being sent collect."

The Chattanooga (Tenn.) News published on September 4 an 88-page magazine supplement devoted to the cantonment and training camps at Fort Oglethorpe and Chickamauga Park. The supplement contained the names and addresses of more than 6,000 men appointed to the two training camps. Other features of the edition were halftone cuts illustrating the cantonment, and sketches of the Chickamauga battlefields and other points of historic interest in

The
William L. Betts
Company

NEWSPAPER CONTEST
SPECIALISTS

Suite 406, World Bdg., NEW YORK

The True News FIRST

Always—Accurately

INTERNATIONAL
NEWS SERVICE

10th-Floor, World Bldg. NEW YORK

I Get the Money!
J. A. McAVOY

*Special Editions
Weekly Review Pages
Cartoon Books*

Nat'l Each. Bk. Bldg.
PROVIDENCE, R. I.

and about Chattanooga. The 88 pages carried nearly 50 pages of advertising, all of which made direct appeals to the soldier trade.

For the purpose of furnishing camp news to Southern papers, the Greenville (S. C.) News has established a news bureau. It already has about a dozen papers on the list and advises that the list is growing rapidly. The News is specializing on news from Camp Sevier.

The Jacksonville (Fla.) Metropolis published on September 10 a magazine supplement of 36 pages, featuring Southern colleges and the Kappa Alpha Fraternity. This section was printed in colors, cuts and special articles helping to make it present a splendid typographical appearance. Merchants, manufacturers, bankers and other concerns of Jacksonville showed their appreciation of the edition through liberal use of space in the advertising columns.

The Louisville Courier-Journal and the Times, of which R. E. Hughes is general business manager, is preparing a "Camp Taylor Inaugural Identification Edition," to appear shortly after most of the troops have encamped. In this number the Courier-Journal and the Times will act as cicerone to the 45,000 officers and men who are to train at the cantonments and to an equal personnel of relatives and friends, who they state are already planning to come for long visits, where "their boy" is learning the twentieth century game of war.

The Knoxville (Tenn.) Sentinel was behind a mammoth simultaneous opening of a large number of leading merchants of the city during the week of September 10. The initial event of the big and hitherto unsurpassed concerted opening period was the unveiling of the show windows. As an added impetus to a superior display of wares the Sentinel awarded a silver loving cup to the decorator whose window display was judged to be the best. The affair was quite a success.

J. O. Gardner has become circulation manager of the Roanoke (Va.)

KEEN PUBLISHERS Everywhere Are Buying Electric BulletinMachines

They have written us letters giving their opinions. They make interesting reading. We wish we could send them to you complete. Some of the letters are in our New Illustrated Catalogue. Why not let us send you One?

National Electric Bulletin Corporation.
NEW LONDON, CONN.

Our Small Comics

Lately ordered by Spokane Chronicle and St. Louis Times. Used by Philadelphia Bulletin for 18 years, Chicago News 10 years.

The International Syndicate

Established 1899. BALTIMORE, MD.

Times, succeeding W. F. Coe. Mr. Gardner was for a number of years a route-agent delivering the Times and the World-News, and his promotion followed a change in the carrier-system. Routes were placed in charge of individual carriers, weekly collections instituted and C. L. Richardson, another route-agent, placed in charge as superintendent of delivery.

With the drafting hand of Uncle Sam touching many families throughout the country, service flags, showing by stars how many sons or other members of the household are serving with the colors have come into popularity and have been successfully used as premiums by newspapers, notably the Philadelphia North American. The flags are supplied at reasonable prices, with any desired number of stars free of charge, by S. Blake Willsden, premium and advertising specialist, Heyworth Building, Chicago.

The Birmingham (Ala.) News is stimulating circulation interest through a Better Baby contest.

The Montreal Daily Star is now selling at $3 per year to all subscribers outside the city of Montreal. The rate was formerly $2.

The Family Herald and Weekly Star has increased its subscription rate from $1 to $1.25 per year.

Another case of co-operation between daily and weekly newspapers has been reported by the Bay of Quinte District Press Association.

The two Belleville daily newspapers, the Intelligencer and Ontario, have increased their mail subscription rates from $2 to $2.50 per year, effective September 1. Concurrent with this action the subscription

The only journal outside of the United States published in the interest of newspaper men.

THE 30 pages Weekly NEWSPAPER WORLD

Annual Postal Subscription
Everywhere $2.40.
(Established 1898)

Specimen Copy Sent Free
Address: 14 Cross Street
FINSBURY, LONDON, ENG.

NEWSPAPER FEATURE SERVICE

"The CIRCULATION Builders"
37 West 39th Street, NEW YORK

The Booklovers Sales Co. ANNOUNCES

Incorporated
Its Perfected BOOKLOVERS'
Plan for a PICTUREGAME
Complete for 350.00
Complete means Complete.
SEND FOR THE DETAILS
110 West 40th st., New York City

prices of the weekly editions of the same newspapers and of a number of other rural weeklies in the district have been increased to $1.50.

The Buffalo (N. Y.) Times has started its third distribution of "Lucky Prosperity Gold Coupons," with prizes amounting to $11,000. In previous contests the Times has awarded prizes to the amount of $19,000 and is said to be well pleased with the results. M. D. Treble is circulation manager.

FRIS WILL TALK SOLDIER CIRCULATION AT ATLANTA.

Although Atlanta is 1,800 miles from El Paso, Tex., H. H. Fris, circulation manager of the El Paso Herald, intends to be present at the I.C.M.A. convention in that city next month and to bring along some ideas about the handling of soldier circulation. Mr. Fris for the past ten years has been accustomed to selling his paper to men in khaki and has evolved a system whereby, he says, no accounts are lost and the cost of handling is less than that of city subscriptions.

The Herald has just established an automobile line from Columbus, N. M., to Camp Cody at Deming, N. M., a distance of thirty-seven miles and is now supplying the troops at Deming with two editions, besides a special edition for the camp. Mr. Fris expects to work up a circulation of 4,000 when all the troops reach the cantonment.

The circulation staff last week had another of its well known banquets in celebration of a record-breaking month of August. The staff is thus entertained by Mr. Fris whenever business records are broken in the preceding month and he has served as host eight times in the past fourteen months.

FINAL DETAILS OF I.C.M.A. TRIP.

EASTERN DELEGATION PLAN TO TRAVEL SOUTH BY TRAIN FROM NEW YORK.

By JAMES McKERNAN,
Chairman I.C.M.A. Transportation
Committee and Circulation Manager
New York World.

The Savannah Steamship Line will not be able to accommodate the delegates to the I.C.M.A. Convention, therefore there is no choice for those members going via New York City.

After hearing from a number of circulation managers, I find that a large number of them will travel by train, leaving Pennsylvania Railroad Station at 4.35 p. m., on October 7. This train arrives in Atlanta at 5.30 p. m. on October 8.

Members who desire reservations on this train are requested to write at once in order to avail themselves of the special rate offered by the railroads for party of ten or more. If we can guarantee 100 the railroad will furnish a special train, run as a second section.

It is proposed that members traveling by this route meet in the Pennsylvania Depot at 3.30 p. m. on October 7.

There is of course no change in the schedule printed in the I.C.M.A. Official Bulletin and THE FOURTH ESTATE for the members traveling via Chicago or Cincinnati.

Western members are requested to advise President J. M. Schmid so that he can make arrangements for either a special rate for ten or more, or special train, if 100 can be gotten together.

The individual rate one way from New York is $21.95.

Where there are ten or more traveling together the rate is $19.95.

Individual rate from Cincinnati is $11.92, party rate, $10.95.

Individual rate from Chicago $17.96, party rate, $16.10.

Members should be sure to take advantage of this party rate.

Those members who intend to combine the trip to the convention with their annual vacation will find plenty of places to visit from Atlanta after the convention is over.

Invitations have been extended plentifully to the association, among them a request from the Chattanooga Chamber of Commerce, to make a side-trip and visit Lookout Mountain.

Extra Money to Help Pay High Paper Bills.

I have a few dates open for EXTRA NEWSPAPER EDITIONS. My twenty years business management of newspapers, two years among best papers in this business, insures the publisher a square deal, a good advertisement, a good bunch of money from sources you never have any revenue from.

I guarantee you absolute satisfaction. Will be glad to forward all the testimonials from publishers you want.

Temporary Address:

C. L. SLOUGH,
Care Sandusky (O.) Register.
Permanent, 1466 Lauderdale Avenue
LAKEWOOD, CLEVELAND, O.

NEW BUILDING OF THE OAKLAND TRIBUNE.

Chickamauga Park and other points of interest.

Chickamauga Park is now the scene of preparations, on a very large scale, for the war with Germany. There are training camps for Army officers and Medical Corps men, respectively, several regimental cantonments in which new regiments are being drilled, a base hospital and the German prisoners' camp. The thousands of soldiers and officers now in camp make the Park of more than usual interest.

All these points can be reached from Chattanooga by street car, but if preferred, it might be possible to handle the party in automobiles by arrangements with the sight-seeing companies and garages.

However, street car handling would be more feasible if a large number should decide to make the trip. Shorter trips to places of interest can be made to suit time and convenience of members, of which the entertainment committee will advise when the delegates are assembled in Atlanta.

The fact that the Government is taking over cars and trains, causing a shortage, makes it absolutely necessary, if you are going to the convention, to make your reservations at once in order that you may be properly taken care of.

The official I.C.M.A. train from New York will leave from Pennsylvania Railroad Station, 32d street and Seventh avenue, at 4.35 p. m., on October 7.

All letters and checks should be sent to Alex S. Thweatt, general Southern passenger agent, Southern Railway Company, 264 Fifth avenue, New York, so that he can make all necessary arrangements for Pullman and train accommodations. The amount of the check will be the special party rate, $19.99.

I will be in the depot with Mr. Thweatt's representative, after 3 o'clock in the afternoon, on October 7 with your tickets, providing you have sent order and check for same.

In order to avoid confusion, members are requested to be on hand promptly.

Up to the time of going to press, the men who had signified their intention of going on the special train are:

Buffalo Times—M. D. Treble.
New Bedford (Mass.) Standard—George H. Reynolds.
New York American—William Henry.
New York Bolletino della Sera—Frank L. Frugone.
New York Globe—S. P. Booth.
New York Staats-Zeitung—William H. Hoffman.
New York World—James McKernan.
Philadelphia North American—A. E. MacKinnon.
Schenectady Union-Star—J. M. Annenberg.
Crowell Publishing Company—Ernest A. Scholz.
Pictorial Review—B. A. MacKinnon.
Today's Housewife—Henry von der Leith.

OAKLAND TRIBUNE WILL MOVE TO NEW HOME.

Preparations are being made by the Oakland (Cal.) Tribune to move into its new quarters at the corner of 13th and Franklin streets, in the heart of Oakland's business districts, and it is expected that the shift will be completed on or before January 1. The Tribune considers the building, which is of concrete and was one of the first erected after the earthquake and fire, to be one of the best equipped newspaper buildings in the West.

With a frontage of 60 by 100 feet and five stories above the ground floor, ample accommodations for editorial, business offices, press rooms, engraving and all other departments of a thoroughly modern and down-to-date plant will be available.

Title to the property is held by the Tribune Building Company. The installation of the new plant will be under the direction of Edward T. Foulkes, who was the original architect of the building.

The building itself is particularly adapted to newspaper requirements. It is so constructed as to sustain more than the average weights on the different floors.

The presses, the foundations of which will rest in the basement, are to extend through the rear of the first floor and will be visible to the public through large plate glass windows. The front of the ground floor and the mezzanine will be separated by a sound-proof partition and occupied by the business and circulation departments.

NEW A.N.P.A. MEMBER.

The Leavenworth (Kan.) Post has been elected to associate membership in the American Newspaper Publishers' Association.

KELLY TO CHICAGO.

Eugene Kelly, assistant secretary of the Syracuse Smelting Works, Brooklyn, has taken full charge of the Chicago office of that company.

OVER RED MEN'S INTERESTS.

John H. Bixby, business manager of the Muskogee (Okla.) Times-Democrat, has been appointed guardian for important Indian estates in Oklahoma.

INTERTYPE

"The BETTER Machine"

Model A

Single Magazine

$2100

Model B

Two Magazines

$2600

Model C

Three Magazines

$3000

Slide Magazine Unit, Applied Before Shipment, $150 Extra

A composing machine which requires much time for adjustments and repairs is a pretty expensive proposition, however versatile it may appear to be.

All Intertypes—the versatile multiple-magazine models as well as single-magazine machines—are so simple and durable that loss of time due to complicated design or delicate construction is an unknown factor among Intertype users.

INTERTYPE CORPORATION
Terminal Building Brooklyn, N. Y.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES.

$15,000

available for first payment on a daily newspaper property. California locations preferred.

Proposition P. M.

CHAS. M. PALMER
NEWSPAPER PROPERTIES
225 Fifth Ave. NEW YORK

Easy Money

Only paper in modern Central West city of nearly $50,000, splendidly equipped and showing annual profit to owners of about $20,000. Three-fifths interest offered for $75,000. Ask for Proposition 683x and give financial references.

Who wants to take advantage of a real newspaper opportunity in North Carolina, valued at $20,000? Proposition 683x.

H. F. HENRICH
NEWSPAPER PROPERTIES
LITCHFIELD, ILLINOIS

For Sale: Afternoon daily in fine southern field; model plant. Making 25 per cent on owner's investment and time. Wants to retire. Price $20,000, half cash. Address South, Care The Fourth Estate.

LOYAL GERMAN-AMERICAN PAPER.

"This is the flag we all respect and defend."

With this prelude, above which is a striking reproduction, in colors, of the Stars and Stripes, the Delmarva Printing & Publishing Company, of Wilmington, Del., publisher of the Lokal Anzeiger, the only German newspaper printed in Delaware, introduces a comprehensive directory of all German-American societies and churches in Wilmington, which it has just issued from its press.

The caption given above appears on the outside cover, and it is emphasized in the material between the covers, which contains a comprehensive directory and much advertising matter.

SAN FRANCISCO PRESS CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS.

The San Francisco Press Club has elected the following officers for the coming year: President, Al. C. Joy; vice-president, Karl M. Anderson; secretary, Lindsay Campbell; treasurer, W. H. B. Fowler; librarian, John N. James; directors, Gilbert Parker, Joseph L. Cauthorn, Fred A. Turner, long term; L. F. Patton, George North and Guy Moyster, short term; and the above officers.

SCRANTON MEN IN RANKS.

Two members of the news staff of the Scranton (Pa.) Republican have resigned to fight for Uncle Sam. Howard Mingo enlisted in the regular army and was assigned to recruiting work at Scranton. James C. Mackin is now at Camp Hancock, Ga. with the 13th Pennsylvania Infantry in which he has the rank of battalion sergeant major.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES.

Daily Newspapers

We have at this time several attractive opportunities to buy Daily Newspaper Properties in New York and adjacent states. Cash payments required range from $10,000 to $200,000. The owners of all the properties in question are represented exclusively by this firm.

AUDREY HARWELL. HENRY F. CANNON

Harwell & Cannon
Newspaper and Magazine Properties
Times Building NEW YORK

FOR SALE—Half interest in the most influential and prosperous newspaper property in the Southwest. Fine plant and equipment, splendid little city with all advantages, growing proposition in every way. Daily and weekly of highest rank. Guaranteed cash in advance weekly circulation of 3,500. Weekly publication is classed as one of the representative newspapers of the United States. My partner, who will continue with the business, is one of God's noblemen. He handles editorial end. My half interest for $10,000 will bear closest investigation and is a bargain for a live wire who understands business end. We netted $10,000 in 1916. If you are interested in a 50 per cent investment in one of the finest county seat towns in Oklahoma and a proposition throughout without one single drawback, address "Julian," care Western Newspaper Union, New York, N. Y.

DIVIDENDS.

INTERNATIONAL PAPER CO.

September 5th, 1917.

The Board of Directors have declared a regular quarterly dividend of one and one-half per cent (1½%) on the preferred capital stock of this Company, payable October 15th, 1917, to preferred stockholders of record at the close of business, October 5th, 1917.

OWEN SHEPHERD, Treasurer.

ARTISTS ASKED TO HELP BOYS IN THE TRENCHES.

Joseph A. Finnegan, advertising and publicity manager of the Hotel St. Charles, Atlantic City, N. J., has sent out a call to newspaper cartoonists and art editors. He requests the donation of original newspaper cartoons, particularly those dealing with the war, to be sold in one of the stores along Atlantic City's boardwalk. All proceeds will be turned over to a tobacco fund for the men in the trenches. Mr. Finnegan says that his personal appeals have already met with a hearty response and that he expects to clear from $500 to $1,000 for the cause.

WITH NEW YORK TROOPS.

When the Twelfth Infantry and the First Cavalry of New York marched away last week for Spangsbury, S. C., two well known New York newspaper men accompanied them. Colonel Reginald L. Foster, attached to the New York World's Sunday edition, headed the Twelfth, while Major Mortimer D. Bryant of Bryant, Griffith & Fredericks, special representatives, commanded a battalion of the First Cavalry.

IN AD FIELD FOR CITIZEN.

Peter J. Flannery has been appointed general advertising representative of the Brooklyn (N. Y.) Citizen, succeeding Frank J. Byrne, who is now representing the Brooklyn Times in the New York field.

MACHINERY FOR SALE.

FOR SALE—Goss High-Speed Straight line Five Roll Double Width Press equipped with all modern improvements and in very good condition. This press prints 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20 page papers at 75,000 per hour. $2, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32 page papers at $6,000 per hour. For prices and terms write

WALTER SCOTT & Co.,
PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY

GOSS FOUR DECK PRESS—Prints 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 14, 16, 20, 24, 28 or 32 pages. Overhauled and rebuilt. Will sell at very low price. The Goss Printing Press Co., Chicago, Ill.

LINOTYPE—Three Model 1 machines with complete equipment of molds, matrices and matrices. New Haven Union Co., New Haven, Ct.

LINOTYPE—Model No. 2, Serial No. 10109; 1 magazine, assortment of matrices. Fort Wayne Printing Co., Fort Wayne, Ind.

LINOTYPE—Model No. 1, Serial No. 8010, and Model No. 1, Serial No. 8011, with 1 magazine, liners, ejector blades, font of matrices (for each machine). Tribune Printing Co., Charleston, W. Va.

MACHINERY WANTED.

Wanted—Second-hand Miller Universal saw trimmer with router and jig saw attachments. Quote price. Sun, Paducah, Ky.

OUR LETTER BOX.

Advertisers and all other friends of THE FOURTH ESTATE are invited to make our office their headquarters for correspondence, etc., etc.

At present there are letters waiting for

A. B. Cudington	Griffith Bonner
S. Chivers Wilson	H. H. Patterson
Anna B. Corrhane	Publicity Bureau
Geo. W. Craig	Glenn C. Wilson
Thos. B. Donnelly	O. Wog
Arthur T. Egan	Chas. H. Forman
W. Burton Ellis	A. W. Seaholm
A. Finley	J. H. Musat Co.
R. Herts Service	A. P. Robyn
Sam'l M. Evans	Richard Neville
George S. Teall	Clinton F. Woods
J. G. Disher	C. S. Persons
Theodore Bisenz	W. E. Hornaday
Ray E. Willcox	C. S. Kendal
G. S. Myers	A. E. Bickson

The problem of covering the Canadian Field is answered by obtaining the service of the

Dominion PRESS CLIPPING AGENCY

which gives the clippings on all matters of interest to you, printed in over 95 per cent of the newspapers and publications of CANADA. We cover every foot of Canada and Newfoundland.

74-76 Church Street, TORONTO, CAN.

POLLOCK'S NEWS

You can reach 5,000 Editors and Publishers in the Northwest—the wide-awake ones—every month, through the Classified Ads in Pollock's News. That is $20,000 of them in a year for ten dollars. Send for samples and display rates.

710 Temple Court, MINNEAPOLIS

TYPO

CREDIT BOOKS, REPORTS, COLLECTION
General Offices
573 Fourth Avenue NEW YORK

SPECIAL AND CHICAGO NEWS
DAILY NEWS REPORTS.

YARD'S NEWS BUREAU

164 W. Washington Street. CHICAGO

PANCOAST IN NEW YORK.

Charles L. Pancoast has been transferred from the Chicago to the New York office of the Chicago Tribune to take charge of the New England territory. He succeeds Harry G. Glatz, who is now with the Butterick Publishing Company.

HELP WANTED.

Wanted—

A Publishers Right Arm, also the Brains to use it.

REQUIREMENTS: Experience in publishing business, advertising, circulation, editorial. Should be diplomatic correspondent and clear talker, with pleasing address; good executive and organizer, and able to manage detail.

Salary will be commensurate with the ability of the man selected.

An excellent opportunity for rapid development for a thoroughly competent and experienced man capable of acting as confidential assistant to publishers having large interests.

Write stating qualifications, all letters held sacredly confidential.

Address Publishers' Assistant, Fourth Estate.

An Unusual Opportunity

One of the leading New York and Chicago special agencies (many years in business and representing only permanent papers) has an opening for a high-class, energetic solicitor. An unusual opportunity. Application treated with strictest confidence. Give full particulars and references. Address Box 873, care The Fourth Estate.

Wanted—Sample copies for Representatives for Ohio. The Ohio Novelty Agency, Youngstown, Ohio.

Wanted on evening paper in city of 22,000, an experienced reporter; $18 a week, good chances. Apply, stating age, experience and draft possibilities, The Leader-Republican, Gloversville, N. Y.

AMUSEMENTS.

Astor—B'way & 45th—"The Very Idea."
Belasco—W. 44th—"Polly With a Past."
Booth—45th, W. of B'way—"De Luxe Annie."
Bijou—West 45th—"Mary's Ankle."
Bronx Opera House—"Lilac Lime."
Geo. M. Cohan—B'way and 43rd—"Here Comes The Bride."
Cohan & Harris—W. 43rd—"A Tailor-Made Man."
Comedy—41st nr B'way—"The Family Exit."
Casino—29th & B'way—"Love o' Mike."
Cort—46th & B'way—"Mother Carey's Chickens."
Criterion—"The Scrap of Paper."
Edwards—W. of 43rd—"Business Before Pleasure."
Empire—B'way & 40th—"Rambler Rose."
29th St.—Near B'way—"Lucky O'Shea."
48th St.—E. of B'way—"Over The Phone."
Fulton—B'way & 46th—"The Pawn."
Gaiety—B'way, near 46th—"The Country Cousin."
Globe—B'way and 46th—"Aladdin and His Wonderful Lamp."
Harris—West 43rd—"Daybreak."
Hippodrome—6th av. and 44th—"Cheer Up."
Hudson—West 44th—"Good Night Paul."
Knickerbocker—B'way & 38th—"Hamilton."
Lexington—51st & Lex.—"Shore Acres."
Lyric—42d West of B'way—"The Masquerader."
Liberty—West 42d st.—"Hitchy-Koo."
Longacre—W. 48th—"Leave It to Jane."
Manhattan Opera House—W. 45th—"Experience."
Maxine Elliott—29th st. East of B'way—"Eyes of Youth."
New Amsterdam—W. 43rd—"The Riviera Girl."
Park—Columbus Circle—"Rasputin."
Playhouse—48th East of B'way—"The Man Who Came Back."
Princess—39th near B'way—"Oh, Boy."
Republic—West 42d—"Peter Ibbetson."
Standard—B'way & 30th—"Her Soldier Boy."
Shubert—40th, W. of B'way—"Maytime."
Winter Garden—B'way and 50th—"Passing Show of 1917."

HELP WANTED

RAILROAD EXECUTIVE WANTS SECRETARY-STENOGRAPHER WITH NEWSPAPER TRAINING.

Young man, who is competent stenographer, accurate and swift of good habits and with executive ability, who has had reportorial experience on good daily newspaper. Splendid opportunity for bright, ambitious fellow—good salary, promotion as deserved, liberal amount of road work with transportation supplied. Applicants will please give full information regarding themselves and supply references in first letter, stating salary expected. Address Box 874 care The Fourth Estate.

Managing Editor, with pep and experience for established afternoon paper in growing Southwest city. Want man looking for opportunity to settle down in healthy, pleasant location on moderate salary and able to invest a couple of thousand dollars. Write fully, Box 873 Fourth Estate.

High class reporter on six day morning paper in a city of 150,000 in the east. Must have experience. be able to write an interesting and readable story and have the tact and energy essential to a good news gatherer. Permanent place for the right kind of a man. Address Box 877, care The Fourth Estate.

COPY WRITER WANTED

Leading daily newspaper has an opening for an experienced man capable of preparing copy for trade papers, etc. Address, Copy Writer, care The Fourth Estate.

SUBSCRIPTION MANAGER WANTED

If you would like the job of systematically working to enlarge the subscription list of a well-known New York trade paper, you're the man we would like to get in touch with. Address Trade Paper, care The Fourth Estate, New York.

WANTED—Copy and makeup editor for national magazine of highest character. Not only technically expert one soundly educated and widely informed. Preferably not under 35, several years happily married, with high ideals of citizenship, marriage and the home. Not just a "job." A permanent, progressive position for a man of sound body, clean mind, good habits, tact and judgment, who will make the most of an unusual opportunity to fit himself for responsibilities in a big organization. Full details, please. Address Box 870, care The Fourth Estate.

CHANGES ON THE STAFF OF THE DETROIT FREE PRESS.

John A. Myers, formerly city editor of the Providence (R. I.) News and of the staff of the Providence Tribune, is the new assistant city editor of the Detroit Free Press, succeeding James L. Darrimore, who has enlisted in an ambulance unit and left for a training camp.

Mr. Myers has been with the Free Press a year, his duties during that time having been military, police and general. Mr. Darrimore read copy in Minneapolis prior to his going to Detroit. He was with the Detroit Times before joining the Free Press staff.

Theodore Delavigne, who recently left an executive position at the Ford Motor Company to again become a member of the Free Press staff, and James G. Hanna enlisted with Mr. Darrimore. They are training in Chillicothe, Ohio.

Richard Farrington, another member of the general staff, has been drafted and will leave next week for Battle Creek, Mich., to train for service.

Duke Wellington, city editor of the Free Press, will return next week from a ten days' trip through the

SITUATIONS WANTED.

Advertising Manager

wants change to North or Northwest; specialty service and autos; no world beater but real business builder; increased business 400 per cent on present job in two years. Age 32, total abstainer, married; wants $2,400 drawing account against commissions. Can change on 30 days' notice. Wire or write Box 867, care The Fourth Estate.

Mr. Publisher—Has the war hit your advertising department and do you want an experienced solicitor at once? Am unexpectedly at liberty. Have had over 20 years' experience selling advertising, not copy chasing. Full of ideas and know how to put them over. References cannot be beaten. Name what salary you will pay; it must be good, but I will earn it. For quick action, write Experienced Solicitor, care The Fourth Estate.

Editor with metropolitan and small town experience, acquainted with all branches of newspaper work, now with large daily, wants place as managing or city editor on daily in city of 15,000 to 40,000. Can produce live, distinctive, popular, reliable paper and build circulation and advertising at minimum cost. No bad habits. Have national reputation as writer. Thoroughly posted on business and civic affairs; can make paper real benefit to all classes in a community. Address Box 878, care The Fourth Estate.

Live wire Advertising-Business Manager, morning or evening daily of ten to twenty thousand circulation, open for position September 18. Salary $50 a week. For details or personal interview address Box 859, care The Fourth Estate.

ATTENTION PUBLISHERS!

Who has the best position to offer a newspaper man of 30 years' experience? At present employed as night editor of a large New England daily but desires a change. Send answers to Egbert, care The Fourth Estate.

STEREOTYPER

desires foremanship; able to take charge any size shop; 14 years' experience; 39 years old, married, two dependents; sober, reliable, union, economical, and references. Address Stereotyper, care The Fourth Estate.

Editing copy; statistical or index work; weekly or monthly; at his home (New York) by experienced man. Address Box 876, care The Fourth Estate.

CIRCULATION MANAGER, successful business getter, using original campaign methods, twelve years experience on large and small dailies, at present employed, but desires a change. Address Box 875, care The Fourth Estate.

Eastern states, where he went in an effort to hire men to fill the vacancies.

William Placeway, formerly Canadian reporter for the Detroit News, has joined the Free Press staff and is covering police.

Thomas Dinney, who went from the Providence Journal last spring, has been transferred from general assignment to the Federal beat, taking the place of Tom Munger, who is now on the copy desk.

Frank Parker and George B. Doliver are at Battle Creek covering the opening of the new National Army cantonment.

William N. Hardy has been assigned to the National Guard encampment at Grayling, leaving the copy desk because of ill health.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

ARTHUR BRISBANE

managed the New York Sun at 23. The directors were dubious, but Brisbane made good.

If you want for telegraph editor a man of 23 with judgment, crisp English, and some experience, address Box 000, care The Fourth Estate.

Advertising manager with 35 years' (13 years solicitor, assistant and advertising manager Detroit (Mich.) Journal; 8 years advertising manager Duluth (Minn.) News Tribune; 5 years advertising manager Omaha (Neb.) Bee) successful experience is seeking connection with a live newspaper where ability to organize and produce will warrant the continuance of his service indefinitely. Will go anywhere. References any past employer. For further particulars address G. W. Preston, care Hotel Griswold, Detroit, Mich.

Circulation Manager, resourceful, successful business getter, using original campaign methods; many years' experience; methodical, economic; wishes to connect with metropolitan newspaper. Best references. Address Box 841, care The Fourth Estate.

LINOTYPE OPERATOR.

Printer with four years experience and thorough Mergenthaler machinist-operator factory course, wishes position with publication or private plant. Austin Savadil, 108 Targee Street, Stapleton, N. Y.

Subscription bookman of 35 years' experience as agent, general agent and sales manager and writer of subscription books and agency literature, to take full charge of preparing subscription publications for market, including agents' prospectus, canvass and plans for selling campaigns. Can train and handle agents, if desired. Author of subscription books sold to extent of half a million copies. Address Bookman, care The Fourth Estate.

If your newspaper property does not pay as it should consult a specialist who can put something over to your advantage. Address Box U, care The Fourth Estate.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

You may need to know

How you can get in touch with the right man for a position vacant, or

How you can find a suitable opening for yourself or some friend whom you can recommend.

Keep in mind the scope of our work. Ours is a service bureau for employers and employees in all departments of the Publishing, Advertising and Printing field, East, South and West.

No charge to employers; registration free; moderate commissions from successful clients.

Fernald's Exchange
Third National Bank Building
SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

PARAGRAPHER AND EDITORIAL WRITER

wishes to give up a good job for a better one. Young, original, forceful. Convincing clippings and references on request. Address Box 860, care The Fourth Estate.

Editor, 30 years' experience, city and country, desires position as city or managing editor in county seat, about 20,000 inhabitants; references. Address Box 871, care The Fourth Estate.

Circulation manager of a 12,000 daily who has worked up to his position, desires to advance in circulation work. Address Box 868, care The Fourth Estate.

Do you want a circulation manager who has made good? Now circulation manager of a daily of 12,000 circulation where he has raised subscription rate and street sale price without any loss of circulation. Have had many years' experience on big city dailies. Want larger field. Address Box 869, care The Fourth Estate.

CARTOONIST

First class, 15 years' experience, national reputation. Can furnish convincing recommendations and samples of recent work. All-around newspaper artist; exceptionally good on pen portraits. Can deliver the goods and expect good salary. Answer at once. Box 861, care the Fourth Estate.

HEMSTREET PRESS CLIPPINGS

Tenth Avenue at 45th Street
NEW YORK CITY

*We can Increase Your Business.
You want it Increased, don't you?*

Of course you have thought of Press Clippings yourself—but let us tell you how Press Clippings can be made a BUSINESS-BUILDER for you.

"BURRELLE"

ESTABLISHED
A QUARTER OF
A CENTURY.

60 and 62 Warren Street
NEW YORK

THE ORGANIZATION OF A DAILY NEWSPAPER.

ARTICLE XIII

SOME SUITABLE FORMS FOR GATHERING STATISTICAL INFORMATION ON WORK IN MECHANICAL DEPARTMENTS.

BY EDMUND WALKER,
Herald Building, Chicago.

Last week I mentioned that we would later on take up the question of obtaining statistical information regarding the mechanical employees. These statistics will, of course, be a part of our cost finding system.

The mechanical departments may be divided into three distinct groups: (1) composing room, (2) press room, and (3) stereotyping room.

The composing room can be subdivided into two departments: hand composition and machine composition.

Our object from a broad viewpoint is to ascertain the amount of productive and non-productive hours in each of these departments. We will, of course, arrange to analyze into different groups the time expended, whether productive or non-productive.

Taking first the composing room hand department, we would decide that all non-productive operations might be grouped under the following headings:

Distribution, cleaning up forms, type casting, bank and headings, standing time and proofs.

The productive headings might be grouped as follows:

Ad composition, news composition, alterations, make-up, form and headings.

Of course, it is understood that it is impossible to lay down any particular set of headings which will be suitable to every publisher. For example, those who publish a Sunday edition might desire to know what time was spent in setting Sunday advertising matter and news, and special columns would have to be provided.

FORMS TO BE USED.

Our problem now is to prepare a form for each employee in the hand composing room. This form must be simple and yet it must contain all the information desired by the accounting department for the compilation of the required statistics.

Above all things the form to be used must not have the tendency to make all the mechanical employees book-keepers.

Obviously any form which divides the hour into quarters and twelfths is going to be cumbersome to handle—for this reason we will divide our working hour into ten parts of six minutes each, which will have the effect of permitting us to record all time spent in the form of so many hours and so many decimal parts of an hour.

A suitable form measures $7\frac{1}{2}$ inches broad and 18 inches deep. Starting from the left hand side we will first leave a space of $2\frac{3}{4}$ inches blank. Then follows a one-half inch space where the hours and minutes are recorded from the top of the page to the bottom.

If the employees start work at 6

a. m. that will be your starting hour and your time record will read 6.00, 6.06, 6.12, 6.18, 6.24, 6.30, and so on, down the page.

Horizontal lines will next be ruled across the page, there being one such line for every six minutes.

Next you will rule vertical lines one-quarter inch apart making as many groups as may be desired.

The first will probably be ad composition, the second news composition and so on as previously set out.

SPECIFIC EXAMPLE.

John Doe came to work at 6.00 a. m. and until 6.30 he was employed on advertising composition—he simply draws a line in that special column from 6.00 to 6.30. He then went on make-up for two hours, which he will record by drawing a vertical line under that heading from 6.30 to 8.30 and so on throughout the day.

The horizontal lines corresponding with each hour and half hour should be slightly heavier than the others. Thus, when the accounting department add up the time taken by John Doe for advertising composition during the whole day, they will merely count each group of heavy lines, each one of which represents half an hour or rather .50 of an hour. The additions then are exactly as in the case of dollars and cents.

DIFFERENCE IN JOB PRINTING FORMS.

You will observe that the big difference between our form and the forms used by job printers is that we work on the basis of what class of work the employee is doing rather than on what particular job he spent his time.

However, it is frequently desired to ascertain the cost of one particular advertisement and by leaving a margin on the left hand side of our sheet it is now possible to write in the number of any particular advertisement on which the employee was engaged, or the name of the advertisement as is sometimes done.

In conclusion let me say that I have cuts suitable for practically every possible group of working hours and these I will be glad to loan you on request—you can then print your own forms without much expense.

ADDITIONAL ADVANTAGES TO BE GAINED.

Apart from the fact that these forms are a part of our cost-finding system you will already see the value of the information which they will supply to you day by day.

The totals of the various columns are of course posted to special accounts and these accounts show you exactly what time your men are spending on the different classes of their work.

You will quickly learn how much actual time is being spent on distribution, and how much unaccounted time you are buying because this will appear under the heading of standing time.

Incidentally it is quite impossible for any employee to "soldier" on his job for any period of time because you know what time should be spent on the different non-productive operations and you are also able to compare the time taken by one employee to accomplish a certain task with the time taken by another. In this way it is now possible to turn on each class of work that employee who is the most efficient at it—as shown by his own time sheets.

NEW BOYS' MAGAZINE.

The Boy Citizen is the name of a monthly magazine recently launched in Fort Wayne, Ind., with Charles A. Phelps as editor. The magazine has from twelve to sixteen pages, with an illustrated cover, and is devoted exclusively to boys and their work, such as athletics, amateur photography, Boy Scout doings, live news topics, editorials, and everything of interest to boys.

Mr. Phelps, who is the business manager of the Wildwood Magazine, is issuing the Boy Citizen through the Wildwood Publishing Company. He started thirty years ago as a newsboy on the streets of Fort Wayne. He organized the first Newsboys' union, established the Newsboys' City, and has devoted all his spare time and energies to the welfare of boys. Through his years of experience in this line, he has become thoroughly qualified to direct a publication of the character of the Boy Citizen.

GERMAN ARRESTED FOR SLUR ON LINCOLN.

Dr. Wilhelm T. von Knappe has been arrested at Vincennes, Ind., on a grand jury indictment as a result of an investigation of a book entitled, "History of the Wabash Valley," which the doctor wrote and sent to St. Louis to have printed.

In the book he charged Lincoln, it is set forth in the indictment, with being a traitor to his country during the Mexican war, with being an infidel and blasphemer. Von Knappe asserts his defense will be that he has evidence to sustain his statements. He is held in $250 bail.

EX NEWSPAPER MAN HEADS SAFETY COUNCIL.

David Van Schaack, former special writer for the New York Evening Sun, has been elected president of the National Safety Council.

He is a graduate of Trinity College, and went from newspaper work into the publicity branch of life insurance, and for ten years has been interested in the safety movement. He is director of the Bureau of Inspection and Accident Prevention of the Aetna Life Insurance Company and the Aetna Casualty & Surety Company of Hartford.

NEW AD MANAGER.

Lawrence Hamilton has been appointed advertising manager of the Iola (Kan.) Register.

MAGAZINE NOTES.

George D. Davis has been appointed manager and editor of Hardware and Metal, Toronto, following the resignation of J. G. Lorrman, manager, who has joined the staff of Brandon Henderson, Ltd., paint manufacturer, Montreal. Mr. Davis joined the Maclean staff in 1912 as associate editor of Hardware and Metal, having previously been connected with several Canadian hardware firms in various capacities.

In 1913 he became editor and, three years later, was appointed assistant managing editor of the Maclean group of trade papers, assuming in 1917 complete charge of the editorial department of these publications.

George H. Williamson, formerly with the Merrick Anderson Company, Ltd., Winnipeg, has joined the staff of Hardware and Metal as associate editor. Mr. Williamson has had a wide experience in the retail and wholesale hardware trade, having been associated with several well known Canadian firms. Mr. Williamson has frequently contributed articles to Hardware and Metal.

The first of October will see another addition to the editorial staff of Hardware and Metal in the person of A. H. Ilsey, who has had an extensive business experience, particularly in western Canada. He has been associated with the J. H. Ashdown Hardware Company, Calgary, Alta., and other western Canada firms.

Clara K. Fuller has leased the Little Falls (Minn.) Transcript to Ed. M. LaFond for a period of two years.

TO MANUFACTURERS:

If the links between the making of your product, your sales department, your advertising, your distributing channels and the consumer are not welded into one harmonious unit, your advertising cannot be made to produce its highest possible volume of returns. The Presbrey method has united these various branches in the case of many others. Why not learn wherein it can be made to earn for you? Your correspondence entails no obligation.

FRANK PRESBREY COMPANY

GENERAL ADVERTISING.
Makers of Commercial Booklets.
466 4th Av. (31st St.) NEW YORK

H. W. KASTOR & SONS ADVERTISING COMPANY

CHICAGO ST. LOUIS
An organization of merchandising men highly specialized in the solution of advertising problems.

G. LOGAN PAYNE CO.

SPECIAL REPRESENTATIVES
Fifth Avenue Building, NEW YORK
760 Marquette Building, CHICAGO
40 Broomfield St., BOSTON
Krege Building, DETROIT

VERREE & CONKLIN

PUBLISHERS' REPRESENTATIVES
226 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK
11 Lafayette Boulevard, DETROIT
26 E. Jackson Boulevard, CHICAGO

JOHN BUDD CO.

Representing Newspapers of
Burrell Bldg., NEW YORK
Tribune Bldg., CHICAGO
Chemical Bldg., St. LOUIS

MORE NEWS PRINT MANUFACTURED.

AUGUST SAW INCREASE IN STORAGE STOCKS—FIGURES FOR COMPARISON.

The News Print Manufacturers' Association's monthly statement of production, shipment and stocks of news print paper on hand for the month of August shows an increase over the previous month of both production and shipments. The association represents about 70 per cent. of the total American and Canadian news print output.

Not only was more paper manufactured, but an amount more nearly equal to maximum was produced than during the previous month.

While shipments during August were larger than during July the per cent. of maximum shipped was only 97.2 per cent. against 97.9 per cent. in July, which situation is represented by an increase in stocks on hand at the end of the month of approximately 4,000 tons.

In comparison with the statistical situation in August of last year, this report shows that this year 99.5 per cent. of maximum was produced against 89.3 per cent. last year, an actual increase of over 150 tons a day, although the maximum productive capacity decreased over 400 tons a day.

Although shipments in August, 1917, are slightly lower than in August, 1916, a much larger per cent. of maximum was shipped and stocks declined over 11,000 tons, or about 18 per cent.

The figures follow:

Month.	PRODUCTION		SHIPMENTS
	Actual in Tons	Per Cent. of Maximum	Total Tons During Month	Total Stocks on Hand at All Points
UNITED STATES MILLS.
Whole Year, 1916	1,068,415	89.1	1,099,885	31,300
August, 1916	92,978	89.5	93,672	40,461
January, 1917	84,995	94.6	87,445	28,508
February	75,249	94.2	73,166	39,718
3 Months	160,244	94.4	160,611
March	86,045	95.8	84,579	32,261
4 Months	246,289	94.9	245,190
April	80,774	95.4	85,493	27,649
5 Months	327,063	95.4	330,683
May	91,213	101.5	85,333	33,595
6 Months	418,256	76.7	416,016
June	86,522	100.0	85,798	33,067
7 Months	504,818	97.2	501,814
August	81,279	97.7	83,034	36,193
9 Months	586,096	97.3	584,848
10 Months	88,501	99.7	87,129	38,327
11 Months	674,597	97.6	671,968
CANADIAN MILLS.
Whole Year, 1916	532,251	95.6	542,564	18,134
August, 1916	43,359	89.0	44,470	21,235
January, 1917	47,669	97.6	51,851	14,363
February	44,330	95.8	41,537	17,592
3 Months	21,999	96.7	23,388
March	48,904	93.9	50,387	16,137
4 Months	140,903	95.8	143,775
April	48,009	97.1	53,546	8,807
5 Months	188,912	96.1	197,321
May	53,551	100.3	53,094	9,290
6 Months	242,463	97.0	250,415
June	49,960	97.1	49,032	10,268
7 Months	292,423	97.0	299,447
August	48,670	98.4	48,535	10,448
9 Months	341,093	96.9	347,982
10 Months	52,303	99.0	50,540	12,259
11 Months	393,396	97.4	398,522
UNITED STATES AND CANADIAN MILLS.
Whole Year, 1916	1,600,666	91.2	1,642,449	49,434
August, 1916	136,537	89.3	138,142	61,696
January, 1917	132,664	95.7	139,296	42,871
February	119,579	94.8	114,703	48,310
3 Months	252,243	95.3	253,999
March	134,939	95.1	134,566	48,398
4 Months	387,192	95.2	388,965
April	128,783	97.1	130,039	36,456
5 Months	515,975	95.7	528,094
May	144,784	101.1	138,427	42,885
6 Months	660,759	96.8	666,431
June	136,481	98.9	134,830	45,321
7 Months	797,240	97.2	801,261
August	129,949	98.0	129,814	46,641
9 Months	927,189	97.3	931,075
10 Months	140,804	99.5	137,660	50,586
11 Months	1,067,993	97.6	1,068,735

TROOPERS WELCOME.

The Houston (Tex.) Press Club, through its president, F. M. Cowen, is arranging a plan whereby the club rooms will practically be turned over to soldiers now stationed in Houston. Visiting officers and especially newspaper men who are now officers will be given every possible courtesy.

ILLINOIS MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Illinois Daily Newspaper Association will be held in Chicago late in October, the exact date not having been announced. John Sundine of Moline is secretary of the association.

HARRIS TO NEW ORLEANS.

Thomas O. Harris, former editor of the Shreveport Journal, is now in charge of the news departments of the New Orleans Item.

Managing Editor Marshall Ballard, it is understood, will hereafter confine himself to the larger aspects of purely editorial work.

INDIANA CHANGE.

Mattox Brothers are now owners of the Geneva (Ind.) Herald, Lee Mattox having purchased the interest of J. B. O'Connor. Lee Mattox will publish the paper while his brother is in the army.

STORIES OF FOOD SITUATION IN FRANCE.

The Food Administration has ready for early release to weekly publications of various classes, including the trade, technical and labor press, a series of three striking stories on the food situation in France, by Fred B. Pitney, former Paris correspondent of the New York Tribune. Mr. Pitney has lived in France since the war and shows in a vivid way just how "the army and civilian population are fed over there." He gives official figures approved by the French and American governments, and draws the conclusion that the Allies cannot win the war unless they have the support of a fully informed people.

The first article contains 1,800 words, the second 1,000, and the third 1,200.

They will be furnished free of charge to every publication that can use them, the release date of the first article being the week of October 13. Editors wanting the series may wire the Trade & Technical Press Section, United States Food Administration, Washington, D. C.

CHANGES IN ST. PAUL.

Gustav Wollan has become editor of the Rural Weekly of the St. Paul Daily News, succeeding E. C. Rodgers, who has joined the Cleveland office of the Newspaper Enterprise Association. Mr. Wollan has been on the staff of the Daily News for many years.

Miss Mary Dillon has become club editor and feature writer of the Daily News, succeeding Miss Dorothy Ashby, who is now doing special feature work at the Des Moines cantonment.

Miss Nellie Driscoll has joined the Daily News staff as assistant in the school news department, of which his brother, Charles B. Driscoll, is head.

BROWN AUTO EDITOR.

Owen Brown, for several months associated with the Class Journal Company, publisher of Motor Age, Motor World and Automobile, has been chosen automobile editor of the Houston Post. Mr. Brown will be actively in charge of the advertising phases of his department, as well as being responsible for the editorial side of the automobile section. Brown was formerly a resident of Houston, but has lately been located in Detroit.

FRENCH CENSORS MOVE.

The Censorship Bureau in Paris has moved from the faraway Rue Grenelle to the central Place de la Bourse.

For the correspondents, all access to and communication with the censors is now barred. They can no longer invite personal discussions on disputed points. A telephone message, "Your dispatch has passed" or "Ten lines have been cut out," is about the limit of the information vouchsafed.

HANDLING WIRE NEWS.

Miss Jessie E. Turner has been appointed telegraph editor of the Chattanooga (Tenn.) News. She was formerly club editor for the Chattanooga Times and a member of the high school faculty in that city.

TAKE IT TO POWERS!

"Fastest Engravers on Earth"

Open 24 hours out of 24

On Time All the Time

POWERS PHOTO ENGRAVING COMPANY

151 Nassau Street, NEW YORK
Telephone 4209 Beekman

Good Work

Prompt Service

Fair Prices

They tell the story of our 23 years of successful service.

And we want you to get into the habit to

"Phone the Manhattan Man for your Engraving"

MANHATTAN PHOTO ENGRAVING CO.

251 253 William Street NEW YORK
Phone, Worth 1657-8

STANLEY PROCESS
quality a not to down
up made to a price
TYPE METAL

SYRACUSE SMELTING WORKS
BROOKLYN, N. Y. and CHICAGO, ILL.

For Particular Printing come to the
ALLIANCE PRESS
110-114 West 3rd Street NEW YORK

INJUNCTION SOUGHT AGAINST
W.N.U.-A.P.A. MERGER

An aftermath of the merger of the plate business of the American Press Association with the Western Newspaper Union last week is the filing of a suit in Omaha for an injunction by Edwin L. Huntley, a Nebraska publisher.

Mr. Huntley seeks to enjoin the merger, saying that it would create a monopoly to the detriment of his newspaper and others of like character.

NEWSPAPER DESERTS HOBOS.

The Cincinnati Commercial Tribune has forestalled all attempts of the "Sons of Rest" to secure free lodgings in its building, now that cold weather is approaching, by posting "No Loitering or Littering" signs throughout the property. In past years this building has been the mecca of the tired wayfarer.

Posted throughout the building are now seen "No smoking" signs.

GERMAN EDITOR INTERNED.

Fritz Bergmeier, editor of the St. Paul Daily Volks-Zeitung, will be sent to Fort McPherson, Ga., for internment during the war. He was arrested because of certain editorials which appeared in his publication.

LEAVES INDIANAPOLIS

Leon Parkinson, for several months a member of the editorial staff of the Indianapolis Star, has joined the staff of the Richmond (Ind.) Item.

THE PITTSBURG PRESS

HAS
THE Largest
DAILY AND SUNDAY
CIRCULATION
IN PITTSBURG

Foreign Advertising Representatives
I. A. KLEIN, Metropolitan Tower, N. Y.
JOHN GLASS, Peoples Gas Bldg., Chicago

Topeka Daily Capital

GOVERNMENT REPORT
for six months ending April 1, 1917.
showing net paid circulation.

34,567

Member A. B. C. Publisher
Arthur Capper TOPEKA, KAN.

ADS HALVE COST OF LIBERTY LOAN.

(Continued from Eleventh Page.)
Bonar Law made the same demonstration in England.

The press of Great Britain was as patriotic as ours, and gave as much attention in news and editorial columns to the various Government loans; but the Chancellor of the Exchequer, beholding the success of advertising in raising the Kitchener army, made an experiment of advertising in floating loans.

The result convinced him so completely of its efficiency and economy that he put advertising, in the eyes of all the world, to the greatest test, probably, that it has ever met. He gave it the supremely difficult task of making a direct public market among the people for the Victory Loan of $5,000,000,000, and that at an interest rate of 5 per cent., when the leading bankers in London gave it as their combined judgment that the rate should be 6 per cent.

Every one knows that the Victory Loan was oversubscribed by more than five million people at the 5 per cent. rate, thus saving the English Government $50,000,000 a year for the period of the loan.

The exact cost of the advertising I have not been able to learn, but the best available information is that it did not exceed $2,000,000, a much smaller selling cost than had ever

THE NEW YORK WORLD

(Morning Edition)

Prints MORE
ADVERTISING
than any other
newspaper prints.

The Open Door to the workshop of the world The Philadelphia Record

Special Representatives
STORY, BROOKS & FINLEY,
Fifth Ave. Bldg., NEW YORK
Peoples Gas Bldg., CHICAGO

been known before on a bond issue. What has been done in England can be done here, with an effective, controlled campaign of paid advertising; probably even a greater result can be obtained, for the whole world has long done us the honor to say that our advertising is better done than elsewhere, and that the American people read and are influenced by advertising as are no other people.

SPECIAL BOARD WOULD HAVE PICKED MEDIUMS.

The second point on which the Times editorial lays stress is the statement of Secretary McAdoo, which he made to our board, that the Government, if it advertised at all, would have to advertise in every thing.

That at first glance seems to be an irrefutable argument. But it assumes that the Government is unable to discriminate.

In fact, as we all know, the Government discriminates constantly. It doesn't buy shoes and blankets and steel from all manufacturers, but only from those who can meet certain conditions of price and quality and delivery. These conditions are determined by experts who discriminate constantly among manufacturers in deciding whether or not their products meet the conditions established.

The same thing can be done with advertising. It is a commodity with a definite market value. Highly trained men devote their careers to a thorough study of the relative values of different forms of advertising to accomplish definite results—such as the sale of clothing, of automobiles, of bonds.

There are 17,000 men and several hundred women in the various fields of advertising embraced in the membership of the Associated Advertising Clubs.

From among this great number, following a careful principle of discrimination and selection, the twenty-five members of the National Advertising Board were chosen. Their services were offered to the Government without pay for "the duration of the war."

It has been their privilege to serve, each member meeting his own expenses, on the first Liberty Loan and on the Red Cross campaign. They stand ready to continue to serve on the same basis.

Now the board foresaw at once the difficulty Secretary McAdoo has pointed out, and it met it squarely by proposing the same plan of action in buying advertising that the Government

BOSTON POST

CIRCULATION AUGUST, 1917
"NO RETURNS"

The Daily Post 532,595
The Sunday Post 352,792

KELLY-SMITH CO., Representatives
220 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK
C. GEORGE KROGNES, Western Rep.
Marquette Building, CHICAGO

Today's Housewife

Net Paid
Guaranteed

For Every Issue

GEORGE A. McLELLAN, Gen. Mgr.
401 Fourth Avenue NEW YORK

follows in buying all other commodities.

Indeed, it went further and developed a plan for the selection and discrimination among mediums by which those who had absolutely nothing to sell the Government should decide what the Government ought to buy.

A committee on plan and scope of the board was made up of seven national advertisers and seven national advertising agents, able men who bought millions of dollars' worth of advertising every year for themselves and their clients, and who had no advertising in any medium to sell.

In the printed plan which the board submitted to Secretary McAdoo on May 3 it was proposed that this committee would place all of its experience and knowledge, without cost, at the disposal of the Government in selecting mediums for any advertising that might be decided on.

Here is a fair and clear-cut way for meeting Secretary McAdoo's difficulty. It would unquestionably work without embarrassment to the Government.

No publication or medium would care to appeal from the decision of a committee possessing such knowledge and experience and representing the whole advertising world, as well as the authority of the Government.

To appeal would be to advertise the fact that a publication had not been selected by men who had nothing to sell the Government and who were undertaking to buy for the Government space that would give the greatest results; and it would be to flout the judgment of men who annually place millions of dollars' worth of advertising, a fact which would not be without influence.

The board submits that no plan fairer and better calculated to safeguard the Government, is in force today that excels this one.

Moreover, the official representation of all the great fields of advertising have expressly stated that the plan was absolutely fair, and that they would abide by it.

THE GOVERNMENT WILL LEARN.

The same issue of the Times which contains the editorial in question carries a dramatic news story from

1916 Broke All Records
of the

Toledo BLADE

9,807,578 Lines

of advertising in 313 days.
AN AVERAGE OF OVER
104 COLUMNS PER DAY.

Member A.B.C.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
250 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK
Mellers Building, CHICAGO
201 Devonshire St., BOSTON
Krease Building, DETROIT

YOU MUST USE THE EXAMINER

TO COVER THE
GREAT SOUTHWEST

Largest Sunday Circulation—more than 150,000

Washington about the successful motor that has been invented for our great aircraft fleet. Secretary Baker announced that this triumphant result came from the co-operative skill of able engineers.

Some day the Government will learn that advertising and selling have developed from the dark age of haphazard and guess work and become so grounded on knowledge that they can be practiced most skillfully by those who know the most about them.

Then carefully co-ordinated plans of selling and advertising will be carried out that will effect so many economies that a bond issue will be floated at one-half the cost in money and time required to float the first one.

In the meantime, the National Advertising Advisory Board, as it has told Secretary McAdoo, stands ready, with its twelve district boards and with the thousands of advertising men it represents, to serve the Government, without cost for its services, in every possible way.

THIS STUMPED 'EM.

Newspapers are asked to answer all sorts of questions and city rooms, generally, have the reputation of being the best known centers of useful information, but the Kansas City Journal city room was properly stumped last week when an inquirer asked an obliging reporter to whittle "La Marseillaise." For once the city room could not supply the desired relief.

NEW CITY EDITOR.

John O'Flanigan has resigned as night city editor of the Boston Herald to go with the Boston American. He has been succeeded by William E. Greenough, who has been on "rewrite" for the Herald.

JOINS CANADIAN FLYERS.

Valdemar Bendrodt, for several months sporting editor of the Victoria (B. C.) Times, has been accepted as a cadet in the Royal Flying Corps and is stationed at the Toronto training school.

The Woman's World, Chicago, has been purchased by Walter Manning, its advertising director.

The Cincinnati Community

consists of an area of 70 square miles with a population of 600,000

THE CINCINNATI ENQUIRER

is the MEDIUM YOU SHOULD USE in this unparalleled market.

Foreign Representatives
John Glass, Peoples Gas Bldg., Chicago
I. A. Klein, Metropolitan Tower, New York

Trenton TIMES

New Jersey's Leading
FOOD MEDIUM

Million lines food advertising in two years—developed by our Thursday Food Feature Pages.

This "food atmosphere" and "housewife interest" will increase your sales.

KELLY-SMITH CO.
220 5th Av., N. Y.; Lytton Bg., Chicago

Baltimore News

Net Daily Circulation 89,711
AUGUST, 1917
GAIN over
AUGUST, 1916 14,183

Special Representatives
DAN A. CARROLL J. E. LUTZ
New York Chicago

its Boston staff, died on September 18 at Boston, aged sixty-five years.

F. H. HALL, for many years business manager of the Dayton Journal, died in Fremont, Neb., a few days ago.

LAMBERTSON SHERWOOD, recently connected with the Paterson (N. J.) Press, died in Bloomfield, N. J., last week, aged sixty-eight years.

ANSEL H. HULING, until last year connected with insurance journals, died in Chicago on September 16, aged seventy-nine years. He was editor of the Chicago Argus for some years and for thirteen years was editor of the Des Moines Underwriters' Review.

JAMES LONGBOTHAM LEE, veteran Chicago printer and founder of the Challenge Machinery Company of Grand Haven, Mich., died on September 16 in Grand Rapids, after a brief illness. He was foreman of the composing room of the Denver Rocky Mountain News in 1861. He was a member of the Chicago Old Time Printers' Association and of the Illinois Press Association. He was seventy-six years old.

PAPER FOR ITSELF.

The 1st Provisional Regiment, New York Guard, which is doing duty on a 95-mile front along the Aqueduct, is to have a newspaper all its own. The first issue will come from the press today.

Colonel John B. Rose says it will be utilized largely to keep the men of his widely scattered regiment in touch with each other. The paper has an editorial staff and correspondents located at all the principal villages on the line of the Aqueduct.

PAPER AT FORT SILL.

The Second Kansas Infantry, stationed now at Fort Sill, Okla., will issue a regimental newspaper. Captain F. E. Benney of Wichita, former newspaper man, will be editor-in-chief. Newspaper men in the regiment will assist. It will be published weekly and will be distributed free among the men in the regiment.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat

DAILY—SUNDAY—WEEKLY.

To reach Farmers in Mississippi Valley and Southwest use

Weekly
Globe-Democrat

CIRCULATION INCREASING.
Now 115,000 each issue, 230,000 per week. Rate 50c per line per week.

PATERSON New Jersey's Famous Manufacturing City

PRESS GUARDIAN

Its BIG Independent Newspaper
G. LOGAN PAYNE COMPANY
New York Chicago Detroit Boston

GERMAN PAPER CLAIMS ADVERTISING BOYCOTT.

A front page editorial (printed in English) in the September 15 edition of the New Yorker Herald registered the following complaint:

"An anonymous committee, calling itself the Vigilantes, began a propaganda, dictated by hate, against the German newspapers."

"A circular was sent to all the managers of the English stage in this city. This letter was sent out by the anonymous gentlemen mentioned and they demanded that the theatres should stop their advertising in the German press. The managers were threatened with a boycott in case they would not heed this peremptory order."

"The demand as well as the threat was entirely against the law. And the thing we would have thought almost impossible has happened. Some of our most prominent impresarios and managers, men whom we thought were far too high in the social and business world to heed anonymous creeds impeaching our loyalty and uttering boycott threats, became frightened."

"The consequence is that instead of columns and columns of theatrical advertising our paper shows at present only the advertisements of a few managers who have the courage to disregard these boycott threats."

The Vigilantes, an organization of authors and artists engaged in patriotic work, vigorously denied that it was responsible for the action of the theatre managers. At the National Defence Society, which was the parent organization of the Vigilantes, who made war against soap box orators in New York streets a short time ago, officials were equally emphatic that they had not started such an agitation.

Representatives of the leading theatrical producing companies said they had received letters asking for some action against the New York German press. They denied, however, that they had acted in concert and said that everything which had been done was accomplished individually.

One man said he believed the withdrawal of advertising was due to patriotic motives; another admitted that his company had ceased to advertise in German newspapers, but said it was merely to cut down expenses.

W. M. Sanger has become owner of the Blanchard (La.) Herald.

A Gain of 73%

During the past four years the Detroit Free Press has enjoyed a gain of 73 per cent in circulation. Character and solidity explain this increase. ADVERTISING MUST PAY in a medium which calls forth such a tremendous response from the public.

The Detroit Free Press

"MICHIGAN'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER."

VERREE & CONKLIN, Foreign Reps.
NEW YORK CHICAGO DETROIT

SEATTLE "P-I"

The only seven day A. P. paper in the Metropolis of the entire Northwest.

The one paper in the entire West without competition in its field. It reaches into the homes of the most prosperous people on earth.

W. M. J. MORTON CO., Eastern Rep.,
Fifth Av. Bldg., NEW YORK.
Tribune Building, CHICAGO

REED HELD UP AS ENVOY TO SOCIALIST MEETING.

John Reed, newspaper man and author, after obtaining a passport to visit Scandinavia, was recently detained at the order of the State Department to clear up the question of his status on the trip.

Mr. Reed's request for a passport as a correspondent was granted. Following this action and the publication of the fact that Mr. Reed was going to Scandinavia, information, the nature of which could not be learned, reached the State Department which resulted in the postponement of the date of his departure for Europe.

It is understood the department authorities were "tipped off" that Mr. Reed was going to Scandinavia not as correspondent but as Socialist delegate. Until this fact was cleared up the department refused to allow Mr. Reed to sail.

It was said, however, that Mr. Reed had satisfied the officials on this point and had been allowed to proceed.

CRANE TO WILMINGTON.

Edward F. Crane, who has been connected with the Lake Placid (N. Y.) News and the Rutland (Vt.) Herald since his graduation from the University of Vermont a year ago last June, has joined the reporting staff of the Burlington (Vt.) Free Press, which has been entirely reorganized during the summer, because of vacancies due to the war.

THE PITTSBURGH POST

ONLY Democratic Paper In Pittsburgh

CONE, LORENZEN & WOODMAN
Special Representatives
New York, Detroit, Kansas City, Chicago

Member A.B.C. THE WASHINGTON POST

DAILY 2c—SUNDAY 5c
LARGEST Morning Circulation in the Nation's Capital.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.,
New York Chicago Boston Detroit

BUFFALO EVENING NEWS

The only Buffalo newspaper that censors its advertising columns. Many of our advertisers use our columns exclusively. The above is one of the many reasons WHY?

EDWARD H. BUTLER, Editor and Pub.
Represented in the foreign field by
KELLY SMITH COMPANY,
220 Fifth Ave., NEW YORK.
Lytton Building, CHICAGO

THE DAYTON SUNDAY NEWS

in the first five months of 1917 has carried 110,384 lines more local business than its only competitor.

With the Springfield News (the two at .065 per line) it's a great Sunday combination.

NEWS LEAGUE OF OHIO
DAYTON, OHIO

J. A. Klein, Metropolitan Tower, N. Y.
John Glass, Peoples Gas Bldg., Chicago

IN THE AD FIELD.

ADVERTISING ACCOUNTS NOW BEING PLACED BY THE AGENCIES

HUSBAND & THOMAS, 58 E. Washington st., Chicago. Advice has been received to the effect that the canners of Biloxi, Miss., have appropriated between $40,000 and $45,000 to exploit their products. It is understood that the whole appropriation will be spent in magazines.

ANFENGER, Railway Exchange Bldg., St. Louis—Placing orders with newspapers for the Grain Products Co., "Bran-Eats," Biscuits, St. Louis.

ARMSTRONG, North American Bldg., Philadelphia—Generally send out their winter newspaper copy early in the fall for S. L. Allen & Co., "Flexible Flyer," Philadelphia.

BARBER, 338 Washington st., Boston—Placing 3-in. 1-time a.w. 9-time orders with newspapers in selected sections for A. J. Tower, "Tower Brand Slickers," 18 Simmons st., Boston.

BLACKMAN-ROSS, 95 Madison av., N. Y.—Placing orders with newspapers in eight of the larger cities for Mayo Mills, "Mayo" 10 Rib Underwear, 346 Broadway, N. Y.

Will shortly place orders with newspapers in selected states for N. K. Fairbank & Co., "Cottolene," 9 So. Dearborn st., Chicago.

KELLEY, 2d National Bank Bldg., Toledo—Placing business of Stand-

THE KANSAS CITY STAR

MORNING—EVENING—SUNDAY

Each Issue
Over 200,000 Circulation

It Pays to Advertise in the ST. LOUIS TIMES

Now generally recognized as the HOME NEWSPAPER OF ST. LOUIS.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
350 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK.
Mallers Building, CHICAGO.
301 Devonshire Street, BOSTON.
Kresge Building, DETROIT.

THE Philadelphia Bulletin HAS THE Largest TWO-Cent Circulation in the East.

Net Daily Paid Average for August

351,976 Copies

WILLIAM L. McLEAN, Publisher.

ard Parts Co., E. 65th st. and Euclid av., Cleveland.

BLUM, 608 Chestnut st., Philadelphia—Placing orders with Sunday mail order newspapers for Breathe-O-Tol Co., 1309 Arch st., Philadelphia.

COLLIER, Dwight Bldg., St. Louis—Placing orders with some Western weekly newspapers for Roger's Fur Co.

DOREMUS & MORSE, 31 Nassau st., N. Y.—Placing orders with large city Sunday newspapers and in the small cities are using weeklies for White Tar Moth Co., "White Tar Moth Rags," 104 John st., N. Y.

ERICKSON, 21 Park Row, N. Y.—Generally consider newspaper advertising at this time of the year for Allcock Mfg. Co., "Allcock's Plasters," and "Brandreth Pills," 274 Canal st., N. Y.

GARDNER, Kinlock Bldg., St. Louis—Placing orders with newspapers for Fownes Bros. & Co., "Fownes Gloves," 119 W. 40th st., N. Y.

GOULSTON, 18 Tremont st., Boston—Placing advertising for Plymouth Rubber Co., "Slipknot Rubber Heels," Canton, Mass.

CORMAN-CHELTENHAM, 11 E. 36th St., N. Y.—Has secured account of Murphy Varnish Co.

VANDERHOOF & CO., Marquette Bldg., Chicago—Now placing account of Bunte Brothers, candies, 720-738 West Monroe st., Chicago.

Placing contracts for U. S. Cereal Co., Upper Sandusky, Ohio, manufacturer of "Butter-Wheat," with newspapers and painted bulletins.

Placing contracts for Alex. Sheppard & Sons, Inc., Philadelphia, manufacturer of "Morning Sip" coffee, with full pages in newspapers.

Placing contracts with the Wilt Sales Co., Chicago, manufacturer of Wilt cleanser for kid gloves and shoes, in newspapers.

Placing contracts for Commonwealth Motors Co., Chicago, manufacturer of "Ultra-Flour" pleasure cars, in newspapers.

KLAU-VAN PIETERSOM-DUNLAP, Manhattan Bldg., Milwaukee—Reported will shortly advertise in

THE NEW YORK EVENING JOURNAL

has the largest circulation of any newspaper in America.

MONTREAL DAILY MAIL

The circulation of the Daily Mail in Greater Montreal is larger than that of any other Montreal morning newspaper, English or French.

Vervee & Conklin, Inc., 320 5th Av., N.Y.
I.S. Wallis & Son, 1st Nat. Bk. Bg., Chicago newspapers for Northwestern Chemical Co., automobile specialties, Marietta, Ohio.

KOCH, University Bldg., Milwaukee—Reported are ready to advertise for Puffer-Hubbard Mfg. Co., Silos, Minneapolis, Minn.

LORD & THOMAS, 220 W. 42d st., N. Y.—Again placing new copy with newspapers on contracts for Chas. A. Tyrell, "J. B. L.," Cascade, 570 W. 150th st., N. Y.

Renewing some contracts where they have expired for Kops Bros., "Nemo Corsets," 120 E. 16th st., N. Y.

MULLER, 220 W. 42d st., N. Y.—Placing 28-line 2 time orders with a few newspapers in selected sections for Aborn Classes for Operatic Training.

NYE, 1777 Broadway, N. Y.—Placing orders with some Southern newspapers for "Tanforan Cigar."

PORTER, 18 E. 41st st., N. Y.—Are only placing orders with newspapers in the following cities: Louisville, Memphis, Cleveland, Chicago and Newark for Emerson Shoe Co., Rockland, Mass.

HANSER, Kinney Bldg., Newark, N. J.—Placing orders with some Southern newspapers for J. C. Brownstone Co. (Collins Co.), 84 Fifth av., N. Y.

IRELAND, 925 Chestnut st., Philadelphia—Generally place orders with newspapers about this time for S. B. & B. W. Fleisher, Inc., "Fleisher," Worsted, Eighth and Chestnut sts., Philadelphia.

KASTOR, Mercantile National Bank Bldg.—Placing copy with newspapers in selected sections for Lemo Brewing Co., "Curva" soft drink, St. Louis.

KIERNAN, 135 Broadway, N. Y.—Reported will place some advertising for Askin & Marine, clothing.

PRESBRY, 1001 Chestnut st., Philadelphia—Again placing orders with newspapers for Welsbach & Co., gas mantels, Gloucester, N. J.

SHUMWAY, 453 Washington st., Boston—Placing orders with some newspapers in East for Northfield Hotel, Boston, Mass.

THE SYRACUSE POST-STANDARD

—Central New York's FAVORITE newspaper—increases its circulation lead:

Daily (Net Paid) CIRCULATION 55,498

April, 1917 Figures—A.B.C. Basis. —Only morning paper in the metropolis of a rich, agricultural and manufacturing territory.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
350 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK.
Mallers Building, Chicago.
301 Devonshire St., BOSTON.
Kresge Building, DETROIT

THE JOURNAL IS THE ONLY MORNING AND SUNDAY PAPER PUBLISHED IN DAYTON, OHIO

STORY, BROOKS & FINLEY, Inc.
Fifth Ave. Bldg., NEW YORK.
Mutual Life Bldg., PHILADELPHIA
People's Gas Building, CHICAGO.

STROUD & BROWN, 303 5th av., N. Y.—Placed orders with newspapers in selected sections for Brown-Durrell & Co., Forest Mills, underwear, 11 West 19th st., N. Y.

VREELAND, 344 W. 38th st., N. Y.—Again placing orders with newspapers for Crown Corset Co., "Rengo Belt Corsets," 170 5th av., N. Y.

AYER, 300 Chestnut st., Philadelphia—Placing orders with newspapers in large cities for a combination of colleges and universities.

Sending out orders to farm papers for Haynes Knitting Co.

DILLG, Hearst Bldg., Chicago—Placing orders in daily newspapers for Hamm Brewing Co., "Excelsior," St. Paul.

ASKING RATES.—George Banta Publishing Co., Menasha, Wis., is asking rates and other data from daily papers.

WELL, Jenkins Arcade, Pittsburg.—Orders going out for Phoenix Piano Co., Detroit.

LORD & THOMAS, Mallers Bldg., Chicago—Contemplating campaign for California Raisin Growers' Assn.

HUMBERT-HATFIELD, Railway Exchange Bldg., St. Louis—Orders to dailies for Hipolite Co., "Hipolite's Marshmallow Cream," St. Louis.

BERRIEN-DURSTINE, 25 W. 45th st., N. Y.—Placing account of Photoplay Magazine, Chicago, in large Eastern dailies.

POWER, ALEXANDER & JENKINS, Journal Bldg., Detroit—Placing following accounts:

Steamtor Truck Co., Chicago, manufacturer of steam trucks with Doble power plant equipment.

Detroit Pressed Steel Co., manufacturer of steel disc wheels for motor cars.

Commerce Motor Car Co., Detroit, manufacturer of Commerce one-ton trucks.

Acason Truck Co., Detroit, maker of "Acason Trucks" and Ford tractor units.

Dayton Rubber Manufacturing Co., manufacturer of the "Dayton Thoroughbred" tires.

P. W. Drackett & Sons, Cincinnati.

THE
Boston Herald
(Morning and Sunday) and the Boston Traveler
(Evening)
Net Paid Circulation:
DAILY, over 208,000
Sunday, over 119,000
Member Audit Bureau of Circulations.

nati, manufacturer of Diamond "D" Chlorinated Lime and other household chemicals.

HAMILTON, Hearst Bldg., Chicago.—Handling following accounts: Curtis Form-A-Tractor Co., Chicago; Monarch Tractor Co., Watertown, Wis.; King Trailer Co., Ann Arbor, Mich.; Ann Arbor Machine Co., Ann Arbor, Mich.; W. B. Henderson Co.; Huron Tractor Co.; Clearing Industrial District, Chicago Examiner (foreign adv.); Kub, Nathan & Fischer; Melcher Bros.; Keeley-Handy Syndicate; Chicago Opera Co., all of Chicago.

McJUNKIN, Mellers Bldg., Chicago.—Placing small magazine campaign on "Adelite" carbon remover, Adams & Elting Co., Chicago.

Placing spring schedule in newspapers and magazines for Kling Bros. & Co., Chicago on "Airy-lite" suits and "Kling-made" outing trousers.

DAKE, 121 2d st., San Francisco.—Will use newspapers and magazines for Santa Monica-Ocean Park (Cal.) Chamber of Commerce during fall and winter to attract tourists to Santa Monica and Ocean Park.

POWERS - HOUSE, Illuminating Bldg., Cleveland.—Will use newspapers, magazines and trade papers in campaign for Van Dorn Iron Works Co., Cleveland.

CHAPPELOW, International Life Bldg., St. Louis.—Making up list for Johansen Bros. Shoe Co., St. Louis.

SHERMAN & BRYAN, 79 5th av., N. Y.—Sending out contracts generally for Lackawanna Underwear Co.

FEDERAL, 6 E. 39th st., N. Y.—Contracts to newspapers for Towle Log Cabin Maple Syrup.

RUTHRAUFF & RYAN, 404 4th av., N. Y.—Orders to farm papers for Watson Mfg. Co.

PORTER, 18 E. 41st st., N. Y.—

St. Paul and the Northwest
best can be reached by advertising your wares in the columns of the
ST. PAUL DISPATCH
and ST. PAUL PIONEER PRESS
In St. Paul, the St. Paul Dispatch has an average total daily circulation of 53,678; the St. Paul Pioneer Press, an average total daily circulation of 45,599; the St. Paul Sunday Pioneer Press an average total Sunday circulation of 47,509.
They also enter thousands of homes, located in cities, towns and rich farming districts of the Northwest.
TOTAL CIRCULATION
St. Paul Dispatch (daily). Over 51,000.
St. Paul Pioneer Press (daily). Over 44,000.
Sunday Pioneer Press. Over 77,000.
They Cover the Field.

BRIDGEPORT
CONNECTICUT
(The Eden of America)
The Prosperity Center of the United States and the Industrial Center of New England.
THE
Post & Telegram
(Evening) (Morning)
Cover This Field Absolutely.
Members of the A. B. C.
JULIUS MATHEWS, Representative
1 Beacon Street, BOSTON
171 Madison Avenue, NEW YORK
Hartford Building, CHICAGO

DALLAS EVENING JOURNAL
Published by A. H. Belo & Co.
Covers the afternoon field as completely as does the Dallas News in the morning
37,659 NET PAID average during 6 months period ending April 1, 1917. P. O. Report.
LARGEST AFTERNOON Circulation
J. D. LORENTZ, Manager Eastern Dept.
728 Tribune Building, NEW YORK

Sending out contracts to list for Emerson Shoe Co.

DIRECT—W. T. Hanson Co., "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills," Schenectady, N. Y., generally takes up newspaper advertising about this time.

Radway & Co., "R.R.R.," 208 Centre st., N. Y.—Placing new copy with newspapers.

Willia Sharp Kilmer, "Swamp Root," Binghamton, N. Y., generally plan fall newspaper campaign about this time of the year.

CLEVELAND STAFF CHANGES.

The following changes were made when the six-day Cleveland Leader was sold to the Cleveland Plain Dealer:

Harlowe R. Hoyt, formerly columnist on the Cleveland Leader, is now moving picture editor on the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A. E. M. Bergner, former city editor of the Leader, is city editor of the News, having as his assistants Hugh Kand, formerly night editor of the Leader, and A. M. Corrigan, former city editor of the News.

George DeWitt, former head of the Leader copy desk, and E. C. Bacon, formerly state editor of the Leader, are both on the News' copy desk.

F. F. Duncan, who was the financial editor of the Leader, and Tom Kelly, the market editor, have assumed similar positions on the News.

Joe Williams, formerly on the News copy desk, is now motion picture editor of both the Sunday Leader and the News, with Miss Helen Muckley as his assistant.

George Callahan, who was marine editor of the Leader, has assumed a similar position with Plain Dealer.

Edward Thierry and John Evans, rewrite men on the Leader, are doing the same work on the News.

C. J. Murray, former copy reader on the Leader, is now on the Chicago Examiner desk.

Roger Stafford, make-up man for the Leader, is now news editor of the Canton (O.) News.

The American Paint Journal, St. Louis, has been admitted to membership in the Associated Business Papers, Inc.

THE DETROIT JOURNAL
with over 100,000 net paid Circulation daily is indispensable in covering Detroit and surrounding territory.
Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.,
New York Chicago Boston Detroit

Newark Star-Eagle
NEW JERSEY'S
LARGEST PENNY PAPER
Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.,
New York Chicago Boston Detroit

OF A NEWSPAPER TRIBE.

When Mark A. Luescher was promoted from publicity director to general manager of the New York Hippodrome, the berth he vacated was assigned to Murdock Pemberton, an ex-newspaper man who has been Mr.

MURDOCK PEMBERTON.

Luescher's assistant in the publicity bureau since the big playhouse came under the direction of Charles Dillingham.

Mr. Pemberton comes of a newspaper family. Four uncles were pioneer editors in Kansas as early as the beginning of the Civil War—Marshall and Roland Murdock founding the Wichita Eagle, Benton Murdock the Eldorado Republican and Jacob Stotter the Emporia News. His brother, Brock Pemberton, is a newspaper man—now dramatic reporter on the New York Times. On William Allen White's Emporia Gazette, Murdock Pemberton first learned about "type-lice" and other pests which disturb a printer's devil.

After taking special work in Kansas University, he went to the Kansas City Star, where he was reporter, exchange editor, and later assistant

The Plain Dealer
First Newspaper of Cleveland, Sixth City prints a far greater total of paid advertising and paid advertisements than any other newspaper in
CLEVELAND
Over 150,000 Daily. || Over 200,000 Sunday.
JOHN B. WOODWARD, Eastern Advertising Representative, Times Bg., N. Y.
JOHN GLASS, Western Advertising Representative, Peoples Gas Bg., Chicago.

BALTIMORE CITY OF HOMES
and noted for its great industries and thrifty working classes, affords National Advertisers one of the best fields. Use the
AMERICAN and STAR
Morning—Sunday Evening
Baltimore's greatest newspapers, to thoroughly cover city and state. Member A.B.C.
C. GEORGE KROGNES, CHICAGO.
VERREE & CONKLIN, Inc., New York

Sunday editor. He came to New York in the fall of 1911, joining the staff of the New York Globe, whence he entered the theatrical line with Henry B. Harris, doing press work for Percy Mackaye's "Scarecrow," a literary play which had a short run.

Mr. Pemberton returned to his first occupation the following spring, working on the city staff of the Philadelphia North American. Shortly thereafter he became general press representative for William A. Brady and again forsook newspaper work. Mr. Pemberton has also been interested in moving pictures, handling feature films on tour and the publicity of the Strand Theatre for a season. When Granville Barker presented the Greek plays at the large American Colleges, Mr. Pemberton was on the press staff.

A one-act play written by Mr. Pemberton was produced by the Washington Square Players their first season. He has written considerable verse, some of which has been printed in the Century Magazine, the Independent and various newspapers.

GERMANS DE-INKING PAPER.

Faced by a war shortage of news print paper, German manufacturers are making use of a de-inking process that was discovered several years ago in order to reclaim at least a part of the stock that has already been used. The cost of regenerating paper is said to average $17.27 a ton, making the process highly economical.

Washington Newspapers
Sworn statements of the newspapers at the National Capitol to the Post Office Department for the six months ending March 31, 1917:
Evening Star 83,194
Evening Times 35,569
Washington Post 34,293
Washington Herald 30,454

Since this statement the circulation of the Star, Times and Post has materially increased.

The special features of THE BUFFALO TIMES

have made it the most popular newspaper in
Western New York

NORMAN E. MACK, Proprietor.
VERREB & CONKLIN, Inc.
Special Advertising Representatives
NEW YORK, DETROIT, CHICAGO

Schenectady POPULATION 100,000
EVENING UNION STAR
EXCEPT SUNDAY.
AUDITED CIRCULATION 20,643
Home circulation reaching best paid scientific, technical and skilled mechanic
in America.
LA COSTE & MAXWELL
Special Representatives
NEW YORK CHICAGO

"BOLT" IN N.Y. OVER SECOND CLASS.

(Continued from Second Page.)

through the mails, it is proper to say that the association, as well as the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, are on record as opposed to any additional tax.

"Our association, in a series of resolutions, protested against increase in taxation on the ground that the great increase in the cost of all materials which enter into the manufacture of newspapers has seriously affected the taxpaying ability of the newspaper industry; that the newspaper press is one of the most important and powerful weapons of the Government in the present war, and its strength should not be reduced and its influence weakened by oppressive and discriminatory taxes. As for the postal rates, they have been based, for generations, upon the public policy that the diffusion of knowledge and information in newspapers and periodicals was necessary to the unity and welfare of the nation, and our resolutions stated that they should therefore be encouraged by moderate postage rates.

"It has never been the policy of the Government to derive revenue from the postal service. It was never even attempted during the Civil War. It has been found by experience that decrease of postal rates increase revenue of the Post Office Department and general business throughout the country.

"The adoption of the zone system would operate as a stimulant in the promotion of sectionalism. The effect would be the creation of artificial areas outside of which publications would have little circulation. A few Southern newspapers may advocate the zone system because they are not affected by its provisions. Their circulation does not extend beyond the 300-mile limit. Many New York publications circulate widely in the West, and the interchange of ideas

If this territory presents a
sales problem to you, the Merchandising Service
Department.

of the Boston American will, upon request, make a trade investigation covering various sections of Metropolitan Boston and submit a report which will help you solve that problem. Ask how this department works.

BOSTON AMERICAN

W. D. BOYCE CO.

600-514 North Dearborn St., CHICAGO
805 Metropolitan Tower, NEW YORK
PUBLISHER

THE INDIANA DAILY TIMES

INDIANAPOLIS

THE FARMING BUSINESS

High-class farm weekly, magazine form.

BOYCE'S WEEKLIES

The Saturday Blade, Chicago Ledger.

THE LONE SCOUT

"BOYCE'S" IS A SYNONYM FOR
SUCCESSFUL ADVERTISING

Peoria TRANSCRIPT Only morning newspaper in Peoria.

Peoria JOURNAL

Only evening paper in Peoria with Associated Press franchise. Leads in circulation and advertising. Member A.B.C. SUNDAY JOURNAL-TRANSCRIPT.

Combination Advertising Rate

HENRY M. PINDELL, Proprietor.
CHAS. H. EDDY CO., Representative.
NEW YORK BOSTON CHICAGO

has a broadening effect upon the people of both sections. The zone system would restrict and largely cut off outlying subscribers through the increase in the subscription rates which would be made upon publications to meet the additional cost of postage.

"The overwhelming opinion of newspapers throughout the country is opposed to the imposition of this additional postage. It would be an unjust burden which the majority of them would find it impossible to bear.

"The additional tax proposed, while particularly hard on big newspapers, cuts at the very vitals of the thousands of small newspapers published throughout the country. If you double the postage of the small country weeklies and dailies you will drive them out of existence. The proposed rate is confiscatory, destructive, unfair and un-American."

THE TRIBUNE EXPRESSES ITSELF.

On the day of the vote, the Tribune printed the following editorial comment on Mr. Bridgman's statement:

"The protest, unfortunately, runs to glittering generalities. It is one thing to say that all postal rates ought to be moderate, and that the government in making rates ought to realize that 'the diffusion of knowledge and information in newspapers and periodicals is necessary to the unity and welfare of the nation.'

"It is another to twist these proper enough sentiments into a justification of the government's present enormous subsidies to publications using the second-class mails, many of these publications being primarily advertising media only slightly tintured with 'knowledge and information.'

"Postal rates should be 'moderate'; but 'moderate' describes very imperfectly the undercharges on second class mail transportation, which result in a deficit to the government of from $80,000,000 to $90,000,000 annually.

"At a time when Congress is more than doubling Federal taxation and is supposed to be stopping all unnecessary non-military expenditure, what excuse can there be for continuing this largesse to the users of second-class mails?

"A moderate postage rate does not mean a deficit rate. If the subsidy to the publishers is to be defended, why not cast aside all subtleties and say frankly, as Arthur J. Baldwin, vice president of the Associated Business Papers, Inc., did in a brief filed with the Senate Finance Committee, that a deficit second-class rate is 'one of the important raw materials' of the periodical publishing industry?

"Since the Publishers' Association's protest was directed to Representative Kitchen, among others, it might well have taken notice of an illuminating analysis of the working of the subsidy system which Mr. Kitchen made some time ago in a speech in the House.

"The chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, selecting the Curtis Company publications as representative in the magazine field and the New York Times

The BEST Advertising BUY in

CLEVELAND

THE NEWS

Quality Evening Newspaper
With Quantity Circulation

THE LEADER

Sunday

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.,
850 Fifth Ave., NEW YORK
Mellers Building, CHICAGO
801 Devonshire St., BOSTON
Kresge Building, DETROIT

THE NEW ORLEANS ITEM

Largest Afternoon Circulation in the
entire South.

(April A.B.C. Not Paid Statement)

Sunday 68,875 Daily 55,041

THE JOHN BUDD COMPANY
NEW YORK CHICAGO ST. LOUIS

as representative in the newspaper field, said:

"The total cost to the government of hauling, handling and distributing for the Curtis Publishing Company through the mails these three periodicals (The Saturday Evening Post, The Ladies' Home Journal and The Country Gentleman) last fiscal year was $5,366,104. Under the present law this company was required to pay for this large service only $592,899, leaving the government a loss of $4,773,205 and giving the Curtis Publishing Company from the pockets of the taxpayers a subsidy of $4,743,205."

"Now, take the case of a big city daily like the New York Times. Last fiscal year the government carried and distributed through the mails 10,023,200 pounds of this daily at a cost for transportation (average haul 300 miles) of $150,348 and for handling and distributing of $400,928. The total cost to the government of the service rendered was $551,276, for which it received only $100,732, making a clear loss to the government of $451,044 and giving a clear subsidy to the publishers of the Times of $451,044."

"Until these figures are successfully challenged the public will take little stock in the argument that the government is now carrying second-class mail matter at reasonable rates.

"The present rates are ridiculously inadequate. Everybody knows that they are.

"Why should Congress lack the business sense and moral courage to compel publishers to pay something like the cost of the service which the Post Office performs for them?"

To the Tribune's assertions, the Times answered editorially on September 21 with the following splendid rebuttal:

"Our neighbor the Tribune, which from its familiarity with its own business ought to have perceived the misleading character of Mr. Kitchen's statistics, inclines to the opinion that until his figures are successfully challenged the public will take little stock in the argument that the Government is now carrying second class mail matter at reasonable rates.

"With that argument we have no concern. If the rates are not reasonable they should be raised.

"The Times is contending, not that the second class rates as a whole are reasonable, but that the proposed increase now in consideration in the conference committee, so far as it applies to newspapers, is not based upon reason, has not been determined by any proper computation of cost, and that it has the appearance rather of an attempt to punish the newspapers and their readers than of a sincere effort to get revenue for the Government.

"Mr. Kitchen presumes to give the cost to the Government of transporting steadily advances, (not spasmodically) as the leading newspaper in its field.

THE

PITTSBURG DISPATCH

H. C. Roeb, Real Est. Trust Bdg., Phila
W. G. Brooks, 228 Fifth Ave., New York
Ford-Parras Co., Michigan Ave., Chicago
W. E. Edge, Atlantic City, N. J.
Dorland Co., 10 Regent St., London, Eng.

The City of Richmond 15,309 qualified
VIRGINIA, has voters

THE TIMES-DISPATCH RICHMOND.

is delivered 12,000 of the city's
daily into best homes.

In all VIRGINIA it's the same.

STORY, BROOKS & FINLEY, Inc.
New York Philadelphia Chicago

and distributing 10,023,200 pounds of the Times in the last fiscal year as $551,276. He states that as a fact. It is not a fact, it has no relation to fact.

"Mr. Kitchen evidently reaches this figure by assuming that the cost to the Government of the Times service bears the same ratio to the total cost of second class mail carriage and distribution that the 10,023,200 pounds of copies of the Times carried bears to the 1,809,470,678 pounds which is the aggregate of all second class matter."

"There is no truth or fairness in that ratio, it is miles away from the truth, for the second class total includes many million pounds of magazines and other periodicals circulated all over the continent and costing the Government for handling and distribution vastly more than the cost incurred for handling and distributing newspapers, either in the aggregate or per copy.

"Yet it is upon these figures that Mr. Kitchen's subsidy argument is based, and they are false.

"Moreover, on more than one-third of the whole bulk of copies of the Times sent through the mails the post office department incurs no cost whatever for handling or distribution. Its total cost is that of transportation. These copies are put up in bundles and delivered, not to the post office, but to the railroads transporting them, and they are thrown off on the stations at their destination, the Government performing no further service.

"The copies of the Times sent through the mails direct to subscribers are put in mail bags at the office of the Times, and likewise transported by it to the railroad stations, classified according to destination, thus relieving the railway postal clerks of the labor of sorting.

"These copies are distributed like other local matter through the post office. The cost of that distribution service and of carriage is the only cost incurred by the Government. In the total it is very far below the figure given by Mr. Kitchen.

"In order that a judgment may be formed as to the truth of the often-repeated assertion that the Government represents a greater purchasing power per unit of circulation than is found in any other New York Evening Paper.

The Circulation of the NEW YORK EVENING MAIL

A Powerful List is the MILWAUKEE GERMANIA LIST

CIRCULATION

Germania Herald 36,989
Only German Morning daily in Milwaukee
Sonntag Post 37,000
Only German Sunday daily in Milwaukee
Weekly Germania 107,413
(GermanFarm Journal) Weekly, 103,333
Die Rundschau, Weekly, 25,002
Eastern Representative
LOUIS KLEBAHN
1 West 34th Street NEW YORK
Telephone 215 Greeley

A National American Daily and Sunday printed in the Polish language reaching over 150,000 readers.

A Splendid Advertising Medium
Phone Stuyvesant 2004
90 East 10th St., NEW YORK

carries newspapers and second class matter at less than the cost of transportation, we present the subjoined table, showing the amount actually paid by the Times for transportation by express to the cities named, and for comparison the amounts that would be paid to the post office for the same weight of papers sent by mail:

COMPARATIVE COST BY SECOND-CLASS MAIL AND BY EXPRESS

Town.	Miles.	Lbs.	Office	Express
Buffalo	426	3,179	$21.70	$10.90
Elmira	374	1,368	12.00	6.21
Binghamton	316	2,500	25.00	12.50
Syracuse	379	2,325	22.25	11.43
Albany	143	2,325	22.25	17.03
Boston	219	2,362	23.62	19.21
Utica	231	2,066	20.66	18.33
Rochester	360	2,500	25.00	12.50
Washington	226	5,587	55.87	13.97
Baltimore	199	4,613	46.13	11.53
Bridgeport	55	4,031	40.31	30.16

36,054 $360.50 $154.77

"It will be seen that this service is performed by private concerns, the express companies, at substantially one-half the rate charged by the Government, 1 cent a pound.

"Newspapers sent to Boston by express on passenger trains go at a rate of three-eighths of 1 per cent per pound, against 1 cent per pound charged by the Government.

"To Baltimore and Washington the rate is one-fourth of 1 cent per pound, three-fourths of 1 cent a pound less than the post office rate.

"To points beyond Chicago, so far, for instance, as St. Paul, newspapers may be sent by express at $1 per 100 pounds, the very rate now paid to the Government, which the House insists is unremunerative as a whole, although more than nine-tenths of newspapers distribution will be included in a zone of very much less than 1,200 miles radius.

"In payment of postage on copies of the Sunday Times sent through the mails the Times pays the Government $928.54, while the cost of sending many

DETROIT SATURDAY NIGHT

Holds a commanding position in the progressive and prosperous homes of Detroit and Michigan.

One reason why it gained 35% in circulation and advertising during 1916.

Represented by
G. LOGAN PAYNE COMPANY
New York Chicago Boston Detroit

THE ST. LOUIS WESTLICHE POST

reaches the GERMAN reading and speaking population of St. Louis as no other medium can.

THE ONLY POLISH DAILY IN NEW ENGLAND

Kurier Bostonski

37 Beverly St., BOSTON, MASS reaches 800,000 Poles in New England. They want to buy your goods more than twice the same number of copies by express is only $800.75.

Use Kurier Bostonski

"The Times desires no subsidy from the Government or from any other source.

"It is receiving none, it will accept none.

"It firmly believes that if the Post Office Department were capable of ascertaining and accurately apportioning its costs it would be found that the Times pays in full the total expense it incurs in transporting and distributing copies of this newspaper.

"But the costs of newspaper service are so inextricably confused with the far greater costs of magazine service that the Post Office Department is quite unable to determine what, separately, they are.

"If even Mr. Kitchin's figures bore a recognizable relation to fact, the sum of $451,044 which he represents as a clear subsidy to the publishers of the Times is not a subsidy to the newspaper.

"If it were a subsidy to anybody, which it is not, it would be the readers of the Times.

"If it were a subsidy to the newspaper, it would be either paid to the newspaper or else paid for a service for which otherwise the Times itself would have to pay. Neither is true.

"Newspapers do not pay the postage charges, they are paid by the readers of newspapers.

"The increased rates now proposed would of necessity have to be charged by newspapers to their readers receiving the paper through the mail.

"The point of chief objection is that the rates are so outrageously high for remote destinations as to be prohibitory.

"The effect, therefore, would be not to get revenue for the Government, but to prevent the circulation of newspapers at points distant more than a few hundred miles from the office of publication.

"If this is not the object of the increase so zealously urged by Mr. Kitchin and other members of the House and so much clamored for by the Post Office Department, then we are quite unable to discover what its object is."

GUNNISON'S GROUND.

Herbert F. Gunnison, business manager of the Brooklyn Daily Eagle, voted against the resolution on the ground of its wording. He said the newspapers had done no more than they ought to for the nation; and that the instructions to send the resolution to newspapers all over the country by the Associated Press were not fair to the other business interests that were being taxed and had no such weapon to protest with, as have the newspapers.

Mr. Gunnison said he was against zone rates for second class because they would cause too much confusion.

MONTREAL LA PRESSE

is CANADA'S largest and wealthiest city—sixth in America in population; fourth largest French city in the world—and a wonderfully fine market for all kinds of advertised goods.

is Canada's largest circulating daily—over 145,000 and still growing—and it thoroughly covers Montreal's population, which is over 700,000, and of which 70 per cent is French Canadian element. Get particulars

W.M. J. MORTON CO., Special Reps.
NEW YORK Fifth Ave. Building.
CHICAGO Tribune Building.

LONDON, ENG., 19 Sicilian Avenue
Saulsington Row.

PARIS, 6 rue du Rocher.

THE JEWISH MORNING JOURNAL NEW YORK CITY

carries more advertising than any other Jewish newspaper. Circulation in New York City largest of all foreign language newspapers.

Member A. B. C.

ion, but that if the Government decided it was not getting enough for second class it had full right to raise the rates; and the burden of paying it would not fall on the shoulders of the newspapers, but solely on readers, who would have to pay higher prices. In that light, Mr. Gunnison contended, it will be to the best interests of the nation for Congress to keep second class rates as low as possible to allow the proper dissemination of intersectional information. He said the matter should be left entirely up to the Government.

CHICAGO UNITED PRESS NEWS.

Don Chamberlain, vacation relief operator of the United Press, who has been on duty in Milwaukee, has returned to the Chicago office.

William Sullivan is on his vacation.

Frank Beaman, formerly of Pueblo, is now in the Chicago office.

Robert Wise, operator at the Madison (Wis.) State Journal, who has been on vacation relief work, has returned to his regular place at Madison.

Webster L. Babbitt, formerly on the re-write desk in the Chicago office, has assumed charge of the U.P. office in St. Louis.

LIBERTY LOAN PUBLICITY MAN NOT EXEMPT FROM DRAFT.

R. C. Mees, who sought exemption from the draft on the ground that he is office manager of the publicity department of the New York Liberty Loan Committee, has been certified for service in the National Army, the district board deciding that his occupation did not fall under the exemptions allowed by the law.

"FRAT" EDITORS TO MEET.

Among the October conventions in Chicago of interest to newspaper folks will be the Sorority Editors' Conference. Miss Pearl Green of 15 East Avenue, Ithaca, N. Y., is in charge of the arrangements.

A. B. Hyberg has been appointed railroad editor of the Chicago Evening Post, succeeding William Ayers, who recently resigned.

NEW YORK THE DAY

America's Greatest
Jewish Community

America's Foremost
Jewish Daily.

Reaches the cream of purchasing power of the Jewish element in America.

CIRCULATION OVER 70,000
Despite advance in price from one to two cents.

THE DAY The National Jewish Daily.

Member A. B. C.

Main Publication Office:
183 East Broadway, NEW YORK

NARODNI List

Briscoe Motor Corp. of Jackson, Mich., has just placed 19,850 agate lines of Briscoe advertising in the Narodni List. This is the best proof that the Narodni List is one of the best advertising mediums in the foreign languages for National advertisers.

Ideal Newspaper for National Advertisers
Phone 3939 Beekman
61 Park Row, NEW YORK

The Only ITALIAN Daily Newspaper in New England.

Published Daily and Sunday.

La Notizia—The News

32-34 Battery St. BOSTON
consolidated with La Tribuna del Popolo and Il Messaggero di Worcester.

100,000 Italians in Boston.
300,000 Italians in Massachusetts.
1,000,000 Italians in New England.

MURDOCK HIS OWN TYPIST.

That the habits of a life-time cannot be shaken in a moment was shown by the first request of Victor Murdock, who recently left the editorial chair of his Wichita (Kan.) Daily Eagle to become a member of the Federal Trade Commission. Mr. Murdock's first call on the storekeeper of the commission was for a typewriter, upon which he intends to indite his ideas on the regulation of prices and other big business matters.

ZINDER'S NEW WORK.

Peter J. Zinder, formerly advertising manager of the Wausau (Wis.) Record-Herald, has become promotion manager of the Detroit Free Press.

THEY WOKE UP EARLY.

The Illinois Women's Press Association gave an autumn breakfast at the South Shore Country Club, Chicago, last Sunday morning.

CITY EDITOR BUYS DAILY.

Malcolm Aldrich has sold his interest in the Fairmont (Minn.) Daily Sentinel to Harry Fairley, who has been for the past few months city editor of the Minneapolis Journal.

WHILE IT BARS

Heart cures, kidney cures, cancer cures, consumption cures an all rank fakes in patent medicines.

The BILLBOARD

recognizes that there are many proprietary remedies, that possess virtues and real intrinsic worth and merit and which are well worth their price.

Hence it does not buy
SIMPLES

such as liniments, lotions, dentifrices, corn cures, and laxative waters.

Member A. B. C.

The Billboard Publishing Co.

Subway Central Bldg.
42nd and Broadway, New York City.

A Quality Newspaper THE SALT LAKE CITY HERALD-REPUBLICAN

THE WEATHER
Fair and Windy, but much change in temperature.

RUSSIANS FLEE FROM BALTIC COAST REGION

CHICAGO'S EXECUTIVE PROPOSAL

AMERICAN WIFE Proud of Heroic British Husband

THE HERALD-REPUBLICAN

Utah's Greatest Newspaper
SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH
August 27, 1917.

RIGA BEING EVACUATED HASTILY BY POPULATION

Former Czarina, in Banishment, Seriously Ill

ONOR ENCH BY AH

Christian Depart of These Treason Arrows Advances
Bringing From New Low
That From Miles Away

CHICAGO'S EXECUTIVE PROPOSAL
Likely to Follow

Northern Port Surrounded to Save Ancient Cathedral and Other Historic Buildings From Destruction

International News Service,
The World Building,
South Floor,
New York City.

Gentlemen:-

I have your letter of August 22nd, asking for return of signed copies of contract for the International News Service.

The delay has been occasioned by a majority of my board of directors being on a vacation and I have been unable to get a meeting. However, you couldn't take the International News Service away from the Herald-Republican with a club. It is the one thing we needed to put snap and ginger in our news columns and it is bringing us fine results in circulation. Our board of directors will have a meeting this week, at which time the contract will be signed and mailed to you.

Very truly yours,
James P. Casey
General Manager,
The Herald-Republican.

I.N.S. CLIENTS ARE SATISFIED CLIENTS

MILITARY CONFERENCE TO BE HELD IN PARIS

"SNAP AND GINGER"

The True News FIRST—Always, Accurately

INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE
WORLD BUILDING
NEW YORK CITY

A NEWSPAPER FOR
THE MAKERS OF NEWSPAPERS
AND INVESTORS IN
ADVERTISING

Published Weekly at 333 West
50th Street (Near Broadway)

NEW YORK CITY

SATURDAY, SEPT. 29, 1917

THE FOURTH ESTATE

"EDMUND BURKE SAID
that there were Three Estates
in Parliament, but in the Reporter's Gallery yonder there
sat a 'Fourth Estate' more important far than they all."
—Curtis's "Heroes and Hero Worship," Lecture V.

Two Sections

PRICE 25 CENTS.
TWO DOLLARS A YEAR

ESTABLISHED
1894

No. 1231

The man on the ground usually knows more about local conditions than the man 1,000 miles away

So before selecting the newspaper in which to place your advertising, it is a good plan to discover in what newspapers the local advertisers invest the biggest share of their appropriations. They know what papers produce results.

In Chicago local advertisers place more advertising in The Chicago Daily News six days a week than they place in any other Chicago newspaper in seven days.

The figures (in agate lines) for the first six months of 1917 are:

The Daily News	(6 days)	3,118,453
The Tribune	(7 days)	2,872,776
The Herald	(7 days)	1,799,967
The American	(6 days)	1,475,610
The Examiner	(7 days)	1,426,480
The Journal	(6 days)	1,195,837
The Post	(6 days)	815,349

When you come to invest your advertising appropriation in Chicago, follow the example of Chicago merchants

The Chicago Daily News

"It Covers Chicago"

IS THIS A NEW ATTEMPT AT CENSORSHIP?

SOME SENATORS FEAR FOREIGN PRESS AMENDMENT IN ENEMY TRADING LAW MAY BE A "JOKER."

If the interpretation of several Senators is accepted, the proposed Trading With the Enemy Law, if adopted and approved after the conference report, would apparently make it possible for Postmaster General Burleson at his will to determine whether a publication is seditious or otherwise opposed to the Government's war policy, and list it as unmailable. They say the laws working together would practically make it impossible for any agency to handle the papers thus placed on a blacklist.

Senators Morris, Cummins and Vardaman have pointed out on the Senate floor that many of the powers of censorship over newspapers, which the Administration endeavored to obtain through the Espionage act, and which Congress denied, are contained in the section reading:

"Any print, newspaper, or publication in any foreign language which does not conform to the provisions of this section is hereby declared to be non-mailable, and it shall be unlawful for any person, firm, corporation, or association to transport, carry, or otherwise publish or distribute the same or to transport, carry, or otherwise distribute any matter which is non-mailable by the provisions of the act relating to espionage, approved June 15, 1917."

The protesting Senators hold that the section is a "joker," which gives the Postmaster General unusual authority, and, while apparently aimed at foreign language newspapers which might be accused of seditious utterances, extends the jurisdiction of the executive end of the Government to all publications.

In calling the attention of the Senate to the paragraph Senator Morris of Nebraska said:

"This is a desperate attempt to put the newspapers out of business. Under this provision the Postmaster General can absolutely put out of business every newspaper in the United States. He could exclude from the mails every paper that does not meet with his approval and then, under the provision, it would be unlawful for any one to distribute them by automobile, express or even hand delivery. It would result in the coercion of every newspaper in the land."

The action of the conferees in accepting the amendment was condemned also by Senator Cummins of Iowa, who said he felt that it was a piece of assumption to accept such an addition to the bill without giving the members of either the Senate or House a chance to review it.

"The whole question," he said, "is who is it that will determine whether the publications are treasonable or seditious. The effort in the section seeks to prevent a trial. I am not in favor of making an innocent man criminal before his trial. An injunction should be asked. Then the issue would come up in the courts and you would not execute the criminal before the trial."

Senator Vardaman argued that under the Constitution free speech was inviolate. By the terms of the espionage law, he said, the Postmaster General was "made the censor by statute." He thought it was time, he said, that the people of the United States should be protected against such Congressional action as well as against treason.

The Postmaster General has announced that he will enforce strictly those provisions of the Trading with the Enemy act which empower him to bar from mails all foreign language newspapers which contain seditious matter, once it has been signed by the President and becomes law, which probably will be within the next week.

The Post Office Department and the Department of Justice will cooperate in the effort to rid the country of disloyal mediums.

Postmaster General Burleson said that while the law would be rigidly enforced so as to prevent the dissemination of matter inimical to the interests of the United States and its Allies, care would be exercised to see that the broad powers of the act were not abused. He said no action would be taken that would not be upheld in court.

He will demand absolute obedience of the provision which requires literal translation in English of all news items, editorials or other printed matter respecting the Government of the United States or of any nation engaged in the present war which any foreign language publication may print.

These translations, under the law, must be filed in the form of affidavits with the postmaster where the publication is published. A false statement in an affidavit will subject the offender to prosecution for perjury while penalties are prescribed for other provisions of the bill.

If it is discovered that any foreign language publication is printing seditious matter, denial of the use of the mails will immediately follow.

The law also makes it a felony for any express company to carry periodicals or other printed matter that have been barred from the mails.

It will be "unlawful" for any newspaper or publication to reprint any article from any newspaper or publication that has been declared unmailable.

In effect, if the Postmaster-General thinks any article in any newspaper, magazine or periodical is seditious, he can cause the whole issue to be confiscated and prosecute any one who reprints the article or assists in its circulation.

This applies to English language as well as foreign language publications.

In an interview with David Lawrence, Washington correspondent of

(Continued on Tenth Page.)

RECORDS OF 2.50 "AGREEMENT"

WILL BE GIVEN OUT BY THE FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION.

The Federal Trade Commission has decided it will turn over to newspaper publishers for such use as they desire to make of them all records and correspondence in the agreement of March made with news print manufacturers by which paper prices were to have been cut.

Some manufacturers declined to carry out the agreement when the Government refused to halt Grand Jury proceedings against them in New York, charging violation of the anti-trust laws.

Publishers who signed the agreement have made frequent inquiries of the commission as to what are their rights in the circumstances.

The commission, giving no definite answer, will turn over the records and let the publishers themselves judge what they best can do.

Secretary L. L. Bracken of the Trade Commission said:

"On March 3, 1917, this Commission decided to accept the proposition of certain news print manufacturers to determine a fair price for standard news print paper for the six months period beginning March 1, 1917, and announced the following prices:

"Roll news in car lots, $2.50 per 100 pounds.

"Roll news in less than car lots, $2.75 per 100 pounds.

"Sheet news in car lots, $3.25 per 100 pounds.

"Sheet news in less than car lots, $3.50 per 100 pounds.

"At the same time the Commission also decided that in order to obtain the reduction in price on their contracts publishers must sign and file with the Commission on or before March 20, 1917, their written consent respectively to said arbitration and its terms and particularly to release 5 per cent of their contract tonnage each month to be used in helping publishers who had no contracts.

"The Commission understands that some of the signatory manufacturers have refused, failed or neglected to carry out the arbitration agreements, and it has received frequent inquiries from publishers who filed their consent to the aforesaid arbitration as to when the signatory manufacturers intended to, and would put the plan into operation and give the agreed reduction in prices, and as to what their rights are in the premises.

"Under the circumstances, this Commission desires to inform you that it has decided to permit each and every publisher who filed his consent to the said arbitration agreement, or his representative, to inspect and take copies of the records relating to the said arbitration, including all correspondence on the subject between the signatory manufacturers and itself."

There is talk in Washington of the Federal Trade Commission, some time in the near future, demanding that paper jobbers handling news print paper and the newspaper publishers make reports to that body, somewhat in line with those reports which the commission is asking the news print manufacturers to make.

Senator Smith, of Arizona, chairman of the Senate Committee on Printing, on September 22, introduced a resolution "to provide further for the national security and defense by insuring to the Government of the United States an adequate supply of print paper at a fair price and by insuring a supply and equitable distribution at fair prices to the industries of the United States."

THE PRINGLE CANADIAN INQUIRY.

The fact that the Canadian Parliament has been adjourned before Commissioner Pringle had drawn up his report on his nine months' investigation into the cost of news print manufacture means that his report cannot be submitted to Parliament at all, unless it be held over for several months for presentation to a new Parliament after the general election.

The Government, however, has power to take action on the report by means of an order-in-council.

A fourth session of the news print probe will be held in Ottawa next week. Experts have obtained figures from the records and books of news print manufacturers as to the actual cost of the production of news print, and this will be presented.

The session will be held at the Ottawa City Hall on October 2 and will likely last several days.

These reports to be submitted by the accountants go more into detail than did the statements furnished the commissioner by the manufacturers at the beginning of the inquiry. The representatives of the paper manufacturers are expected to make a strong fight to uphold the figures as genuine costs and they will make efforts to discredit the way in which the commission's accountants secure their information. It will be likely the week following that Commissioner Pringle, K. C., will open the inquiry into the cost of manufacturing book and magazine paper. This is bound to be almost as long-drawn out as the news print investigation.

With a general election pending, which may be held before the end of the year, it is regarded as unlikely that the news print inquiry will be brought to a conclusion before the campaign is over.

MONTREAL MAIL QUILTS.

The Montreal Daily Mail has ceased publication.

The Mail was established on October 8, 1913. It was Conservative in politics, but somewhat independent of party.

Various rumors have been afloat as to the outcome of the Mail's financial troubles, one of them being that a syndicate of local liberals has been negotiating for its purchase.

M. E. Nichols, general manager, declined to make any statement other than: "The Mail has suspended publication."

The evening edition of the Mail, the Evening News, suspended publication several months ago.

REMAKING NEWS PRINT.

The Jespersen process of converting printed news paper waste into usable news print paper will be put into operation next week in the Fox Paper Company's mill, Lockland, Ohio.

1,750,000 Men, Women and Children are constantly requiring new

Hosiery In Philadelphia

The Third Largest Market in the United States

DOMINATE Philadelphia! Create maximum impression on both dealers and consumers at one cost by concentrating in the Dominant
Newspaper—The Bulletin.

“Nearly everybody” in and around Philadelphia reads The Bulletin—practically 100% of the entire potential market.

Net paid average two-cent circulation for August, 1917

351,976 COPIES
A DAY

The Largest Two-Cent Circulation in the East

PHILADELPHIA BULLETIN

WILLIAM L. McLEAN
PUBLISHER

DAN A. CARROLL
NEW YORK: Tribune Building

J. E. VERREE
Steger Building, CHICAGO

AMENDMENTS TO I.T.U. LAWS

WILL BE SUBMITTED FOR VOTE NEXT MONTH—WAGES ARE GOING UP.

Newspaper offices will be affected by the following proposed amendments to the International Typographical Union constitution, favorably acted upon by the 1917 convention, which will be submitted to the referendum on October 17; words in italics indicate substitution or addition:

Section 127. In cases where members are admitted as residents of the Union Printers Home, or who enlist for active service in the regular army or navy in time of war, or members of the national guard or Canadian militia who may be ordered to war, their situations may be filled by the foreman: Provided, That upon again reporting for duty the situations formerly held by these members shall be restored to them.

Amend Section 128, General Laws, to read:

Section 128. Any member of the International Typographical Union employed in an official capacity by his local union or by the International Typographical Union, or any member incapacitated by illness, shall not lose his priority in the office in which he is employed: Provided, That at the end of three months the situation may be filled by the foreman, but upon again reporting for duty the situations formerly held by these men shall be restored to them.

Add new section to general laws, to read:

Section —. All classes of mailing regardless of whether done by hand or power, is part of the mailing trade, and is under the jurisdiction of the International Typographical Union.

Add the following under the heading, "Resolutions:"

Resolved, That every effort should be made by line-casting machine manufacturers to make the face of matrices available to the operator without requiring undue effort to read same.

A number of new wage scales have been granted the I.T.U. by newspaper publishers.

The scale of Green Bay, Wis., was increased $1 per week for journeymen and $2 for foremen, under an agreement to run two years from May 1, 1917.

Hand compositors in the book and job offices under the jurisdiction of Annapolis (Md.) union received an increase of $3 per week on July 2, the contract to be in force for one year.

Beginning June 15, last, the printers in both the newspaper and book and job branches at Elmira, N. Y., received an increase in wages of $2 per week all around the first year and $1 the second.

Beginning July 1, 1917, the newspaper scale of Toronto, Ont., was fixed at $26.50 for day work and $28.50 nights. A year hence another dollar will be added. The old scale was $21 and $23, which makes a total advance in wages of $8.50 per week.

Under a contract which does not expire until six months after a formal declaration of peace in the present war, through a supplemental agreement, the Calgary (Alta.) newspaper scale for handmen is now from $22 (day) and $24 (night) to $25 and $27.

Great Falls, Mont., now has a flat wage scale of $36 for night work and $33 day. Foremen employed at night receive $45 per week and $39 on day work. The scale applies to both newspaper and book and job

AN OPEN LETTER TO ADVERTISING AGENTS AND ADVERTISERS

The Evening Star-The Sunday Star
WASHINGTON, D. C.

September 26, 1917

Gentlemen:

What can we do at this time for you or any of your customers in Washington?

If there are any matters of distribution or problems of sales in connection with this market which you might be interested in, we can be of service to you.

Business in Washington is enormous at this time and growing fast. Do your people want any of it? Fifty thousand people have come to Washington since the war began, and the incoming traffic has increased over 50 per cent.

Can we serve you or any of your clients at your National Capital, at present the most important city in the United States and on which the world's eyes are centered?

Have all of your clients proper distribution here? An inquiry will be appreciated.

Yours very truly,

FLEMING NEWBOLD

Business Manager

work. The increase amounts to $3 per week for book and job printers and $1.50 for newspaper printers.

The publishers of the newspapers of Peoria, Ill., H. M. Pindell and H. M. Powell, the former of the Journal and the Transcript and the latter of the Star, have voluntarily increased the wages of their employees in the composing rooms $1 per week during the period of the war and until peace is declared. The increase is independent of the contract in force between the newspapers and the Typographical Union.

There is a new book and job scale at Fort Wayne, Ind., with a total increase of $4 per week for hand compositors and $2 for machine operators. The pay for night work was based on increases of $5 per week for handmen and $3 for operators. Half of the advance granted the hand compositors will be paid the first year and the remainder divided the next increase being paid July 10, 1919, and the final increase on July 10, 1921. The agreement covers a period of four years and five months.

The book and job scale in Ottawa, Can., is now on a flat basis of $24 per week, hand and machine, with an agreement running from July 1, 1917, to June 30, 1919. The old rate was $20 for hand compositors and $21 for machine operators.

Increases in wages running from 50 cents per week to $3 have been arranged in a new contract in Middletown, Ohio. The agreement is for a year, beginning August 1, 1917.

Wages on the newspapers at Everett, Wash., under a contract running for one year and eight months, are advanced $1.50 per week all around. This makes the scale $30 for day work and $33 for nights.

The newspapers of Havre, Mont., have signed an agreement for a period of one year, and the wages were increased $4.50 per week—foremen, $28.50, and handmen and operators, $25.50.

The new scale of Battle Creek,

Mich., covering both branches of the trade, provides for an increase of $2 for foremen and handmen and $1 for machine operators, both day and night work.

The Polish printers of Buffalo, N. Y., have signed an agreement for a year with the newspaper published in that language, the increase in wages amounting to $3 and $4 per week.

PROTEST AGAINST INJURY TO FARM PAPERS.

Secretary McAdoo has withdrawn his request to Dr. H. E. Stockbridge of Atlanta, Ga., president of the Farmers' National Congress, for aid in the campaign for the sale of the next Liberty Bond issue. Replying to a letter requesting such aid, sent to him and the executive heads of twenty-one such farmers' organizations, Dr. Stockbridge notified Mr. McAdoo that the appeal "meets little response from us" and assailed Mr. McAdoo for favoring the McKellar amendment to the revenue bill, proposing increases in postal rates on second-class matter, which includes farm and other publications. Dr. Stockbridge wrote:

"You are placing an unjust and burdensome tax on the farmer by increasing the cost of his professional reading matter. Farmers are patriotic. We need the armies and fight the battles of our country. Our farm papers are our chief aid, yet now you threaten them with ruin. We refuse to become party to the crime."

In reply Secretary McAdoo said:

"I am happy to believe that you speak for yourself alone and that you do not represent the sentiment of any other farmer in America. I withdraw my request for your assistance in the sale of Government bonds. The patriotic people of America will sustain their gallant soldiers and sailors and carry on this war to victory without your aid."

NEW WAR CORRESPONDENT.

Walter A. Willison, who as London representative of the Toronto News visited the British, French and Canadian fronts on several occasions, has been named as the representative of the Canadian Press, Ltd., with the Canadian army in France, to succeed Stuart Lyon of the Toronto Globe, who returns to Canada after six months service.

Mr. Willison was recently in charge of publicity work at the Food Controller's office.

OWES OVER A MILLION.

Ex-United States Senator James Smith, Jr., former owner of the Newark (N. J.) Star and Eagle and Democratic leader of New Jersey, owes more than a million dollars, according to a list of creditors filed September 24 in the Surrogate's Court by the Fidelity Trust Company of Newark, to which Mr. Smith assigned his property when he got into difficulty two years ago.

RAINBOW ARMY PAPER.

The Rainbow Reveille, Camp Mills' first newspaper, appeared on September 21. According to its editors, soldiers of the 166th Infantry from Ohio, publication will be continued even when the division gets into active service. The first number was published at Camp Perry, in Ohio, last month.

The Monon (Ind.) News has increased the price of its weekly edition to $2 per year.

TUCKER HEADS THE MISSOURIANS.

NEED FOR STATE PUBLICITY—AGENT TO BUY PAPER FOR MEMBERS.

J. P. Tucker of Parkville, Mo., was elected president of the Missouri Press Association at its meeting in St. Louis on September 21. Other officers named were: S. W. Davis, Butler, first vice-president; A. T. Hollenbeck, West Plains, second vice-president; John Beal, Mexico, third vice-president; B. Ray Franklin, Russellville, corresponding secretary; Lewis W. Lampkin, Lees Summit, recording secretary, and L. W. Moore, Hume, treasurer.

About one hundred happy editors were present. They were happy because they said these were fair days for Missouri editors. They brought reports of unprecedented prosperity in their counties, such prosperity that even the editor has felt the flow of gold.

H. J. Blanton of Paris advocated establishment by the state of a publicity bureau to exploit the resources of the state. He said Missouri had resources unknown beyond its borders. He illustrated. Kansas, he said, was widely known as a great corn producing state, yet, he said, six Missouri counties produce more corn than did the entire state of Kansas. He said there recently was much publicity given to a Kansas pumpkin that weighed 56 pounds.

"Down in my neighborhood," Blanton said, "a farmer raised a pumpkin that weighed 112 pounds and no one ever heard of it."

Other speakers were: W. G. Naylor, Hannibal, on "The Service Side of Newspaper Work;" Mrs. Lillie Herald Frost, Vandalia, "Constructive Journalism;" Homer J. Clark, Harrisonville, "My Best Department and How I Kept It Up," and Bernard Finn, Sarcosie, "How I Got Stung and By Whom."

The last discussion was open to general discussion under a one-minute limit.

There was an interesting oral discussion of four topics which were the subject of written thesis in prize competition. They were (a) An Advertising Proposition I Have Worked; (b) My Method of Getting and Holding Subscribers; (c) My Method of Getting Job Work, and (d) My System of Getting News.

It was voted that a purchasing agent for Missouri country newspapers be appointed by the association, with powers to buy paper in large quantities to be distributed among members. President Blanton two months ago proposed that as the solution of the high cost of paper that was seriously threatening the existence of small newspapers. He since has bought about 500 tons of print paper at a saving of from $20 to $40 a ton.

I.W.W. EDITOR ARRESTED.

Carl Ahlteen, editor of the Minneapolis Alarm, an I.W.W. semi-weekly published in Swedish, has been arrested by the Department of Justice on a charge of disloyalty.

In his paper he is alleged to have placed the German flag on a par with the American colors and urged his readers to resist the draft.

TRADE LINOTYPE MARK

THE MACHINE THAT LASTS.

As 152 Is To 1

THREE magazine changes on four Linotypes in six days as against nineteen changes on one machine in one day represents the ratio of efficiency of the new over the old in the plant of an eastern publisher.

The superintendent of the plant says:

"Between the Multiple and single Magazine way of Linotype composition we find railroad history repeated. As against short hauls, many stops and frequent changes we now have through trains, few stops and a faster arrival at destination."

Multiple-Magazine Linotypes deliver the finished product at one operation via the one-man route on an express schedule. The schedule is maintained on "The Linotype Line," a booklet that gives all the details. Ask for it.

MERGENTHALER Linotype Company

Tribune Building, New York

CHICAGO SAN FRANCISCO NEW ORLEANS TORONTO

LOYALTY PLEDGE IN WISCONSIN.

DAILY LEAGUE PROTESTS ITS CONGRESSMEN'S ATTITUDE
—ELECTS STURTEVANT.

The Wisconsin Daily League, at its annual meeting in Janesville on September 20, unanimously adopted a resolution protesting against "the attitude of certain Wisconsin representatives in Congress who have tended to cast the odium of disloyalty upon this state." The league endorsed the efforts of the Wisconsin Loyal Legion to give the united support of Wisconsin to the Administration in the "great purpose of conducting a war against autocracy that the world may have a lasting peace and its peoples made free."

The league also pledged its unwavering support to the Wisconsin Patriotic Press Association, which has been organized to "counteract the influences of any movement calculated to give aid and comfort to the enemy."

The Wisconsin Daily League elected the following officers: President, J. L. Sturtevant, Wausau Record-Herald; vice-president, O. J. Hardy, Oshkosh Northwestern; secretary-treasurer, H. H. Bliss, Janesville Gazette.

ITALY REGULATES PAPER.

The Gazzetta Ufficiale, published at Rome, August 3, 1917, contains a decree governing the production and distribution of paper. These are placed under control of the ministry of industry, commerce and labor. The commission instituted by a ministerial decree of October 3, 1916, at the ministry of commerce and labor, assumes the name of central commission for paper. The ministry has the power to:

(a) Establish the amount and types of paper for newspapers and for public administrations which the various paper mills must furnish, and the dates of consignment.

(b) Establish the prices of paper for newspapers and for the public administrations, and eventually fix the highest prices for the sale of paper to the public.

MISS WILSON MANAGER.

Miss E. E. Wilson becomes office manager of the B. Brown Mailing & Addressing Company, New York, on October 1. Since the organization of the American Fair Trade League in 1913 she had been assistant secretary and office manager. Previous to that she was secretary to William H. Ingersoll, marketing manager of Robert H. Ingersoll & Bro. for four and one-half years.

ARREST IN TEXAS.

Carl Runge, editor of Liberty, a magazine published at San Antonio, Tex., has been placed under arrest by Federal authorities for alleged seditious material appearing in his magazine.

MOTHER EARTH IN NET.

The Post Office Department has served notice on the New York anarchist magazine Mother Earth to show cause why it should not be barred from the mails.

GOVERNMENT INVOLVES NEWSPAPER MEN.

PUBLISHES NAMES FOUND IN RECORD OF GERMAN AGENT—VON IGEL WAS AN "ADVERTISING AGENT."

The Government states that journalists, lecturers and publishers were liberally employed by von Igel, the German agent, and his associates for the purposes of German propaganda in this country before the United States entered the war.

In its sensational exposure story given to the press on September 23, the Committee on Public Information said:

"Among those thus tainted with the stigma of dishonorable professional conduct are two magazine writers and war correspondents, James F. J. Archibald, now in Washington, and Edwin Emerson, said to be in Africa.

"The following curious entry appears in von Igel's official records:

"PURE WAR EXPENSES.

Edwin Emerson	$1,000
Fair Play (Mr. Braun)	2,000
Fair Play (Mr. Braun)	1,500
Marcus Braun	1,000
J. Archibald	5,000

"Concerning the identity of the last entry there might be room for doubt but for a signed receipt from J. F. J. Archibald acknowledging the sum of $5,000 from the German Embassy for propaganda work. What return Archibald ever made in service is not clear, except that certain war correspondence for which he contracted with New York newspapers was so obviously prejudiced on the side of the Central Powers that they declined to accept it.

"That Emerson also overdid the came to which he sold his pen and professional honor, (the record indicates that he was paid $1,000 for traveling expenses), is suggested by the fact that he was expelled, or alleged to have been expelled, from Berlin for a violent attack upon Ambassador Gerard.

"Emerson has had a picturesque career in many parts of the world, and once cabled to a New York newspaper a picturesque but imaginative account of his own death in the Far East, under painful and interesting conditions. He was born in Dresden, of American parents, and is now traveling under an American passport obtained by false representations.

"Fair Play, that misnamed organ of Teutonic inspiration, appears to have been subsidized quite disproportionately to its value, since it received in all $4,500 in the course of a few months in 1916. Marcus Braun, who appears as its editor, is known as a political leader among the Hungarians of lower Second avenue, in New York, and has been variously connected with the fringes of the publication world. He is supposed himself to be a Hungarian. His associate in Fair Play was one J. P. Bryan.

"Even with such liberal support Fair Play did not fill the bill, for in January, 1916, a letter was written by F. Schroeder, a German newspaper correspondent in Tokio, to the German diplomatic representatives lamenting the lack of a genuinely influential weekly in New York devoted to Teutonic interests, and suggesting that one Borodi might be the right man to conduct such a publication.

"Frequent hints of George Sylvester Viereck's journalistic activities appear, and there are a few notations of Pearson: Subject, Press, which may refer to Pearson's Magazine, of which the editor, Frank Harria, is strongly pro-German, or may indicate a secret agent named Pearson, who is the subject of other entries.

O'LEARY, VIERECK AND DEVROY.

"The notorious American Truth Society, which so strenuously denied its pro-German associations, figures as indirectly linked up with Germany's secret representatives. This society is still extant, and Jeremiah A. O'Leary, its moving spirit, is now the editor of Bull, recently shut out of the mails for publishing seditious matter.

"One entry merits special attention because of the notoriety of the individual involved. Here it is, translated from the German record of correspondence:

"June 15, 1916. Sender, G. S. Viereck. Contents, inquiry as to bombs; supply offer. Told to send further details.

"Possibly the further details are indicated in another entry of four months later:

"Sender, Viereck. Contents, offer of picnic acid."

"Picric acid is a constituent of many high explosives. Mr. Viereck is something of a high explosive himself, having been editor of the virulently pro-German weekly Fatherland of New York, now changed in title (but not in purpose) to Viereck's Weekly.

"Several lines of communication between the German Diplomatic Service and the Irish revolutionary movement are indicated in the captured documents. John Devoy of New York City, now editor of the Gaelic American, a violent anti-British paper, was one of the active agents of this connection. Significant entries appear here and there; references to messages from the German Embassy at Washington and the German Consulate at New York; mention of a secret code to be employed in communicating with him and of a 'cipher Devoy'; also a notation, the details of which remain undiscovered, concerning 'communication re manufacture hand grenades.

"Devoy it was who acted, for a time at least, as go-between for the German Secret Service dealings with Sir Roger Casement, executed by the British for treason. There are several references to money and messages for Sir Roger Casement, or, more briefly, 'R. C.' and one record of a check for $1,000 for Casement, evidently handled by Devoy."

VON IGEL AN "AD AGENT."

Telling how the von Igel papers were obtained, the Information Committee said:

"In the fall of 1914, when the German plots against Canada were fomenting in this country, there was established on Wall Street, New York, an 'advertising' office presided over by a big, suave man of Teutonic aspect named Wolf von Igel. There were two peculiar features about this office.

"One was that it was frequented during two years of singularly quiet and unbusinesslike existence chiefly by Germans who had nothing whatever to do with advertising.

"The other was a large seal bearing the insignia of the German Imperial Government. To this office there came one morning in April, 1916, while von Igel was preparing a mass of papers which he had taken from the safe for transfer to the German Embassy in Washington, four United States Secret Service agents from the Department of Justice, who made their way past the guardians always on duty, put von Igel under arrest, and undertook to seize the papers.

"In letters, telegrams, notations, checks, receipts, ledgers, cashbooks, cipher codes, list of spies, and other memoranda and records, were found indications in some instances of the vaguest nature, in others of the most damning conclusiveness—that the German Imperial Government, through its representatives in a then friendly nation, was concerned with:

"Violation of the laws of the United States.

"Destruction of lives and property in merchant vessels on the high seas.

"Treachery and plots against Great Britain.

"Fomenting ill-feeling against the United States in Mexico.

"Subornation of American writers and lecturers.

"Financing of propaganda.

"Maintenance of a spy system under the guise of a commercial investigation bureau.

"Subsidizing of a bureau for the purpose of stirring up labor troubles in munition plants.

"The bomb industry and other related activities.

"The documents captured form a curious, if disjointed, chapter in the diplomatic history of the war."

VIERECK RESENTS REFERENCES TO HIM.

George Sylvester Viereck, editor of Viereck's Weekly, gave out the following statement:

"I have not the faintest idea what the entries referred to in von Igel's papers mean. Before our country declared war I received hundreds of letters from many sources offering inventions for sale to the German Government. I may have received offers to sell quantities of picric acid. My doctor tells me that I have a little acid in my system, but it is not picric acid. I know nothing about bombs except in the sphere of metaphysics. I turned all such inquiries over to the German Embassy.

"The legality of the munitions trade has been established by our Government. My action therefore implies no discredit to me. I resent the way in which it is presented. I resent especially the statement that my magazine is changed in title but not in purpose.

"When the President severed relations with Germany, we emphasized our patriotic attitude by changing our name the Fatherland to Viereck's, the American Weekly. Between Germany and the United States there could be only one choice for us.

"The motto of my weekly is my own motto also: 'America First and America Only.' Unlike the son of one of our ex-presidents, I am unwilling to forswear my allegiance to the Stars and Stripes. But I do not surrender the right of free speech. Criticism is not merely a civic right but a civic duty. I believe in the immortal words of Carl Schurz: 'My country, right or wrong; if right to be kept right, if wrong to be set right.'

"After the declaration of war I immediately offered my services to the President in order to aid him in combating the campaign of race prejudice waged at present in a portion of the American press. Realizing that starvation was a foe to be feared even more than the German army, I organized the Agricultural Labor Relief, with the object of finding work for the unemployed, especially enemy aliens, and of cooperating with the Government to the best of my ability in the attempt to ward off famine.

"Viereck's Weekly has started a fund to send kits to our soldier boys in the trenches. We did not wish America to go to war, but now that the country is in it, we hope that she will come out of it with honor—the sooner the better."

CHANGES IN DENVER.

John S. Barrows, former dramatic editor of the Denver (Colo.) Times, who is now at the Fort Sheridan officers' training camp, has been succeeded by William R. Stewart, who has been on the Times copy desk for over a year and who was previously editor of the Cosmopolitan Magazine and editorial writer for the San Francisco Chronicle.

John F. O'Brien, police reporter who is also at Fort Sheridan, has been succeeded by J. C. Feeney, formerly of the Denver Post.

Dana Burkhalter, whose place as sporting editor has been taken by Charles F. Carter, of New York, has gained a second lieutenant's commission at Camp Funston, Fort Riley.

J. E. Cook and H. C. Cooney, Times men who enlisted in the Colorado National Guard, are leaving for the Linda Vista (Cal.) cantonment.

BACK ON OLD PAPER.

After an absence of about fourteen years, Tracy Garrett, formerly of the Burlington (Ia.) Hawk-Eye staff, and later manager of the Creston Gazette, city editor of the Keokuk Gate City, news editor of the Council Bluffs Nonpareil, and for several years in Des Moines with the Register, Leader and Evening Tribune, has returned to Burlington to become managing editor of the Hawk-Eye.

ARRESTS IN MINNEAPOLIS.

Alexis Georgian, editor of the New Times of Minneapolis, and his assistant, Brumbaugh, were arrested at the instance of the Public Safety Commission on September 20 and turned over to the Federal authorities for violation of the espionage act.

FOR RETURNED SOLDIERS.

The Great War Veterans' Publishing Company has been incorporated at Victoria, B. C., to publish the official organ of the Great War Veterans' Association of British Columbia, a weekly review of matters interesting to returned soldiers.

NEW ARMY NEWS RULES

SUPPLEMENTARY TO FORMER REGULATIONS OF BUREAU OF INFORMATION.

Brigadier General Frank McIntyre, chief censor of the War Department, has drafted, for his own guidance, a set of censorship rules governing his course of action in dealing with war publicity relating to the American Army.

These rules cover fighting the army, moving the army to the front, and making the army. They supplement previously published rules, and are as follows:

"1. MAKING THE ARMY.

"Selection of men, appointment of officers, organization, movement to training camps and cantonments, daily life and training therein—all may be reported on and may be freely pictured. The only reservation is that actual train schedules and routes should not be published until the movement is completed. Experimental work should not be published.

"In training camp or cantonment, except experiments in material in trenchments or formations, the daily life may be discreetly described. Honest and timely comment and criticism can, from a military point of view, do little harm.

"2. MOVING THE ARMY TO THE FRONT.

"No departure, or preparation for departure, from training camps or cantonments should be published. No movements of troops after leaving cantonments or training camps by land or water should be published. No report of embarking, sailing, arrival, or debarking should be published, nor should the ports of embarkation or debarkation be given with reference to any particular movement, or be announced during the continuance of the war.

"The foregoing applies to large and small bodies of troops and to individual officers and soldiers. To this rule there is no exception.

"3. FIGHTING THE ARMY.

"When troops have reached the field of operations, there is but one rule to govern publications—that is, nothing should be published or pictured except with prior governmental approval. This approval, insofar as it relates to contemporary reports of operations and actions, is given by a representative of the commanding general in the field.

"The editorial comment at home should not disclose facts not so represented from the front. But, based on such facts, comment and criticism are limited only by rules of good faith and intelligence."

DRAFT TRAINS SECRET.

News of the mobilization of the National Army has been placed under only one restriction by the War Department, which wishes the train routes and train schedules kept secret. The publication of destinations is permissible.

NEW FRENCH CENSOR.

Captain Nusillard Marcejouls of the diplomatic service was on September 24 appointed director of the French Censorship Office.

Non-Distribution vs. Multiple Distribution

THE All-Slug System of composition makes Non-Distribution complete and economical. So called Non-Distribution, with movable type, is in reality Multiple Distribution.

A complete Non-Distribution system for Display composition is dependent upon the Ludlow Typograph, because it alone eliminates storage systems and the constant casting and distributing of sorts.

The Ludlow Typograph

Multiple Distribution is waste; Non-Distribution the Ludlow Typograph way is real economy.

Know all about the Non-Distribution system for Display. Send for Ludlow Typograph Literature.

Sole Selling Agents

MERGENTHALER
LINO TYPE CO.

Tribune Building, New York
CHICAGO NEW ORLEANS
SAN FRANCISCO TORONTO

NO MORE WAR REPORTERS.

Secretary of War Baker has denied a request by Representative Gallivan of Massachusetts that representatives of local papers be permitted to accompany various state units of troops to France. Secretary Baker said that aside from military reasons to increase the number of correspondents with the troops would do more harm than good from a news viewpoint by reducing the amount of news each writer could send by cable. The sixteen correspondents now in France, he explained, are utilizing all cable facilities.

The best news from the soldiers, the secretary added, will come in letters to their friends, and arrangements are being made for facilitating the transmission of such letters.

MORE GERMAN SUPPRESSION.

Dispatches from Berlin say that the newspaper Germania has been suppressed by the German authorities until further notice.

It was the leading organ of the Catholic Center and stood midway between the annexationist wing represented by the Cologne Volkszeitung and the Erzberger school.

GETS OUT SPECIAL EDITION.

Charles K. Needham, editor, and publisher of the Grinnel (Ia.) Register, recently issued a special edition consisting of fifty-six pages, devoted to the interests of Poweshiek County.

FOR YOUNG WRITERS.

A new magazine for young writers from sixteen to twenty-one, dubbed the Waste Basket, is to appear in Chicago at once. Corlis Drake is to be editor.

BAN ON SIMS' "QUOTATIONS."

Secretary Daniels of the Navy has requested the press of the country to refrain from publishing articles, opinions or recommendations attributed to Admiral Sims, commanding the American destroyer forces in European waters, unless such publications have been authorized either by the admiral or by the department.

Stories indicating that Admiral Sims had urged certain courses of action or asserted that he believed certain things very likely or should be done have caused the officer embarrassment, he complained. He sent the department a number of clippings taken from American papers, adding that none of the matters attributed to him had in fact ever occupied his mind.

OLD PAPER SOLD FOR THE RED CROSS.

The Junior League of San Francisco, working for the Red Cross, has sold a ton and a half of old newspapers, collected from 170 families. The papers are taken by a large firm and this first installment brought about $40.

The committee has issued an appeal to all householders to save their clean newspapers, fold them in half, tie into bundles and take them to the committee's collection point.

NOW RED CROSS PRESS AGENT.

Ensign Ralph B. Campbell, U.S. N.R.F., recently on the editorial staff of the Minneapolis Journal, has been appointed publicity director of the Northern Division of the American Red Cross.

AN ODD COURT DECISION.

TRUTH EVIDENCE REFUSED AND EDITOR SENTENCED FOR CONTEMPT.

After denying the privilege of defense, Judge Merritt C. Meecham of the state district court, sitting at Los Lunas, N. M., sentenced E. Dana Johnson, editor of the Santa Fe Daily New Mexican, to thirty days in jail for alleged contempt of court because of a publication in the New Mexican on March 30 last, in a campaign against political conditions in the state.

The court refused to hear any evidence as to the truth of the publication, the defense was denied the right to plead to prove intent or purpose in making the publication, and the court ruled that no explanation of intent was permissible until defendant stood up for sentence, the defendant being compelled to undergo conviction without benefit or proof.

After assertion by the defense counsel that the law required the allowance of an appeal, the court allowed an appeal. The defense will assert that the ruling of the trial judge deprived the defense of a fair trial, of any opportunity to make a defense, and utterly disregarded both federal and state guarantees against deprivation of liberty without due process of law.

J. C. GARRISON STARTS PAPER.

The famous Narragansett Pier, R. I., has a new paper called the Breeze, which is planning big things for the town's development. J. C. Garrison is the editor.

The Breeze will be an all-around-the-year paper and will devote a good deal of attention to Rhode Island politics and other state affairs.

Mr. Garrison, who was for many years with the New York Press and is now with the Providence Journal, says of his new enterprise:

"The Breeze is developing speed and strength as a Rhode Island state review, no less than as a local proposition at the Pier, which has a winter population of 1,500 and a summer population of 8,000 to 10,000. This we hope in a few years to increase to 50,000 a year.

"The Chamber of Commerce, in which organization I was very active, hopes to bring about the proper recognition by the summer vacation public of the most beautiful of all American seashore resorts."

T. E. Sedgwick has sold the York (Neb.) Republican to J. G. Alden.

NASSAU QUALITY METALS

ALWAYS UNIFORM

ELECTROTYPE
LINO TYPE
MONO TYPE
INTER TYPE
STEREO TYPE
AUTO PLATE
THOMPSON TYPE
COMPO SITE TYPE

Manufactured by the
Nassau Smelting & Refining Works
609 West 89th Street NEW YORK

THE FOURTH ESTATE

A NEWSPAPER FOR THE MAKERS OF NEWSPAPERS AND INVESTORS IN ADVERTISING.

Entered as second class matter in the New York Post Office, March 29, 1894. Issued every Saturday by THE FOURTH ESTATE Publishing Company. Ernest F. Birmingham, President and Treasurer, Fremont W. Spicer, Vice-President and Secretary, 233 West 59th Street, New York City.

Subscription: TWO DOLLARS a year, postage free in the United States, Hawaii, Porto Rico, the Philippines and Mexico. Postage extra to Canada, 50c.; to other countries in Postal Union, $1.01.

Subscribers should have their copies of THE FOURTH ESTATE addressed to their homes, so as to avoid chance of loss in the mass of exchanges (second and third class matter) which goes to all offices.

Single copies, TEN CENTS (except Special Editions, 25 cents.)

Back Numbers—Less than 3 months old, 25 cents; more than 3 months old, $1 each.

OFFICES AND PRINTING HOUSE
Broadway and 59th Street
233 West 59th St. NEW YORK
Columbus Circle.
Telephones, 7740, 7741, 7743 Columbus

ERNEST F. BIRMINGHAM, Publisher

No. 1231.

FOR THE WEEK ENDING SEPTEMBER 29, 1917

BUYING MADE SAFE AND EASY.

Does the average person ever stop to think what a safe and easy thing buying has become in our day? What a contrast to the way it used to be within the memory of most of us?

This applies to all buying—of necessities, of luxuries, of everything.

John Sullivan, secretary of the Association of National Advertisers, in a recent interview said some things on this subject which should interest every buyer in the world. His words apply to the purchase of anything, from a five cent cake of soap up to the most expensive advertised article.

Today, said Mr. Sullivan, the housewife sends her little child to make purchases at the corner grocery. She sends her with perfect confidence that, even though a child, she cannot err therein.

All that the child needs is explicit instructions to buy this or that. In the case of all staple produce the price is known, the quality is known and the name is known. There is practically nothing about the goods that is unknown.

And to be sure getting exactly what you want, it is only necessary to name the goods.

It is the same in other stores of nearly every kind.

What a contrast to the days of our fathers, when practically all buying was a hazard—impossible for the child and risky even for the parents!

In those so-called "good old days," soap was just soap, prunes were just prunes, coffee was coffee—and so on through the long list of things that are used in every home.

In no case was there any guarantee of quality—or any sure way to identify goods that might have proved satisfactory so that the same goods could be bought again. The whole buying game was just a game—a game and a gamble; with all the odds against the buyer.

Then gradually, step by step, came the great change. The trademark began to appear—a positive means of identifying goods.

And with the trademark came advertising on a national scale—the best, the surest, the cheapest, the only

The advertising forms close on Thursday. Advertisements should be received as early in the week as possible to insure proper classification.

ADVERTISING RATES.

Transient, 50 cents a line; agate measure (14 lines to the inch; 140 lines to the column; 560 lines to the page).

One page, $380; Front page, $400.

Discounts for consecutive insertions: One month, 10 per cent; two months, 20 per cent; three months, 30 per cent; six months, 40 per cent; one year, 50 per cent. Discounts based upon advance payment.

Small advertisements under classified headings, such as Help Wanted, For Sale, To Let, Instruction, Writers, Correspondents, Office Necessities, 25 cents a line (about 7 words) each insertion, without discount. Situations Wanted 10 cents a line net.

Advertisements in special position (not less than 28 lines in depth of column) double price.

efficient way of making the merits of these goods known to buyers everywhere.

Trademarked merchandise was soon found to be good merchandise—worthy of every buyer's confidence.

In fact trademarked articles have got to be good.

The trademark identifies them, advertising proclaims them, and use by thousands and millions make their qualities positively known. Only first class merchandise can dare to court such a test.

A well-known trademark is an asset of priceless value for a good article, but it would be sure death for a poor one, for in that case it would be not a guarantee but a warning to the buyer. It would help him to identify the bad as well as the good; to avoid the one and choose the other.

The greatest achievement of modern advertising is that for the first time in the history of the world's merchandising it protects the buyer; it makes buying both easy and safe.

The value of every trademark depends on the good will of the buyer, therefore this trademark, which positively identifies the goods, for better or for worse, is the buyer's sure and certain guarantee.

FAITH IN ADVERTISING.

George W. Perkins, capitalist and one of the most ardent advocates of business corporation advertising, is demonstrating his faith in his preachings in a unique way. He is paying $25,000 for an advertisement which is directed against him; which attacks him without mercy and sets forth in somewhat sarcastic vein most of the reasons why those farmers' societies, who have led the fight against him as a candidate for New York State food controller are eager to see Governor Whitman abandon the fight in behalf of Mr. Perkins.

The advertisement was prepared by the farmers' agents and has been mailed to papers throughout the state for publication. The bills are to be paid by Mr. Perkins.

Every daily in the state will print it and the cost to Mr. Perkins will be about $25,000.

This is the way it all happened:

Last week Mr. Perkins and Samuel Fraser, leader of the anti-Perkins campaign, met at a fair in Genesee County. Mr. Perkins told why he believed he could remedy the food situation. Mr. Fraser, who is chairman of the committee opposing Mr. Perkins, told why he and his colleagues were apposed to the New York man.

"Why don't you publish your reasons in the papers of the state so every one can hear them and read them?" asked Mr. Perkins.

"Because we can't afford it the way you can."

"Go ahead and do it and I'll pay for it."

And this is what Mr. Perkins is doing.

FOOD PLEDGE WEEK.

Most of the big things in our connection with the war have been accomplished by the typically American device of devoting a special week to a particular thing and making a national drive upon it.

We have had Liberty Loan Week, Red Cross Week, and Volunteer Week.

And, now, Food Pledge Week, beginning October 21.

For seven days the press and every possible organization in the country will be directed to the single end of getting the signatures of every man, woman, and child in the United States at the bottom of the food pledge.

Everybody in the country had heard something about food saving and understands that it is one of the four biggest services necessary to win the war.

Everybody is more or less kindly disposed toward food saving—and hopes that the other fellow is carrying out the provisions of the Food Administration, and intends to adopt the wheatless and meatless meal himself before long.

But now the time has come to sign up and do all these necessary things.

Newspaper publishers and advertisers are employers, managers, leaders.

In a service like food saving they should enlist not merely themselves and their families, and the general public, but their employees and subordinates.

At the end of Food Pledge Week the membership of the United States Food Administration should be 100 per cent of the people of the nation.

Be ready to "do your bit" that week—it will be the biggest sort of business because it is to help win the war.

NOTE AND COMMENT.

The bought-and-paid-for German propaganda, now being made public by the Government, was first exposed by the New York World in 1915, when it printed the Albert papers, which were original documents showing the methods by which the German Government was trying to manufacture American public opinion in favor of the embargo against the sale of ammunition to the Allies.

The World again exposed it in March, 1916, when it printed the original documents that revealed the drive of the German Government in behalf of the McLemore resolution warning the American people off the high seas.

It is reported that a barrel of German red dye, hidden in a stock room of a Lincoln (N. H.) paper company since its purchase three years ago for $89, while war conditions boosted its value, has been sold to a New York concern for $5,000. The paper company's plant recently was sold and the new owners found the long-neglected barrel and put it on the market.

The Whizz Bang is the name of a new Canadian journal published at irregular intervals "somewhere in Leamington" by W. D. Gregory.

Faith in the right kind of advertising was reflected in the preliminary campaign of a department store that has just opened its doors in Clarksburg, W. Va., the copy used in the Daily Telegram totalling over 50,000 lines in three weeks. M. M. Nachman, advertising manager of the store, used 26,754 lines before the store started business and at the same time was preparing copy for a special section of the Telegram, containing twelve solid pages of advertising devoted to his business, which appeared with the formal launching of the enterprise.

The special section appeared on September 10 and was followed the next day by a full page advertisement in the Telegram, bringing the grand total to 50,902 agate lines.

The Mining & Scientific Press, San Francisco, publishes the United States Food Administration pledge card in its advertising pages and calls attention to it editorially. Readers are asked to sign the pledge, cut it out, and send it to the editor, who will forward the signatures to the Food Administration.

Because of an unforeseen shortage of news print, the Lawrence (Kan.) Daily Gazette for August 30 was printed on high-grade, glazed book paper, costing 8 cents a pound.

Someone recently asked what had become of the old-fashioned editor, whose subscription list was an agency for fighting the high cost of living. Well, he's found. Richard J. Reer of the Osgood (Ind.) Journal in last week's issue acknowledged receipt of "honey, fruit and garden 'sassa' from three subscribers."

Shortage of newspaper reporters in Kansas owing to the war is beginning to be felt. The department of journalism of the state university has been besieged with inquiries for men and every student of even brief training has been offered a job. It is said that every company in the Kansas National Guard has enough newspaper men in it to get out the average daily newspaper.

The Chicago plan of Red Cross advertising is being taken up in other cities where Red Cross campaigns have been found necessary. The plan is to have leading business firms insert large advertisements in daily newspapers appealing for Red Cross funds. The idea not only benefits the Red Cross, but enables the contributing firms to share, somewhat, in the advertising.

PURELY PERSONAL.

Victor Ridder of the New York Staats-Zeitung has resigned from the alien committee of the mayor's defense committee. It was said at the editorial rooms of the Staats-Zeitung that the demands of his time as one of the managers of the newspaper had made it impossible for him to continue as a member of the committee.

Frank L. McGrath, foreign advertising manager of the Buffalo Times, is spending his vacation in New York City.

Clifford Harris has left the Portland (Ore.) Journal to become sporting editor of the Seattle Times. He formerly covered the marine beat.

S. H. Chilton of Aberdeen, S. D., has become managing editor of the Groton (S. D.) Herald in place of Mrs. W. R. Veitch, who is compelled to retire because of poor health.

W. Van Orsdell, formerly telegraph editor of the Buffalo (N. Y.) Enquirer, is at present copy editor of the Chicago Evening Post, succeeding Tom Martin, who has entered military service.

Miss Jefferson Bell has become society editor of the Miami (Fla.) Herald, succeeding Miss Marjorie Stoneman Douglas, who has resigned to give her full time to Government duties.

H. E. Haskinson, formerly office manager for the Hartford (Ct.) Post, now holds a similar position with the Bridgeport Standard.

George P. Watson, editor of the International Falls (Minn.) Press, has assumed management of the Fort Frances Times.

R. F. McGowan is now business manager of the Benson (Minn.) Press, succeeding J. C. McGowan, who has joined the Minnesota Ambulance Corps No. 1, stationed at St. Paul.

John B. Long of Council Bluffs has been added to the staff of the Des Moines Evening Tribune in the place of John Ball, called for military service.

Alexander Jones, reporter for the San Francisco Chronicle, has resigned to enter military service.

William Griffin, for two years with the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, has resigned to go to the San Francisco office of Foster & Kleiser.

Howard L. Bergen has been appointed to the advertising staff of the St. Louis Times. He was formerly with the St. Louis Republic and the Post-Dispatch.

Frank J. Hornby is the twenty-second Chicago Evening American employee to go to war.

M. D. Chesley, late of the Chetopa (Kan.) Clipper, is now with the Hardy Herald.

Harry S. Lithgow has resigned from the Albuquerque (N. M.) Evening Herald.

Charles Gibson has been made advertising manager of the Great Bend (Kan.) Daily Democrat.

C. A. Cain, formerly managing editor of the Topeka State Journal, Victor Barnet is a new reporter for the Chicago American, succeeding A. L. Sloan, now a sergeant in the Signal Corps.

is now managing editor of the Bisbee (Ariz.) Review.

Jose Garcia, with the Las Vegas (N. M.) Optic for the past two years, has resigned.

A. R. Hansmann, formerly editor of the Lyons (Kan.) Daily News, is now with the Kingman Journal.

Chester L. Jacoby, advertising manager of the Dodge City (Kan.) Globe-Republican, has resigned.

Roscoe Fawcett, sporting editor of the Portland (Ore.) Oregonian, is trying for a commission at the officers' training camp, Presidio, San Francisco. His position is being temporarily filled by James J. Richardson, a member of that department, who in 1911 edited a weekly publication called the Bleacher.

Walter Wallerstedt has left the Bethany (Kan.) News-Record to go with the Salina Union.

Jack Carberry and Arthur Robinson have succeeded R. M. Scott, Jr., and DeLos Walker on the staff of the Denver Express, the latter being called into military service.

Ed Gorey has gone from the City Press Bureau in Chicago to the Chicago Evening Post.

Jack Spellman, formerly on the staff of the Chicago Examiner, has joined the Chicago Tribune staff.

H. Elliott Stickel, formerly news editor of the Chicago Daily Journal, is now with the Chicago Examiner.

Frank Anfenger of the Chicago Journal copy desk, has succeeded H. Stuckel as make-up man of the Journal.

Miss Pauline Mears has succeeded John Gould, recently commissioned a second lieutenant, as city editor of the Wichita Falls (Kan.) Daily Times.

DOINGS IN CINCINNATI.

Miss M. Robinson, formerly of the Louisville Courier-Journal, is now on the staff of the Cincinnati Commercial Tribune and is making good with the "sob stories" and society.

William Robson, assistant sporting editor of the Cincinnati Commercial-Tribune and is making good the press committee of the Amateur Base Ball Commission of Cincinnati, has gone with the Cincinnati draft quota to Camp Sherman at Chillicothe.

Walter Emerson, veteran Cincinnati newspaper man, who was for many years superintendent of the City Infirmary, is back in harness and is now holding down the desk of the Cincinnati Commercial-Tribune.

R. K. Thomson, editor of the Interstate Banker, Cincinnati, is in Washington in connection with the Hoover Food Administration.

Ralph E. Logsdon, publicity man for the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce, has been summoned to Burlington, Ia., to take charge of the Iowa district for the Hoover Food administration bureau.

William Culkins, Cincinnati newspaper man and for some years secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, has resigned following his appointment as city street car commissioner.

The Varina (Ia.) Reporter has been sold to Bowman & Lewis of Spencer, Ia.

BUSY MR. WEISS.

Anton C. Weiss, publisher of the Duluth Herald, was the recipient of many felicitations on his fifty-fourth birthday, which occurred September 29, and which found him dividing his time and energies between his newspaper and the Minnesota state public safety commission, of which he is an active member.

A. C. WEISS.

Both the Herald and the safety commission seem to be doing well, showing that a really big man can divide his abilities between two intense corporations to the improvement of both.

EDITING AN OIL PAPER.

W. F. Kerr, who was consecutively state editor, managing editor and political editor of the Oklahoma City Daily Oklahoman and was for four years assistant secretary to Governor Lee Cruce of Oklahoma, has become editor of the Ringling (Okla.) News.

The paper is now called the Western Oil News and is devoted principally to oil, although it still retains departments for local and county news.

DOING OUR "BIT."

Arthur T. Robb, Jr., of THE FOURTH ESTATE staff has been called to the colors and is now acting corporal in the 308th Infantry, at Camp Upton, N. Y.

He is the third member of THE FOURTH ESTATE staff to enter the Army. William Preg is with the Regulars, and J. C. Emerson, Jr., is in the 71st Regiment.

DUNN IS PRESIDENT.

The Central Illinois Rural Press Association, meeting in Springfield, elected the following officers: President, I. S. Dunn of Divernon News; vice-president, H. H. Mason of the Pawnee Herald; secretary-treasurer, F. B. Everhart, Auburn Citizen.

SMITH A PRIZE-WINNER.

Fred Smith of the Chicago Tribune staff won the gold medal at the Chicago Press Golf Club's August tournament at the Hinsdale Golf Club last week.

WEDDING BELLS.

John J. O'Brien, a former Philadelphia newspaper man, was married in Tampa, Fla., on September 21 to Mrs. Marion N. Horwitz, the first woman to be elected mayor of any town or city in the United States.

John Studley, editor of the Neenah (Wis.) Daily Times, and Miss Elva Costello of Fond du Lac were recently married at St. Joseph's Church of Fond du Lac.

Miss Dorothy Merrill, daughter of Bradford Merrill, publisher of the New York American, will be married tomorrow at Great Neck, N. Y., to Edward Aaron Davis, a member of the U. S. Naval Reserve Force.

NEWS FROM MINNEAPOLIS.

The Minneapolis Journal has instituted a "Fighters' Service Bureau," which will serve as a connecting link between the soldiers, sailors and marines from the Northwest and those at home. The bureau "will run errands, attend to all personal matters" or do any of the things soldiers may want a friend back home to do.

The bureau also undertakes to arrange for correspondence between the men in government service and friends.

Thirty-eight men from the Journal are scattered through various military establishments:

Louis L. Collins, formerly city editor and later special assignment man, is now driving an ambulance with the Norton-Harjes corps.

Clarence B. Winter, formerly telegraph editor, is captain and assistant adjutant of the officers' training camp at Fort Snelling, Minn.

Charles J. Bradley and Paul S. Bliss, both copy readers, are now respectively lieutenant of 151st Field Artillery, and member of the officers' training camp at Fort Snelling.

Neil H. Swanson, formerly assistant head of the copy desk, is a lieutenant attached to the adjutant general's headquarters at Camp Dodge, Ia.

Ernest Rovelstad, also of the copy desk, is preparing to leave with the Wisconsin signal corps.

David S. Owen, formerly city hall reporter, and Thomas M. Kelley, of the art department, are at Camp Dodge, the former being a lieutenant.

Frank Woolen, head of the art department, and Edwin H. Ford of the sports department, are in the navy in San Francisco.

Robert P. Smith is the new city editor of the Journal, succeeding Harry Fairley, who has purchased an interest in the Fairmount (Minn.) Sentinel and who will publish that paper in partnership with Frank Day, formerly political manager and private secretary of the late Governor John A. Johnson, of Minnesota.

SIOUX CITY CHANGES.

A. F. Allen, with the Sioux City (Ia.) Journal for the last twenty-five years, serving for twenty years as managing editor, has been made editor. He succeeds J. A. Coughlan, who, following his marriage to Miss Mary A. Brainard, left for his new home in Florida.

W. W. Waymack, formerly city editor, becomes associate editor and editorial writer.

WHITE REPLIES TO K. C. POST.

DISPUTE OVER THE GERARD ARTICLES' RELEASE WAXES WARM.

EDITOR THE FOURTH ESTATE.

SIR: The Kansas City Post, through its general manager, W. M. Barton, in its answer (published in THE FOURTH ESTATE last week) to a statement published by me regarding the suit of the Public Ledger Company against the Kansas City Post, has confirmed my previous statement that the misrepresentations of the Kansas City Post regarding this case are "willfully misleading and untrue."

The original article well deserved this characterization, not only for the glaring misstatements contained in it, to which previous reference has been made, but also because it was contrived, by quoting the arguments of its attorney in a misleading manner, to lead the reader to believe that these arguments, especially as regards the validity of the Ledger's copyright, had been approved by the court. The falsity of this statement is clearly shown by the rejoinder of Mr. Barton, in which he admits that the court gave no reasons in rendering its decision.

The last article is further misleading and untrue in that Mr. Barton quotes only two short telegrams selected from a dozen or more letters and dispatches exchanged between it and the Ledger Syndicate during negotiations for the sale of the second serial rights to the Gerard Memoirs.

The Public Ledger Company is the proprietor of the copyright to the Gerard serial. When serializing these revelations that company, for good and sufficient reasons, divided the United States into territories of first and second release.

Kansas City lay in the latter territory. Had it lain in the territory of first release its rate for the Gerard serial would have been in four figures. But considering the fact that it lay in close proximity to cities in the territory of first release it was given a very low rate.

The Post's statement that no release date for the serial was given it is absolutely false. As the telegraph company's files will show, the Ledger Syndicate early in August opened negotiations with the Post in a telegram definitely specifying release as "after series completed by Public Ledger." And the Public Ledger Company mailed to the Post a letter definitely specifying this release as September 16.

Mr. Barton states "we certainly had no knowledge of such a letter," yet we have the Post's acknowledgment of the letter and this acknowledgment is dated before the Post prematurely released the Gerard serial.

It is the Ledger Syndicate's practice, after completing a canvass on an important feature, to mail to each subscriber first a formal contract, second (after the contract has been signed by both parties) a supply of advertising matrices, and, third, the feature itself.

In this case only the contract was mailed to the Kansas City Post. One clause was an agreement that the Post should not release the Gerard serial before September 16. The Post neither returned the contract nor even acknowledged it.

Before having mailed to the Post a line of copy or a single matrix the Ledger Syndicate learned, with amazement, that the Post had announced its intention of releasing the serial on August 15, more than a month in advance of the release date specified. In due time to stop the release, the Ledger Syndicate wired the Post a warning that it exercised its proprietorship in the copyright to "unconditionally forbid" release before September 16.

Yet, still without having received any copy or matrices from the Ledger Syndicate, the Post flagrantly violated the law by reprinting the serial from some other newspaper. Not a line of text or square inch of matrix has yet been supplied to the Post by the proprietors of this serial yet, it has continued to reprint it in defiance of the proprietor's warning.

Whence can the Post legally obtain this material except from the proprietors of the copyright?

The Post's contention is that it had to go on with the release of the serial after having made its announcements. This is equal to stating that John Doe after having announced that tomorrow he would take possession of Richard Roe's property (believing it to be his) had, even after discovering that it was not his, a legal right to go ahead and take it, that he might spare himself the embarrassment of not making good his original boast.

If there has ever been a more flagrant violation of the copyright act than has been committed by the Kansas City Post in this case, the undersigned has no cognizance of it.

THOMAS RAE BURN WHITE,
Attorney for Public Ledger Company.

FILE YOUR STATEMENT.

October 1 is the date set by the Government for the filing of sworn newspaper ownership and circulation statements with the Post Office Department. All publications having second class mail privileges must comply with the law through the local postmasters.

Statements must be filed on October 1 and must be printed in the exact form of filing in the first two issues after filing.

Only daily newspapers are compelled to state their circulation. This information is not required of other publications.

MINNESOTA DAILY SOLD.

O. H. P. Shelly, formerly publisher of the Montana Progressive, has purchased the Havre (Minn.) Daily Promoter from Maud R. Pierson.

BIG NIGHT IN BROOKLYN.

The Municipal Club of Brooklyn inaugurated its 1917-1918 season on Tuesday night at the Brooklyn Club, with a "Newspaper Night."

NEW ONE IN OTTAWA.

The Ottawa (Kan.) World has just been started by F. S. Mickey. The subscription list of the Ottawa Evening Journal has been turned over to him.

A NEW ATTEMPT AT CENSORSHIP?

(Continued from Second Page.)

the New York Evening Post. Postmaster-General Burleson told how he plans to administer the new combination of laws which give him so much power over the press.

"I realize," he said to Mr. Lawrence, "that it is a great power, but I intend to be as conservative and as cautious as it is humanly possible to be."

"There isn't going to be any injustice done. No truly loyal American has anything to fear. And I want to state right now that the purpose of this legislation is not to prevent criticism of the Government or the Administration or the Post Office Department."

"It is not aimed against Socialist publications as a class."

"The newspapers can denounce me or the Administration all they like, and they can have such criticism circulated through the mails."

"But if we find newspapers preaching disloyalty, newspapers that are really German at heart and in secret sympathy with the German Government which we are fighting, newspapers which are trying to make the masses in this country believe that this is a capitalists' war and that the Government therefore ought not to be supported—those publications we intend to suppress with a firm hand."

"Because we are at war with the Imperial German Government. The country has declared war. Any one who deliberately sets afoot a propaganda to discourage support to the Government as against its enemies is doing a treasonable thing. We must win the war, and we cannot brook disloyalty at home."

Mr. Burleson was vehement in his denunciation of seditious publications, but he pointed out that he was going to exercise the utmost caution in passing upon every case presented him. He indicated that he would personally superintend the administration of the law, and that he would pass upon every case that comes up.

"If we are wrong," added the Postmaster-General, "the individual has redress in the courts." But Mr. Burleson pointed out that the courts already had sustained the Post Office Department in the case of the Masses.

"We are here," he continued, "to protect the rights of every man, woman and child in the country, and we shall do it. If the courts decide we are wrong, we shall accept their judgment, but I can assure you in advance that this Department will not allow the power given to it to be abused in any way."

Disloyal matter of all kinds, books, circulars, letters, telegrams, etc., are covered in the act, and the President is authorized to prohibit their transportation whenever he believes the public safety demands it. This is particularly true of matter destined to foreign countries.

For the present at least, it is understood, the postal authorities will not attempt to censor letters addressed to foreign countries, particularly those intended for delivery in Europe. Careful scrutiny of mail address to Mexico, however, may be expected.

The elaborate mail censorship of England and France, which has been in operation for three years, will be relied upon to stop any mail of enemy destination.

GERMAN PROPAGANDA AT WORK.

According to a sworn statement of Postmaster General Burleson, filed in the United States District Court in New York on September 20, a nationwide propaganda, the purpose of which is to discredit and handicap in every possible way the Government of the United States in its prosecution of the war against Germany, is at work in this country and it is supported by a great number of publications, some printed in English and others in various foreign languages.

The affidavit was filed in support of the Postmaster General's action in excluding from the mails the publication known as Bull, of which Jeremiah A. O'Leary, head of the American Truth Society, is the director. The publishers sought to have the ruling of the Postmaster General set aside. Judge Hough sustained the Postmaster General's action.

It is generally believed that the decision of Judge Hough, upholding Postmaster General Burleson's action in excluding O'Leary's Bull from the mails, forecast similar action by the Government against other publications which are openly espousing the German cause and seeking in every way possible, as Postmaster General Burleson said in his affidavit in the Bull case, to hamper the United States in its prosecution of the war against Germany.

Judge Hough, in denying the application of the publishers of Bull to have Postmaster General Burleson's order excluding that paper set aside, made it plain that the Postmaster General has complete and full authority to take action in the case of any publication which in a time like this openly fights the Government and in other ways gives aid and comfort to the enemy.

NEW ZEALAND SHORTAGE OF PRINT PAPER.

Publication of the Christchurch (New Zealand) Evening News has been suspended until the close of the war, the publishers making the following announcement:

"The main reason for this step is the increasing difficulty of securing supplies of printing paper, which is now more acute than ever. Not only has the price more than doubled, but with the requisitioning of the cargo steamers trading between Canada and New Zealand, almost our only available source of supply will be cut off."

"In these circumstances the directors of the Christchurch Press Company, Ltd., feel compelled to conserve all available supplies for the Press and the Weekly Press. The large circulation of these two papers entails a very heavy consumption, and the directors have come to the conclusion that they will be best serving the national interests by concentrating their efforts on their morning and weekly publications."

"Meanwhile the rights of the Christchurch Press Company, Ltd., in the Evening News are strictly reserved, and the paper will be incorporated in the Press."

IN JAPANESE HONOR.

Oswald Garrison Villard, editor of the New York Evening Post, will give a dinner at the St. Regis Hotel on October 1 in honor of Viscount Ishii and the members of the Imperial Japanese Commission.

MORE ADVERTISING BY CANADIAN GOVERNMENT.

A PROVINCIAL BOND BEING FLOATED AND PEOPLE BEING EDUCATED IN FOOD CONSERVATION.

More evidence that the governments of Canada appreciate the value and possibilities of educational advertising in promoting their business is furnished in two more campaigns following right on the heels of the announcement by the Dominion Government, noted in THE FOURTH ESTATE last week, that extensive educational advertising in newspapers would be used for floating the Fourth Domestic War Loan.

The additional campaigns are by the Saskatchewan Government and the Food Controller.

The Government of Saskatchewan, one of the Canadian provinces, is offering a large issue of bonds direct to the people of Saskatchewan through educational advertising in the press of that province. The plans for the advertising campaign as accepted by the Government called for the use of 15,288 lines of space in all the daily newspapers of Saskatchewan, and from 2,326 to 2,982 lines of space in all the rural weekly newspapers and other publications of the province.

The purpose of the present issue of Saskatchewan bonds is to provide funds that will be loaned by the Saskatchewan Government to enable the farmers of Saskatchewan to improve their farms and increase their agricultural production. The issue will be known as the "Saskatchewan Greater Production Loan."

The appeal in the advertisement will be to the provincial pride and patriotism of the people of Saskatchewan as well as to the business sense of the investor. Emphasis will be placed upon the idea of cooperation between those Saskatchewan farmers and city, town and village dwellers who have money to invest, and those Saskatchewan farmers who need money to enable them to improve their farms and increase their production—the Saskatchewan Government to be the medium of cooperation and the guarantor to those who lend the money.

The relation of the "Saskatchewan Greater Production Loan" to the general movement for increased production as an aid to Great Britain and the Allies in the prosecution of the war will be urged.

The appeal will be to the great masses of the people of Saskatchewan rather than to the investing class only.

As a complement of the advertising there will be local committees at work in every city, town, village and rural municipality in the province. "Saskatchewan Greater Production Loan Bonds" in denomination of $20, $100, $500 and $1,000 will be for sale at local banks and department stores and through the secretaries of the urban and rural municipalities as well as direct by the provincial treasurer.

The advertising of the "Saskatchewan Greater Production Loan Bonds" commenced in every publication in Saskatchewan September 20. The campaign will be concluded on October 13.

A special drive will be made during the week commencing October 6. This week will be known throughout the province as "Saskatchewan Greater Production Loan Week." At the beginning of the week there will be in every city and large town in the province a public meeting or luncheon addressed by prominent public men who will urge the duty and privilege of every citizen of Saskatchewan to buy one or more of the bonds.

Booths for the sale of the bonds will be open throughout the week in the leading stores in every city and large town, and in each case will be in charge of a committee of local women. An effort will be made to have the merchants of every city and large town agree to invest in the bonds 10 per cent of their total sales on the Friday of "Saskatchewan Greater Production Loan Week," and to feature that arrangement in their advertising prior to and during that week.

Another special drive will be made on the Canadian Thanksgiving Day, October 8. Saskatchewan farmers who have been blessed with a good or even a fair crop will be urged to give a tangible expression of their thanks by subscribing on Thanksgiving Day to an amount of bonds equivalent to 5 per cent of the estimated value of their crop, and to that extent enable the Saskatchewan Government to loan money to other farmers who have been less favored.

There will be special appeals to employers to assist their employees in financing the purchase of Saskatchewan Greater Production Loan Bonds; to municipalities and other bodies to invest sinking funds in the bonds; and various appeals to other special classes.

The appeal to the people of Saskatchewan through advertising as a means of raising the fund to be loaned by the Saskatchewan Government under the Farm Loans Act was one of several advertising campaigns that were proposed to the Saskatchewan Government by John M. Imrie, manager of the Canadian Press Association, Inc., during a trip through western Canada last spring.

Some months later the Saskatchewan Government definitely decided to undertake the present campaign, and at the request of that government and the Saskatchewan division of the Canadian Press Association Mr. Imrie made another trip to Regina to assist in planning the whole campaign.

The campaign is being handled by the Saskatchewan division of the Canadian Press Association and the executive committee of that division is supervising the preparation of copy and the work of organizing the local committees and the various other agencies that will be used to insure the complete success of the campaign.

FOOD CONTROL ADVERTISING.

There is running an extensive advertising campaign at the present time in Canada under the joint direction of the Dominion Food Controller, W. J. Hanna, and the Organization of Resources Committee of Ontario.

All daily newspapers in Ontario are carrying ten advertisements of 1,400 lines, each aggregating 14,000 lines.

All weekly rural newspapers and weekly class publications are carrying two advertisements of 1,050 lines each; aggregating 2,100 lines.

All agricultural weeklies are carrying two advertisements of 1,400 lines, aggregating 2,800 lines.

The advertising commenced on September 11 and will be concluded about the middle of October.

It is likely that similar campaigns will be put on in most of the other provinces in Canada, the Food Controller having offered to pay one-half of the cost of such a campaign in any other province provided the provincial committee in charge of food conservation will arrange for the payment of the other half.

The campaign in Ontario is costing $25,000, and is being placed through the J. J. Gibbons Advertising Agency.

RECENT INCORPORATIONS.

NEW YORK.—Trades Reporting Bureau, publish trade journal known as the Chemical, Color and Oil Daily; capital, $50,000; incorporators: R. Malone, H. M. Batters, W. E. Tufts, 8603 New Utrecht avenue, Brooklyn.

Advertising Bond Corp., general advertising business; capital, 1,000 shares common stock no par value, capital, $5,000; incorporators, A. R. Oakley, W. E. Schiele, Jr., and R. A. Webster, 120 Broadway, N. Y.

White Eagle Publishing Company; printing, publishing, advertising; capital, $10,000; incorporators: S. A. Machinski, B. Zelski and A. Bruno, 111 E. 7th st., N. Y.

Reuben H. Donnelly Corp., general publishing, printing, advertising; capital, $200,000; incorporators: A. E. Moore, A. J. Gathercole, F. D. Sioba, 37 Wall street.

Musical Monitor Publishing Co., newspaper, magazine for musical interests; capital, $10,000; incorporators: I. C. Montgomery, O. Campbell, J. Niehhauser, 565 W. 162d st., N. Y.

New York Time Table Distributing Corp., railway and steamship timetables, general advertising; capital, $220,000; incorporators: A. Skillman, A. Foshay, A. G. Thaanum, 120 Broadway, N. Y.

WATERTOWN, Wis.—Watertown News Publishing Company; capital, $10,000; incorporators: J. P. Holland, Emil Doerr, Jack Kuenzie and others.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—Charlotte News Publishing Company; capital, $4,000; incorporators, R. L. Butterfield, John D. Meech, William Wheelaban.

UPPER SANDUSKY, OHIO.—Daily Chief; capital, $20,000; incorporators, Joseph Bolich and others.

NO WAR TAX BILL REPORT YET.

NOTHING DEFINITE KNOWN ON WHAT WILL BE DONE ON SECOND CLASS RATES

The War Tax bill containing the reported increase of second class mail rates, virtually was completed on September 26 by the Senate and House conferees. While a few questions remain open for final settlement, the measure is said to be practically drafted. It will probably be reported today.

Action on the report by the House and Senate will probably go over until next week.

The definite conclusion of the conferees on second class rates is guarded by the committee following the disputes that held up the conferees last week because information reached the newspapers and was printed.

It is understood, however, that the present rate of 1 cent a pound on second class matter remains for the first zone of 250 miles, and a graduated zone increase above that to about 6 cents a pound in the farthest zone.

Of the $250,000,000 to $300,000,000 additional agreed to by the conferees, about one-third was placed upon postage. The House one-cent letter tax, estimated to raise $70,000,000, which was stricken out by the Senate, was restored by the conferees, and their agreement for a graduated zone increase on second-class mail is estimated to raise some millions more.

The House ways and means committee members voted that the conferees should stand out for the House provisions with regard to postal rate increases.

Another much argued point was the definition of what is capital stock in the war profits section. Senate conferees insist upon including good will, patents, trade-marks, and other intangible assets, but this was opposed by the House conferees, who stand out for the inclusion only of capital stock paid in.

There is no definite information on what has been decided on any of the matters discussed.

SUSPENSIONS.

BYARS, OKLA.—Publication of the Enterprise has been suspended by Editor Stephenson. The circulation and business of that paper has been sold to the Pauls Valley Enterprise.

NASHVILLE, KAN.—Clyde Walters, editor of the Nashville Journal, will close his office and suspend publication of his paper during the period of the war, and will enlist in the army.

PIEDMONT, KAN.—The News, published for the past two years by J. S. Martin, has suspended publication. The plant was sold to a Wichita man and the subscription list to the Eureka Democratic Messenger.

FORD, KAN.—E. E. Manney, editor of the Promoter, has suspended the publication of that paper.

The Wakefield (Neb.) Republican, owned and edited by S. E. Mills, has been sold to J. R. Feauto.

The Hewitt (Minn.) Banner has been suspended.

Will You Be Prepared to Fill

Compositors: Many of your fellow workers at the keyboard are soon going to "do their bit" at their country's call. Are you prepared to take their places and keep "business as usual," "till the boys come home"?

You can help by learning the Monotype keyboard, and at the same time better your finances so that you can help those who go.

THE MONOTYPE SCHOOLS

offer you this opportunity to learn the nicest part of the business. The work is easy, it is clean, it is healthful and remunerative; no gas fumes, no poor ventilation mars its pleasantness. It is not at all difficult to learn, and your future is assured.

You will find no better way to help your country, and the Monotype schools will help you without charge for tuition.

LANSTON MONOTYPE

PHILADELPHIA,

NEW YORK, World Building

CHICAGO, Plymouth Building
Monotype Company of California

THE FOURTH ESTATE

Second Section

Saturday, September 29, 1917

No. 1231

THE ADVERTISING AGENTS' FUNCTIONS.

AGENCIES HANDLE 97 PER CENT OF ALL THE NEWSPAPERS' NATIONAL BUSINESS—THEIR MANY SIDED VALUE.

Oftentimes the question arises: "What are the real functions of the advertising agent, and why cannot the advertiser and the newspaper get along just as well without him?"

A few words of explanation thus seem apropos with the publication of the accompanying World's Advertising Agents Directory.

The best evidence of the constructive value of the service the advertising agent renders the advertiser is furnished by the showing of the best figures obtainable from various sources that 97 per cent of all the national newspaper advertising (amounting to $75,000,000 in 1916) is placed by the nearly 2,000 advertising agencies doing business in the United States and Canada, whose names are listed in THE FOURTH ESTATE DIRECTORY contained in this edition. (In addition to the American and Canadian agents, the names and addresses of nearly 500 foreign agents are listed.)

Some publications state that less than 1 per cent of the advertising in their columns is placed direct.

Because he helps his clients secure the greatest efficiency out of the white space they buy, the advertising agent is at the same time serving the publisher, as well as the advertiser.

In making the advertiser's publicity more profitable, he is likewise making the publisher's medium more powerful, and both benefit by his efforts.

As the developer of new advertisers, the advertising agent renders the publisher a very tangible aid.

And not only is he the means of stating many concerns advertising, but because he makes that advertising increase sales, the amount of advertising done by such concerns has a constant tendency to expand.

The advertising agent has an outlook which is distinctly professional.

He is a business specialist whose counsel in merchandising and marketing is as important in these directions to the manufacturer as is the legal and financial advice which the manufacturer obtains from his lawyer and banker.

Advertising must bear a definite relationship to the cost and earnings of business. It must go hand in hand with merchandising.

The fact that bankers now view well utilized advertising as a special asset instead of as formerly looking upon it with suspicion, proves its place as an economic factor in the commerce of the country.

Advertising agents have been important factors in bringing about a proper understanding and use of advertising.

Because he serves so many, the advertising agent can furnish outside talent to the manufacturers' advertising department most economically. While many concerns have well equipped advertising departments, they find the cooperation of an advertising agent profitable because the advertising agency brings an outside viewpoint and is able to furnish the manufacturer service which he cannot obtain in his own organization.

The advertising agent reinforces the advertising manager.

In proper relation they work together creatively in planning and executing campaigns, in promotion work on salesmen and on dealers and in reaching the consumer.

As an experienced counselor, the advertising agent guards against a possible misapplication of a publication and its consequent loss of prestige.

Having observed and knowing the advertiser's market, the advertising agent devises most effective advertising tactics and applies them to the best mediums that reach that market.

Through close familiarity with the character of the mediums he employs, he makes the best purchase for the advertiser directed to the particular market he wishes to reach.

In this way he perpetuates advertising, and both the publisher and the advertiser thrive.

The advertising agent becomes a real benefit to the publisher and business interests.

It is the province of the advertising agent both to advise for and against advertising.

If conditions are not right, if a proposition is frankly impossible, the advertising agent is as quick to counsel against advertising as for it.

For no reputable agent wants to be identified with a failure, and while all are working for individual successes, all are working for a higher standard in advertising.

NEW BRISCOE AD CHIEF.

Guy C. Core, formerly in charge of advertising for the Springfield Body Corporation, Detroit, and the Sparks-Withington Company of Jackson, Mich., has become advertising manager of the Briscoe Motor Corporation of Jackson. He was also for many years a newspaper man in Chicago.

LONDON'S WAR LESSON IN ADVERTISING.

AMERICAN BUSINESS SHOULD ADJUST ITSELF TO NEW CONDITIONS AND KEEP ON ADVERTISING.

BY G. W. KETTLE.

Doubtless American advertisers are today very much exercised as to what effect the war will have upon American trade and the purchasing inclinations and power of the American public.

It occurred to me it might be useful to you to learn of the experiences of London in this connection, as I imagine the effect in America may be very similar.

At the outbreak of the war there was a big slump in advertising in Great Britain, but in the course of a few months the situation adjusted itself in a remarkable way.

The public settled down to war as more or less of a normal condition and the money-spending public resumed more or less their general habits.

New advertisers developed in all quarters—people who had never had money before found themselves rich and proved substitutes for those who were hardly hit.

Despite a general upward tendency in the price of almost every conceivable commodity, the big London stores—after a temporary slump—found themselves doing as large a turnover as ever.

The figures of the London stores today I think in most cases compare more than favorably with their pre-war turnover. Dividends have been higher despite the increased income tax and excess profits deductions.

The general trader—for example, tailoring house and dress houses—are today only suffering from the shortage of supplies. The demand for their goods is largely shifted. Restaurants are tearing busy and the public generally seems to have settled down to the thought that a normal procedure is in the best interests of the community.

Further to all this, the worker is receiving higher wages, living at a higher grade, investing more, spending more—and I would strongly counsel the American advertiser generally to profit by the experience in this country and trim his sails accordingly; adjust his business to obviously changing conditions and keep on advertising.

Advertising today in this country seems more productive than ever it was before, and I see no reason why similar conditions should not prevail in the United States.

It would seem that the war has had the effect of tapping untold resources of wealth, which coming into circulation either in the shape of fluid cash or collateral in the form of Government bonds, war savings certificates, has given remarkable stimulus to trade in all directions.

How far this condition will prevail after the war no one can foretell, and it would be futile to dwell upon. Conditions at the cessation of hostilities may again shift. They probably will and the man who has suffered from the war will come into his own and complete the circle of trade development.

If this brief recital of what has happened in this country should prove of any comfort to the American commercial community at this time I am glad to have passed the word along.

CHICAGO STILL HOPEFUL OF LOAN ADVERTISING.

Chicago's advertising men, while up in the air, are nevertheless hopeful that by some means or another the government will make available a fund for advertising the second Liberty Loan flotation. William H. Rankin, head of the advertising agency bearing his name, is also acting chairman of the National Advertising Advisory Board and is doing a great deal to create interest among Chicago agencies in behalf of the loan.

Several tentative campaigns of advertising are being mapped out in various agencies in order to be ready to spring should the Government make an appropriation. In case Uncle Sam fails to provide the cash for the advertising, the local and state organizations behind the Liberty Loan will be given an opportunity to use the copy now being prepared.

NEW AD MAN IN BUFFALO.

Clinton A. Down, formerly with the William H. Rankin Company, Chicago, has been appointed advertising manager of the E. Kerstein Sons Company, Rochester, N. Y., succeeding A. M. Franklin, resigned.

GOES IN AUTO BUSINESS.

Fenn H. Housick of the advertising department of the Burroughs Adding Machine Company, Detroit, has resigned to become assistant to Ellis J. Travers, advertising manager of the Nash Motors Company, Kenosha, Wis.

PUBLICITY FOR LIBERTY LOAN CAMPAIGN.

NEW YORK DISTRICT ORGANIZATION READY TO FURNISH ALL KINDS OF AID TO PAPERS CO-OPERATING.

Since newspaper and advertising interests have failed to convince Congress that it should authorize Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo to buy space in newspapers to advertise the Liberty Loan, they are now all lined up, ready to do everything in their power to aid the Government in selling the bonds.

For some months past the various Federal Reserve District committees have been organizing to handle the many details of the gigantic bond selling campaign, with special attention to building up publicity bureaus for keeping the attention of the nation focused on the loan. They are now all ready, and the newspaper and advertising men cooperating with the committees will find ingeniously built publicity machines in all corners ready to give them every form of aid in the nationally important work in which they have voluntarily enlisted.

The foremost example of loan publicity efficiency is undoubtedly presented by the New York district committee.

Details of the organization of the publicity department of the Liberty Loan Committee, in the Second Federal Reserve District (New York), of which Guy Emerson, vice-president of the National Bank of Commerce, is director, and Joseph Hartigan, assistant director, have been developed to such an extent that plans are now well under way for getting the co-operation of every kind of publicity agency.

In contrast to the cramped quarters used for publicity purposes during the first loan, the present offices on the fourth floor of the Equitable Building, New York City, occupy 6,000 square feet of floor space, and from these offices lines of communication by mail, telephone and telegraph have been established to reach every part of the Second Federal Reserve District.

Plans developed by Mr. Emerson have been designed with the aim of affording every facility to the newspapers, weekly and monthly magazines, technical papers, agricultural journals, labor organs and other advertising means, for conveying information to the people about the loan and the reasons why people must buy Liberty Bonds.

The publicity plans provide for a war exhibition to be held in the city, motion pictures, work by farm bureaus of New York State, the utilization of teachers, and practically every association within the district. The plans provide for the distribution of millions of posters, stickers, pamphlets, placards, cartoons and other advertising schemes.

Just as the distribution committee of the Liberty Loan committee, which has been reorganized and extended since the first campaign, aims to appeal by the spoken word, so the publicity branch, similarly reconstructed for a far heavier task than last summer, seeks to catch the eye of the people.

ORGANIZATION.

Having made a careful study of the publicity mechanism in use in the first campaign, the Liberty Loan Committee and its advisors have determined this time to make a direct appeal to every community and every organization in the state.

In the spring campaign there was not time to reach all the newspapers, societies and clubs in the smaller cities and towns of New York and New Jersey. The announcement of the second loan will find the organization far better prepared than was the case in the first loan.

The publicity department is prepared to meet all emergencies, and is greatly fortified in its efforts by the cordial and effective co-operation of the publicity bureau in the Treasury Department, which is bringing the resources of the Government to bear in the campaign.

Oscar A. Price, national director of publicity for the Liberty Loan, whose headquarters are in Washington, is in constant communication with this district, and has arranged for the design and manufacture of the posters, stamps, buttons, etc., to be used in October.

It is realized in publicity headquarters that the coming drive will be more strenuous than the last, if for no other reason than that probably one-half more money must be raised next month than was collected in the spring. To carry on this vital work of war, the existing publicity agencies of the district—probably the best in the world—must be relied upon by the Liberty Loan Committee.

Every element that makes up a part of the publicity mechanism is working in accord. Realizing the gigantic task before the nation, the men who have been rivals in business, in industry and in the professions are united for once in a common aim, the successful flotation of the greatest war loan ever asked for by the Government.

ALL ASKED TO HELP.

Some of the aspirations and plans of the publicity organization are touched upon by Mr. Emerson in the following statement, which he made to THE FOURTH ESTATE:

"With regard to the work of the publicity organization, we have been assured of the most generous support of the numerous powerful publicity agencies of the district.

"We expect the next campaign in many ways to be more difficult than the last. The second campaign will not be a novelty as the first one was and we shall probably have to raise a considerably larger sum in a similar period of time.

"The keynote of our efforts, however, is to rely upon the existing publicity agencies of the country to enter into the spirit of this Government work as fully as the Liberty Loan Committee itself. This is a great piece of war work which requires the full cooperation of the great publicity machinery of America, which is the most remarkably developed publicity machinery in the world.

"In order to win the war the Administration at Washington must call to its assistance the services of every portion of our population. It is the aroused and efficiently working American people as a whole who will bring the ultimate victory.

"It is the same with the Liberty Loan campaign. The whole country must unite to produce the result desired in each district. The Liberty Loan committee designated by the Secretary of the Treasury to handle the campaign in the various districts can only be successful if all the existing agencies for publicity come forward generously and offer their services as they did in the first campaign.

"The majority of these agencies have already indicated their desire to cooperate in this patriotic service. It is almost a foregone conclusion that if the publicity organizations of this district definitely set their shoulder to the wheel we should be able to assume the responsibility of subscribing here to half of the funds offered by the Government to the American people."

DIVISIONS.

The personnel of the present publicity department includes, as assistants to Mr. Emerson: Joseph Hartigan, formerly commissioner of weights and measures under Mayor Mitchel and now assistant director of publicity of the Second Federal Reserve District; Grosvenor Farwell of White, Weld & Co., and Foster M. Coffin of the Carnegie Foundation.

The publicity organization is divided into four main bureaus, which handle, respectively, the news, the advertising, the special features and the internal organization of the Second Liberty Loan campaign.

The News Bureau will supply reading material on the Liberty Loan to all publications in the Federal Reserve District.

A daily newspaper editorial staff has been built up under John Price Jones, formerly of the Sun, now of the H. K. McCann Company.

Ten reporters and rewrite men are at work and by the time the campaign opens a score or more workers will be assembled in the bureau.

A new feature of the bureau is the organization which will keep in touch with farm papers, trade and financial publications, weekly and monthly magazines, women's papers, and foreign language periodicals.

Each of these sub-divisions will be in charge of a chief who will give his whole time to that particular branch. Sunday special stories and photographs also will be handled separately by experts.

In the same period, the structure of the advertising bureau has been growing. It takes in every department and has the assistance of many experts, of an establishment of long standing, who are working with James I. Clarke, advertising manager of the National Bank of Commerce and head of the bureau.

Under the direction of W. T. Mullally, representative of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World in this Federal Reserve District, a copy division is being created in the bureau. The majority of the workers in this branch have yet to be selected, but H. B. Matthews, advertising manager of S. W. Straus & Co., will be in this department as well as in the space division.

The space division, under the direction of Bayard F. Pope of Blodgett & Co., will have many special features. Leonard Wyeth, of White, Weld & Co., will develop these features. The space division has charge of the advertising space in the daily papers throughout this district. Many of the newspapers, advertising agencies and organizations of advertising men will assist in this work. From twenty-five to fifty men, whose services have been volunteered through the Life Underwriters' Association of New York and several of the insurance agencies, will be added shortly to the staff of the advertising bureau.

In addition to supervising the work of these various branches the manager of this bureau will have charge of all printing for advertising purposes, including the preparation and

(Continued on Seventeenth Page.)

The first meeting of the advisory board of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World for the Second Liberty Loan was held in New York on September 19 to discuss its work in the advertising of the Second Liberty Loan.

Left to right (sitting) are: George W. Hopkins, sales manager Columbia Graphophone Company; Guy Emerson, director of publicity for the Liberty Loan, Second Federal Reserve District; Collin Armstrong, chairman of the advisory board of the A.A.C.W.; ex-Commissioner Joseph Hartigan, assistant director of publicity, Second Federal Reserve District.

Standing—H. W. Charles of the Charles Advertising Agency; Lee Olwell of the National City Company; James J. Clarke, manager advertising bureau, Liberty Loan; William T. Mullally, representative of the A.A.C.W. at the Liberty Loan headquarters.

ADVERTISING AGENTS OF THE WORLD.

In presenting its "FIFTH SEMI-ANNUAL DIRECTORY OF THE WORLD'S ADVERTISING AGENCIES," THE FOURTH ESTATE gives to its readers the very latest word of information on a matter which newspaper publishers, advertisers and advertising agents, themselves, are mutually and deeply interested in.

All the figures obtainable from various sources show that 97 per cent of all American national newspaper advertising is placed through advertising agents, so it is of vital importance that all who have a part in the handling of the $75,000,000 worth of advertising that is now done yearly in the newspapers should keep in close touch with the agency end of the business.

THE FOURTH ESTATE'S "DIRECTORY OF THE WORLD'S ADVERTISING AGENTS" is the most complete ever published for general use.

For each semi-annual publication it is carefully revised, regardless of the expenditure of time and money, and its thousands of users throughout the universe have voted it indispensable to them.

A comparison of the list of March 31 last with this one will suffice to show the vast number of changes in its make-up. Each one of these had to be carefully corrected from information obtained through various sources.

The constant requests between publication dates for information contained in the Agents Directory shows clearly that the Directory fills a much needed want.

THE FOURTH ESTATE will welcome notification immediately of any errors or omissions that may have occurred in this publication; also advice on new agencies starting business, changes of addresses, names, etc., whenever they may occur during the next half-year.

For the convenience of readers of THE FOURTH ESTATE who may use the Directory for special purposes, the American Newspaper Publishers' Association's and the Canadian Press Association's lists of advertising agencies in the United States and Canada are printed separately from the others.

Names of agencies appearing in the A.N.P.A. and C.P.A. lists are not included in the other lists.

In the addresses all through this list the word "street" is omitted. It should be inserted in correspondence.

THE OFFICIAL LIST OF THE AMERICAN NEWSPAPER PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION.

NEW YORK CITY.

Allen Adv Agency, Inc, 461 8th av.
Amer. Sports Pub. Co., Inc., 45 Rose.
Amsterdam Agency, Inc, 1180 B'way.
Arkenberg-Machen-Dowd Co., Inc, World Bg (hdqrs. Toledo).
Armstrong, Collins, Inc, 1463 B'way.
Atlas Adv. Agency, Inc, 450 4th av.
Ayer, N. W. & Son, 6th Av Bg (hdqrs. Philadelphia).
Bacr, Joseph E., Inc, 347 5th av.
Ballard Adv Co, Inc, 1328 Broadway.
Barnes, Jean Dean, 354 4th av.
Batten, Geo., Co., Inc., 4th Av. Bg.
Bayer-Stroud Corporation, 19 W 44th.
Berrien-Durstone, Inc, 25 W 45th.
Birch Field & Co, Inc, 110 W 40th.
Blackman-Ross Co, Inc, 95 Madison av.
Boston News Bureau Co, Inc, 44 Broad (hdqrs. Boston).
Brown Adv Agency, Inc, 99 Nassau.
Calkins & Holden, Inc, 250 5th av.
Campbell-Ewald Co, Inc, 347 5th av (hdqrs. Detroit).
Capehart's Minkown Methods, Inc, Times Bldg.
Charles Adv Service, Inc, 23-25 E 20th.
Chesman, Nelson, & Co, Inc, 6th Av Bg (hdqrs. St. Louis).
Churchill-Hall, Inc, 50 Union sq.
Clarke, E. H., Adv Agency, Inc, 37 W 39th (hdqrs. Chicago).
Colton, Wendell P., Inc, 165 B'way.
Cone, Andrew, General Adv Agency, Inc, Tribune Bg.
Corman-Chellenham Co, Inc, 11 E 30th.
Cowen Co, Inc, 50 Union sq.
Dauchy Co, Inc, 9 Murray.
Debevoise, Foster Co, Inc, 15 W 38th.
Decker, Henry, Ltd, Flatiron Bldg.
Diets, Ottomar, Adv Bureau (E. E. Neugebauer), 140 Nassau.
Doremus & Co, Inc, 44 Broad.
Doremus & Morse, 31 Nassau.
Dorland Adv Agency, 346 5th av (hdqrs. Atlantic City).
Dukelow & Walker Co, Inc, 16 Beaver (hdqrs. Boston).
Dunne, Desmond, Co, Inc, 30 E 42d.
Dyer, Geo. L., Co, Inc, 42 B'way.
Earnshaw-Lent Co, Inc, 50 Maiden Lane.
Elliott, A. R., Inc, 33 W B'way.

Erickson Co, Inc, 381 4th av.
Erickson, E. N., Adv Agency, 21 Park Row.
Fairfax, H. W., World Bldg.
Federal Adv Agency, Inc, 6 E 39th.
Finch, L. J., Adv Agency, Inc, 1364 B'way.
Foley, Richard A., Adv Agency, Inc, 303 5th av (hdqrs. Philadelphia).
Frank, Albert, & Co, Inc, 26 Beaver.
Gardner, Atkinson & Wells, Inc, 230 5th av.
Goldsmith, L. S., 25 E 26th.
Gould, M. P. Co, 130 W 32d.
Goulston, Ernest J., Adv Agency, 225 5th av (hdqrs. Boston).
Guenther, Rudolph, Inc, 25 Broad.
Hant-Metzer, Inc, 95 Madison av.
Hannah, Henry King, 277 B'way.
Haulenbeck, G. H., Adv Agency, Inc, 2 W 45th.
Haven, Edwin H., 175 5th av.
Hawley Adv Co, Inc, 347 5th av.
Hibson & Bro, 116 Nassau.
Hicks Adv Agency, Inc, 317 B'way.
Houghton, Walter L., Adv Agency, Inc, 404 4th av.
Howard, E. T. Co, Inc, 422 4th av.
Howland, H. S., Adv Agency, Inc, 20 Broad.
Hoyt Service, Inc, 120 W 32d.
Hull, W. H. H., & Co, Inc, Tribune Bg.
Ironminger, C., Adv Agency, 95 Madison av.
Keane, N. W., 99 Nassau.
Kelley, Martin V. Co, Inc, 171 Madison av (hdqrs. Toledo).
Kiernan, Frank, & Co, 135 Broadway.
Kobbe, Philip, Co, Inc, 412 5th av.
Law, Russell, 52 B'way.
Lawyers' Adv Co, Inc, 55 Liberty.
Laddy, John M., 11 Park Row.
Lesan, H. E., Adv Agency, Inc, 440 4th av.
Levy, H. H., Marble Bridge Bg.
Levin, Charles D., Co, Inc, 1268 Broadway.
Lord & Thomas, Inc, 220 W 42d (hdqrs. Chicago).
Lyddon & Hanford Co, Inc, 200 5th av (hdqrs. Rochester).
McCann, H. K. Co, Inc, 61 B'way.
McLain-Hallen-Simpers Co, Inc, 220 Broadway (hdqrs. Philadelphia).
McMullen, Robt M., Co, Inc, Cambridge Bldg.
Macley & Mullally, Inc, 45 Broadway.
Matos Adv Co, Inc, Tribune Bg (hdqrs. Philadelphia).
Metropolitan Adv Co, Inc, 6 Wall.

Michaels, Harry C., 401 4th av.
Max, J. Rudland, 351 4th av.
Morgan, J. W., Adv Agency, 44 E 23d.
Morse Int'l Agency, Inc, 440 4th av.
Muller, J. P., & Co, Inc, 200 W 23d.
Murray Hill Adv Agency, 200 E 23d.
Murray, John F., Adv Agency, Inc, 17 Hat very place.
Nichols-Finn Adv Co, Inc, 200 5th av (hdqrs. Chicago).
Pearson, W. Montague, 203 B'way.
Pearson & Co, Inc, 50 E 42d.
Plummer, M., 95 Nassau.
Porter, Harry Co, Inc, 18 E 41st.
Powers, John O., Inc, 161 4th av.
Prosser, Frank, Co, Inc, 436 4th av.
Prater & Collier Co, Inc, 16 E 34d (hdqrs. Cincinnati).
Rankin, William H., Co, Inc, 25 E 20th (hdqrs. Chicago).
Robb Adv Agency, Inc, 31 W 32d.
Richards, Jos. A., Co, Inc, 9 E 10th.
Ross, Train Jordan, 39 W 32d.
Rowland Adv Agency, Inc, 1700 B'way.
Rund, J. W., 70 5th av.
Rutherford & Ryan, Inc, 101 4th av.
Scovill, Medley, Inc, 25 Pine.
Seaman, Frank, Inc, 401 4th av.
Sharpe, W. W. & Co, Inc, 99 Nassau.
Shaughnessy, William A. & Co., & Beckman.
Sherman & Bryan, Inc, 79 6th av.
Sigmund Co, Inc, 20 Vesey.
Stockman, A. M., Adv Agency, 20 Vesey.
Storm, J. P., 35 W 39th.
Street & Finney, Inc, 171 Madison av.
Swartz, A. M., Co, Inc, 347 5th av.
Taylor-Critchfield-Clague Co, Inc, Flatiron Bg (hdqrs. Chicago).
Thompson, J. W., Co, Inc, 242 Madison av.
Trades Adv Agency, Inc, 13 Astor Place.
Umy, Louis V., 41 Park Row.
Van Cleave Co, Inc, 1790 B'way.
Van Patten, Inc, 50 E 42d.
Volkman, M., Adv Agency, & Beekman.
Vreeland, E. E., Inc, 344 W 39th.
Wales Adv Co, 110 W 40th.
Worham, J. L., 14 Avenue A.
Williams, Fred C., 108 Fulton.
Williams & Cunningham, Inc, 111 5th av (hdqrs. Chicago).
Wilson, Edmund Bird, Inc, 14 Wall.
Winchcomb, M. & Co, 576 5th av.
Winchcomb, M., Astor Trust Bg (hdqrs. Chicago).

CHICAGO.

Ayer, N. W. & Son, Borland Bg (hdqrs. Philadelphia).
Batten, George, Co, Inc, McCormick Bg (hdqrs. N. Y.).
Benson, Campbell & Slaten, Corn Exchange Bldg.
Bowers, Thos. M., Adv Agency, Inc, Kimball Bldg.
Burnet-Kuhn Adv Co, Inc, 39 S La Salle.
Chesman, Nelson, & Co, Inc, Goddard Bg (hdqrs. St. Louis).
Clarke, E. H., Adv Agency, Inc, Steger Bg.
Cochrane, Witt K., Adv Agency, Inc, Boyce Bldg.
Crosby Chicago, Inc, Pullman Bg.
Davies, J. W., Railway Exchange Bg.
Dowley-Bronnan Co, Inc, Harris Trust Bg.
Doremus & Morse, 10 S La Salle (hdqrs. N. Y.).
Dyer, George L., Co, 1st Nat'l Bk Bg (hdqrs. N. Y.).
Eddy, Louis O., Marshall Field Bg.
Erwin & Wacey Co, Inc, 55 E Washington.
Federal Adv Agency, Inc, 1539 N Michigan (hdqrs. N. Y.).
Frank, Albert, & Co, Inc, 322 S La Salle (hdqrs. N. Y.).
Fuller, Charles H., Co, Inc, 623 S Washington.
Green, Carl M., Co, Inc, Steger Bg (hdqrs. Detroit).
Guenther-Bradford Co, Inc, 64 W Randolph.
Gundlach Adv Co, Inc, People's Gas Bg.
Hogstra, H. Walton, Inc, 19 S La Salle.
Horn, Hurst & McDonald, Inc, People's Gas Bg.
Hoops Adv Co, Inc, Tribune Bg.
Husland & Thomas Co, Inc, 55 E Washington.
Journs, Arnold, Co, Inc, 14 E Jackson Bldg.
Kastor, H. W. & Sons Adv Co, Inc, Lytton Bg (hdqrs. St. Louis).
Kay, J. Rudland, Co, Inc, 111 W Washington.
Kirkland-Engel Co, Inc, 14 E Jackson Bldg.
Lesan, H. E., Adv Agency, Inc, Old Colony Bg (hdqrs. N. Y.).
Lee-Jones, Inc, Republic Bg.
Lord & Thomas, Inc, Mallers Bg.
McJunkin, Wm. D., Adv Agency, Inc, 35 S Washington.
Mallory, Mitchell & Faust, Inc, Security Bldg.
Mathews R. A. Adv Corp, 140 S Dearborn.
Meuser-Bernhard Adv Agency, 140 S Dearborn.
Mitchell Adv Agency, Inc, McCormick Bg (hdqrs. Minneapolis).
Morse Int'l Agency, 53 W Jackson Blvd (hdqrs. N. Y.).

Nichols-Finn Adv Co, Inc, 229 S State.
Nichols, Chas F. W., Co, 30 E Jackson Blvd.
O'Shaughnessy Adv Co, Inc, Westminster Bldg.
Rankin, William H., Co, Inc, 104 S Michigan av.
Reisman, H. E., Adv Co, Inc, People's Gas Bg.
Roberts & McAvinche, 30 N Dearborn.
Sehl Adv Agency, 139 N Clark.
Shaw Adv Co, Transportation Bg.
Sutcliffe Adv Co, Inc, Garland Bg.
Stack Adv Agency, Inc, Heyworth Bg.
Stewart-Davis Adv Agency, Kesner Bg.
Taylor-Critchfield-Clague Co, Inc, Brooks Bg.
Thielecke Adv Co, Inc, 327 S La Salle.
Thompson, J. Walter Co, Inc, Lytton Bg (hdqrs. N. Y.).
Touzin, Charles H., Agency, Inc, Kesner Bg.
Turner Adv Co, Inc, 608 S Dearborn.
Vanderhoof & Co, Inc, 140 S Dearborn.
Wade Adv Agency, Old Colony Bg.
Walker, Dudley & Co, People's Gas Bg.
Williams & Cunningham, Inc, 59 E Madison.
Woodwards, Inc, 900 S Michigan av.

BOSTON.

Amsterdam Agency, Inc, 35 Congress (hdqrs. N. Y.).
Ayer, N. W. & Son, 111 Devonshire (hdqrs. Philadelphia).
Ayers, H. E. & Co, 164 Federal.
Barber, J. W., Adv Agency, Inc, 338 Washington.
Batten, George, Co, Inc, Tremont Bg (hdqrs. N. Y.).
Bayer-Stroud Corp, 44 Bromfield (hdqrs. N. Y.).
Bell Nugent, 67 Milk.
Bond, Arthur T., 20 Central.
Boston News Bureau Co, Inc, 30 Kilby.
Buchanan, John, Adv Agency, 176 Federal.
Cannon Co, Inc, John Hancock Bg (hdqrs. N. Y.).
Dukelow & Walker Co, Inc, 246 Washington.
Ellis, A. W. Co, 40 Central.
Frank, Albert, & Co, Inc, 100 State (hdqrs. N. Y.).
Greenleaf Co, Inc, 185 Devonshire.
Goulston, Ernest J., Adv Agency, 18 Tremont.
Hoyt's Service, Inc, 14 Kilby (hdqrs. N. Y.).
Humphrey, H. B., Co, Inc, 581 Boylston.
Kollack, Edward D., 201 Devonshire.
Morgan, John J., Adv Agency, Inc, 44 Bromfield.
O'Keefe, P. F., Adv Agency, 43 Tremont.
O'Malley Adv & Selling Co, Old South Bg.
Seaman, Frank, Inc, 50 State (hdqrs. N. Y.).
Shumway, Franklin P. Co., Inc, 468 Washington.
Smith, C. Brewer, Adv Agency, 161 Devonshire.
Snow, Walter B. & Staff, 136 Federal.
Stafford Adv Agency, 10 Post Office sq.
Stevens, Hermon W., Agency, Globe Bg.
Taylor-Critchfield-Clague Co, John Hancock Bg (hdqrs. Chicago).
Tomer Adv Agency, Inc, 294 Washington.
Thompson, J. W., Co, Inc, 201 Devonshire (hdqrs. N. Y.).
Walker-Longfellow Co, Inc, 4 Northampton.
Walton Adv & Ptg Co, 141 Milk.
Wetherald, James T., 142 Berkeley.
Wood, Putnam & Wood Co, Inc, 111 Devonshire.

PHILADELPHIA.

Ayer, N. W. & Son, 300 Chestnut.
Bloomingdale-Weiler Adv Agency, 1420 Chestnut.
Blum, Charles, Adv Corp, Inc, 608 Chestnut.
Clark-Whitcraft Co, Inc, 1228 Chestnut.
Crosa, J. H., Co, Inc, 214 S 13th.
Donovan & Armstrong, Commonwealth Bg.

Complete BOOKLOVER'S PICTUREGAME
SUITABLE FOR NEWSPAPERS OF LARGE OR SMALL CIRCULATION.
$350.00

which includes everything—2,000 Competition Booklets—complete copy service—sets of all 48 pictures—expert supervision throughout.
An original feature that will wake up every department of the newspaper—and make a profit. Possible only through the originators in this field.

The Booklovers Sales Co.
Incorporated
110 West 40th St., New York City
SEND FOR THE DETAILS.

Edwards, Geo W. & Co, 328 Chestnut.
Frank, Albert, & Co, Inc Otis Bg (hdqrs N. Y.).

Fletcher Co, Inc, Widener Bg.
Foley, Richard A, Adv Agcy, Inc, Bulletin Bg.
Ircland Adv Agcy, Inc, 136 S 4th.
Morris, Herbert M, Adv Agcy, Inc, 400 Chestnut.
Maclay & Mullally, Inc, Commercial Trust Bg (hdqrs N. Y.).
Matos Adv Co, Inc, Bulletin Bg.
McGuckin, Eugene, Co, 108 N 12th.
McLain Hadden Simpers Co, 310 W Washington sq.
Philadelphia News Bureau, 489 Sansom.
Prockey, Frank, Co, Inc, 1001 Chestnut (hdqrs N. Y.).
St Clair, Wm G, Co, Witherapoon Bg.
Tracy Parry Co, Inc, Lafayette Bg.
Van Haagen Adv Agcy, 1420 Chestnut.

ALABAMA.
BIRMINGHAM.
Sparrow Adv Agcy, American Trust Bg.

ARKANSAS.
LITTLE ROCK.
Brooks, S M, Adv Agcy, State Bank Bg.

CALIFORNIA
LOS ANGELES.
Dake Adv Agcy, Inc, 814 S Spring (hdqrs San Francisco).
Holmes, Frances, 584 S Spring.
Lord & Thomas, Inc, Citizens Nat'l Bank Bg (hdqrs Chicago).
Read-Miller Co, Inc, 120 1/2 S B'way.

ONTARIO.
Mertz, Lewis H.

SAN FRANCISCO.
Dake Adv Agcy, Inc, 131 2d.
Honig-Cooper Co, Inc, 74 New Montgomery.
Johnston-Ayres Co, Inc, 525 Market.
McLann, H K, Co, Inc, 461 Market (hdqrs N. Y.).
Walker Adv Agcy, 165 Kearney.

PENNS.
Berg Adv Agcy, Inc, Rowell Bg.

COLORADO.
DENVER.
Beardon Adv Co, Inc, Quincy Bg.

CONNECTICUT.
DANBURY.
Dobbs, Wm F, 46 Washington av.

SOUTH NORWALK.
Globe Adv Agcy, Inc, 85 Washington.

NEW HAVEN.
Powning, George G, Inc, 600 State.

DELAWARE.
WILMINGTON.
Hoopes, Edgar M, Adv Agcy, Inc, 1303 Rodney.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.
Lewis Agcy, Inc, District Nat'l Bank Bg.
Shaffer, J Albert, Star Bg.

FLORIDA.
JACKSONVILLE.
Thomas Adv Service, Heard Nat'l Bank Bldg.

GEORGIA.
ATLANTA.
Munsengale Adv Agcy, Inc, Candler Bg.
Johnson-Dallis Co, Inc, Greenfield Bg.

INDIANA.
INDIANAPOLIS.
Cough, John L, Adv Agcy, Merchants' Bank Bg.
Field Adv Service, State Life Bg.
Seeds, Russel M, Co, Inc, 330 University Sq.
Sulener-Van Riper Adv Co, Inc, Merchants' Bank Bg.

EVANSVILLE.
Rasham, Thomas E, Co (hdqrs Louisville).

THE NEW YORK TIMES FASHION SECTION

The Rotogravure Fashion Section of The New York Times, Sunday, October 7, will present an unusual series of photographs of fashionable women's wear, obtained in Paris especially for The New York Times.

Reproduced in the soft, sepia tones of the perfected rotogravure process, the photographs will show every detail of the newest gowns, wraps, suits, blouses, hats, lingerie and accessories.

In the same issue of the Times there will be authoritative articles on the styles for the coming Autumn and Winter.

KENTUCKY.
LOUISVILLE.
Basham, Thomas E, Co, Inc, Inter-Southern Life Bg.

LOUISIANA.
NEW ORLEANS.
Chambers Agcy, Inc, Maison Blanche Bg.

MARYLAND.
BALTIMORE.
Frank, Albert, & Co, Inc, Equitable Bg (hdqrs N. Y.).
Moffett Lynch Adv Co, Inc, 7 E German.
Jones Adv Service, Munsey Bg.
Sandlass, L A, 7 Clay.

MASSACHUSETTS.
SPRINGFIELD.
Bates, J D, Adv Agcy, 592 Main.
Marsh, Edward H, Adv Agcy, Beane Bg.

MONTANA.
BUTTE.
Palmer Adv Service, Highbour Bg.

MICHIGAN.
DETROIT.
Banker-Martin Co, Inc, Free Press Bg.
Campbell-Ewald Co, Inc, 117 Fort W.
Dunlap-Ward Adv Co, Inc, Kresge Bg.
Erwin & Wasey Co, Inc, Kresge Bg. (hdqrs Chicago).
Green, Carl M, Co, Inc, Free Press Bg.
Lee-Jones, Inc, Book Bg (hdqrs Chicago).
MacManus, Theo F, Inc, Kresge Bg.
McCann, H K, Co, Inc, Brush & Congress (hdqrs N. Y.).
Pelletier, E LeRoy, Fine Arts Bg.
Power, Alexander & Jenkins Co, Inc, Journal Bg.
Von Poettgen, Carl S, Kresge Bg.
Savage, Geo M, Adv Agcy, 83 Griswold.
Seaman, Frank, Inc, Kresge Bg (hdqrs N. Y.).
Taylor-Critchfield-Clague Co, Inc, Ford Bg (hdqrs Chicago).
Thompson, J W, Co, Inc, Kresge Bg (hdqrs N. Y.).

GRAND RAPIDS.
Brearley-Hamilton Co, Inc, Perkins Bg.

MINNESOTA.
MINNEAPOLIS.
Dollenmayer Adv Agcy, Inc, Lincoln Bg.
Mac Martin Adv Co, Security Bank Bg.
Mitchell Adv Agcy, Inc, Plymouth Bg.

ST. PAUL.
Corning-Firestone Adv Agcy, Inc, Merchants' Nat'l Bank Bg.
Greve, S Agcy, Oppenheim Bg.
Lee, L K, Dispatch Bg.
Northwestern Adv Agcy, Essex Bg.

MISSOURI.
KANSAS CITY.
Baxter Adv Co, Commerce Trust Bg.
Ferry-Hanley Adv Co, Inc, Commerce Bg.
Finney W B, Adv Co, Inc, Orear-Lewis Bg.
Gray, F A, Adv Co, 14th and Oak.
Potts-Turnbull Adv Co, Inc, Graphic Arts Bldg.

ST. LOUIS.
Anfenger, Louis E, Railway Exch. Bg.
Chappelow Adv Co, Inc, Int'l Life Bg.
Cheaman, Nelson, & Co, Inc, 1127 Pine.
D'Arcy Adv Co, Inc, Int'l Life Bg.
Fisher-Steinbruegge Adv Co, Inc, 1027 Washington av.
Gardner Adv Co, Inc, 315 N 10th.
Kastor, H W, & Sons Adv Co, Inc, Merchants' Nat'l Bank Bg.
Schiele Adv Co, Inc, Central Nat'l Bank Bldg.

NEBRASKA.
OMAHA.
Darlow Adv Co, Inc, World-Herald Bg.
Warfield Adv Co, Inc, Bee Bg.

NEW JERSEY.
ATLANTIC CITY.
Dorland Adv Agcy, Presson Bg.

NEWARK.
Fettinger, Theo S, Adv Agcy, 790 Broad.
Goldsmith Co, 407 Market.
Hanser Agcy, Kinney Bg.
Scheck Adv Agcy, 9 Clinton.
Sommer, Fred N, 810 Broad.

NEW YORK STATE.
BINGHAMTON.
Jones, Wylie B, Adv Agcy, Inc, Exchange Bldg.

BROOKLYN.
Loyd, Sam, Adv Agcy, 246 Fulton.
Sherwood, B R, 367 Fulton.

BUFFALO.
Fuller, Chas H, Co, Inc, Morgan Bg (hdqrs Chicago).
Moss-Chase Co, Inc, 110 Franklin.
Presbrey, Frank, Co, Inc, Electric Bg (hdqrs N. Y.).
Remington, E P, Agcy, 1280 Main.

ELMIRA.
Lyndon & Hanford Co, Inc, Star-Gazette Bg (hdqrs Rochester).

ROCHESTER.
Elliott Adv Service, Inc, 506 St Paul.
Lyndon & Hanford Co, Inc, Cutler Bg.
Van Cleave Company (hdqrs N. Y.).

TOBY.
Moon, Byron G, Co, Inc, Proctor Bg.

OHIO.
CINCINNATI.
Blaine-Thompson Co, Inc, 4th Nat'l Bk Bg.
Doughty, Chas L, 621 Main.
Joseph, Jesse M, Adv Agcy, Union Central Bg.
Lesan, H E, Co, Inc, Union Central Bg (hdqrs N. Y.).
Procter & Collier Co, Inc, Commercial Tribune Bg.
Thompson, J W, Co, Inc (hdqrs N. Y.).

CLEVELAND.
Dunlap-Ward Adv Agcy, Union Nat'l Bank Bg (hdqrs Detroit).
Fowler-Simpson Co, Inc, 1900 Euclid av.
Fuller & Smith, Inc, Guardian Bg.
Gould, M P, Co, Columbia Bg (hdqrs N. Y.).
McJunkina, W. D., Adv. Agcy., Hippodrome Annex (hdqrs Chicago).
Singleton-Hunting Co, Inc, Citizens' Bg.

COLUMBUS.
Mumm-Romer Co, Inc, 568 E Broad.
Seeds, Russel M., & E Long (hdqrs Indianapolis).

DAYTON.
Blackburn Adv Agcy, 22 S Jefferson.

TOLEDO.
Arkenberg-Machen-Dowd Co, Inc, Produce Exch Bg (classified).
Kelley, Martin V, Co, Inc, 8d Nat Bk Bg.
MacManus, Theo F, Inc (hdqrs Detroit).

OKLAHOMA.
OKLAHOMA CITY.
Southwestern Adv Co, Oklahomaan Bg.

PENNSYLVANIA.
JOHNSTOWN.
Jones-Martin, Inc, 345 Main.

PITTSBURG.
Barker, Duff & Co, Inc, 338 4th av.
Hill, Albert P, Co, Inc, People's Bk Bg.
Hill, W S, Co, Inc, Vandergrift Bg.
Weil, Joseph, Co, Jenkins Arcade Bg.

RHODE ISLAND.
PROVIDENCE.
Danielson & Son, 96 Westminster.
Standish, G S, Adv Agcy, Union Tr Bg.

TEXAS.
SAN ANTONIO.
Schermerhorn Adv Co, Gibbs Bg.

TENNESSEE.
CHATTANOOGA.
Cheaman, Nelson & Co, Inc, Times Bg (hdqrs St. Louis).

MEMPHIS.
Lake, Henry, Adv Co, Inc, Porter Bg.

VERMONT.
BURLINGTON.
Hays Adv Agcy, 196 Main.

VIRGINIA.
RICHMOND.
Cecil Adv Co, Mutual Bg.

WASHINGTON.
SEATTLE.
Constantine Adv Co, Inc, White Bg.
Daken-Horsley Adv Agcy, Inc, Bittel Bg.
Strang & Prosser Agcy, Empire Bg.

WISCONSIN.
MILWAUKEE.
Cramer-Krasselt Co, Inc, 254 Milwaukee.
Koch, Otto J, Adv Agcy, Inc, University Bldg.

CANADA.
MONTREAL.
Advertising Serv Co, Ltd, Drummond Bg.
Canadian Adv Agcy, Ltd, 284 Lagache-riere, W.
Desbarats Adv Agcy, Ltd, Unity Bg.
McKim, A, Ltd, Lake of the Woods Bg.

TORONTO.
Baker Adv Agcy, Ltd, Inc, 18-20 Wellington, East Toronto.
Gagner Adv Service, Graphic Arts Bg.
Norris-Patterson, Ltd, Mail Bg.
Rowlatt, F Albany, 26-28 Adelaide, W.

LONDON.
McConnell & Ferguson.

WINNIPEG.
Macpherson-McCurdy, Ltd., Inc., Bell Block.

TO MANUFACTURERS:

If the links between the making of your product, your sales department, your advertising, your distributing channels and the consumer are not welded into one harmonious unit, your advertising cannot be made to produce its highest possible volume of returns. The Presbrey method has united these various branches in the case of many others. Why not learn wherein it can be made to earn for you? Your correspondence entails no obligation.

FRANK PRESBREY COMPANY

GENERAL ADVERTISING.
Makers of Commercial Booklets.
466 4th Av. (31st St.) NEW YORK

H. W. KASTOR & SONS ADVERTISING COMPANY

CHICAGO ST. LOUIS
An organization of merchandising men highly specialized in the solution of advertising problems.

G. LOGAN PAYNE CO.

SPECIAL REPRESENTATIVES
Fifth Avenue Building, NEW YORK
760 Marquette Building, CHICAGO
40 Broomfield St., BOSTON
Kresge Building, DETROIT

VERREE & CONKLIN

PUBLISHERS' REPRESENTATIVES
235 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK
11 Lafayette Boulevard, DETROIT
25 E. Jackson Boulevard, CHICAGO

JOHN BUDD CO.

Representing Newspapers of
Burrell Bldg., NEW YORK
Tribune Bldg., CHICAGO
Chemical Bldg., ST. LOUIS

THE ADVERTISING AGENTS ON THE LIST OF THE CANADIAN PRESS ASSOCIATION.

The Canadian advertising agencies listed by the Canadian Press Association as official solicitors of advertising for the newspapers of the Dominion are as follows:

ONTARIO.
HAMILTON.
Hamilton Advertisers' Agcy, Ltd.

LONDON.
McConnell & Ferguson.

TORONTO.
Advertising Serv. Co., Nordheimer Bg.
Baker Agcy, Ltd, 18 Wellington, E.
Dean, E Sterling, Agcy, 8 Wellington, E.
Desbarats Agcy, Ltd, Bay & Adelaide.
Financial Co of Canada, Ltd, Board of Trade Bg.
Gagner Service, 78 Richmond, W.
Gibbons, J J, Ltd, 119 Wellington, W.
McConnell & Ferguson, 99 Victoria.
McKim, A, Ltd, Jarvis Bg.
Norris Patterson, Ltd, Mail Bg.
Press Agcy Bureau, Ltd, Dineen Bg.
Robertson, J S, Co, Ltd, 67 Queen, W.
Rowlatt, F Albany, 26 Adelaide, W.
Smith, R C, & Son, Ltd, 171 Yonge.
Smith, Denne & Moore, Ltd, Lumsden Bg.

QUEBEC.
MONTREAL.
Advertising Serv. Co, Ltd, 810 Drummond Bg.
Canadian Adv. Ltd, Unity Bg.
Desbarats Agcy, Ltd, Unity Bg.
Financial Co of Canada, Ltd, Board of Trade Bg.
Gagner Service, 171 St. James.
Gibbons, J J, Ltd, Coronation Bg.
McKim, A, Ltd, Lake of the Woods Bg.
Smith, R C, & Son, Ltd, 157 St. James.

MANITOBA.
WINNIPEG.
Gibbons, J J, Ltd, Tribune Bg.
McConnell & Ferguson.
Macpherson-McCurdy, Ltd, Bell Block.
McKim, A, Ltd, Union Bk Bg.

NOVA SCOTIA.
HALIFAX.
Imperial Pub Co, Ltd.

PUBLICITY FOR LIBERTY LOAN.

(Continued from Fourteenth Page.) publication of placards, folders and circulars. Street banners, billboard signs and electrical devices will be employed largely in the second campaign.

The third branch of the organization is the feature bureau. The special activities of the moving picture companies and theatrical producers in the Second Liberty Loan campaign have been organized and developed thoroughly in this bureau. Parades, public meetings and other demonstrations also are being arranged for. Then, too, the various organizations are being brought into line with the Government. Concerning this last aspect of the work, Mr. Hartigan, who is head of the Feature Bureau, said to THE FOURTH ESTATE:

ENLISTING LABOR.

"We have been mobilizing certain important elements in this district, particularly farming and organized labor. Resolutions have been adopted in Jamestown, N. Y., showing that the labor men will give their heartiest support to the Government. The cooperation of various labor organs has been obtained. We are considering the appointment to publicity headquarters of a special representative of labor, who will work with us in the selling department. This man will be selected through the State Federation of Labor."

"Resolutions adopted in some cases by executive committees, in others by general vote of conventions, show that we are getting equally strong support from the farm interests."

"The State Agricultural Society, the State Grange, the Dairyman's League and other groups have indicated that they will do all they can for the publicity of the second Liberty Loan."

"The heads of the various Farm Bureaus, one of which is maintained by the state in each county, will distribute posters and other publicity matter among the farmers, and will be active workers for us. In addition to the Farm Bureau men, there will be a special Liberty Loan Committee appointed by these officials. The county fairs which take place between now and the close of the second Liberty Loan will be covered and the second Liberty Loan will be kept in the minds of the people with many different devices."

OTHER FEATURES.

An important feature being arranged by this bureau is the war exhibition to be held in an armory or in some large hall in New York City. The war will be visualized by bringing to the attention of the public every article used in this conflict by the American and Allied forces. The public will see what goods are being bought by the Government with the money derived from the sale of Liberty Bonds.

Another feature is the placing of Liberty Loan clocks in the different parts of the city. Twenty-five persons have offered the use of their premises without charge for this work.

A committee also has been established to take complete charge of the educational side of the campaign. To cooperate with the selling department there will be a committee in touch with the insurance companies. The plan is to distribute Liberty Loan circulars among the policy holders of these companies.

The publicity organization is working with the merchants along similar lines, the idea being to send some Liberty Loan appeals with every package dispatched from the stores. The distribution of 320,000 stickers for automobiles is also being arranged.

A parade to be managed in conjunction with the Mayor's Committee on National Defense is also on the program. Motor busses will be mobilized to carry thousands of bond holders.

A telephone committee will arrange with the New York Telephone Company to have national leaders make short speeches over the wires to as many of the subscribers as can be connected up at one time. These talks will start after the campaign is well under way.

The railroads of the districts will be asked to run a car over the various lines for the distribution of Liberty Loan advertisements. Another plan is to send out 2,000 telegrams to leading citizens in various parts of the district. Telegrams will be signed by men of national standing, who will urge the recipients to help in the loan.

SERVICE BUREAU.

The service bureau, which was in operation in the first campaign under R. C. Mees of J. P. Morgan & Co., will be continued under the same head. The stenographers, bookkeepers, telephone operators, mail clerks, and other workers in this bureau, handle a volume of business which is increasing daily. An information bureau has been created. Posters and other publicity materials will be distributed by the Service Bureau.

One week before the campaign is formally opened publicity headquarters will have at least one hundred workers in addition to several hundred on the outside. Most of these helpers will be volunteers or will be turned over to the Liberty Loan Committee for the period of the campaign by various business and banking concerns.

NOTES FROM FOND DU LAC.

William Hyde, city editor of the Fond du Lac (Wis.) Daily Reporter, has resigned to enter military training at Camp Grant, Rockford, Ill. He was formerly with Madison and Janesville dailies and is a brother of Grant M. Hyde, author of the book "Newspaper Editing."

Miss Catherine McGovern, society editor of the Reporter for two years, is now assistant news editor, and Miss Mabel Ford, former society editor, returns to the charge of the society page.

C. F. Coffman, managing editor of the Daily Reporter for the past seven years, is now manager of the local International News Service bureau in addition to his reporter duties.

CHICAGO LUNCHEONS.

The Press Club of Chicago has renewed its popular noon-day luncheons, at which some prominent visitor usually speaks. George R. Parkin of Toronto spoke at last week's luncheon. A dinner dance was given Saturday evening at which members of theatrical companies playing in the city were guests of honor.

CHICAGO BOWLING LEAGUE.

Members of the Chicago Daily News force have started a departmental bowling league season of sports.

Newsboy's Raincoat Outfits

To Sales Managers:—We have the liveliest PREMIUM for boosting the circulation of any newspaper in the country. Our clients are numerous in your field. One in particular is the Pittsburg Leader.

The Boy's Raincoat Outfit

is made from size 6 to 16 and is the most practical Premium for the next six months. Two materials to choose from. Our cloth No. 12 being Olive Asia Cloth with Scotch Plaid with Para Rubber interlined, or Cloth No. 36, Olive Asia Cloth with Para Rubber Lining. Special Prices for each article:

	Cloth No. 36	No. 12
Boy's Coat Only	$1.35	$1.65
Boy's Hat (To Match)	.20	.25
Boy's Newspaper Bag (20 in. x 14 in.)	.30	.40

Printing on Newspaper Bag charged at cost price. Large assortment of materials for Men's, Women's and Children's Raincoats up to $10 per garment.

Send us your order now, or send for Catalog.

CHESTER WATERPROOF COMPANY,

32 Union Square

NEW YORK

NEWSPAPERS AND THE A.A.C.W.

MORE OF THEM WANTED IN THE NEWSPAPER SECTION—WORK BEING EXPANDED.

The officers of the Newspaper Departmental of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World are conducting an active campaign for new publisher members. Among those recently joining are the Altoona (Pa.) Mirror, the Richmond (Ind.) Palladium, the Oklahoma City Oklahoman, the Columbus (Ohio) Dispatch and the Raleigh (N. C.) Times.

Printed copies of the proceedings of the Departmental at the St. Louis convention have been sent to members and will be to all other publishers interested.

Plans that will greatly benefit the Departmental this year were outlined by Rowe Stewart of the Philadelphia Record, president of the Departmental, as follows:

"The Newspaper Departmental of the Associated Advertising Club of the World will, during the coming year, perfect plans of cooperation among its members that will be decided benefit to newspaper advertising as a whole and to advertising in the papers composing its membership in particular.

"We also expect to stimulate a correspondence between the newspapers composing this department that will be helpful not only in solving our several problems but will give us all the benefit of the successes as well as the mistakes of our fellow-members.

"All of this will be looking toward a meeting at San Francisco next June which will be better than that held at any previous convention.

"We will have as speakers and leaders in discussion advertisers and advertising agents who have had practical experience in using newspaper space and whose talks will be of enough interest to warrant the attendance at the convention of every progressive publisher, business, or advertising manager in the country.

"To carry on all this work requires funds and we will be successful only in proportion as our membership grows during the year.

"The dues for this association are $10 per year, payable in advance.

"The proceedings of the Newspaper Departmental at the St. Louis convention in June of this year have been published in book form. We are not sending this generally to newspapers, but if a publisher is interested in knowing any more of the work we will be glad to send him a copy."

ADVERTISING PROTECTS THE CONSUMER.

(Copyright by Mallory, Mitchell & Faust.)

When you buy an advertised brand of any food product you are protected against under-weight, short measure, misrepresentation and over charge.

For the manufacturer has, through advertising, standardized his product. Every package is the same in size, weight, quality and price as every other package bearing that label.

You are thus protected against the practices of unscrupulous dealers, for advertised goods are standard. They are the same wherever they are found, in the big store or the little store, the downtown store or the suburban store, the city store or the country store.

By placing his trade-mark or brand name on the package, the manufacturer identifies his product and thus assumes responsibility for the quality and for correct weight and measure. By so doing, he stakes his reputation upon the product and therefore must give satisfaction with every package.

You get standard value when you buy standard advertised goods.

NO GERMAN PAPER.

The German shortage of print paper is so serious that many Berlin newspapers were unable to appear on September 22.

Other newspapers were issued only in four-page form, with the prospects so poor they may soon have to stop publication. The advertising of the new war loan will be impossible under these conditions.

ON YAPHANK ASSIGNMENT.

Don C. Clark of the New York World has been assigned to report the news for his paper in Yaphank.

NAMES OF AGENCIES DOING BUSINESS WITH NEWSPAPERS, BUT NOT LISTED BY THE A. N. P. A. AND C. P. A.

There are nearly 800 advertising agencies in the United States and Canada doing business regularly with newspapers that are not on the official lists of the American Newspaper Publishers Association and the Canadian Press Association.

Many of these agencies are on the official lists of local publishers' associations, the Periodical Publishers Association or the Agricultural Publishers Association, or all of them; placing such business as does not require national or international listing by the A. N. P. A. or by the C. P. A.

In this list the word street is omitted in addresses. It should be inserted in correspondence.

NEW YORK CITY.

Adv Bond Corp, 120 Broadway.
Adeo, Inc, 381 4th av.
Alert Adv Co, 506 5th av.
Alexander Adv Agency, 1482 Broadway.
All Languages Adv Serv, Inc, 25 Broad.
American Assn of Foreign Language Newspapers, Inc, Woolworth Bg.
American Int'l Adv Agency, 280 B'way.
Ankrum Agency, Tribune Bg.
Art League, 656 B'way.
Atlantic Adv Agency, 116 Nassau.
Barnhart, Geo F, Inc, 141 Broadway.
Barnhill, J D, 110 W 34th.
Bates Adv Co, Inc, 230 5th av.
Beers Agency, Flatiron Bg.
Bell, R N, 100 Maiden Lane.
Blaker, W H, 110 W 40th.
Bliss, Geo A De Laval, 6 Pearl.
Boulton-Sprague, Inc, 118 E 28th.
Bricka Ford Co, 114 E 28th.
Bridwell, C O, 501 5th av.
Bromfield & Co, Printing Crafts Bg.
Browne, T B, Ltd, 33 W 42d.
Business Efficiency Bureau, 949 B'way.
Canfield & Walkley, Inc, 341 5th av.
Carney & Kerr, Inc, Printing Crafts Bg.
Carroll, Jane, 62 5th av.
Century Ad Serv Co, Inc, 120 W 32d.
Creative Ad Service, 344 5th av.
Colony Adv Co, 1 Madison av.
College Advertisers' Serv, 19 Park Row.
Collins, Jr, C A, Adv Agency, 120 B'way.
Cohen-Chelsea, Inc, 621 Broadway.
Cowperthwaite Agency, 35 W 42d.
Deimonico, Wallace & Cutler, Inc, 299 Madison av.
Deimel, Adolph, 5 Beekman.
Delson Publicity Serv, 135 Broadway.
Devine, Jas A, 203 B'way.
Donohue, Philip F, Woolworth Bg.
Dudley, Winfield W, Agency, 110 W 40th.
Economy Service Co, 231 W 39th.
Edwards, Ernest, 429 6th av.
Ellner, Joseph, Co, Inc, 35 W 30th.
Fisher Smith Adv Co, 122 E 25th.
Fonda-Houtt Co, 260 5th av.
Foreign Language Co, 225 5th av.
Foster, Wm George, Inc, 261 B'way.
Friend Adv Agency, 347 5th av.
Frowert, P K, Co, Inc, 151 W 42d.
Frohman, Louis H, 50 E 42d.
Fyffe, Norman A, 317 5th av.
Gabryel Dattner Co (foreign language advertising agency), World Bg.
Green Wanamaker Syndicate, 225 5th av.
Gibson, Geo H, Co, Tribune Bg.
Giegerich & Pray, Inc, 150 Nassau.
Gilliam's Service, 110 W 84th.
Gilroy, John J, 42 B'way.
Good, H H, Co, 45 Murray.
Goodman, Philip, Co, 1261 B'way.
Gotham Agency, 95 Liberty.
Gove Agency, 113 E 28th.
Hallock, W W, 239 W 39th.
Hayden, Paul, 31 Nassau.
Heller Barnham, 432 4th av.
Howe, Murray, & Co, 30 E 42d.
Hunt, C B, 70 Vesey.
Huntington Co, 143 W 127th.
Hyams, Walter, Adv Agency, 87 Dey.

Ingraham, E F, Ad Co, 116 Nassau.
Interstate Publicity Corp, 45 E 28d.
Jacobs Adv Agency, 200 5th av.
James, H E, Adv Agency, Inc, 110 W 10th.
Jaros, J, Co, 518 5th av.
Jewish Adv & Pub Agency, 153 E B'way.
Johnston Overseas Adv Service, 17 Battery Pl.
Johnson-Lansill, Inc, 7 Pine.
Kass, W L, & Co, 26 E 28d.
Kahn, Siegmund, 1325 B'way.
Kohler, James Howard, 209 5th av.
Kondall Co, 102 W 42d.
Laddy, John M, Agency, 41 Park Row.
Lewis, A, 1270 B'way.
Lillibridge, Ray D, Inc, 111 B'way.
Lindsay, W H, 230 W 39th.
Long & Mayers, 108 W 34th.
Lauer, F B, & Co, 153 6th av.
McCrady, T L, 18 E 41st.
Manufacturers' Publicity Corp, 30 Church.
Marks Adv Co, 45 W 34th.
Mars & Angus, Inc, 30 E 10th.
Marvin, Newton R, Grand Central Terminal.
Marsh, Oliver Allen, 20 W 34th.
Mears Adv Co, Inc, 401 5th av.
Meier, Alfred, 10 5th av.
Merchants' Business Building Serv, 229
W 39th.
Metropolitan Adv Co, 6 Wall.
Meyer, Leon, 175 5th av.
Modell Agency, 150 Nassau.
Monroe Adv Corp, 105 W 10th.
Morton, J W, Jr, 23 Irving Pl.
Mutual Serv Corp, 140 Cedar.
Murray, Howe & Co, 30 E 10th.
National Advertisers' Adv Agency, 32 W
42d.
Newmark's Adv Agency, Inc, 522 Columbus av.
Nordheim, Ivan B, S W 10th.
Nye Adv Agency, 177 Broadway.
O'Gorman Agency, 126 5th av.
Ogilthorn, C J, Adv Agency, 2 Rector.
Patterson, W A, 1 Madison av.
Parks & Weiss, 56 W 45th.
Prosperity Ad Serv, Inc, 1416 B'way.
Peerless Adv Service, 100 4th av.
Pomeroy, Peress M, 225 5th av.
Polyglot Publicity Co, 116 Nassau.
Rae Gesser & Co, 45 E 29th.
Redman-Brown Agency, 35 W B'way.
Redford & Fisher, Inc, 303 5th av.
Rector Adv Agency, 1261 Broadway.
Ridderhof, C, 37 W 30th.
Robinson, J A, 151 Nassau.
Rosenblum, L S, 116 B'way.
R & H Agency, 1 E 3d.
Sacks Co, 151 Madison av.
Sayles, Jas F, Co, Inc, 1700 B'way.
Spear Adv Co, Inc, 128 W B'way.
Schindler Adv Co, 23 W 42d.
Seley, John E, Co, 105 W 40th.
Solger, P H, Agency, 59 Broad.
Standard Adv Agency, 150 Nassau.
Sterling Adv Service, 110 W 40th.
Sternberg, H Sumner, 1457 B'way.
Strong, Samuel, & Co, 404 W 61st.
Stroud & Brown, Inc, 203 5th av.
Telegraphic News Bureau, 156 B'way.
Toner, Walter F, 310 W 85th.
Triangle Ad Co, 341 5th av.
Tryon, Geo W, Times Bg.
Turhill Adv Agency, Inc, 1133 B'way.
Vogel, Jacob, 226 5th av.
Voorhees & Co, 116 Nassau.
Vredenburg-Kennedy Co, Inc, 171
Madison av.
Ward & Gow, 50 Union sq.
Weil, M C, 38 Park Row.
Weingarten, M, & Co, 286 5th av.
Whitman, R L, 80 5th av.
Wilson, Monmouth B, 243 W 17th.
Winer, Herman L, Tribune Bg.
World Adv Service, 150 Nassau.
Zellner, Frank, 1123 B'way.

CHICAGO.

Allen, Irving R, Co, McCormick Bg.
Ankrum Agency, 431 S Dearborn.
Alexander Adv Agency, 327 S La Salle.
Blumer & Hyer, 29 E Madison.
Blumenstock, Geo, Co, Inc, 25 N Dearborn.
Bowling D C, & Co, 608 S Dearborn.

Briggs, Albert M, Co.
Calumet Adv Co, 37 W Van Buren.
Cornwall, Geo W, 1st Nat'l Bk Bg.
Crowell's, Inc, 32 N Dearborn.
Dodd, S S, Adv Agency, 2102 North av.
Denny White Adv Co, 361 E Ohio.
Ditz, Will H, 326 W Madison.
Dodd, A M, Tacoma Bg.
Eckstorm Adv Agency, 111 W Washington.
Economy Service Co, 215 S Market
(Chicago S V).
Egan, Jas W, People's Gas Bg.
Everett, G G, Canton Bg.
Export Agency, 608 S Dearborn.
Empire Adv Agency, 740 E 17th.
First Nat'l Adv Agency, 1441 Morse av.
Forbich Burton Adv Service.
Franklin Adv Agency, 62 W Madison.
Gray & Benjamin Agency, 608 S Dearborn.
Green, Collins & Co.
Hamilton, J, R, Adv Agency, Hearst Bg.
Hatcher & Young, Inc, 508 S Dearborn.
Hodge, W V, Hearst Bg.
Holladay's Adv Agency, Boyce Bg.
Indiana Agency, 105 S La Salle.
Kelley, Pension, Adv Agency, 608 People's Gas Bg.
Knight Adv Agency, 137 S La Salle.
Krause, Joseph, Transportation Bg.
Leinhardt, Frank W, 30 W Jackson Blvd.
Liss, J H, 3115 Fulton.
Lunkes Adv Agency, Northwestern Bg.
Macarony Adv Co, 111 W Washington.
Merchant's Business Building Serv, 215
S Market.
Merchandising Serv Corp, Stevens Bg.
Mock & Hardy, 111 W Monroe.
National Adv Agency, 155 N Clark.
Ostenrieder Adv Corp, 168 N Michigan.
Pick, Rudolf S, Agency, 64 W Randolph.
Page Co, 4007 Michigan.
Rebel, John G, Inc, Transportation Bg.
Rogers, Albert E, 64 E Van Buren.
Rogers & Smith Agency, 64 E Van Buren.
Shuman Agency, 11 S Dearborn.
Stravum, Thomson & Bennett, Inc, 14 E
Jackson Blvd.
Stewart, H D, Co, Inc (Stewart Agency),
124 W Madison.
Stryker Adv Agency, People's Gas Bg.
Sweetman, Hilmer V, Co, 621 S Michigan av.
Universal Adv Service, 508 S Dearborn.
Van Hoesen & Collins, Inc, 5 S Wabash
av.
Wells Adv Service, Monmouth Bk.
Western Educational Adv Agency, 61 E
Madison.
Wilson Publicity Co, 123 W Madison.
Young, Chas Eckert, 537 S Dearborn.
Young, W M, Rand McNally Bg.

PHILADELPHIA.

Armstrong, F Wallis, Co, N Amer Bg.
Barrows & Richardson, Drexel Bg.
Brinnot, Ross D, & Co, 300 Walnut.
Butler, J T, 1318 Stephen Girard Bg.
Clark, Geo K, 509 Central Trust Bg.
Cooperative Co, 3339 Lancaster av.
Dippy & Aitken, 712 Heed Bg.
Empire Adv Agency, Empire Bg.
Franklin Adv Agency, 1015 Arch.
Franklin Adv Service, Bulletin Bg.
Garfield, James Lyon, 1011 Chestnut.
Hawes, J B, 108 Bailey Bg.
Kehmer & Lett, 1011 Chestnut.
Kleinmann Adv Agency, 318 Heed Bg.
Mobile States News & Adv Agency, 1513
Sansom.
Moore, W Calver, Adv Agency, Bourse Bg.
Oman & Smith, Inc, Bulletin Bg.
Postmaster, Joseph H, (trading as the Empire Co), Empire Bg.
Rufinam Agency, Drexel Bg.
Smith, E Everett, Mutual Life Bg.
Votz Agency, 421 Arch.
Whidden, Guy C, Bulletin Bg.
Wheeler, Albert S, 518 N Broad.

BOSTON.

American Adv Agency, 77 N Washington.
Commercial-Financial Printing Co, 109
State.
Cowan Publicity Service, 143 Federal.
Donnelly, John, & Sons, 79 Warrenton.
Greene Co, 520 Atlantic av.
New England Adv Co, 200 Washington.
Perry, Chas H, 4A Irvington.
Stevens, Frank B, 45 Milk.
Tyler, Geo W, 58 State.

ALABAMA.

BIRMINGHAM.

Misney Adv Agency, Jefferson Co Bk Bg.
MOBILE.

Adams Adv Agency, P O Box 370.

ARKANSAS.

FORT SMITH.

Oppenheim Adv Agency.

CALIFORNIA.

LOS ANGELES.

Barton Adv Agency, 321 S Spring.
Bull, H H, Union Oil Bg.
Curtis Newhall Co, 626 S Spring.
C G Company, Hollingsworth Bg.
Cobb Johnson, Wm, Story Bg.
Culver, R F, Central Bg.
Flood Adv Agency.
Jennett, Geo D, Trust & Savings Bg.

Lockwood, Russell N, Baker-Detwiler Bg.
McCall-Groninger Co, Title Guarantee Bg.
Pabst, Frederick, Marsh Strong Bg.
Seryl Curtis Agency, Hibernian Bg.
Shackelford, M W, Agency, Title Guarantee Bg.
Stuart, C R, Baker-Detwiler Bg.
Smith-Crank Adv Agency, Hollingsworth
Bg.
Thorndyck Adv Agency.
Welsh Adv Agency.

SACRAMENTO.

Bening Adv Co, Box 689.
Holden, John T, Adv Service, Ochsner
Bg.
Morsehead Agency, Nicholas Bg.

SAN FRANCISCO.

Aalywn's Adv Agency, Murhead Bg.
Blum's Adv Agency, 608 Mission.
Cabill Adv Agency, Pacific Bg.
Crocker, H S, 565 Market.
Fisher, L P, Agency, Merchants' Ex Bg.
Kuepman, Edward J, 1283 19th av.
LeVene, Nate Spreckles Bg.
Pacific Adv Agency, 112 Market.
Rose, Arthur G, Agency, 34 First.
SAN DIEGO.

Ferry-Hale-Martin Service, Owl Drug Bg.

PASADENA.

Graff, Fred S, 212 Slavin Bg.

COLORADO.

DENVER.

Calhoun Agency, 504 Quincy Bg.
Colorado Adv Agency, Burns Bg.
Conner Adv Agency, 300 Temple Court.
Conrad Ad Co, Inc, Foster Bg.
Daws Adv Service, Gas & Electric Bg.
Denver Adv Agency, 61 Barth Block.
Hower Adv Agency, Foster Bg.
Hunter-Cabill, First Nat'l Bank Bg.

COLORADO SPRINGS.

Fawcett Adv Agency, Burns Bg.

CONNECTICUT.

BRIDGEPORT.

Phelan Ad-Sales Service, 1st Bridgeport
Nat'l Bank Bg.

HARTFORD.

Bull, Norris L, 708 Main.
Chapin Adv Co, 25 Asylum.
Manternach Co, 74 Union Pl.

NEW HAVEN.

Colony Ad Co, Chamber of Commerce Bg.

TAKE IT TO POWERS!

"Fastest Engravers on Earth"

Open 24 hours out of 24
On Time All the Time

POWERS PHOTO-ENGRAVING
COMPANY

154 Nassau Street, NEW YORK
Telephone 4300 Beekman

Good Work
Prompt Service
Fair Prices

They tell the story of our 23 years of successful service.

And we want you to get into the habit to

"Phone the Manhattan Man for your Engraving"

MANHATTAN PHOTO
ENGRAVING CO.

261-253 William Street NEW YORK
Phone, Worth 1057-8

STANLEY PROCESS
a quality not to down up made a price TYPE METAL

SYRACUSE SMELTING WORKS
BROOKLYN, N. Y. and CHICAGO, ILL.

For Particular Printing come to the
ALLIANCE PRESS
110-114 West 32d Street NEW YORK

The
William L. Betts
Company
NEWSPAPER CONTEST
SPECIALISTS
Suite 406, World Bdg., NEW YORK

Lee, Wilson H. Co, 6 Church.
Stewart, Chas C (N J Schless & Co), 2106 Meadow.

ROCKVILLE.
Ballantine's Agency, 20 Chestnut.
WATERBURY.

United Adv Co.
WILTON.

Merrill Adv Agency.
DELAWARE.

WILMINGTON.
Victor & Williams, du Pont Bg.
Pierre, Geo H, Adv Agency, Dupont Bg.
DOVER.

Eastern Adv Corp.
DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Benjamin-Richard Co, 1315 N Y av.
Brewton Business Builder, 46 S. N W.
Collier, Harron G, Inc, 912 Munsey Bg.
Decker, J J, 1801 G, N W.
Gall, George H, 15th & G.
Jester, Harvey, Home Life Bg.
Gardner-Johnson, Evening Star Bg.
Poston, J Sale, Inc, McGill Bg.
Publicity Corp, Inc, Home Life Bg.
Shipp, Thomas R, & Co, Inc, Riggs Bg.
Street Car Adv Co, 808 Munsey Bg.
Surguy, T N, 614 15th, N W.
Wardner Adv Agency, Warder Bg.

FLORIDA.
JACKSONVILLE.
Montgomery Agency, Mutual Life Bg.

TAMPA.
Glenn, Clyde.
GEORGIA.

ATLANTA.
Rich-Carr, Adv Co, Connelly Bg.
Jacob Dillard Agency, 1221 Candler Bg.
Lanford, H G, P O Box 1.
Lewis & Coffee Co, 3rd Nat'l Bk Bg.
Stanford, Calvin, Connally Bg.

UNION CITY.
Union Agency.
ILLINOIS.

AURORA.
Stevens, E E, Merchants' Bk Bg.

BEARDSTOWN.
Cass Agency.

ELGIN.
Lufkin, Fred R.

DECATUR.
Droeisch, Lawrence J, Adv Agency, Bach-rach Bg.

PEORIA.
Mace Agency, Lehmann Bg.

SPRINGFIELD.
Practical Adv Co, 301 East Monroe.

INDIANA.
INDIANAPOLIS.
Aldred & Winn, Kahn Bg.
American Agency, 321 Sycamore.
Bare, Justin, Adv Agency, 519 E Walnut.
Bogelow, Burton & Staff, Occidental Bg.
Chance, F S, News Bg.
Field & Elwin, 1139 State Life Bg.
Hammer, M J, Adv Service, Fletcher
Trust Bg.
Jenne & Butler Co, 303 State Life Bg.
Knudde, Fred S, 419 Bd of Trade Bg.
McDermott, J T, Adv Service, Amer
Central Life Bg.
Praeger, Noble T, Adv Service, Occidental Bg.
Salice, A C, Fletcher Trust Bg.
Woods, Homer A, 514 E Drive; Woodward pl.

FORT WAYNE.
Fee, H W, Adv Agency, People's Trust
Bk Bg.
Miller, E Frank, Shoaff Bg.
Progressive Adv Co, People's Trust Bg.
HAMMOND.
Hoosier Agency, 1st Nat'l Bk Bg.

MUNCIE.
Sterling Agency.

ROLLING PRAIRIE.
Advance Agency, Lock Box 49.

SOUTH BEND.
Atlas Adv Co, Farmers' Trust Bg.
Lampert Adv Co, 520 J M S Bg.
Stoll, Edgar A, Farmers' Trust Bg.

EVANSVILLE.
American Adv Co.
Brentano-Kornblum Adv Service, Courier Bg.

IOWA.
CLARINDA.
Hawkeye Adv Co, Brown Bg.

DES MOINES.
Armstrong Adv Serv, Clapp Bk.
Coolidge Service, 212 Davidson Bg.
Leasing Adv Co, 400 S & L Bg.

DAVENPORT.
Chute, L E, Co (direct mail), Security Bg.

IOWA CITY.
Plum, J L, 726 Iowa av.

No Camouflage Here!!

A man is known by the company he keeps—a newspaper by its advertising.

In the advertising columns is found the key to the character and worth of the readers of a newspaper.

Editorial excellence only presupposes the class of reader. Advertising proves it.

Now let us apply this test to THE SUN, whose editorial excellence among New York morning newspapers is conceded by everybody.

Examine the record for the past eight months and you will find assembled in its columns a remarkable list of those high grade advertisers whose presence in any newspaper establishes the quality and buying power of its readers.

The Six Quality Tests

1. Automobiles

In the first eight months of 1917 THE SUN carried 487,182 lines of display automobile advertising, leading all New York newspapers with but one exception, and beating its next nearest competitor by 74,542 lines.

2. Financial

In the month of August THE SUN gained in financial advertising more than all the other morning papers combined.

3. Publishers and Books

THE SUN leads all New York papers in Gains in this class, almost doubling the gain of the nearest paper, and beating its own record for the same period of 1916 by 71,439 lines.

4. Schools

THE SUN is the leading advertising medium for this class. It printed more school advertising during the month of August, 1917, than any other New York newspaper.

5. Real Estate

In the first eight months of 1917 THE SUN gained 17,260 lines of Real Estate advertising, all other morning papers showed heavy losses.

6. National Advertising

Experts place this class of business. They are keen space buyers. Their selections may well be taken as a barometer of newspaper values. THE SUN led all morning papers in Gains for the first seven months of 1917, and exceeded its own record for the first eight months by 217,337 lines.

The Sun "NEW YORK'S MORNING NEWSPAPER"

WATERLOO.
Galloway, Wm, Co.
COUNCIL BLUFFS.
American Publicity Co.
POLARONTAS.
Carmichael's Adv Agency.
KENTUCKY.
LOUISVILLE.
Doe, Elmer H, Adv Service, Keller Bg.
Margen Robinson Co, Lincoln Bg.
Stark, T H, Adv Agency.

LOUISIANA.
NEW ORLEANS.
Simms, Geo A, Whitney Central Bg.
SHREVEPORT.
Baker, R Lynn, American Bk Bg.
MAINE.
AUGUSTA.
Penny, C T, 242 Water.

PORTLAND.
Beverage & Co, 121 Center.
Curtin Adv Agency, 536a Congress.
HOLLOWELL.
Storcken Agency.

MARYLAND.
BALTIMORE.
Baker, J E, 342 Equitable Bg.

Courtney, W H, 1402 W Franklin.
Deitch, Geo A, Munsey Bg.
Green Lucas Co, Hanover & Fayette sts.
Harrison Landauer (the Adv Service)
Co, Calvert Bg.
Kriwan, Walter, 201 Maryland Trust Bg.
Milbourne, L Jeff, Munsey Bg.
Nolte Agency, Inc, Light & Lombard.
Van Sant & Co, 265 W Lombard.

MASSACHUSETTS.
BROCKTON.
Erskine, Frank L, 293 Elm.
LYNN.
Frost, Harry M, Co, 23 Central av L.
Ingells, Edwin W, Adv Agency, 333 Union.
Sordis Adv Agency, 70 Blake.

SPRINGFIELD.
DeForest Agency, 77 Worthington.
Dwight, John Co, 214 Worthington.
Munn, George L, Bookstore Bg.
Howard, Marcus Strong, 33 Lyman.

WORCESTER.
Cooney, E J, Adv Agency, 17 Federal.
MICHIGAN.
BATTLE CREEK.
Battle Creek Adv Agency, Post Bg.
There's A Reason Co, Ltd, 484 Marshall.
Tucker, F E, 27 S Jefferson av.

DETROIT.
Alexander, Milton, Free Press Bg.
Brooke, Smith & Moore, Inc, Kresge Bg.
Burlingame, Margaret R, David Whitney
Bldg.
Curtis Co, 138 LaFayette Blvd.
Detroit Adv Agency, 235 Cass av.
Detroit Service Co, Free Press Bg.
Frohman Co, Journal Bg.
Hixon Davis, 406 Smith Bg.
Hartson Adv Agency, 312 Buhl Bk.
Lomasney, G T, Adv Agency, Kresge Bg.
Marsh, Edward H, Besse Bg.
Moore, D W, Free Press Bg.
Motor Adv Agency, 25 Milwaukee av W.
Murphy, Gerson, Kresge Bg.
Parkinson Co, Lafayette Blvd & 2d av.
Patton Wierengo, Inc, Book Bg.
Pfeiffer Adv Agency, Majestic Bg.
Pratt, Louis A, Co, Ford Bg.
Randall, Fred M, Co, Ford Bg.
Rieske, M, Co, Free Press Bg.
Tremaine, G C, 782 Woodward av.
Whalen Hixon, Peter Smith Bg.

GRAND RAPIDS.
Dean-Hicks Co, Ellsworth & William.
Laferty Adv Service, Grand Rapids Savings Bk Bg.
Murphy, Geo A, Asan of Commerce Bg.
Peterson-Dean Co, Michigan Trust Bg.

HANCOCK.
Houghton County Adv Agency.
JACKSON.
Jones Adv Co, Central State Bk Bg.
Van Deusen & Carter Agency, City Bk Bg.

KALAMAZOO.
Ad Serv-U.S Co, 506 Harrison.
Brownell, W L, 1028 Lay Boulevard.
Russell Publicity Service, 1028 Lay Blvd.

LANSING.
Smith, Robt, Agency, 232 N Washington
av.
PORTLAND.
Michigan Adv Agency.
MINNESOTA.

DULUTH.
MacIntosh Agency, Inc, Torrey Bg.
Stewart-Mackintosh, 310 W 2d.

MINNEAPOLIS.
Armstrong Adv Service, Andrus Bg.
Davis, W E, Adv Service, Plymouth Bg.
Hall Sales & Adv Bureau, McKnight Bg.
Howard & Smith, Metropolitan Bk Bg.
Seluck, A D, Adv Serv, McKnight Bg.

ST. PAUL.
Randall Co, 245 Wacouta.
Bloodgett, Harvey, Co, University & Wheel-et sts.
St. Paul Adv Agency, 100 S Wabasha.
Twain City Adv Agency, 143 S Wabasha.
Westlund Adv Serv, 911 Hastings av.

MISSOURI.
KANSAS CITY.
Butts Adv Agency, Gumbel Bg.
Hessack, Wm H, Adv Serv, Lathrop Bg.
Carpenter & Co, Lathrop Bg.
Chesney, M R, Adv Co, Inc, Graphic Arts Bg.
Clark, Stenger and Associated Artists,
Studio Bg.

Gillette Co, 404 Gurubel Bg.
Hawkins, Willis M, 2904 The Paseo.
Mutual Agency, Reliance Bg.
Nordhem, Ivan B, Co (hdqrs N Y).
Rowe, Wm B, Agency, Baltimore.
Samuel & Roy Adv Co, 920 Grand av.
Thompson Adv Agency, 504 Grand av.
Young Adv Agency.

ST. JOSEPH.
Hanna Agency, 617 Francis.
ST. LOUIS.
Brann-Parkell Agency, Inc, Ry Ex Bg.
Brauf-Wolper Adv Agency, Wright Bg.

The BILLBOARD

A Weekly.
Covers all of the following fields, viz.:
DRAMATIC VAUDEVILLE BURLESQUE OPERA
CONCERT FIELD
CHAUTAUQUA LYCEUM FAIRS AVIATION RINKS
CIRCUS CARNIVAL
Member Audit Bureau of Circulations
The Billboard Publishing Co
Sulway Central Building,
Broadway at 19d. NEW YORK

"Keeping Everlastingl

The Little Corporal

IT IS well past midnight in the garrison of Auxonne, 1791. The silence of the early dawn is there, and only occasionally do you catch the footbeats of the sentries.

Far back, in a poorly furnished room, a feeble light burns lower and lower. And in that room a table. And at that table—Napoleon Bonaparte.

Fifteen hours he has worked, and every day for a month, but there is no sign of weariness in that courageous face and figure. "Over there they sleep," he muses, "but I—I will some day lead the armies of France. And work shall do it!"

The parallel to business is easily drawn. Hard work is a very necessary part of success—determination levels mountains—perseverance wins many battles.

Every Napoleon of present-day business who is planning an intensive campaign for the conquest of new sales territory will have need of a trusted lieutenant who knows every step of the way and who can map out the best method of attack.

"Keeping Everlastingly At It Brings Success" has been the motto of Advertising Headquarters for nearly half a century.

Fifteen Years of Unremitting Work and then—Success

IN HIS boyhood, George Stephenson herded cattle and drove a ginhorse in a coal mine for sixpence a day. Not until his birthday was he able to read.

Yet this man of humble parentage and limited opportunity was so superior to obstacles that on Sept. 27, 1825, he opened the first railway over which goods and passengers were carried by locomotive.

For 15 years Stephenson had worked unceasingly on what many people called a dream, but success came finally—as it must come when unusual ability is harnessed to unusual perseverance.

"Keeping Everlastingly at it Brings Success" has been the motto of Advertising Headquarters for nearly forty-eight years.

N. W. A
ADVERTISING
PHILADELPHIA

NEW YORK

At It Brings Success"

Perseverance That United Continents

THREE times, Field and Thomson spent more than $300,000 trying to lay the Atlantic cable and three times they failed. The fourth attempt, however, was successful and great honors were showered upon the pioneers. But not for long!

The very day that Field was given a golden casket by the Mayor of New York, the cable failed—ruined by improper sending instruments after little more than a month of operation.

"But no discouragement could deter Field, the indomitable"—not even the parting of still another cable in mid-ocean.

On July 28, 1866, the "Great Eastern" steamed into Trinity Bay and communication between the continents was finally established—to be later improved to such an extent that—"Using the current from a battery placed in a lady's thimble, a message was sent across the Atlantic through one cable and back through the other."

Somehow, it seems that every great enterprise owes its success to just such perseverance. No longer is distance a barrier to business progress. Advertising well-done will carry your product and your personality to the farthestmost ends of the earth and connect-up the breaks in your distribution methods.

Day by day—sale by sale—"Keeping Everlastingly At It Brings Success."

THE yearning to conquer the air is as old as man himself. Far back in Greek Mythology you read how Daedalus and his son Icarus flew from the wrath of King Minos by means of artificial wings.

When the Wrights started experimenting with a flying machine the whole world derided their efforts. "But determination and a wonderful faculty for discriminating between the possible and the fallacious won out. After years of work, on December 17, 1903, Orville Wright first, then Wilbur Wright, succeeded in making a heavier-than-air machine rise from the ground under its own power."

Daedalus and Icarus

That was less than 14 years ago and it was then thought miraculous that an aeroplane could remain in the air for more than a minute.

Today—forward looking men are already figuring on a regular aeroplane service after the war—to carry 12 passengers from London to Paris at 80 miles an hour—the four machines to make a profit of $215,000 a year!

The same determination and ability to discriminate between the possible and the fallacious will win out in business and in advertising just as surely and just as profitably as they did in the conquest of the air.

"Keeping Everlastingly At It Brings Success"—particularly when the efforts are put forth in the right direction.

ER & SON

HEADQUARTERS

ELPHIA

ON

CHICAGO

THE CHICAGO HERALD Announces

the Appointment of

Mr. M. A. Bergfeld

AS

GENERAL ADVERTISING MANAGER

AND

Mr. Wm. E. Willis

AS

EASTERN MANAGER

EASTERN OFFICE
Times Building
New York City

Collier Adv Co, Laclede Gas Bg.
Cope Co, 820 Chestnut.
Debra, Leon, Adv Agcy, 6433 Ridge av.
Fetree & Fetree Adv Agcy, Times Bg.
Gachler Co, 321 N 2nd.
Hirsch, Cal, & Sons Merc Co, 300 S Broadway.
Hummert-Hatfield Co, Ry Exch Bg.
Orr, Bryon W., 235 Olive.
Philmar Co, 3700 Morgan.
Rubel Brown Agcy, Boatmen's Bk Bg.
Shaffer-Brennan Adv Co, Wainwright Bg.
Simpson Adv Agcy, Syndicate Trust Bg.
Stromberg Co, International Life Bg.
Western Adv Co, 1025 Boatmen's Bk Bg.

MONTANA.

BILLINGS.

Billings Adv Co, Lock Box 1300.

GREAT FALLS.

Elwell, W P, Adv Agcy, Box 1986.
Myer Adv Agcy, Inc, 1st National Bk Bg.

NEBRASKA.

BENKELMAN.

Nebraska Adv Co, Citizens' Bk Bg.

OMAHA.

Smith-Gwynne Adv Co.

NEW JERSEY.

ASBURY PARK.

King Agcy, 723 Mattison av.
Rosewar Ely Co.
Wilson, Harry B.

CAPE MAY.

Stevens, Lewis T, 518 Washington.

MONTCLAIR.

Advertisers' Service, Bureau, Savings Bk Bg.

NEWARK.

Allen, John A, 25 Parkhurst.
Sturigel, Edmund J, 23 Franklin.
United Service Agcy, Ordway Bg.
Wright, G W, 729 Broad.

PLAINFIELD.

Stanley Day Agcy, 502 Washington av.

TRENTON.

Scott, R C, Adv Co.

ELIZABETH.

Ireland, J, Agcy, L B 109.

NEW YORK STATE.

ALBANY.

Albany Adv Agcy, Delaware av & Catharine.
McGown, Edward F, 25 S Pearl.
Rice, A C, care Albany Journal.

BINGHAMTON.

Flannigan, J L, 402 Press Bg.
Hampton Adv Agcy, Ackerman Bg.
Kilmer, Willis T, Lewis st.
Livingston, J M, Herald Bg.
Woodward, H E, Press Bg.

BROOKLYN.

Hernheim, Alfred, & Sons, 780 B'way.
Borough Adv Agcy, 371 Fulton.
Ducell, A E, 752 Fulton.
Ehrlich, I J, 242 Court.
Kocks Adv Agcy, 204 B'way.
MacVean's Direct Adv Agcy, 421 Chauncey.
O H B Adv Co, 457 Hopkinson av.
Peck's Adv Agcy, 376 9th.

BUFFALO.

American Adv Service, 263 Plymouth av.
Drake, A N, 205 Marine Bk Bg.
De Witt Adv & Sales Serv, Bristain Bg.
Landsheft, A W, 703 Main.
Nordhem, Ivan B, Co (hdqrs N Y).
Porter, De Forest, Adv Service, Root Bg.
Voorhees Adv & Sales Service, 15 W Swan.

Weill, Armand S, Co, Elliott Sq.

ELMIRA.

Ross & Tripp, Hulet Bg.

OSWEGO.

International Co.

POUGHKEEPSIE.

Howard, Frank, Agcy, 257 Main.

ROCHESTER.

Adv Service Co, 306 Central Bg.
Brown & Bigelow, 543 Powers Bg.
Craftsman Adv Service, 61 Elizabeth.
Fish, Lyman & Goodwin, 75 State.
Genesee Adv Agcy, 45 E 17.
Howard, Kenneth S, Cutler Bg.
Ingram, S, & Co, 15 Elm.
Johnstone Adv & Sales Service.
Mason, C Henry, 148 East av.

SYRACUSE.

Advertisers' Service, 205 Kirk av.
Benjamin Adv Corp, Onondaga County Savings Bk Bg.
Barker, Robert M, 1st Nat'l Bk Bg.
Frasbie Adv Co, 113 W Fayette.
Sheldon Adv Service, 416 S Salina.
St Germaine, Fred, 809 Onondaga Bk Bg.
Tabor, C C, Seitz Bg.
Tiffany, J A 1st Nat'l Bk Bg.
Teller-Thompson Co, 220 W Onondaga.

Thompson, H S, Adv Service Agcy, Drawer 57.
Van Benschoten, Ray, Agcy, Union Bg.
Van Benschoten & Countryman, Vinney Bg.
Williams, Wallace M, 129 S Salina.

TONAWANDA.

Bentley Agcy, Box 704.

TROY.

American Agcy, 16 Third.

UTICA.

Du Noyer, Frank, Agcy, Mayro Bg.
Moore, Edw, Duncombe, Arcade Bg.
Moser & Cotins, Paul Bg.
Switzer-Stachhouse & Co, 27 City Nat'l Bk Bg.
Stevens & McBride Adv Agcy, Gardner Bldg.

SENECA FALLS.

National Adv Co.

NORTH DAKOTA.

FARGO.

Stone, S F, Agcy, Box 949.
Glasgow, J P, Adv Agcy, 623 N P av.

OHIO.

CANTON.

Advertising Laboratories, Cleveland av extension.

CINCINNATI.

Bickmeier, W J, cor 14th & Race.
Glaesky, W L, Adv Co, Union Trust Bg.
Jones, Ralph M, Co, Union Trust Bg.
Kuney, Clarence E, Agcy, Kuney Bg.
Reynolds, Bruce, Adv Agcy, Mercantile Library Bg.
Stephens, Harry, Co, Union Central Bg.
Thompson Koch Co, 23 W 8th.
Weish, M A, P O Box 531.

CLEVELAND.

Adams Adv Co, Canton Bg.
Advertising Dept Co, Inc, Leader-News Bldg.
Kingston Agcy, Citizens' Bg.
Elliott Publicity Service, Citizens' Bg.
Euclid Agcy, Century Bg.
Fletcher Newspaper Agcy, 6304 Ellen av, N W.

Lawrence & Oswald, Swetland Bg.
Lora Co, 2025 E 9th.
Macavoy Adv Co, Union Bk Bg.
Powers-House Co, Illuminating Bg.
Rogers, Arthur C, Guardian Bg.
Smiley Bureau, 207 Chamber of Commerce Bg.
United Adv Service, United Bk Bg.
Young, Lloyd W, 1900 Euclid av.

COLUMBUS.

Freeman, J J, Co, Huntington Bk Bg.

DAYTON.

Geyer-Dayton Agcy, City Nat'l Bk Bg.
Sloman Adv Co, Schwind Bg.
Webb, Henry, Advertiser's Bg.
Wonfor, Wm H, Commercial Bg.

MARIETTA.

Central Adv Agcy.
Marietta Adv & Sales Promotion Co.

TOLEDO.

Atherton-Boxley Co, Nashy Bg.
Boyd Adv Co, Spitzer Bg.
Bond Outdoor Adv Co, 1001 Adams.
Elgutter, Maurice, Nichols Bg.
Eoff Weiss Co, Ohio Bg.
Miller Agcy, Nashy Bg.
Roberts Adv Service, Nashy Bg.
Stalker Co, Nashy Bg.

PORTSMOUTH.

Grimes-Peebles Co, Box 620.

SPRINGFIELD.

Progressive Adv Co, Fairbanks Bg (specialty).
Sheehan Adv Co, Mitchell Bg.

OKLAHOMA.

OKLAHOMA CITY.

Keeshen Adv Co, 211 W 2d.

OREGON.

PORTLAND.

Boothford Adv Co, Inc, Broadway Bg.
Couche, Charles E, Dekum Bg.
Deute-Tyler Co, Inc, Dekum Bg.
Hall & Emory, Henry Bg.
Hyskell, Fred H, & Son, Inc, Oregon Bg.
Jerome Adv Co, 19 N 11th.
Provost-Stachli Co, Manchester Bg.
Kirkpatrick, W S, Northwestern Bk Bg.
Reed Adv Co, Selling Bg.

PENNSYLVANIA.

CANONSBURG.

Stanford Agcy, 216 S Central av.

ERIE.

Franklin, Ben, Publicity Co, Box 881.

HARRISBURG.

Atlantic Adv Agcy, Security Trust Bg.
McFarland Publicity Service, Box 676.

JOHNSTOWN.

Johnstown Poster Adv Co, Main.

PITTSBURGH.

Adiraft Agcy, Oliver Bg.
Akin, Wm B, & Co, Oliver Bg.
Arbury, F S, 5507 Elmer.

Rakior, Will, Co, Box 1214.
Blair, J G, Bindley Bg.
Blair Co, 7th av & New Grant.
Central Press Bureau, Wabash Bg.
Cochrane Adv Bureau, Oliver Bg.
Craft, A D, Agcy, Oliver Bg.
Downing, H S, & Co, Park Bg.
Ensign, F A, Agcy, Union Arcade.
Farar Adv Co, Empire Bg.
Foulk, R F, 296 4th av.
Hoyt, Martin L, Union Arcade Bg.
Huggins, U S, Hartes Bg.
Hulley, E B, Union Arcade Bg.
Hurley Agcy, Commonwealth Bg.
Ireland, Arthur E, 405 4th av.
Kaufman Adv Service, Jenkins Arcade Bg.
McShane Co, 332 S Highland av.
McClay's Adv Agcy, 642 Liberty av.
Nordhem, Ivan D, Co, Bessemer Bg (hdqrs N Y).
Penn Adv Co, 126 7th.
Phillips Co, 711 Penn av.
Power, Edw M, Jr, Oliver Bg.
Protzman, Geo F, Co, Union Bk Bg.
Rankin, W W, Co, Oliver Bg.
Rauh, Richard S, First Nat'l Bk Bg.
Russell, Wallace, Empire Bg.
Souders, Scott, Union Bk Bg.
Saville, Henry, Adv Co, 705 5th av.
Triangle Publicity Service, Fulton Bg.
Wright & Dorris, Oliver Bg.

READING.

Dampman, John, Agcy, Colonial Bg.

SCRANTON.

Morse Adv Co, Mears Bg.
Swisher Adv Co, Mears Bg.

WILKES-BARRE.

Sproul Adv Service, People's Bk Bg.

RHODE ISLAND.

PROVIDENCE.

Proffit-Larcher Corp, Journal Bg.
Stafford Agcy, 640 Grosvenor Bg.
SOUTH CAROLINA.

CLINTON.

Jacobs & Co., 10 East Carolina av.

INTERTYPE

The BETTER Machine

You wouldn't buy a motor car without first investigating the different makes and making inquiries among their users.

Don't buy an expensive composing machine without making a similar investigation—especially among users.

Many of your publisher friends are using Intertypes. Ask them.

INTERTYPE CORPORATION

General Offices
50 Court Street BROOKLYN, N. Y.

SOUTH DAKOTA.
BROOKINGS.
Hall, Chas E. Sales & Adv Bureau.
Northwestern Adv Agency.
TENNESSEE.
CHATTANOOGA.
Imperial Adv Agcy, 114 W 7th.
McBryde Adv Agcy, Hamilton Nat'l Bk Bldg.
MEMPHIS.
Gilmore Agcy, Exchange Bg.
Orr, T V, Goodbar Bg.
Raidt & Gorov Adv Agcy, 109 Morgan.
NASHVILLE.
Adcraft Business Bldrs, Stahlman Bg.
American Adv Assn, 186 1/2 4th av.
Anderson Adv Agcy, 417 Church.
Collier, Baron G, Inc, Independent Life Bldg.
Drane, J W, 306 Union.
Independent Adv Co, Independent Life Bg.
Liftwich, Samuel, 215 6th av.
McEwen, W P, 21 L & C Bg.
Scott Adv Co, 201 1/2 Church.
Whitehead & Hoag Co, 214 6th av N.
TEXAS.
BEAUMONT.
Gribben Beck Adv Agcy, Alexander Bg.
Gulf States Adv Agcy.
DALLAS.
Cates Adv Agcy, 1607 1/2 Main.
Chilton Adv Agcy, 1124 Busch Bg.
Collier, B G, Busch Bg.
Loring Adv Agcy, Busch Bg.
Fitzgerald Agcy, Busch Bg.
Lloyd, A L, Adv Co, 3111 Cabell.
McBlair, Geo, Co, S W Life Bg.
Southwestern Adv Co, Southwestern Life Bldg.
Wynne, F A, Adv Agcy, Box 89.
EL PASO.
Leonard, Volney B.
FORT WORTH.
Simmons, A C, Byers Block.
Texas Adv Co.
HOUSTON.
Ballard, O O, 507 Beatty Bg.
Byram Co, 1st Nat'l Bk Bg.
Gribben Beck Adv Agcy, Chronicle Bg.
UTAH.
OGDEN.
Ogden Adv Agcy, David Eccles Bg.
Smith, W J, David Eccles Bg.
Richards, L W, care A L Seoville Press.
Zuppann, W E, Adv Agcy, David Eccles Bldg.
SALT LAKE CITY.
Glade Efficiency Service, Boston Bg.
Gillham, L S, T Ben Meldrum Co, At-las Bg.
Hubbard-Shankey, 224 Atlas Block.
McAlister, Stevens, Wallace, Inc, Ness Bg.
Shankey, A, Agcy, Keith Emporium Bg.
VIRGINIA.
ROFPOLE.
Ayers, Allen, Adv Serv & Counsel, Paul Gale, Greenwood Bg.
Virginia Adv Service Co, Monticello Arcade.
RICHMOND.
Dapprich, R, American Nat'l Bk Bg.
Freeman Agcy, Mutual Bg.
Lindemann, S O, Corp, Mutual Bg.
Page, C W, Co., Amer Nat'l Bk Bg.
Staples & Staples, Mutual Bg.
WASHINGTON.
SEATTLE.
Altnow Adv Co, Central Bg.
Coast Service, Maritime Bg.
Ford Co, Times Bg.
Monson Adv Co, Arctic Bg.
Wood & Reber, Inc, 915 Henry Bg.
Woodman & Mahon Adv Service, New Times Bg.

THE KANSAS CITY STAR
MORNING—EVENING—SUNDAY
Each Issue
Over 200,000 Circulation

A Canvass of Homes

in one of the choicest residential sections of the City of Beautiful Homes—LOS ANGELES—showed the delivered to 35 out of 38 of them. A map of this section showing the assessed valuation of each home and its location will be sent on request.

LOS ANGELES EXAMINER

This showing is typical of the way the largest Morning and Sunday Newspaper in the Southwest covers the good homes of its community.

Circulation—Homes—Influence are yours when you advertise in the

M. D. HUNTON
American Circle Building
NEW YORK CITY

W. H. WILSON
Hearst Building
CHICAGO, ILL.

TACOMA.
Blasau, John, 1924 N Oakes.
Charich Adv Co, Equitable Bg.
SPOKANE.
Sverrson, Alfred H, Adv Agcy, Peyton Bldg.
WEST VIRGINIA.
PARKERSBURG.
Smoot Agcy, Union Trust Bg.
WHEELING.
Moore, Harold, 11th and Chapline.
CHARLESTON.
Nemeyer, Paul, & Co.
WISCONSIN.
MILWAUKEE.
Aultman & Locke, Inc, 224 2d.
Brown & Bigelow, Alhambra Bg.
Bergs, F, 25 Martin.
Burns, B K, Majestic Bg.
Hall Co, 707 Merrill Bg.
Hardy, H C, Herold Bg.
Heming, Harry H, 264 28th.
Johnston, R R, Merchants' & Mfrs' Bk Bldg.
Kissam, Geo., & Co, M & M Bk Bg.
Klau-von Pietersom-Dunlop, Inc, 131 2d.
Marsh, Geo H, 1st Nat'l Bk Bg.
Motion Adv Serv, Caswell Bg.
Northwestern Adv Co, Watkins Bg.
Nat'l Adv Co, Culby-Abbott Bg.
Reliance Adv Agcy, M & M Bk Bg.
Walters Co, Ry Exch Bg.
Weinbaum, N A, Motion Adv Service, Caswell Bldg.

LAKE MILLS.
Stickie, Geo S, Hoyt Bg.
BACINE.
Western Adv Agcy.
GREEN BAY.
Wisconsin Publicity Bureau, New House Bg.
HAWAII.
HONOLULU.
Frazier, Chas R, Co, Hawaiian Tr Bg.

CANADIAN.
The following firms and individuals are doing business in Canada as advertising agents, although not on the official list of the Canadian Press Association, Inc.:
BRITISH COLUMBIA.
VANCOUVER.
Callopy-Holland Adv Co, Ltd, 486 Hastings, W.
Carswell, Wm H, 203 N W Trust Bg.
VICTORIA.
Victoria Serv, Stobart-Pearse Bldg, Yates.
NEW BRUNSWICK.
SACKVILLE.
Tribune Adv Agcy.
ROTHESBAY.
Maritime Adv Agcy, Ltd.

NOVA SCOTIA.
HALIFAX.
Curry, Thos H, Roy Bg.
Wallace Agcy, 17 Roy Bg.
ONTARIO.
TORONTO.
McCann, H K, Co, Inc, 56 Church (hdqrs N Y).
Mason Agcy, 18 Toronto.
Sullivan, J, Findlay, Dominion Bk Bg.
QUEBEC.
MONTREAL.
Benison Service, 243 Beaver Hall Hill.
Cluxton, L G, 17 St John.
General Adv Agcy, 23 Craig W.
SASKATCHEWAN.
REGINA.
Western Agcy, 1006 McCallum Hill Bg.

HANFF-METZGER TO PLACE BIG MOVIE ADVERTISING.

Plans completed for the big national advertising campaign on Paramount and Artcraft Motion Pictures, noted in THE FOURTH ESTATE on September 15, show that it will be on a scale as extensive as that of some of the most widely nationally advertised commercial products.

Announcement was made this week by John C. Flinn, director of advertising and publicity for the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, that he has completed arrangements with Hanff-Metzger, Inc., the New York advertising agency, for handling the account.

It is stated that the newspaper campaign will be carried into more than eighty cities and appear regularly throughout the year in more than three hundred of the leading newspapers. More than a dozen of the big national magazines will also carry the advertisements.

AN ALLEGANY MEETING.
The Allegany County (N. Y.) Publishers' Association met last week at Rushford, guests of Harlan H. Woods, editor of the Spectator. There was a round table discussion of job printing and advertising prices. A uniform rate was recommended.

Frank A. Crumb of the Alfred Sun is president of the association and Elmer E. Conrath of Cuba is secretary and treasurer.

TWELVE-PAGE MOVIE AD.
A twelve-page-section advertisement of the new Newark Theater carried by the Newark (N. J.) Star-Eagle is believed by J. J. Fiske, the newspaper's advertising manager, to be the biggest ad ever published by any newspaper for a single motion picture house. It appeared in the issue of September 22.

CHANGES LOCATION.
The Alliance (Neb.) News will move to Antioch.

TIMES PLAZA
THE CENTER OF BROOKLYN
The Federal Authorities have recognized Times Plaza as the business center of Brooklyn by renaming Post Office Station L "TIMES PLAZA STATION."

FROM THIS CENTER
THE
BROOKLYN DAILY TIMES
REACHES ALL OF BROOKLYN AND LONG ISLAND.

FOREIGN ADVERTISING AGENCIES.

COMPLETE LIST REVISED TO DATE AND COVERING THE ENTIRE WORLD OUTSIDE OF NORTH AMERICA.

Every possible effort has been made by THE FOURTH ESTATE to make this list perfect, but it is hoped readers will allow for the constant changes being brought about by the war and understand that changes may have occurred since our latest advices from Europe. The British and French lists are absolutely up-to-date.

In the addresses below the word "street" is omitted. Where the plain name appears—as Fleet, Eastcheap, King William, etc.—it refers to a street, and should be inserted in correspondence.

ENGLAND.

LONDON.

Abbott, W., Ltd., 28 Eastcheap, E. C.
 Abrahams, A. E., Ltd., 78 Romford rd., E.
 Adcraft Studio, Thanet House, Temple Bar, W. C.
 Agency Havas, 118 Cheapside, E. C.
 Aldridge, Fred., 26 Paternoster Row, E. C.
 Algar, F., 11 Clement's Lane, E. C.
 Alliance Ad. Agency, 98-94 Chancery Lane, W. C.
 Anderson, Robt., & Co., 14 King William W. C.
 Andrews & Co., Byron House, 86 Fleet, E. C.
 Anglo-American Ad Co., 29 Essex, W. C.
 Anglo-Continental Agency, 30 Charing Cross rd., W. C.
 Apex Press, Ltd., 30 Sicilian House, Southampton Row, W.
 Associated Adv. Co., Donington House, 30 Norfolk, W. C.
 Barker, Charles, Sons, White Lion Court, Cornhill, E. C.
 Barker, J., 3 Castle Court, Birchin Lane, E. C.
 Bates, A., & Co., 184 Fleet, E. C.
 Baxter & Son, 29 Paternoster Row, E. C.
 Bench, T. C., Graham House, Tudor, E. C.
 Benn & Cronin, Ltd., 11 Borough High London Bridge.
 Benson, S. H., Ltd., Kingsway Hall, Kingsway.
 Black's Ad Agency, 51 New Oxford, W.
 Brindley, T. M., 6 Ludgate Circus.
 Brockie, Haslam & Co., 23-6 Fleet, E. C.
 Broughton, E. J., 6 Racquet Court, Fleet, E. C.
 Browne, C. A. G., 170 Fleet, E. C.
 Browne, Thomas, & Co., 7 Chichester Rents, Chancery Lane, W. C.
 Browne, T. B., Ltd., 143 Queen Victoria, E. C.
 Burton, P. C., 34 Norfolk, Strand, W. C.
 Carlton Auxiliary, Carlton House, Great Queen, W. C.
 Canton Ad Agency, Chun House, Surrey, Strand, W. C.
 Central News, Ltd., & New Bridge, Ludgate Circus, E. C.
 China Publicity Bureau, 42 Great Russell, W.
 Clarkson, A. H., Ltd., 119 Fleet, E. C.
 Clark, Samson & Co., Ltd., 40 Great Portland, W.
 Clarke, Son & Platt, Ltd., 317 High Holborn, W. C.
 Clayton, Chas. D., Ltd., 52 Shaftesbury av. W.
 Cleaver & Co., 68 St. Martin's Lane, W. C.
 Colman, Thomas, & Co., Granville House, Arundel, Strand, W. C.
 Courtenay, J. W., Ltd., Amberley House, Norfolk, Strand.
 Cowie & Co., 17 Gresham, E. C.
 Crawford, W. S., Ltd., Craven House, Kingsway, W. C.
 Cromley & Co., 57A Coleman, E. C.
 Cutting & Underwood, Ltd., 10 Norfolk, W. C.
 Dale, Reynolds & Co., Ltd., 46 Cannon, E. C.
 Davis & Co., 23 Finch Lane, Cornhill, E. C.
 Davis, S., & Co., 30-31 St. Swithin's Lane, E. C.
 Dawson, Wm., & Sons, Ltd., Cannon House, Bream's Bgs, E. C.
 Deacon, Samuel, & Co., 7 Leadenhall, E. C.
 De Lara, M. H., 48-2 Chancery Lane, W. C.
 De Maid, W. H., 24 Paternoster Row, E. C.
 De Rook, Johnson & Co., Wellesley rd., Querna Crescent, N. W.
 Derrick, Paul E., Ad Agency, 34 Norfolk, Strand, W. C.
 Dixon, Thomas, 103 Oxford, W.
 Dorland Agency, Ltd., 16 Regent, S. W.
 Elliott (Stanley) Ad Agency, 83-85 Farringdon, E. C.
 Erwood, W. L., Ltd., 30-32 Fleet, E. C.
 Evans, Robt., & Co., Sardinia House, Kingsway, W. C.
 Exchange Telegraph Co., 17 Cornhill, E. C.
 Express Publicity Co., Egypt House, New Broad, E. C.
 Eyre, John, & Son, Finsbury Pavement House, E. C.
 Far Eastern Ad Agency, Ltd., Craven House, Kingsway, W. C.
 Felton's Ad Agency, Ltd., 35 Church Shaftesbury av.
 Francis, C. J., & Co., 181 Fleet, E. C.
 Fisher, Eden, & Co., 95 Fenchurch, E. C.
 Fraser's Ad Agency, 51 Great Queen, W. C.
 Freeman Bros., 9 Fleet, E. C.
 Fortin, J., Agency, 281-3 Strand, W. C.
 Free & Howard, Ltd., 30-32 Ludgate Hill, E. C.
 Freer & Young, Ltd., Hampden House, Kingsway, W. C.

Gale & Polden, Ltd., 2 Amen Corner, Paternoster Row, E. C.
 Gibbs, Smith & Co., 10 High Holborn, W. C.
 Giles, 146 Fleet, E. C.
 Glendinning & Co., 90 Cannon, E. C.
 Godbold, E. H., Roseberry House, 8 Breams Bgs, Chancery Lane.
 Goldsmith, Walter, & Co., 48 New Oxford, W. C.
 Gordon's Ad Agency, 3 Adelphi Terrace, Strand, W. C.
 Gordon & Goch, 15 St. Bride, E. C.
 Goring, J. H., Graham House, Tudor, E. C.
 Gould & Co., 11 Henrietta, W. C.
 Gould & Portmans, Ltd., 54 New Oxford, W.
 Grant's Press Agency, 10 Drapers Gardens, E. C.
 Green, Henry, 120 Chancery Lane, E. C.
 Greenly Ad Service, 37-38 Strand, London, W. C.
 Griffiths & Millington, Ltd., 22 Wellington, Strand, W. C.
 Gumachius, Ltd., 11 Arundel, Strand, W. C.
 Haddon, John, & Co., 10 Salisbury, Salisbury sq., E. C.
 Hannaford & Goodman, Ltd., 57-59 Ludgate Hill, E. C.
 Hargreaves, Ltd., 18 Victoria, E. C.
 Hardy, Roy (Advertisers' Service Bureau), 14 Woodstock, Oxford, W.
 Harman Ad Co., Ltd., 170 Strand, W. C.
 Harper, Peter, 20 New Bridge, E. C.
 Harrison & Sons, 45-47 St. Martin's Lane, W. C.
 Hart's Ad Office, Maltravers House, 6 Arundel, W. C.
 Harvey Bros., 171 Queen Victoria, E. C.
 Hazell, Watson & Viney, Ltd., 52 Long Acre, W. C.
 Higham, Chas. F., Ltd., Imperial House, Kingsway, W. C.
 Hill, Walter, & Co., Ltd., 67 Southampton Row, W. C.
 Holman, Laurence Adv. Serv., Kingsway House, Kingsway, W. C.
 Hooper & Batty, Ltd., 15 Wallbrook, Mansion House, E. C.
 Hopton, Hadley, 180 Fleet st., E. C.
 Horncastle's, Ltd., 61 Cheapside, E. C.
 Hutchings & Mills, Ltd., 181A Strand, W. C.
 Hyams, Arthur, 10 Essex, W. C.
 Jarvis, Lemuel James, 13 Norfolk st., Strand, W. C.
 Judd, Walter, Ltd., 97 Gresham, E. C.
 Keats Ad Agency, 29 Halton rd., N.
 Kelly, George, & Co., 24 Tophill, S. W.
 Keymer, D. J., & Co., 5 Whitefriars, E. C.
 Keymer, Wm. J., & Co., 80 Fenchurch E. C.
 King, J., & Co., 44 St. Martin's Lane, W. C.
 King, J. G., & Son, 10 Bolt court, Fleet, E. C.
 Knight, R. A., & Co., 48 Watling, E. C.
 Langley & Sons, Ltd., Euston Bgs., N. W.
 Laughton & Co., Ltd., 3 Wellington, Strand, W. C.
 Layton, C. E., 66 Farringdon, E. C.
 Leathwait & Simmons, & Birchin Lane, E. C.
 Life, John H., Ltd., 4 Ludgate Circus, E. C.
 London Ad Co., 81 & 81A Rosebery av., E. C.
 London & Suburban Ad Co., Wardour st., (Dancey Yard), W. C.
 London & Provincial Ad Agency, Ltd., 4 Oxford, W.
 London Press Exchange, 15 Strand, W. C.
 Longman Agency, 42 Ludgate Hill, E. C.
 MacDuff & Co., Ltd., 10 Norfolk, W. C.
 Manifold, Mason & Co., 14 Cockspur, S. W.
 Mason, Frank, & Co., Ltd., Maxwell House, 11 Arundel, W. C.
 Mather & Crowther, Ltd., 10-13 New Bridge st., E. C.
 Matthews, Alex., & Co., 98-94 Chancery Lane, E. C.
 May, J. E., 48 Fleet st., E. C.
 Melrose, C., 1 Mitre Court, E. C.
 Metcham & Sons, Abbey Bgs, Princess st., Westminster; 33 Clement's Lane, Lombard, E. C.
 Miall, George C., 64 Fleet, E. C.
 Milton Ad Agency, Ltd., 30-38 Southampton, Strand.
 Mitchell, C., & Co., Ltd., Mitchell House, 1 & 2 Snow Hill, E. C.
 Morrison, J. K., 30-32 Ludgate Hill, E. C.
 Morris & Co., 16 St. James Park, Croydon.
 Muller, Blatchly & Co., Ltd., 84 Victoria, E. C.
 Nelson, C. E., 19 Laurence Poultny Lane, E. C.
 Neyroud & Sons, Ltd., Regent House, Kingsway, W. C.

Notting, W. H., & A., 18 Newington Causeway, S. E.
 Osborne-Peacock Co., Ltd., 24 Holborn, E. C.
 Page-Davis Ad Agency, 131 Oxford, W.
 Perry & Co., Pinner's Hall, Austin Friars, E. C.
 Partington Ad Co., Victoria Embankment, E. C.
 Pool, Chas., & Co., Ltd., 90-92 Fleet, E. C.
 Potter, Frederick E., Ltd., Koh-i-noor House, Kingsway, W. C.
 Pratt & Co., Ltd., 9 Essex, Strand, W. C.
 Press & Artistic Agency, Ltd., Chichester Bg., Chancery Lane, W. C.
 Publicity, Ltd., 28 Mark Lane, E. C.
 Purbrook & Eyres, 86 Old, E. C.
 Radford, George, 13 York Bg., Adelphi, Strand.
 Ratcliffe, Dunbar & Co., 38 Gracechurch, E. C.
 Rees, H. Powell, Ltd., 96 Fetter Lane, E. C.
 Reid, E. J., & Co., 49-50 Watling, E. C.
 Reliable Adv. & Addressing Agency, Bucknall st., New Oxford, W. C.
 Reuter's Ad Agency, 35 Old Jewry, E. C.
 Reynell & Son, 44 Chancery Lane, W. C.
 Robinson, F. W., 28 Shoe Lane, E. C.
 Rogers, L. V., & Co., 353 Strand, W. C.
 Russian Adv. Agency, Ltd., 350 Strand, W. C.
 Seward, Baker & Co., 27 Chancery Lane, E. C.
 Sears, F. W., 66 Chandos, W. C.
 Scriven, H. W., 66 Ludgate Hill.
 Seaward Business & Ad Consultancy, H. R. Craven House, Kingsway, W. C.
 Sella, Ltd., 166-168 Fleet, E. C.
 Sharland & Co., Eldon st., House, E. C.
 Sharrow & Thatchers, 124 Holborn, E. C.
 Shelley, G. H., 38 King William, W. C.
 Skinner, Walter R., 18 Clement's Lane, E. C.
 Smartad Service, 2-3 Ave Maria Lane, E. C.
 Smith, Dunne & Moore, Caxton House, Westminster, S. W.
 Smith, James, Ltd., 61 Moorgate, E. C.
 Smith, R. Frost, & Co., 65 Finsbury Pavement, E. C.
 Smith, W. H. & Son, 95 Fetter Lane, E. C.
 Smith's Ad Agency, Ltd., 100 Fleet, E. C.
 Soltman, W. R., 64 Chancery Lane, E. C.
 South American Ad & Gen'l Agency, 512 Imperial House, Kingsway, W. C.
 Southcombe Aw Agency, W. J., 167 Strand, W. C.
 Spiers' Service, 44 Fleet, E. C.
 Spiers & Pond, Ltd., 35 New Bridge.
 Spottiswoode, Dixon & Hunting, Ltd., Kingsway Hall, Kingsway, W. C.
 Spriggs Ad Agency, 21 Paternoster sq., E. C.
 Steele's Ad Service, Norfolk House, Norfolk, Strand.
 Street, G., & Co., Ltd., 30 Cornhill, E. C.; 5 Searle, W. C.
 Taylor, Chas. & Co., 30 Fleet, E. C.
 Telenews (1914), Ltd., 6 Broad st. pl., E. C.
 Throver, S., 30 Imperial Bgs, Ludgate Circus, E. C.
 Truscott, J., & Sons, Ltd., Suffolk Lane, E. C.
 Van, Alex., Ltd., 31 Craven, Strand, W. C.
 Vernon, C., & Sons, Ltd., 118-19 Newgate, E. C.
 Vickers, J. W., & Co., 5 Nichols Lane, E. C.
 Walker, C. J., 94 Coleman, E. C.
 Walker's Ad Agency, 7 Union Court, E. C.
 Walsh & Storr, Temple Chambers, E. C.
 Watkins & Osmond, 2 Creed Lane, E. C.
 Watson, R., 6 Bouverie, E. C.
 Weiner, J., Bank Bgs, Kingsway, W. C.
 Westend Ad Agency, Ltd., 193-195 Oxford, W. C.
 White, R. P., & Son, 33 Fleet, E. C.
 Wilkes, Jeffrey & Co., 29 Ludgate Hill, E. C.
 Willing & Co., 363-364 Gray's Inn rd., W. C.
 Willing, Jas. Jr., Ltd., 126 Strand, W. C.
 Willmore, J. & Co., 1-3 Chiswell, Finsbury.
 Wills, Ltd., Lincoln House, Holborn, W. C.
 Wilson, A. J., & Co., Ltd., 164 Clerkenwell rd., E. C.
 Wilson, Fred., 101 Hatton Garden, E. C.
 Wynn & Wynn, 44 Theobald's rd., Gray's Inn, W. C.

BRISTOL.
 Blackford & Co., Ltd., 29 Queen sq.
 Bristol Free Press & Adv. Co., Ltd., 30 Baldwin.
 Davies, W. W., Broad St Chambers, Broad.
 Jones Brothers, 44 Queen's rd., Clifton.
 Mountevens, F. G., 1 Bristol Chambers, Nicholas st.
 Partridge & Love, Ltd., Broadmead.
 Pole, Wm., & Co., 10 Clare.
 Warne, Pringley & Warne, 80 Baldwin.

COVENTRY.
 H. P. Adv. Service, 84 W. Orchard.
 Mills & Co., 34 Earl.

HALIFAX.
 Kexo Co., 6 Central.

HOVE.
 King, Henry, & Co., 94 Church rd.

LIVERPOOL.
 Goddard, Walker & Brown, Ltd., Scale Lane.
 Morrison's Ad Agency, 74 Lowgate.

LEEDS.
 Ensely, J. H., 99 Hill Top Mount.
 Jackson's Ad Agency, 48A Briggate.
 Leeds Ad Co., Ltd., 18 Park Row.
 Morrison, H. C., Bishopgate.
 Sella, Ltd., Prudential Bg.
 West Riding A. B. C. Pub. Co., Ltd., 10 New Station.

LEICESTER.
 Winton Caven Co., Ltd., 30 Halford.

LIVERPOOL.
 Bale, Stewart, 53 Lord.
 Birchall, Chas., Ltd., 17 James.
 General Ad Agency, Castle st.
 Lee & Nightingale, 15 N. John.
 Littlebury Bros., 3 Crosshall.
 Liverpool Publicity Co., 16 Lord.
 Mason, Frank, & Co., Ltd., Mersey Rail way Bgs, 18 James.
 Meredith, Mark, 67 Dale.
 Kendall's Ad Agency, Walker's Bgs, 49 Whitechapel.
 Smith, Geo. J., & Co., 61 Lord.
 Vernon, C., & Sons, Ltd., 56-58 South Castle.

MANCHESTER.
 Ashburner, H. S. & J. A., 10 Piccadilly.
 Brown, T. B., Ltd., 71 Market.
 Collins, James, & Co., Ltd., 4 Southgate.
 Commercial Ad Service, Ltd., Trevelyan Bgs, Corporation st.
 Cowley & Co., Ltd., 11 Chapel Walks.
 Haddon, John, & Co.
 Heywood, John, Ltd., Deansgate.
 Hobson, Charles W., 24 Market pl.
 Kershaw, Thos., Ltd., 36 Fairfield.
 Littlebury Bros., Guardian Chambers Blackfriars st.
 Newby-Cheney Ad Service, 92 Market.
 Osborne-Peacock Co., Ltd., County Bgs, Cannon.
 Pratt & Co., Ltd., 57 Market.
 Sabin, Wm. E., 35 Arcade Chambers, St. Mary's Gate.
 Sella, Ltd., 93 Market.
 Universal Ad Co., Ltd., 2 John Dalton.
 Varney, John, & Co., 33 King.

MIDDLESBOROUGH.
 Kidd, Ernest W., 71 Albert rd.

NEWCASTLE.
 Gray, Thos., & Co., 14 W. Clayton.
 Northern Press Agency, Emerson Bg.
 Reid, Andrew, & Co., Ltd., Alkenaside Hill.

NORWICH.
 Hird, B. Whitworth, Ltd., 18 Colgate.
 Vince, H. J., 25 Exchange.

NOTTINGHAM.
 Holdsworth, E. Arthur, 11 Percival rd.

PICKERING.
 Boaks & Sons, Market pl., Printing Works.

PLYMOUTH.
 Butcher's Ad Agency, 18 Frankfort.

ONE HUNDRED
 DAILY NEWSPAPERS
 NOW USE THE THOMPSON
 TYPECASTER
 Complete Non-Distribution System—
 Type, Leads, Slugs.
 Costs $500 less than any other and does more.

Thompson TYPE MACHINING CO.
 223 West Erie Street 38 Park Row
 CHICAGO NEW YORK

PRESTON.

North of Eng. Ad Co., 5 Victoria Chambers.
READING.

Grantham, A. H., & Co., Valpy.

SHEFFIELD.

Mays, C. A., 1 Springview rd, Crookesmoor.

SOUTHPORT.

Blosson, Wm, 85 Leyland rd.
Lif. W. Post Office.

SPILSBY.

Banks & Son, Market pl.

STOCKPORT.

Holdsforth, E. Arthur, 303 Wellington rd. N.

YORK.

Williamson's Agency, 32 Concy.

WALES.

Mason, Frank, & Co., Ltd, Western Mail Chambers, St. Mary st.

CONWAY.

North Wales Agency, Silver Chambers.

SCOTLAND.

Paterson's Ad Agency, 48 Mill.

DUNDEE.

Wilson Ad Co., Ltd, 84 Commercial rd.

DUPPERLINE.

Paterson's Ad Agency, 3 Abbey Park pl.

EDINBURGH.

Keith & Co., 43 George.
Robertson & Scott, 31 Hanover.

Simons, Fred, 3 Saint David, N.
Slaughter & Co., 25 North Bridge.

Northern Adv Agency, 59 George.

GLASGOW.

Brown, R. G., 166 Buchanan.
Browning, John, & Co., Ltd, 12 Bal-mural Crescent, Crosshill.

Dalroas, Ltd, 83 Mitchell.

Duke, J. Stirling, 12 Waterloo.

Freer & Howard, Ltd, 38 Bath.

Glasgow Agency, 80 Renfield.

Gray, Thos. & Co., 97 Bishop, Port Dundas.

Howat Complete Ad Service, 113 Bath.

MacDuff & Co., Ltd, 94 Hope.

Macrae, Paul, 98 Hope.

M. Murrie, John, 11 Bothwell.

Mitchell's Agency, 116 Vincent.

Menzies, P. A., 64 Gordon.

Munro, Henry, 38 Bath.

No. British Ad Co., Ltd, 87 Union.

Osborne, Peacock, Ltd, 83 Gordon.

Porteous, W., & Co., 15 S. Exchange pl.

Rees, H. Powell, Ltd, 65 Renfield.

Seringhouse, John, 13 St. Vincent pl.

Sells, Ltd, 64 Gordon.

Sharp, A. F., & Co., 14 Royal Exchange sq.

Slaughter & Co., Dundas.

Watson, Chas. P., 33 Renfield.

Wilson Ad Co., Ltd, 82 Jamaica.

AYR.

Browning, John, & Co., Ltd, 60 Carrick st, New Pavilion Bg.

IRELAND.

BELFAST.

Burton, P. C., & Co., Ltd, Kingscourt, Wellington pl.

DUBLIN.

Eason & Son, Ltd, 174 Great Brunswick.

Kenny's Ad Agency, 65 Middle Abbey.

O'Keefe, F. B., 10 D'Olier.

Parker, C. A., 43 Dawson.

Wilson, Hartnell & Co., Commercial Bgs.

FRANCE.

PARIS.

Agence Havas, 3 Place de la Bourse.

Agence Parisienne de Publicite, 10 Rue Drouot.

Agence Par, 23 Rue St. George's.

Arrance, Jacques W., 48 Rue de Caumartin.

Berthiaume, Eugene, 6 Rue du Rocher.

Birch, Theodore, 46 Rue St. Placide.

Blondel, La Rougery, 7 Rue Saint-Lazare.

Bonard, Maurice, 8 Rue Lallier.

Browne, T. B., Ltd, 34 Rue de Louvre.

Chambre Syndicale de la Publicite, 15 Rue du Faubourg.

Montmartre (This is really what would be termed in London or America an association of advertising men).

Compagnie Generale de Publicite Parisienne (Regie du Matin), 10 Boulevard Poissoniere.

Courier, 19 Rue du Rocher.

Danvers, Adrien, 42 Rue Rochechouart.

Dauriac et Dupon, 17 Bld des Batignolles.

Depas, Edmond, 189 Rue Legendre.

Dergout, 15 Quai Voltaire.

Dorland Agency, 31 Bis, Rue du Faubourg, Montmartre.

Echo de Paris-Publicite (Regie de l'Echo de Paris), 20 Rue Lepelletier.

Ferrand, 28 Rue Guddo-de-Mauroy.

Flachon, Rene, 25 Bld Poissoniere.

Fortin, 3 Rue Geoffroy-Marie.
Fortin, Jules & Co., 3 Rue Geoffroy-Marie.

Franco-English Commercial Agency, 3 Place de la Bourse.

Hemet, 6 Rue Grange Bateliere.

Hopton, Hadley, Blvd Hausmann.

Huguet de Pallissaux et Cie (Journaux Illustres), 11 Boulevard des Italiens.

Huret, 26 Rue Saulnier.

Jones, John F., & Co., Societe Europeenne de Publicite.

Journal Publicite (Regie du Journal), 11 Boulevard des Italiens.

Lange, Geo., Societe Europeenne de Publicite.

Levrance & Cerf, 3 Place de la Bourse.

Letellier d'Aufrennes, 6 Rue Favart.

Levy, Lucien, 31 Rue d'Amsterdam.

Maillard, 5 Rue du Havre.

Moderne Publicite, 3 Rue du Havre.

Office D'Annonces (Regie du Petit Parisien), 29 Boulevard des Italiens.

Office de Publicite (Metropolitain), 9 Place de la Bourse.

Paris-Centralisation, 41 Bld Hausmann.

de Plas et Alexandre, 7 Rue Clauzel.

Robin, Louis, 60 Rue de la Rochefoucauld.

Rousselle, 32 Rue de la Victoire.

Societe Europeenne de Publicite, Anciennes Maisons John-Jones Mery et Geo. Lange, 10 Rue de la Victoire.

Societe Generale des Annonces, Capital Vingt millions de frs Journaux de Paris et Province, 5 Place de la Bourse.

Societe de Publicite, 6 Place de la Bourse.

Syndicate Central de Publicite, 8 Place de la Bourse.

Wolfsohn, Paul, 5 Rue St. Vincent-de-Paul.

PROVINCE.

BORDEAUX, MARSEILLE, NICE, NANTES, LYONS.—Agence Havas.

GERMANY.

BERLIN.

Daube & Co., Leipziger str. 31-33, W.

Export Agency of Chicago.

Haasenstain & Vogler, Wasserthor str. 50, S. 42.

Moase, Rudolf, S. W., Jerusalem Strasse, 46-49.

BRELAU, CHEMIZE, COLOGNE—Haasenstain & Vogler (hdqrs. Berlin).

CREFIELD.

Haasenstain & Vogler.

Hopton, Hadley, 119 Hoch str.

DRESDEN, FRANKFURT, FREIBURG, HALB—Haasenstain & Vogler (hdqrs. Berlin).

HAMBURG.

Haasenstain & Vogler.

Moss, Rudolf.

HANNOVER, KARLSRUHE, KASSEL, LUDWIG, MANNHEIM, MUNICH, NEUBURG, NUREMBERG, KOBLENZ, LEIPZIG, STRASSBURG, STUTTGART—Haasenstain & Vogler (hdqrs. Berlin).

SWEDEN.

STOCKHOLM, GOTHENBURG, MALMO—Aktiebolaget S. Gumaeli Anonsbyr.

DENMARK.

COPENHAGEN.

Wolff, Aug. L., & Co.

HOLLAND.

AMSTERDAM.

Hopton, Hadley, 23 Heerenracht.

Nunes, Max E., Central Ad Bureau, N. Z., Voorburgwal, 230-232.

Netherlands-India Publicity Bureau, N. Z., Voorburgwal, 234.

Van Win, S., Broenburgwal, 15.

Societe Europeenne de Publicite.

BELGIUM.

BRUSSELS.

Decerf, Louis, Agence Generale de Publicite, Blvd Anspach, 159.

Dorland Agency, 3 Regent.

General Agency, 40-42 Blvd du Nord.

Hopton, Hadley, 48 Ave Albert.

Lebegue, J., & Cie, 46 Rue de la Madeleine.

Sanders, Louis, & Marcel Spinette, 10 Rue du Tyrol.

CHARLEBOI.

Sanders, Louis, & Marcel Spinette, 10 Rue de Marchienne.

PORTUGAL.

PORTO.

Raul de Caldevilla & Cia-R, 31 de Janeiro 105.

SPAIN.

Neyroud & Sons, Ltd, (office London, Regent House, Kingsway, W. C.)

BARCELONA.

Haasenstain & Vogler.

SWITZERLAND.

Neyroud & Sons, Ltd, (Office London, Regent House, Kingsway, W. C.)

BASEL, BRUNN, BURGDOFF, CHAUX-DE-FONDS, CHUR—Haasenstain & Vogler (hdqrs. Berlin).

FRENCH SWITZERLAND.

Franco-English Commercial Agency, office in France, 3 Place Nigier, Lyon.

GENEVA, GLARUS, LAUSANNE—Haasenstain & Vogler (hdqrs. Berlin).

LUGANO.

Haasenstain & Vogler (hdqrs. Berlin).

Tintner's, Gustavus, Agency.

LUCERNE, MONTREUX, PORTERTRUY, SOLOTHURN, ST. GALL, ST. IMIER, ZURICH—Haasenstain & Vogler (hdqrs. Berlin).

ITALY.

Dorland Agency, office in London, 16 Regent, S. W.

Franco-English Commercial Agency, office in France, 3 Place Nigier, Lyon.

Neyroud & Sons, Ltd, (Office London, Regent House, Kingsway, W. C.)

Regent House, Kingsway, W. C.

BOLOGNE, FLORENCE, GENOA, MILAN, NAPLES, PATERNO—Haasenstain & Vogler (hdqrs. Berlin).

ROME.

Dorland Agency.

Haasenstain & Vogler (hdqrs. Berlin).

RUSSIA, VIENNA—Haasenstain & Vogler (hdqrs. Berlin).

AUSTRIA HUNGARY.

BUDAPEST, INNSBRUCK, PRAGUE, BRICHENBERG, VIENNA—Haasenstain & Vogler (hdqrs. Berlin).

TURKEY.

CONSTANTINOPLE.

Haasenstain & Vogler (hdqrs. Berlin).

RUSSIA.

Neyroud, Ltd, (office in London, Regent House, Kingsway, W. C.)

Russian Ad Agency, Ltd, office in London, 359 Strand, W. C.

WARSAW.

Haasenstain & Vogler.

PETROGRAD.

Markowsky, D. J., Adv Agency, Neskzy, 11.

INDIA.

Keymer, D. J., & Co., Ltd, offices in London, 3 Whitefriars, Fleet.

Keymer, W. J., & Co., office in London, 80 Fenchurch, E. C.

Wheeler, H. A., & Co. (office in London, 119 Temple Chambers, Temple av., E. C.)

CALCUTTA.

Alliance Ad Aarn, Ltd, of London, England.

Griffiths Ad Agency, of London, England.

CHINA.

SHANGHAI.

China Publicity Co., 21 Pouchow rd; office also in London.

Far Eastern Ad Agency, Ltd; office in London, Craven House, Kingsway, W. C.

Harvey's Ad & Billposting Co., 11A Nan-king rd.

PEKING.

Far Eastern Ad Agency, Ltd; office in London, Craven House, Kingsway, W. C.

SIAM.

BANGKOK.

Far Eastern Ad Agency, Ltd; office in London, Craven House, Kingsway, W. C.

FEDERATED MALAY STATES.

IPON, KUALA LUMPUR, PENANG, SINGAPORE—Far Eastern Ad Agency, Ltd (hdqrs. London, Craven House, Kingsway, W. C.)

JAPAN.

KOBE, TOKYO, YOKOHAMA—Far Eastern Ad Agency, Ltd (hdqrs. London, Craven House, Kingsway, W. C.)

AFRICA.

MOROCCO.

British Commercial Agency for Morocco; office in London, 134 Cannon, E. C.

EGYPT.

Express Publicity Co.; office in London, Egypt House, New Broad, E. C.

Societe Orientale de Publicite; office in London, Regent House, Kingsway, W. C.

SOUTH AFRICA.

Carlton Service, Ltd, Cape Town.

Direct Ad. Co., Cape Town.

Haddon, John, & Co., Cape Town.

South African Ad. Contractors, Ltd, Whitehall, Cape Town.

London Newspaper Service, Kimberly.

AUSTRALIA.

MELBOURNE.

Gordon & Gutch, Ltd., 124 Queen.

Walker & Welford, 46 Market.

SYDNEY.

Haddon, John, & Co., 22a George.

Burke, Walter, Challin House, Moore.

Cowdry, H., 24 Moore.

Gordon & Gutch, Pitt.

Miller Adv Co., Dixon Bg, Pitt.

Myer Bros, Dakin House, George.
Smythe, Arthur, & Sons, Jamieson.
Weston Co, Chamber of Commerce Bg, George.

White, A. N. 316 George.

NEW ZEALAND.

DUNEDIN.

Bailey & Milburn, 17 New Zealand Express Co. Bg.

Wright, J. Inglis, Stoke Bgs, Princess st.

WELLINGTON.

Goldberg's Agency, Customhouse Quay, Wellington, North Island.

Haines, Chas. Adv Agency, Dalgety's Bg.

Hott, J., Ltd, 84 Jervois Quay, 2, 4, 6, 8 Harris.

SOUTH AMERICA.

ARGENTINE.

Black, H. J., & Co., Avenida de Mayo, 760 Buenos Aires.

Export Agency of Chicago, Buenos Aires.

Haddon, John, & Co., Buenos Aires.

South American Ad & Gen'l Agency, Buenos Aires.

BRAZIL.

Export Agency of Chicago.

So. American Ad & Gen'l Agency, Rio de Janeiro.

CUBA.

HAVANA.

Beers Agency (hdqrs. N. Y.), 9% O'Reilly.

Export Agency of Chicago.

BOSTON POST CHANGES.

Edward F. Brady, Jr., and Halliday Weatherspoon have joined

THE A.A.A.A. PLANS CLOSER CO-OPERATION.

JAMES O'SHAUGHNESSY IS APPOINTED EXECUTIVE SECRETARY—SAWIN AND CRITCHFIELD GET OFFICES.

The members of the American Association of Advertising Agents held an important meeting at the Hotel Statler, Cleveland, on September 25, with President W. H. Johns of the George Batten Company, N. Y., presiding.

Amendments were made to the constitution and the constitution of the local councils that were devised to MAJOR E. E. CRITCHFIELD.

A.A.A.A. Representative to A.A.C.W. insure maximum effectiveness and cooperation between them and the national organization.

Nine committee chairmen were appointed by President Johns and ratified by the board of directors for the development of agency service, agency assistance, mechanical production and to cooperate with publishers of newspapers, magazines, farm papers and outdoor mediums. For the present their names have not been given out.

James O'Shaughnessy of Chicago was elected executive secretary of the A.A.A.A. and Jesse F. Matteson, president of the Gundlach Agency, Chicago, was elected a director in M. Shaughnessy's place.

Frank Sawin of the Taylor-Critchfield-Clague Agency, Chicago, was nominated to succeed Stanley Clague as a member of the board of directors of the Audit Bureau of Circulations.

Major E. E. Critchfield was elected representative of the A.A.A.A. with the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World to succeed Stanley Clague.

The next meeting of the executive board will be held in Cleveland in January.

The officers of the A.A.A.A. now are:

President, W. H. Johns of the George Batten Company, New York; vice-president, Paul E. Faust of Mallory, Mitchell & Faust, Chicago; secretary, Harry Dwight Smith of Fuller & Smith, Cleveland; treasurer, Walter R. Hine of Frank Seaman, Inc., New York.

Directors—H. H. Charles, New York; Stanley Resor of the J. Walter Thompson Company, New York; Major E. E. Critchfield of the Taylor-Critchfield-Clague Company, Chicago; O. H. Blackman of the Blackman-Ross Company, New York; Jesse F. Matteson of the Gundlach Agency, Chicago; St. Elmo Massengale, Atlanta; J. H. Cross, Philadelphia; J. W. Barber, Boston; M. P. Gould, New York; William H. Rankin, Chicago; and W. C. D'Arcy of St. Louis.

JAMES O'SHAUGHNESSY.

Executive Secretary A.A.A.A.

The executive secretary is James O'Shaughnessy, Chicago.

Officers of the association have declined for the present to make public any of the details of the meeting, such as the make-up of the new committees on cooperation, their methods, etc.

MONTANA MEETING.

The Montana Press Association will hold its annual meeting in Missoula on October 3, 4, and 5 at the Elks' Temple. J. A. Gilluly is president.

Two features of the meet will be the unveiling of the Mullan monument at Bonner, October 4, and the dedication of the gold discovery monument at Gold Creek, October 5. The newspapermen will attend both ceremonies.

NEWS OF THE AD AGENCIES.

E. E. Wagner, well known in Cleveland advertising circles, has been made vice-president and general manager of the William D. McKinnin Advertising Agency in Cleveland.

Mr. Wagner has spent five years in Cleveland in the editorial departments of local papers, as publicity manager for the F. B. Stearns Automobile Co. and as advertising manager for the East Ohio Gas Company. He has opened offices at 262-63-64 Hippodrome Annex.

The American Sports Publishing Company, Inc., has moved from 21 Warren street, New York, to 45 Rose street, New York.

Medley Seovil, Inc., New York, has been recognized by the American Newspaper Publishers' Association.

The Michigan Want Ad Agency of Charlotte, Mich., is reported to have discontinued business.

Roy Dewey, former advertising manager for the Kohler Company, Kohler, Wis., is now in the service department of the William H. Rankin Company, Chicago.

Fred H. Gillespie, formerly with the Sales Service Company, has become a member of the service department of Erwin & Wasey, Chicago.

Arthur C. Rogers, advertising agent, is the twenty-third member of the Cleveland Advertising Club to enter national service.

Lewis B. Ely, newspaper man and author, has joined the staff of the W. C. D'Arcy Advertising Company, St. Louis. For five years Mr. Ely was leading editorial writer for the St. Louis Republic and for eight years he wrote editorials and was associate editor for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Commenting on his entrance into the advertising agency field, Mr. Ely said:

"In graduating from journalism into advertising I have merely achieved a literary promotion. In my newspaper days I was compelled to acknowledge that the best written and most often interesting pages were the advertising pages, and I was inspired with the ambition to land where the reading was good. Here I am—that's all."

Franklin O. King, formerly associated with John Lee Mahin, has been appointed copy director for Vanderhoof & Co., Chicago. Before Mr. King took up agency work, he was well known as an author and magazine writer. He has specialized in mail order copy, but his experience also embraces general advertising.

Bainbridge Richardson, has joined the force of the Collin Armstrong Agency, New York, after five years as Western manager for Sherman & Bryan.

W. F. French has left the von Poettgen Agency, Detroit, to become sales manager for the Monarch Governor Company, Detroit.

Fayette A. Billmeyer is now merchandising director of the Richard S. Rauh Company, Pittsburg. He has been with the advertising department of the Kauffmann Department Stores, Inc.

John L. Palmquist has been appointed to the staff of Frank Seaman, Inc., New York.

The firm of Lewis & Coffee has succeeded the Lewis-Seabrook Company, Atlanta. Frank Coffee, late manager of the Atlanta office of the Western Newspaper Union, succeeds W. B. Seabrook, retired.

The C. J. Oliphant Advertising Agency of New York was incorporated on September 27 by J. W. Colopy, Jr., C. J. Oliphant and G. Stewart of 2 Rector street.

PRaise FOR "MASQUERADER."

Some New York newspaper dramatic critics are going to the extent of saying that not since the great Mansfield trod the boards has any actor created such a profound impression and excited such general admiration by his masterful art as Guy Bates Post has done in the extraordinary production by Richard Walton Tully, Inc., of John Hunter Booth's play, "The Masquerader," now at the Lyric Theatre.

And no small amount of credit for the success of the play is due to the excellent business direction of James G. Peede, the general manager for the producers.

A.N.P.A. MEMBERSHIP.

The Moline (Ill.) Dispatch has been transferred from the associate to the active class of membership in the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

The North Adams (Mass.) Herald has been elected to active membership.

The Urichsville (Ohio) Evening Chronicle has been elected to associate membership.

LOCATES IN ALBANY.

Brevard Stephenson, a Southern newspaper man who came North some weeks ago as a reporter on the Seranton (Pa.) Republican, is now with the Albany (N. Y.) Times-Union.

THE RICHARD A. FOLEY ADVERTISING AGENCY, Inc.

BULLETIN BUILDING
PHILADELPHIA

303 FIFTH AVENUE
NEW YORK

Personal Service Properly Organized

AD FOLKS' NEWS.

Almost every phase of advertising will be covered by the speakers programmed for the Advertisers' Club of Cincinnati during the coming season.

Among the speakers are William McNamee, Chicago American; R. E. Fowler, Butterick Publishing Company, Chicago; Professor Edward K. Strong, George Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn.; C. A. Brownell, advertising manager of the Ford Motor Car Company; and F. B. White, managing director of the Agricultural Publishers' Association, Chicago.

Robert T. Walsh, the retiring Briscoe advertising manager, has gone with the Robert Smith Printing Company, Lansing, Mich., where he will write the Oldsmobile house organ and give counsel on other direct advertising accounts.

H. L. Quinn, former advertising manager for the I. N. Martin Dry Goods Company, Peoria, Ill., is now associated with the Peoria Dry Goods Company. No successor has been appointed to take his place with the Martin Company.

Benton Dodge, who retired from the advertising agency business in Cleveland recently, has been appointed advertising manager of the Standard Parts Company, Cleveland.

A. J. Robertson of Toronto succeeded F. W. Darby as advertising manager of Beatty Brothers, Ltd., London, Ont. Mr. Darby has assumed the advertising management of the Watrous Engine Works, Ltd., Brantford.

The Advertising Club of New York will have possession of the Rodman Wanamaker trophy for the coming year, having defeated the Poor Richard Club of Philadelphia at the Knollwood links by the score of 8 points to 5.

Dr. Marion L. Burton, president of the University of Minnesota, spoke on "The Spirit of the Times," following last week's dinner given by the Dayton (O.) Advertising Forum. W. A. Frisbee talked on "Business Publicity and the War."

R. Bradford Burnham, formerly advertising manager of the Gray Motor Company, is now with the advertising service department of the Dry Goods Economist, New York.

The Chicago Junior Advertising Association has opened its winter term of advertising and selling.

Roscoe Moon, late of the Cramer-Krasselt Company, Milwaukee, has become a member of the firm of Monnier Brothers Company, Chicago, manufacturing scientific dairy apparatus, and will have charge of sales and advertising.

Charles O. Stumps has been transferred from the Cleveland branch of the W. F. Davis Machine Tool Company to the main office in New York, where he will have charge of advertising.

J. D. Chappell, formerly assistant advertising manager of the De Laval Separator Company, New York, has become connected with the Winchester Arms Company, New Haven, Ct.

The second year of the Associated Motion Picture Advertisers, Inc., of New York, has been started in a manner that indicates twelve months of action. An effort will be made to have some prominent person present at every weekly meeting to speak on a topic germane to the motion picture industry.

Special efforts will be made to recruit the membership of the committee to 100 per cent of the advertising and publicity men of the motion picture industry in order that every company may be represented and the association may act as a unit on several questions of financial importance.

The final audit of the circulation of all trade papers has been placed in the hands of a committee consisting of Nat S. Stronge, P. A. Parsons and Paul Gulick.

President Arthur James has appointed the following standing committees for the year:

Publicity committee—Nat S. Stronge, chairman; L. R. Thomas, Hop Hadley, A. S. Levino and Randolph Bartlett.

Membership—Paul Lazarus, chairman; Julian Solomon and Charles E. Moyer.

Publication—Charles Burr, chairman; Jacques Kopstein, Jerome Beatty, Nat G. Rothstein and Pete Schmidt.

Membership, Recruiting—Victor Johnson, chairman; Jacques Kopstein and C. W. Burrell.

The banquet committee which had in charge the recent annual dinner was continued and was instructed to make arrangements for a monthly beefsteak affair.

Harry Poppy and C. W. Burrell have been elected to membership and three applications for membership have been referred to the proper committee.

Miss Nellie D. Prendergast has been appointed advertising manager of the H. Barcroft White Corporation, Syracuse, N. Y. Formerly she was in full charge of advertising and publicity for the Pathfinder Motor Company of Indianapolis (her home town) and was connected with the Overland Willys Corporation.

The Toledo Better Business Bureau, of which Watkin H. Starr is secretary, is the twelfth body of its kind doing truth-in-advertising work. It includes among its members eleven local business associations.

Ben R. Vardaman of the Merchants' Trade Journal, Des Moines, gave a talk to the Des Moines Ad Club on Tuesday on the value of advertising as an accelerator or co-operative force for the sales department. His talk brought out valuable discussion among the members and many good pointers were received through them.

O. C. Harn, advertising manager of the National Lead Company, New York, has returned from a month's vacation in New Hampshire and the White Mountains.

Instead of one advertising committee to plan the whole season's advertising work, the Cleveland Advertising Club will this year have six committees, and the work will be more specialized. Each of these committees will plan weekly meetings, which will take the form of round table discussions led by men prominent in the work under discussion.

Allen Ernst, chairman of the "On-to-Rochester" committee of the Cleveland Advertising Club, has appointed George Verault, George Walt Fleming, William G. Davies and R. B. Curtis to serve with him in planning for the Cleveland Advertising Club's part in the coming meeting of Advertising Affiliation, to be held in Rochester on October 26 and 27.

The St. Cloud (Minn.) Ad-Wright Club has changed its name to the St. Cloud Advertising Club.

The Oakland (Cal.) Advertising Club is the new name of the Advertising Bureau of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce.

The A.A.C.W. offers a $50 prize for the best book plate designed for the business library of Associated Clubs.

At their picnic held at Wheeler Park on September 19, the Oklahoma City Advertising Club competed members for twenty-two prizes in various kinds of events for men and women.

Charles K. Gross, formerly copy writer in the advertising department of the B. F. Goodrich Company, Akron, has been appointed advertising manager of the Kirk Company, soap manufacturer. He was formerly with the B. G. Moon Advertising Agency in New York and advertising manager for Corliss, Coon & Co. of Troy.

The Advertising Film Producers' Association, which is an official department of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, held a meeting recently in Chicago and decided to change the name of the association to the Motion Picture Advertising Association of the World. The next meeting will be held October 26 in Detroit.

Chester Hamberg has been appointed advertising manager of the Shaw-Walker Company, Muskegon, Mich. He was formerly with A. W. Shaw Company, publisher of System and other magazines.

The Chicago Advertising Association has instituted a roll of honor for the duration of the war and will carry on this roll—all dues remitted—the names of members who are serving Uncle Sam. Twelve names are already engrossed.

The Gossard Corset Company, New York, has appointed F. J. Stowers to be its advertising director. He has been connected with the company for several years.

Marcus F. Weinberg has been appointed advertising manager of King & Applebaum, New York, makers of "Virginia Dare" dresses. He has been advertising manager for M. H. & H. Rentner, New York.

John H. Lemmon, late of the Nichols-Finn Agency, Chicago, is now advertising manager of the Sterling Motor Truck Company, Milwaukee.

WAR AD COPY URGED.

Members of the New York Advertising Club were urged by Governor Edge of New Jersey on September 20 to convert their advertisements into war propaganda. He said advertisements could be so worded as to point to the needs of the nation, while, at the same time, exploiting the commodities sought to be sold. Mr. Edge was an advertising man before becoming governor.

"The war will be won," he said, "by maintaining prosperous business conditions. I do not want to see business decline. It must be kept up to a high standard, and it is here that the advertising men can help. They must know all classes of business to be successful advertising men, and are therefore peculiarly qualified to give service.

"In writing your copy, try to see the national question at the same time. Insert a line here and there to give the people a little more knowledge of the war and its needs.

"We are not yet at war as a whole, many do not realize the fact of war and the immense task before us."

MRS. VAN CLEVE DEAD.

George B. Van Cleve, the New York advertising agent, is receiving the sympathy of his many friends on the death of his mother in Minneapolis last Sunday. Mrs. Harriet H. Van Cleve was the widow of Seymour Van Cleve and came of a family of Northwestern pioneers. Until about six years ago she lived in New York. She was very active in Red Cross work and most of her time lately had been spent in London.

NEW SPECIAL AGENCY APPOINTMENT.

The Brooklyn (N. Y.) Times has appointed the L. H. Crall Company, Tribune Building, Chicago, to be its Western advertising representative. Frank J. Byrne is the new York representative of the Times.

EDDY STAFF ENLARGED.

Bertram Ellis, for the past ten years with the New York Evening Journal, has resigned to join the soliciting staff of the New York office of the Charles H. Eddy Company, publishers' representative. Mr. Ellis has a wide acquaintance, especially among New York space buyers.

NEW SIX-POINT DIRECTORY.

The Six-Point League, of New York, has issued another very useful "Directory of Advertisers and General Advertising Agents in the Eastern Territory." It is corrected to September 1.

THE "COLONEL" ON DUTY.

Though Colonel Theodore Roosevelt's work with the Kansas City Star does not begin until October 1, he spent several days this week at his desk and getting acquainted with members of the Star staff.

FIRST MEETING.

The Representatives Club of New York will hold its first meeting of the season at the Hotel McAlpin at 12.30 p. m. October 1.

Arthur Tipton has disposed of the Campbell (Neb.) Citizen to Ben F. Sailor.

New Ledger Syndicate Serial

Answers the question now uppermost in your readers' minds—Can Germany now be democratized as demanded by President Wilson, as a prerequisite to peace?

A worthy companion to our record-breaking serial by Ambassador Gerard, who said of Ackerman that "he was one of only two American correspondents whose dispatches remained uncolored by German prejudice during two years of residence in Berlin."

Returning to America with Ambassador Gerard after these two years of intimate association with German leaders, Ackerman, an accredited American correspondent, proceeded in these disclosures to state the truth of democracy's chances in Germany.

The New York Tribune gives Ackerman credit for having "a greater personal knowledge of conditions in Germany and Austria than is possessed by any other American except Ambassador Gerard."

Realizing the vast circulation value of these disclosures, we have obtained the world's serial rights.

LENGTH—About 30 daily installments of 1500 words, strikingly illustrated.

RELEASE—Immediate. Simultaneous publication not required.

SERVICE—Mats of our striking illustrations and proofs of our text.

For terms, with sample installments showing art, wire

THE LEDGER SYNDICATE

Independence Square

PHILADELPHIA

Are There Vacancies in Your Ranks?

Master Printers: A number of your Monotype keyboard operators will answer the call to the colors in the very near future. Are you prepared to fill the vacancies in your ranks this will cause?

Their places must be filled promptly in order to keep the wheels of trade turning at normal speed. What are you doing to help?

THE MONOTYPE SCHOOLS

will do their part in training your compositors to be keyboard operators and help carry on business as usual; if they cannot come to these schools, arrangements may be made on a very satisfactory basis to place an additional keyboard in your plant.

Many compositors who cannot go to the front and those who return will make good operators. There is no charge for tuition.

TYPEWRITER COMPANY
PENSYLVANIA

Ventworth Building, BOSTON
SAN FRANCISCO, Rialto Building

Lumsden Building, TORONTO

ADVERTISING MEN READY FOR THEIR DUTY.

WILL NOT FAIL THEIR NATION RAISING LIBERTY LOAN SUBSCRIPTIONS IN EMERGENCY PERIOD.

By WILLIAM H. RANKIN,
Acting Chairman National Advertising Advisory Board.

The question of paid advertising by the Government on the Liberty Loan bonds is not yet settled, and the National Advertising Advisory Board feels that Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo realizes the value of paid advertising. It all depends on the appropriation.

Advertising men all over the country are prepared to start their campaigns just as soon as the matter is settled, whether or not Congress provides for paid advertising they will not fail the country in this emergency period.

I take pleasure in quoting from a letter just received from Frank A. Black, president of the Pilgrim Publicity Association of Boston, which I endorse most heartily to the various chairmen in other districts. Mr. Black said:

"I am chairman of the Liberty Loan publicity committee for all New England. In the first committee we had no separate publicity committee for Boston, which was taken care of by the main committee.

"Our committee has retained its organization and we already had our first meeting and prepared plans for the campaign for the second loan. In fact, this is the only committee that (to my knowledge) has conducted a certain amount of advertising between the two loans for the purpose of keeping the matter alive and keeping sold the bonds which are being paid for on the installment basis."

Chicago will have a paid advertising campaign even if we have to go out and raise the money among business men.

One of the fine things about advertising men these days is that they are in this work to win, and in order that the second section of the Liberty Loan shall not fail the advertising men will produce the advertising without cost to the Government.

I really believe, however, that there will be a supplementary advertising appropriation from Washington, but in the main each district will have its own campaign.

I would suggest, however, that any advertising copy be sent just as soon as it is off the press to each of our chairmen, with the notation that mats will be supplied, and state the cost of mats.

In this way work done in each Federal Reserve District will help the others.

The best plan that I know of to secure an advertising appropriation is to secure subscriptions of $100 to $1,000 from 10 to 25 business men or have them contribute advertising space in newspapers, farm papers, street cars, billboards or painted signs.

I believe the work we are doing is in line with what President Wilson and Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo would sanction and what we are all most interested in is to make the Second Liberty Loan even more successful than the first.

INTEREST IN HAWAII.

The following letter from the Charles R. Frazier Company of Honolulu, Hawaii, shows the enthusiasm over advertising for the Liberty Loan has not been confined to the "Mainland," as they call it in Honolulu.

The letter:

"DEAR SIR:

"We note that another Liberty Bond campaign is due some time in October, and that the Government is contemplating the use of paid advertising space.

"We remember that the Associated Advertising Clubs drew up an extensive campaign for the use of the Government in the first campaign, but which, we believe, was not used. It occurs to us that this or a similar campaign may be used for this second call.

"If this is contemplated, will it be possible for us to get a copy of the series of advertisements for use in the press of these Islands? A copy of the first series, if they were indeed prepared, would be welcome. If such ads are prepared, are they in mat form?

"Hawaii wants to cooperate in every way with the mainland and if we can get advance copy of the Liberty Bond advertising campaign, we will surely put it to use.

"If you have no knowledge of this, perhaps you can refer this letter to some one who may have.

"THE CHARLES R. FRAZIER CO.,
"L. V. Anderson, Copy Department."

Of course, I am writing the Frazier Company that I shall only be too glad to cooperate and send all the material we have concerning the Liberty Loan advertising.

THE NEW YORK TIMES STILL UNCONVINCED.

Replying to criticism of its stand that the Government should not buy advertising space to promote the Liberty Loan, made by Herbert S. Houston, chairman of the National Advertising Advisory Board, in THE FOURTH ESTATE last week, the New York Times refuses to be convinced that employing Government money in any adequate amount for the buying of advertising space would not be productive of "heart-burnings, grumbling, resentment and of much disagreeable scandal." The Times says:

"The objection to Government advertising of the bonds remains insurmountable notwithstanding Mr. Houston's ingenious device of a disinterested, non-political, expert advisory board, which would put all its experience and knowledge, without cost, at the disposal of the Government in selecting mediums that might be 'decided on.' The 'mediums' would be 'selected.'"

"That is discrimination confessed at the very outset. Yet the appeal is to be made to all the people, and the money of all the people is to pay the bill. If Mr. Houston and the Government imagine that the transaction can be carried through without well-grounded dissatisfaction and complaint from the 'mediums' discriminated against, both are mistaken."

"In such a matter the Government cannot discriminate, not even if it shelter itself behind a board of expert advisers. "All the newspapers in the country would be justly entitled each to its share of the advertising fund."

"From the point of view of the private advertiser, the best advertising mediums are in the North."

"Would Southern members of Congress view with smiling complacency the withholding from Southern newspapers of practically all the money they had appropriated for this use?"

"The board, of course, can ignore politics. The administration cannot."

"Besides, every little village newspaper in the country is an excellent medium for advertising bonds that the Government hopes will be widely distributed among all the people."

"It is to men with fifty dollars, a hundred dollars, or a few hundreds that Mr. McAdoo hopes to sell the bonds."

"The small paper reaches the small investor. If the Government is to pay for the advertising, impartial recognition of merit, business principles, and political prudence will forbid discrimination."

"The proposed appropriation is $2,500,000. How far will that go in advertising the bonds in all the newspapers in the country?"

"Publicity and appeal will sell the bonds even without any advertising. The press will give its powerful support to the cause, as it did for the Liberty Loan."

"But if there is to be any advertising, it should be ordered and paid for by private promoters of the bond subscription. The bankers, merchants, the multitude of organizations that will join in the work can again render service of 'immeasurable value' in making a market for the bonds. They can without fear and without reproach 'select' their mediums, they can discriminate, and no complaint will be heard."

"By these agencies and the loyal efforts of the newspapers in their editorial and news columns the bonds will be sold."

"But the attempt to employ Government money in any adequate amount for the buying of advertising space would be productive of heartburnings, grumbling, resentment, and, we fear, of much disagreeable scandal."

EVEN HUMANE SOCIETIES CAN ADVERTISE WITH RESULTS.

The Western Pennsylvania Humane Society of Pittsburgh and the Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals of Philadelphia have been experimenting during the past year with advertisements in local papers, of the work of their societies.

The following reports from John S. Ritenour, superintendent of the Western Pennsylvania Humane Society, and F. B. Rutherford, operative manager of the Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, are illuminative:

"There is no question in our minds of the benefits to be derived through advertising in the newspaper press of a city or town the availability to the public of Humane Society service. This is helpful to the society in that it enlarges the field of work, increases the opportunities for wider use of the society's machinery, constantly keeps before the popular mind the fact that there is such a society, that it is anxious to be put to the purposes of its establishment, and shows where and how its agencies may be reached and utilized."

"Moreover, such advertising is helpful to the public in many ways, especially in that it supplies daily information of the existence of a capable and energetic organization that can be relied upon for prompt investigation of all well-grounded complaints that may be filed with it."

"It was belief in the practicability of this idea that influenced the Western Pennsylvania Humane Society to make an experiment last year by inserting for six months a half-inch advertisement, once a week, on separate days in each of the seven daily papers of the city. Here is a copy of the little advertisement, alike in all the papers:

REPORT OF THE HUMANE SOCIETY

All cases of cruelty to children, aged persons and animals, 709 Forbes Street, Bell, 973 Grant. P. & A. 535 Main.

AMBULANCE SERVICE FOR DISABLED HORSES.

"The effect of this was quite noticeable within a few days in the increase of phone calls, letters and office visits. Indeed, these became so numerous within a few months as to seriously tax the capacity of our staff of workers."

CONDENSED NEWS NOTES.

The Columbus (Mont.) News and Columbus Democrat have been consolidated as the Columbus News-Democrat, non-partisan in politics.

The Business Bulletin, published by the Minot (Ind.) Association of Commerce, has made its appearance.

The Grass Range (Mont.) Review has taken over the plant and goodwill of the Grass Range Independent.

The farmers of Bowman County, N. D., have perfected an organization for the publication of a newspaper under the auspices of the Farmers' Non-Partisan League.

The South Dakota Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union of America will commence publication of a state official paper. The editor will be J. Glenn Richards of Plankinton. The contract for printing the publication has been awarded to the Mitchell Gazette.

A syndicate of Nisland (S. D.) business men has been organized and has purchased the plant of the Butte County Press, a local weekly newspaper. O. E. Grant will continue as manager.

The North St. Paul (Minn.) Sentinel has been sold by C. W. Smith to George H. Miles.

J. C. Naylor has disposed of his interest in the Callaway (Neb.) Queen to H. B. Yates.

Wm. Scheuler has made arrangements to establish a newspaper at Dante, S. D.

C. O. Ryan has bought the interest of Dr. E. W. Emery in Eldora (Ia.) Ledger.

W. L. Bucksen has sold the St. Paul (Neb.) Republican to H. B. McKibben.

Arch L. Taylor, owner and editor of the Russell (Kan.) Reformer, is installing a modern typesetting machine.

The Noonsocket (S. D.) Times-Herald has been purchased by C. L. Eaybrook who will conduct the paper in the future.

W. O. Payne is engaged in forming a stock company for the purpose of publishing a state weekly to be issued from Des Moines, Ia., and Karl R. Pleissner.

The Inverness (Mont.) News is the name of a new paper to be issued from the office of the Joplin (Mont.) Times.

Mrs. Jenkins has sold the Arnegard (N. D.) Call to a corporation of local farmers representing the Non-Partisan League.

The Freeport (Minn.) Informant has suspended publication.

A. D. Scott of Edgar, Neb., has purchased the Chambers (Neb.) Bugle and has put W. B. Cissna in charge.

Service Flags

PUBLISHERS—Place your order now for SERVICE FLAGS and announce to the world the number of employees you have given to the Government service. This flag shows a star for every member of a family or firm in the service of Uncle Sam. Flags furnished with any number of stars without extra charge. Can supply cotton bunting, Samson bunting or Standard wool bunting at very low prices. Write today for samples and prices.

S. BLAKE WILLSDEN
29 E. Madison St., CHICAGO.

China Premiums ARE THE BEST!

Distinctive Service in Many Sizes
Write for Samples.

The Limoges China Co.
SEBRING, OHIO

LAST WORD ON I.C.M.A. MEETING.

SPECIAL CAR FROM NEW YORK —ATTENDANCE WELL WORTH
TIME AND EXPENSE.

By JAMES MCKERNAN.

Manager Circulation Department
New York World and Chairman
Transportation Committee
I. C. M. A.

The I. C. M. A. members attending the Atlanta convention, on October 8, 9, and 10 who travel via New York City will have a special car of twelve sections and one drawing room, Pullman sleeper. The car will be E 17, train 37, leaving New York, Pennsylvania Railroad Station, 34th street and 7th avenue at 4.35 p. m. Sunday, October 7, through to Atlanta.

H. S. Jennings, traveling passenger agent of the Southern Railway System of the Pennsylvania Railroad will be at the depot with James McKernan, chairman of the transportation committee of the I. C. M. A. at 3.30 p. m. to assist members in checking baggage and reservations.

Members who intend going on this train should send their check to A. S. Thwait, general Eastern passenger agent, Southern Railway System, 264 Fifth avenue, New York City at once. The special rate is $19.99 one way.

It is important that members act promptly so that proper arrangements can be made for their comfort.

If we can get a hundred members together to leave on this train we will have the advantage of a special train for I. C. M. A. members only.

In any event your prompt response will secure a better location on the special car.

The papers to be read at the coming convention are of great importance to circulation managers.

The solution to any single one of the problems that will be discussed is alone worth all the time and expense the members may be put to.

All members should attend, they owe it to the paper they represent and also to themselves to procure the best ideas in circulation work.

The program committee has pre-

The True News FIRST

Always—Accurately

INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE

10th Floor, World Bldg. NEW YORK

I Get the Money!

J. A. McAVOY

Special Editions
Weekly Review Pages
Cartoon Books

Nat'l Bkch. Bk. Bldg.
PROVIDENCE, R. I.

pared an unusually interesting list. Attend the convention and get the benefit of the free exchange of ideas that characterizes the I.C.M.A. meetings.

Delegates from the Central West will travel via Cincinnati as outlined in last week's issue of THE FOURTH ESTATE.

SOLDIER RECORDS.

The Patterson (N. J.) Press-Guardian is distributing a patriotic poster to every family in Patterson and vicinity, which has given up for Government service a son, brother or father. The design used was selected as the best of those submitted in a contest held by the paper.

The Press-Guardian is seeking for future reference, information which will enable it to have the complete record of every soldier—his organization, where stationed at the present time, home address and his next of kin.

AN OHIO ELECTION.

At its meeting in Dayton, the Miami Valley (Ohio) Press Association elected A. C. McClung of the Troy News, president, with the following associates: H. W. McMillan, Brookville Star, vice-president, and C. W. McIntosh, Twin Valley Echo, West Alexandria, secretary-treasurer; executive committee, Paul Langley, Tippecanoe City Herald; C. E. Radaugh, West Milton Record; C. B. Unger, Eaton Herald.

"CLEAN UP" AT GOLF.

The Chicago Tribune made a comparatively clean sweep in the September tournament of the Chicago Press Golf Club held last week at the Ravisloe Country Club. Fred A. Smith, city editor of the Tribune, was the low man with a score of 73. O. G. Lundberg, staff photographer; D. J. Lavin, Percy Hammond, dramatic critic, and Perley Boone, night editor, were other Tribune stars who shared the honors.

BARRIE PAPER SUSPENDS.

The Barrie (Ont.) Gazette has suspended publication after forty-five years, and its owner, Alfred Wilkes, is now managing the Midland (Ont.) Free Press.

KEEN PUBLISHERS Everywhere Are Buying Electric BulletinMachines

They have written us letters giving their opinions. They make interesting reading. We wish we could send them to you complete. Some of the letters are in our New Illustrated Catalogue. Why not let us send you One?

National Electric Bulletin Corporation.
NEW LONDON, CONN.

Quality Pages

The kind that give universal satisfaction and are continued year after year. Sample mats with pleasure on request.

The International Syndicate
Established 1899. BALTIMORE, MD.

NEWS NOTES OF CIRCULATORS.

W. C. Haralson, the new circulation manager of the Meridian (Miss.) Dispatch, began his active newspaper work on the Columbus (Ga.) Enquirer-Sun about seven years ago. He had charge of the mailing room and city carriers and did general circulation work for the Enquirer-Sun until April, 1916, and in January this year he went with the Montgomery (Ala.) Advertiser as an agency man. From there he went to his present location.

The Meridian (Miss.) Star will tomorrow inaugurate a circulation campaign contest in which the prizes will be two automobiles and eighteen cash awards, to the amount of about $23,000. The campaign will be managed by L. T. Curtright, who recently conducted contests for the Shreveport Times, the New Orleans Daily States and the Shreveport News-American.

A. E. Bischoff, formerly circulation manager of the Detroit Times, has returned to the London (Ont.) Free Press as circulation manager. He was with the Free Press in the same capacity when he went to Detroit.

George H. Reynolds, circulation manager of the New Bedford (Mass.) Standard, was in New York last week.

"Kentuckians Who Have Made History" is an interesting Sunday feature now running in the Louisville Courier-Journal. The sketches are by Robert T. Barry.

The Kansas City Post now counts as one of its faithful carriers Mrs. L. R. Dial, sixty years old. Mrs. Dial has 300 subscribers and covers a route approximately twelve miles in length.

C. E. Story, city district manager on the Des Moines Register and Tribune, has been called to the colors and ordered to report at Camp Dodge. His position was filled by N. A. Drott.

J. L. Parker has joined the Register and Tribune country road

The only journal outside of the United States published in the interest of newspaper men.

THE 30 pages Weekly NEWSPAPER WORLD

Annual Postal Subscription
Everywhere $2.40.
(Established 1898)

Specimen Copy Sent Free
Address: 14 Cross Street
FINSBURY, LONDON, ENG.

NEWSPAPER FEATURE SERVICE

"The CIRCULATION Builders"
37 West 39th Street, NEW YORK

force. He has been connected with the newspaper during the winter months for the past five years. His summers are spent touring he states with an evangelistic company.

C. T. Collins, country district manager on the Register and Tribune, was called to his home in Decatur, Ill., on account of sickness of his daughter. Improvement in her condition permitted him to return after one week.

J. L. Doolittle, newsdealer circulator for the Register and Tribune, has returned after a short vacation trip to New York.

The fourteen Knoxville (Tenn.) Sentinel carrier boys who won trips to Chattanooga for procuring the highest number of new subscriptions to the Sentinel between September 1 and September 8, were delighted with their journey. They visited Fort Ogelthorpe and were taken to Lookout Mountain, Missionary Ridge and other places of interest.

The Chicago Daily Journal has just closed a contest for the best page to take the place of the much-discussed "kaiser" page which has been expurgated from the spelling books in the Chicago public schools.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer has increased its rate by carrier for home delivery to 3 cents per copy. This follows a recent increase to two cents on news stand sales.

The Fargo Courier-News issued a large North Dakota Development Number on September 16. The paper was "meaty" and full of business.

A. L. Talbot is conducting a circulation campaign for the Washington (D. C.) Herald.

STILL GROWING.

The San Antonio (Tex.) Express Publishing Company, which only finished an addition to its original building a few months ago, has just purchased another lot near its present publishing plant and will erect a two-story fireproof building to be used for the storage of mail trucks and paper supply.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES.

$15,000

available for first payment on a daily newspaper property. California locations preferred.

Proposition P. M.

CHAS. M. PALMER
NEWSPAPER PROPERTIES
225 Fifth Ave. NEW YORK

Daily Newspapers

We have at this time several attractive opportunities to buy Daily Newspaper Properties in New York and adjacent states. Cash payments required range from $10,000 to $200,000.

The owners of all the properties in question are represented exclusively by this firm.

AUBREY HARWELL. HENRY F. CANNON

Harwell & Cannon
Newspaper and Magazine Properties
Times Building NEW YORK

Easy Money

Only paper in modern Central West city of nearly 30,000, splendidly equipped and showing annual profit to owners of about $30,000. Three-fifths interest offered for $75,000. Ask for Proposition 683x and give financial references.

Who wants to take advantage of a real newspaper opportunity in North Carolina, valued at $30,000? Proposition 689x.

H. F. HENRICHS
NEWSPAPER PROPERTIES
LITCHFIELD, ILLINOIS

For Sale: Afternoon daily in fine southern field; model plant. Making 35 per cent on owner's investment and time. Wants to retire. Price $30,000, half cash. Address South, Care The Fourth Estate.

MEMBERSHIP WEEK AT THE N. Y. AD CLUB.

The past week has been "Membership Week" for the Advertising Club of New York. Officers offered a list of prizes for the men who proposed the largest number of new members.

The most handsome prize was a copy of Henry Thoreau's "Essay on Friendship," worth $50. The second prize, offered by President Sharpe, was a beautiful cigarette case with gold inlay, worth $30. The two men next in order will have to toss a coin for a watch offered by ex-President William H. Ingersoll and a traveling kit given by ex-President Harry Tipper.

The other four prizes were a sterling silver shaving mug and silver mounted brush, a cut glass ink well with silver top, a sterling silver hand-hammered ash tray and an ivory ruler with a silver cigar cutter attachment.

The educational committee will continue the class in public speaking this year. The committee is considering

MACHINERY FOR SALE.

MACHINERY FOR SALE.

A BARGAIN

Duplex Tubular Single Plate 16-page Printing Press with complete stereotyping outfit. Prints 30,000 complete 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 14 or 16-page papers per hour, 7 or 8 columns wide. Sold out to opposition paper reason for putting above press on the market. Write for price and particulars. Easy terms—Big Bargain. C. F. DUNCOMBE, Fort Dodge, Iowa.

FOR SALE—Goss High-Speed Straight line Five Roll Double Width Press equipped with all modern improvements and in very good condition. This press prints 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20 page papers at 72,000 per hour. $28,24, 26, 28, 30 and 32 page papers at $6,000 per hour. For prices and terms write

WALTER SCOTT & Co.,
PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY

LINOTYPE—Model No. 1, Serial No. 3010, and Model No. 1, Serial No. 3011, with 1 magazine, liners, ejector blades, font of matrices (for each machine). Tribune Printing Co., Charleston, W. Va.

$250.00

will buy practically new Colt's Armory press, size 14x22. Also offering 44-inch Childs power cutter for $250. Part cash accepted. Plants to consolidate reason for sacrifice. Address The Post, Frederick, Md.

instituting courses in advertising organization and methods and in business English.

There is also a plan under discussion for having a series of night dinners from October to April for educational talks.

Chairman Hugh Burke of the program committee reports he has good reasons to expect that the list of men to speak before the club during the fall and winter will include: Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, Mayor Mitchell, Lord Northcliffe, H. P. Davidson, John M. Willys, ex-Ambassador Gerard, Charles E. Hughes, J. Ogden Armour, Dudley Field Malone, Governor Whitman, Judge Crupsey, Senator Calder and Irving Cobb.

The members are holding their annual outing today.

BARTHELOME ARRESTED.

George Barthelome, former correspondent at Washington for the Cologne (Germany) Gazette, is held in Wichita, Kan. for investigation by Federal authorities. A trunk which he had sent to the station for shipment contained about 200 pounds of Congressional records and other papers. Some of the speeches of Senator La Follette were marked in the Congressional Record.

Barthelome has been in Wichita four weeks. Federal authorities arrested him on the charge of having been within a half mile of the National Guard camp in this city without a permit.

S. V. McElroy has taken editorial charge of the Napoleon (S. D.) Homestead.

The Nonpartisan League is planning to start a newspaper at Barnesville, Minn.

GOSS FOUR DECK PRESS—Prints 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 14, 16, 20, 24, 28 or 32 pages. Overhauled and rebuilt. Will sell at very low price. The Goss Printing Press Co., Chicago, Ill.

LINOTYPE—Three Model 1 machines with complete equipment of molds, magazines and matrices. New Haven Union Co., New Haven, Ct.

LINOTYPE—Model No. 2, Serial No. 10109; 1 magazine, assortment of matrices. Fort Wayne Printing Co., Fort Wayne, Ind.

STEREOTYPE FLAT SHAVER. For Sale—A stereotype flat shaver in good condition. Address for price and description, The Wichita Eagle, Wichita, Kan.

NORTH ADAMS NOTES.

The North Adams (Mass.) Herald has the distinction of having three former publishers on its staff.

E. M. Ruttenber, for twenty-eight years conducted a newspaper in Newberg, N. Y. War conditions forced it out of business and now he is a court reporter and handles the "Question Box" Department for the Herald.

John Martin, formerly publisher of the North Adams Sunday Express and at one time owner of the Herald, is now city hall man and political reporter for the Herald.

D. M. Grimes, mechanical superintendent, formerly published the Plymouth (Mass.) Journal.

The Herald was elected to active membership in the American Newspaper Publishers' Association this week.

After supplying Roger Busfield, its sporting editor, and William Mahoney, a sporting writer, to Company M, now in the 104th Infantry, for service in France, the Herald was called upon to make still further inroads on the staff, the local exemption board requesting the publishers to donate services of John Martin, city hall man and political writer, as clerk of the board. This was done, and Mr. Martin, through newspaper training, was of vast help in getting off the quotas as the Government called for men.

INSTALLING EQUIPMENT.

POCAHONTAS, IA.—A new brick building is being erected for the use of the Pocahontas Democrat.

RANDALL, KAN.—Mr. McCurdy, owner of the News, is having a new printing outfit installed for the use of his paper.

WASHINGTON, MO.—The Observer has been changed back from a semi-weekly to a weekly paper.

NEOSHO FALLS, KAN.—The Neosho Falls Post has purchased a new building here on Main street, and will

HELP WANTED.

Wanted—

A Publishers Right Arm, also the Brains to use it.

REQUIREMENTS: Experience in publishing business, advertising, circulation, editorial. Should be diplomatic correspondent and clear talker, with pleasing address; good executive and organizer, and able to manage detail.

Salary will be commensurate with the ability of the man selected.

An excellent opportunity for rapid development for a thoroughly competent and experienced man capable of acting as confidential assistant to publishers having large interests.

Write stating qualifications, all letters held sacredly confidential.

Address Publishers' Assistant, Fourth Estate.

Wanted—Sample copies for Representatives for Ohio. The Ohio Novelty Agency, Youngstown, Ohio.

Wanted on evening paper in city of 23,000, an experienced reporter; $18 a week, good chances. Apply, stating age, experience and draft possibilities, The Leader-Republican, Gloversville, N. Y.

Two A No. 1 men for contest work with large company. Would consider experienced circulation and advertising men or reporters. State full particulars and salary in reply. Address Box 223, care The Fourth Estate.

The problem of covering the Canadian Field is answered by obtaining the service of the

Dominion PRESS CLIPPING AGENCY

which gives the clippings on all matters of interest to you, printed in over 86 per cent of the newspapers and publications of CANADA. We cover every foot of Canada and Newfoundland.

74-76 Church Street, TORONTO, CAN.

POLLOCK'S NEWS

You can reach 2,500 Editors and Publishers in the Northwest—the wide-awake ones—every month, through the Classified Ads in Pollock's News. That is $0,000 of them in a year for ten dollars. Send for samples and display rates.

710 Temple Court, MINNEAPOLIS

TYPO

CREDIT BOOKS, REPORTS, COLLECTION General Offices, 879 Fourth Avenue NEW YORK

SPECIAL AND CHICAGO NEWS DAILY NEWS REPORTS.

YARD'S NEWS BUREAU
124 W. Washington Street. CHICAGO

move into the same after some improvements and a new addition have been made. The Post has recently purchased a New National Press and a Chandler & Price "Gordon" jobber.

BURLINGTON, IA.—The Hawk-Eye has made arrangements for the installation of five new Intertypes and new composing room furniture.

BUFFALO, KAN.—The Blade has just finished moving into its new headquarters.

HALLETTSVILLE, TEX.—The Hallettsville Herald has been changed from a weekly to a semi-weekly paper.

LIBERAL, KAN.—The finishing touches are being put on the new building of the Democrat.

HELP WANTED

RAILROAD EXECUTIVE WANTS SECRETARY-STENOGRAPHER WITH NEWSPAPER TRAINING.

Young man, who is competent stenographer, accurate and swift; of good habits and with executive ability, who has had reportorial experience on good daily newspaper. Splendid opportunity for bright, ambitious fellow—good salary, promotion as deserved, liberal amount of road work with transportation supplied. Applicants will please give full information regarding themselves and supply references in first letter, stating salary expected. Address Box 874 care The Fourth Estate.

Managing Editor, with pep and experience for established afternoon paper in growing Southwest city. Want man looking for opportunity to settle down in healthy, pleasant location on moderate salary and able to invest a couple of thousand dollars. Write fully, Box 873 Fourth Estate.

SUBSCRIPTION MANAGER WANTED

If you would like the job of systematically working to enlarge the subscription list of a well-known New York trade paper, you're the man we would like to get in touch with. Address Trade Paper, care The Fourth Estate, New York.

Wanted

Assistant to publisher of daily paper in small eastern city. Young man familiar with mechanical as well as business department desired. State experience and references. Address M. B. K., care The Fourth Estate.

Circulation Manager, resourceful, successful business getter, using original campaign methods; many years' experience; methodical, economical; wishes to connect with metropolitan newspaper. Best references. Address Box 841, care The Fourth Estate.

High class reporter on six day morning paper in a city of 150,000 in the east. Must have experience, be able to write an interesting and readable story and have the tact and energy essential to a good news gatherer. Permanent place for the right kind of a man. Address Box 877, care The Fourth Estate.

COPY WRITER WANTED

Leading daily newspaper has an opening for an experienced man capable of preparing copy for trade papers, etc. Address, Copy Writer, care The Fourth Estate.

For Selling Building Materials

or equipment to contractors, architects, dealers and manufacturers, the advertising service of THE

IMPROVEMENT BULLETIN
Minneapolis, Minn.

is very helpful. It includes:

1. Advertising space.
 2. Listing in Buyers' Directory.
 3. Daily Construction Reports.
- An attractive, well arranged construction news weekly; 25 years old.

Ask for rates and details.

BERGMEIER GOES "SOUTH".

Fritz Bergmeier, editor of the St. Paul Volkszeitung, went south on detached service for the period of the war on September 17, his destination the military prison at McPherson, Ga.

Interned as an alien enemy in the Ramsey County jail since August 9, he was taken to Fort Snelling following the discovery that he had been dictating the policy of the Volkszeitung from his cell.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

Newspaper Advertising Manager of wide experience, strong personality and executive ability, at present employed as Business and Advertising Manager, desires position on evening newspaper, preferably where publisher will offer permanent position and salary of $100 a week with further advancement as it is merited.

Present employer will testify to my capability and integrity, and that I have good reasons for wishing to make a change.

Am 40 years old, married, and will go anywhere in the United States. Address Box 884, care The Fourth Estate.

Mr. Publisher—Has the war hit your advertising department and do you want an experienced solicitor at once? Am unexpectedly at liberty. Have had over 20 years' experience selling advertising, not copy chasing. Full of ideas and know how to put them over. References cannot be beaten. Name what salary you will pay; it must be good, but I will earn it. For quick action, write Experienced Solicitor, care The Fourth Estate.

I am seeking a connection as business manager of a daily publication with a circulation of from 25,000 to 75,000. At present employed. Would furnish highest references and if mutually agreeable would make financial investment. Have had twelve years' practical experience with small and large dailies. Reply in first instance to Box 886, care The Fourth Estate.

WANTED: A JOB

as reporter or in editorial work—somewhere in America. Twenty years on two papers. Eleven years reporter, city and managing editor Joliet (Ill.) Daily News. Nine years reporter on Anaconda Standard at its Butte office. Covered every run on paper and last four years handled politics, mining and financial page and big assignments. If you need man, write. I will furnish references and further information. Charles L. Stevens, 634 W. Quartz street, Butte, Mont.

Has the war crippled your news staff? I am married and want to settle down in a good city and on an afternoon paper which will pay a managing editor a decent living salary. I'll guarantee to give you the best paper you have ever had. I am thirty. Have worked in cities large and small and filled every position from cub reporter up. Address Box 881, care The Fourth Estate.

ARTIST

wishes position with advertising agency. Lettering, retouching, layout. Address Box 880, care The Fourth Estate.

Manager now successfully handling small daily desires change; understand advertising, business end, job printing, handling help; have worked on news side; beyond draft age; married; desire clean town having good educational advantages. Address Box 879, care The Fourth Estate.

If your newspaper property does not pay as it should consult a specialist who can put something over to your advantage. Address Box U, care The Fourth Estate.

STEREOTYPER

desires foremanship; able to take charge any size shop; 14 years' experience; 28 years old, married, two dependents; sober, reliable, union, economical, and references. Address Stereotyper, care The Fourth Estate.

Editing copy; statistical or index work; weekly or monthly; at his home (New York) by experienced man. Address Box 876, care The Fourth Estate.

CIRCULATION MANAGER. successful business getter, using original campaign methods, twelve years experience on large and small dailies, at present employed, but desires a change. Address Box 876, care The Fourth Estate.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

Strong evening newspaper, in medium sized middle Western city, has opening for

Experienced Make-Up Editor

One who has worked in both small and large cities of Middle West preferred. Good opportunity for steady, mature man who values good treatment, fair pay and a chance for advancement. Address Opportunity, care The Fourth Estate, stating full personal details, experience, salary expectations, etc.

ARTHUR BRISBANE

managed the New York Sun at 23. The directors were dubious, but Brisbane made good.

If you want for telegraph editor a man of 23 with judgment, crisp English, and some experience, address Box 000, care The Fourth Estate.

Advertising manager with 25 years' (13 years solicitor, assistant and advertising manager Detroit (Mich.) Journal; 8 years advertising manager Duluth (Minn.) News Tribune; 5 years advertising manager Omaha (Neb.) Bee) successful experience in seeking connection with a live newspaper where ability to organize and produce will warrant the continuance of his service indefinitely. Will go anywhere. References any past employer. For further particulars address G. W. Preston, care Hotel Griswold, Detroit, Mich.

Wanted Situation as managing or city editor. Now managing editor of Eastern daily of 30,000 circulation. Experience in East, middle West and Pacific coast. In early thirties, married, reliable, healthy, progressive but sane. Not a job hunter, but an opportunity seeker. Salary required depends on relative local cost of living, but nothing less than $50 a week at start considered. Address Box 882, care The Fourth Estate.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

You may need to know

How you can get in touch with the right man for a position vacant, or

How you can find a suitable opening for yourself or some friend whom you can recommend.

Keep in mind the scope of our work. Ours is a service bureau for employers and employees in all departments of the Publishing, Advertising and Printing field. East, South and West.

No charge to employers; registration free; moderate commissions from successful clients.

Fernald's Exchange

Third National Bank Building
SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

Resourceful, original and thoroughly trained all-around Editor and Business Getter desires position with magazine, newspaper or advertising agency; experienced publicity man, newspaper writer and business producer competent to prepare any kind of copy. Would be valuable to firm, corporation or publisher requiring initiative and versatility. University graduate, married, temperate and can originate business. At present editing a magazine in the South, but desire opportunity where writing and business ability can be given full play. Can qualify in every respect. Bank and corporation references furnished. Address Box 883, care The Fourth Estate.

A master newspaper man, married, 26, draft exempt, desires position at head of daily in middle West city of 25,000 up. Now employed. Ten year record of success. Exceptionally broad experience. Least starting salary $10 per week. Can report November 10. Address Roake, care The Fourth Estate.

SERVICE CORNER

602—"What can you tell me about the Rapid Addressing Machine?"

603—"Will you kindly send us a list of the national and state editorial and press associations and the names of the president and secretary of each?"

HEMSTREET PRESS CLIPPINGS

Tenth Avenue at 45th Street
NEW YORK CITY

We can Increase Your Business. You want it Increased, don't you?

Of course you have thought of Press Clippings yourself—but let us tell you how Press Clippings can be made a BUSINESS-BUILDER for you.

"BURRELLE"

ESTABLISHED
A QUARTER OF
A CENTURY.

60 and 62 Warren Street
NEW YORK

THE PITTSBURG PRESS

HAS
THE Largest
DAILY AND SUNDAY
CIRCULATION
IN PITTSBURG

Foreign Advertising Representatives
I. A. KLEIN, Metropolitan Tower, N. Y.
JOHN GLASS, Peoples Gas Bldg., Chicago

TRADE AND CLASS PRESS.

At the annual meeting of the Associated Business Papers, Inc., to be held at the Congress Hotel, Chicago, October 11, 12 and 13, the general discussion will be on the relations of war to business and its effect upon the business press.

On October 12 a conference will be held for outside interests in which business men and business press editors will take part. Governor Whitman of New York is expected to be the principal speaker at the banquet.

The general committee in charge of the convention consists of A. C. Pearson, Dry Goods Economist, New York; E. R. Shaw, Power Plant Engineering, Chicago; and R. N. Wright, Railway Age Gazette, New York. The Chicago committee consists of Harry Schwarzschild, chairman, Shoe Findings; C. R. Francis, Furniture Journal; C. B. O'Neill, Motor Age; G. D. Cram, Jr., Hospital Management; and D. F. Cass, the Dead Line.

The National Billiard Weekly of New York has just been incorporated by Shepherd G. Barclay, Emily C. Barclay and Robert H. Barclay, with $50,000 capital stock.

Fred Milburn is the new general manager and treasurer of the Implement & Tractor Trade Journal of Kansas City, Mo. Formerly he was in charge of the Chicago territory and with the Toledo Blade, the Minneapolis Tribune and the Root Newspaper Association trade papers.

C. J. Simpson, the retiring general manager, has entered the automobile business at Salt Lake City, purchasing a block of stock in the Pacific-Nash Motors Company, and will have direct charge of the Utah unit of that

THE NEW YORK WORLD

(Morning Edition)

Prints MORE
ADVERTISING
than any other
newspaper prints.

The Open Door

to the workshop of the world

The Philadelphia Record

Special Representatives
STORY, BROOKS & FINLEY,
Fifth Ave. Bldg., NEW YORK
Peoples Gas Bldg., CHICAGO

Topeka Daily Capital

GOVERNMENT REPORT
for six months ending April 1, 1917, showing net paid circulation.

34,567

Member A. B. C. Publisher
Arthur Capper TOPEKA, KAN

organization. He was with the Implement Trade Journal for thirty years, starting work at the age of fourteen. For over fifteen years he had been general manager as well as vice-president and treasurer.

Harry B. Tove formerly of Hoyt's Service, the Notion & Novelty Review and the Corset & Underwear Review, has joined the advertising department of Nugent's Garment Weekly, New York.

H. C. Lee, formerly of the Fairchild publications, has been temporarily appointed Chicago manager of the Merchants' Trade Journal, Des Moines, in the place of R. G. Johnson, who has gone to Honolulu to recover from the effects of a railroad accident.

The Underwear & Hosiery Review is a new monthly trade journal in New York, owned by the Knit Goods Publishing Corporation, D. J. Sandham is advertising manager.

The Trades Reporting Bureau of New York has been incorporated with $50,000 capital to publish a trade paper known as the Chemical, Color and Oil Daily. The incorporators are R. Malone, H. M. Batters and W. E. Tufts of 8,605 New Utrecht avenue, Brooklyn.

H. Vernon Johnson has resigned from the Capper Publications and will shortly take over new duties in the Detroit office of the Class Journal Company.

The Pacific Northwest, Portland, Ore., and the Western Farmer, also of that city, have been merged as the Western Farmer.

W. V. Hodge, Chicago representative for the Haberdasher and the Sporting Goods Dealer, will come to the New York office of the Haberdasher November 15. His work in Chicago is being taken over by Philip Hackett, formerly of the Cement Era Publishing Company.

A. T. Morton has taken over the Douglas (Neb.) Enterprise, Roy E. Harp having entered the National Army.

BOSTON POST

CIRCULATION AUGUST, 1917
"NO RETURNS"

The Daily Post 532,595
The Sunday Post 352,792

KELLY-SMITH CO., Representatives
290 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK
C. GEORGE KROGNES, Western Rep.
Marquette Building, CHICAGO

Today's Housewife

Net Paid  For Every
Guaranteed Issue

GEORGE A. McCLELLAN, Gen. Mgr.
461 Fourth Avenue NEW YORK

RIDICULOUS 2ND CLASS
FIGURES BY THE P.O.

EDITOR THE FOURTH ESTATE.

Six Chairman Claude Kitchen of the Ways and Means Committee in the House of Representatives, is an orator with an imagination, in statistical matters, which frequently takes poetic flights in the clouds.

Any intelligent discussion of the second-class postage question should be based on statistical facts.

When the Post Office Department, which should be an authority in such matters, is asked what it costs to transport and handle second-class matter, the best it can do is to "estimate" that the cost is from eight to nine cents a pound.

The Postmaster General, of course, understands, as does everybody else who has attempted to investigate the second-class postage question, that it is absolutely impossible to find out what it costs to handle this matter. They have to guess at it. Senator Hoke Smith of Georgia, the other day, in a speech on the floor of the Senate, stated that while it was possible to ascertain the exact cost of transporting second-class mail, there was no way to determine the cost of handling it.

Just what proportion of the expenses of the Post Office Department for handling should be apportioned to each class of mail is an impracticable problem to solve.

The Government must have postmasters, assistant postmasters, regular carriers, and rural route carriers, whether there is any second-class mail to handle or not, and probably just as many of them if there were no second-class mail.

Isn't it ridiculous to claim that it costs over eight cents to handle a pound of second-class mail, when the Postmaster General has admitted that the Government is making money on parcel post packages, and is able to transmit and handle them for less than three cents a pound?

Why should it cost any more to transport and handle second-class mail than it does to transport and handle parcel post packages?

This whole question is up in the air. If the truth were known, probably the Government makes enough

1916 Broke All Records
of the
Toledo BLADE
9,807,578 Lines

of advertising in 313 days.
AN AVERAGE OF OVER
104 COLUMNS PER DAY.
Member A.B.C.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
250 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK
Mallards Building, CHICAGO
801 Devonshire St., BOSTON
Kresge Building, DETROIT

YOU MUST
USE THE LOS ANGELES
EXAMINER

TO COVER THE
GREAT SOUTHWEST

Largest Sunday Circulation—more than 150,000

money on the immense number of letters produced by the advertising departments of the various publications of the country to offset all that is lost in handling this mail.

The publishers are asking for simple justice, and not for any advantages that they ought not to have. They are willing to pay their share of the war taxes, but they want to be permitted to live, and they cannot pay taxes unless they do live.

The zone scheme proposed by Mr. Kitchen would ruin or cripple hundreds, if not thousands, of worthy publications. M. T. RICHARDSON.

WALKER SYSTEM IN THE JACKSON PATRIOT OFFICE.

Edmund Walker of Chicago, specialist in newspaper accounting and cost systems, has just finished installing his system in the office of the Jackson (Mich.) Patriot. In speaking of his work Mr. Walker said:

"Within a little over one month this paper has changed from a single entry system with no costing accounts to a basis of efficient accounting and costing and today it can without having increased its accounting staff, tell the cost on any issue of the paper and on any display advertisement."

"A popular opinion is that to obtain these results it is necessary to increase the staff of clerical help. In this particular case the accounting department salaries have been reduced. On one change alone the company can save each year more than the amount of his total account."

Mr. Walker is now handling the accounting department of the Kalamazoo (Mich.) Gazette.

GERMAN EDITOR ARRESTED.

Carl Runge, publisher of a monthly magazine called Liberty, was arrested at San Antonio, Tex., last week by Federal authorities and held under $5,000 bond for examination. Runge is charged with obstructing the draft.

CLUB FOR EMPLOYEES.

The new Prague (Minn.) Times now occupies its new building, which boasts of a club room for its employees.

The Cincinnati Community

consists of an area of 70 square miles with a population of 600,000

THE CINCINNATI ENQUIRER

is the MEDIUM YOU SHOULD USE in this unparalleled market.

Foreign Representatives

John Glass, Peoples Gas Bldg., Chicago
I. A. Klein, Metropolitan Tower, New York

BUSY DAYS FOR THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

MOVING CHICAGO OFFICES—ALL READY FOR WORLD'S SERIES—STAFF NOTES.

After thirty years in the Western Union Building, the Chicago offices of the Associated Press and the City News Bureau move on September 30, to new offices in the Ashland Building.

So skillfully has the change been engineered that the "cut over" will be made without the loss of a minute's time in getting out the Sunday night report of the Associated Press.

The pneumatic tube service of the City News Bureau, which the Associated Press also uses for Chicago delivery, was installed in the new building prior to the change and the shifting of the offices will occasion absolutely no inconvenience and no delay. The change has been managed by J. J. Jones, cashier; Milton Garges, traffic chief, and Howard Blakeslee, news editor.

Telegraph operators for the Associated Press have been notified that their salaries will be increased $4 a week starting October 1.

William McViekar, telegraph editor of the Lincoln (Neb.) State Journal, has been appointed night editor with the Associated Press.

The Associated Press is making elaborate preparations to cover the world series baseball games, both in Chicago and New York. The plan followed last year of filing direct from the grounds will be used again this year, all terminals in the service being given a direct connection. This will make a 28,000-mile circuit.

Among the men who will assist in covering the games will be E. B.

Member A.B.C.

THE WASHINGTON POST

DAILY 2c—SUNDAY 5c

LARGEST Morning Circulation in the Nation's Capital.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
New York Chicago Boston Detroit

Trenton TIMES

New Jersey's Leading

FOOD MEDIUM

Million lines food advertising in two years—developed by our Thursday Food Feature Pages.

This "food atmosphere" and "housewife interest" will increase your sales.

KELLY-SMITH CO.

220 5th Av., N. Y.; Lytton Bg., Chicago

Baltimore News

Net Daily Circulation 89,711
AUGUST, 1917
GAIN over
AUGUST, 1916 14,183

Special Representatives

DAN A. CARROLL J. B. LUTZ
New York Chicago

Moss, general sporting editor, New York; Carl Brandenburg, city editor, New York; Christian D. Hagerty, city editor, Chicago; Charles W. Dunkley, sporting editor, Chicago; M. E. Coleman and William P. Hayes of Chicago.

The second north wire report from Chicago to Milwaukee, St. Paul and Minneapolis is now being filed from the Chicago office by a Morkrum machine. This machine, used with success on reports for small distances, is also meeting with success on this long loop of 500 miles. With the use of the machine, two-wire capacity is secured from the one wire.

Roy Wiker of the Chicago office of the Associated Press is doing vacation relief work for J. Reilly O'Sullivan, correspondent at Sioux Falls, S. D., who is spending his vacation at Kansas City.

W. M. Oppergard, correspondent at Des Moines, covered the trial of Rev. George S. Kelly for the so-called "axe murders" at Villisca, Ia. H. C. Green, coast editor of the Chicago office, relieved Oppergard at Des Moines during the trial.

Joel P. Glass, correspondent at Dallas, covered the Ferguson impeachment proceedings before the Texas Senate committee and found time at odd intervals to run over to Houston and cover the recent race riots there.

T. L. Gard, former chief of the traffic department in the Columbus office, has been promoted to be night chief operator in the Chicago office.

Rex Lardner, correspondent at St. Paul, has been spending his vacation at Niles, Mich.

John E. Tiedeman of St. Louis, former correspondent in Panama, and Mason E. Taylor, formerly of the Chicago editorial staff, are studying for commissions at Fort Sheridan, Ill.

The board of directors of the A. P. will meet in New York on October 3.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat

DAILY—SUNDAY—WEEKLY.

To reach Farmers in Mississippi Valley and Southwest use

Weekly Globe-Democrat

CIRCULATION INCREASING.
Now 115,000 each issue, 230,000 per week. Rate 80c per line per week.

PATERSON New Jersey's Famous Manufacturing City PRESS GUARDIAN

Its BIG Independent Newspaper

G. LOGAN PAYNE COMPANY
New York Chicago Detroit Boston

"MARSE HENRY" WINS.

Henry Watterson, editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, has won his fight to have the national army cantonment at Louisville officially designated "Camp Zachary Taylor," instead of "Camp Taylor."

Mr. Watterson protested in such emphatic fashion against the meaningless name of Camp Taylor, and his tribute to "Old Rough and Ready" was so eloquent, that Secretary of War Baker ordered the change.

In naming the training camp, the War Department used only the surnames, but issued a statement explaining in whose honor they were named. Mr. Watterson's fight for the full name of Zachary Taylor was made in the editorial columns of the Courier-Journal. When Secretary Baker's attention was called to them, he ordered compliance with Mr. Watterson's wishes.

ANOTHER VICTOR PRICE SUIT IN COURT.

A Sherman law suit for triple damages, aggregating $370,000, is now in the United States District Court, having been brought by R. H. Macy & Co. against the Victor Talking Machine Company and several of its distributing agents. The complaint sets forth that the defendants on August 1, 1913, entered into an unlawful agreement with upward of 7,000 dealers in various localities throughout the United States to prevent competition, to limit the supply, and to fix the prices of the talking machines and records made by the Victor Company.

PLATFORM WAR PUBLICITY.

President Wilson has written a letter to George Creel, chairman of the Committee on Public Information, approving the latter's suggestion for a platform publicity campaign for the purpose of correctly representing the different phases of Government activity in the national task of preparing to win the war against Germany.

ANOTHER DAILY QUILTS.

The Hastings (Minn.) Daily Gazette has discontinued publication. The weekly paper will be continued.

A Gain of 73%

During the past four years the Detroit Free Press has enjoyed a gain of 73 per cent in circulation. Character and solidity explain this increase. ADVERTISING MUST PAY in a medium which calls forth such a tremendous response from the public.

The Detroit Free Press

"MICHIGAN'S
GREATEST
NEWSPAPER."

VERREE & CONKLIN, Foreign Reps.
NEW YORK CHICAGO DETROIT

SEATTLE "P-I"

The only seven day A. P. paper in the Metropolis of the entire Northwest.

The one paper in the entire West without competition in its field. It reaches into the homes of the most prosperous people on earth.

W. M. J. MORTON CO. Eastern Reps.
Fifth Av. Bldg., NEW YORK.
Tribune Building, CHICAGO

WATSON QUILTS.

Thomas E. Watson has decided to suspend publication of the Jeffersonian and the Thomson Guard and to abandon his appeal from Federal Judge Speer's decision barring the Jeffersonian from the mails.

He announced that he would not press the case of the Guard, which he brought after the Jeffersonian was excluded from the mails, and in connection with the publication of which he was instructed to appear before postal authorities in Washington.

Watson has consistently opposed the selective draft law and his utterances in the Jeffersonian were declared by Judge Speer to be seditious.

TEACHERS' PATRIOTISM.

Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, former superintendent of schools in Chicago, has gone to Washington, D. C., to become editor of the Patriotic Manual, a publication to be circulated among American school teachers. She will undertake the work at the request of Secretary of the Treasury W. G. McAdoo.

NEW DAILY IN WICHITA.

J. Elmer Reese and W. I. Funk are reported to be organizing a stock company to start a new Democratic daily paper in Wichita, Kan. They are said to have secured an option on a 75-foot plot of ground on North Market street for the erection of a 10-story office building to cost $700,000.

THE PITTSBURGH POST ONLY Democratic Paper In Pittsburgh

CONB. LORENZEN & WOODMAN
Special Representatives
New York, Detroit, Kansas City, Chicago

BUFFALO EVENING NEWS

The only Buffalo newspaper that carries its advertising columns. Many of our advertisers use our columns exclusively. The above is one of the many reasons WHY?

EDWARD H. BUTLER, Editor and Pub.
Represented in the foreign field by
REILLY-SMITH COMPANY,
220 Fifth Ave., NEW YORK
Lyttton Building, CHICAGO.

IN THE AD FIELD.

ADVERTISING ACCOUNTS NOW BEING PLACED BY THE AGENCIES.

BILLINGS, Billings, Mont.—Handling accounts of Carter Sanitarium, Thermopolis, Wyo.; Chapple Drug Co. and Sun River Oil & Gas Co. of Billings.

KLAU, VON PIETERSAM-DUNLAP, 131 22nd st., Milwaukee—Has been appointed advertising agent for Jones Dairy Farm, Fort Atkinson, Wis.

VANDERHOOF, Marquette Bldg., Chicago—Has secured the advertising accounts of the Sunbeam Chemical Company, Inc., Chicago, manufacturer of "Rit," a dye soap, and are making up lists of publications.

WARFIELD, Bee Bldg., Omaha, Neb.—Handling the macaroni advertising of the Skinner Mfg. Co., Omaha. The appropriation this year will be increased from $50,000, the amount spent last year, to approximately $125,000 the coming year. A large list of dairies from coast to coast, national magazines, and trade papers are receiving 1,000-line orders.

CHAMBERS, 616 Maison Blanche Bldg., New Orleans—Sending out copy for the National Farm & Live Stock Show (to be held in New Orleans Nov. 10-19) to Southern newspapers and farm journals.

GOLDSMITH, 25 E. 20th st., N. Y.—Placing the advertising of Phil. Walcott & Co., N. Y., makers of "Dubbeltwear" boys' suits, in a list of women's magazines.

BATTEN, Fourth Av. Bldg., N. Y.—Placing orders with Texas newspapers for M. J. Breitenbach Co., "Pepto Mangan," 53 Warren st., N. Y.

BREARLEY - HAMILTON, Perkins Bldg., Grand Rapids, Mich.—Reported to be figuring on a large newspaper campaign throughout the United States for Superior Laboratories Co., "Stovoll" rust resistant, Grand Rapids, Mich.

CO-OPERATIVE, 3339 Lancaster av., Philadelphia—Placing orders with newspapers where they give cooperation for Shanon Co., "Chasen Vin," Lonic, 136 N. Third st., Philadelphia.

FOLEY, Bulletin Bldg., Philadelphia—Placing copy to run in newspapers during October and November for Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co., "Viceroy" tobacco, St. Louis, Mo.

FOWLER SIMPSON, 1906 Euclid av., Cleveland—Reported will adver-

It Pays to Advertise in the ST. LOUIS TIMES

Now generally recognized as the HOME NEWSPAPER OF ST. LOUIS.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
260 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK.
Mallers Building, CHICAGO.
301 Devonshire Street, BOSTON.
Krege Building, DETROIT.

THE Philadelphia Bulletin HAS THE Largest TWO-Cent Circulation in the East.

Net Daily Paid Average for August
351,976 Copies
WILLIAM L. McLEAN, Publisher.

line in newspapers for Reflex Co., "Reflex Spark Plugs," Cleveland.

GOULSTON, 18 Tremont st., Boston—Placing orders with newspapers in selected sections for Jacob Dreyfuss & Sons, "Congress Shirts," Boston.

HANFEMETZGER, 95 Madison av., N. Y.—Will shortly make 20,000-line contracts with newspapers in cities with a population of 75,000 or over for Famous Players Lasky Film Co., 485 5th av., N. Y. The advertising is for Paramount, Famous Players, Lasky and Art Craft films.

KASTOR, Mercantile National Bank Bldg., St. Louis—Again placing orders with newspapers for Anti-Kamnia Chemical Co., "A-K" tablets, 1624 Pine st., St. Louis.

KOCH, University Bldg., Milwaukee, Wis.—Reported will advertise this fall for McConnon & Co., household supplies, Winona, Minn.

MORSE, 4th av. and 30th st., N. Y.—Again placing orders with some New England newspapers for Weit Stove Co., Glenwood Stoves & Ranges, Taunton, Mass.

NATIONAL BISCUIT CO., "Uneeda Biscuits," etc., Philadelphia—It is rumored that part of advertising has been transferred to a New York City agency.

PRESBREY, 456 4th av., N. Y.—Placing special copy with newspapers for the Aluminum Cooking Utensil Co., "Wear Ever Aluminum Roaster," New Kensington, Pa.

REDFIELD, 34 W. 33d st., N. Y.—Reported will shortly place newspaper contracts for Sonora Phonograph Co., 57 Reade st., N. Y.

SCHERMERTORN, Gibbs Bldg., San Antonio, Tex.—Placing orders with newspapers for Guarantee Shoe Co., Boot-Jack, San Antonio, Tex.

SWLYD, 347 5th av., N. Y.—Placing orders with N. Y. City newspapers for Oriental Vermin Exterminating Co., N. Y.

URMY, 41 Park Row, N. Y.—Placing 12-time orders with newspapers generally for Earl & Wilson, "E & W. Dishwash" Collins, Troy, N. Y.

VAN PATTEN, 50 E. 42d st., N. Y.—Placing 1,000-line copy to run

THE NEW YORK EVENING JOURNAL

has the largest circulation of any newspaper in America.

THE DAYTON SUNDAY NEWS

in the first five months of 1917 has carried 110,264 lines more local business than its only competitor.

With the Springfield News (the two at .955 per line) it's a great Sunday combination.

NEWS LEAGUE OF OHIO
DAYTON, OHIO
I. A. Klein, Metropolitan Tower, N. Y.
John Glass, Peoples Gas Bldg., Chicago

in one week with newspapers generally for Pyrene Mfg. Co., "Pyrene Fire Extinguisher," 32 Vanderbilt av., N. Y.

Placing orders with newspapers in large cities for Hearst Magazine, October issue, 110 W. 40th st., N. Y.
SEAMAN, 401 8th av., N. Y.—Placing orders with newspapers in the following states: Florida, Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, for Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co., "Piedmont" cigarettes, St. Louis.

Placing orders with a selected list of newspapers for Colgate & Co., soaps, perfumes, etc., Jersey City, N. J.

WOOD, PUTNAM & WOOD, 111 Devonshire st., Boston—Again placing 9-inch 8-time orders with newspapers generally for Royal Worcester Corset Co., "Bon Ton" corsets, Worcester, Mass.

DOREMUS & MORSE, 31 Nassau st., N. Y.—Placing orders with some daily newspapers and weeklies for White Tar Moth Co., N. Y.

ADD VANDERHOOF
Placing contracts for the Wilt Sales Co., Wilt Cleaner for kid gloves and shoes, Chicago, in daily newspapers.

Has secured the account of Pyrdol & Chemical Co., Inc., "Preferol," a new mouth wash and gargle, Chicago. Lists of publication are now being made up.

MILLER, Nasby Bldg., Toledo, Ohio—Placing orders in mail order and class publications for W. Z. Long Co., Springfield, Ohio.

KEILEY, 2nd National Bank Bldg., Toledo—Has added the Standard Parts Co., Cleveland, to its accounts.

BRENTANO-KORNBLUM, Courier Bldg., Evansville, Ind.—Placing orders in daily newspapers for the Scherffus Can Co. and the Evansville Brewing Association.

Also sending out orders for the Sterling Refining Co. to trade publications.

CHAPPELOW, International Life Bldg., St. Louis—Placing advertising of Reflectolite Co., lighting system, St. Louis.

GOULSTON, 18 Tremont st., Boston—Has secured the account of Ply-

THE SYRACUSE POST-STANDARD

—Central New York's FAVORITE newspaper—increases its circulation lead:

Daily (Net Paid) CIRCULATION 55,498

April, 1917 Figures—A.B.C. Basis.—Only morning paper in the metropolis of a rich, agricultural and manufacturing territory.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
250 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK.
Mallers Building, Chicago.
301 Devonshire St., BOSTON.
Krege Building, DETROIT

THE JOURNAL IS THE ONLY MORNING AND SUNDAY PAPER PUBLISHED IN DAYTON, OHIO

STORY, BROOKS & FINLEY, Inc.
Fifth Ave. Bldg., NEW YORK.
Mutual Life Bldg., PHILADELPHIA.
People's Gas Building, CHICAGO.

mouth Rubber Co., "Slipknot rubber heels," Canton, Mass.

LORD & THOMAS, Mallers Bldg., Chicago—Sending out orders to agricultural publications for the advertising of S. Silberman & Sons, fur, Chicago.

DIRECT—Armour Grain Co., Chicago, is now putting out "Maple-Flake Whole Wheat," having recently purchased the Maple-Flake Mills, Grand Rapids, Mich.

Cement Casket Mfg. Co., Albion, Mich., appearing in some large city daily papers.

JOERNS, Lyttton Bldg., Chicago—Placing the advertising of Federal Mercantile Co., Chicago, in some Chicago papers.

MALLORY, MITCHELL & FAUST, Security Bldg., Chicago—Contemplating campaign for Imperial Brass Mfg. Co., "Imperial Primers," a device for priming automobile engines, Chicago.

STERLING, 110 W. 40th st., N. Y.—Has secured the account of Derryvale Linen Co., "Derryvale Irish Linens," N. Y.

KOCH, University Bldg., Milwaukee—Will shortly place some advertising for Puffer-Hubbard Mfg. Co., Silos, Minneapolis.

BILLINGS, Billings, Mont.—Placing the accounts of Carter Sanitarium, Thermopolis, Wyo.; Chapple Drug Co., and Sun River Oil & Gas Co., Billings.

RANKIN, Monroe Bldg., Chicago—Placing the advertising of Farquhar-Moon Mfg. Co., "Energene," Chicago, in a few selected Southern newspapers.

Now placing newspaper advertising for Y.M.C.A. Schools of Chicago.

ROGERS & SMITH, 64 E. Van Buren st., Chicago—Sending out orders to farm papers for the advertising of Rowe Mfg. Co., Galesburg, Ill.

BLACKMAN-ROSS, 95 Madison av., N. Y.—Will shortly place orders for N. K. Fairbanks & Co., "Cottolene," Chicago.

ANFENGER, Railway Exchange Bldg., St. Louis—Sending out orders to farm publications for the adver-

THE
Boston Herald
(Morning and Sunday) and the Boston Traveler
(Evening)

Net Paid Circulation:
DAILY, over 208,000
Sunday, over 119,000

Member Audit Bureau of Circulations.

Joliet, Ill. (The PITTSBURGH) of the West
Surrounded by the most fertile agricultural section in the Illinois corn belt. Covered by but one daily newspaper.

The Herald-News
ALCORN-HENKEL, Representative
New York Chicago

tising of McCullough & Tumbach, fur, St. Louis.

Placing orders with newspapers in selected section for Grain Products Co., "Bran-Eats" biscuits, St. Louis.

SEEDS, 330 University Square, Indianapolis—Has secured the account of National Fruit Juice Co.

TURNER, Transportation Bldg., Chicago—Has secured the account of Martin & Martin, Chicago.

REDFIELD, 34 W. 33d st., N. Y.—Orders going out to a list of newspapers on Sonora Phonographs.

HANFF-METZER, 95 Madison av., N. Y.—Orders for 24,800 lines going out to newspapers on Paramount Motion Pictures.

DYER, 42 Broadway, N. Y.—Sending out contracts for 10,000 lines to newspapers for Penick & Ford's "New Orleans Molasses."

DIRECT — Aluminum Cooking Utensil Co., New Kensington, Pa., is advertising in newspapers in connection with the food conservation movement.

Avon Chemical Co., 104 5th av., N. Y., is asking information in various towns for a newspaper campaign in contemplation.

A PRO-GERMAN BANNED.
The Guatemala City daily newspaper, Eco Aleman, published in Spanish, which has been active in its hostility to the Entente, has been suppressed.

The St. James (Minn.) Journal-Gazette has been discontinued.

St. Paul and the Northwest
best can be reached by advertising your wares in the columns of the

ST. PAUL DISPATCH
and ST. PAUL PIONEER PRESS
In St. Paul, the St. Paul Dispatch has an average total daily circulation of 53,478; the St. Paul Pioneer Press, an average total daily circulation of 45,532; the St. Paul Sunday Pioneer Press an average total Sunday circulation of 47,802.

They also enter thousands of homes, located in cities, towns and rich farming districts of the Northwest.

TOTAL CIRCULATION
St. Paul Dispatch (daily). Over 51,000.
St. Paul Pioneer Press (daily). Over 64,000.
Sunday Pioneer Press. Over 77,000.
They Cover the Field.

BRIDGEPORT

CONNECTICUT
(The Eden of America)
The Prosperity Center of the United States and the Industrial Center of New England.

THE
Post & Telegram

(Evening) (Morning)
Cover This Field Absolutely.
Members of the A. B. C.
JULIUS MATHEWS, Representative
1 Beacon Street, BOSTON
171 Madison Avenue, NEW YORK
Hartford Building, CHICAGO

DALLAS EVENING JOURNAL

Published by A. H. Belo & Co.
Covers the afternoon field as completely as does the Dallas News in the morning
37,659 NET PAID average during 6 months period ending April 1, 1917. P. O. Report.
LARGEST AFTERNOON Circulation
J. D. LORENTZ, Manager Eastern Dept.
728 Tribune Building, NEW YORK

MAGAZINE NOTES.

Forbes' Magazine, a new fortnightly financial publication under the management of B. C. Forbes, made its first appearance in New York on September 19. Associated with Mr. Forbes are Miss Marian R. Glenn, formerly director of business information for the American Bankers' Association, who will conduct "The Woman in Business" department; and Walter Dry, formerly general manager of the Magazine of Wall Street. Among the contributors are Clement B. Asbury, who is conducting a stock market analysis, and Lockwood Barr, who in each issue discusses investment opportunities and edits a fact and comment department.

Miss Mary M. Murphy, for the past three years on the staff of the Ottawa (Ont.) Journal, has been appointed managing editor of Everywoman's World, Toronto.

SPRINGFIELD CHANGES.

A. G. Shirley, since the first of the year advertising manager of the Springfield (Ohio) News, has resigned to take charge of the advertising department of the Edward Wren Company. Mr. Shirley previous to his connection with the News was for several years in department store work similar to his new duties.

Elno R. Smith succeeds Mr. Shirley as advertising manager of the News. Mr. Smith is well known among the business men of the city, having been connected with the News advertising department for a number of years.

SCRIPPS WANTS EXEMPTION.

An appeal from the exemption board has been filed in behalf of Robert Scripps, son of E. W. Scripps, the millionaire publisher. The exemption boards decided against young Scripps on two pleas—one that he had a family dependent upon him and another that as a newspaper worker he was more valuable in that capacity than as a soldier.

Appeal from the exemption board's decision in Cincinnati has been made direct to President Wilson.

THE DETROIT JOURNAL

with over 100,000 net paid Circulation daily is indispensable in covering Detroit and surrounding territory.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.,
New York Chicago Boston Detroit

Newark Star-Eagle
NEW JERSEY'S
LARGEST PENNY PAPER

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.,
New York Chicago Boston Detroit

CORN BELT FARMER CHANGES.

Early in May Captain Clark, publisher of the Corn Belt Farmer, Waterloo, Ia., entered the first officers' training camp at Little Rock, Ark. When the commissions were awarded three months later he was made a captain and ordered to report at Camp Pike, near Little Rock, one of the big cantonments, for service in training the new army.

CAPTAIN HARRY B. CLARK.

His work in the army will make it necessary for him to give up active management of his farm paper, at least until the end of the war.

Paul B. Talbot, for the past three years advertising manager, has assumed entire management and will be assisted by Fred F. Clark of Lancaster, Pa., Captain Clark's brother.

Fred Clark will move to Waterloo and take charge of the circulation.

NEW METAL PAPER.

Money Metals has appeared in New York as an exponent of the fact that an increased gold and silver production is very much needed at the present time and will lend its aid and assistance to all legitimate mining enterprises.

Money Metals proposes sending its messages not alone to the miners of the West, but to the bankers and investors of the country urging that they give staunch loyal support to every legitimate effort to promote the mining industry.

The Plain Dealer

First Newspaper of Cleveland, Sixth City prints a far greater total of paid advertising and paid advertisements than any other newspaper in

CLEVELAND

Over 150,000 Daily. || Over 200,000 Sunday.

JOHN B. WOODWARD, Eastern Advertising Representative, Times Bg., N. Y.
JOHN GLASS, Western Advertising Representative, Peoples Gas Bg., Chicago.

BALTIMORE CITY OF HOMES

and noted for its great industries and thrifty working classes, affords National Advertisers one of the best fields. Use the

AMERICAN and STAR

Morning—Sunday Evening
Baltimore's greatest newspapers, to thoroughly cover city and state. Member A.B.C.
C. GEORGE KROGNESS, CHICAGO.
VERREE & CONKLIN, Inc., New York

NEW DAILY AT BISMARCK.

The Bismarck (N. D.) Public Opinion Company has incorporated for the purpose of publishing a daily newspaper at Bismarck. It is a reorganization of the Missouri Slope Cooperative Publishing Company, which for the past eight months has been issuing a weekly owned and controlled by the farmers and business men of the slope county and managed by R. S. Wilcox.

The new daily, of which the farmers will also have complete control, will be launched not later than the first of November.

WILL SOON EDIT THE BEE.

When Carlos H. McClatchy returns from military service, in which he is now a first lieutenant in the regular army, he will succeed his father, Charles K. McClatchy, as editor of the Sacramento (Cal.) Bee. When he went into the army he was one of the associate editors of the Bee and his place is being temporarily filled by E. S. Carroll, formerly with the Bee and Salt Lake newspapers.

In the news department of the Bee about fourteen other changes have been caused by writers leaving, nearly all of them for the war.

CLASS READERS.

The Chicago Daily News printed a book section on September 19 that was mailed to a list of over 4,000 book customers of Marshall Field & Co., and a list of over 300 reading rooms and libraries.

Washington Newspapers

Sworn statements of the newspapers at the National Capitol to the Post Office Department for the six months ending March 31, 1917:

Evening Star 83,194
Evening Times 35,569
Washington Post 34,293
Washington Herald 30,454

Since this statement the circulation of the Star, Times and Post has materially increased.

The special features of THE BUFFALO TIMES

have made it the most popular newspaper in
Western New York

NORMAN E. MACK, Proprietor.
VERREE & CONKLIN, Inc.
Special Advertising Representatives.
NEW YORK, DETROIT, CHICAGO

Schenectady POPULATION 100,000
EVENING UNION STAR
CIRCULATION 20,643
AUDITED
Home circulation reaching best paid
scientific, technical and skilled mechanics
in America.
LA COSTE & MAXWELL
Special Representatives
NEW YORK CHICAGO

OBITUARY NOTES.

CLINTON W. SWEET, founder of the Real Estate Record, the Architectural Record and the Builders' Guide, now known as the Record and Guide, of New York, committed suicide by shooting himself on September 24 at his home in Yonkers, N. Y. For several years he had been suffering from nervous disorders. He was widely known also as the head of the Sweet-Orr Overall Company.

JAMES WESTON GOSS, one of the oldest and best known newspaper men of Minnesota, died in Duluth September 17. Mr. Goss, familiarly known as "the judge," began his newspaper career in Duluth when it was a village, and followed the profession until age and disease incapacitated him from strenuous activity. He was seventy-six years old.

JAMES L. LEE, president of the Challenge Machinery Company, Grand Haven, Mich., died on September 16 of pneumonia. He was a veteran newspaper man, having begun his trade in England at the age of twelve. He went to Chicago in 1863, and was employed on a paper in which Mary L. Livermore was the moving spirit and William Cullen Bryant the editor.

CAPTAIN GEORGE R. H. BUFFINGTON, for fifteen years manager of the Fall River (Mass.) Evening Herald, died at Craigville, Mass., on September 24 after three weeks' illness. He was formerly commander

If this territory presents a sales problem to you, the
Merchandising Service Department.

of the Boston American will, upon request, make a trade investigation covering various sections of Metropolitan Boston and submit a report which will help you solve that problem. Ask how this department works.

BOSTON AMERICAN

W. D. BOYCE CO.
309-314 North Dearborn St., CHICAGO
306 Metropolitan Tower, NEW YORK
PUBLISHER

THE INDIANA DAILY TIMES

INDIANAPOLIS
THE FARMING BUSINESS
High-class farm weekly, magazine form.
BOYCE'S WEEKLIES
The Saturday Blade, Chicago Ledger.
THE LONE SCOUT

"BOYCE'S" IS A SYNONYM for
SUCCESSFUL ADVERTISING

Peoria TRANSCRIPT
Only morning newspaper in Peoria.

Peoria JOURNAL
Only evening paper in Peoria with Associated Press franchise. Leads in circulation and advertising. Member A.B.C. SUNDAY JOURNAL-TRANSCRIPT.
Combination Advertising Rate
HENRY M. PINDELL, Proprietor.
CHAS. H. EDDY CO., Representatives.
NEW YORK BOSTON CHICAGO

in-chief of the Massachusetts Naval Militia. He was fifty-three years old.

DANIEL L. RUSSELL, a newspaper man and formerly president of the Telegraphers' Union, died in New York on September 24.

FRANK G. DICKEY, former night editor of the Associated Press and member of its Boston bureau, is dead in Boston.

DANIEL W. FLENNER, an employee of the Chester (Pa.) Times for more than thirty-five years, is dead in his home town.

FRANK E. HALL, formerly editor and publisher of the Joliet (Ill.) Daily News and for many years with the American Press Association, died on September 15 in Fremont, Neb. Lately he was connected with the advertising department of Fremont papers.

ASA E. HUNT, formerly advertising manager of the Dallas (Tex.) News, died recently, aged forty-four years.

ESTABEN DOMINGUEZ, connected with the Santa Fe New Mexican, is dead.

JAMES DAVIS SHAW, publisher of the Moundsville (W. Va.) Daily Echo, is dead, aged eighty-two years.

CAPTAIN JOHN J. WHEELER, a pioneer Indiana newspaper editor, died recently at Crown Point, Ind., aged seventy-nine years. He was editor of the Crown Point Star for forty years and has served as postmaster.

FRANCIS VAN HAM, a veteran Chicago newspaper man, died last week in St. Luke's Hospital, aged sixty-three years.

NEA BROWN, sportsman, writer and business man well known among the newspaper fraternity in Chicago, died recently at Watkins, N. Y. His home was in Wasau, Wis., and he was on his way home from New York when he died.

JOHN H. BRAINARD, one of the pioneer editors of Boone, Ia., died on September 19 after an illness of many months' duration. He formerly was with papers in Clear Lake, New Amsterdam and Nevada,

The BEST Advertising BUY in CLEVELAND

THE NEWS

Quality Evening Newspaper
With Quantity Circulation

THE LEADER

Sunday

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
550 Fifth Ave., NEW YORK
Mallory Building, CHICAGO
301 Devonshire St., BOSTON
Krepps Building, DETROIT

THE NEW ORLEANS ITEM

Largest Afternoon Circulation in the
entire South.

(April A.B.C. Not Paid Statement)
Sunday 68,875 Daily 55,041
THE JOHN BUDD COMPANY
NEW YORK CHICAGO ST. LOUIS

the Council Bluffs Nonpareil and Boone Standard. Following his retirement from editorial work he became curator of the Ericson Library in Boone.

JOHN BEEKMAN HULING, for over thirty years a printer in Chicago and at one time editor of Inland Printer, died September 24 at his home in Downers Grove, near Chicago.

W. C. HAYWARD, who was editor of the Garner (Ia.) Signal in the early seventies, passed away at his home in Davenport, Ia., September 16. Mr. Hayward was later cashier of the Garner City Bank, which he helped organize, president of the Davenport National Bank, member of the school board of that city for nine years, served five times in the state senate and was secretary of state in 1907 and 1908.

HELENA STAFF SHIFTS.

There has been quite a shake-up on the Helena (Mont.) Standard.

Charles Copenhaver, for twenty-six years with the Standard and for many years city editor; Harold Cray, for eight years sporting editor and one of its "star" reporters, and Charles L. Stevens have all resigned. Cray has gone to war. Copenhaver has not yet made other connections. Stevens is handling publicity work for the fair until October 1.

Harry C. Sultzer, who handled courts, has been made city editor.

A REPORTER MISSING.

The parents of Meade Southley, nineteen years old, of Westport, Ct., have appealed for aid in finding the young man, who has been missing three weeks.

He was a reporter on the Bridgeport Standard-American. He is 5 feet, 11 inches tall and weighs about 180 pounds.

CONSOLIDATION IN MONTANA.

J. T. Annin, formerly owner of the Columbus (Mont.) News, and M. C. Smith of the Democrat will be, respectively, editor and manager of the News-Democrat, a newly consolidated weekly newspaper of Columbus.

THE PITTSBURG DISPATCH

has been a potent factor in the success of Pittsburgh's big stores.

H. C. Rook, Real Est. Trust Bldg., Phila.
W. G. Brooks, 285 Fifth Av., New York
Ford-Parsons Co., Michigan Av., Chicago
W. E. Edges, Atlantic City, N. J.
Dorland Co., 19 Regent St., London, Eng.

The City of Richmond 15,309 qualified
VIRGINIA, has voters

THE TIMES-DISPATCH RICHMOND.

is delivered 12,000 of the city's
daily into best homes.

In all VIRGINIA it's the same.
STORY, BROOKS & FINLEY, Inc.
New York Philadelphia Chicago

BEST $2 INVESTMENT.

EDITOR THE FOURTH ESTATE.

SIR: When I subscribed to THE FOURTH ESTATE I did it more from a spirit of helping out a friend than I did from feeling that it would be of special interest to me as a newspaper man located way out in Illinois.

I have been agreeably disappointed however.

THE FOURTH ESTATE bristles with news and information of value to the profession. I don't think I have ever invested $2 in my business as a publisher—and I have been in the game for over thirty years—that has produced as good results.

No newspaper man—be he publisher of a weekly, daily or magazine—can afford to be without a trade paper—his trade paper, and I always await the arrival of THE FOURTH ESTATE with interest and take a full degree of pleasure in perusing its contents.

FRED L. ROY.

Publisher the Streator (Ill.) Daily Independent Times; vice-president National Association of Postmasters.

AN ILLINOIS ELECTION.

The Suburban Publishers Association, at its first annual meeting elected R. J. Penceck of Chicago, president; C. F. Renick of Woodstock, vice-president; U. S. G. Blakely of Plainfield, recording secretary; E. A. Cogley of Maywood, treasurer; and B. A. Pratt of Chicago, corresponding secretary.

The Circulation of the NEW YORK EVENING MAIL

represents a greater purchasing power per unit of circulation than is found in any other New York Evening Paper.

A Powerful List is the MILWAUKEE GERMANIA LIST

CIRCULATION

Germania Herold 36,989
Only German Morning daily in Milwaukee
Sonntag Post 37,000
Only German Sunday daily in Milwaukee
Weekly Germania 107,413
(German Farm Journal) Weekly, 103,333
Die Rundschau, Weekly, 25,008
Eastern Representative
LOUIS KLEBAHN
1 West 84th Street NEW YORK
Telephone 815 Greeley

A National American Daily and Sunday printed in the Polish language reaching over 150,000 readers.

A Splendid Advertising Medium
Phone Stuyvesant 2004
90 East 10th St., NEW YORK

BONNET ROUGE CASE GROWS.

Another arrest was made on September 29 in the Bonnet Rouge case in Paris, when Jacques Landau, a reporter on that paper, was taken into custody. Landau is said to have admitted that it was he who obtained safe conducts for M. Duval, director of the Bonnet Rouge, to visit Switzerland. A suspicious check was found on Duval when he returned from his last visit to that country. The Bonnet Rouge case played a part in the recent cabinet upheaval in France.

Miguel Almercyda, editor of the paper, committed suicide in a Paris prison, where he was held on a charge of sedition. M. Duval, who was arrested on August 15 with Almercyda, is awaiting trial on a charge of supplying the enemy with information. On September 1 M. Malvy, minister of the interior, resigned in order to refute press charges made in connection with the case.

TAKES UP WAR WORK.

Mrs. J. A. Gurnett, has resigned from the editorship of the woman's department of the Toronto Mail and Empire to become secretary of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Organization of Resources Committee. Before entering the field of journalism, Mrs. Gurnett was president of Toronto's Household Economic League and secretary of the Local Council of Women.

A Short Story: DETROIT SATURDAY NIGHT

—gained 35% in
Advertising and
Circulation in 1916

NOW IN ITS ELEVENTH YEAR

Represented by G. Logan Payne Co.
New York. Chicago. Boston. Detroit.

THE ST. LOUIS WESTLICHE POST

reaches the GERMAN reading and speaking population of St. Louis
as no other medium can.

THE ONLY POLISH DAILY IN NEW ENGLAND

Kuryer Bostonski

27 Beverly st., BOSTON, MASS.
reaches 800,000 Poles in New England. They want to buy your goods

Use Kuryer Bostonski

INDIANAPOLIS STAR NOTES.

Everett C. Watkins, for a number of years general assignment reporter on the Indianapolis Star, has been appointed Washington staff correspondent for that paper and will assume his new duties about October 1. Mr. Watkins has been with the Indiana troops at Camp Mills, Long Island, for several weeks, serving in the capacity of staff man for the Star.

He is succeeded on the Star staff by Morrison Koerner, who will be stationed at Fort Harrison until the close of the present officers training camp.

Herbert Grant, a reporter on the Star, has resigned to enter the army.

Hillard Garretson, for the past year Indianapolis night editor of the Associated Press, has been appointed assistant city editor of the Indianapolis Star in place of William McClure, who resigned to enter the officers' training camp at Fort Harrison.

Hector Fuller, for several years dramatic critic of the Indianapolis Star and latterly military expert for that paper, has resigned and joined the government in the aid of the Liberty War Council, the agency that is creating and maintaining libraries for the soldiers and sailors of the present war.

Thomas J. Steele, an old-time Indianapolis newspaper man and formerly managing editor of the Indianapolis Journal, who is at present librarian for the Indianapolis Star, has been off duty for several weeks on account of illness.

NEW CANADIAN PAPER.

The South Shore Breeze is the name of a new Canadian publication issued by the South Shore Board of Trade to call attention to the industrial opportunities of Greenfield Park, Longueuil, Montreal South, St. Lambert and parishes of Longueuil and St. Hubert.

NEW MONTANA DAILY.

The Harlowton Press, published by J. Johns, is Montana's latest daily newspaper.

The St. Paul (Neb.) Republican has been sold to H. B. McKibbin by Walter L. Bucksen.

MONTREAL

is CANADA'S largest and wealthiest city—sixth in America in population; fourth largest French city in the world—and a wonderfully fine market for all kinds of advertised goods.

LA PRESSE

is Canada's largest circulating daily—over 145,000 and still growing—and it thoroughly covers Montreal's population, which is over 700,000, and of which 70 per cent is French Canadian element. Get particulars.

WM. J. MORTON CO., Special Reps.
NEW YORK Fifth Ave. Building.
CHICAGO, Tribune Building.
LONDON, ENG., 19 Sicilian Avenue
Southampton Row.
PARIS, 6 rue du Rocher.

THE JEWISH MORNING JOURNAL NEW YORK CITY

carries more advertising than any other Jewish newspaper. Circulation in New York City largest of all foreign language newspapers.

Member A. B. C.

IN SAN ANTONIO.

G. D. Coates, formerly of the Winthrop Press, New York, has joined the staff of the San Antonio (Tex.) Saturday Night, succeeding Clifton H. Tupper.

Kenneth C. Perry has resigned, entering the army as first lieutenant in Battery B, Second Texas Field Artillery, stationed at Camp Bowie, Fort Worth.

NEW ASSOCIATION PAPER.

Under a resolution of the board of directors of the Florida Publishers' Auxiliary, a paper called the Florida Publishers' Bulletin has been established as a regular monthly publication. It has no subscription price, but will be mailed under special prepaid postal permit to every newspaper in Florida.

PAPER'S PLANT SMASHED.

Frustrated by alleged disloyal utterances of Carl A. Wold, editor of the Park Region (Minn.) Echo, several citizens of Alexandria entered his office the other night, smashed the Linotype machine and press and carried off the letter files.

MERGER IN OREGON.

W. C. Parry, owner of the Junction City (Ore.) Times, purchased the Valley Progress, owned and edited by A. K. Mickey. Mr. Parry will consolidate the Progress with his own paper.

MEETING POSTPONED.

The West Virginia Press Association meeting, which was to have been held last week in Webster Springs, was postponed indefinitely on account of the Webster Springs Hotel being closed.

GOING IT ALONE.

John Michaelson has assumed entire control of the South Sioux City (Neb.) Record, having purchased the interest of his partner, J. P. Halloran.

NEWCOMER IN IOWA.

The Register Printing Company has launched a new paper in Hillsboro, Ia., with E. J. Rice as business manager.

NEW YORK

America's Greatest Jewish Community

THE DAY

America's Foremost
Jewish Daily.

Reaches the cream of purchasing power of the Jewish element in America.
CIRCULATION OVER 70,000
Despite advance in price from one to two cents.

THE DAY

The National
Jewish Daily.

Member A. B. C.

Main Publication Office:
188 East Broadway, NEW YORK

NARODNI List

Briscoe Motor Corp. of Jackson, Mich., has just placed 19,550 agate lines of Briscoe advertising in the Narodni List. This is the best proof that the Narodni List is one of the best advertising mediums in the foreign languages for National advertisers.

Ideal Newspaper for National Advertisers
Phone 3289 Beekman
61 Park Row, NEW YORK

The Only ITALIAN Daily Newspaper
in New England.
Published Daily and Sunday.

La Notizia—The News

32-34 Battery St. BOSTON consolidated with La Tribuna del Popolo and Il Messaggero di Worcester.

100,000 Italians in Boston.
300,000 Italians in Massachusetts.
1,000,000 Italians in New England.

FILLING IN A WAR HOLE.

Harold F. Doolittle, junior member of the firm of E. S. Doolittle & Son, publishers of the Pierce County (Wis.) Herald, has become manager of the River Falls (Wis.) Journal. Stanley Morse, the publisher, has been drafted.

FEATURE HUNTING.

C. R. Adams, vice-president, and R. H. Curtis, assistant Sunday editor of the Minneapolis Journal, have been touring through the northern part of Minnesota, securing information for feature stories.

INSTALLS NEW PRESS.

The Amsterdam (N. Y.) Evening Recorder has installed a new high speed press that will print 20,000 four to twenty-page papers per hour, with self-contained paper roll hoist and high speed folder.

CITY EDITOR AN OWNER.

Malcolm Aldrich has sold his stock in the Fairmont (Minn.) Sentinel to Harry Fairley, city editor of the Minneapolis Journal.

THE TERRE HAUTE TRIBUNE

The big home
evening paper
of its section
of Indiana.

In Charge of Foreign Advertising
G. LOGAN PAYNE COMPANY
New York Chicago Boston Detroit

The Hartford Courant

The only paper in Hartford to show a gain in advertising over the preceding year.

Total volume of advertising carried by the Three Hartford Daily Papers for the first eight months of 1916 and 1917, as compiled by DeLisser Brothers, certified public accountants of New York City

		Gain	Loss
The Hartford Courant,	1917 5,548,969	59,159
	1916 5,489,810
The Hartford Times	1917 5,648,216		370,949
	1916 6,019,165
The Hartford Post,	1917 2,389,365		309,250
	1916 2,698,615

CIRCULATION

The Hartford Courant also shows the largest increase in circulation over the preceding year of any newspaper in the City of Hartford.

Daily Courant over 20,000 net paid
Sunday Courant over 22,000 net paid

From a circulation and rate standpoint The Hartford Courant offers you the best advertising buy in the City of Hartford—in fact in the entire State of Connecticut.

FOREIGN REPRESENTATIVES

GILMAN & NICOLL,

World Building,
NEW YORK

Tribune Building,
CHICAGO

A NEWSPAPER FOR
THE MAKERS OF NEWSPAPERS
AND INVESTORS IN
ADVERTISING

Published Weekly at 339 West
59th Street (Near Broadway)

NEW YORK CITY

SATURDAY, OCT. 6, 1917

THE FOURTH ESTATE

"EDMUND BURKE SAID
that there were Three Estates
in Parliament, but in the Reporter's Gallery yonder there
sat a 'Fourth Estate' more important far than they all."
—Carlyle's "Heroes and Hero Worship," Lecture V.

PRICE 10 CENTS.
TWO DOLLARS A YEAR

ESTABLISHED 1894 No. 1232

SUPREMACY:

The Plain Dealer's wide margin of supremacy is again shown by September advertising figures. Advertisers placed in The Plain Dealer's columns 243,040 lines more of advertising than in any other Cleveland newspaper.

During September

The Plain Dealer published 1,102,878 lines of paid advertising, being an increase of 170,786 lines over the same month last year. (By far the largest increase of any Cleveland newspaper.)

EXCEEDING Cleveland's second newspaper
(evening) by 243,040 lines

EXCEEDING Cleveland's third newspaper
(evening) by 551,586 lines

(In justice to the evening papers legal advertising has been excluded)

Here are the facts in figures; they prove beyond question of a doubt that The Cleveland Plain Dealer produces. If you have something to sell, the people living within the territory covered by The Plain Dealer, will buy it—provided you tell them about it—through their favorite newspaper.

The Plain Dealer

FIRST NEWSPAPER OF CLEVELAND, SIXTH CITY

Eastern Advertising Representative:

JOHN B. WOODWARD

Times Building, NEW YORK

Western Advertising Representative:

JOHN GLASS

CHICAGO, Peoples Gas Building

PROHIBITIVE MAIL RATES ON NEWSPAPERS.

CONGRESS GETS THE LONG-SOUGHT 2ND CLASS INCREASE THROUGH, BUT MATTER WILL BE REOPENED AGAIN.

The $11,000,000,000 War Revenue Bill, which was enacted into law on October 3 by the affixing of President Wilson's signature, provides more burdensome discriminatory special taxes on the newspapers than the most pessimistic publishers had contemplated the House and Senate conferees could possibly adopt.

The members of Congress who have long "had it in" for the newspapers have succeeded in saddling on them special second-class mail increases that they believe will provide them with the satisfaction of seeing many newspapers "go under."

But their success is not assured yet by long odds.

In fact, the conferees' report was adopted by the Senate with the distinct understanding that at the session of Congress beginning December 1 the repeal of the provision increasing the postal rates on second-class matter and other objectionable features of the bill will be taken up.

And members of the House, too, like Representatives Cooper of Wisconsin, Mondell and Platt, declared they have not given up the fight for justice for the newspapers. They voted for the bill in order to get its other forms into operation without delay.

For five months the bill has been in the Senate. It was necessary to dispose of it in order to permit adjournment.

Even Senator Simmons, chairman of the finance committee, and Senator Penrose, ranking Republican member of the committee, admitted the bill has features which do not meet their approval, but they asked the Senate to vote for the report to get the machinery of taxation under way.

Senator Smoot expressed the sentiment of many Senators when he said:

"I know there are not enough votes in the Senate to return this report to the conference. If I were convinced we had enough votes I would do everything in my power to see that it was returned, if for no other reason than to change the zone system on second-class mail matter."

"I do not believe the system proposed can successfully be defended. If it were possible to repeal this bill before it takes effect I would insist upon a vote in order that the second-class mail provision could be changed in conference. But the provision does not take effect until July 1, 1918. I think during the regular session we can get an expression of members as to whether or not they want this plan, which means absolute ruin to a great number of publications."

As the bill was adopted in the emergency, enormous increases on second-class mail matter are provided. Different rates will apply to reading and to advertising matter, and no free zone is provided for either.

PROVISIONS OF ZONES.

Beginning July 1, 1918, and continuing until July 1, 1919, the rate per pound on reading matter will be 1½ cents, or a quarter of a cent more than the present rate on all second-class matter, and one and one-half cents per pound after July 1, 1919.

Publications carrying more advertisements than 5 per cent of their total space are subjected under the fourth-class parcels post zone system, to the following rates per pound on their advertising matter:

Between July 1, 1918, and July 1, 1919: First and second zones, 1½ cents; third, 1½ cents; fourth, 2 cents; fifth, 2½ cents; sixth, 2½ cents; seventh, 3 cents; and eighth, 3½ cents.

Between July 1, 1919, and July 1, 1920: First and second zones, 1½ cents; third, 2 cents; fourth, 3 cents; fifth, 2½ cents; sixth, 4 cents; seventh, 5 cents; and eighth, 5½ cents.

Between July 1, 1920, and July 1, 1921: First and second zones, 1½ cents; third, 2½ cents; fourth, 4 cents; fifth, 4½ cents; sixth, 5½ cents; seventh, 7 cents; and eighth, 7½ cents.

After July 1, 1921: First and second zones, 2 cents; third, 3 cents; fourth, 5 cents; fifth, 6 cents; sixth 7 cents seventh, 9 cents, and eighth, 10 cents.

These rates apply on all publications entered as second-class matter, including sample copies to the extent of 10 per cent of the weight of copies mailed to subscribers during the calendar year.

Rates on daily papers dropped for mail carrier distribution and the present free in county provisions of the law remain unchanged.

Papers carrying less than 5 per cent of their space in advertising would be entitled to the reading matter rate.

A special rate of 1½ cents a pound between July 1, 1918, and July 1, 1919, and 1½ cents a pound thereafter is provided for religious, educational and similar publications not conducted for profit.

The one-cent tax on letters, excepting drop letters and postal cards, is restored by the conferees. It is estimated that it will raise about 170,000,000, and is effective thirty days after the passage of the act.

The Senate provision, exempting from postage letters written by soldiers and sailors abroad, is retained.

TEXT OF MAIL INCREASE SECTION.

The second-class provisions are:

Sec. 1101. That on and after July first, nineteen hundred and eighteen, the rates of postage on publications entered as second class matter (including sample copies to the extent of ten per centum of the weight of copies mailed to subscribers during the calendar year), when sent by the publisher thereof from the post office of publication or other post office, or when sent by a news agent to actual subscribers thereto, or to other news agents for the purpose of sale:

(a) In case of the portion of such publication devoted to matter other than advertisements, shall be as follows: (1) On and after July first, nineteen hundred and eighteen, and until July first, nineteen hundred and nineteen, 1½ cents per pound or fraction thereof; (2) On and after July first, nineteen hundred and nineteen, 1½ cents per pound or fraction thereof.

(b) In the case of the portion of the publication devoted to advertisements the rates per pound or fraction thereof for delivery within the several zones ap-

(Continued on Thirty-Eighth Page.)

CIRCULATION MEN OFF FOR CONVENTION.

MOST IMPORTANT MEETING IN HISTORY OF THE I.C.M.A. WILL BE HELD IN ATLANTA ON OCTOBER 9-10-11.

The convention of the International Circulation Managers Association, to be held in Atlanta next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, will be a business meeting of much importance to American and Canadian newspapers.

In his "last word" to THE FOURTH ESTATE before the meeting, President John M. Schmid of the Indianapolis News said:

"Now that the international strife has reached the American shores, the question of our business and social life assumes a new phase. For more than a year we have been confronted by abnormal conditions in the newspaper business, but the problems which have beset circulation managers everywhere have been solved in a most satisfactory way.

"Last year the I.C.M.A. preached economy in everything.

"During the year we practiced it, and we are ready in convention to relate our experiences for the common cause.

"It is more important than ever that we have a full attendance in Atlanta next week. Those who remain away will do themselves and our association great harm.

"Only by cooperation can we accomplish the big things we stand for and which our publishers expect.

"We may well consider our association one of the potent influences in the newspaper business—ever increasing in value and efficiency. A realization of this fact is all that is necessary to the welfare and happiness of our individual members and the progress and worth of the I.C.M.A.

"I consider the next meeting the most important in the history of our organization and appeal to publishers that their circulation managers attend.

"While we have fortunately surmounted many difficulties we have yet many to face and only in united action lies our greatest hope."

The convention will be the nineteenth annual gathering of the International Circulation Managers Association and was originally scheduled for June. It was postponed, however, on account of the unsettled state of business following the American declaration of war, but, with confidence returning, the directors set the above dates.

New York City and St. Louis are understood to be ready to make strong bids for the 1918 convention.

All the sessions of the meeting and the annual banquet on Wednesday evening will be held in the Hotel Piedmont.

The election of officers and the selection of the 1918 meeting place will be decided upon Thursday afternoon.

PROGRAM FOR THE I.C.M.A.

FINE WORK BY ANNENBERG—MEMBERS SHOULD SIGN REGISTRATION BLANKS.

That Chairman J. M. Annenberg of the Schenectady (N. Y.) Union-Star and his associates on the program committee have made good use of the time since June for the selection of the most beneficial topics of discussion is well shown by the program.

A meeting of the board of directors will precede the opening of the convention. It will be held Monday evening at the Hotel Piedmont to hear reports of the entertainment, auditing and convention committees and to complete final business arrangements.

The business sessions of the convention will be from 9 a. m. to 12 o'clock noon, and from 2 p. m. to 5 p. m., with the exception of Tuesday, when the afternoon session will be dispensed with on account of a sight-seeing trip, which the entertainment committee has planned.

However, to make up for this short spell of recreation, there will be a night business session on Thursday.

The officers urge members to sign the registration blanks during the hour preceding the first session on Tuesday. Secretary James A. Matthews will be at his desk in the convention hall to furnish the proper blanks. The full name of the member and the name of the newspaper he represents should be signed. These blanks will be taken up to formulate the roll call.

TUESDAY.

The convention will be opened by an address of welcome by Governor Hugh Dorsey of Georgia.

After the routine business of the meeting has been cleared away, the real object of the gathering—papers and discussions—will receive their full attention.

D. B. G. Rose of the Louisville Post will ask and answer the question of "Why are we in Atlanta?" following which the technical questions will have an inning.

Robert McLean of the Philadelphia Bulletin will talk on "Effects of raising the price of papers to 2 cents. Methods of holding circulation in such cases."

W. H. Harrington of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat has the topic of "Can one or more daily newspapers in any city successfully increase their selling price without concerted action from all dailies in the same field? If so, how?"

(Continued on Twentieth Page.)

357,225

The New York Times

The average net paid circulation of The New York Times, daily and Sunday, for six months ended September 30, 1917, (reported to Post Office Department October 1, 1917), was 357,225

An increase of 70 per cent. in five years

An increase of 149 per cent. in ten years

A circulation which represents the largest group of intelligent, discriminating and responsive readers ever assembled by a newspaper.

The New York Times is read in more than 5,000 cities and towns in the United States

Record of Growth, 1898-1917

Average net paid circulation for the six months
Preceding October 1st in each of twenty years

1898 . 25,726	1903 . 106,386	1908 . 172,880	*1913 . 230,360
1899 . 76,260	1904 . 118,786	1909 . 184,317	*1914 . 259,673
1900 . 82,106	1905 . 120,710	1910 . 191,981	*1915 . 318,274
1901 . 102,472	1906 . 131,140	1911 . 197,375	*1916 . 340,904
1902 . 105,416	1907 . 143,460	1912 . 209,751	1917 . 357,225

*Post Office Department Report.

The New York Times leads all New York newspapers in volume as well as in character of general advertising.

OHIOANS MAY GET CHEAPER BREAD

THANKS TO FLOYD MACGRIFF AND THE INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE.

This is the story of how one young man with an idea woke up an entire state. It has a vital bearing on the high cost of living, and it carries a message to newspaper publishers all over the United States.

The young man is Floyd MacGriff, International News Service bureau manager at Columbus, Ohio.

The state he woke up so effectively was densely populated Ohio.

And the idea he had was that bread ought to be at least as cheap

FLOYD MAC GRIFF.

in the United States, and particularly in the "Buckeye" state, as in England.

The leased wires of the I.N.S. on September 25 carried a small item under a London date. It said merely:

"The food controller has fixed the price of bread at 20 cents for a four-pound loaf."

This was followed by a New York date story to the effect that bakers there had announced the price of a fourteen ounce loaf as 8 cents.

Part of MacGriff's job as Ohio state bureau manager is to get out a state letter for the forty-odd clients who receive the wire in that state, and when he caught this little wire story he concluded that the editors served by his bureau would be interested in a little analysis of comparative costs between Ohio and England.

So he investigated the food costs in Ohio and found that consumers in that state were being unmercifully ground up in the mill of high prices. He wrote what he had learned, and sent it out in the belief that some of his editors might find it "mildly interesting."

Did they?

Well, practically every one of the papers took this mail story and played it all over the first page, with big headlines.

The Toledo Blade led the paper with it, using a headline about seven inches deep for emphasis.

The Dayton Evening News did the same.

So did the Canton News, the Piqua Call, the Newark American-Tribune, the Alliance Review and the East Liverpool Review.

The Bucyrus Telegraph played it up under an eight-column spread.

Results were almost instantaneous. Bakers in many cities were on hand with alibis, and in East Liverpool the Bakers Association inserted advertisements asking the public to disregard the statement, although admitting that it came "from reliable sources."

The East Liverpool Review printed an editorial, two columns wide and prominently played on the first page, in answer to the bakers.

And the fight is still on.

It looks as if Ohio will get cheaper bread, thanks to MacGriff and the International News Service.

ELECTION AD PLUMS.

The New York American, the Evening Journal, the Staats-Zeitung, the Wahrheit and the Morning Telegraph have been designated as the papers to receive the Democratic portion of the city's official election advertising. The awards amount to $15,000 each.

A.N.P.A. MEMBERSHIP NOTES.

The Decatur (Ill.) Daily Review has been transferred from associate to active membership in the A.N.P.A.

The Towanda (Pa.) Daily Review has been elected to associate membership.

SOME SALEM CHANGES.

Arthur N. Jones, who for a year has held down the telegraph desk on the Salem (Ore.) Statesman, now has a desk position on the Medford (Ore.) Sun.

Managing Editor Stephen A. Stone is temporarily handling the telegraph work.

E. L. Cannon, who has resigned as reporter on the Statesman, is succeeded by W. C. Cowgill of Corvallis.

Perry Prescott Reigelman has resigned from the reporting staff of the Salem (Ore.) Capital Journal and has gone to New York City to study war photography with a view to becoming an aerial scout in the army service.

John Cradlebaugh, veteran desk man on the Journal, is on the State Capitol run pending the procuring of another reporter.

T. C. Tilly, Associated Press operator on the Salem (Ore.) Statesman, is on a two weeks' vacation. He is being relieved by R. L. Testral, formerly of Winnipeg.

FOOD CONTROL PUBLICITY.

The Kansas publicity committee for the Federal food administration, appointed by Herbert C. Hoover, has Arthur J. Carruth, Jr., managing editor of the Topeka Journal, as chairman.

Other members are: Samuel O. Rice, head of the department of journalism of the state university; Nelson A. Crawford, head of the department of journalism of the state agricultural college; W. C. Lanadon, editor of the Salina Union; Herbert Cavaness, editor of the Chanute Tribune; M. G. Markham, owner of the Baldwin Ledger; Drew McLaughlin, editor of the Hiawatha World, and Cecil Howes of Topeka.

LYNCH BECOMES EDITOR.

Upon the death of Allen S. Page, owner and editor of the Sussex (N. J.) Register, James H. J. Lynch, formerly associate editor of the Register, has assumed the management of that publication.

MORE SPACE IN DETROIT.

The Detroit Journal Company has taken over the entire sixth floor of its building, heretofore under lease to outside parties, and has remodeled it into more elaborate offices for the members of its executive staff.

$46,600,000 Contracts for Bridgeport

Means Almost Unprecedented Prosperity for Bridgeport During the Next Few Years—Lake Company Has a $16,000,000 Order for 20 Boats.

Unprecedented prosperity for this city, smashing all previous records, making necessary the probable employment of many extra thousands of workmen and insuring continuous work at the fullest capacity to the factories of this city already producing war materials is made certain by the receipt recently from the United States government of contracts totalling in the aggregate $46,000,000. This is without doubt the greatest amount of contracts ever placed in this city by the United States government for war work and is but the forerunner of still greater contracts to be placed here by the government, it is said.

Orders placed by the United States government with local factories total more than $46,000,000 as follows:

Lake Torpedo Boat Company	$16,000,000
Bullard Machine Company (estimated)	7,500,000
Locomobile Company	7,000,000
Union Metallic Cart-ridge Company (estimated)	5,000,000
Bridgeport Projectile Company	4,500,000
Housatonic Ship Building Company	3,100,000
Bridgeport Brass Company (first installment)	500,000
Sub contracts let to local factories (estimated)	3,000,000
Total Aggregate Amount of Orders	$46,600,000

Bridgeport Post and Telegram

Largest Connecticut Circulation!

MORE than DOUBLE the circulation of BOTH other Bridgeport papers COMBINED!

Foreign Advertising Representative—The Julius Mathews Special Agency—Boston—New York—Chicago.

Another Record Smashed!

In 1916 the International News Service added 135 New Clients—a greater number than was added by the Associated Press and the United Press combined.

In the first 9 months of 1917 the I.N.S. has added 143 New Clients—eight more than in the entire record-breaking year of 1916.

There will be more!

The True News FIRST—Always—Accurately

INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE

10th Floor, World Building

NEW YORK CITY

NEWSPAPERS IN THE CAMPS.

WRITERS SIMPLY CANNOT FORGET THE CALL OF THEIR PROFESSION.

Here are proofs that the new National Army camps over the states are going to have their own times in their own ways as they were at home.

The soldiers of Camp Dodge, situated just a few miles from Des Moines, Ia., are to have their own newspaper, published, edited and financed by themselves.

The editor is Lieutenant L. R. Fairall, 350th Infantry, who edited the Iowa Guardsman on the Mexican border when the Iowa troops were called there during the Mexican trouble.

The business manager is Sergeant H. A. Chamberlain of the headquarters troop, who was connected with a paper printed on the border by the Minnesota National Guard.

Captain L. A. Moore, exchange officer, will be publisher.

Russell R. Cole, formerly with the Des Moines Register and Tribune, will have charge of the art department, including the cartoons.

M. H. Miller is circulation manager and Edward F. Howes is the feature editor.

The Camp Dodger is published every Friday in four-page snappy style, full of interesting news. It contains contributions from army men and the Des Moines newspaper women who are writing at the camp have also been honored with a showing in its columns.

There is a humorous column called "Gas Bomb." The first issue contains a life history of Major General E. H. Plummer, now in command of the camp. Plans are being made to publish a history of the 89th division from the present time until they arrive in France. There the paper will be printed on multigraphs in the trenches. The motto to go with the Camp Dodger is "Like Its Army, the First in the Field."

The price of the paper is $1 for four months.

L. R. Fairall, editor, was formerly connected with the editorial staff of the Des Moines Register and Tribune.

Due to the insistent demand for news matter and feature stories from Camp Bowie, Tex., where 40,000 Texas and Oklahoma troops are now in training, the members of Battery "D" 1st Texas F. A. News Bureau which claims to be composed of more newspaper men than any other organization in the South and known as "The Scoopers' Troop," have organized a news bureau, enlisting the services of experienced newspaper men to "cover" events in every area of the camp.

The news matter is to be furnished free of charge to all papers desiring it, with the provision that the paper shall furnish stamped, addressed envelopes. The items will be mailed out daily in mimeograph copies. Big stories will be telegraphed to papers asking for such service.

The bureau will be known as Battery "D" 1st Texas F. A. News Bureau and its purpose is to furnish officially-censored news from an offi-

The Sunday Edition of The Syracuse Post-Standard IS ONLY FOUR WEEKS OLD

but already it has taken position as the leading Sunday newspaper in its field. The circulation is already close to 50,000 copies per issue—nearly as large as the daily edition, which has a circulation 25 per cent. greater than its next nearest contemporary.

First of all it is a newspaper and the people of Syracuse and surrounding territory recognize this.

The Ambassador Gerard articles, the Theodore Roosevelt editorials, the beautiful Rotogravure Section, as well as many other strong features, help to make the

SUNDAY POST - STANDARD

A Wonderful Sunday Paper

PAUL BLOCK, Inc.

In charge of Advertising

NEW YORK

CHICAGO

BOSTON

DETROIT

cial source on a cooperative basis with the object of acquainting persons who have relatives in the camp with the progress being made. The reporters will make the rounds of the camp each day, securing news matter, having it passed by the censor, assembled at headquarters and issued to papers which desire to maintain a daily budget of diversified camp news.

The move has been sanctioned by the officers in charge of the camp as a very enterprising step.

Kent Watson, former Associated Press editor at Dallas, Tex., will act as manager of the bureau. He will be assisted in the editorial work by Tom M. Arnold, formerly with the Dallas Morning News.

Trench and Camp, the weekly newspaper to be printed through nation-wide cooperation of newspapers, will make its initial appearance on October 8. It will be published under the auspices of the National War Work Council of the Y.M.C.A. and will include among its first contributors Colonel Roosevelt and Secretaries Baker and Daniels.

TO HELP FOOD SAVING.

More than three hundred retail merchants of New York have unanimously agreed to donate part of their advertising spaces and a portion of their store and show window room for the propagation of the National Food Administrator's campaign for food conservation.

Michael Friedsam, president of H. Altman & Co. and New York State merchant representative of the food administration, called the meeting at which the pledge was given.

NEW WAR PAPER.

Minnesota in the War is a new publication issued by the Minnesota Public Safety Commission to chronicle the state's activities in the present war.

A DRAFTED MAN'S FEELINGS.

Lewis C. French, city editor of the Virginia (Min.) Daily Virginian, has been drafted for military service. Before going he was called upon at a town banquet to make an address to his fellow soldiers and it brought his rousing applause.

"As drafted men," Mr. French said, "we have one voice and that is answering the call of duty. However, we, as drafted men, demand one thing. We are going into the melting pot at Camp Dodge and coming out, we hope, American soldiers. As drafted men we demand that all should take the same chances. Let not the alien who came here for American protection and escaping armed service, take our places in the lines of endeavor, be a slacker. America gives him her all and he should take the same chances that we will and are anxious to take."

Mr. French's remarks were favorably commented upon by several of the leading newspapers of Minnesota.

IN SCRANTON.

Harold L. Mingo, formerly of the Scranton (Pa.) Republican and the New York Evening World, is doing his bit for Uncle Sam. Mingo is a member of the recruiting force in the Scranton (Pa.) District.

P. Gerald Mackin, another member of the Republican staff, is a battalion-sergeant in the regular army.

A third member of the staff, J. W. Hazelton, is a lieutenant in the aviation corps.

THIRTY-TWO IN ARMY.

The Houston (Tex.) Chronicle has represented in the trenches in France when the new army gets over there. Thirty-two men from the different departments of the Chronicle are now in service.

LOUISIANA DATES AND PLACE CHANGED.

New Iberia has been chosen as the place for the next annual meeting of the Louisiana Press Association, and April 15, 16 and 17, 1918, have been designated as the dates for the convention.

During the 1917 session of the association at Alexandria last April, it was voted to hold next year's meeting at New Orleans for convenience in arranging an excursion from this city to the Mississippi Centennial Exposition, which it was then contemplated would be in progress at Gulfport next spring. Due to the war, however, the Gulfport show was subsequently postponed for fifteen months, and a proposition to change the 1918 meeting place of the press association and defer the selection of New Orleans for the following year met with general favor.

The New Iberia commission council chamber of commerce and local press extended very urgent and hearty invitations to the newspaper organization to go to that city, and the tenders have been accepted by the executive committee of the association, composed of President Saxeby M. Lewis of the Ruston Leader, Chairman M. W. Fisher of the New Iberia Enterprise, Dr. E. L. Stephens of the Lafayette Institute Bulletin and Dr. C. J. Edwards of the Abbeville Meridional.

AUBREY MOVIES ARE TO BE WIDELY ADVERTISED.

Arthur N. Smallwood reports that in the exploitation of the Aubrey series of two reel comedies his company will inaugurate a new plan of merchandising and advertising for the purpose of assisting the state rights exchanges in securing bookings.

An extensive advertising campaign will be run in a large list of newspapers on each individual two reel production, and the publishers of the newspapers will cooperate with the exchanges and the exhibitors in exploiting the product.

Advertising will be released in each respective territory immediately upon the exchange contract being consummated.

PRO-HUMANITY, NEW PAPER.

Henry M. Tichenor, formerly editor of the Melting Pot, St. Louis, has started his own magazine, Pro-Humanity, in St. Louis. It will be printed by the Labor Publishing Company, 940 Chouteau avenue, owner and publisher of St. Louis Labor, the official organ of the Socialist party of St. Louis.

MADE WAR HISTORIAN.

Captain Arthur Sweetser, Aviation Section, S.O.R.C., formerly representative of the Associated Press in the War Department, has been detailed to duty in the office of the chief signal corps officer to write the history of the activities of the Signal Corps.

EDITOR NOW CAPTAIN.

H. E. Willis has released control of the Sherman County (Neb.) Times to take up his commission as captain of Company K, Nebraska National Guard Reserve. The Times will be operated by George L. Hall of Indianapolis.

In nine months of 1917, fifteen daily newspapers of New York City carried a total of 76,879,781 lines of advertising.

Of this, the WORLD alone carried 10,236,729 lines, over one-seventh of the total of the fifteen.

During the month of September the New York WORLD printed 1,321,243 lines of advertising, which was 243,315 more lines than the same month last year, and which was more than the Herald, Tribune and Sun combined.

In a nutshell: The New York WORLD has averaged over 1,000,000 lines of paid advertising per month for 1917, and has gained over one million lines over the same period in 1916—to be exact, the WORLD has so far gained 1,029,400 lines over last year.

The WORLD also made a record in printing a total of 196,981 advertisements, which is more than was ever before printed in any single month in the WORLD or any other newspaper ANYWHERE.

WE SHOULD KNOW JAPAN BETTER

EDITORS AGREE ON POINT AT NOTABLE DINNER GIVEN BY O. G. VILLARD.

Newspaper and magazine editors from numerous cities of the East dined with Viscount Ishii and other members of the Japanese Imperial Commission at the St. Regis Hotel on the night of October 1 as guests of Oswald Garrison Villard, president of the New York Evening Post Company. There were 125 in the company and sixty newspapers and magazines were represented in this number, besides city officials and prominent Japanese.

To bring the foreign emissaries and the American press into closer touch was the object of the occasion and the friendly utterances which marked the evening indicated that this purpose had been achieved. Japanese and Americans alike decried the past efforts to magnify the differences between the two countries and expressed confidence that their friendship is destined to be cemented more firmly than ever before.

The speakers were Mr. Villard, who was toastmaster; Viscount Ishii; Controller William A. Prendergast of the City of New York; Professor John Dewey of Columbia University; Don C. Seitz of the New York World; and Aimaro Sato, Ambassador from Japan.

Visitors were present from points as far west as Chicago, represented by David E. Town of the Chicago Evening Post.

In his opening remarks Mr. Villard said:

"It seemed as if your visit should not be allowed to pass without an opportunity being given for the makers of public opinion through the press of the East of the United States to receive some message direct from you in this, the most vital and tragic period in the history of modern nations. The hour is the more opportune since both nations are allies in the greatest struggle of any time."

He said both nations had staked their all on the effort to safeguard the small nations and to convert to democracy "that Germany which is today ruled by as unprincipled and wicked a ring of militarists, aristocrats and autocrats as ever brought a proud and mighty nation to utter shame and disgrace."

"When one recalls what these men have done to all humanity, the crimes of which they and their dupes have been guilty, what misery and suffering they have caused in every nation on earth, one trembles to think what fate will be theirs if there be such a thing as retributive justice."

"There are among us Americans differences of opinion as to the best means of combatting this German menace to civilization, but I beg your Excellency to take back to Japan the truth that no single American who understands and has at heart the love of American institutions but is entirely and completely determined that the abominable doctrine of might above right shall never control this world."

Viscount Ishii, responding, said:

"Only such a host as you among a multitude of hosts and a wealth of hospitality could have realized the particular pleasure it would afford me to be your guest tonight at a gathering of this character. You are giving me an opportunity to express my sense of deep appreciation of the part played by the newspapers of New York and of America in this wonderful reception to me and my associates of this mission."

Continuing, he said he wished to Announcement Extraordinary

GREEN'S American FRUIT GROWER

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

The Oldest Fruit Journal in America

A CONSOLIDATION OF THE CIRCULATIONS OF

Green's Fruit Grower	The Fruit Grower	American Fruit Grower
Rochester, N. Y.	St. Joseph, Mo.	Charlottesville, Va.
ESTABLISHED 1880	ESTABLISHED 1887	ESTABLISHED 1915

The circulation of the three leading Fruit Growing Publications listed above has been consolidated under new management and will henceforth be published in the City of Chicago as GREEN'S AMERICAN FRUIT GROWER. It will be the only national and pre-eminent medium of the Fruit Growing Industry.

Guaranteed Minimum 175,000 Circulation Monthly

Advertising Rates

$1.00 per agate line, flat.
One page, $700; Half Page, $350.
Back cover page in colors, $800.
Inside pages, 8 colors, 10% extra.
Classified advertising, 15c a word.

Size of Page

Four columns (700 lines) 9 1/2 x 12 1/2 in.
Size of column, 2 1/2 x 12 1/2 in.

Forms Close

Advertising forms close 20th of month preceding date of publication.

SAMUEL ADAMS, Editor and Publisher,

Marquette Building, Chicago

CHAS. A. GREEN, Associate Editor,

Rochester, N. Y.

Special Advertising Representatives

NEW YORK—Barnhill & Henning
23 East 26th Street

KANSAS CITY—Geo. F. Dillon
Republic Building

MINNEAPOLIS—Roy R. King, Palace Building

ST. LOUIS—A. D. McKinney
3rd Nat'l Bank Building

CHICAGO—Buchanan & Dempers
Marquette Building

correct the impression that he had enunciated a "Monroe Doctrine" for Asia. There is a difference. Japan engages not to violate the territorial integrity of China, while guaranteeing the open door, but the United States makes no such engagement as to the West. The viscount warned against German machinations to stir up discord.

Don Seitz said that Viscount Ishii had summed up the Monroe Doctrine and it means that we will allow no one to lick our neighbors but ourselves. He declared:

"Foreign affairs have never received decent treatment in the American press of recent years because our own have been more interesting and we have not involved ourselves with the troubles of other races."

"Now that other nations have brought their troubles to us, we are compelled to know something, and I think we will. We have accepted the excuse of war time conditions to cover many things that we ought to know."

"If you were to receive in your office the foreign publications from Japan, such as the Japan Advertiser and the Japan Chronicle, and perceive the care and intelligence with which world affairs are discussed and made plain to that very limited constituency, you would feel rather ashamed of your editorial exhibitions. You would be surprised at the amount of space you waste on matters of no particular concern at a time like this."

"I think it would be a good idea if every editor and publisher here would subscribe to either one or the other or both of these publications and make somebody in the office read them."

"You know we have in New York a circulation of about a million and a quarter copies of foreign language publications, and I never yet found an editor in New York who knew a single thing that was printed in one of them."

"Now they may be saving all kinds of things about us and for us and against us and we ought to know something and we decline to do it."

Professor Dewey said that "where diversity is greatest there is the greatest opportunity for a fruitful cooperation which will be magnificently helpful." The Orient and Occident are drawing together. "May every influence which would sow suspicion and misunderstanding be accursed and every kindly power that furthers enduring understanding and reciprocal usefulness be blest."

LORTON NOW SOLE OWNER OF THE TULSA WORLD.

Eugene Lorton has purchased the entire interest of Charles E. Dent in the Tulsa (Okla.) World Publishing Company and is now owner of the property.

Mr. Lorton also takes over the new World Building, in course of construction, and the other partnership holdings and real estate belonging to him and Mr. Dent.

Messrs. Lorton and Dent have been sole owners of the World publications for the past four and a half years, having purchased the property a year and a half after Mr. Lorton became managing editor.

Mr. Dent has been connected with the World for the past ten years and Mr. Lorton for the past six years. During this time the World has steadily grown and improved with the progress and growth of Tulsa. It has long since outgrown its present quarters and work on a new five-story home facing Boulder street has been under way for the past four months and will be completed shortly after the first of the coming year.

EUGENE LORTON.

Mr. Lorton is recognized as one of the most aggressive and successful newspaper men in the Southwest.

Mr. Dent has not yet announced his future plans beyond the fact that he will shortly begin the erection of a fine home in one of the new residential districts and may possibly engage in the loan and investment business.

NEWTON NOW COLLECTOR.

Byron R. Newton, the former newspaper man, has been sworn in as Collector of the Port of New York. Mr. Newton was born in New York in 1861. He began newspaper work in Buffalo in 1887. He represented the Associated Press during the Spanish-American war and was with the New York Herald for eight years. He became Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo's private secretary in March, 1913, and in that year was made assistant secretary of the treasury.

192,250

Copies a day

While maintaining its high standard of discriminating excellence The Evening Sun for the past four years has shown an extraordinary growth of circulation.

Government report for the six months period ending

October 1st, 1917, Daily Average	192,250
October 1st, 1916, " "	171,247
October 1st, 1915, " "	155,009
October 1st, 1914, " "	122,763
October 1st, 1913, " "	105,525

It is just plain horse sense to advertise in New York's most powerful evening paper,

The Evening Sun

Member Audit Bureau of Circulations.

BUSINESS PAPERS' MEETING.

STRONG REPRESENTATION IS URGED FOR THE ANNUAL SESSION IN CHICAGO.

The general convention committee of the Associated Business Papers, Inc., is urging a strong representation at the annual meeting to be held in Chicago on October 10, 11 and 12, at the Congress Hotel. The committee says:

"We are confronted with revolutionary conditions in business and in our national affairs. These conditions affect not alone the processes of publishing, but the relationship of all business papers to their individual fields. More than ever before, we need intelligent, cooperative effort on the part of representative business paper publishers. This cannot be accomplished unless we get together, think together, plan together and act together."

The New York Business Publishers Association is making an effort to obtain the attendance of a sufficient number to justify a special train of five sleepers, two diners and a club car. If successful, the train will leave New York the night of the 9th or on the morning of the 10th.

The BETTER Machine

66 Intertype employees have volunteered their service in the war for universal freedom and permanent peace.

How many of your employees could be released for military duty if you were using standardized and interchangeable Intertypes exclusively in your composing room?

INTERTYPE CORPORATION

General Offices

50 Court Street BROOKLYN, N. Y.

Arrangements will be made to connect with the delegation from Boston. It will be possible also for the delegates from Buffalo, Cleveland, Detroit and Grand Rapids to board the "special" enroute.

TRADE AND CLASS PRESS.

The owners of the Wyoming Oil News of Denver, Colo., have incorporated the Oil News Publishing Company with an authorized capital of $50,000. The paper, which was established last fall, is devoted to oil news of the intermountain region, and especially to developments in Wyoming. Talbert R. Ingram is the president. He was formerly for ten years financial editor of the Denver Times and secretary of the Denver Manufacturers Association. John E. Leet, a pioneer Colorado newspaper man, is vice-president, and R. E. Fowler is the secretary-treasurer.

Harold G. Blodgett, a former newspaper man, has been added to the staff of the Hardware Age.

W. D. Baker, formerly production manager of Hanff-Metzger, Inc., New York, has purchased an interest in D. O. Haynes & Co., publishers of the Pharmaceutical Era, Drug and Chemical Markets and the Soda Fountain, New York.

No permanent successor has as yet been appointed to Arthur A. Hill, former editor of the Automobile Dealer and Repairer, C. P. Shattuck temporarily acting as managing editor.

Fred B. Schafer, formerly with the Bakers' World, has joined the Chicago office of the Shoe and Leather Reporter and the Shoe Retailer.

U-BOAT CRITIC SUPPRESSED.

The Eindhovensche Dagblad, a Dutch daily, has been suppressed by the military because of its scathing criticism of Germany's sinking of Dutch fishing vessels.

Several Dutch newspapers have indignantly protested against the suppression. The Handelsblad, one of the biggest dailies in the Netherlands, discusses the act in its columns:

"The commander of the field army has offered an affront to all Netherlands who have any feeling of self-respect left. If the German warships commit outrages against our ships we have the right to qualify such deeds by the right terms. And no Dutch journalist need refrain from expressing an honest opinion for the sake of Dutch neutrality, although moderation is desirable in times of war."

LEAVES FOR ORIENT.

Joseph T. Mannix, veteran Minneapolis and St. Paul newspaper man and former Minnesota state printer, has left the capital for an extended trip to the Far East, stopping first for a brief stay at Sioux Falls. On the eve of his departure, Mr. Mannix was tendered a farewell dinner by the Elks.

NOW VOCATIONAL EXPERT.

James M. Heady, who for about a year has held jointly the positions of advertising manager for the Salem (Ore.) Capital Journal and pastor of the Unitarian church at Salem, has resigned both and will open an office in Salem as a vocational expert.

Courier of Soldier and Civilian

Our troops are now on the firing line in France. While at home every instrumentality of our government and private industry is being urged at top speed to insure victory. The telephone is in universal demand as courier, bringing to the front men and the materials of war.

From the farms the telephone courier brings foodstuffs; from the mines the telephone courier calls forth metals; from the factories this courier gathers manufactured products. The telephone courier leads troop and supply trains to the front summons fighting flotillas and transports; and, in fact, leads practically every contributing unit of supply to the firing line.

At such a time, when the government is straining at its task and every industry is loyally contributing its energy this national courier is constantly being used to call up the reserves. It is at the base of every contributing activity.

The right of way must be given to the military for the direction of troops and to the government for the marshaling of endless supplies. To do this, and also make the telephone serve all other needs, both patriotic and private, all must economize.

American Telephone & Telegraph Company
And Associated Companies

One Policy One System Universal Service

HEADS Y.M.C.A. WORK.

Fred F. Runyon, city editor of the Pasadena (Cal.) Star-News, is on a six months' leave of absence and is at present taking charge of the publicity department of the War Work Council of the National Y.M.C.A. His work is being handled temporarily by other members of the staff of the Star-News.

WILSON CRITIC SUPPRESSED.

The Swiss Federated Council has ordered the suspension of the Geneva Independence Helvetique because of offensive remarks in reference to President Wilson.

"BULLY."

Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, especially pleased by the recent editorial in Manufacturers' Record, wrote Richard H. Edmunds, the editor, as follows: "As an American citizen, I wish to congratulate you with all my heart on the pamphlet 'America's Relation to the World War.' That's straight patriotism."

WAR NEWS SUSPENSION.

From September 28 to October 4 the sending of press dispatches from the British Field Headquarters to London was suspended. No explanation has been made public.

The Proof of Features is in Results

VICTOR H. HANSON,
PUBLISHER

THE BIRMINGHAM NEWS CO.,
PROPRIETORS

FRANK P. GLASS,
EDITOR

The Birmingham News

"THE SOUTH'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER"

BIRMINGHAM, ALA. September 4, 1917.

Mr. R. Charlton Wright, Secretary,
Columbia Record Company,
Columbia, S. C.

My dear Mr. Wright:

When I determined to inaugurate The Birmingham Sunday News in September, 1912, I purchased the entire service of Newspaper Feature Service, embracing their magazine pages, their daily comics, daily and Sunday features, and their four-page color comic. The Sunday News is now about to celebrate its fifth anniversary. The first issue had a paid circulation of 22,800. At that time the only other Sunday morning paper here was The Age-Herald, guaranteeing 35,000. Today The Birmingham Age-Herald is credited with 24,000 by the Audit Bureau, and our Sunday for the past four months has averaged in excess of 46,000.

I cannot say too many good things about the service of our friends in New York. I regard it as the best in America, and I am sure with the extraordinary business you are about to enjoy due to the location of a cantonment in Columbia, you will not make a mistake to contract with these good people for their entire service, and especially their four-page color comic, which I believe to be the greatest individual circulation producer in America.

With very best wishes, I am,

Yours very truly,
THE BIRMINGHAM NEWS

V. H. Hanson
Publisher.

NEWSPAPER FEATURE SERVICE
M. Koenigsberg, Manager
37 West 30th St., New York City

Real Non-Distribution

Requires the Production of

1. Two-Point Leads
2. Two-Point Rules
3. Six-Point Slugs
4. Six-Point Rules
5. Type, Quads, Spaces

(All Sizes, 6 to 48 Point)

*No Other Machine can Produce
All This Material*

Thompson Type Machine Co.

223 W. Erie Street
CHICAGO

38 Park Row
NEW YORK

Complete Cost, $2100

WEEK OF WINDOW DISPLAY.

NATIONALLY ADVERTISED
GOODS PLAYED UP ALL OVER CONTINENT.

Thousands of merchants throughout the United States and Canada will take part next week in the International Window Display of Nationally Advertised Goods, directed by the advertising bureau of the American Newspaper Publishers Association. The displays will begin on Monday and will end on October 13. Many newspapers are offering attractive prizes for the best dressed windows.

In Milwaukee, J. L. Hirschman, advertising manager of the Germania-Herald and Sontags-Post, is giving a massive silver loving cup trophy for the best food products display.

Numerous newspapers will issue special promotion editions boasting advertised goods to co-operate with the merchants in making new record sales for the week.

Reports from everywhere tend to show that there is more interest in the displays this year than in any other similar week ever held.

THE CANADIAN INQUIRY.

It is reported that Commissioner Pringle of Canada hopes to close the news print paper investigation at the next sitting. The government accountants submitted reports at the opening of the sitting on October 2 showing cost per ton producing news print paper of five of the largest mills in Canada for the first half of the year 1917 as $56.43, $58.21, $62.03, $51.66 and $53.05.

It will be noted that under orders from the Canadian government, paper has been supplied to Canadian newspapers at 2½ cents per pound.

Commissioner Pringle is said to be in favor of an increase over the 2½-cent price, but that the present price should continue until November 1.

CHANGES ON THE HERALD.

There have been a number of changes on the staff of the New York Herald, chief among which are the departure of Kendall B. Cressey, who has been advertising manager for a year or more past, and the resignation of Randolph Marshall, recently in charge of the Herald's Washington Bureau.

Mr. Marshall has been connected with the Herald for a number of years, occupying various positions, such as city editor, news editor, telegraph editor and managing editor, previous to his removal to Washington.

Mr. Cressey stated yesterday that he had not formed any definite plans as to the future. He proposes to take a rest of a month or two before engaging in any other work.

Alfred W. Birdsall, well known as a newspaper mechanical expert, has been commissioned as a captain of infantry and assigned to the quartermaster's corps. He expects to leave for France within a few weeks. Mr. Birdsall is well known from one end of the country to the other and for the past year has been with the New York Herald as mechanical superintendent.

OBITUARY NOTES.

J. C. HARVEY, actor, author and one time journalist, died in New York on September 29. After his graduation from Middlebury College, Vt., Mr. Harvey joined the staff of the Century Magazine. In later years he published Flowers and Fruits, a weekly trade paper. He has written many poems, plays and books of fiction.

VIRGINIA CASEY, the four-year-old daughter of Martin Casey, a well-known newspaper man, was killed by a truck in front of her home in Sheepshead Bay, N. Y., on September 25.

DAVID K. BILLINGS, lieutenant in the Royal Flying Corps and formerly on the Toronto World staff, has been killed in England as the result of an accident.

WILLIAM E. TALBOYS, at one time publisher of the Glencoe (Minn.) Register, is dead at Chisholm, Minn., at the age of sixty-four years.

ALBERT V. HIBSON, head of the New York advertising agency of Hibson & Bro., died in Cranford, N. J., on October 3, aged thirty-eight years.

ROBERT EMMET MEAGHER, formerly a well known newspaper man in San Francisco and lately in Riverside, Cal., died recently in San Francisco. Meagher went west from New York in 1888.

JAMES L. TAYLOR, editor and owner of the Dobbs Ferry (N. Y.) Register for the last twelve years and postmaster of that town for the last sixteen years, died on October 2.

Mr. Taylor was a passenger returning from Halifax on the Red Cross steamship Stephano when she was torpedoed off Nantucket Lightship in October, 1915, and had never recovered from the cold and shock suffered when the vessel sunk.

EVERETT A. CHAPPELL, an employe of the New York Commercial, died at Claverack, N. Y., on September 30.

J. P. BECK, a former advertising man and general manager of the Portland Cement Association, died recently in Chicago after a short illness. Previously he had been advertising manager of the Universal Portland Cement Company.

EDWARD MALONE, editor and owner of the Waterford (Wis.) Post, died of pneumonia on September 21 at his home in Waterford.

THE I.N.S.-A.P. CASE.

The case of the International News Service, petitioner, vs. the Associated Press, asking for writ of certiorari to Circuit Court of Appeals for Second Circuit was submitted to the United States Supreme Court on October 1, as Case No. 568, for petitioner and for respondent.

The petition appeals from the recent lower court decisions restraining the I.N.S. from rewriting news stories originating with the Associated Press.

WIRE REPORT FOR ENID.

The Enid (Okla.) Daily News has installed a full leased telegraph wire report.

808,608

Is the Daily Average Net Paid Circulation of

The New York Evening Journal

for Six Months Ending September 30, 1917, as Sworn to the United States Government.

This is the largest circulation of any newspaper in America , and represents the greatest purchasing power ever recorded by any newspaper.

The Biggest September in Our History!

DURING THE MONTH OF SEPTEMBER

The New York Evening Journal

(Member Audit Bureau of Circulations)

Printed 1979 $\frac{3}{4}$ Columns of Paid Display Advertising.

This was a GAIN of 77 $\frac{1}{2}$ columns over September, 1916.

It was 656 columns MORE than were printed in the next evening newspaper.

It was the largest volume of Display Advertising ever printed in any New York evening newspaper in the month of September.

THE NEW YORK DISTRICT'S LOAN PUBLICITY.

HOW BUREAU WILL OPERATE—MANY LEADING NEWSPAPER MEN ADVISING —NO ADVERTISING ASKED.

BY GUY T. EMERSON.

Publicity Director Liberty Loan Committee, 2d Federal Reserve District.

Readers of THE FOURTH ESTATE of course know that the Secretary of the Treasury has announced the offering of a second issue of Government bonds amounting to $3,000,000,000. The Government has adopted the plan of raising this money through the medium of Liberty Loan committees, one appointed by each of the twelve Federal Reserve Banks.

The Liberty Loan committee of the Second Federal Reserve District (New York) has completed its organization.

We regard the papers as a very definite branch of the war service of the United States and it is essential for the accomplishment of the best results that you should know exactly what we are trying to do and what our organization consists of.

A special bureau of the publicity department has been designated to cooperate with the newspapers of this district. This bureau is under the direction of an experienced newspaper man and will have on its staff approximately sixteen men and women with newspaper experience.

The object of this bureau is to help you.

We shall collect and prepare daily news to be given out at this office at approximately 11 o'clock and 5 o'clock each week-day. Material will be furnished where practicable at an earlier hour on Saturdays. Material for use on Mondays will be mailed at the close of business on Saturday or early Sunday morning.

News will include the work of this committee, subscriptions raised, interviews with prominent people, special features developed by this committee and through other sources which will be supplemented by photographs wherever practicable.

Special Sunday stories are being worked up from two to three weeks in advance of use. Suggestions are invited as to special stories desired by any paper. Whereas it would be impossible to get exclusive material for every paper in this district, requests of this kind are invited and will be handled whenever practicable.

The work of this bureau is organized after careful consultation with men who have given their lives to newspaper work. Our advisory committee consists of the following:

Melville E. Stone, chairman; C. M. Lincoln, Bradford Merrill, Frank A. Munsey, J. K. Ohi, Ogden Mills Reid, Emil M. Scholz and C. V. Van Ande.

The last loan received remarkable treatment in the newspapers of this district. The service rendered was a distinct contribution to the work of the Government. It was a war service of lasting value. We are asking your cooperation in the next loan and it is our desire to furnish you material in the way you want it and when you want it.

We ask you to realize that we are not a professional news bureau and that we are organized on a temporary basis. We invite criticism along frank and specific lines. We ask you, however, to visualize our problem as we have tried to visualize yours and to meet us half way.

As a matter of suggestion we should like your cooperation along the following lines:

1. News.
2. Editorials.
3. Cartoons.
4. Sunday stories.
5. Special stories in women's col- umns, on the baseball page and in other special feature columns.

6. Paragraphs.
7. Special features in boxes.
8. Special slogans across the top or bottom of the front page.

If you cannot cooperate in all these ways we hope you will do so in as many as possible. They are all important. Doubtless other ways will occur to you and if they do we hope you will immediately notify us by letter or telegram collect.

You will note that we do not ask for free advertising.

The Government has made no appropriation for this purpose and we are doing everything we can to increase the advertising which regular advertisers are placing in your papers for purposes of Liberty Loan display. Some papers have donated advertising space, but it is and will be contrary to the policy of this committee to request such space.

As the campaign progresses you are invited to keep in touch with John Price Jones, manager of the News Bureau, or with me personally, telephone, Rector 4901.

NEW MARKS IN HARTFORD.

The Hartford (Ct.) Courant is making records in the rich city it so thoroughly covers. Business Manager H. H. Conland of the Courant has announced the largest increase in circulation over the preceding year of any newspaper in the city of Hartford, and he says that from a circulation and rate standpoint the Courant offers the best advertising "buy" in the city.

The Courant is represented in the foreign field by Gilman & Nicoll, New York and Chicago.

WILL PRACTICE LAW.

W. R. Jordan has purchased the Alexander City (Ala.) News from S. J. Darby, who retires to devote all his energies to the practice of law.

LA FOLLETTE THREATENS.

Senator Robert M. La Follette is reported to be collecting material for libel suits against newspapers, which, he is quoted as saying, will be filed "when the courts are free and open."

SPRINGFIELD SUN IS SOLD.

NEW OWNER IS WARREN
MYERS—L. W. HARRISON TO REMAIN IN CHARGE.

Warren A. Myers has become sole owner of the Springfield (Ohio) Morning Sun.

W. A. MYERS.

Twenty-three years ago the newspaper was started on the cooperative plan. The exact date was September 11, 1894. For the last three months or more negotiations have been pending for the purchase of the paper by Mr. Myers. The deal was closed through Harry S. Kissell.

Mr. Myers took charge October 1. He said that the policy of the paper will be independent Republican. Heretofore it has been operated as an independent paper.

The stockholders of the Sun Publishing company are: Martin R. O'Toole, president; Fred H. Feldman, vice-president; George J. Griessman, secretary; Edgar E. Milburn, treasurer; John O'Toole, Michael Goltzene and W. A. Killen.

The new owner is secretary of the Robbins & Myers Company and is identified with the manufacturing, banking and other business interests of Springfield. Mr. Myers has for years been active in the Chamber of Commerce.

The Sun will continue under the management of L. Walter Harrison, who has been identified with the publication over a period of twenty-one years—the major portion in an executive capacity.

Mr. Myers is a director of the American Trust & Savings Bank, director of the Y. M. C. A., and an officer of the Central Methodist Episcopal Church and of the Rotary Club.

ROBERTS SALES MANAGER.

D. K. Roberts has become sales manager of the Capital City Auto Company, New Orleans and Baton Rouge, La., resigning as advertising manager of the New Orleans Daily States.

Non-Distribution

VS.

Multiple Distribution

THE All-Slug System of composition makes Non-Distribution complete and economical. So called Non-Distribution, with movable type, is in reality Multiple Distribution.

A complete Non-Distribution system for Display composition is dependent upon the Ludlow Typograph, because it alone eliminates storage systems and the constant casting and distributing of sorts.

Multiple Distribution is waste; Non-Distribution the Ludlow Typograph way is real economy.

Know all about the Non-Distribution system for Display. Send for Ludlow Typograph Literature.

Sole Selling Agents

MERGENTHALER
LINOTYPE CO.

Tribune Building, New York
CHICAGO NEW ORLEANS
SAN FRANCISCO TORONTO

The Ludlow Typograph

J.D. BARNUM'SWAYS ARE WINNERS.

SYRACUSE POST-STANDARD'S
PUBLISHER MAKES FINE YEAR'S RECORD.

To celebrate the completion of the first year of Jerome D. Barnum's regime as publisher of the Syracuse (N. Y.) Post-Standard, a dinner was given on September 26 to the staff of the paper at the Onondaga Country Club and a general holiday was enjoyed by all.

The event that stands out most conspicuously in Mr. Barnum's past year's success was the birth of the Sunday Post-Standard, which already, after a month's growth, bids fair to grow beyond even the fondest expectations of its founders.

In discussing the circumstances of the birth of the Sunday Post-Standard with a representative of THE FOURTH ESTATE, Mr. Barnum said:

"It was not until August 15 that we really decided to issue the Sunday Post-Standard. We realized that there was too much of a lapse of time between Saturday and Monday to present the news fresh to our readers, who were very keen to know the latest events of the war just as soon as they occurred. So that the Sunday Post-Standard really owes its birth to the war.

"For this reason we have made the Sunday Post-Standard, first and foremost, a newspaper covering the news of the day and containing features that have merit above all from the standpoint of news. That is why we are running the Ambassador Gerard articles, and that is why we are publishing the Roosevelt editorials—at a very great cost to us, of course.

"We maintain a photographic service that covers the local field for local events in addition to a foreign photographic service, both combining to make an excellent photogravure section.

"And incidentally we made the Sunday Post-Standard a success right from the start purely and solely by advertising it. We used twelve city newspapers and all the country newspapers around Syracuse; put attractive signs on every road outside of Syracuse; paid for every location of these signs on fences, barns, etc.; placed attractive metallic signs on state roads; and used animated picture displays in conspicuous places in Syracuse.

"The result is we secured a circulation of 35,000 for our first issue and we are now running 50,000 and have a distribution for the Sunday Post-Standard in twenty towns more than the daily edition.

"All this, of course, shows the great value of advertising, in which I am a thorough believer.

"To keep pace with the growth of the paper, we have increased our composing room facilities and are remodeling the front of our building to give greater space for the display of the Post-Standard product.

"In all this we do not wish to forget, however, that we owe much of the success of the Post-Standard to the hard work and co-operation of John F. Dunn, its managing editor; R. P. Baker, editor; Robert Disque, business manager, and W. C. Hixson, circulation manager."

How Many Magazines Are Hanging on Your Wall?

STEP into your composing room and count them. Ask your Linotype machinist how often he changes them. Find out how long it takes to make each change.

Then take the time he gives you, double it, multiply it by the number of changes that are made each day, and you have the daily non-productive time of the most valuable men in your composing room—machinist and operators.

Multiple Magazine LINOTYPES

solve this problem of non-productive time. They convert all these wasted hours into additional dollars.

The facts and figures for your composing room will interest and perhaps astonish you—and you incur no obligation in asking us for them.

Mergenthaler Linotype Company
Tribune Building, New York

CHICAGO TORONTO SAN FRANCISCO NEW ORLEANS

THOMPSON HOME SAFELY.

Donald Thompson of Topeka, Kan., war photographer who gained considerable fame in the early part of the war by his pictures of the German advance into France, is visiting friends in Topeka and St. Joseph, having only recently returned from Petrograd. Thompson has been working for his own film company and has been serving as staff photographer for Leslie's Weekly.

WATCH FOR VAN TASSELL.

John Van Tassell, for nearly eight years connected with the Boston American in the positions of solicitor and branch office manager, was presented with a handsome gold watch by the classified department upon his leaving to become associated with his son, a railroad official in Philadelphia.

SAN FRANCISCO CHANGES.

H. L. Dungan has succeeded Fred Bunch as head of the San Francisco Examiner's copy desk.

W. A. Curtis is the new manager of the Oakland bureau of the Examiner in place of Arthur MacLennan.

ASSOCIATED PRESS NOTES.

George F. Nellist, telegraph editor of the Portland (Ore.) Telegram for several years, is the new night editor of the Associated Press at Seattle.

AGAINST HIGH PRICES.

The Wilmington (Del.) Evening has attracted considerable attention by its crusade against high prices in the farmers' market of that city.

ENDS LONG OWNERSHIP.

The Montevideo (Minn.) Leader has been sold to Ludvig I. Roe of Northfield, Minn., by H. E. Hoard, who has managed the paper for thirty-five years.

HOLDING TWO JOBS.

H. F. Doolittle, junior editor of the Ellsworth (Minn.) Herald, is managing the River Falls (Minn.) Journal since S. R. Morse, the proprietor, went to war.

SOLD TO A COMPANY.

The Elmwood (Wis.) Press has been sold by W. E. Gullord to the Spring Valley Publishing Company. Robert Mose will be the editor.

A SALE IN MICHIGAN.

J. A. Meyer, for many years editor and owner of the Michigan Arena, has disposed of his interests in the publication.

WANTS PAPER AGAIN.

H. L. Dicks of the Upsala (Minn.) News-Tribune has taken back his paper from Simon P. Olson, to whom he sold it a few days ago.

A JOINT OWNERSHIP.

A. T. and Walter Morton of Lincoln, Neb., have purchased the Douglas (Neb.) Enterprise from R. E. Harp.

SELLS TO BROTHER.

Earl Albertson has sold his interest in the Shellsburg (Ia.) Advance to his brother, J. E. Albertson.

PUBLISHERS MUST MAKE NEWS PRINT REPORTS.

TRIAL OF MANUFACTURERS POSTPONED UNTIL NOVEMBER—BOOK PAPER MEN'S HEARING ON OCTOBER 10.

Newspaper publishers are to be called upon to keep the Federal Trade Commission regularly informed as to their every move in connection with print paper supply.

In other words, Uncle Sam is going to keep tab on publishers—that is on the consuming end of the industry—just as it was recently announced he would continuously keep in touch with the production practice and policy of the news print manufacturers.

This development, here made public for the first time, may be said to constitute the big news of the week in the news print field.

Several weeks may be required to complete plans for obtaining periodical reports from publishers, but the move has been definitely determined upon and will constitute the final step designed to enable the Federal policeman to keep his eye at all times upon all angles of the news print situation.

Meanwhile there is being received at Washington the second installment of reports from news print manufacturers as a result of the launching in September of this new reporting system, an innovation which was first introduced to the news print producers.

News print manufacturers will render their main reports only once a month, but will supplement these monthly reports by weekly reports and two installments of the latter are now in hand.

It is not the present intention to make public these reports as received nor to even issue a digest of each successive batch of reports.

Rather, the plan will be followed of carefully analyzing each weekly report and when there is found embodied in the statistics from producers anything which, it is felt, consumers or the general public should know, the facts will be given out in some sort of a statement such as the Federal Trade Commission has heretofore issued on various occasions in connection with the news-print dilemma.

With the news print manufacturers lined up under this new form of Federal surveillance the commission proceeded on the second step in its undertaking designed to keep the spot light on the entire paper industry.

On September 20 there went out to book paper manufacturers a circular letter from the commission welcoming them into the fold of regular correspondents.

What is to be required, beginning this month, of the book paper manufacturers is on a par, in scope of information sought, with the new obligations put upon the news print producers.

The first weekly report from the book paper makers must be mailed to the commission, on or before Tuesday, October 9, for the week immediately preceding, and the first monthly report must be sent in on or before November 3 to cover the month of October.

The weekly reports, as is correspondingly the case in the other branch of the industry, are for the operation of each mill making book paper, while the monthly report is for the total book paper operations of the company.

The trade commission, in its current move, takes the ground, as it did on the news print proposition, that it will welcome suggestions for improving the schedules on which reports are to be made. For the time being, however, each manufacturer is called upon to report individually upon each machine in his plant showing the 24-hour capacity, the hours run on book paper and the hours run on other grades.

For the whole company there must be shown the total book paper on hand at the mill at the beginning of the week; the total amount of paper made by the mill during the week; total amount of paper shipped and invoiced by the mill during the week—including paper billed, but not yet in transit; amount of paper on hand at points other than at the mill; etc.

PAPER JOBBERS AND DEALERS.

With the machinery thus organized for obtaining weekly statistics of production, consumption, shipments and stocks on hand at all sources in the two branches of the paper making industry the trade commission will next turn its attention to the paper jobbers and dealers. From these middlemen reports will be required monthly but not weekly.

Finally, as announced at the outset of this article, it will be the turn of publishers to fall into line and when the commission demands a show-down it will be found a matter of compulsion, for under Section 10 of the Federal Trade Commission Act the trade body finds authority to require the forfeiture of $100 for each and every day that a publisher neglects to file a report after the expiration of the specified time.

The list of questions that must be answered at monthly intervals by each newspaper publisher has not yet been completed, but the understanding is that it will cover quantities of paper ordered or contracted for; paper received, prices paid or engaged to be paid, amount of paper in storage.

In the case of publishers, alike to that of the news print manufacturers, it is felt that merely one feature of this official stock taking—namely, the census as to the amount of paper on hand throughout the country—will be well worth the trouble involved in the entire project by reason of the "bead" it will give on market conditions and sympathetic fluctuations.

TRIAL IN NEW YORK POSTPONED.

With the book paper phase of the new reporting system to the fore this week, it comes about that for several good and sufficient reasons the "non-news" element of the industry has the center of the stage.

It had been expected that the news print aspect would focus attention by reason of the trial of the news print manufacturers in New York, but the postponement of this case until November owing to an accident to counsel postpones developments in this quarter.

On the other hand, the day is rapidly approaching for the hearing before the trade commission at Washington of the formal "complaint" issued against some two dozen book-paper manufacturers for alleged violation of Section 5 of the Act of Congress approved September 26, 1914. In anticipation of a show-down on this case, and also in expectation of an early adjournment of the special session of Congress, there has been a scramble this week to complete the final revision and issue in printed form the full report of the trade commission on the book-paper industry.

It will be recalled that a preliminary report on this section of the paper industry was submitted to the United States Senate on June 14. It was expected that the full report would follow shortly, but it has been greatly delayed and during the interim there have been some corrections; although it is understood that there are no changes in the recommendations for relief that are put forward.

The final page proofs on the revised report were returned to the Government Printing Office on October 3, and it is expected that the bound copies of the report will be ready for distribution during the week of October 8.

BOOK-PAPER MEN'S HEARING OCT. 10.

That is a close squeak for this book paper report, for on October 10 at 10:30 o'clock in the morning the book paper manufacturers are summoned to appear before the trade commission in Washington and show cause why an order should not be issued by the commission requiring them to "cease and desist" from the various practices complained of in the charges filed by the commission.

Whether or not the paper manufacturers intend to fight this case—and consequently whether or not it will become a test case of the utmost interest to all publishers—will be disclosed at this hearing. If it is the determination of the paper manufacturers to see the thing through probably all that will be done at the appearance on October 10 will be to set a date and place for the taking of testimony.

With the Governmental demand for a show-down on news print manipulation further deferred by the postponement of the hearing in New York, there is a hint that newspaper publishers may take the "bull by the horns" and bring pressure to bear on paper manufacturers from a new angle.

MEANING OF CORRESPONDENCE OPENING.

This is the real significance of that recent move by the trade commission throwing open to the inspection of signatory publishers all the correspondence in the possession of the trade commission relative to the arbitration scheme on news print prices that "fell through" some months ago, presumably because of the resentment on the part of paper makers over their indictment in New York.

When Secretary Bracken of the trade commission late in September announced to publishers who were in on the arbitration scheme that it would throw open to them its letter files and even allow them to make copies of the letters and other documents on file there was precipitated speculation of the liveliest kind as to the real meaning and object of this unusual action.

The officials of the trade commission are not inclined to elaborate their explanation to the effect that their purpose is "a further effort to relieve if possible the news print paper situation." However, THE FOURTH ESTATE correspondent declares he has it on good authority that the opening of the letter files has come about in response to insistent requests from certain publishers and that the purpose of these publishers is to ascertain whether there is not in the possession of the commission documentary evidence that would justify these publishers in beginning action at law against the paper manufacturers.

Legal experts on the trade commission staff and outside, while unwilling to be quoted, are of the opinion that if a publisher or publishers, who together with paper manufacturers signed in good faith what purported to be a mutual agreement, can show that they stand and have stood ready to fulfill their part of the agreement and that the news print producers have failed to

(Continued on Thirty-second Page.)

NASSAU QUALITY METALS

ALWAYS UNIFORM

ELECTROTYPE
LINTYPE
MONOTYPE
INTERTYPE
STEREOTYPE
AUTOPLATE
THOMPSONTYPE
COMPOSOTYPE

Manufactured by the
Nassau Smelting & Refining Works
606 West 39th Street NEW YORK

J. M. HUBER
Manufacturer of Black and Colored
News Inks
Main Office: 65-67 W. Houston Street
NEW YORK CITY

Color, Varnish & Ink Factories
BROOKLYN, N. Y.
Carbon Black Works, DOLA W. VA

SERVICE BRANCHES
Boston, Baltimore, Chicago, Omaha
Cincinnati, Los Angeles, St. Louis,
Philadelphia, San Francisco.

BOOKS FOR MEN IN THE ARMY.

A WORK AS NECESSARY AS ANY OTHER BEING DONE FOR OUR SOLDIERS.

Herbert F. Gunnison, business manager of the Brooklyn (N. Y.) Daily Eagle, is a member of the Library Council which is raising money to send books to the army camps and he believes everybody else, too, should give his best possible aid to this work, for the following reasons:

"Many persons ask the question:

"Why should we raise a million dollars to distribute books to the soldiers and sailors when the demands for money are so pressing in other directions?"

"This is why:

"The boys in the camps today will be the men in power in this country tomorrow. Not all will fight in the trenches and in battle, but the men of the great National Army and Navy are coming back home and they will be the dominating force in the coming years, just as the boys in blue were after the Civil War.

"These boys are in training for civic life as well as for war. They will know what this conflict means. They will have a right to be heard. What will be the spirit which they will bring back with them?"

"Will it be that of loyalty and of high purpose or that of fault-finding and of regrets that they had answered their country's call? They will have discipline and military training, but what about their mental training?"

"Ten thousand men in a single camp and many hours a day of idleness during the long winter months.

"Think of the influence of cheap talk, carping criticism, loose utterances and petty gossip and tittle-tattle—things sure to happen if there is nothing else to take their place.

"A thousand good books—the average of one in a tent—will create a new spirit and set new standards and lift to a higher plane the entire cantonment.

"These men will come back with high ideals and a firm resolve to earnestly take up their important work of tomorrow.

"Let us not think wholly of the war—that is our main object surely, but we can do that and also think of these boys under these new and strange conditions, the rich and poor boys side by side, the mingling of all racial characteristics, and how mighty important it is that their minds as well as their bodies be properly cared for.

"Let every father and mother with a boy in uniform pause a moment to consider the effect on their son of an evil-minded comrade and of a good book and then contribute their dollar or dollars to this Library Fund. The future of this country will be affected mightily by the reading of these million books by our boys who are now serving their country.

"Let us not try—but make our contributions, knowing full well that the nation will go on with a new and loftier spirit because of the baptism which our boys in camp have received."

With several thousand more individual advertisers each week than any other Boston paper, the Globe is put to

The Acid Test of Actual Sales and Profits

such as no other newspaper in Boston has to meet.

These several thousands of individual advertisers have been using the Globe for more than 30 years. Most of them keep a record of their answers from the various papers. They place the bulk of their business in the Globe because they know positively the Globe gives them by far the best results.

The total number of lines of advertising (including all kinds of business printed in the Boston papers during the 9 months ending September 30) was as follows:

Globe ,	6,737,890 lines
Post ,	6,218,516 "
Herald ,	4,465,500 "
American ,	4,272,380 "

The Globe's lead in the want and classified field during the nine months was more than a quarter of a million advertisements.

The total number of want and classified advertisements printed was as follows:

Globe ,	393,029	Post ,	71,725
American ,	138,459	Herald ,	51,041

The total lines of automobile and accessory advertising printed during the nine months ending September 30, was as follows:

Globe ,	1,022,402	Herald ,	531,905
Post ,	786,070	American ,	386,086

Circulation Increasing

The actual cash receipts of the Globe from circulation for the nine months ending September 30 were greater than those of any other similar period in the paper's history.

IN THE ARMY DRAFT.

At a rehearing held before the district exemption board, Werner N. Schomaker, editor of the Marinette (Wis.) Twin City Laborer, who had claimed exemption on the ground that the publication of his paper was for the "national interest," was once more certified for service.

Stanley R. Morse, editor of the River Falls (Wis.) Journal, was included in the Pierce County draft quota and has left for Camp Grant. During his absence the paper will be managed by H. Doolittle, lately of the Ellsworth (Wis.) Pierce County Herald.

Howard Augustin, who for some years past has been associated with his father in the managership of the Glenwood City (Wis.) Tribune, is another drafted newspaper man.

A "Walking Out Party" was given last week by the Chicago Daily News staff in honor of Kent Sykes, who will go to join the new National Army.

Three West Virginia editors who are numbered among the citizen soldiers called to the colors are C. W. Marsh of the Glenville Democrat; Henna Kerwood, of the Ripley Mountaineer, and Boyd B. Stutler, of the Grantville News. The publications are all country weekly newspapers.

VIRGINIANS IN SERVICE.

Five members of the staff of the Staunton (Va.) Evening and Morning Leader are in the United States service. Four of the men who went with the First Regiment to Anniston, Ala., are:

H. L. Opie, the owner and editor, who is a captain; Thomas E. Lyons, advertising manager; Harry G. White, night editor; and J. Ray Long, one of the composing room force.

E. Walton Opie, city editor, recently received a first lieutenantcy in the cavalry at Fort Ethan Allen, Vt.

SCHENECTADY CAR LINES ADVERTISE.

A very interesting series of advertisements have just been concluded in Schenectady (N. Y.) newspapers, telling of the necessity of increasing the street railway fares in Schenectady from 5 cents to 6 cents. Thirteen separate pieces of copy, totaling about 40,000 lines were run in the Schenectady Union-Star and Gazette and in three foreign language papers, and a second campaign is now about to be released as a follow-up and "clinch."

E. R. Cullings, advertising manager of the Schenectady Union-Star, is very proud of the campaign, which is receiving commendation from newspapers and street railways, as he was instrumental in starting it and writing the copy.

A SPEAKING TREAT.

Dr. George R. Parkin, for fifteen years secretary of the Rhodes Scholarship Trust Fund, addressed Chicago newspaper men at a special Press Club luncheon recently.

MOTION PICTURE REVENUE for NEWSPAPERS

The Mutual Film Corporation in recognition of the important value of newspaper advertising as a factor in the success of the motion picture theater has evolved a special cooperative plan which makes available to certain motion picture theaters in each important community a continuous fund for the advertising of Mutual Pictures in the leading local newspapers. The problem of the commercial relation of the newspaper to the motion picture is solved by this plan. Cooperative opportunity is offered to the newspapers. Detailed information will be supplied on request—address—

JOHN R. FREULER, President

MUTUAL FILM CORPORATION

220 South State Street CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

PUTTING SCREWS ON SEDITION.

THE POST OFFICE OFFICIALS EXERCISING POWERS UNDER NEW LAWS.

In exercising the new powers of censorship granted to it in the Espionage and the Trading with the Enemy Laws the Government has been working through both the Post Office Department and the Department of Justice.

The first steps are taken by the Post Office Department, which cites a paper for a hearing as to whether its second-class mail privileges shall be withdrawn. Once the privilege is withdrawn the Department of Justice takes charge.

A bureau, with an assistant United States attorney, has been established to keep track of the papers that have lost their second-class mail privileges. If they attempt to circulate by any other means indictments are sought and prosecutions begun for violations of the Espionage Law. John Lord O'Brian, former United States district attorney at Buffalo, has been put in charge of this bureau.

The Post Office Department has been extremely busy lining up offending newspapers all over the country during the past week.

Some of the papers cited have not gone to the trouble to appear in Washington for hearing on their cases. On receipt of the notice that the screws were to be applied they have recognized the inevitable and put up the shutters.

This has been the case with several German language newspapers. Others are making a fight.

The activities of the Just Government League of Maryland and its publication, the Maryland Suffrage News, of Baltimore, have been called to the attention of the District Attorney's office.

Ralph E. Chaplin, editor and manager of Solidarity, and Charles Rothfischer, editor of A Bergumkos, Chicago and Cleveland, were arrested in an I.W.W. round up in Chicago last week.

Dr. H. Shnitler and M. G. Stabler, editor and publisher respectively of a Guatemala City German daily newspaper which was suppressed some time ago but resumed publication under another name, have received forty-eight hours in which to leave Guatemala.

The mailing privilege has been refused to ex-Congressman Victor Berger's Milwaukee Leader, organ of the Socialist Party, following a hearing in Washington on September 22. The order was issued under provisions of the Espionage act.

Carl Runge, editor and publisher of Liberty, a San Antonio (Tex.) magazine, is being held in $5,000 bond to await action of the Federal grand jury on a charge of publishing articles opposing the conscription law. The magazine has suspended publication.

Editors of the New Yorker Volks Zeitung, a German Socialist daily, have been notified by the Federal authorities to show cause why the newspaper should not be excluded from the United States mails under the espionage and trading with the enemy acts.

The postal privileges of the New York Hungarian Socialist daily newspaper Elora have been revoked because of its utterances on the war situation.

The Postmaster-General has ordered the Russian Socialist daily Novy Mir and the German daily Volks Zeitung to show cause why they should not be excluded from the mails.

Federal agents on October 4 raided the offices of the New Jersey Freie Zeitung at Newark, arresting the proprietors and editors on charges of "publishing treasonable and seditious utterances." Those arrested were Benedict and Edwin S. Preith, proprietors; Henry von Waechter, managing editor, and the city editor. Two mail sacks full of documents were seized. United States District Attorney Lynch led the raid.

END OF FOOL KILLER.

Dr. K. W. Mak, editor of the Kansas City Fool Killer, has been arrested at Fort Dodge, Ia., by the Federal authorities on the charge of violating the Espionage Act of June 6, 1917.

Dr. Mak is officially charged with promoting insubordination and disloyalty by publishing articles alleged to have ridiculed the President and the Conscription Act. Although the Fool Killer is published in Kansas City, its editor has been living at Fort Dodge.

CAN "BARRED" PAPERS HAVE THEIR OWN AGENCIES?

Congressman Meyer London advocates that the Socialist party and publishers organize their own agencies to distribute and circulate papers barred from the mails by the postal authorities. He said:

"In my opinion this will not be a violation of the trading with the enemy censorship section. That makes it unlawful to distribute matter which is unavailable by the espionage act.

"The Postmaster-General is not the espionage act. The courts alone have the authority to determine the non-mailability of the matter which Mr. Burleson announces he will exclude.

"I believe the Postmaster-General has been afraid to face a jury on any of the papers hitherto excluded from the mails."

PEARSON'S A BANKRUPT.

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Pearson's Magazine. The liabilities are said to exceed $200,000, and the assets are unknown.

Harry Zalkin, of counsel for the creditors, said that the magazine's pro-German policy was undoubtedly responsible for the present state of affairs, since its circulation had decreased to a point where it was unable to meet its obligations.

Judge Hand has ordered that the plant, trade name, good will and circulation list be sold at auction on October 11.

GROUP PURCHASE ECONOMY.

CIRCULATION MANAGERS CAN SAVE IN BUYING PAPER AND OTHER SUPPLIES.

By GEORGE H. REYNOLDS,
Circulation Manager, New Bedford
(Mass.) Standard.

Would a central purchasing department for wrapping paper, string and other mail-room supplies be of benefit to members of state associations of circulation managers?

I believe it would result in considerable saving, particularly to newspapers that buy in small quantities.

Whether it is feasible is another question. A group of newspaper publishers might have saved thousands of dollars each, had they accepted a certain offer made about three years ago.

In some newspaper offices, the purchase of supplies is not a part of the circulation manager's duties. Every circulation manager should, however, keep in close touch with the costs of his department.

I obtained a rebate on paste material, sufficient to more than pay the cost of attending a New England Association of Circulation Managers' meeting at which I learned a lower price was paid elsewhere for the same material that we were using.

Only a fraction of a cent per pound was involved, but there was much satisfaction in effecting that saving and obtaining a lower price on future orders.

It might be advisable, until a "central purchasing department" was possible, to inaugurate a plan of compiling from association members a monthly list of prices paid for various supplies, such as:

Statement of paper purchased.
Date
Quantity
Weight
Size
Kind
Cost per pound.

This would enable other members to keep in touch with the market conditions.

In connection with other supplies the same plan of reporting prices paid, might be followed. Such an arrangement might lead up to a combination of newspapers buying together certain supplies.

Just now, prices of wrapping paper show a reduction. Whether they will go still lower is a question. It is likely, through an exchange of reports, that members will be able to exercise better judgment in purchasing supplies.

NEW DES MOINES PAPER.

W. O. Payne has organized a company to publish a weekly newspaper to be called the Forum, in Des Moines. The capital stock is $25,000.

S. L. Moore of Boone is president, C. A. Rawson of Des Moines, vice-president, W. O. Payne, secretary and treasurer; directors—S. M. Leach of Adel, J. M. Pierce of Des Moines, E. A. Rawcett of Nevada, J. L. Parrish of Des Moines.

The articles of incorporation are signed by W. O. Payne, G. F. MacKinnon, John A. Fleming, State

BLAIR & AUSTIN

Consulting Circulation Specialists

Just Closed Campaigns in Philadelphia
PA.
Newark
N. J.

Just Opened Campaigns in Detroit
MICH.
Grand Rapids
MICH.

*Next
?*

We have attained that position in our line of work that gives us the right to claim authority in matters relating to Salesmanship Clubs, Circulation Clubs, Contests and all prize competitions to increase circulation.

While we have an organization of 56 men, we cannot personally direct only about ten campaigns a year; but we are willing to advise other contest companies, as well as publishers, regarding prize competitions.

Our charge for co-operating is very low considering our knowledge—$25.00 for each letter of instruction.

Now, Just a Few Words About Our Salesmanship Clubs

In a Nutshell—It is an organized effort to obtain in eight weeks blank thousands of paid-in-advance subscriptions through the merits of the paper by salesmanship methods.

Following is an extract from a letter by D. M. Barrett, Secretary-Treasurer of the World's Salesmanship Congress, commenting on a Salesmanship Club conducted in Detroit, Mich., by BLAIR & AUSTIN:

"When newspapers encourage Salesmanship in their local communities, as The Times does, and when they provide the source of such success as Mr. Baruch wishes to credit to them, they are not only helping business at large, but their own business in particular by providing larger profits to those who invest them over again in the newspaper advertising columns."

PUBLISHERS—If you want a Salesmanship Club conducted on your paper, better get in touch with us at once. We would like to contract to personally direct one more campaign in December, one in January and three next May.

Our prices are not the lowest—but—

BLAIR & AUSTIN

721 Paul Jones Building, Louisville, Ky.

"Results Count!"

Binder John M. Jamieson and Dante M. Pierce.

Mr. Payne for many years was editor of the Nevada Representative. It is understood he will be editor of the new paper.

INTERTYPE OFFICE MOVES.

The Eastern sales department of the Intertype Corporation, formerly located in the World Building, New York, has been consolidated with the company's general offices in the Terminal Building, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The Colfax (La.) Clipper is installing a new Linotype.

AN ICE CREAM PUBLICIST.

Thomas J. Farley, a Richmond (Va.) newspaper man, is directing the publicity of the Purity Ice Cream Corporation, which includes in its territory Richmond, Petersburg and Suffolk, Va., and Charlotte, N. C.

GETS A SECOND PAPER.

The Claire City (S. D.) Press has been purchased by the owners of the Roberts County Record.

A NEBRASKA NEWCOMER.

The Payard News, managed by W. D. Clifton, is a new Nebraska publication.

DETERMINED TO GO.

L. D. Beach, market editor of the San Antonio (Tex.) Light, has joined the Canadian Army after having been rejected on five different occasions by the United States authorities for physical reasons. He is a nephew of Harrison L. Beach, one of the Light's editors and publishers.

WAR SHORTAGE.

Enlistments and the draft have depleted the news staffs of the Wilmington (Del.) newspapers to such an extent that they have found it necessary to do some doubling up lately.

PROGRAM FOR THE I. C. M. A.

(Continued from Second Page.)

Joseph Horner, Jr., of the Green Bay (Wis.) Press-Gazette will discuss "The psychology of price-raising."

James McKernan of the New York World will conclude the morning's reading by a paper on "How did the increase of 1 cent on the wholesale rate to newsdealers affect the sales of the New York City Sunday papers? How can this increase be made on other Sunday papers?"

The committee asks that any member still allowing credit for unsold copies tell the association how he justifies the continuance of the policy at the Tuesday morning session, the remainder of which will be spent in discussion of questions raised by members.

TUESDAY EVENING.

A. E. MacKinnon of the Philadelphia North American will talk on "Circulation ethics, past, present and future."

J. P. Barry of the Providence Journal and Bulletin will describe "Schemes for reducing circulation expense and new efficiency methods in circulation management."

J. L. Erwin of the Columbia (S. C.) State will read a paper on the "Influence of good typography and art in circulation building."

O. O. Scattergood of the Chicago American will talk on "Should newspapers predicate a profit on the sale of their by-product?"

John D. Walker of the Johnstown (Pa.) Tribune will point out the "Value of training boys in 'news-carrying,' selling points, behavior, etc., and 'gingering' the enthusiasm of the American boy in circulation building."

Ernest A. Scholz of the Crowell Publications, New York, will discuss the "Values of magazine clubbing offers to daily newspapers in circulation building."

Joseph H. Lackey of the Memphis News-Scimitar will talk on the "Best plan for stimulating R. F. D. and small town circulation on an evening newspaper."

Harold Hough of the Fort Worth (Tex.) Star-Telegram will present

"Suggestions from the A.B.C. for simplification and standardization of records in circulation departments. Helpful hints from the A.B.C. How it has helped the circulation manager."

The program committee puts forward as a topic for general discussion:

"As a result of the liquor clauses attached to the Post Office Bill by Congress, how many newspapers discontinued liquor ads. How many continued to run liquor ads, but cut off the circulation in the states affected by the law. How many publish two editions, one for wet, and one for dry territory?"

The president will call on members promiscuously for short talks on the following topics:

"Should newspapers in any large city have exclusive carriers or should they be permitted to handle other papers?"

"Is there too much space devoted to baseball and other sports in newspapers?"

"Are special editions and pages featuring small towns materially helpful in circulation building?"

"Are Sunday comics in colors passing, and if so, why?"

"Does circulation secured through scare-heads pay?"

"Circulation at any price—does it ever pay?"

WEDNESDAY MORNING.

Wednesday will be devoted entirely to the reading of papers and to general discussions, started by A. G. Lincoln of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch on "How would you measure the efficiency of a circulation manager?"

T. V. Armstrong of the Ottawa (Ont.) Journal-Press will talk on "Cooperation vs. competition in country circulation."

P. C. Treviranus of the Milwaukee Journal will introduce "Scoop, the Journal's house organ for carriers and newsboys."

Sidney D. Long, business manager of the Wichita (Kan.) Eagle, will deliver an address on "Circulation Salesmanship."

H. A. Aikin of the Columbus (Ohio) Citizen will tell "What system should be used to reduce the difference between press run and circulation output."

E. C. White, business manager of the Houston (Tex.) Chronicle, will bring up the subject of "Getting classified ads through carrier boys. How best can the circulation department cooperate to increase this kind of advertising? The relative value of want ads to circulation building."

Robert McGeary of the Toronto Globe is scheduled to talk on a "Simple and convenient way to file back copies of a newspaper. What should be the charge for back copies of one week, one month, one year, etc.?"

The president will call on members at random to discuss the following topics:

"Is the Cox or any other similar mailing machine a success? Do they eliminate complaints? Would a newspaper with a small circulation of five, ten or twenty thousands (efficiency, speed and money invested considered) be justified in purchasing a machine of this kind?"

"Economies in news print consumption."

"Does bill-board, street-car and advertising in the columns of competitors pay in exploiting new features, like serials, etc.?"

"Methods of handling weekly collections with carrier boys."

"The bulletin service—is it of any value to the circulation department and, if so, what is the best system?"

"Best method of organizing and directing city solicitors and what is a fair compensation allowed for them?"

"Experiences of circulation managers talking care of circulation at army camps."

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

Following the recess for dinner, Robert B. McClean, business manager of the New York Evening Post, will resume the reading of papers with a discussion of "Is there enough attention given to the organization and operation of the circulation department?"

F. M. Hatch of the South Bend (Ind.) Tribune will tell "How to secure carriers to handle your paper exclusively and how to constantly increase their lists."

Maurice Levy of the Cincinnati Post will discuss "Applying psychology to the soliciting of subscriptions."

H. S. Blake of the St. Paul Pioneer Press and Dispatch will talk on "The best way to handle city circulation on a morning paper where the papers are sold to carriers; details as to handling office stops, news contracts, complaints, collections, etc. The same as to an evening paper."

H. A. Wenige of the Bridgeport (Ct.) Standard-American will set forth "In what other ways beyond giving circulation figures can the circulation department be of the greatest service to increase and hold advertising patronage?"

Joe Levy of the New Orleans Item will bring up "Newsboys' and newsdealers' unions—are they practical? The best method to contend with them if found to be undesirable."

W. W. Rhoads of the Capper Publications, Topeka, Kan., has been assigned to "Improved mail service—one weak link in circulation building. Concerted action by the I.C.M.A. in urging the Post Office to give better service."

E. F. McIntyre of the Syracuse

(N. Y.) Herald will discuss "The elimination of service copies. Can better service be had when free copies are used and charged as service copies? Do service copies really cut down circulation distribution expense?"

The rest of the afternoon will be devoted to an open meeting for questions and answers by the members. The president will call on members in rotation and ask if they have any questions to bring before the convention on circulation matters. The program committee urged that members present at this time their questions and the schemes they have successfully worked during the past year.

The annual dinner will be held at the Piedmont Hotel on Wednesday evening, followed by an entertainment.

THURSDAY MORNING.

George Fries of the Cincinnati Times-Star will discuss "The simplest and cheapest system for keeping R.F.D. and other mail subscription records, explaining the handling of a subscription remittance from time it reaches the office until the entire transaction is completed."

J. M. Regan of the Cleveland Leader will talk on "The control of newsboys and the getting of permanent increases on street sales."

C. B. Julian of the Peoria (Ill.) Journal is scheduled to compare "The relative value of circulating and personal solicitation in efficiency and economy and thorough covering of territory."

R. J. Corrigan of the Denver Times and Denver Rocky Mountain News will discuss "Would it be a benefit to newspapers generally if the Government established zone rates on second-class matter instead of raising the postage from one to two cents per pound as has been proposed? The best method to use in meeting the additional expense caused by the proposed increase in postage."

The program committee considers this an opportune point to introduce the topic of welfare work among newsboys and requests that members tell what big improvements they have made along this line since the Grand Rapids convention.

John T. Toler of the Atlanta Constitution will talk on "Discontinuance of premiums. Isn't it better generally to apply the money expended on them to increase the quality of the newspaper, as, for example, with more local news?"

W. J. Harrison of the Los Angeles Herald will show the relation of "The child labor law and the newsboy."

Roy Hatton of the Detroit Free Press will discuss the question of

CIRCULATION FEATURES for Circulation Managers

Timely, down-to-date premium specialties, popular prices, best quality obtainable. When in doubt, write to "Blake," the Premium Specialty man. He will send you full particulars on his latest premium offer.

S. BLAKE WILLSDEN
29 E. Madison St., CHICAGO

When you think of CONTESTS You think of Betts

The reason is that we have been in business for many years and are known by practically every newspaper in this country and Canada as a first-class Contest Company—one that runs result-producing campaigns of the highest order.

The William L. Betts Company
Newspaper Contest Specialists

Suite 406, World Building

NEW YORK CITY

OFFICERS OF INTERNATIONAL CIRCULATION MANAGERS ASSOCIATION

JOSEPH R. TAYLOR
Second Vice-President

JOHN M. SCHMID
President

JAMES A. MATHEWS
Secretary-Treasurer

JAMES R. HENDERSON
Director

D. B. G. ROSE
Director

J. H. MILLER, JR.
Director

I. U. SEARS
First Vice-President

W. L. ARGUE
Director

T. J. KAVANAUGH
Director

A. G. LINCOLN
Director

E. S. DOBSON
Director

JAMES McKERNAN
Director

HAROLD HOUGH
Director

"Cooperation among newspaper competitors in a given field. Establishing fixed selling conditions; how to minimize losses through dead-beat country and city dealers, etc."

Charles Payne of the Indianapolis Star will take up "The elimination of the middle man. District commission agents vs. salaried representatives in charge of branch offices."

H. M. Wheeler of the Hartford (Ct.) Times will discuss the "Value of the New England Association of Circulation Managers to the I.C.M.A. and of what advantage are these state and other circulation managers' associations?"

THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

The final business session will be devoted to a general discussion of the following questions, thirty minutes being allowed for each subject:

"Shall the I.C.M.A. invite circulation managers of magazines and trade journals and divide the association into divisions with a chairman at the head of each, all to come under the general control of the president of the I.C.M.A.?"

"Would it be wise to divide the United States and Canada into divisions so that circulation managers of each division may hold state or sectional meetings at least twice each year, such meetings to be in charge of a chairman, all to be under the supervision of the I.C.M.A.?"

Those questions disposed of, the order of business will be:

Election of officers.

Selection of next meeting place.

Unfinished business.

Adjournment of convention.

Meeting of board of directors.

NO "GOOD TIME" AT THIS MEETING

ONLY RECREATION WILL BE BANQUET—LADIES WELL PROVIDED FOR.

The foregoing program will suffice to show that the convention of the International Circulation Managers Association is called solely for business. Entertainment has no place in the three days' proceedings.

The only departures from strict business will be a short sight-seeing trip and the annual banquet, which will be held Wednesday evening.

But the ladies have been well provided for by the entertainment committee, of which John D. Simmons of the Atlanta Journal is chairman.

On Tuesday morning they will journey through Atlanta's "north side," Ansley Park, Druid Hills and residence sections. After luncheon at the East Side Club House they will return to the hotel to join the men for the afternoon trip.

The latter, for members and ladies, will include a jaunt to the Federal Prison, Cyclorama, Battle of Atlanta, Grant Park and a trolley ride. The official photograph will be taken at the Federal Prison.

In the evening the ladies will attend a performance at Keith's Forsyth Theater.

Wednesday morning the ladies will spend in Atlanta's shopping district and in the afternoon they will go to the Burns Club, Wren's Nest and other points of interest.

A photograph of members only will be taken at the adjournment of Wednesday's sessions. A photograph of the ladies only will be taken while they are on their automobile trip or at the club house.

OFFICERS OF THE I. C. M. A.

John M. Schmid, circulation manager of the Indianapolis News, is president of the I.C.M.A. and the other officers are:

First vice-president, Ike U. Sears, Davenport (Ia.) Times;

Second vice-president, Joseph R. Taylor, Grand Rapids (Mich.) Press;

Secretary-treasurer, James A. Mathews, Oklahoma City Oklahoman.

Directors—James McKernan, New York World; A. G. Lincoln, St. Louis Post-Dispatch; D. B. G. Rose, Louisville Post; J. R. Henderson, Montreal Gazette; Harold Hough, Fort Worth Star-Telegram; W. L. Argus, Toronto Star; T. J. Kavanaugh, Dayton News; E. S. Dobson, Philadelphia Public Ledger; J. H. Miller, Pittsburgh Gazette Times.

Chairmen in charge of the active committees include:

Transportation, James McKernan, New York World;

Convention, George H. Reynolds, New Bedford (Mass.) Standard;

Auditing, William Elder, Toronto Telegram;

Newspapers' welfare, Joseph R. Taylor, Grand Rapids Press;

Program, J. M. Annenberg, Schenectady (N. Y.) Union-Star;

Publicity, Robert B. McClean, New York Evening Post;

Welfare, I. U. Sears, Davenport (Ia.) Times;

Audit Bureau of Circulations, Harold Hough, Fort Worth (Tex.) Star-Telegram;

Membership, C. F. Stout, Plainfield (N. J.) Courier-News;

Entertainment, John D. Simmons, Atlanta Journal;

Necrology, Maurice Levy, Cincinnati Post;

By-laws, D. B. G. Rose, Louisville Post.

BIG INCREASE IN MEMBERSHIP

I.C.M.A. NOW HAS 436 MEMBERS ON ITS ROLLS—SIXTY-NINE JOIN IN PAST YEAR.

Chairman Chauncey F. Stout of the Plainfield (N. J.) Courier-News and his committee on membership made the fine record of corraling 69 new members for the I.C.M.A. during the period from the close of the Grand Rapids meeting in June, 1916, to October 1, 1917. They are:

Albany (N. Y.) Argus—Charles I. Fillingan.

Albany (Ga.) Herald—Frank Stanford.

Albama (Pa.) Mirror—E. F. M. Herick.

Albama (Pa.) Times—James H. March.

Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle—Thomas E. Lockhart.

Boston Journal and Advertiser—Samuel Sklar.

Bridgeport (Ct.) Post—Meigs B. Russell.

Bridgeport (Ct.) Post and Telegram—J. A. McNeil.

Butte (Mont.) Miner—William V. Wiegand.

Calgary (Can.) Albertan—William A. Scott.

Cedar Rapids (Ia.) Republican—Orville J. Harsha.

Charlotte (N. C.) News—H. D. McCoy.

Charlotte (N. C.) Observer—J. J. Patterson.

Clarksburg (W. Va.) Telegram—Charles O. Elussen.

Cleveland Plain Dealer—J. P. Harper and J. J. Kirk.

Columbus (Ga.) Enquirer-Sun—Henry L. Harmon.

Elizabeth (N. J.) Daily Times—William J. Weber.

Elmira (N. Y.) Herald—R. H. Pearce.

Evansville (Ind.) Courier—R. C. Hooley.

Everett (Wash.) Herald—R. F. Hymon.

Fall River (Mass.) Globe—Benjamin Madowsky.

Fort Wayne (Ind.) News—Clark A. Ferris.

Greensboro (N. C.) Daily News—E. B. Jeffress.

Halifax (N. S.) Chronicle—Edwin C. Young.

Harrisburg (Pa.) Telegraph—Albert Michener.

Harrisburg (Pa.) Patriot and Evening News—E. A. Miller.

Jamestown (N. Y.) Post—R. Stewart.

Miami (Fla.) Herald—George Vernon Harper.

Meriden (Ct.) Daily Journal—Thomas J. Moroney.

Moore Jaw (Sask.) Times—Robert Pegg.

New Orleans (La.) Times-Picayune—Allden H. Baker.

New York American—William P. Anderson.

New York Evening Mail—Thomas W. Clay.

New York Globe—S. P. Booth.

New York Times—Charles Flanagan.

North Adams (Mass.) Herald—Edwin F. Cunningham.

Norwalk (Ct.) Hour—Edward J. Thomas.

Norwalk Sentinel—Charles R. Baker.

Oakland (Cal.) Tribune—W. F. D. Brown.

Ogden (Utah) Standard—W. H. Brandon.

Oklahoma City Times—M. W. Hulme.

Petersburg (N. J.) Press-Guardian—W. B. Bryant.

Pensacola (Fla.) Journal—Joseph K. Hughes.

Pittsford (Mass.) News—Freeman M. Miller.

Prince Albert (Can.) Herald—F. W. Teas.

Providence (R. I.) Journal—J. P. Barry.

Punkataway (Pa.) Spirit—J. Boyd Hunter.

Raleigh (N. C.) News and Observer—Clarence J. Steed.

Raleigh (N. C.) Times—Miss Mattie Lancaster.

Reading (Pa.) Eagle—Daniel K. Hoek.

Salem (Ore.) Capital Journal—Russell E. Edmendes.

San Francisco Call—John E. Grey.

Santa Ana (Cal.) Evening Blade—R. L. Sharp.

Savannah (Ga.) Daily News—Edward D. Hood.

Sioux Falls (S. D.) Press—Walter E. Wickstrom.

St. Louis Times—W. R. Rauck.

St. Paul Daily News—Charles J. Kutill.

Tampa (Fla.) Times—John M. Mullen.

Terre Haute (Ind.) Tribune—J. F. Hanahan.

The Dallas (Ore.) Chronicle—Allen G. Thurman.

Trenton (N. J.) Times—Albert V. Ambrose.

Troy (N. Y.) Record—Edward G. Buck.

Tulsa (Okla.) Daily World—H. E. Bullock.

Vancouver (B. C.) World—P. R. Edwards.

Victoria (B. C.) Colonist—Robert M. Byrne.

Wilmington (N. C.) Dispatch—R. F. Stowell.

NEWS NOTES OF CIRCULATORS.

The Buffalo (N. Y.) News is giving free performances of "The News and the Spoilsman," a moving picture created by the News to show the public the many duties that enter into the daily work of getting out a paper. The movie shows all that goes on within the News plant as well as many incidents outside that have to do with the gathering of news and the distribution.

The retail price of the Buffalo (N. Y.) Sunday Times, outside of Buffalo, will be 6 cents a copy commencing with the issue of October 7. The price to agents will be 4½ cents per copy, with no returns, as at present.

On account of illness S. Blake Willsden, the Chicago premium specialist, will not be able to attend the I.C.M.A. convention.

Thomas P. Myers of the Myers Circulation Company, Waterloo, Ia., will renew many old acquaintances in Atlanta.

Business pressure will prevent George H. Reynolds, circulation manager of the New Bedford (Mass.) Standard and Mercury, from making the trip to Atlanta.

The recent report that the Philadelphia North American's service flag premiums were purchased from S. Blake Willsden of Chicago was an error. They were all bought from Detra & Co., Oakes, Pa.

There is much interest on the part of the public at the present time in the meaning of the various rank insignia of men in the Army and Navy. Explanations by newspapers would be well received by readers. They have been made by the New York Times, the Philadelphia North American and some other newspapers with satisfactory results.

The North American illustrated the insignia in a special colored supplement in its issue of September 30.

The Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin holds out hopes to the ambitious newsboys by unearthing the fact that the great Lloyd George was at one time a newspaper carrier in a small Welsh village.

The prompt delivery contest between the carriers of the Des Moines (Ia.) Register proved to be a pro-

Curtright Circulation Company

"Premier Promoter of the U. S. A."

Now conducting its Sixth Contest for The Meridian Star, Meridian, Miss.

MORE THAN A HUNDRED SUCCESSFUL CONTESTS

Temporary Address.

Meridian Star
Meridian, Miss.

Mr. Publisher!

If you want better results, send for the Curtright Company for your next contest.

Permanent Address.

P. O. Box 592
SHREVEPORT, LA.

nounced success. A contest on morning delivery will soon be held. S. K. Miller, city circulation manager of the Des Moines (Ia.) Register, has offered three cash prizes for the best route list handed in on October 10.

C. E. Story, who handled the circulation end of the Des Moines (Ia.) Register in a Des Moines downtown district for nearly two years, is in Camp Dodge with the draft cohort.

The Peterborough (Ont.) Daily Review and the Lindsay (Ont.) Daily Warbler are conducting voting contest circulation campaigns under the direction of the MacAlpine Circulation Company.

E. S. Dobson, for many years circulation manager of the Detroit News and later with the Milwaukee Sentinel, has just assumed the circulation management of the morning and Sunday editions of the Philadelphia Ledger.

The San Francisco Chronicle has an enlightening new feature which is designed as a "Love Letter Contest."

MORE IN NEW YORK ASSOCIATION.

MEMBERSHIP PROMISES TO BE DOUBLED AT THE NOVEMBER MEETING.

The New York State Circulation Managers Association, which was organized in August, is developing at a pace most satisfactory to its officers. The membership, which started with eighteen at the meeting in Schenectady, promises to be more than double when the next meeting opens in Syracuse on November 14.

J. M. ANNENBERG.

President J. M. Annenberg of the Schenectady Union-Star (who, by the way, is chairman of the program committee of the I.C.M.A.), tells THE FOURTH ESTATE:

"Letters from circulation men all over the state have been coming to me, stating that they will join and wanting to enlist as charter members.

The Crystal Water Set

With Genuine Sterling Silver Initials and Decorations

*The Ideal Gift for Christmas
Birthdays
and Weddings*

*Every Family Should Possess
This Superb Set*

ILLUSTRATION OF WATER SET GREATLY REDUCED IN SIZE

ORNAMENTAL—SUBSTANTIAL—USEFUL

This Water Set will delight every housewife. It will give the whole family everlasting satisfaction. It will get new readers when everything else fails. Its appeal is irresistible. Solicitors will take from fifteen to thirty orders daily. Write for prices and terms.

A Winner for Sunday
Circulation

Crystal Sugar and Creamer Initialed and Decorated in Sterling Silver

ILLUSTRATION GREATLY REDUCED.

It is impossible to show the beauty of this Crystal Ware in an illustration. You must actually see it to appreciate its desirability and attractiveness.

Send for samples to-day, at quantity price, naming initial desired.

MANUFACTURED AND DISTRIBUTED BY SYNDICATE COMPANY, Inc.

9 and 11 East 37th Street

NEW YORK, N. Y.

We have just gotten up a prospectus that will be mailed to new prospects. This carries an application blank."

The program for the coming Syracuse meeting will be made up of timely subjects that every newspaper circulation manager in the state should take part in.

The officers of the New York State Circulation Managers Association are: President, J. M. Annenberg, Schenectady Union-Star; vice-president, James McKernan, New York World; secretary-treasurer, John O. Taft, Binghamton Republican-Herald; Directors—William Henry, New York American; A. J. Gerber, Syracuse Journal; R. D. M. Decker, Albany Knickerbocker Press; and M. D. Treble, Buffalo Times.

Charter members of the association so far are:

Albany Knickerbocker Press—John W. O'Connor, R. D. M. Decker, Albany Times-Union—Frank McDuff, Binghamton Republican Herald—John O. Taft.

Buffalo Times—M. D. Treble, Buffalo News—George N. Therrien, New York American—W. H. Henry, New York Italian Evening Bulletin—F. L. Frugone, New York World—James McKernan, Poughkeepsie Eagle-News—Edgar C. Hanford.

Schenectady Union-Star—J. M. Annenberg, Schenectady Gazette—E. W. Van Deusen, Syracuse Post-Standard—W. Hixson, Syracuse Journal—A. J. Gerber, Syracuse Herald—E. F. McIntyre, Utica Observer—Martin A. Miner, Utica Press—Alfred Cockerill, Watertown Times—Charles H. Congdon.

One of the most enthusiastic workers for the new New York Association is James McKernan of the New York World, its vice-president and a director of the I.C.M.A. In the prospectus just issued Mr. McKernan presents this argument for membership to New Yorkers not yet enrolled:

"The circulation manager of the present day is usually so keen to take advantage of any opportunity to increase his knowledge of circulation methods that it seems almost like a waste of time to write an article showing the benefits that accrue to circulation managers who join the New York State Circulation Managers Association.

"Members of this association have an unlimited fund of information available and also the advantage of being able to ask questions at the meeting on any subject that may be puzzling them and have them answered from various view points by men of large experience in circulation methods; there is also a big advantage in being personally acquainted with the circulation managers of your own state who have many problems in common.

"If you contemplate working some promotion scheme or special features, you will be able to get the best advice possible and probably from some member who has worked a scheme of similar nature. Information and knowledge of great importance to all newspapers are always at the command of our members.

"If there are circulation managers who have doubts of the advantages of identifying themselves with this association, I would like to have them attend just one meeting; I feel sure they would not leave without making application for membership.

"The initiation fee is $3. The dues $2 annually. I do not know where any circulation would procure

Take Your Choice Both Are Good SERRULAR BREAD KNIFE

9-inch blade—Knife will cut any kind of war bread. Best of steel and handles are patented of shell aluminum, absolutely sanitary. Less than 40c. each in quantities. Sample post-paid in U. S. for 50c.

JACKSON SANITARY KNIFE (all glass)

9 in. long. Cuts all acid fruits and does not corrode. Always sharp.

Less than 20c. each in quantities. Samples post-paid in U. S. for 30c.

E. S. PEASE CO., Inc.
698-700 Main Street BUFFALO, N. Y.

so much for so little.

"I hope to see every circulation manager in the state of New York enrolled as a member of this organization.

"The privilege of becoming a charter member has been extended to all those who send in their application within two weeks from October 1.

"I trust that all circulation managers in New York State who are not members will send their application and check to our secretary-treasurer, John O. Taft of the Binghamton Republican-Herald.

"Let us make the New York State Circulation Managers Association the largest state organization. We have a large field to draw from and there is no reason why we should not be at the head.

"Do not delay, join now and get all the benefits."

NEW ENGLANDERS HAVE PROFITED

FROM THEIR ASSOCIATION——ORGANIZATION IN OTHER STATES URGED.

By J. A. McNEIL,
Of the Bridgeport Post; President of the N.E.A.C.M.

The New England Association of Circulation Managers is a success. We were sure it was going to be a success from the start.

The idea of the circulation managers association composed of New England circulators was first conceived by our secretary-treasurer, H. M. Wheeler of the Hartford (Ct.)

PRESIDENT J. A. McNEIL.

Post, who, with the cooperation of other Hartford circulation managers, immediately got down to business and in less than a month a preliminary or organization meeting was held at Springfield, which was attended by about twenty circulation managers from Maine to Connecticut.

We now have over forty members in the organization.

In the matter of dollars and cents I dare say that each member has reaped a two-fold harvest.

The cost of the membership and attending meetings is purposely kept as low as possible and the value of the information obtained at each meeting cannot be estimated by any one member, but it is safe to say that thousands of dollars have been saved by publications in New England whose circulation managers belong to the association.

Experimenting is expensive and any association that will help to eliminate experiments is bound to be a benefit to all of its members.

Unsuccessful ideas can be dropped after being tried on one paper and although conditions differ in each city schemes that prove successful in one place can be revised to conform to the conditions of another.

Naturally the social benefit of such an organization is important and not only tends to do away with the "hard feelings" that sometimes exist between circulation managers of publications in the same city, but enables them to get together in such a way as to be of distinct advantage in the case of newsboys' strikes or in handling unreasonable demands of newdealers or wholesalers.

An interesting and time saving feature of our meetings is the presence of salesmen handling circulation supplies, etc. The sales talks and explanations of their wares can be told all over New England in a very few minutes, saving both their time and that of the various circulators.

As a direct result of the New England Association of Circulation Managers probably ten or fifteen papers throughout New England have gone non-returnable, while the publishers of these same papers were doubtful or apprehensive of the results of such a step before it was discussed openly at one of our meetings and proven to be a success.

It is my opinion that publishers throughout the country should encourage the forming of such state or territorial organizations as a protection for their own bank accounts as well as for the efficiency of their circulation departments.

In the name of the New England Association of Circulation Managers I congratulate both the publishers and the circulation managers of the papers represented in the Texas, New York State, and Illinois Circulation Managers Associations for their far-

POLLARD-ALLING MFG. COMPANY

System and Machinery for
ADDRESSING NEWSPAPERS
and PERIODICALS
to SUBSCRIBERS

From Thin Aluminum Plates.

Saves considerable money in operating costs and facilitates obtaining renewals at practically no cost for the addressing.

Write for particulars.
513-515 East 34th St. NEW YORK

Service Flags

PUBLISHERS—Place your order now for SERVICE FLAGS and announce to the world the number of employees you have given to the Government service. This flag shows a star for every member of a family or firm in the service of Uncle Sam. Flags furnished with any number of stars without extra charge. Can supply cotton bunting, Samson bunting or Standard wool bunting at very low prices. Write today for samples and prices.

S. BLAKE WILLSDEN
29 E. Madison St., CHICAGO.

China Premiums ARE THE BEST!

Distinctive Service in Many Sizes
Write for Samples.

The Limoges China Co.
SEBRING, OHIO

sightedness in promoting this constructive work.

[The officers of the New England association are: President, J. A. McNeil, Bridgeport (Ct.) Post, vice-president, George H. Reynolds, New Bedford (Mass.) Standard; secretary-treasurer, H. M. Wheeler, Hartford Post.

Directors—H. A. Wenige, Bridgeport Standard-American; W. S. Mitchell, Portland (Me.) Express; James P. Barry, Providence Journal.]

TEXAS PROFITS BY ORGANIZATION.

SPIRIT OF COOPERATION IN CIRCULATION A THING TO BE PROUD OF.

By R. B. KINARD,
Of the Galveston News; President of the T.C.M.A.

The value of the Texas Circulation Managers Association to the Texas newspapers we believe has been incalculable. The organizers who met at Houston on September 18, 1913, and the former association of its kind had as their object "the annual enlightenment of its members and the furtherance of the best interests of the circulation department with which they are connected."

The motto of the Texas Circulation Managers Association is: "Sane Cooperation vs. Insane Competition."

At our annual meetings few long-drawn speeches are made and entertainment features are cut short. The seriousness of our task is realized and the members get down to work in a sort of round-table discussion of circulation matters from every angle imaginable.

In this manner the meat and the essence of results are obtained because a speaker can be questioned and each member can, through the presiding officer, give his views or make inquiries.

The spirit of cooperation manifested among Texas circulation managers is a thing to be proud of and the results in actual accomplishment are too numerous to mention in the space allowed.

Through cooperation, the dishon-

The True News

FIRST

Always—Accurately

INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE

10th Floor, World Bldg. NEW YORK

NEWSPAPER FEATURE SERVICE

"The CIRCULATION Builders"
37 West 39th Street, NEW YORK

ent newsdealer has been practically eliminated.

Return privileges have been reduced almost to nothing, through interchanging of plans and ideas among members all manners of saving have been effected for the publisher as well as numerous plans for building circulation.

R. B. KINARD.

Over-prints were cut down, waste paper and strappings were utilized in the mailing rooms—several publishers not buying any wrapping paper at all.

We also believe our association by concerted action has brought about better express service. Most every Texas paper has increased its rates to dealers, carriers, news-dealers and subscribers, and the spirit of the circulation managers to assist each other was no small factor to this end.

Much good has resulted to the publisher through the Texas Circulation Managers Association by the complete eradication of the underhanded methods of competition. Instead of employing these costly, harmful "boom-erang" business methods, the intimate exchange of our very best knowledge and experience has greatly benefited us: made our relations more congenial, and made greater accomplishments possible.

The welfare of the newsboy has

KEEN PUBLISHERS Everywhere Are Buying Electric BulletinMachines

They have written us letters giving their opinions. They make interesting reading. We wish we could send them to you complete. Some of the letters are in our New Illustrated Catalogue. Why not let us send you One?

National Electric Bulletin Corporation.
NEW LONDON, CONN.

Quality Pages

The kind that give universal satisfaction and are continued year after year. Sample mats with pleasure on request.

The International Syndicate

Established 1899. BALTIMORE, MD.

been given much attention by our association and the results have reflected in profits to the publisher.

As a result of the annual meetings each circulation manager seeks to inform himself thoroughly, so that he may be on an equal footing with the other members of our association. The advantages and disadvantages of the paper he represents are studied and he thereby becomes more efficient and desires to seek further until he becomes competent.

Another valuable feature made possible by the Texas Circulation Managers Association is that circulation problems are localized and by this means analyzed.

FIRMLY FOUNDED IN ILLINOIS.

ASSOCIATION IS BOUND TO GROW RAPIDLY AND BE OF GREAT BENEFIT.

By L. V. VANCELAVE,
Of the Rockford Republic; President of the C.M.A.I.

The Circulation Managers Association of Illinois, which was organized on June 12, 1917, at the La Salle Hotel, Chicago, with an initial membership of 17, has since grown to around 25 members.

While it is a little early to make predictions, the officers and members of this association feel that the organization is bound to grow rapidly and be of great benefit to the newspapers throughout the state of Illinois.

Already we are experiencing a better feeling of fellowship, which is leading to a free exchange of ideas even among newspapers in close competition.

It is for this purpose that the association was organized.

The founders felt that an association with membership limited to newspapers in the state alone would lead to great good for the reason that the problems confronting any one newspaper in the state would also confront others because many cities and newspapers are of nearly equal size. Consequently their problems could be threshed out to better

The only journal outside of the United States published in the interest of newspaper men.

THE 30 pages Weekly NEWSPAPER WORLD

Annual Postal Subscription
Everywhere $2.40.
(Established 1898)

Specimen Copy Sent Free
Address: 14 Cross Street
FINSBURY, LONDON, ENG.

I Get the Money!

J. A. McAVOY

Special Editions
Weekly Review Pages
Cartoon Books

Nat'l Exch. Bk. Bldg.
PROVIDENCE, R. I.

The Booklovers Sales Co.

ANNOUNCES Incorporated
Its Perfect Plan for a BOOKLOVERS' PICTUREGAME
Complete for 350.00
Complete means Complete.
SEND FOR THE DETAILS
110 West 40th st., New York City advantage by reason of their equality.

L. V. VANCELAVE.

The next convention of the Circulation Managers of Illinois will be held in Springfield, possibly the early part of December, and a rousing meeting is anticipated.

The officers of the association are: President, L. V. Vancleave, Rockford Republic; vice-president, Clarence Eyster, Peoria Star; secretary-treasurer, G. S. Galloway, Rockford Register-Gazette; Directors—W. P. Lovell, Bloomington Pantagraph; E. R. Ragan, Springfield Register; E. F. Gardner, Elgin Courier.

See pages twenty-six and twenty-seven for other matters of interest to circulation managers; also page nineteen.

CO-OPERATIVE DELIVERY FOR NEWSPAPERS.

NEW PROHIBITIVE SECOND CLASS RATES WILL DRIVE CIRCULATORS TO FIND NEW MEANS OF DISTRIBUTING.

By WALDON FAWCETT.

Does cooperation in newspaper delivery offer a solution for some of the troubles with which publishers are now beset?

This is a question likely to be asked with anxious interest in view of the persistent effort in Congress to place a special tax upon the publishing industry in the form of an increase in second-class postage rates.

Cooperative deliveries would, of course, offer an escape from burdensome second-class rates only insofar as cooperation might be applicable to out-of-town deliveries such as are now made via mail channels.

However, it may well come to pass that while publishers are scrutinizing the whole proposition of joint delivery systems they may discover certain possibilities in it with respect to city deliveries as well.

That, indeed, would be right in line with the spirit of the times. For that matter, the National Council of Defense, through its Commercial Economy Board, has for some weeks past been strongly urging upon merchants in all parts of the country the adoption, as a measure of war economy, of "central" or "cooperative" delivery systems.

The fundamental feature of cooperative delivery consists of a pooling of issues by the various participants who share the expense—either pro rata or on a basis of flat payments. Instead of each concern sending a delivery vehicle to a given section of a city such duplication of effort is avoided and one wagon or motor truck makes the trip over that route at a given time carrying the assembled packages of the various establishments that have chipped in on the arrangement.

The idea is not a new one as regards newspaper circulation practice. It has been proposed at various times in various forms for city distribution, but it has usually been vetoed because of some such obstacle as difference in the hours of going to press of the various papers that might be parties to the arrangement.

Now, however, that the idea has emphatic Governmental endorsement and that the labor shortage is making itself felt in circulation departments, publishers may be minded to look more closely at the whole cooperative delivery proposition.

On the face of the thing it would appear that rival newspaper interests might get together on long-distance cooperative delivery more readily than they can make common cause on local distribution.

There have been repeated instances where competitive newspapers have, in the past, accepted the principle of cooperation by mutually contracting for special newspaper trains or for launch or steamer trips where the latter have been necessary in order to get newspapers to summer resorts and other places not readily reached by regular mail or transportation channels.

Obviously there are limitations to the circumstances under which newspapers can take out-of-town deliveries into their own hands on the cooperative plan. The scheme is likely to be feasible only in territory that is fairly thickly settled and where the bulk of the circulation takes the form of agents' bundles rather than single newspaper copies in individual wrappers.

Furthermore, if the direct delivery is to be by means of motor cars, motorcycles or motor trucks reasonably good roads are essential, especially in the case of evening papers, which must, of course, be placed in the hands of the most remote subscribers by dark.

Doubtless many publishers would prefer to continue in their present circulation rut if the only war penalty was a straight increase of modest amount in the second-class rate. But it has turned out to be even worse than the most pessimistic dreamed.

Many a publisher is wont to solace himself with the thought that he cannot be hit very hard on the comparatively few individually wrapped papers that go by post, inasmuch as he prefers to use express service for all heavy shipments within a radius of several hundred miles: express rates for newspaper bundles are only one-fourth to one-half the postal charges for the same service.

EXPRESS DELIVERY MAY BE STOPPED.

That is all very well so long as matters stand as at present. But no publisher can afford to overlook rumors that the Post Office Department is ambitious to put over a legislative "joker" that would prohibit the transmission on passenger trains of publications not carried in the United States mail.

If that comes to pass it will be a case of distribute by mail or else trust yourself to the mercies of freight trains and the infrequent trains made up solidly of express cars.

If postage charges are marked up as threatened with a stipulation that Uncle Sam must have all or none of a publisher's business, it may be found that there is not the difference that many a publisher has suspected between mailing expense and distributive expense via outside channels, especially if publishers can combine to share the distributive facilities and thereby keep down costs to the minimum.

Retail establishments and department stores in various cities that have lately adopted cooperative delivery systems have found that in many instances each participant has effected a saving of 25 to 50 per cent over the outlay necessitated for independent operations.

Another influence aside from threats of postage increase that has impelled some publishers to latterly turn with new interest to the ideal of self-sufficiency in distribution is found in less satisfactory conditions of train service.

In the effort to economize for war the railroads of the country have withdrawn from service hundreds of passenger trains. Not a few of the cancelled trains were relied upon by publishers to carry their papers and consequently plans have been upset.

A favorite economy on the part of the railroads has been to annul one train where it was found that two trains were scheduled for runs at about the same time between the same terminals. That elimination has been all very well insofar as restricting through traffic to one train is concerned, but in few instances do competing railroads traverse exactly parallel routes and cutting the train that has been dispensed with has been rather rough on the newspapers that depended upon the cancelled train to get their papers to intermediate points.

Yet another influence favorable to readjustment of circulation practices is that passenger trains on almost all roads are almost invariably late these days, thanks to the extraordinary efforts to move freight. Passengers who look at it as all in the day's work may not grumble at being an hour or two late, in arriving at a destination, but delay of an hour or two day after day is an irritating circumstance in the distribution of newspapers, especially evening papers, at points more or less remote from the office of publication.

The storage committee of the Council of National Defense, which is urging the substitution of motor trucks for all short hauls of express and freight, is advocating motor transportation within a radius of 40 miles of the distributing point. Whether the 40 mile limit should be a "dead line" in the case of newspaper distribution by this means may be open to debate.

AGRICULTURE AS NEWS MATTER.

GIVEN ENDORSEMENT BY THE GOVERNMENT AFTER TEST IN NEW ORLEANS.

Over three years ago the New Orleans Times-Picayune elevated agriculture to the dignity of news.

The cotton boll weevil and other disastrous visitations had impoverished many of the farmers. Something had to be done to rehabilitate them, to teach them diversification, the science of farming, etc.

It was a new departure in the newspaper field. A column on the editorial page was devoted daily to a department styled "The Lay of the Land," and it was made the special assignment of Herman J. Seiferth, for twenty years city editor of the Picayune, before that paper's amalgamation with the Times-Democrat under the present title—the Times-Picayune.

The articles attempted to popularize science, to improve methods and conditions, to encourage cooperation, organization and stabilization, and to attract attention and interest to and from agriculture.

The project proved a success from the start, and it has won as many readers and endorsements in the cities as in the rural sections. It has had the effect of inducing other papers to give prominence to farming and stories of the soil. It has been praised by educators and complimented by conventions. It has moulded the minds of editors and correspondents to attach as much value and to give as much space to agricultural events as to crimes and scandals.

The large investment in agricultural enterprises and improvements in Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Arkansas and other states where the Times-Picayune circulates is largely due to the influence of the innovation at first regarded as an experiment of problematical outcome.

The greatest tribute to the idea

Live advertisers, as evidenced by the Audit Bureau of Circulations and the Association of National Advertisers, consider quality of circulation as well as quantity in placing their orders.

Quality circulation, from the advertiser's standpoint, is the circulation that reaches responsible people who know what your paper contains, buy it for flat reason, and read it.

Such subscribers "stick" year after year, cost the least to renew, and make the advertising pay the advertiser.

During the past year we filled an order for 3,000,000 Winthrop Coin Cards from one publisher. This order was given because several years' use and carefully tabulated records of the returns clearly showed that they were more profitable, more economical, and more satisfactory than any other method used by them to secure subscriptions.

Winthrop Coin Cards will introduce your paper to selected, responsible people, some of whom, after reading a description of it, will pay for sample copies. If they subscribe after reading several copies, they do so because they want to read it, and such circulation is more valuable than circulation obtained by the personal eloquence of a solicitor, a hard luck letter, clubbing or any similar means.

The continually increasing use of Winthrop Coin Cards by the foremost publications, managed by the MOST EFFICIENT CIRCULATION MANAGERS and ADVERTISING MEN, is a sure proof of their value.

We will appreciate a chance to cooperate with you in making plans by which new subscribers may be secured and old ones renewed. We can supplement the coin card with other productive adjuncts and twenty years of experience on circulation plans.

JOHN H. EGGERS COMPANY

Incorporated

Printing Crafts Building

461 Eighth Avenue

NEW YORK CITY

and its execution was bestowed a month ago when John M. Parker, Federal Food Administrator for Louisiana, insisted that the services of Mr. Seiferth were necessary for the success of his work for the state and nation. In drafting Mr. Seiferth to serve with the Food Administrator, Mr. Parker had this to say:

"The most important adjunct to the food administrator is his right-hand man. You have the man who can render most efficient service in that line. Working on the Picayune from his early boyhood, and then with the Times-Picayune—his daily article, 'The Lay of the Land,' has been interesting and valuable; he is known all over the state, his acquaintance with agriculturists and stock raisers is large, and by all he is looked to as an honest, capable man who wants to help and encourage agriculturists."

"He has the confidence of our community and of the people of the entire state, and I now need the services of H. J. Seiferth to help in the work of food administration, and ask the Times-Picayune to so detail him as a patriotic duty."

Mr. Parker considered it was important that the "Lay of the Land" should be continued, as it was vital to the food administration of Louisiana. The Times-Picayune agreed that the department must be maintained for its general benefit and influence, and consented to loan Mr. Seiferth to the Food Administration as a patriotic contribution to the vital war activity.

Mr. Seiferth is still writing "The Lay of the Land" in connection with his food administration work, and is performing his double duty to the satisfaction of all concerned.

THE CIRCULATOR IN ENGLAND.

THE POST RECENTLY CREATED, BUT ALREADY RECOGNIZED AS IMPORTANT ONE.

By EDGAR FIFORT, Manager, News of the World, Ltd., London.

There is no doubt that the position of circulation manager has progressively assumed more important dimensions during the past few years. The post, so far as the English papers are concerned, is one of comparatively recent recognition. Years ago there was no one on the English papers between the publisher and the manager. The publisher fulfilled the duties of superintending the actual issuing of the papers as well as exercising the functions of the modern circulation manager.

Now the circulation manager is a man of considerable standing, and one who commands a large salary, more particularly on the more important papers.

The one thing that insures success to newspapers is progressive circulation, all departments so far as the business end of the undertaking is concerned, being dependent upon this.

It is quite a usual thing in my experience for the circulation manager to have the reversion of the position of business or general manager.

By virtue of his duties he is, perhaps more than any other person in the establishment, the power (given, of course, a suitable article to sell) to make a commercial success of the business in which he is engaged. If he can make circulation, the other essentials to a profitable business, such as advertising revenue, etc., follow automatically.

SPECIAL I. C. M. A. CAR FROM NEW YORK.

Persons attending the I. C. M. A. Atlanta convention and traveling via New York City will have a special Pullman sleeping car of twelve sections and one drawing room.

It will be E 17 on Train 37, leaving the Pennsylvania Station in New York (34th street and Seventh avenue) at 4.35 p. m. tomorrow—through to Atlanta.

So far the men who have reservations are:

Buffalo Times—M. D. Treble.
New York American William Henry.
New York Bolletino della Sera—Frank L. Frugone.
New York Globe—S. P. Booth.
New York Staats-Zeitung—William H. Hoffman.
New York World—James McKernan.
Philadelphia North American—A. E. MacKinnon.
Schenectady Union-Star—J. M. Annenberg.
Crownell Publishing Company—Ernest A. Scholz.
Pictorial Review—B. A. MacKinnon.
Today's Housewife—Henry von der Leith.
Audit Bureau of Circulations—J. F. Barry.
Providence Journal—J. P. Barry.
Harrisburg (Pa.) Telegraph—A. R. Michener.

COMMITTEE ON CAMP UPTON CIRCULATION.

At the meeting of the New York City Circulation Managers Association on October 3 a committee was appointed to devise ways and means of handling the newspapers at Camp Upton, the cantonment of the National Army for New York.

Chairman James McKernan of the New York World appointed William Henry of the American and Charles Flanagan of the Times to represent the morning and Sunday newspapers, and S. P. Booth of the Globe and M. J. Burke of the Brooklyn Eagle for the evening papers. Mr. Eisemann, representing a number of Jewish papers, was appointed on the committee in the interests of the foreign language publications.

The meeting was well attended and the Camp Upton problem was interestingly discussed.

KINARD IN GALVESTON.

Rolla B. Kinard has returned to the Galveston (Tex.) News and Semi-weekly Farm News as circulation manager. He was previously with those papers for several years in various capacities and recently had been circulation manager of the Beaumont Enterprise. Mr. Kinard is the president of the Texas Circulation Managers Association.

CRUM GOES TO LEXINGTON.

C. W. Crum, who has been circulation manager of the Grand Forks (N. D.) Herald and who previously handled the circulation for the Grand Rapids (Mich.) Press, is now on the Lexington (Ky.) Leader.

NO HALSTEAD SUCCESSOR.

Nobody has been appointed to succeed W. L. Halstead as general manager of the Minneapolis Tribune since his leaving on August 1.

CURBING THE FAKE "EXTRA" CRIERS.

THE POLICE LACK THE POWER—WHAT CAN CIRCULATION MANAGERS DO?

Circulation managers of newspapers in practically every large city are confronted with the problem of preventing newsboys from disturbing the peace by shouting sensational war news extras when there is nothing in their papers to justify their clamor.

This practice is unnerving people who have relatives in the service and to whom the war is of vital and personal concern.

In New York City the police department is trying to find a way to curb the fakers. Police Commissioner Woods said:

"We are doing our best to stop this nuisance, but it is one of those things that depends very much upon the mood and attitude of magistrates."

"If a policeman, on his own initiative, takes a boy to court for making a public nuisance of himself, sympathy is so much with the boy that unless the policeman has a strong complaint to back him up he is likely to be laughed out of court. It is difficult to get a citizen to prosecute a boy, no matter how much he may resent being disturbed by his noise."

"Excepting insofar as it tends to create a public nuisance, there is no law which could be utilized to suppress the practice, but in view of the annoyance that newsboys are causing, precinct captains have received special instructions to stop it so far as possible."

"They are eager to act upon complaints, provided the complainants will go to court. Without a citizen's complaint to back him up, a policeman bringing a boy into court will get very little support from the bench. On the contrary, he is more likely to be told to transfer his activities from the capture of newsboys to the capture of burglars."

"It is a human situation very difficult to control."

DINNER TO "BILL" HENRY.

Over 200 newspaper men with their wives and sweethearts assembled at Reisenweber's last Sunday evening to pay honor to William Henry, who has been connected with the circulation department of the New York American for more than twenty-two years. He is about to take a vacation trip of several weeks, which will take him to the I.C.M.A. convention at Atlanta and the coast. Sunday evening's affair was a farewell to Mr. Henry on the eve of his departure.

Following the elaborate menu, John J. McArdle of Mailers Union No. 6, who was toast-master, presented the guest, on behalf of those present, with a handsome diamond charm and told of the high qualities of Mr. Henry as a circulator and the esteem in which he is held by his friends in every branch of the craft.

Edward J. McCafferty of Mail and Deliverers Union No. 9483 also lauded Mr. Henry's efficiency.

There were classical vocal selections by Miss Edna Brink, daughter of Louis Brink, who was chairman of the dinner committee, and William Clunin rendered several comedy songs in good voice.

Mailers Union No. 6 was represented by John McArdle and Daniel McCullough; Mail and Deliverers Union No. 9483 was represented by its president, Joseph D. Bannon, and Secretary John R. Dunne.

The committee in charge of the dinner consisted of Louis Brink, chairman; Thomas Rigney, Timothy Overbough and John Geary.

JACKSON PRICES UP.

The Jackson (Mich.) Patriot has raised its city subscription rates to 3 cents on copies of the daily and 7 cents on copies of the Sunday edition. The paper attributes the necessity for this increase to the higher cost of news print and the new Government war tax on newspapers.

REGRETS.

E. S. Pease, premium specialist of Buffalo, N. Y., will be unable to be with the I.C.M.A. members at Atlanta on account of the pressure of business.

William L. Betts, newspaper contest promoter, is on a business trip at present and will be unable to get to Atlanta to meet his many friends in the I.C.M.A.

OFFICES AT CAMP.

The news and circulation staffs of the Louisville Courier-Journal and the Louisville Times at Camp Zachary Taylor will have a building of their own. It will be shared, however, by correspondents of other newspapers and magazines represented at the camp.

TAKE IT TO POWERS!

"Fastest Engravers on Earth"

Open 24 hours out of 24
On Time All the Time

POWERS PHOTO-ENGRAVING COMPANY
154 Nassau Street, NEW YORK
Telephone 4900 Beekman

Good Work Prompt Service Fair Prices

They tell the story of our 23 years of successful service.
And we want you to get into the habit to
"Phone the Manhattan Man for your Engraving"

MANHATTAN PHOTO ENGRAVING CO.
281-283 William Street NEW YORK
Phone, Worth 1651-5

STANLEY PROCESS TYPE METAL quality not down to a price up made

SYRACUSE SMELTING WORKS
BROOKLYN, N. Y. and CHICAGO, ILL.

For Particular Printing come to the
ALLIANCE PRESS
110-114 West 3rd Street NEW YORK

THE FOURTH ESTATE

A NEWSPAPER FOR THE MAKERS OF NEWSPAPERS AND INVESTORS IN ADVERTISING.

Entered as second class matter in the New York Post Office, March 29, 1894. Issued every Saturday by THE FOURTH ESTATE Publishing Company, Ernest F. Birmingham, President and Treasurer, Fremont W. Spicer, Vice-President and Secretary, 222 West 59th Street, New York City.

Subscription: TWO DOLLARS a year. Postage free in the United States, Hawaii, Porto Rico, the Philippines and Mexico. Postage extra to Canada, 58c.; to other countries in Postal Union, $1.04.

Subscribers should have their copies of THE FOURTH ESTATE addressed to their homes, so as to avoid chance of loss in the mass of exchanges (second and third class matter) which goes to all offices.

Single copies, TEN CENTS (except Special Editions, 25 cents.)

Back Numbers—Less than 3 months old, 25 cents; more than 3 months old, $1 each.

OFFICES AND PRINTING HOUSE
Broadway and 59th Street
222 West 59th St. NEW YORK
Columbus Circle.
Telephones, 7740, 7741, 7742 Columbus

ERNEST F. BIRMINGHAM, Publisher

No. 1232.

FOR THE WEEK ENDING OCTOBER 6, 1917

SECOND CLASS SECTIONS A BLOT ON REVENUE BILL.

Well, the Congressmen and Government officials who have been trying for years to "ret" the newspapers have finally succeeded in enacting into law provisions for increased second class postage rates that may give them the satisfaction they seek.

The confiscatory rates set by the War Revenue Bill will doubtless kill many newspapers that have aroused the displeasure of the legislators by their criticisms.

But are the fair-minded members of Congress going to let this War Revenue Bill "joker" stand?

Representative Cooper of Wisconsin just about sized up the situation correctly when he said in the conference report discussion:

"There is not a man here or anywhere else that in a fair debate can defend a proposal for a zone system and carry it through to Congress."

"It has been defeated when brought forward to stand or fall on its own merits. But now here it is in a bill to raise the revenues necessary to carry on the war and save the great Republic."

"We must vote for the system or vote against the entire conference report."

"This sort of coercion over the votes of the House is wrong absolutely, incalculably wrong."

"This provision, if it had merit, ought to have been brought in here upon a Post Office bill. Let them bring it in on such a bill."

"Then let the friends of the zone system give up two days of debate on this most important subject, and we will take Woodrow Wilson's statement, together with the indisputable facts, as our text, elaborate upon it, and defeat any attempt to reestablish in this country the discarded zone system for carrying the mails."

And that there are others in the House, too, who are going to do their level best to correct the error Congress has made is shown by what Representative Mondell said:

"The plan proposed is unfair to the newspapers and magazines. It is clumsy and unscientific in its details, will be cumbersome and vexatious in its operation; but it is infinitely more unfair to the people of many sections of the country, and would eventually, if it were continued, tend to make us a people sectional, local, and provincial in our views. I shall never cease to fight in favor of a system truly national in its scope and purpose."

While Representative Platt voiced his displeasure by saying:

"The zone system of raising second-

The advertising forms close on Thursday. Advertisements should be received as early in the week as possible to insure proper classification.

ADVERTISING RATES.

Transient, 50 cents a line; agate measure (14 lines to the inch; 140 lines to the column; 560 lines to the page).

One page, $280; Front page, $400.

Discounts for consecutive insertions: One month, 10 per cent; two months, 20 per cent; three months, 30 per cent; six months, 40 per cent; one year, 50 per cent. Discounts based upon advance payment.

Small advertisements under classified headings, such as Help Wanted, For Sale, To Let, Instruction, Writers, Correspondents, Office Necessities, 25 cents a line (about 7 words) each insertion, without discount. Situations Wanted 10 cents a line net.

Advertisements in special position (not less than 28 lines in depth of column) double price.

class postage rates seems to me wholly bad."

In the Senate the conference report was adopted with the distinct understanding that at the session of Congress beginning December 1 the repeal of the provision increasing the postal rates on second-class matter and other objectionable features of the bill will be taken up.

Senator Smoot expressed the sentiment of many Senators when he said:

"I know there are not enough votes in the Senate to return this report to the conference. If I were convinced we had enough votes I would do everything in my power to see that it was returned, if for no other reason than to change the zone system on second-class mail matter."

"I do not believe the system proposed can successfully be defended. If it were possible to repeal this bill before it takes effect I would insist upon a vote in order that the second-class mail provision could be changed in conference. But the provision does not take effect until July 1, 1918. I think during the regular session we can get an expression of members as to whether or not they want this plan, which means absolute ruin for a great number of publications."

In short, these Congressmen allowed the second class mail provisions to go through unchallenged in order to get the machinery of taxation under way.

As second class rates do not become effective for nearly a year they considered that no harm could be done by letting the matter stand until Congress reconvenes in December.

In view of this situation it behooves every publisher of a newspaper to not let up one minute in urging the repeal of the second class provision of the Revenue Law.

We do not object to paying every cent of war tax any body else pays, but why make a "joke" of the War Revenue Bill by allowing it to be made the tool of aggrieved Congressmen to get even with the newspapers.

Is not the fact that the second class increase does not become operative for a whole year an open admission that it is not a revenue matter, but a revival of Post Office bill proposals that have been killed time and time again?

It is to be hoped that the newspapers make good use of the time between now and December to gather their forces together and repel the intrusion on their rights.

And from an entirely impersonal standpoint, the nation cannot afford to become sectionalized because of the stoppage of opinion exchange and understandings.

It thus narrows down to a matter of national welfare.

And what American can make that an issue of question?

Beside the above objections to the second class rates, the method of charging different rates for advertising and reading matter is absolutely unpracticable—perfectly absurd.

The provisions show that the men who concocted the method know absolutely nothing about the industry they are taxing. With every one of the numerous editions issued by every city daily newspaper carrying various amounts of advertising, how is the figuring and special make-up to be done without entirely disrupting the necessary speed schedule of the daily newspaper.

It can't be done.

If the taxers insist on doing it, it will be a further aid to them in "killing" off the newspapers.

Are fair minded men going to stand aside and let this national calamity happen without their trying to stop it?

It doesn't seem possible.

FOR THOSE DOUBTFUL ON PRICE RAISING.

The current Government circulation statement of the Chicago Tribune (see its advertisement on page 40) is of especial interest to those newspapers whose retail daily price still remains at 1 cent and who may be contemplating the advisability of increasing their daily price to 2 cents and their Sunday price to something above 3 cents.

The Chicago Daily Tribune on May 14, 1917, returned to its former retail price of 2 cents per copy within the city of Chicago and its suburbs, the old price of 2 cents in the country never having been changed.

The Sunday Tribune on May 20, 1917, increased its retail price to 8 cents in the country, the old price of 5 cents in the city of Chicago and its suburbs remaining unchanged.

The Tribune's current statement to the Post Office Department, for the six months ending September 30, 1917, therefore covers a period of approximately one and a half months at the old retail prices and four and a half months at the new and increased retail prices.

The circulation figures given in this statement are 391,675 for the Daily Tribune and 614,418 for the Sunday Tribune. The figures in the Government statement for the six months ending September 30, 1916—the corresponding period of last year, during which the Daily Tribune sold at 1 cent in Chicago and suburbs and the Sunday Tribune sold at 5 cents everywhere—were 392,483 daily and 619,023 Sunday.

The decreases shown by the figures in the current statement, therefore, are but 7-10ths of 1 per cent Sunday, and 2 and 7-10ths per cent daily.

In this situation is much encouragement for such newspapers as may still be contemplating a similar increase in price.

Going back another year, the comparison is even more striking. For the six months ending September 30, 1915, the Chicago Tribune's Government statement was 354,520 daily and 558,396 Sunday. The current figures (with 4½ out of the 6 months at the increased prices) show actual increases of 27,155 daily and 56,022 Sunday.

As for advertising printed during the current six months period, the Chicago Tribune shows an increase over every corresponding period in its history.

MAKE PROPER USE OF THE "EYE OF BUSINESS."

The live, successful business man invariably subscribes for the trade paper or papers covering his field of endeavor.

It is the live man who studies his trade paper, that is usually the one in closest touch with the happenings in his business world. He subscribes for his trade paper to keep himself informed.

The aeroplane is considered the greatest aid to commanding generals, because it is the eye of the army. It furnishes the information that enables the commander to deliver telling blows.

The trade paper is the eye of business, and by the information furnished enables the managers of large organizations to plan campaigns accordingly.

The text of a trade paper is probably gathered by a large organization that but few business houses could support, and it is furnished at an absurdly low price.

The text of the paper is probably read more carefully than in any other form of publication; and, further, the advertising columns are more closely studied, and read as news, than in any other kind of publication.

These facts are generally acknowledged.

Such being the case, it seems strange that publishers, who are constantly advocating the use of advertising space in recognized publications as the logical and best form of publicity, should pile the mails with all kinds of circulars and printed matter that rarely gets to the person sought.

A peculiar turn, and inconsistency, is that those who send this stuff through the mails send it to the trade papers with a little note that: "You will no doubt be interested in the inclosed and may be able to make a news item out of it." (Laughter.)

In circularizing of this type there are two factors involved, so far as this form of publicity is concerned: How do advertising managers look upon it, and does it bring returns?

In the first instance we might quote R. L. Prather, well known in the advertising world as advertising manager of the Thomas G. Plant Company. Mr. Prather says:

"Advertising managers of some publications have deluged national advertisers with printed matter, broadsides, circulation statements, comparative showings of advertising space sold, circulars, and hundreds of pieces of miscellaneous printed matter. Ninety per cent of it goes into the waste basket."

Mr. Prather is an advertising man of high caliber, and his opinions carry weight.

As to the productiveness of this form of advertising:

The publisher of a newspaper told

THE FOURTH ESTATE that what little money was spent in advertising was used to send circulars to a list. What's the answer?

Another newspaper in the same field, which advertises itself in the trade publications, shows a tremendous lead in the volume of advertising gained.

As to trade papers, THE FOURTH ESTATE can only speak for itself, a publication that goes straight to those who are constantly feeling the pulse of advertising publications. A constituency that is vitally interested in the activities and accomplishments of the newspapers, one that receives THE FOURTH ESTATE at home and that notes the mistake of a letter in a name, must possess some value.

This, of course is general. Now for the concrete evidence.

One of the best known advertising managers in the country, one who probably has bought space in more newspapers for the most widely advertised household article in America, in a recent letter says:

"I read THE FOURTH ESTATE because it gives information relative to newspaper changes and newspaper people that I find nowhere else.

"I regularly correct the advertising directories from the news in your paper. Then, your editorials, comments and news in reference to many men I meet are both interesting and instructive."

H. B. Humphrey, the well known advertising agent of Boston, says: "THE FOURTH ESTATE has been a potent factor in the upbuilding of real newspapers in this country."

If THE FOURTH ESTATE can do this through the editorial columns, why not in the business columns?

Franklin P. Shumway, another Boston advertising agent, nationally known, says:

"Any man, even if slightly interested in the newspaper world, will certainly be enlightened and broadened by reading THE FOURTH ESTATE."

This is hardly the reception a printed circular receives.

John G. Ham, for many years in charge of the advertising of the Centaur Company, says:

"A proper recognition of the labors of THE FOURTH ESTATE would cut off—yes, kill—the solicitation of business through circulars."

J. Walter Thompson, the recognized dean of advertising agents, says:

"I have subscribed for and read THE FOURTH ESTATE for over twenty years."

Charles J. O'Malley, president of the O'Malley Advertising and Selling Company, says:

"THE FOURTH ESTATE is the only publication I take to my home and read at my leisure."

The above are simply extracts from fifty-four letters signed by leaders in the publishing and advertising world that would make interesting reading if the space were available.

BLOCK INCREASES NEWSPAPER HOLDINGS.

Paul Block, who since 1910 has had an interest in, and been one of the directors of, the New York Evening Mail, has substantially increased his holdings and has been elected vice-president of the company.

The Prior Lake (Minn.) Enterprise has been suspended.

PURELY PERSONAL.

Henry M. Pindell, publisher of the Peoria (Ill.) Journal, was a visitor in New York this week.

Louis Wiley, business manager of the New York Times, was a speaker at the dedication of the new Rochester (N. Y.) Chamber of Commerce Building on October 4.

Charles W. Corbett, New England manager of the Woman's World, is in an hospital at Mount Vernon, N. Y., recovering from the effects of an operation for appendicitis.

John Lynott, Jr., son of E. J. Lynott, editor and publisher of the Scranton (Pa.) Times has entered Georgetown University. During the summer months Mr. Lynott was a member of the news staff of the Scranton Times.

William E. Hayes, of the news staff of the Wilmington (Del.) Evening Journal, has spent a week's vacation at Newark, Del.

T. C. Tilley, Associated Press operator on the Salem (Ore.) Statesman, is spending a vacation of two weeks in Portland.

Miss Anna Turnage of the Princeton (Ind.) Daily Democrat last week celebrated the completion of her twenty-second consecutive year of service with the Democrat. Miss Turnage began as a society reporter and is now business manager.

Ralph Cronise of the Albany (Ore.) Democrat has been doing the publicity for the Linn County fair.

William O'Brien, editor of the Eden Valley (Minn.) Journal, is a special representative of the Minnesota State Commission of Public Safety.

H. A. Thompson, editor of the Williamston (Mich.) Enterprise, fell from the roof of his house recently and fractured his left leg.

C. E. Ditmar, editor of the Columbus (Ohio) City Bulletin, has been given a leave of absence to handle the publicity campaign for the new Liberty Loan in that city.

Bernard Murphy, for the last fifty years editor of the Vinton (Ia.) Eagle, celebrated his seventieth birthday with a noon-time dinner. He received letters and telegrams of congratulation from prominent men in every part of Iowa.

W. B. Jackson, former financial editor of the Columbus (Ohio) State Journal, later with the Wall Street Journal and now connected with the New York office of Claude Meeker, is in Columbus for a two weeks' stay.

W. B. Burgoyne, publisher of the St. Catharines (Ont.) Standard, and his son, Captain Burgoyne of the Canadian Artillery, were visitors in New York this week.

C. E. Colling, advertising manager of the Winnipeg Free Press, returned home on Tuesday after a trip of over a month through Canada and the United States.

Miss Mary Fay, social writer for the Scranton (Pa.) Times, has been nominated for school director on the Democratic ticket in Scranton.

Edwin Baird of the Chicago Journal reporting staff is on his vacation.

G. Logan Payne, the newspaper representative who makes his headquarters in Chicago, spent a few days this week in New York.

STAFF CHANGES.

Edwin Powell, who has been attached to the sporting staff of the Philadelphia Press, has resigned to become sporting editor of the Syracuse (N. Y.) Post Standard. Mr. Powell was with the Scranton (Pa.) Daily News before going to the Press.

W. B. Hager is temporarily acting as managing editor of the Owensboro (Ky.) Inquirer in place of his brother, Lawrence W. Hager.

Charles Rundell has resigned from the Chatham (N. Y.) Republican to become suburban editor of the Albany (N. Y.) Times-Union.

Leslie L. Rood, formerly of the advertising department of the Cleveland (Ohio) Leader-News, is now associated with the Cleveland Press.

Arthur Lineham has left the Vancouver (B. C.) News-Advertiser, which is being consolidated with the Sun.

Ruth Russell, sister of James Russell and daughter of Martin T. Russell, both well known newspaper men, has decided to enter the family field. She is covering a beat for the Chicago Daily News.

Miss Esther Kohen, formerly on various Minneapolis papers, is now on the staff of the Chicago Daily News.

William R. Scott, formerly of the Louisville Times, is now on the Chicago Evening Post.

Harry R. Zander, formerly city hall man for the Chicago Post, has joined the Chicago Daily News.

Dr. Charles C. Woods, editor of the Christian Advocate, St. Louis, has resigned.

Jesse D. Coast has left the Richmond (Va.) Evening Journal to join the News-Leader of the same city.

L. H. Merrick, managing and news editor of the Zanesville (Ohio) Times-Recorder, has resigned and is succeeded by Clarence Granger, formerly city editor.

WEDDING BELLS.

Roy P. Tyler, of the Laurel (Mont.) Outlook, and Miss Violet E. Oliver, of Laurel, were married in Billings, Mont., on September 22.

Ralph R. Cronise, city editor of the Albany (Ore.) Daily Democrat, was married to Miss Greta Fortmiller on September 18. Mr. and Mrs. Cronise are spending their honeymoon in San Francisco.

Percival Cuthbert Smith, a Philadelphia magazine writer, and Miss Helen Rowe, also of that city, are to be married.

Walter Kiehn, managing editor of the Chicago Musical Times, was married to Miss Edna Clara Frey on October 2. Mr. and Mrs. Kiehn are taking a short honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls.

OHIO DAILY QUILTS.

The Washington C. H. (Ohio) Daily News suspended publication on October 2.

Forrest Tipton, former secretary to Governor Willis, and Professor C. C. Martin will continue publication of the Semi-Weekly Republican.

HODGES IS REWARDED.

Gilbert T. Hodges, who has been advertising manager of the New York Sun since the first of the year, has been appointed to take charge of the advertising of the Munsey magazines.

Frank A. Munsey, who owns the Sun, has big new plans for his other publications and Mr. Hodges' splendid success with the Sun commended him to the publisher as the man best suited to build up an organization of high class magazine men, especially with the aid of his newspaper experience.

Since the first of the year the Sun has made fine progress in advertising and Mr. Hodges' department is now working so smoothly that Mr. Munsey felt able to transfer its director to this more important position without prejudice to the interests of the Sun. Mr. Hodges will continue to keep in touch with the Sun and when necessary lend his assistance to L. De Lissner, who will superintend and have charge of the duties of advertising manager.

"GIL" HODGES.

Mr. Hodges came from Chicago, where he had been Western advertising manager of Mr. Munsey's publications for many years. He is a strong believer in advertising and since coming to New York his promotion work in newspapers and the trade papers has been an impressive and an important factor in the sudden success.

NEW SPECIAL AGENCY APPOINTMENT.

The G. Logan Payne Company, New York and Chicago, has been appointed Eastern and Western representative of the Newark (N. J.) Ledger.

BON VOYAGE.

Business Manager Lodge of the Melbourne Age has started on his return trip to Australia after a pleasant visit to the United States.

AD FOLKS' NEWS.

Freling Foster has become connected with the advertising staff of the Society for Electrical Development, New York. He was formerly advertising manager for the Hughes Electric Heating Company, Chicago.

The Chicago Junior Advertising Association will use motion pictures as an aid in its advertising and selling courses of instruction just now opening for the winter. At the conclusion of the term in June, students whose average has exceeded 85 per cent will receive the degree of Apprentice of Advertising by the Chicago Advertising Association. A. E. Gundlach is president of the Junior organization.

The meeting of the Advertising Affiliation to be held in Rochester, N. Y., October 26-27-28 will be featured by an inviting program. Among the scheduled speakers are Douglas Malloch of Chicago of the American Lumberman; Ivy L. Lee of the Rockefeller Foundation and former President William H. Taft.

Clinton G. Fish and Edwin P. Croker of Rochester have charge of local arrangements. The Advertising Affiliation is composed of the Cleveland, Canton, Buffalo, Syracuse and Rochester Advertising Clubs.

H. W. Beals has assumed the duties of advertising manager of the Methodist Book Concern, New York, following his resignation from the Broadway Subway & Home Borough Car Advertising Company.

"The dishonest advertiser is committing a worse crime than killing the goose that lays the golden egg; he's teaching the goose to lay gold bricks," said Louis A. Feibel, vice-president of the Advertising Club of the Columbus (Ohio) Chamber of Commerce, at last week's meeting of that organization.

"The dishonest advertiser, whether he baits his hook with stocks, clothes, or medicine, puts the advertisement in bad; all advertisements in bad, in fact. If every honest advertiser would insist that his advertisement be placed only in the company of other reputable advertisements, the battle for clean advertising would be practically won."

At the weekly luncheon of the Baltimore Advertising Club Nat C. Wildman, chairman of the good fellowship committee, discussed possibilities of a "mammoth advertising masque" to be given during the coming winter. The plan is to have a ball at which all the guests will be costumed to represent some nationally or locally known advertising figure. Before the ball will come the annual banquet, to be held on December 6, at which Arthur Brisbane has promised to be the chief speaker.

The Lincoln (Neb) Ad Club held its first meeting this season on September 24. The officers are laying plans for a year of activity, interest and profit to the members.

The speakers' division of the Cleveland Advertising Club will resume sessions on October 18. This division was organized to give business men the kind of training needed to enable them to stand with confidence before a group of men and present arguments logically and forcibly.

Last night was stunt night at the club. The program consisted of a mixture of music and stunts of all kinds, serious and otherwise.

C. A. Brownell, advertising manager of the Ford Motor Company, Detroit, will talk to the members of the Cincinnati Advertising Club on October 24 on "Just Advertising," drawn from what he has learned in his experience in the advertising world during the past thirty years.

William J. Thompson, advertising solicitor of 156 Fifth avenue, New York, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $7,351 and assets of $170 in office furniture. The liabilities are mainly due religious papers.

The annual meeting of the Poor Richard Club of Philadelphia was held on October 1, when the following ticket was elected:

President, Rowe Stewart of the Philadelphia Record; vice-presidents, Cyrus H. K. Curtis, Jarvis A. Wood, Louis J. Kolb, R. H. Durbin; secretary, W. F. Therkildson; treasurer, T. R. Elcock, Jr.;

Directors—G. Arthur Cole; Howard C. Story, Irvin E. Paschal, John H. Sinberg, W. J. Eldredge, H. A. Gatchel, P. C. Staples, H. T. Jordan, P. J. Walsh.

J. W. Cambridge, formerly with the Smith, Denne & Moore Advertising Agency, Toronto, is now advertising manager of the Canadian Film Company, Toronto.

The installation of the Chicago Advertising Association's new officers will take place on the evening of October 8.

The St. Louis Ad Club has a special committee of "Know St. Louis," of which John Ring, Jr., is chairman. Tours of various industries of the city will be one of the means of acquainting members of the advertising club with the industrial resources of the city.

George A. Murphy of the advertising department of the Domestic Engineering Company, Dayton, Ohio, has resigned to take up his art studies in New York.

Mrs. Sarah Boroff of Dayton has joined the advertising staff of the Atlas Bread Company, Milwaukee.

The Women's Publicity Club of Dayton, Ohio, has opened activities for the winter. The first address on the fall program was delivered by F. W. Atkin on "Modern Methods of Business Thinking."

"Bill" Long, for many years a member of the advertising staff of the Atlanta (Ga.) Journal, has gone into the automobile business with the Mark Nabors Motor Company of Atlanta.

The St. Paul Advertising Club has just begun a very active campaign for fall and winter. The program of activities was outlined at a meeting last week.

E. D. Wood, formerly in the advertising department of the Willys-Overland Company of Toledo, has resigned to become connected with Nordyke & Marmion of Indianapolis.

Roy S. Davey, who has been appointed assistant sales manager of the Bethlehem Motors Corporation, Allentown, Pa., was formerly advertising manager of the Chalmers Motor Corporation, Detroit.

Stanley Twist, formerly advertising manager of the Smith Form-truck Company, is now advertising manager of the Redden Motor Truck Company, Inc., of Chicago.

B. J. Weldman has resigned as advertising manager of the Standard Motor Truck Company, Detroit.

Members of the Western Advertising Golfers Association will hold their final tournament at the links of the Exmon County Club, Chicago, on October 9, when officers of the club will be elected. The following men have been nominated: G. R. Wilson, HEARST TO START MANY SUITS.

AROUSING BY STATEMENTS ASSOCIATING HIM WITH ALLEGED TRAITOR.

William Randolph Hearst, commenting on information made public in New York by Merton E. Lewis, Attorney-General of New York, concerning Mr. Hearst's social relations with Bolo Pasha, alleged German spy, defied Mr. Lewis to "substantiate any one of his own unwarranted implications," under threat of proceedings for slander.

Mr. Lewis had stated that Mr. Hearst had been present at a dinner given at Sherry's in March, 1916, by Bolo Pasha.

In a written statement, Mr. Hearst said:

"The statements and innuendoes of the Attorney-General of New York in regard to myself and Bolo Pasha are not true. I challenge him to substantiate his utterances, which are distinctly discreditable to him as a political partisan.

"I met Bolo Pasha merely as a French newspaper man, the reputed representative of the Paris Journal.

"He came to me and said: 'You use more print paper than any other man in the United States. Will you tell me where to get it best and cheapest? Print paper is almost unobtainable in Paris.'

"I told him where we got our print paper and what we paid for it, and gave him all the information about the paper market that I could, and that any newspaper man with any courtesy would naturally give to a visiting French journalist.

"Bolo Pasha seemed wholly loyal to his own land and I had no reason to suppose that he was not.

"He was very polite and appreciative, like all well-mannered Frenchmen, and invited me to a dinner which he gave to a number of ladies as well as gentlemen, in the public dining room at Sherry's.

"The conversation was general and trivial as it is at all such social dinners. 'That is all that I have ever known or seen or heard of Bolo Pasha.'

"I have never met von Papen or Captain Boy-Ed in my life, and Attorney Lewis' implications to that effect are unfounded in fact.

"I defy the Attorney-General to disprove any word in this statement of mine, or to substantiate any one of his own unwarranted implications, except his one truthful statement, that my acquaintance with Bolo Pasha was 'purely social.'

"Should he fail to do so, I shall proceed against the small Attorney-General of the great State of New York for petty and premeditated slander made in conspiracy with rival newspapers in the interest of his already defeated candidate for mayor.

"The circulation of the wholly false and fabricated reports of alleged association between Bolo Pasha and myself is a conspiracy to defame.

"I intend to hold Attorney-General Lewis fully responsible for his false and libelous insinuations.

"I intend to sue the Associated Press for carrying Attorney-General Lewis' statement, which I warned them was false and libelous.

"I intend to sue every newspaper which printed this malicious utterance, and particularly do I intend to prosecute the newspaper publishers who conspired with Attorney-General Lewis to concoct and issue this tissue of falsehoods with intent to injure and defame.

"I have had more than enough of this kind of blackguardly attack from the political and journalistic scoundrels of the public plunderers whom I have antagonized in defending the rights of the people of New York."

The New York American on October 5 said:

"Taking as a basis a statement made by Attorney-General Lewis, several New York newspapers made malicious and unwarranted attacks upon William Randolph Hearst.

"There were present at the Sherry dinner:

"Julius Bois, Mr. and Mrs. William Randolph Hearst, Carl Van Anda, managing editor of the New York Times, Mrs. Van Anda, Mr. and Mrs. Julian Gerard, Bolo Pasha, Mrs. Owen Johnson, Miss Helen Smith, C. F. Bertelli and Adolph Paventz.

"As an evidence of the utter disregard of truth in the publication of the account of the dinner, the New York Tribune stated that Mr. Lewis had a record showing the presence at the dinner of Captain Boy-Ed and von Papen.

"The date of the dinner was the middle of March, 1916. The records show Captain Boy-Ed sailed from this country on the steamship Rotterdam on December 25, 1916, and that Von Papen sailed on the Noordam on December 23, 1916. Neither has ever returned to this country."

Up to the time of going to press Mr. Van Anda could not be reached for a statement regarding Mr. Hearst's mention of him as being among those present at the Pasha dinner. His secretary said it would be impossible to get into communication with him at his office until 4 p. m. and he could not be disturbed at his home before that.

The hour at which THE FOURTH ESTATE went to press was also too early for Gareth Garrett, managing editor of the Tribune, to check up on the discrepancy pointed out by the American. He said it would be done as soon as he could get to the office.

A.A.A.A. TO HAVE CENTRAL OFFICE IN NEW YORK.

EXECUTIVE SECRETARY O'SHAUGHNESSY TO COME HERE NEXT WEEK—BIG PLANS READY FOR OPERATION.

James O'Shaughnessy of Chicago, whose election as executive secretary of the American Association of Advertising Agents was announced in THE FOURTH ESTATE last week, expects to open his central A.A.A.A. office in New York City within the next week.

Speaking to THE FOURTH ESTATE on the work of the A.A.A.A., Mr. O'Shaughnessy said:

"An exact outline of the work to be done by the association cannot, of course, be made at this time. We all have in mind, however, what should be done and what we purpose to do, but there is a great deal of preliminary work to be done first.

"I might say that the reason for creating this office was in the fact that everybody who runs an advertising agency is a busy man. He is devoted to the service of his clients and all of his time is dedicated to that labor. If he has any time to spare he gives it to the further betterments of the service he is rendering to his clients. It was necessary, therefore, that an association should be formed to do those things which serve all agencies in common.

"There are many things in the scope of agency service, which to be properly developed and made available to the betterment of advertising in general, must have the combined help of all the agencies. This need is what called the association into existence.

"When the association was formed it laid out for itself the broad tasks of construction and up building.

"The execution of these tasks has not been detailed. The exact number of bureaus to be established has not yet been announced. A bureau will be provided for each of the important departments of the work.

"Committees have already been created for the subdivisions of the association activity. Big strong men of national breadth of outlook have been placed at the heads of these committees and everybody concerned with any of the relationships of the advertising agencies may be assured that the constructive work of the advertising in its widest and best sense will be served in the highest degree.

"The ultimate purpose of all our plans is to make advertising more useful to the public, to the advertiser, to the publisher, and to the agency."

by Hyman Schnitzer, Annette Schnitzer and Ida Schnitzer.

The Shaw-Pierce Advertising new agency composed of D. Minard Agency, Book Building, Detroit, is a Shaw and A. D. Pierce. Mr. Shaw was formerly connected with the Lee-Jones Agency, Chicago, as Detroit representative.

The Jones Advertising Company, Jackson, Mich., has moved to Buffalo, N. Y.

E. H. Morrissey of the copy department of the William H. Rankin Company, Chicago, has enrolled for service at the Naval Training Station in Chicago.

A. R. Hobart, formerly of the copy department of the Dooley-Brennan Company, is now in the copy department of the William H. Rankin Company, Chicago.

F. E. Duggan of the Gundlach Advertising Company, Chicago, spoke recently before the Kansas City Advertising Club on "The Selection of the Best Medium for Your Product." Mr. Duggan had a good word to say for the rural weeklies.

The H. E. James Advertising Agency, formerly of Philadelphia, was chartered on October 3 as a New York corporation by C. C.

Green, N. O. Pickett and E. B. Benson. The stated capital stock is $10,000. The offices of the Janes agency are at 110 West 19th street.

NEWSPAPER MEN WANTED TO HONOR PREMIER HOLMAN.

When Premier Holman of New South Wales was in New York last week representative newspaper men of the United States and Canada did their best to arrange a dinner in his honor, but owing to the fact that he was constantly on the move on the call of the British Commission in the United States it was impossible to carry out the plan before he left for home.

Walter Williams, president of the World's Press Congress, had arranged to come all the way from the University of Missouri, in Columbia.

In view of the fact that the members of the World's Press Congress are to be the guests of Premier Holman when they meet in Sydney in 1919, the North American newspaper men were particularly anxious to pay their respects to him, and sincere regrets were expressed when their plans failed to come through.

GEORGE BOOTH HONORED.

Employees of the Detroit News, numbering close to four hundred, have presented George G. Booth president of the Evening News Association, with a bronze, gold and marble mantel clock, as a mark of their appreciation of the new building into which they will move Sunday, October 14.

Mr. Booth is chiefly responsible for the perfection to the building and for the completeness of the equipment for the comfort and convenience of the employees. The presentation took place in the conference room of the new building, a room that is to serve as a lounge and meeting place for the employees, a lecture and music room, around which will center much of the intellectual and social life of the building.

Mr. Booth received the gift from Albert L. Weeks, dramatic critic, who addressed him on behalf of his co-workers.

In Mr. Booth's quarter of a century with the paper he has three times completed plans for a new building, only to have to put them aside because the publication had outgrown expectations. His pleasure at having finally succeeded in completing a home for the News was expressed in his response to the presentation address.

Discussing the completeness of the equipment, Mr. Booth asserted that there was no reason why the staff should look to another corner of the world for building of milestones in the history of journalism. "A great and original idea," he reminded his staff, "may originate as well in Detroit as in New York or London or Paris; and it could hardly find a more fit birthplace."

Samuel S. Chamberlain, editor of the Boston American, who died in Boston on January 25, 1916, left a net taxable New York estate of $69,273 "to Ada I. Fraser in consideration of her once having saved my life."

His widow, Mary T. Chamberlain, receives residuary estate of $58,438.

THE A.N.A. TO MEET IN NEW YORK.

DECEMBER 5 TO 7 ARE DATES—THE BANQUET WILL BE A GENERAL GET-TOGETHER.

The annual meeting of the Association of National Advertisers will be held in New York City, at the Hotel Biltmore, on December 5, 6 and 7.

The annual dinner will take place on the evening of December 5, and will, like the last two annual dinners, be a get-together of national advertisers, advertising agents, publishers and sellers of material and service.

"SATURDAY TO MONDAY" NOT FROM MAGAZINE.

Townsend Walsh, publicity representative for "Saturday to Monday," playing at the Bijou Theatre, New York, New York, declares untrue a public impression that the stimulus for the play was one of Jessie Leach Rector's stories in the Saturday Evening Post. Instead, the author, William Hurlbut, based his play on a Rector story that never appeared in the Post.

BAKER MAKES A CHANGE.

F. Tarkington Baker, for the past seven years dramatic critic and editorial writer on the Indianapolis News, has been appointed dramatic editor of the Star. He succeeds Hector Fuller who is now connected with the Liberty War Council in Washington.

Before going with the News, Mr. Baker was general press representative for William A. Brady and Arthur Hopkins in New York.

TO MANUFACTURERS:

If the links between the making of your product, your sales department, your advertising, your distributing channels and the consumer are not welded into one harmonious unit, your advertising cannot be made to produce its highest possible volume of returns. The Presbrey method has united these various branches in the case of many others. Why not learn wherein it can be made to earn for you? Your correspondence entails no obligation.

FRANK PRESBREY COMPANY

GENERAL ADVERTISING.
Makers of Commercial Booklets.
456 4th Av. (31st St.) NEW YORK

H. W. KASTOR & SONS ADVERTISING COMPANY

CHICAGO ST. LOUIS
An organization of merchandising men highly specialized in the solution of advertising problems.

G. LOGAN PAYNE CO.

SPECIAL REPRESENTATIVES
Fifth Avenue Building, NEW YORK
750 Marquette Building, CHICAGO
40 Broomfield St., BOSTON
Kresge Building, DETROIT

VERREE & CONKLIN

PUBLISHERS' REPRESENTATIVES
225 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK
11 Lafayette Boulevard, DETROIT
20 E. Jackson Boulevard, CHICAGO

JOHN BUDD CO.

Representing Newspapers of Nurell Bldg., NEW YORK
Tribune Bldg., CHICAGO
Chemical Bldg., ST. LOUIS

NEWS OF THE AD AGENCIES.

John C. Cuddy, formerly of the Royal Typewriter Company, Inc., is at present account executive in the San Francisco office of the H. K. McCann Company.

Mark Russell, a Columbus (Ohio) artist, has become manager of the Paul Hahn studios operated in connection with the Arthur M. Crumrine Advertising Agency, Columbus Savings and Trust Building, Columbus.

Fritz Kuhn, of the Montreal office of A. McKim, Ltd., has been appointed manager of the Winnipeg branch. Before leaving Montreal, Mr. Kuhn was tendered a farewell dinner at the Windsor Hotel by a group of local advertising men.

George A. Wayne has resigned as manager of Crofts & Reed, Chicago, to join the Wade Advertising Agency's staff in Chicago.

A. D. Lasker of Lord & Thomas, Chicago, has been appointed chairman of the Chicago Liberty Bond advertising committee.

The L. & S. Advertising Company of New York was incorporated on October 3 with $1,000 capital stock newspaper property with average annual business of $7,263.70 and average annual return to owner for personal effort and investment of $3,991.01 in years 1912 to 1916, inclusive, can be bought for $6,000. $3,500 cash necessary. Proposition P. Q.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES.

NEW ENGLAND
WEEKLY

CHAS. M. PALMER
NEWSPAPER PROPERTIES
225 Fifth Ave. NEW YORK

Easy Money

Only paper in modern Central West city of nearly 20,000, splendidly equipped and showing annual profit to owners of about $30,000. Three-fifths interest offered for $75,000. Ask for Proposition 683x and give financial references.

Who wants to take advantage of a real newspaper opportunity in North Carolina, valued at $20,000? Proposition 683x.

H. F. HENRICH
NEWSPAPER PROPERTIES
LITCHFIELD, ILLINOIS

PAPER REPORTS BY PUBLISHERS.

(Continued from Sixteenth Page.)
keep faith, they will have excellent ground for a suit for breach of contract and for an action to recover damages if they can muster evidence to prove that they have sustained monetary or other losses due to the failure of the paper producers to meet their obligations in the premises.

That publishers, whether moved merely by curiosity or by a desire for legal evidence, are keenly interested is attested by the very considerable number of them and accredited representatives of publishers who have applied for permission to inspect the trade commission records.

This privilege, it may be added, is being restricted rigidly.

Newspaper correspondents are allowed nary a peep, nor is any newspaper publisher, unless he be one of the elect who filed his consent to that historic agreement which contemplated a price of $2.50 per 100 pounds on roll news in car lots.

No time limit has been set by the trade commission on this privilege for the inspection of the records on file at Washington, and should any publisher bring suit based on this evidence it is anticipated that there will be a further scramble on the part of other similarly placed publishers to make copies of the correspondence, etc., affecting their respective cases.

As for the actual present-day conditions in the print paper field, all information reaching the trade commission and other Governmental agencies in Washington is to the effect that the market is appreciably easier than it was at this time last year.

There is a feeling, though, that the newspapers have perhaps pretty nearly gone their limit in paper economies and that current require-

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES.

Daily
Newspapers

We have at this time several attractive opportunities to buy Daily Newspaper Properties in New York and adjacent states. Cash payments required range from $10,000 to $200,000.

The owners of all the properties in question are represented exclusively by this firm.

AUDRY HARWELL. HENRY F. CANNON

Harwell & Cannon
Newspaper and Magazine Properties
Times Building NEW YORK

150 IDEAS for SIDE LINES.
(Many Absolutely New and Original.)

REMARKABLE MONEY-GETTERS
FOR ALL SMALL CITY PAPERS AND COMMERCIAL PRINTERS.
(Copyright by L. E. Parsons, 1917)

Author's experience 30 years newspapers, job shops, novelty printing and mail order advertising business, in various cities and towns throughout country. Recently publicity manager Western Efficiency Society, Chicago.

"150 Ideas" supplies sufficient good suggestions to aid you in transforming your plant into a big mail order enterprise—all can be handled in your own plant, with little or no added expense.

Included are not a few splendid side lines to be operated directly in connection with your newspaper business, at no extra cost.

"150 Ideas" just off press. Get yours now. Worth many times price—only $1, postpaid. (Dept. B) EUREKA SERVICE, P. O. Box 318, Chicago, Ill.

ments may be said to constitute the permanent gauge of supply and demand.

PAPER MAKING CONDITIONS.

Neither labor conditions, coal conditions nor transportation conditions have as yet operated, seemingly, to curtail news print production to any appreciable extent, but this has occasioned no surprise. The officials who have been wont to sound warnings of a "hard winter" on the score of complications through such conditions, never figured that the pinch would come thus early. They declare that it will require dead-of-winter conditions to disclose whether car shortage and the limited supply of coal will restrict paper production.

Recalling the conditions that prevailed last winter, it is feared that in the case of some of the Canadian mills trouble may be encountered not only in securing fuel, wood pulp, etc., but likewise in obtaining cars in which to ship out the finished product.

Last season Canadian mills were compelled to shut down because they did not have storage capacity to take care of the accumulated output when no cars were obtainable. One mill in an effort to continue in operation went so far as to move rolls of paper out on the snow, protected by tarpaulins, but it cannot be said that this plan was so successful as to encourage repetition.

Publishers will find occasion to watch with close interest the subtle diplomatic game that is now being played by the United States and the Allies on the one side and certain European neutrals on the other, and the latest move which will tend to almost completely shut off trade with Sweden and Norway, hereto-

MACHINERY FOR SALE.

FOR SALE—Goss High-Speed Straight line Five Roll Double Width Press equipped with all modern improvements and in very good condition. This press prints 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20 page papers at 72,000 per hour. $2, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32 page papers at $6,000 per hour. For prices and terms write

WALTER SCOTT & Co.,
PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY

LINOTYPE—Model No. 1, Serial No. 8010, and Model No. 1, Serial No. 8011, with 1 magazine, liners, ejector blades, font of matrices (for each machine). Tribune Printing Co., Charleston, W. Va.

$250.00

will buy practically new Colt's Army press, size 14x22. Also offering 44-inch Childs power cutter for $250. Part cash accepted. Plants to consolidate reason for sacrifice. Address The Post, Frederick, Md.

GOSS FOUR DECK PRESS—Prints 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 14, 16, 20, 24, 28 or 32 pages. Overhauled and rebuilt. Will sell at very low price. The Goss Printing Press Co., Chicago, Ill.

LINOTYPE—Three Model 1 machines with complete equipment of molds, magazines and matrices. New Haven Union Co., New Haven, Ct.

LINOTYPE—Model No. 2, Serial No. 10100; 1 magazine, assortment of matrices. Fort Wayne Printing Co., Fort Wayne, Ind.

STEREOTYPE FLAT SHAVER.

For Sale—A stereotype flat shaver in good condition. Address for price and description, The Wichita Eagle, Wichita, Kan.

fore a source of paper and paper-making materials.

There is a chance that an interruption to the flow of trade in this quarter will not only affect appreciably actual available supplies of paper, but will in even greater measure affect price through indirect influence.

The United States continues to export some news print, particularly to South American countries where there has been a quickened demand for our news print owing to the discovery that it affords a satisfactory substitute for wrapping paper.

However, for the reassurance of those persons who feel that all exports of American news print should be stopped for the period of the war it may be noted that the feeling of the officials at Washington is that the news print coming to his country from the Harmsworth mills in Newfoundland can be figured to counterbalance such exports as are going out through ordinary commercial channels.

The expectation is that the whole situation, export as well as domestic, can be better sensed at Washington from day to day when the Federal Trade Commission has in service its four-play reporting fabric for covering paper production, consumption, shipments and stocks on hand.

A fine in an amount from $1,000 up, or imprisonment for a term up to three years, is threatened any maker, handler or consumer of paper who wilfully makes any false entry or statement in reporting his performances with respect to paper and the anticipation is that the trade commission, once it has the statistics coming in from all quarters, will be in possession of "brass tacks" information.

HELP WANTED.

ADVERTISING MANAGER
WANTED.

Important New York City daily wants a live advertising manager who can do things. Send full particulars to Advertising Manager, Box 898, care The Fourth Estate.

Managing Editor
Wanted.

A leading New York City daily has a vacancy for a managing editor that can hold his own with the best in the country. Address in confidence, Managing Editor, Box 897, care The Fourth Estate.

Promotion and Service Department Manager

wanted by a New York City daily. A man who can write and attractively arrange good copy for trade papers and general publicity. Address Promotion, Box 896, care The Fourth Estate.

Wanted—Sample copies for Representatives for Ohio. The Ohio Novelty Agency, Youngstown, Ohio.

Two A No. 1 men for contest work with large company. Would consider experienced circulation and advertising men or reporters. State full particulars and salary in reply. Address Box 885, care The Fourth Estate.

The problem of covering the Canadian Field is answered by obtaining the service of the Dominion PRESS CLIPPING AGENCY

which gives the clippings on all matters of interest to you, printed in over 95 per cent of the newspapers and publications of CANADA. We cover every foot of Canada and Newfoundland.

74-76 Church Street, TORONTO, CAN.

POLLOCK'S NEWS

You can reach 2,500 Editors and Publishers in the Northwest—the wide-awake ones—every month, through the Classified Ads in Pollock's News. That is $0,000 of them in a year for ten dollars. Send for samples and display rates. 710 Temple Court, MINNEAPOLIS

TYPO

CREDIT BOOKS, REPORTS, COLLECTION
General Offices,
373 Fourth Avenue NEW YORK

SPECIAL AND CHICAGO NEWS
DAILY NEWS REPORTS.

YARD'S NEWS BUREAU
184 W. Washington Street, CHICAGO

TWO NEW MACHINES FOR NEW PRINT.

The Bagley & Sewall Company, manufacturer of paper making machinery, is completing a contract for two 204-inch news print paper machines to run between 700 and 800 feet per minute for the Pacific Paper Mills, Ltd., of Ocean Falls, B. C.

It is interesting to note that it requires 100 freight cars to transport these two paper machines.

NEW AD MANAGER.

William F. Reynolds, formerly connected with the advertising department of the Brooklyn (N.Y.) Standard Union, has been appointed advertising manager of that paper.

HELP WANTED

Strong evening newspaper, in medium sized middle Western city, has opening for

Experienced Make-Up Editor

One who has worked in both small and large cities of Middle West preferred. Good opportunity for steady, mature man who values good treatment, fair pay and a chance for advancement. Address Opportunity, care The Fourth Estate, stating full personal details, experience, salary expectations, etc.

SUBSCRIPTION MANAGER WANTED

If you would like the job of systematically working to enlarge the subscription list of a well-known New York trade paper, you're the man we would like to get in touch with. Address Trade Paper, care The Fourth Estate, New York.

COPY WRITER WANTED

Leading daily newspaper has an opening for an experienced man capable of preparing copy for trade papers, etc. Address, Copy Writer, care The Fourth Estate.

WANTED on afternoon daily—An aggressive advertising solicitor of pleasing personality in a city of over 100,000. One who is capable of writing convincing copy which can put things over. Address with all particulars, Box 891, care The Fourth Estate.

A quarterly devoted to golf and hotels has a fine opening for an advertising man to take charge on a liberal basis. All income over cost to produce will be the return. Address Magazine, Box 893, care The Fourth Estate.

A weekly that thoroughly covers Latin-America offers an exceptional opportunity to either a special representative or advertising manager to take hold of a rich field and cultivate it for the benefit of all concerned. Address Spanish Weekly, Box 892, care The Fourth Estate.

ADVERTISING SALESMAN WANTED

We need a first class advertising salesman in St. Louis, Des Moines, Minneapolis, Cleveland, Omaha, Louisville, Cincinnati, Columbus, Cleveland, Baltimore, Kansas City, Racine, Grand Rapids, Akron, Dayton, Indianapolis and Milwaukee. We want men who are experienced and successful spare sellers, and well acquainted with advertisers and agents in their cities. Preference will be given those applicants now engaged in selling advertising, but holding positions that will enable them to devote part time to our work. For such men we have openings that will not only enable them to increase their present incomes, but offer unlimited chances for advancement. You can write us in confidence. We also need two or three full time men.

Washington Newspaper Association
1820 Advertising Bldg., Chicago.

For Selling Building Materials

or equipment to contractors, architects, dealers and manufacturers, the advertising service of THE

IMPROVEMENT BULLETIN

Minneapolis, Minn.

is very helpful. It includes:

1. Advertising space.
2. Listing in Buyers' Directory.
3. Daily Construction Reports.

An attractive, well arranged construction news weekly; 25 years old.

Ask for rates and details.

REDUCES CAPITAL STOCK.

The Richmond (Ky.) Climax Printing Company has decreased its capital from $15,000 to $10,000.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

Newspaper Advertising Manager of wide experience, strong personality and executive ability, at present employed as Business and Advertising Manager, desires position on evening newspaper, preferably where publisher will offer permanent position and salary of $100 a week with further advancement as it is merited.

Present employer will testify to my capability and integrity, and that I have good reasons for wishing to make a change.

Am 40 years old, married, and will go anywhere in the United States. Address Box 884, care The Fourth Estate.

Mr. Publisher—Has the war hit your advertising department and do you want an experienced solicitor at once? Am unexpectedly at liberty. Have had over 20 years' experience selling advertising, not copy chasing. Full of ideas and know how to put them over. References cannot be beaten. Name what salary you will pay; it must be good, but I will earn it. For quick action, write Experienced Solicitor, care The Fourth Estate.

I am seeking a connection as business manager of a daily publication with a circulation of from 25,000 to 75,000. At present employed. Would furnish highest references and if mutually agreeable would make financial investment. Have had twelve years' practical experience with small and large dailies. Reply in first instance to Box 886, care The Fourth Estate.

WANTED—A JOB

as reporter or in editorial work somewhere in America. Twenty years on two papers. Eleven years reporter, city and managing editor Juliet (Ill.) Daily News. Nine years reporter on Anaconda Standard at its Butte office. Covered every run on paper and last four years handled politics, mining and financial page and big assignments. If you need man, write. I will furnish references and further information. Charles L. Stevens, 624 W. Quartz street, Butte, Mont.

Has the war crippled your news staff? I am married and want to settle down in a good city and on an afternoon paper which will pay a managing editor a decent living salary. I'll guarantee to give you the best paper you have ever had. I am thirty. Have worked in cities large and small and filled every position from cub reporter up. Address Box 881, care The Fourth Estate.

ARTIST

wishes position with advertising agency. Lettering, retouching, layout. Address Box 880, care The Fourth Estate.

Manager now successfully handling small daily desires change; understand advertising, business end, job printing, handling help; have worked on news side; beyond draft age; married; desire clean town having good educational advantages. Address Box 879, care The Fourth Estate.

If your newspaper property does not pay as it should consult a specialist who can put something over to your advantage. Address Box U, care The Fourth Estate.

Editing copy; statistical or index work; weekly or monthly; at his home (New York) by experienced man. Address Box 876, care The Fourth Estate.

Mailers wants position; understands R. P. O. Routing; exempt from army; formerly foreman; will go anywhere. Address Box 895, care The Fourth Estate.

SERVICE CORNER

604—"In your issue of June 30 you had a page of good looking advertising men. Will you kindly give me their names and the names of the firms with which they are connected?"

SITUATIONS WANTED.

Wanted Situation as managing or city editor. Now managing editor of Eastern daily of 30,000 circulation. Experience in East, middle West and Pacific coast. In early thirties, married, reliable, healthy, progressive but sane. Not a job hunter but an opportunity seeker. Salary required depends on relative local cost of living, but nothing less than $50 a week at start considered. Address Box 882, care The Fourth Estate.

Circulation Manager formerly connected with Eastern Daily and for the last 8 years Promotion Manager with the largest daily in the West, desires position in Eastern field. Pay me a living salary until I can show results; I am no rolling stone; want to get back in God's country. Box 890, care The Fourth Estate.

Want a man on your paper who is capable of making your news organization the peer in its field? Will accept a managing editorship, or its equivalent, in a good city to live in and for a paper which is willing to pay what I am worth. I am thirty, married and want to settle down and establish a permanent home. Address Box 887, care The Fourth Estate.

Practical, experienced newspaper man, now employed, desires change. Two years present place. Absolutely sober, always on job. Best references if required. Desk or reporting. Twenty-five years in harness. Consider nothing under $3. C. E. Drake, editor Daily Telegraph, Sharon, Pa., No. 26 Columbia ave.

Wanted—Position as Advertising Manager on a first-class paper. Know the mechanical end from galley boy to foreman. Best of references. Address Box 891, care The Fourth Estate.

MR. PUBLISHER

OR

BUSINESS MANAGER

Do you want an experienced advertising man to take charge of your advertising department? Over 10 years of age, well known by publishers and thoroughly understands how to get contracts, pages, stunts, classified ads; know how to handle men and get the business. Must have a good salary, but will earn it and then some. For quick action write H. V. W., care The Fourth Estate.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

You may need to know

How you can get in touch with the right man for a position vacant, or

How you can find a suitable opening for yourself or some friend whom you can recommend.

Keep in mind the scope of our work. Ours is a service bureau for employers and employees in all departments of the Publishing, Advertising and Printing field, East, South and West.

No charge to employers; registration free; moderate commissions from successful clients.

Fernald's Exchange

Third National Bank Building
SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

Resourceful, original and thoroughly trained all-around Editor and Business Getter desires position with magazine, newspaper or advertising agency; experienced publicity man, newspaper writer and business producer competent to prepare any kind of copy. Would be valuable to firm, corporation or publisher requiring initiative and versatility. University graduate, married, temperate and can originate business. At present editing a magazine in the South, but desire opportunity where writing and business ability can be given full play. Can qualify in every respect. Bank and corporation references furnished. Address Box 883, care The Fourth Estate.

A master newspaper man, married, 26, draft exempt, desires position at head of daily in middle West city of 25,000 up. Now employed. Ten year record of success. Exceptionally broad experience. Least starting salary $40 per week. Can report November 10. Address Roche, care The Fourth Estate.

NEWSPAPER MAN: Having disposed of my newspaper plant a year ago, I desire to engage as manager or superintendent of daily or large weekly newspaper. Thoroughly capable of handling any or all departments. Age 35 and married. Arthur J. Towner, Avoca, N.Y.

Wide awake Advertising or Business Manager on daily desires change; now employed; All references. For details or interview, address Box 889, care The Fourth Estate.

HEMSTREET PRESS CLIPPINGS

Tenth Avenue at 45th Street
NEW YORK CITY

We can Increase Your Business. You want it Increased, don't you?

Of course you have thought of Press Clippings yourself—but let us tell you how Press Clippings can be made a BUSINESS-BUILDER for you.

"BURRELLE"

ESTABLISHED
A QUARTER OF
A CENTURY.

60 and 62 Warren Street
NEW YORK

THE PITTSBURG PRESS

HAS
THE Largest
DAILY AND SUNDAY
CIRCULATION
IN PITTSBURG

Foreign Advertising Representatives
I. A. KLEIN, Metropolitan Tower, N. Y.
JOHN GLASS, Peoples Gas Bg., Chicago

MAGAZINE NOTES.

Randall Anderson, formerly connected with Mothers' Magazine and the Western office of Good Housekeeping and later with the Kennedy Manufacturing Company of Van Wert, Ohio, as sales manager, has resigned to join the Philadelphia office of the Curtis Publishing Company.

The new president of the Pearson's Magazine corporation is A. W. Ricker, former advertising and business manager. He was previously editor of the Girard (Kan.) Appeal-to-Reason, a Socialistic daily, and was connected with the National and other Socialistic publications.

Charles C. Nixon has become superintending editor of Everywoman's World. His place as advertising director of the Continental Publishing Company has been succeeded by Robertson Y. MacLean, formerly manager of sales for the advertising department of Everywoman's World.

Walter Drey, formerly advertising manager of the Magazine of Wall Street, has been appointed manager of financial advertising for Forbes Magazine, New York.

Rodney B. Stuart, for three and one-half years on the advertising staff of Woman's World, Chicago, has been appointed Eastern advertising manager with headquarters in New York.

E. B. Johns has become associate editor of American Khakiland, Seattle, Wash. His headquarters will be in Washington, D. C. He was formerly corresponding secretary of the Army League of the United States.

W. H. Osgood has been appointed business manager of Puck, New York. He was formerly with Vogue, Vanity Fair and the Saturday Even-

THE NEW YORK WORLD

(Morning Edition)

Prints MORE
ADVERTISING
than any other
newspaper prints.

The Open Door to the workshop of the world

The Philadelphia Record

Special Representatives
STORY, BROOKS & FINLEY,
Fifth Ave. Bldg., NEW YORK
Peoples Gas Bldg., CHICAGO

Topeka Daily Capital

GOVERNMENT REPORT
for six months ending April 1, 1917.
showing net paid circulation.

34,567

Member A. B. C. Publisher
Arthur Capper TOPEKA, KAN.

ing Post. Foster Gilroy goes into the editorial department.

MUSKOGEE DAILY SOLD.

The Muskogee (Okla.) Times-Democrat has been sold by Eugene M. Kerr to Charles A. Looney, J. C. Stone, E. W. Watts, W. T. Wisdom, C. A. Armbrister, W. B. Cole, John L. Wisener, G. G. Hendrix (commissioner), W. J. Crump, J. E. Wyand and others.

Mr. Kerr, who has been publisher of the Times-Democrat for thirty-five years, will for the present devote his entire time to the work of the National Army district exemption board, of which he is secretary. He informs THE FOURTH ESTATE that the Times-Democrat sale was based upon the valuation of $100,000.

CHANGES ON CINCINNATI COMMERCIAL-TRIBUNE.

Several important changes have been made in the staff of the Cincinnati Commercial-Tribune this week. Isaac Pichel, who has been managing editor for the past year, has become city editor.

Eli Moffett Millen, former Sunday editor of the Enquirer, has been made managing editor.

Alex Schamp, for many years connected with the New York newspapers before coming to Cincinnati, who was telegraph editor for the Commercial-Tribune, has resigned to come East.

ADVERTISING THE LOAN.

The first donation of page advertising space in New York newspapers for the Liberty Loan's new campaign was given by the Standard Oil Company in the papers of October 1.

Many banking houses and department stores invited Loan subscriptions in connection with their advertising.

INDIAN EDITOR IN ARMY.

Among those reporting recently for army service from southern Oklahoma was Cecil C. Colbert of Lindsay, who until recently was editor of a monthly magazine known as the Oklahoma Indian. Colbert is of Indian extraction and was reared in the vicinity of Lindsay.

BOSTON POST

CIRCULATION SEPTEMBER, 1917
"NO RETURNS"

The Daily Post 516,346

The Sunday Post 345,997

KELLY SMITH CO., Representatives
220 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK
C. GEORGE KROGNES, Western Rep.
Marquette Building, CHICAGO

Today's Housewife

Net Paid For Every
Guaranteed Issue

GEORGE A. McLELLAN, Gen. Mgr.
461 Fourth Avenue NEW YORK

A. P. AIDS LIBERTY LOAN.

The directors of the Associated Press, in session in New York on October 3, unanimously resolved to transfer the sum of $200,000, which the association has in its emergency reserve fund, to an investment in Liberty Loan registered bonds, as was done in the case of the first issue.

In addition it was unanimously resolved that the executive officers be authorized to encourage the subscription for Liberty Loan bonds by employees on a partial payment plan the association to carry the bonds and deferred payments until fully paid for by employees.

The meeting extended through Thursday. Those present were Frank B. Noyes, Ralph H. Booth, E. P. Adles, Melville E. Stone, Frederick R. Martin, James R. Youatt, W. H. Cowles, D. E. Town, R. M. Johnston, C. A. Rook, Charles Hopkins Clark, Clark Howell, V. S. McClatchy, W. L. McLean, Adolph S. Ochs, A. C. Weiss and John R. Rathom.

BANK AD COOPERATION.

Cooperation in bank advertising was suggested as an economic measure by W. D. Vincent of Spokane, Wash., in the meeting of the clearing house section of the Bankers' Convention, held in Atlantic City this week.

He said $5,000,000 can be saved in the advertising expense of the clearing house banks of this country if a committee is appointed in each association made up of men who attend to the advertising of each bank.

Experience has taught advertising men that newspapers and financial journals are the best mediums of advertising, he added.

MOVIE STAR WRITES.

Olive Thomas, a Triangle motion picture star, tried her hand at journalism the other day when she covered a "Billy" Sunday meeting in the Tabernacle at Los Angeles for one of the local papers.

GAGNON A DIRECTOR.

Henri Gagnon, general manager of the Quebec Soleil, has recently been made a director of the Soleil Publishing Company.

1916 Broke All Records of the Toledo BLADE

9,807,578 Lines

of advertising in 313 days.
AN AVERAGE OF OVER
104 COLUMNS PER DAY.

Member A.B.C.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
250 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK
Mallory Building, CHICAGO
201 Devonshire St., BOSTON
Krease Building, DETROIT

YOU MUST USE THE LOS ANGELES EXAMINER

TO COVER THE
GREAT SOUTHWEST

Largest Sunday Circulation—more than 150,000

TORONTO RUMORS "SPIKED."

Reports that old-line Liberals may start a new daily newspaper in Toronto are not taken seriously by the men high up in newspaper councils of that city. One representative told THE FOURTH ESTATE:

"I don't believe the old-line Liberals would be silly enough to attempt establishing a new Liberal daily in opposition to the Globe and Star. Most Toronto and Ontario Liberals approve the conscription policy of both papers and only a few without influence differ."

Rumors have also been in the air that J. E. Atkinson, president of the Toronto Star, was trying to obtain control of the Globe.

When Mr. Atkinson was asked by THE FOURTH ESTATE whether there was any truth to either the new paper rumor or that of his wanting the Globe, he said:

"There is not the slightest foundation for either report."

NEW MONOTYPE FACES.

The Lanston Monotype Company, Philadelphia, has just issued a book of specimens of new Monotype faces including types, borders and rules. The following is an extract from the announcement of the new faces:

"Much of your business success depends on your matrix equipment, for type is the vehicle that carries the message and leads the way to business success. Whether in a commercial printing office or a newspaper office, the lack of adequate matrix facilities must of necessity mean the lack of type equipment. If you have the facilities to furnish an abundance of type of the latest and best faces, you are first in line to get a share of the big business boom."

THE KANSAS CITY STAR

MORNING—EVENING—SUNDAY

Each Issue
Over 200,000 Circulation

The Cincinnati Community

consists of an area of 70 square miles with a population of 600,000

THE CINCINNATI ENQUIRER

is the MEDIUM YOU SHOULD USE in this unparalleled market.

Foreign Representatives
John Glass, Peoples Gas Bldg., Chicago
I. A. Klein, Metropolitan Tower, New York

PUBLICATION MAKES TEST OF LOYALTY.

Selecting from Who's Who and the Social Register the names of persons of German birth or descent, the Chronicle Magazine of New York sent them a letter asking for an affirmation of their loyalty to America. In its current issue the Chronicle prints a large number of the replies, a majority of which satisfied the editors of the magazine that the writers were good Americans.

Some of the replies were disloyal and were turned over to the Department of Justice.

Some others replied that their ideas were none of the Chronicle's business.

Among the replies quoted by the Chronicle is one from Oswald Garrison Villard, editor of the New York Evening Post, who says:

"While I am proud of my German blood and my German grandfather and the fact that my relatives were revolutionists against the sort of thing that is now going on in Germany, (had they had their way there would have been a republic in Germany in 1848), there has never been one moment in my life when I have been divided in my allegiance to the United States."

STRIKE PAPER IN BUTTE.

Articles of incorporation have been filed for the Butte (Mont.) Daily Bulletin, a newspaper to be directed by the striking miners, labor leaders and Socialists. Among those associated with the new publications are: W. G. Sullivan, Socialist lawyer who has been writing daily bulletin sheets for the striking miners; Alex Mackel, former Socialist district attorney; and Thomas Campbell, head of the Metal Mine Workers. The capitalization of the Bulletin is given at $50,000.

GETS NEW LINOTYPE.

The Jackson (Minn.) Pilot is installing a new Linotype.

Member A.B.C.

THE WASHINGTON POST

DAILY 2c—SUNDAY 5c

LARGEST Morning Circulation in the Nation's Capital.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
New York Chicago Boston Detroit

Trenton TIMES

New Jersey's Leading

FOOD MEDIUM

Million lines food advertising in two years—developed by our Thursday Food Feature Pages.

This "food atmosphere" and "housewife interest" will increase your sales.

KELLY-SMITH CO.
220 5th Av., N. Y.; Lytton Bg., Chicago

Baltimore News

Net Daily Circulation 88,775
September, 1917,
Gain over 12,902
September, 1916.

Special Representatives
DAN A. CARROLL J. E. LUTZ
New York Chicago

LINOTYPE PURCHASERS.

The following are among the recent purchasers of multiple magazine Linotypes from the Mergenthaler Linotype Company:

Great Barrington (Mass.) Courier, Champaign (Ill.) Daily Gazette, Marion (Ind.) Chronicle, Milwaukee (Wis.) Journal, Passaic (N. J.) Daily Herald, Plainfield (N. J.) Daily Herald, Plainfield (N. J.) Phoenix Printing Company, Philadelphia Legal Intelligencer, Johnson City (N. Y.) Record, Paducah (Ky.) News-Democrat, Erie (Pa.) Times, New York Bronx Home News, Hillsdale (Mich.) Daily News, Davenport (Ia.) Democrat and Leader, Lawrence (Mass.) Evening Tribune, St. Joseph (Mo.) News-Press, Salt Lake City (Utah) Telegram, Butler (Pa.) Eagle, Norristown (Pa.) Times, Lincoln (Ill.) Evening Star.

HOLDS DOWN TWO JOBS.

Bruce Dennis, who sold the La Grande (Ore.) Evening Observer about a year ago and retired from newspaper work, is one of the new owners of the Baker (Ore.) Herald, retaining at the same time his position as manager for the Oregon State Council of Defense. Prior to the June election in Oregon Mr. Dennis was campaign manager for the $6,000,000 road bond cause.

EDITOR WINS SUIT.

A jury at Ebensburg, Pa., has returned a verdict of not guilty in the suit for libel brought by ex-Sheriff William S. Stutzman of Cambria County against the Johnstown (Pa.) Tribune and Anderson H. Walters, its editor.

The suit was brought because the editor charged Stutzman, while sheriff, with being present at a spectacle of questionable nature.

TO BECOME A SECRETARY.

Harry Hansen, state capital correspondent for the Portland (Ore.) Telegram, is taking care of the publicity for the Oregon State Fair Association as a side issue, but expects to leave Salem soon for Washington, D. C., to become private secretary for United States Senator McNary.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat

DAILY—SUNDAY—WEEKLY.

To reach Farmers in Mississippi Valley and Southwest use

Weekly
Globe-Democrat

CIRCULATION INCREASING.
Now 115,000 each issue, 230,000 per week. Rate 50c per line per week.

PATERSON New Jersey's Famous Manufacturing City PRESS GUARDIAN

Its BIG Independent Newspaper
G. LOGAN PAYNE COMPANY
New York Chicago Detroit Boston

ON THE CHARLESTON MAIL.

B. H. Anderson, business manager of the Charleston (W. Va.) Mail, has returned from his vacation trip to Ohio.

C. V. Talbot, formerly of the East Liverpool (Ohio) Tribune, is now news editor of the Mail.

Walter D. Sullivan, who has been acting news editor, is covering the state house again.

Charles J. Boling, Federal court man for the Mail, was one of the second contingent of drafted men that went to Camp Lee, Va.

C. E. Anderson, advertising manager, is well again after an attack of typhoid fever.

INDIANA TIMES CHANGES.

J. Harry Jenkins, formerly of the Louisville Courier-Journal and Associated Press, has taken over the telegraph desk on the Indianapolis Daily Times, succeeding S. G. Damron.

William K. Hutchinson of Washington, D. C., formerly on Eastern papers, is the new state editor on the Times, taking the place of William Murray, who has joined the International News Service bureau in Indianapolis.

John Carson, who was a Times re-write man, is now city editor.

A GALA OUTING.

This year the annual outing of the Pen and Pencil Club of Philadelphia was held in conjunction with the Sporting Writers Association at the grounds of the Philadelphia Motor Speedway Association.

The writers and artists arrived at the speedway in automobiles just in time for a welcome corn and watermelon dinner, after which they witnessed or participated in a game of baseball and various other athletic events.

OFF TO PHILIPPINES.

George L. Magee of the editorial department of the Janesville (Wis.) Gazette, has left for the Philippines to become city editor of the Manila Bulletin.

C. R. Zeininger, who was business manager of the Janesville Bulletin, will be associated with Mr. Magee in his new work.

A Gain of 73%

During the past four years the Detroit Free Press has enjoyed a gain of 73 per cent in circulation. Character and solidity explain this increase. ADVERTISING MUST PAY in a medium which calls forth such a tremendous response from the public.

The Detroit Free Press

"MICHIGAN'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER."

VERRE & CONKLIN, Foreign Reps.
NEW YORK CHICAGO DETROIT

SEATTLE "P-I"

The only seven day A. P. paper in the Metropolis of the entire Northwest. The one paper in the entire West without competition in its field. It reaches into the homes of the most prosperous people on earth.

W. M. J. MORTON CO. Eastern Reps.
Fifth Av. Bldg., NEW YORK.
Tribune Building, CHICAGO

A PERSISTENT EDITOR.

Isaac Bainbridge, editor of a Toronto Socialist organ, has been again arrested on a charge of violating the Defense of the Realm Act. He was not granted bail. Having been released during his trial, he persisted in writing and distributing matter objectionable to the authorities.

NEW FLORIDA EDITOR.

H. F. Battle, for several months a Linotype operator and make-up man in the state printery at Tallahassee, Fla., has taken over the Monticello (Fla.) News. Colonel J. B. Horne, owner of the News for several years, is now tax collector for Jefferson County.

CANDIDATE FOR PRINTER.

Imri Zumwalt, newspaper man and writer of Bonner Springs, Kan., is to be the Republican candidate for state printer at the fall elections.

NEWSPAPER MAN HURT.

William Locker of the Philadelphia Inquirer was recently seriously injured by the bursting of a motor car tire which he was pumping.

LA LIBERTE SUSPENDS.

La Liberte of Toronto, published by Le Reveil, Ltd., has suspended publication because of financial difficulties.

The Escanaba (Mich.) Medborgaren, a Swedish paper published by O. V. Linden, has suspended publication.

THE PITTSBURGH POST

ONLY Democratic Paper In Pittsburgh

CONB. LORENZEN & WOODMAN
Special Representatives
New York, Detroit, Kansas City, Chicago

BUFFALO EVENING NEWS

The only Buffalo newspaper that carries its advertising columns. Many of our advertisers use our columns exclusively. The above is one of the many reasons WHY?

Member A. B. C.
EDWARD H. BUTLER, Editor and Pub.
Represented in the foreign field by
KELLY-SMITH COMPANY,
220 Fifth Ave., NEW YORK.
Lytton Building, CHICAGO.

IN THE AD FIELD.

ADVERTISING ACCOUNTS NOW BEING PLACED BY THE AGENCIES.

LEES, Cleveland Trust Bg., Cleveland—Placing account of Hollenden Hotel, Cleveland, Ohio, in newspapers.

VOLKMAN, 5 Beekman st., N. Y.—Placing advertising of V. Vivado, Inc., Times Building, N. Y., manufacturers and importers of "Mavis" face powder in newspapers.

KLAU-VAN PETERSON-DUNLAP, 131 2d st., N. Y.—Placing accounts of the Everwear Hosiery Company, Milwaukee.

Placing an extensive newspaper campaign for the Cutler-Hammer Manufacturing Company, Milwaukee, maker of electrical appliances, to popularize electrical household specialties. The names of large distributors are listed in the copy and in the selling plan a special effort will be made to cultivate department-store interest.

Using newspapers and magazines for the coming campaign of the Northwestern Chemical Co., Marietta, Ohio, manufacturers of "Se-Ment-O" Radiator Cement" and general line of chemical auto specialties.

FROWERT, 151 W. 42d st., N. Y.—Handling account of Dreadnaught Tire & Rubber Co., Baltimore, Md.

DOREMI'S & MORSE, 31 Nassau st., N. Y.—Making contracts with newspapers for Eimer & Amend on a rheumatism remedy, 211 3d av., N. Y.

GORING - FIRESTONE, Merchants' Nat'l Bank Bldg., St. Paul, Minn.—Placing orders with newspapers for the McKibbin, Driscoll & Dorsey, "McKibbin" Ba-Ba Sheep-lined coats, St. Paul, Minn.

TUNNEL, 30 Church st., N. Y.—Placing advertising of Scotmints Co.,

DETROIT SATURDAY NIGHT

Holds a commanding position in the progressive and prosperous homes of Detroit and Michigan.

One reason why it gained 35% in circulation and advertising during 1916.

Represented by
G. LOGAN PAYNE COMPANY
New York Chicago Boston Detroit

It Pays to Advertise in the ST. LOUIS TIMES

Now generally recognized as the
HOME NEWSPAPER
OF ST. LOUIS.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
250 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK.
Mallers Building, CHICAGO.
201 Devonshire Street, BOSTON.
Kreage Building, DETROIT.

THE Philadelphia Bulletin
HAS THE Largest TWO-Cent
Circulation in the East.

Net Daily Paid Average for August
351,976 Copies
WILLIAM L. McLEAN, Publisher.

Inc., 30 Church st., N. Y., maker of "Scotmints" confections.

KELLEY, 2d Nat'l Bk Bg., Toledo, Ohio—Placing an introductory campaign in trade papers for "Stewart-Lens" headlights, the latest specialty in automobile accessories marketed by the Stewart-Warner Co., Chicago.

DYER, 42 Broadway, N. Y.—Again placing some copy with newspapers for Corn Products Refining Co., "Mazola" cooking and salad oil, 17 Battery pl., N. Y.

FOLEY, Bulletin Bldg., Philadelphia—Placing tryout orders with newspapers for Wintermints Co., "Wintermints," Philadelphia.

GUENTHER, 25 Broad st., N. Y.—Again placing copy with mail order newspapers for Dr. R. Newman, medical, 36 E. 3d st., N. Y.

HILL, People's Bank Bldg., Pittsburgh—Placing 28-line 13-time orders with newspapers for C. L. Glass & Co., books, Pittsburgh.

KIERNAN, 135 Broadway, N. Y.—Placing orders with newspapers for J. I. Robin, manufacturing "Usalyte" inverted gas mantles, 130th st. and Park av., N. Y.

MCCANN, 61 Broadway, N. Y.—Reported will shortly place orders with newspapers for Royal Typewriter Co., 364 Broadway, N. Y.

MORSE, 4th av. and 30th st., N. Y.—Again renewing newspaper contracts with B. F. Allen & Co. on "Reecham's" pills, 417 Canal st., N. Y.

SNITZLER, Garland Bldg., Chicago—Placing orders with newspapers in selected sections for Foulds Milling Co., "Foulds" macaroni, etc., 326 West Madison av. Chicago.

SEHL, 130 N. Clark st., Chicago—Placing 20-inch 6-time orders with newspapers on contracts for Calumet Baking Powder Co., 4100 Filmore st., Chicago.

VANDERHOOF, Marquette Bldg., Chicago—Placing contracts for Dean's Cough Drops, Milwaukee, in magazines and newspapers.

Placing advertising accounts in newspapers for the Sunbeam Chemical Co., Inc., Chicago, manufacturer

THE NEW YORK EVENING JOURNAL

has the largest circulation of any newspaper
in America.

THE DAYTON SUNDAY NEWS

in the first five months of 1917 has carried 110,244 lines more local business than its only competitor.
With the Springfield News (the two at .065 per line) it's a great Sunday combination.

NEWS LEAGUE OF OHIO
DAYTON, OHIO
I. A. Klein, Metropolitan Tower, N. Y.
John Glass, Peoples Gas Bldg., Chicago

of "Rit," a combination of dye-soap.

HUNTINGTON, 143 W. 127th st., N. Y.—Placing the advertising for United Glove Co., 29 Broadway, N. Y.

Also placing advertising for H. Cook, war novelties, Tuckahoe, N. Y.

CONNER, 309 Temple Court, Denver, Colo.—Extending campaign eastward for Coors Malted Milk, Denver; now in metropolitan papers of Omaha, St. Joseph and Kansas City.

WITMER, 220 W. 12th st., Kansas City, Mo.—Placing orders in small daily papers for the advertising of Dr. James P. Henderson's rupture cure, Kansas City.

LORD & THOMAS, Mallers Bldg., Chicago—Making contracts with newspapers in Central West for the Union Pacific R. R., Chicago.

NELSON, CHESMAN & CO., 127 Pine st., St. Louis—Sending out orders to agricultural publications for the St. Louis Spectacle Co.

FULLER, Studebaker Bldg., Chicago—Placing orders in mail order and farm papers for Consumers Wholesale Grocery Co., Chicago.

Also placing page orders in newspapers for Eagle Lye Works, "Eagle Lye," Milwaukee.

DARLOW, Omaha, Neb.—Handling advertising of Uncle Sam Breakfast Food Co., Omaha, Neb.

GUENTHER-BRADFORD, Schiller Bldg., Chicago—Placing orders for Moving Picture Sales Co., Chicago, Ill., in Canadian papers.

NICHOLS - FINN, Consumers Bldg., Chicago—Placing page-orders with agricultural papers for William Galloway Co., Waterloo, Ia.

GARDNER, 315 N. 10th st., St. Louis—Making contracts with farm papers for the advertising of Appleton Manufacturing Co., Batavia, Ill.

DAKE, 121 2d st., San Francisco—Will place advertising in newspapers in the near future for Santa Monica-Ocean Park Chamber of Commerce, Santa Monica, Cal.

SHAW-PIERCE, Book Bldg., Detroit, Mich.—Placing accounts of

THE SYRACUSE POST-STANDARD

—Central New York's FAVORITE newspaper—increases its circulation lead:

Daily (Net Paid)
CIRCULATION 55,498

April, 1917 Figures—A.B.C. Basis.
—Only morning paper in the metropolis of a rich, agricultural and manufacturing territory.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
250 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK.
Mallers Building, Chicago.
201 Devonshire St., BOSTON.
Kreage Building, DETROIT

THE JOURNAL

IS THE ONLY MORNING AND SUNDAY PAPER PUBLISHED IN
DAYTON, OHIO

STORY, BROOKS & FINLEY, Inc.
Fifth Ave. Bldg., NEW YORK.
Mutual Life Bldg., PHILADELPHIA
People's Gas Building, CHICAGO.

King Trailer Co., Ann Arbor, Mich.; Detroit Weatherproof Body Co., Pontiac, Mich., and I. Hubert Co., "Malvino Cream," Toledo, Ohio.

KOCH, University Bldg., Milwaukee, Wis.—Contemplating an advertising campaign for McConnon & Co., household supplies, Winona, Minn.

CHAPPELOW, International Life Bldg., St. Louis, Mo.—Will make up a list of newspapers for Johansen Brothers Shoe Co., St. Louis.

McJUNKIN, Mallers Bldg., Chicago—Placing trade paper campaign for the Wallace Company, Decatur, Ill., on Wallace's Soda Fountain.

GUNDLACH, People's Gas Bldg., Chicago—Planning publicity campaign for Metal Bed League, New York, newspapers and magazines.

MULLER, 220 West 42d st., N. Y.—Placing advertising of Times Square Auto Supply Co., Broadway and 56th st., N. Y., distributor of "Timenco" tires and auto sundries in newspapers.

ROSE, 116 W. 32d st., N. Y.—Reported will place the advertising for the Englander Spring Bed Co., 88 35th st., Brooklyn, N. Y., manufacturer of "Englander" couch beds, Wit-Edge Springs, Couch Hammocks and Foldway Beds.

HANFF-METZGER, 95 Madison av., N. Y.—Reported will use newspapers and magazines in advertising

USE The BILLBOARD

(Member A.B.C.)

To reach Actors
Actresses
Performers
Musicians
Vocalists
Advance Agents
Moving Picture People
Chorus Girls
Acrobats
Aviators
Circus Folk
Address

The Billboard Publishing Co
Broadway at 42d. NEW YORK

THE
Boston Herald
(Morning and Sunday) and the Boston Traveler
(Evening)
Net Paid Circulation
DAILY, over 208,000
Sunday, over 119,000
Member Audit Bureau of Circulations.

for the Pathe Freres Phonograph Co.,
20 Grand av., Brooklyn, N. Y.

SANDLASS, 7 Clay st., Baltimore,
Md.—Placing account of Resinol Chemical Co., Baltimore, Md., manufacturer of "Resinol" soap and ointment.

FREEMAN, Mutual Bldg., Richmond, Va.—Placing account of S. F.
Sauer & Co., Richmond, Va., manufacturer of flavoring extracts, in newspapers.

FRESBURY, 456 4th av., New York.—Placing advertising in newspapers and magazines for A. L. Gosselyn Corporation, 233 Broadway, N.
Y., on "Goslin" cleanser and scouring soap.

WOODWARDS, 900 S. Michigan
av., Chicago.—Planning a newspaper campaign in Cleveland, Detroit and Indianapolis newspapers for the Texas Company of New York and "Texaco" products.

MALLORY, MITCHELL, &
FAUST, Security Bldg., Chicago.—
Placing advertising of Ruckheim Brothers & Eckstein, Chicago, manufacturers of "Crackerjack" and other confections.

GRAY & BENJAMIN, 608 S. Dearborn st., Chicago.—Placing advertising for Earnshaw Knitting Co., Chicago, manufacturer of "Vanta" garments for infants.

DIRECT—A company called the China Tea Company, Ltd., has been organized in Shanghai to deal direct with American tea consumers.
The company has five registered brands of tea to offer in quarter, one-half and one-pound packages, packed in China and distributed from there in the original packages only. An advertising campaign featuring the small package is being inaugurated.
Austin Alarm Co., "Advance Burglar Alarm," 929 North Waller av.,
Chicago, is placed direct.
Humphrey's Homeopathic Medicine Co., Humphrey's "77" medical remedy, 156 William st., N. Y., ar-

St. Paul and the Northwest best can be reached by advertising your wares in the columns of the

ST. PAUL DISPATCH
and ST. PAUL PIONEER PRESS
In St. Paul, the St. Paul Dispatch has an average total daily circulation of 63,
678; the St. Paul Pioneer Press, an average total daily circulation of 45,622; the St. Paul Sunday Pioneer Press an average total Sunday circulation of 47,802.

They also enter thousands of homes, located in cities, towns and rich farming districts of the Northwest.

TOTAL CIRCULATION
St. Paul Dispatch (daily), Over 81,000.
St. Paul Pioneer Press (daily), Over
64,000.
Sunday Pioneer Press, Over 77,000.
They Cover the Field.

BRIDGEPORT
CONNECTICUT
(The Eden of America)
The Prosperity Center of the United States and the Industrial Center of New England.
THE
Post & Telegram
(Evening) (Morning)
Cover This Field Absolutely.
Members of the A. B. C.
JULIUS MATHEWS, Representative
1 Beacon Street, BOSTON
171 Madison Avenue, NEW YORK
Hartford Building, CHICAGO

DALLAS EVENING
JOURNAL A. H. Belo & Co.
Published by
Covers the afternoon field as completely
as does the Dallas News in the morning
37,659 NET PAID average during 6
months period ending April 1,
1917. P. O. Report.
LARGEST AFTERNOON Circulation
J. D. LORENTZ, Manager Eastern Dept.
738 Tribune Building, NEW YORK

ranging with newspapers for full advertising.

ALL ABOUT ALBANY.
To emphasize before national advertisers and advertising agents the importance of Albany as a trading center, the Albany Knickerbocker-Press has issued a special report from its merchandising service department covering in general the commercial, industrial and financial activities of New York's capital city.

The survey tells of the commercial possibilities of Albany as shown by the number and extent of wholesale and retail business interests and manufactures, shows the class of labor and the average of wages paid, housing conditions, bank clearances,
savings bank deposits, etc., etc.

In short it gives a resume which makes a better understanding of conditions in Albany to an advertiser wishing to reach after business in that field.

MORE GERMAN INTRIGUE.
Spanish officials are hastening to intercept Gaston Routier, a French subject who founded La Paix of Madrid, a pacifist newspaper alleged to have been supported by funds furnished by Bolo Pasha, an agent of the Central powers. The publication had aroused the indignation of the French residents at Madrid, and Rout-tier had promised that he would cease publication, return to France and enlist in the army.

Senator Charles Humbert, owner of the Paris Journal, has announced that he has canceled his contract with Bolo Pasha and has refunded the 5,500,000 francs paid by him for an interest in the newspaper.

Pasha is the central figure in a new U. S. Government exposure of German intrigue in America, while it was neutral, made public during the past week.

MARTIN A PURCHASER.
H. L. Balser has sold the Allen
(Neb.) News to Millard Martin.

FATHER SUCCEEDS SON.
C. E. Fitzgerald has transferred the Alvord (La.) Register to his father, C. F. Fitzgerald.

THE DETROIT
JOURNAL
with over 100,000 net paid Circulation daily is indispensable in covering Detroit and surrounding territory.
Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.,
New York Chicago Boston Detroit

Newark Star-Eagle
NEW JERSEY'S
LARGEST PENNY PAPER
Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.,
New York Chicago Boston Detroit

AUSTRALIAN WAGE SCHEME IS VERY INTERESTING.

Charles G. Ross, professor of journalism in the University of Missouri, has returned from a year in Melbourne, Australia, where he was on the staff of the Evening Herald.
Mr. Ross says that newspaper men who attend the 1918 Press Congress of the World in Sydney will be especially interested in the working of the minimum wage as applied to the editorial departments of newspapers.

In a recent case in the Commonwealth Court of Conciliation and Arbitration, higher wages and improved working conditions were sought by newspaper men, organized as the Australian Journalists' Association, in a plaint directed against the metropolitan newspaper proprietors.
The association won its case, with the result that salaries of reporters and sub-editors were substantially increased in many cases.

Proprietors are legally bound, by the court's award, to classify their editorial staffs according to a definite plan ("senior," "general," "junior") and pay not less than the prescribed wage to each class. The whole proceedings were unique in Australia and in the world.

With its radical labor laws, designed to improve the lot of the average man, Australia presents a fertile field for economic investigation. In the enactment of minimum wage and compulsory arbitration laws, it has gone further than any other country. Whatever one's opinion of the working of these laws, they are notable as an important experiment in radical democracy.

Government ownership, extending to railways, tram lines, fisheries, brick works, bakeries and many other enterprises, has been carried to a degree that approximates the socialistic ideal.

Old age and invalid pensions, workmen's compensation and a maternity bonus represent the trend in social legislation. The leavening effect of such laws upon a conservative set of inherited institutions is one of the most interesting phenomena of Australian life.

The Dallas (Wis.) Index has suspended publication.

The Plain Dealer
First Newspaper of Cleveland, Sixth City
prints a far greater total of paid advertising and paid advertisements than any other newspaper in
CLEVELAND
Over 150,000 Daily. || Over 200,000 Sunday.
JOHN B. WOODWARD, Eastern Adversing Representative, Times Bg., N. Y.
JOHN GLASS, Western Advertising Representative, Peoples Gas Bg., Chicago.

BALTIMORE CITY OF HOMES
and noted for its great industries and thrifty working classes, affords National Advertisers one of the best fields. Use the
AMERICAN and STAR
Morning—Sunday Evening
Baltimore's greatest newspapers, to thoroughly cover city and state. Member A.B.C.
C. GEORGE KROGNES, CHICAGO.
VERRE & CONKLIN, Inc., New York

FREEDOM OF PRESS !!
"Freedom of Speech, Press and Conscience," was the subject of the meeting of the autumn conference of the Intercollegiate Socialist Society, held at Bellport, N. Y., but representatives of the press were not granted the freedom of the meeting, being permitted to enter only on condition that they make no use of anything they hear, except such excerpts of speeches as were issued by the committee.

One reporter out of the lot accepted the conditions.

OWNS PAPER AGAIN.
E. W. Nobbs, editor of the Hector (Minn.) Mirror, has sold his paper to C. V. Corson, one of the founders of the Mirror and for the past seven years in the newspaper business at Northome, Minn. Mr. Nobbs will relinquish the management on November 1.

HONORED BY MASONS.
C. H. Spillman, editor and publisher of the Edwardsville (Mo.)
Intelligencer, was honored recently by being invested with the thirty third degree in the Masonic order. The investing ceremonies were held in
New York.

FIRE IN TEXAS.
Fire of an undetermined origin caused damage in the stock room of the Fort Worth (Tex.) Record recently. A small amount of print paper stock was damaged.

Washington Newspapers
Sworn statements of the newspapers at the National Capitol to the Post Office Department for the six months ending March 31, 1917:

Evening Star	83,194
Evening Times	35,569
Washington Post	34,293
Washington Herald	30,454

Since this statement the circulation of the Star, Times and Post has materially increased.

The special features of THE BUFFALO TIMES

have made it the most popular newspaper in
Western New York

NORMAN E. MACK, Proprietor.
VERRE & CONKLIN, Inc.
Special Advertising Representatives
NEW YORK, DETROIT, CHICAGO

Schenectady POPULATION 100,000
EVENING EXCEPT SUNDAY.
AUDITED
CIRCULATION 20,643
Home circulation reaching best paid
scientific, technical and skilled mechanics
in America.
LA COSTE & MAXWELL
Special Representatives
NEW YORK CHICAGO

NEW MAIL RATES ARE PROHIBITORY.

(Continued from Second Page.)

pliable to fourth class matter shall be as follows (but where the space devoted to advertisements does not exceed 5 per centum of the total space, the rate of postage shall be the same as if the whole of such publication was devoted to matter other than advertisements):

(c) With the first mailing of each issue of each such publication the publishers shall file with the Postmaster a copy of such publication, together with a statement containing such information as the Postmaster General may prescribe for determining the postage chargeable thereon.

(1) On and after July first, nineteen hundred and eighteen, and until July first, nineteen hundred and nineteen, for the first and second zones, 1½ cents; for the third zone, 1½ cents; for the fourth zone, 2 cents; for the fifth zone, 2½ cents; for the sixth zone, 2½ cents; for the seventh zone, 3 cents; for the eighth zone, 3½ cents.

(2) On and after July first, nineteen hundred and nineteen, and until July first, nineteen hundred and twenty, for the first and second zones, 1½ cents; for the third zone, 2 cents; for the fourth zone, 2½ cents; for the fifth zone, 3 cents; for the sixth zone, 3½ cents; for the seventh zone, 4 cents; for the eighth zone, 5½ cents.

(3) On and after July first, nineteen hundred and twenty, and until July first, nineteen hundred and twenty-one, for the first and second zones, 1½ cents; for the third zone, 2½ cents; for the fourth zone, 4 cents; for the fifth zone, 4½ cents; for the sixth zone, 5½ cents; for the seventh zone, 7 cents; for the eighth zone, 7½ cents.

(4) On and after July first, nineteen hundred and twenty-two, for the first and second zones, 2 cents; for the third zone, 3 cents; for the fourth zone, 5 cents; for the fifth zone, 6 cents; for the sixth mail matter of the second-class when cents; for the eighth zone, 10 cents.

If this territory presents a sales problem to you, the Merchandising Service Department.

of the Boston American will, upon request, make a trade investigation covering various sections of Metropolitan Boston and submit a report which will help you solve that problem. Ask how this department works.

BOSTON AMERICAN

W. D. BOYCE CO.
800-514 North Dearborn St., CHICAGO
905 Metropolitan Tower, NEW YORK
PUBLISHER

THE INDIANA DAILY TIMES

INDIANAPOLIS
THE FARMING BUSINESS
High-class farm weekly, magazine form.
BOYCE'S WEEKLIES
The Saturday Blade, Chicago Ledger.
THE LONE SCOUT

"BOYCE'S" IS A SYNONYM for SUCCESSFUL ADVERTISING

Peoria TRANSCRIPT
Only morning newspaper in Peoria.
Peoria JOURNAL
Only evening paper in Peoria with Associated Press franchise. Leads in circulation and advertising. Member A.B.C.
SUNDAY JOURNAL-TRANSCRIPT.
Combination Advertising Rate

HENRY M. PINDELL, Proprietor.
CHAS. H. EDDY CO., Representatives.
NEW YORK BOSTON CHICAGO

Sec. 1103. That the rate of postage on daily newspapers, when the same are deposited in a letter carrier office for delivery by its carriers, shall be the same as now provided by law, and nothing in this title shall affect existing law as to free circulation and existing rates on second-class mail matter within the country of publication; provided, that the Postmaster General may hereafter require publishers to separate or make up to zones in such a manner as he may direct all or fraction thereof, on and after July 1 offered for mailing.

Sec. 1103. That in the case of newspapers and periodicals entitled to be entered as second-class matter and maintained by and in the interest of religious, educational, scientific, philanthropic, agricultural, labor, or fraternal organizations or associations, not organized for profit and none of the net income of which inures to the benefit of any private stockholder or individual, the second-class postage rates shall be, irrespective of the zone in which delivered (except when the same are deposited in a letter carrier office for delivery by its carriers, in which case the rates shall be the same as now provided by law), 1½ cents a pound or fraction thereof, on and after July 1, 1918, and until July 1, 1919, and on and after July 1, 1919, 3¼ cents a pound or fraction thereof. The publishers of such newspapers or periodicals before being entitled to the foregoing rates shall furnish to the Postmaster General, at such times and under such conditions as he may prescribe, satisfactory evidence that none of the net income of such organization inures to the benefit of any private stockholder or individual.

Sec. 1104. That where the total weight of any one edition or issue of any publication mailed to any one zone does not exceed one pound, the rate of postage shall be 1 cent.

Sec. 1105. The zone rates provided by this title shall relate to the entire bulk mailed to any one zone and not to individually addressed packages.

Sec. 1106. That where a newspaper or periodical is mailed by other than the publisher or his agent, or a news agent or dealer, the rate shall be the same as now provided by law.

Sec. 1107. That the Postmaster General, on or before the tenth day of each month, shall pay into the general fund of the treasury an amount equal to the difference between the estimated amount received during the preceding month for the transportation of first-class matter through the mails and the estimated amount which would have been received under the provisions of the law in force at the time of the passage of this act.

Section 1100 provides that:
The rate of postage on all mail matter of the first class, except postal cards, shall, 30 days after the passage of this act, be, in addition to the existing rate, 1 cent for each ounce or fraction thereof; provided, that the rate of postage on drop letters of the first class shall be 2 cents an ounce or fraction thereof. Postal cards and private mailing or post cards, when complying with the requirements of existing law, shall be transmitted through the mails at 1 cent each, in addition to the existing rate. That letters

The BEST Advertising BUY in CLEVELAND
THE NEWS
Quality Evening Newspaper
With Quantity Circulation

THE LEADER

Sunday
Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.,
350 Fifth Ave., NEW YORK
Mallory Building, CHICAGO
801 Devonshire St., BOSTON
Krege Building, DETROIT

THE NEW ORLEANS ITEM

Largest Afternoon Circulation in the
entire South.
(April A.B.C. Not Paid Statement)
Sunday 68,875 Daily 55,041
THE JOHN BUDD COMPANY
NEW YORK CHICAGO ST. LOUIS

written and mailed by soldiers, sailors, and marines assigned to duty in a foreign country engaged in the present war may be mailed free of postage, subject to such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the Postmaster General.

OPPOSERS OF ZONES.

Both the House and the Senate passed the conference report without a dissenting vote. During the House debate Representative Cooper of Wisconsin roundly criticised the increase in second-class mail rates. President Wilson was quoted by him as an authority against the zone system prescribed for second-class mail matter. Mr. Cooper also asked why members placed a greater burden on the newspapers and magazines and still held on to their rural free delivery systems.

He assailed it as the most reactionary legislation by Congress in fifty years. He read a long statement by Woodrow Wilson, when Governor of New Jersey, holding that a zone system for mail then under consideration was reactionary, as tending to denationalize the country.

Mr. Cooper said that nothing had made the United States a great nation so much as the low flat rate on magazine and newspapers that the free interchange of thought and expression should not be taxed, and that the zone system would tend to sectionalize the country. He declared:

"There is no more reason for applying the zone system to magazines than to letters. The Post Office Department is self-sustaining, except for rural free delivery. If you want to save money, why don't you knock out the free delivery in the rural districts? Why do you subsidize the farmer? Of course, I wouldn't say there were too many votes concerned. I would say it was wise statesmanship."

"There is not a man here or anywhere else that in a fair debate can defend a proposal for a zone system and carry it through to Congress."

"It has been defeated when brought forward to stand or fall on its own merits. But now here it is in a bill to raise the revenues necessary to carry on the war and save the great Republic."

"We must vote for the system or vote against the entire conference report."

"This sort of coercion over the votes of the House is wrong—absolutely, incalculably wrong."

"This provision, if it had merit, ought to have been brought in here upon a Post Office bill. Let them bring it in on such a bill."

THE PITTSBURG DISPATCH

has always been a big factor in the successful exploiting of good merchandise.

H. C. Rook, Real Est. Trust Bdg., Phila.
W. G. Brooks, 235 Fifth Ave., New York
Ford-Persons Co., Michigan Av., Chicago
W. E. Edge, Atlantic City, N. J.
Dorland Co., 19 Regent St., London, Eng.

The City of Richmond qualified
VIRGINIA, has 15,309 voters
THE TIMES-DISPATCH
RICHMOND.

is delivered 12,000 of the city's
daily into best homes.
In all VIRGINIA it's the same.
STORY, BROOKS & FINLEY, Inc.
New York Philadelphia Chicago

with the indisputable facts, as our text, elaborate upon it, and defeat any attempt to reestablish in this country the discarded zone system for carrying the mails."

Representative Mondell also vigorously objected to the zone system, saying:

"The plan proposed is unfair to the newspapers and magazines. It is clumsy and unscientific in its details, will be cumbersome and vexatious in its operation; but it is infinitely more unfair to the people of many sections of the country, and would eventually, if it were continued, tend to make us a people sectional, local, and provincial in our views. I shall never cease to fight in favor of a system truly national in its scope and purpose."

Representative Platt said:
"The zone system of raising second-class postage rates seems to me wholly bad, but not so bad as in the bill originally passed in the House. On the whole the bill may be 55 or 60 per cent good, and with considerable doubt I shall vote for it."

KITCHIN SHOWS HOW "EASY."

In explaining the zone rates on second-class postage, Mr. Kitchin said it would be easy for the newspapers and magazines in four years, as allowed by the bill, to "adjust their business so the newspapers will not be required to pay any of this increased burden." He took a fling at the members of the conference committee who let slip information on the progress of the bill by saying he had not read as much as one inch of such newspaper accounts which had contained correct information.

SENATE PASSAGE MADE PROVISIONAL.

When the conference report reached the Senate Senator Simmons

The Circulation of the NEW YORK EVENING MAIL

represents a greater purchasing power per unit of circulation than is found in any other New York Evening Paper.

NEW YORK

America's Greatest Jewish Community

THE DAY

America's Foremost
Jewish Daily.

Reaches the cream of purchasing power of the Jewish element in America.
CIRCULATION OVER 70,000
Despite advance in price from one to two cents.

THE DAY

The National
Jewish Daily.

Member A. B. C.

Main Publication Office:
188 East Broadway, NEW YORK

had great difficulty in explaining why the Senate conferees acceded to the House demand to restore a zone system of postage rates on second-class mail matter.

The House system of zone postage rates on publication was stricken out of the bill by the Senate finance committee. A compromise provision was inserted in the bill on the floor of the Senate only to be stricken out before the Senate passed the bill.

Notwithstanding the insistence of the Post Office Department regarding an increase in the charges of transporting newspapers and periodicals through the mails, the Senate conferees finally acceded to the Department's demand and adopted a compromise provision with the House.

The only concession obtained by the Senate conferees was to postpone the day for putting the increased postal charges in effect.

The change from the flat postal charge to the zone system will be inaugurated July 1 next, according to the conference report. Each year thereafter the zone charges will be increased for four years, after which the zone charges are intended to remain permanent.

HITCHCOCK'S OBJECTION.

Senators Smoot and Hitchcock opposed the newspaper tax. The latter said the proposed increase would tend to decrease rather than increase advertising rates because the added postal burden would tend to reduce the advertising value of hundreds of publications.

He declared that the increased rate must be passed on to the subscriber or thousands of publications would go out of business.

"The delusion that the publisher can charge what he wishes for advertising is one of the greatest delusions of those who know nothing about the business," said Mr. Hitchcock. "Put this into effect and you will leave a path of wreck and ruin."

Senator Simmons did not undertake to defend the new postal charges to any extent, but had read into the record a letter written by the Postmaster General to some publisher, name withheld, defending the proposed increased charges.

Senator Simmons, however, did point out that the Post Office Department claims that the present revenue from second-class postage matter is a little over $11,000,000.

During the first year of the zone charges it is expected the revenue will increase by nearly $5,000,000.

During the second year the increase was estimated as $9,000,000, with $13,000,000 for the third year and $18,000,000 for the fourth and suc-

THE
ST. LOUIS
WESTLICHE
POST

reaches the GERMAN reading and speaking population of St. Louis
as no other medium can.

THE ONLY POLISH DAILY
IN NEW ENGLAND

Kuryer Bostonski

27 Beverly st., BOSTON, MASS
reaches 600,000 Poles in New England. They want to buy your goods

Use Kuryer Bostonski

ceeding years. The total revenues during the fourth year, estimated upon present business, would amount to approximately $28,000,000, and even at that, it was claimed, the Post Office Department will be suffering a loss on transporting second-class mail of about $40,000,000 annually.

The letter submitted by Senator Simmons, written by the Postmaster-General, claimed that the Post Office is now realizing a profit of about $60,000,000 annually from first-class mail. This profit, it was said, is being used to meet the deficit now realized from the transportation of second-class mail.

P. O. DIDN'T WANT LETTER INCREASE.

It was made to appear from this letter that the Post Office was not willing to advance the first-class postage rates, but advocated only the increase in the second-class rates.

Nevertheless, under the present bill the first-class letter rate is to be increased from 2 to 3 cents, and the charge for postal cards would be increased from 1 to 2 cents each. The burden, therefore, of the increased postal charges not only falls upon the publisher of periodicals but also upon the general public and, to a large extent, upon business houses whose daily mail is a very important item.

The Senate's so-called "redeeming" feature of the proposal to employ the zone system for assessing charges on periodicals is that it will not go into effect until next summer. Even then the cumbersome system of zone charges will vary, different charges to be assessed on that part devoted to advertisements.

By postponing the inauguration of the system until next summer, Congress believes that it gives the publishers of the country and the public generally an opportunity to express their approval or disapproval of this proposed law.

In the meantime, the regular session of Congress will convene and if the proposal to change the postage rates in such a radical manner is not popular, Congress will undoubtedly be called upon to repeal this provision of the act.

The Hewitt (Minn.) Banner, managed by H. L. McChesney, has suspended publication.

MONTREAL

is CANADA'S largest and wealthiest city—sixth in America in population; fourth largest French city in the world—and a wonderfully fine market for all kinds of advertised goods.

LA PRESSE

is Canada's largest circulating daily—over 145,000 and still growing—and it thoroughly covers Montreal's population, which is over 700,000, and of which 70 per cent is French Canadian element. Get particulars

W. M. J. MORTON CO., Special Reps.
NEW YORK, Fifth Ave. Building.
CHICAGO, Tribune Building.
LONDON, F.N.G., 19, St. Paul Avenue.
Southampton Row.
PARIS, 6 rue du Rocher.

NARODNI List

Briscoe Motor Corp. of Jackson, Mich., has just placed 10,850 agate lines of Briscoe advertising in the Narodni List. This is the best proof that the Narodni List is one of the best advertising mediums in the foreign languages for National advertisers.

Ideal Newspaper for National Advertisers
Phone 3929 Beckman
61 Park Row, NEW YORK

IOWANS IN MEETING.

A joint meeting of the Western Iowa and Upper Des Moines Editorial associations was held last week in Council Bluffs, with L. C. Hatch of Woodbine presiding. The sessions were held in the rooms of the Commercial Club. After an address of welcome from President J. B. Lyon, the business began with a talk by V. H. Lovejoy of the Jefferson Bee, on advertising the Liberty Loan. He felt that every editor would, with pleasure be so patriotic as to help his country in this way willingly.

The veteran, A. H. Sniff, of Missouri Valley, followed in a similar strain as to helping the Red Cross and Y. M. C. A. He glorified the place of the editor in the community, and cited what had been done in the uplifting of the state and nation through the power of the press.

J. R. Graham of the Glenwood Tribune believed that the Government had been too liberal in permitting papers in foreign languages to go uncensored and advocated that in future a strict oversight be maintained.

Mr. Finern of the Denison Herald, (German), made reply, insisting that the German papers of Iowa were loyal to the core.

At the banquet, given at the Hotel Denison, Judge J. P. Conner presided and witty speeches were made by George McHenry of the First National Bank and Mr. Graham.

George Neave told of the booster spirit of Denison and Mr. Henry of Coon Rapids called to mind the trials of the newspaper men in the early days.

A WAR RECORD?

Every unmarried man on the staff of the Topeka (Kan.) Daily Capital has entered some branch of military service.

Up to the present time D. O. McGary, A. C. Runyan, Angelus Burch, Norman Clark, Glen Taylor and Marvin McCroskie have been appointed to fill war vacancies.

AN ILLINOIS MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Illinois Daily Newspaper Association will be held in Chicago, October 16.

TELEGRAM CODZIENNY

A National American Daily and Sunday printed in the Polish language reaching over 150,000 readers.

A Splendid Advertising Medium

Phone Stuyvesant 2004

90 East 10th St., NEW YORK

The Only ITALIAN Daily Newspaper in New England.

Published Daily and Sunday.

La Notizia—The News

32-34 Battery St. BOSTON

consolidated with La Tribuna del Popolo and Il Messaggero di Worcester.

100,000 Italians in Boston.

300,000 Italians in Massachusetts.

1,000,000 Italians in New England.

THE JEWISH MORNING JOURNAL
NEW YORK CITY

carries more advertising than any other Jewish newspaper. Circulation in New York City largest of all foreign language newspapers.

Member A. B. C.

"ROMANUL"

The largest and oldest ROUMANIAN daily newspaper in the United States and Canada.

The only real guide of 250,000 thrifty readers and positive success to its advertisers.

Full leased wire reports of United Press Association.
634-638 Huron Rd., CLEVELAND, O.
DR. D. MOLDOVAN, Pres. & Gen. Mgr.

PAGE POLITICAL ADS IN NEW YORK CAMPAIGN.

New York at present is being introduced to political advertising that is entirely new to it in local campaigns. The Fusion committee has started off Mayor Mitchel's campaign for re-election with full page advertisements, even in the papers opposing him, appealing to voters to "Keep Mayor Mitchel and Fusion on the Job."

The page advertisements carry the following appeal for contributions:

"The expense of this campaign is being met by voluntary contributions. Advertising is the most economical way of getting the facts before the voters. For example, $1 will pay for an advertisement like this in approximately three hundred copies of a newspaper; $10 will pay for three thousand, $100 for thirty thousand, and so on. If you want to keep Mitchel and Fusion on the job send a contribution."

